Down On the Farm

By O. G. H.

E. R. Eudaly, extension dairy specialist, College Station, delivered an interesting address to the county milk producers Monday, March 27, at the court house.

The speaker emphasized the need of Sudan for summer grazing to supplement our native pastures, and of trench silos for winter feeding. "Plant an acre of Sudan and an acre of red top or other crop for ensilage every year," says Eudaly. "An acre should grow enough for five tons of ensilage, which will furnish one cow succulent food for the winter." The importance of warm water in winter and cool water in summer was stressed as well as a balanced ration to contain propylamines.

Among the leading pecan specialists who have accepted invitations to the pecan school at Center City April 21 are J. F. Beborough, extension horticulturist, College Station; J. W. Cline, assistant nut specialist, state department agriculture, Austin; Bill Millican, one-galium farmer, Bend, Texas; and D. F. Moore, pecan leader and grower, and Every made of pecan leadership will be represented at this year meeting. Practical pecan will be seen side by side with swirl chair artists. This versatility of leadership insures a most profitable day. Remember the place and date: Center City, April 21, all day.

Rangers Assist Bandit Search

State rangers have taken charge of the search for the bank robbers who last Friday robbed the Farmers and Merchants Bank of Priddy of $800 after they had burned their way into the vault and safe with a torch. Four men were concerned in the robbery. They drove into Priddy about 1 a. m. Friday and stopped at an all-night service station where Otto Schoen is employed.

He was blindfolded with tape and commanded to keep his mouth shut and not attempt to escape. At the bank, Schoen was tied to a chair. The robbers set up their torch and cut an 18-inch hole through the vault door. This operation exhausted their supply of oxygen. While one of the men went to the service station for another tank, a second cut all the telephone wires. A six-inch hole was then cut into the safe after the time lock had been destroyed.

After looting the safe, the torch and drums were loaded into an auto and the robbers returned to the service station where Schoen was bound to his cot. A gag was placed in his mouth. Near the cot the robbers placed one of their guns, telling Schoen it was a present for him. They also gave him three $1 bills, saying it was for the tank of oxygen which they had stolen. Admonishing Schoen to keep quiet for an hour the quartet drove off in their machine.

Schoen succeeded in working the gag out of his mouth and called for help. His cries were heard by Will Limmer, who lives about 50 feet from the service station. He released Schoen, and when he found the telephone was "dead," rushed to the home of Jeske and told him of the robbery. Jeske's son then drove nine miles to Newport to notify the sheriff of Comanche county who immediately organized a posse. Sheriff Bledsoe was notified of the robbery and he and his deputies have been following every clue so far developed in an effort to capture the robbers.

The bank opened for business at its usual hour Friday morning. President Jeske announcing that it was insured against theft. Schoen was able to give the officers only a meager description of the men.

TO SHOW WAR PICTURES AT LEGION MEETING

Five reels of thrilling motion pictures will be shown at the American Legion meeting Tuesday night, April 11, at the Legion hall in Goldthwaite.

Unlike most war pictures, this is not a studio picture but a series of actual motion pictures made by the United States government showing the principal events of the war on land and sea from the declaration of war by President Wilson to the signing of the Armistice.

Sometimes it is romantic, sometimes tragic, but it is always dramatic, thrilling and real. The actual leaders, fighters and scenes of the greatest chapter in the world's history are shown just as they actually were.

All legionaires and their families and all ex-service men who wish to join the legion are invited to see it.

Legal Beer On Sale In Many States Today

Fearful that the advent of legal beer for the first time in 14 years would cause unseemly celebrations, ninety per cent of the brewers in New York have agreed to withhold their beer from sale at retail until 6 a. m. today.

Meanwhile the drive to repeal the eighteenth amendment has started with two sweeping victories for the wets. Wisconsin voted wet by a vote of 5 to 1, while Milwaukee, long famous as the home of beer, voted 12 to 1 for repeal. In Michigan, first state to vote on repeal, the wets also won by a large majority. None of the states known to favor the dry side have yet voted.

Methodist Notes

Well, the Methodists had another Sabbath, if they really desired to have it. At least there was a good opportunity for all to have a great time at Sunday school, listen to a good sermon at both the morning and evening hour. If they did not do this it is no special compliment, either to their good common sense or to their piety. Good congregations greeted the pastor at both preaching hours, and the Sunday school was a little above last Sunday.

The Baptist folk were in evidence at both services, and their presence was highly appreciated by all.

This Scribe and Pharissee went out in the afternoon to the Lake Merritt schoolhouse and preached to a fine and appreciative audience and without a dissenting vote he was called to the pulpit of that mixed flock of Methodists and Baptists. The possible explanation of this unanimous call was in the fact that the candidate who served as chairman on the occasion was wise enough not to call for the vote in opposition. At any rate the vote was unanimous as construed by the chair.

One of the astonishing things that comes to us when we attain the place of a contributing asset to a paper like the Eagle is the many good things, unlooked for, that comes our way. As an example of this I may say that through this benign influence, this contributor and his family were invited to a turkey dinner last Sunday in the home of Orville Woody. My wife insists that the invitation was extended through the fact that Woody is rather partial toward his wife's kinfolk. Well, that conception, simply brought on a discussion that has not yet been settled, and bringing the disputants as I do, there is slight probability of an agreeable settlement of the question in the near future.

There is one thing, however, that is settled: The good people of Lake Merritt did a very meritorious thing in inviting this Scribe and Pharissee to an all-day (Continued on page 8)

Airship Akron Is Lost at Sea

Only three men have survived to tell the tale of the destruction of the Dirigible Akron, pride of the Navy and one of the largest in the world, in a storm at sea early Tuesday morning.

Of the crew of 77, only four were picked up, and one, a survivor of the crash of the Dirigible Shenandoah in 1925, died soon after he had been rescued from the water.

A board of inquiry at Lakehurst, N. J. is seeking to determine the cause of the disaster. Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the bureau of naval aeronautics, was among those lost in the crash.

I wonder if you other writers get things said to you that I do. Sometimes I don't know what to say or do, for it hurts. I know what I put in the paper is so, so it must be that the truth is what hurts. If you don't put their names in the paper they jump on you and if you do, they have something to say. So from now on my letters may be not so long, for I may leave out lots which someone would be glad to see in print.

Dr. Charles G. Shaw, New York university philosophy professor, who says all whistlers are morons, has taken a verbal punch at the jigsaw puzzle "fiend."

The craze for puzzles, Dr. Shaw says, is not "an evil," but it is a symptom of a nervous disorder and on the whole, "very futile." He said: "The jigsaw is a self-imposed intelligence test by which the puzzler wishes to assure himself that he is not in the moron class, for such tests, on a smaller scale, are used in determining degrees of imbecility."

GIRL'S GOLD PIECE AND CHAIN ARE GIVEN TO SAVE NATION

A five dollar gold piece and a gold chain, treasured possessions of an unemployed girl, arrived at the White House last week, with an accompanying letter from the unidentified writer to President Roosevelt offering the contribution to the nation:

The letter was postmarked Brooklyn, N. Y. There was no immediate way of learning the identity of the girl and her offerings were turned over to the treasury. Her letter read: "My Dear Mr. President: "In these days of complicated hardship I have been wondering, as anyone else who is conscious of the situation must be, how I could share to help the country to get out of its difficulties. "Often I have laughed at myself finding it most absurd to fancy that I, in my abysmal insignificance, could help. Then I realized that, although unaware of it, I had been harming the country right along. Yes, Mr. President, I found out that I was a hoarder.

"The five dollar gold piece which I was keeping for the last two years for the sake of its sentimental value represented part of the gold that is needed to keep the currency sound and restore if not prosperly, at least normalcy. And here it is, Mr. President. I am offering it to you together with a little gold chain, the only jewel I possess. It isn't

"This little offering of mine is just like a drop in a bucket, but every big sum is made of little ones just as the immensity of space is formed by atoms. Maybe other women will follow my example and those who can, more generously. It has been done before. History teaches us that women saved their country from the invading enemy by sacrificing their jewels to pay the price of its freedom.

"Please do accept my small share to your great task and may God inspire and guide you to a speedy recovery of a sick world. A healthy America means a healthy world. There is no getting away from it.

"I shall not tell you my name because I would not like to give the impression that I am doing this as a publicity stunt. Besides I detest publicity. ROOSEVELTS ARE LIGHT EATERS

All the Roosevelts eat lightly. "I think we are all better off, as we grow older, if we do not over-eat," said Mrs. Roosevelt. "I would rather skip a meal than eat too much."

The president has a light breakfast of orange juice, coffee without cream, toast and a small amount of dry cereal. His lunch consists of one course only, with coffee.

"It might be an oyster stew, or tomato juice and an egg done in some way," continued the president's wife. "One day last week he had corned beef and sole slaw, which he likes very much.

"For dinner, when we are alone, we have soup, meat and vegetables, salad and coffee. We seldom have a dessert. Sometimes we have fish instead of meat. If we have guests, we often have both fish and meat, and, of course, a dessert.

GOLDTHWAITE HIGH SCHOOL WINNER IN PLAY TOURNAMENT

Goldthwaite High School's play, "Dead Expense," won first place in the annual one-act play tournament of the Interscholastic League, District No. 13, held at Daniel Baker auditorium. Comanche's play, "Armistice Echoes," was second place winner and Lometa's play, "No Sabe" was third. Only three schools entered the tournament this year.

Miss Love Gatlin was director of the Goldthwaite play. Mrs. Romeo Walker directed the Comanche play and J.W. Davis was director of the Lometa play. Miss Cleo McChristy, head of the English department at Howard Payne, is district director.

Goldthwaite as winner in the district will go to the regional tournament at Abilene Friday and Saturday, April 14 and 15. Winner in the regional tournament will later go to Austin to compete in the state meet.

A good crowd was present to see the plays, including a large number of local people and 30 or 40 out of town people. More interest was shown in the plays locally than usual and a larger number of schools is expected to enter the tournament next year, Miss McChristy said.

Those who saw the plays said all three were splendid. Max Harrison and Mildred Dalton had the leading parts in the Goldthwaite play. Harrison is a nephew of Mrs. G. N. Harrison of Brownwood and Miss Dalton is a sister of Pauline Dalton, student at Howard Payne.

Judges were: Miss Katherine C. Watson, Mrs. Brown Tomme and Miss Mary Alyce Watson. — Brownwood Bulletin.

MAP ON STONE BELIEVED KEY TO TREASURE

George and Ernest White, while digging in one room of old Fort San Saba near Menard last week, unearthed a flat stone about six inches thick with a map and other signs carved on it. It is supposed to be a diagram that may aid in finding a legendary treasure reputed to be hidden in Menard county.

For many years, prospecting has been done at intervals by parties in efforts to locate gold bullion purported to have been buried by Spaniards near the old fort, just before the people of the fort were annihilated by the Indians. As the story goes, the fort was a stopping place for those transporting bullion from the mines in the west. It is supposed by many that much gold was buried there. Numerous maps accredited to the Spaniards have been produced, studied and followed, but so far as known no treasure has been found. It is said that some Indians know where the gold was located and mastered occupants of the fort in the early days. Others say the Bowie mine is located in these parts. Thousands of dollars are said to have been spent searching for these lost treasures.

BABE PASSES MILLION IN BALL SALARY

Signing his contract for $52,000 to play for the Yankees in 1935, Babe Ruth passed the $1,000,000 mark with something to spare in his earnings directly and indirectly through baseball.

The Yankees have paid the Babe something over $800,000 in salaries since 1920, and his income from royalties, syndicate baseball stories, motion picture rights and other sources has grossed more than the $200,000 necessary to boost him over the charmed seven figures notch.

Ruth is the second baseball player to enter the millionaire class.

The first to accumulate $1,000,000 was Tyus Raymond Cobb, former Detroit star, and the only real rival Ruth has, or ever had, for rating as the greatest baseball player. Cobb of course, never earned the salaries that the Yankees have paid Ruth, and certainly never touched the Babe's high mark of $80,000 a year.

Cobb made most of his fortune in the stock market. Valuable inside information was passed along to Cobb who bought according to advice and profited richly.

The Bluebird Original

Deep in the depths of the forest. In the first, faint days of the spring.

When only green buds are peeping.

I glimpse a pair of blue wings. Then I hear a few notes of music.

Low and sweet, yet wonderfully clear.

And my heart soars high in its gladness.

For I know that the bluebird is here.

The bluebird is back from the southland.

Flew back on those fragile blue wings.

And its presence here assures us of the speedy advent of spring.

Spring follows in the wake of the bluebird.

With its fragrance and loveliness.

But to me the bluebird is also, A symbol of happiness.

For to me blue does not suggest sadness.

Or loneliness, grief and despair.

But, rather, it's a beautiful sign post.

Of heaven's own peace so rare.

So the blue of the wide, wide ocean.

And the blue of the infinite sky

And the blue of the distant mountains

Where eagles circle and fly—

And the blue of the evening shadows.

When the lamps of the day take wing.

All these—and more—are reflected

In the flash of a bluebird's wing.

A Prominent Citizen of Big Valley

by Ruth Warlick

It is not always that people of a community give full credit to their helpful citizens. A person who is of great service to our community is Mr. Harry Oglesby.

He keeps a small filling station and grocery store and runs a cream truck from our community into Goldthwaite. Not only does he haul cream for the people, but he also takes eggs and vegetables to sell. He is of a great help to the people. His very generous nature sometimes robs him of personal pleasure. He drives through clear, rainy, cold or stormy weather. He takes hard luck as it comes and goes on benefitting his customers.

He is short, rather slim and not very old. His eyes are a very merry blue. He is always cheerful and even more so, after he has seen the picture of the Modern Business Man.

Mr. Oglesby has but one serious fault. When some busy housewife runs out to his grocery truck for some article previously ordered, Mr. Oglesby furiously hunts over the truck, thinking he had laid it on, or either remembers that he left it sitting just inside the station door. If the former, Mr. Oglesby, talks while he hunts the missing article; if the latter, he makes numerous promises to bring the article the following day.

But even if his memory is as short as an abbreviation, our school appreciates and thanks him, for when he forgets paper or any school supplies, he politely invites us down to the station after them.

Visitors

Thelma Reagan visited our school last Wednesday. Raymond Ballard of Catclaw was a visitor in school here Friday.

Miss Featherston brought her small brother, little Glen Featherston, to visit our school.

The program committee for next time is Ruth Hale and Virginia Dennard.

The Big Valley school is proud of its pupils who did so well in the county meet last Saturday and hopes that they will do even better next Friday and Saturday. Juanita Ledbetter spent Friday night and Saturday with Noma Lee Webb. Faye Letbetter spent the week end with Dora Deane Hale.

Nonsense

Mr. Poer went into the market and called for a young chicken. "Do you want a pullet?" asked the clerk.

"No, I'll carry it," replied Mr. Poer.

But Mr. Roberts never pulls a bonehead like that. As he was passing by a fish market he saw a display of fish, frog legs, etc., in the display window. Deciding to purchase some frog legs, he walked into the market.

"I see you have frog legs," he said to the lady clerk.

"Well, it's none of your business if I have," she answered.

Some one asked Eva Koen how many eggs a day her hens were laying. "Somewhere between 19 and 20 eggs a day," she answered.

"When was the war of 1812," asked the teacher.

"I don't know," answered the pupil.

Mr. Poer: "When do you go to bed at night, Mr. Roberts?"

Mr. Roberts: "Between eight and nine."

Mr. Poer: "You must be awfully crowded."

Mr. and Mrs. Cook of May, Miss Margaret McGhee of Sinton were called here Monday on account of the illness and death of their mother and grandmother, Mrs. Annie M. Wright.

Miss Elizabeth Wright and Miss Margaret McGhee of Sinton have been called to the bedside of their mother and grandmother, Mrs. J. H. Wright, at her home in Chesser Valley community.

George Burkett returned home Monday from Temple, where his wife is rapidly improving and expects to be well and at home at an early date. It will be remembered she underwent a major operation recently.

The rain of last week has made the vegetation very active and the most of the farmers are rejoicing over a good stand of corn and plenty of moisture to bring up their grain sorghum. However, in some localities the rain was so heavy the farms were badly washed and some corn covered too deep to come out.

Carl Cox is back home from a winter in South Texas. Carl now can see many advantages and many of the beauties of Mills county. Many other people are awakening to the fact, and after a short absence, realize this is a good county and it is settled with good home-loving American citizens, peaceful and industrious.

PIONEER CITIZEN CALLED HOME

Mrs. Annie M. Wright passed away at her home late Tuesday afternoon in Blanket Springs community, where she and her late husband settled almost a quarter of a century ago. Mrs. Wright had been as fragile as the flowers she loved all the winter and day by day her health and strength seemed to slip away despite the devoted care of the loving hearts and hands of her beloved children. She was devoted to her home and books and was one of the best read ladies in this section, discussing with much interest, all the current events of the day.

She possessed a keen sense of humor and a most enchanting smile and there was always a warm welcome for her many friends, whom she had known for years. Mrs. Wright was a cultured Christian mother and grandmother and was truly the light of the home.

Interment was in Brownwood Tuesday afternoon by the side of her late husband.

Surviving are her children—Mrs. Margaret McGhee of Brownwood, Misses Elizabeth and Jew Wright and John Wright of Mullin, besides a number of grandchildren.

WEDDING

A wedding which created much interest among friends and relatives here was performed in San Diego, Calif., on Thursday afternoon, March 23, 1933, when Miss Hattie Miller and Mr. Chas. A. Snay were united in marriage.

Mrs. Snay is well known here, having lived her entire life until a few months previously in this county. She is a granddaughter of Mrs. Florence Conner of the Center Point community. She has many friends and school-mates here, who will remember her as she is a former student of Mullin high school. She is now a member of the senior class of the Earlhart Hoover high school at that place.

The groom is a promising young man, employed as radio manager on the U. S. A. Battleship Colorado, stationed at points on the west coast. Although he is unknown here, the fact that this young lady has chosen him as her life partner bespeaks for him as being a capable young man.

The bride wore a lovely creation of blue rough crepe with accessories to match and carried a bridal bouquet. The groom wore a dark suit. The beautiful little flower girl, Miss Virginia Lee Miller, cousin of the bride, was lovely in a pink dress. They were accompanied by two friends.

They will be at home in Long Beach, Calif., after June 1, where the groom will be permanently located.

All join in wishing the young couple a long and happy married life. ONE WHO LOVES HER.

A cat belonging to Wiley Henry of this city, lost her only kitten several weeks ago and lost no time in adopting into her household six little squirrels with wide open, wondering eyes that were pets. The cat is very devoted to her baby squirrels and mothers them frequently, and affectionately shampoos their fur with a caressing tongue or just plain love licks. Seeing is believing. It is an interesting sight to see this cat and her family of squirrels.

SCHOOLS ELECT TEACHERS

Duren school trustees this week re-elected their faculty for another year, which is composed of W. H. Wasserman, Miss Shaw, Misses Katherine and May Duren.

The Prairie school elected Frazier Henry, Miss Elizabeth Aldridge, Ray Duren and Mr. and Mrs. Sparkman.

It's good news to the many friends of Bradley Guthrie to hear he has taught successfully at Star this year and has been re-elected to teach the 1933-34 school term. He is a fine young man and Star citizenship appreciates his talent and ability as a capable instructor.

WHO KILLED EARL WRIGHT?

Churches Sponsor Law Enforcement Program

A group of 25 prominent citizens from the Goldthwaite churches, assisted by the independent of the anti-saloon league of Texas, will present the widely heralded murder trial entitled, "Who Killed Earl Wright?" at the Methodist church in Goldthwaite Monday, April 10, at 8 p. m.

A model court room will be set up in the church. The "trial" is designed to bring out the prohibition law enforcement situation as it progresses with the prosecution of Julian Evans, who plays the part of the defendant, who is alleged to have killed his best friend during a drunken spree over a sixth of a pint of alcohol.

In addition to Julian Evans representing the defendant, Elder C. W. Hoover will act as the judge, whose court is conducted in a dignified manner. Rev. J. S. Bowles, the wiley bootlegger, throws himself on the mercy of the court because of his large family of children. What will the penalty be?

Mr. Charlie A. Bayley is the sheriff, with R. V. Littlepage, his alert deputy. Miss Euna V. Brim assumes the responsibility of the court reporter. Mrs. J. S. Bowles will take the interesting part of the star witness; Prof. E. D. Stringer will be the shrewd coroner; Mrs. E. B. Anderson takes the part of the pathetic figure of the defendant's mother, while Mrs. S. O. Hammond, takes the part of the widow of the deceased, and is in court with her two children, who are made orphans because of this tragedy.

The following have been summoned to serve on the jury: J. J. Cockrell, foreman; J. A. Allen, Walter A. Bayley, Robert Mayfield, Joe Curtis, H. C. Ezzell, John Keese, A. J. Harrison, W. H. Linkenhog, John Berry, Joe A. Palmer, Sam Sullivan.

Dr. Atticus Webb, superintendent of the anti saloon league of Texas, will defend Julian Evans and Judge James Marberry will be the prosecuting attorney.

GOVERNOR VETOES BILL TO VALIDATE SCHOOL TAX LEVIES

In view of the present discussion of the tax situation, we desire to call attention to the governor's stand on excessive valuations in independent school districts as reported in Sunday's Dallas News:

Governor Miriam A. Ferguson Friday vetoed her first bill since becoming governor the second time when she returned to the house, disapproved, a measure by Dennis Ratliff to validate tax levies made by independent school districts. Ratliff said he had not decided whether to attempt to pass the bill over the veto, which would require a two-thirds vote in each house. The governor said:

"My reason for disapproving and vetoing this act is because I do not want to give any more power to independent school districts than heretofore has been given them by law. My observation has been that independent school districts almost invariably have levied excessive valuations and the independent school district tax is now one of the most burdensome and oppressive obligations of the taxpayer. Their valuations for taxation purposes are almost invariably much higher than the valuations put on the property by the county commissioner's court and property in these independent school districts is almost invariably discriminated against by excessive valuation."

"I prefer that the taxpayer be allowed to plead whatever rights he may have now against these taxes."

REPORTS BEING KIDNAPED

J. T. Lee of Lometa, well known here, who disappeared from Brownwood some days ago, made his appearance at Clovis, N. M., Monday and reported having been kidnaped. A full statement of his report was made at Clovis, which says:

Clovis, N. M., April 3—J. T. Lee, 53, Lampasas county, Texas, farmer, walked into Clovis at 2 o'clock this morning and told police he had just been released by three men who had kidnaped him near Brownwood, Texas, two weeks ago.

Lee said he had been severely beaten several times; had been robbed of $130; and had been tortured with burning matches applied to his ears in an effort to force him to extort money from his sister, who lives near Houston, Texas.

Lee's ears were badly blistered, one eye was blackened and his wrists bore marks of handcuffs, with which he said he was held captive, during a long drive over what he believed to be various sections of the southwest.

He told police his abductors used a delivery car with an enclosed body, and that he was placed in the car handcuffed and blindfolded. He was placed in the car with another man on the second day the other victim was removed. He said he believed the man had been killed near some mountains south of Clovis. Officers believe he meant mountains near Roswell.

Sheriff A. R. Harvey, of Lampasas county, in a telephone conversation here today sent money for Lee's return to Lampasas. He placed some belief in

STAR SCHOOL NEWS

One very interesting feature of the school is the faculty. No one can charge them with the fault of too much speaking. All have some especially interesting type of work to keep them occupied. Later in the school year we hope to learn more news of them and from them.

The Star Choral Club won the singing contest at Goldthwaite last Friday. A determination at last won the goal.

Debate is in full swing. The director has announced that the work in that part of the speaking is progressing well. The declaimers are fighting for victory too. There are a number to be praised for their work. All could not be winners in the tryout, but those who were winners are expected to win again at the final eliminations.

The seniors of this year have arranged the major part of their program. The senior play is very successful at present, but there is still time, although precious. This class is capable of doing great things, even though they are not so bold in proving it.

Grades went down the past month. More diligent work is required for the remainder of the year.

WHERE SCHOOLS FAIL

The many public schools still adhere to the old methods of grading which have been followed as long as teaching itself.

This method is more convenient than accurate. It is easy enough for the teacher to mark "A" or "100" opposite a subject on a pupil's report card.

In such a subject as geography, one pupil might have an excellent knowledge of the facts taught, and yet be unable to spell Kamchatka or Petropavlovsk the way his teacher does.

How unsatisfactory the process works out is proved by the great number of men and women who made splendid grades in school but have failed in practical life.

Where the schools fail is in implanting the idea in the plastic minds of children that grades are the most important things in school.

Another grave objection to the grading system is the spirit of rivalry and competition which it engenders.

There is this hope, however: In almost every school there are a few teachers in whom humanity and common sense are uppermost.

HITLER HITS BACK

Fired by the reports of Jewish boycotts of German products throughout the world, Adolf Hitler, new dictator of Germany, gave a one-day demonstration Saturday of what his regime could do to the Semites in Germany if it becomes necessary.

Because Hitler has eternally insisted upon the superiority of the Christian religion, and because he has condemned, without mincing words, the indecent profiteering which so many Jews in Germany have indulged in since the war.

The moment Hitler was entrusted with supreme power, the chorus of hate commenced. Stories of pogroms and persecutions filled the press of the world.

After his denials that his government was persecuting the Jews had no effect, Hitler decided to demonstrate by a sensational object lesson what he might do.

Hitler was amply justified, and we sincerely hope that this striking evidence of his power will be sufficient to stop the interference in German domestic affairs from the people of this nation at least.

Religious differences should not extend beyond national boundaries. The efforts that have been made by so many Jewish leaders in America to involve our country in another German dispute are truly to be deplored.

Even such a discussion as this should not be necessary, but unfortunately the American press has so loudly and so unfairly taken the extreme Jewish side of the controversy.

REAL FARM RELIEF

In discussing the farm relief bill sponsored by President Roosevelt, Peter Molyneux, editor of The Texas Weekly, writes as follows:

"The real farm relief the cotton farmer needs is relief from the stifling effects of world trade barriers. He needs freer markets and increased purchasing power among his foreign customers.

This argument is all right as far as it goes, but the trouble is that it does not go far enough.

But until such barriers have been removed, there is justice in taxing the American manufacturer a part, at least, of the margin that high American tariffs now provide him.

The proof of this is incontestable. The Fairchild index shows that the pre-war (1911-13) average price of N. Y. middling spot cotton was 12.55 cents per pound.

The farm relief bill simply attempts to establish some measure of parity between the prices of raw cotton and cotton goods.

Of course it will be claimed that the manufacturers are not actually making the profits the comparative quotations indicate.

Mr. Molyneux, to his credit be it said, does not shed any crocodile tears over the fate of the American consumer as so many other opponents of the farm relief bill have done.

If this new relief plan doesn't work, we have President Roosevelt's word that he will junk it.

KEEPING UP WITH TEXAS

CONDITIONS IN TEXAS

The Santa Fe railroad company's bulletin of Texas conditions says:

Spring planting in South Central and Eastern Texas, already delayed from one to three weeks by wet fields, has been further hampered by intermittent rains.

Cotton planting is well under way in South Texas, and will start in most other sections early in April on lands now being prepared.

Potatoes have made a good start in the Eagle Lake-Glen Flora territory.

Onion acreage in North Texas will be less than half that of last season.

Unfavorable weather and lack of finances for seeding and cultivating have cut the state's rice acreage 25 per cent as compared with last season.

The North Plains still are dry. The South Plains are getting dry but the sub-soil moisture condition so far is satisfactory.

Sheep and goat shearing is well under way. The spring wool clip is expected to be the largest on record.

Cattle have about recovered the shrinkage caused by cold weather and are in good condition.

COLEMAN'S GOOD RECORD

Advices received here recently show that the farmers of Coleman county are honest.

Of the almost $40,000 in loans obtained by Coleman county farmers from the federal government in 1932 there have been 99 per cent of the obligations either paid in full or collateralized.

Such a record can prove a lot of things of which residents of this county should be proud.

It shows that our farmers are honest, that they are grateful for the helping hand given them by the federal government and that they are willing to meet their obligations if they have any sort of a chance to do so.

Further, it shows that members of the committee that passed on the loans evidently were good business men.

All those farmers making the loans are to be congratulated.

WITH HER NEW BROOM

Secretary Frances Perkins takes her new broom to the Department of Labor and sweeps with a vigor worthy of her New England forbears.

First into the dustbin goes "Doak's secret service," a force of super immigration inspectors mobilized in 1929 at a cost of $200,000 a year for the purpose of freeing America from alien racketeers.

Miss Perkins evidently does not think such activities are worth $200,000 a year, specially as many of the personnel were off station when she took charge.

Cattle have about recovered the shrinkage caused by cold weather and are in good condition.

The regular force of immigration inspectors, a permanent civil service group, will do the work from now on.

This is cheering news to many who have long protested the heartless methods of immigration control and deportation proceedings under the Doak and Davis regimes.

The federal employment service, which two years ago used to issue well-timed handouts to back up the Hoover happiness boys, will also receive Miss Perkins' attention.

Miss Perkins begins well. Her department is potentially one of the most useful in the entire federal government.

quietly but heartily approved all good citizens. It deserves, we believe, their open and unmistakable applause, to the extent that its good effect may be prolonged far beyond the present emergency.

The Whitney Messenger the local newspaper of that city for 30 years and three months, last week printed its last paper, according to an announcement made by the editor and owner, Mr. J. L. Yarbro. It is most unusual for a town the size of Whitney to quit supporting their local newspaper to the extent that it does not get enough business to continue the publication and is compelled to close down and move to a new field.

The following statement was published by Mr. Yarbro in the last issue of the Whitney Messenger, which was last Friday, and is self-explanatory.

"Due to the adverse conditions under which we have been laboring for the past two years, we find it necessary to relocate the Messenger printing plant in a new field where there are better opportunities for keeping the plant in operation." —Hamilton Record-Herald.

GIFTS TO THE STATES

President Roosevelt is reported to favor a change in the system of advancing relief loans to the states, when it is evident that the borrowing states have exhausted their resources and will not be in a position to repay advances. The president is quite right in saying that nothing is to be gained by terminating an advance made under such conditions anything except a gift or dole. When the direct relief loan project was first debated, the need of assistance was not as great as it now is and the chief purpose of the advances was to assist states temporarily embarrassed by their inability to finance emergency expenditures through the bond market. Furthermore, the loan features were regarded as a protection against efforts to make the federal government an agency of direct relief.

It is worse than useless, however, to attempt to support a fiction of federal aloofness at this time. Whether by their own fault or from causes beyond their control, many states have been forced to rely heavily upon the assistance of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The states which need federal aid most are the ones with weak credit likely to find the rehabilitation of their financial position made doubly hard if they are compelled to add federal loans to their already excessive burden of debt. With strict supervision by a responsible federal official, direct gifts to financially exhausted states on the basis of need is preferable to a system of loans, often fictitious, which will not reach communities in real need of assistance, unless state officials are willing to make application for funds. — New York Journal of Commerce.

SUPERSTITIONS

OF STAGE PEOPLE

Stage people are of a highly superstitious stripe, and usually the better and more intelligent the actor, the greater his superstition. Everyone knows about whistling in dressing rooms: it never should be done. The artist nearest the door will surely get his two weeks' notice if anyone whistles. Once the whistle is out, there is no undoing the evil, either. Sometimes actors explain the whistling aversion to general dressing room ethics, but it never fails to unnerve. In the old days of drum curtains, it was distinctly an omen of poor business for the show for anyone to bang the curtain drum while waiting to go on. Theater producers and managers, especially the Irish, say the color yellow is bad for any show, and it's a sure linx for the leading woman to wear yellow on the opening night. That means a short run for the show, and there is no getting around it.

Origin of Custom of Placing Candles On Birthday Cakes Is All a Mystery

By Doris H. Tisdale
Royal Baking Institute

JUST how or when the custom originated of placing candles on birthday cakes is a mystery. A candle manufacturer says that the burning of candles is symbolic of the fact that another year has passed away. He believes that to have been the origin of the birthday cake.

No birthday is complete without cake and gleaming candles, whether one be five or eighty-five. Gorgeously decorated with colored frosting, and boasting proud candles for every year, the birthday cake is a glorious tribute.

Cakes for little tots must be simple, depending entirely upon their thin colored icing and say candies for their festive mood. As the children grow older the cakes may be richer and more thickly iced. And half the fun of the party depends on letting youngsters cut their own cakes. Marks are first made in the frosting, indicating where each slice should be cut.

The merry-go-round cake pictured above is good for very small children.

Not only does it boast bright candles, but it has the added allure of animals galloping around its edge. Its ingredients are wholesome and simple.

Merry-Go-Round Cake

Cream one half cup shortening. Add one cup sugar slowly and one beaten egg. Beat until light and fluffy. Sift two cups pastry flour with three teaspoons tartaric baking powder; add a little at a time alternately with 2/3 cup milk. Add one-half teaspoon vanilla extract. Put in small round greased tin or iron spider. Bake in moderate oven at 350 degrees F. about 45 minutes. Turn out of pan and cool. Ice top and sides with Butter Icing. While icing is still soft, stand animal crackers, which have been decorated with daintily colored icing and pink candles alternately around the edge of the cake.

Butter icing: cream one fourth cup butter, add gradually one and one half cups sifted confectioner's sugar. Add a few drops of cream from time to time until of good consistency to spread.

SAME LINE USED BY JOB HUNTERS

At Austin John Wood, secretary to Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, has been impressed with the "same line" of conversation put out by those who seek to gain entrance to the chief executive's inner office.

"They invariably tell me that they do not want to see the governor, but that the governor wants to see them," Wood said.

"The other day a man presented himself for admittance to the governor's private office. He told me he was a 'big shot' during the campaign in a certain tier of counties. 'I don't particularly want to see the governor, but the governor wants to see me,' this man explained. I went to the governor with the man's name and was told the governor never had heard of him."

Fill'er up with Conoco Bronze!

Nicknamed!

that's what happened

THE contest for a name and slogans for Conoco's new gasoline is over. The winning name and slogans have been selected and awards made to the contestants listed here.

More than half a million good friends tried sincerely to help us, and we are grateful to all of them for the names and slogans sent us, each of which had a careful reading and consideration.

Even though we have selected and paid for a splendid name, we find we cannot use it or any of the many hundreds of good names submitted.

Here is what happened: Personality always wins a "nickname." We never thought of that in our anxiety to get a good name for an outstanding gasoline. Bronze was used as a color to make this new gasoline distinctive and to protect our customers. It was liked by everybody—they, you, everybody called it Conoco Bronze. So, try as we might, we couldn't change now. It will always be known as Conoco Bronze. It had too much personality to avoid this popularity rating—"nicknamed!"

Therefore, conforming with contest rules, we are using a name of our own creation, the name used in all the contest advertisements—"Conoco Bronze"—even though it is not the name for which we paid $5,000.

Each user of Conoco Bronze gets a perpetual prize of instant starting, lightning pick-up, greater mileage and power —for it is a great gasoline.

Fatal Injuries By Hit and Run Driver

Gus Dearson, 36, Coleman, is in a serious condition in Central Texas hospital suffering from the loss of his left arm which was crushed between the side of his car and a large truck which sideswiped the car on the Comanche road about eleven miles from Dublin between Dublin and Comanche, early Tuesday night.

The truck did not stop. The arm was removed about midway between the elbow and shoulder at the hospital.

Dearson, his wife and his wife's two brother's A. E. and B. E. Snodgrass, both of Dublin, were riding in the Dearson car, a light coupe, going toward Dublin.

The truck was driving toward Comanche. Evidently Dearson had his elbow protruding from the car door window for when the truck hit the side of the car, his arm was severely mutilated.

The car went into the ditch but did not overturn and none of the other occupants was injured.

Dearson suffered no other injuries except to his arm. Officers at Comanche were telephoned to stop the truck which drove on after hitting the car, but did not see it pass thru Comanche.

Brownwood police talked to Comanche officers over the telephone and also were on the lookout for the truck, but said it passed through here before they were notified or did not come this way.

An ambulance from Dublin was called to the scene of the accident and started for Brownwood with the injured man.

About seven or eight miles from Brownwood engine trouble developed and an ambulance from White & London Funeral Home was called and brought Dearson to the hospital.

The accident occurred about 3:30 o'clock and Dearson did not reach the hospital until after 10 o'clock.

Doctors fear that complications will set up. Dearson is a World War veteran and suffered the loss of his right leg while in active duty.

He has an artificial leg which he uses. The arm which was amputated also had been injured during the war.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Mr. Dearson formerly lived at Priddy and has relatives living here now. He died Wednesday night as a result of his injuries, and will be buried at Becker Mountain cemetery, near Priddy, this morning at 10 o'clock.

A complaint has been sworn out against a Priddy man, charging him with being the operator of the truck. He had not been arrested at the time the Eagle was put to press.

METHODIST NOTES

(Continued from page 1) dinner and singing on the grounds for a Sunday at some future time. This, also, is to include the entire family.

Now to say that this is a meritorious and commendable thing, from my viewpoint, is to put it mildly.

In these days of Hooverization, a square at least once a month, is not only highly desirable upon the part of this writer and his family, but is highly appropriate in many ways, and is very essential to good health and longevity.

So I take this opportunity to assure the Lake Merritt folk that the invitation is accepted, and I warn them that extra precaution is to be exercised in all the provisions for that occasion because of the fact that these visitants are a rather cadaverous appearing bunch.

I want to register it as my opinion that the pastor of the Methodist church is one of the best circuit riders in Methodism. He can find more places to preach in addition to his rather onerous job in Goldthwaite than any other man I know.

He manages to find some place out in the country where he can go on Saturday night, then after a full morning in his own church Sunday morning, he goes out some place in the afternoon and is back for the evening service in his own church.

He says that he doesn't know how long he can stand this, I don't either, but I should like to suggest to his wife that she insist that increase his insurance.

P. S. I have just learned that the invitation to take dinner with Orbie Woody, Sunday was a protracted affair.
