Plans Being Perfected For the Mills County Fair and Race Meet

Tracks In Fine Condition and Many Horses Already Stabled On Grounds

The fair officers and others resting in the Mills county are laying plans for a fair of considerable scale this year. Details have not been perfected and only a general outline can be given now, but President F. Toland has called a meeting of the directors of the fair to be held in the house Monday afternoon at 6 o'clock, at which time a final line up will be made and the date and other particulars given.

It is safe to say, however, there will be a fair and it will likely be held some time the latter part of July. The race track is being put in condition and there are a number of good horses already in the stalls on grounds and a carnival commission is being investigated and arrangements made.

The Mills county fair grounds well located and have one of the best race tracks to be found. There is ample stable room for horses, good exhibit buildings and spaces are there and everything can be gotten in in the shortest time. The fair is ready for the Mills county and prepare to spend a few days here with your neighbors and friends. There is ample ground, plenty of accommodations for campers and no home will be assured of at time.

Preparing to Pave Fisher Street

Plans have been laid for curbing along the west side of Fisher street, preparatory to paving that street, and the paving is also to be paved. It is known exactly when the paving will start, but it is getting the curbing in place, in order that there be no unnecessary delay. The curbing is already a curbing and the court house lawn survey has been made for curbing on the four sides of square, opposite the court house lawn.

SUNSHINE BAND

The members of the Sunshine band, which is the Sunday school class for the young people at Bethel, spent a delightful evening last Sunday swimming in J. W. Flatt's small lake. A large group was present at the school in the morning, and this group gathered at C. G. Herston's home about two o'clock and drove to their swimming place in a wagon. After meeting several hours, Mrs. C. Weatherston and Mrs. Jennie Johnson drove over, bringing a supper, chiefly composed of sandwiches and bananas. Everyone enjoyed the supper and another good swim afterwards. This merry group then returned from their swimming and went to their homes.

Our country people still being in marrying. Mr. S. W. Scott and Miss V. V. Cody, both of the Olive community, in company with some friends, motor to the Hays home on the 8th and were happily united in the bonds of matrimony. They make their home in said community. They are a splendid couple. We join their friends in wishing them a long life of happiness and usefulness.

A FRIEND.

Surveyors Work On Highway 7

The state highway department engineers are now engaged in running lines for the Waco highway, known as No. 7, through the eastern part of the county, passing through Center City and Star. It is likely several lines will be run in order that a route may be selected that will not necessitate a great sacrifice of farm lands and the county can procure the right of way at a moderate price. In every case it is the purpose of the highway department to avoid curves in the roads and will run them on a straight line as near as possible.

Highway Work Not Yet Started

It has not been announced just when the highway department will let contracts for hard surfacing the highways through the county. The commissioners court procured the right of way from the Lampasas county line to the Brown county line, also from the San Saba county line to the Comanche county line. Fences have been set back to provide the 100 feet width required by the department. No information has been given out regarding the completion of the work by the department, but it is hoped and expected that the contracts for the work will soon be awarded.

Methodist Notes

The pastors of both the Methodist and Baptist churches of this city have been away the past week. Bro. Swanner in a meeting and Bro. Hammond in the pastors' school at Georgetown. As a matter of fact, this Scribe and Pharisee also went to Georgetown for a little visit, attended the graduating exercises of Southwestern University with a rather personal interest in the proceedings, because of the fact that a son was in the graduating class and also to visit the pastors' school. I only remained two days and without any convictions as to evil-doing came home. Really, I thought after looking the thing over that possibly Bro. Hammond and Brown might receive all the instructions needed for Mills county pastors and that I might serve a better purpose in the interest of righteousness by being at home.

As noted above, the Baptist pastor was away, Hammond and Brown were both away and to leave the whole matter at the disposal of Bro. Hoover might be disastrous to the well-being of both the Baptist and Methodist flocks. In this I was reminded of an old Methodist brother in Missouri. It was said of him that in his own church services he would invariably go to sleep. Upon one occasion one of his brethren upbraided him because he remained awake during a rather long sermon by one of the Disciples brethren. He replied, "Well, I know the Methodist preachers are all right, but you have got to watch these Campbellites."

Well, Bro. Hoover had a good meeting, even if I was watching him.

Bro. Hammond returned from Georgetown Saturday. He was (Continued on page 8)

Cutting Scrape At Prairie Party

There was a serious difficulty at a residence in the Prairie community Monday night, in which E. T. Mayes was stabbed and seriously wounded. Wiley Garner of the same community was at once charged with having done the cutting and was admitted to bond by Justice of the Peace Rice of Mullin, to await action of the grand jury. Several others have been charged with being implicated in the difficulty, which seems to have been a sort of free-for-all at a dance.

Mayes was carried to the hospital in Brownwood and his condition is said to be quite serious, although he was still alive at last report. He lost a great deal of blood before he reached the hospital and has been given a transfusion of blood, with the hope of saving his life. The man charged with the cutting is a near relative of Mayes.

BAPTIST REMINDER

I am certainly glad to be back from the Panhandle. I had a very good meeting. It was one of the best I have ever worked in. There were numbers of people saved.

I will preach at both morning and evening services Sunday. If you have no church home we certainly welcome you to be with us in our worship.

FRANKLIN E. SWANNER.

Drowned Child Restored to Life

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer, aged about two and one-half years, fell into a water trough at the family home north of Caradan Monday and when he was discovered by other members of the family he was apparently dead. A young man by the name of Bullard, who makes his home with the Palmer family, was at one time a member of the Boy Scouts and had been taught first aid methods in resuscitating persons rescued from the water. He applied the methods to the child and soon had him breathing again and he continued to improve until fully recovered from the effects of the accident.

Not only is the young man a hero, but he should be awarded a hero medal and reward from the Carnegie fund, as a permanent proof of his splendid work and the excellent training given him as a Boy Scout.

A Wonderful Rain Falls Throughout the County In Time For Corn Crop

Farms, Pastures, Orchards and Gardens Greatly Benefitted—Heat Wave Broken

Pro Speaker Here

Rev. Arthur Jones of Austin is to speak Sunday night at the Methodist church, this city, on the subject of the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution. Arthur Jones needs no introduction to a Goldthwaite audience. He is well known here, as he has spoken on numerous occasions at this place and was once pastor of the Church of Christ here. But few men in Texas are more capable of discussing the subject of prohibition, the question uppermost in the minds of Texas people at this time.

Let there be no lagging in this campaign upon which hangs the destiny of Texas in all the years to come. This question, to my mind, overshadows most others now. Let us have a great audience to hear Mr. Jones. The cooperation of all is desired.

J. S. BOWLES

An inch or better of rain fell in Goldthwaite and most of the other sections of the county last Sunday evening and, as a result, the prospects for a corn crop in the county were greatly improved. Of course, other crops were helped by the rain, but the corn crop was just getting ready to suffer and this rain assured some corn, if not a full crop. In some sections the rain was not as heavy as in and around Goldthwaite, while in other sections it was some heavier.

Cotton and other crops were benefitted and gardens, orchards and pastures were all helped. The heat wave was also broken, which was of almost as much benefit as the rain, for vegetation was beginning to burn and the heat of a few days prior to the rain was decidedly unpleasant and injurious.

Anyway, the rain came exactly in the right time and the outlook is much more encouraging than a few weeks ago.

Goldthwaite Wins 16 to 6 Score

In a free hitting contest, abounding with errors, the Goldthwaite baseball team took a San Saba team to a trimming last Sunday, June 11, at Fair Park.

Not to discredit the local team, but in fairness to San Saba, it needs to be explained that this San Saba team was not composed of the players that represent their city in the Hill Country League.

The Goldthwaite fans are hoping their team will schedule a game or two with some of the representatives of this league before the season is over.

Back to the ball game. It was worth seeing if you like a free hitting affair. Goldthwaite combed Taft of San Saba for 14 hits while San Saba connected safely on seven times off Weaver and Turner. It was a bad day for errors, too. Several of the boys on both sides experienced difficulty in the field. Adams, the local shortstop reversed his usual steady game with three miscues. The game turned out to be beneficial to the boys, in that it offered them plenty of batting practice—a little art they have been lacking in all seasons. For some reason the San Saba pitcher, Taft, in the box throughout the game and according to the statistics, he was a blutton for punishment. Every man in the Goldthwaite line-up, with the exception of Nickols, getting at least one hit, and five of them connecting twice. Paul Hudson Hamilton delighted the fans with a long wallop in the fourth inning with two on base that cleared the right center field wall.

The weather was ideal and a goodly crowd was out. Just who and when they will play here again is not known at present. Next Sunday, June 18, Goldthwaite is playing the strong Evant team of Hamilton county and a closer game is expected. A number of the local fans are making the trip to Evant Sunday afternoon.

NEW FORM CHECK SWINDLE

This is a new form of an old check swindle as worked successfully in Tacoma, Wash. A couple with a good bank account purchased approximately $2000 worth of furniture from a store on an installment basis. They were to pay $200 per month on the bill. On verifying their account at the bank, the store finds that they are well rated and carry a good account. When the first installment fell due they presented a $500 check, on which they wanted to receive change of $300. As this request was quite unusual, the store called the bank and was told that their check was good for the amount. This procedure was followed four different times without the store becoming aware of the trick. When the fifth installment became due it was not paid. The store endeavored to collect the account, but was told they did not have anything further coming, as they had been paid in full. The store sued and lost the case in court because the purchaser brought in cancelled checks totaling $2000 that had been made out to the store, and there was no receipt which the store could show that they had paid back $1200 of this amount. This is an actual occurrence of a very large department store in Tacoma, Wash. This same swindle was perpetrated on a large furniture store in Dallas some time ago.—Clarksville Times.

SPECIAL KITCHEN BUILT FOR CANNING

Canning kitchens planned and built exclusively for canning are growing in popularity in Wharton county with two reported completed recently by Miss Alleen Burton, home demonstration agent there. The south side of Mrs. Hopper's room is a solid row of windows at the east end of which is a cabinet where all products are prepared. Nearby, to the right, is a large iron kettle encased in brick for blanching and searing and connected with cistern water. To the right of this is a cabinet where cans are filled. A sink with running water is included in this part of the kitchen. At the west end a sturdy shelf holds the sealer, and two steps away is the stove with its two cookers. The electric washing machine connected with water and drainage facilities is close at hand so the cans may be quickly cooled before storing them on temporary shelves. The entire kitchen is done in neat ivory-tone paint.

Begin Taking Cardui Today If You Suffer Like This Lady Did

"WHEN I was a girl, I began taking Cardui," writes Mrs. Maggie Stanfield, of Crandall, Ga. "I was very irregular for twelve months. Nothing did me very much good until my mother began to give me this medicine. Then I got all right, stout and well. After I was married, I was in bad health. I began taking Cardui again. I was troubled with my back a lot. Was awfully restless. I could not sleep well. I just weighed 90 pounds when I began taking Cardui. I improved rapidly. Before long I weighed 126 pounds. I felt fine. I was able to do a good day's work." Cardui is sold by druggists here.

BLANKET PRINCIPAL HAS ARM SEVERED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Graham M. Smoot, principal of the Blanket school, had his left arm completely severed when the car in which he was riding collided with a car driven by James Beadle of Brownwood, four miles this side of Dublin on the Comanche road at 8:30 o'clock Thursday night. Mr. Smoot is a son of Rev. and Mrs. J. D. Smoot of Bangs.

Not only was Smoot's arm severed, but, as was later learned, was hurled into the car of Mr. Beadle, where it was found after he had been taken to Dublin. Exact information of the portion of the arm severed was not obtained, but it is understood to have been severed above the elbow.

Smoot was riding with Cecil Sadler of Gustine, Mervin Roberts of Brownwood and others to Dublin to give a program over a radio station. Mr. Beadle, vice-president of the Tasty Foods Product Company, and associated in the buying department of Walker-Smith Company here, was driving toward Comanche, returning home from a business trip. The accident occurred when both cars, meeting each other, started to pass a grain binder which was coming out of a field into the road.

None of the other occupants were injured, though both cars were considerably damaged. It was not realized by the others at first that Mr. Smoot's arm had been cut off. They bound his arm near the shoulder to stop the blood and he was carried to the hospital by Ernest Strayley of Comanche. When examination was made at the hospital it was found the arm had been severed. A search for the part of the arm was made and it was found in Beadle's car.—Brownwood Bulletin.

SIDELIGHTS

The most formidable looking new aspirant for football honors reported this season is a freshman at Arkansas Tech. He is Kirkman Stubbfield from Evergreen, La., 20 years old, six feet, five inches tall and weighs over 250 pounds.

Police Chief Holmes of Niles Center, Ill., has always tried to suppress automobile stealing in his balliwick, but is now more determined and zealous in his efforts than ever. Recently while he was having dinner with a friend some culprit stole the chief's brand new car.

What was perhaps a new record in rapid transportation is reported from Detroit. Nine days after an order for two automobiles was received in that city the cars were delivered in Lima, Peru, having been knocked down and crated, and shipped the entire distance by airplanes.

Rev. Lewis MacLachlan of St. George's Presbyterian church in London is skeptical of young men of other denominations who are attracted to his services. He says, "I have known them to profess conversion to the principles of Presbyterianism and have found later that the principle was incarnate in one of the pretty girls in my choir."

Another fairy story has gotten into the press dispatches, this time an 81-year-old veteran in the Leavenworth soldiers' home. He wants a divorce from a woman who insisted on marrying him while he was on a drunk in Wichita, Kan. He declares that he at first refused, but capitulated after she had supplied a few more drinks.

Farmers who poured gasoline into a hole where a 7-foot rattlesnake had been seen to disappear near Oakland Park, Fla., got surprising results. Not only did the big rattler come forth, but 49 young ones about two feet long came forth also. After a spirited battle with hoes, shovels, and clubs, all the reptiles were killed without casualties to the farmers.

Many a man gets out of patience with his wife's folks, and vice versa, but few would willingly go to jail to get rid of them. John Jurasek of Chicago is one of the few and when charged with non-support told the judge: "Please send me to jail so I can get away from my wife's relations; they're driving me crazy." The judge obliged with a sentence of 30 days, promising to extend it if desired.

DON'T EXPECT TOO MUCH

Legislators can not repeal the law of supply and demand, pleasant as that would be. In the long run, improvement in the financial condition of agriculture must come through developing the farm producing and selling structure in accordance with inalterable economic laws. And in this work, the farmer's greatest ally is not government, but his own co-operative organization. Made up of himself and his neighbors and co-workers, his co-operative has his own immediate interest at heart and is, as well, building for a sound and permanently prosperous future. It belongs to him—it is responsive to his will and his needs and not to political pressure.

The more active interest government takes in farming, the greater will be the need for producer organization. The stronger such organizations are, the more influential they will be and the better their chance of protecting the farmer from undue political action, and directing government measures into really worthwhile channels.

No, the farmer mustn't expect too much from government. I will do its best, but its best can be greatly aided by strong co-operatives.

BEHOLD THE FLAG

A resolution has been introduced in Congress to make Ignatius I. Murphy's "Behold the Flag" our official tribute to Old Glory. Wednesday, June 14, was Flag Day. That day marked the 156th anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as our national emblem. And on that occasion the army, navy, schools and patriotic Americans everywhere recited the pledge to the flag and heard this striking tribute read at various ceremonies.

"Behold the Flag," which was dedicated by the author to the American Legion and has since been approved by many patriotic organizations, follows:

BEHOLD THE FLAG, purest, most potent emblem of law, order, Christian civilization that ever saluted the dawn.

BEHOLD THE FLAG, ne'er drooped in dust of defeat, sired by revered fathers of the Revolution, their names imperishably written in letters of gold on the pages of Columbia's history, defying the ages.

BEHOLD THE FLAG, floating in zephyrs of high heaven o'er the eternal capital of a republic founded on the rock of righteousness, symbol of humanity's fondest, dearest hope, forever proclaiming justice, human brotherhood throughout the land.

BEHOLD THE FLAG, unstained, untarnished, bejeweled, gleaming in darkest night, her triumphant march across the centuries a path of light. Who dare touch with profaning hand this sleepless, majestic guardian of an ardent people, strong, brave, free?

BEHOLD THE FLAG, inspiration of a mighty race, mingling in sentiment of cherished children, native to her soil undefiled and lovers of liberty from every clime, seeking naught but the common good, yearning to serve mankind 'neath sheltering aegis of the Red, White and Blue.

BEHOLD THE FLAG, immortalized by Washington, her beauteous folds spread from Gulf to Coast by Jefferson, borne aloft by Lincoln in strife of heroes that united as one a sisterhood of states and blended the Blue and Gray in fires of patriotism, preserving every star in the shining standard of national sovereignty. May Old Glory in all the flood of time wave with undimmed radiance and increasing splendor over the fairest expanse of God's earth.

BEHOLD THE FLAG, precious sublime inheritance, blessing of America's faith, power, unity, sanctified by patriot blood. We consecrate anew in overflowing measure our hearts, our eager, willing service of hand and brain to thy defense and greater glory. In the sunlight of thy glowing colors, the moving story of thy past, wonderful promise of the future, mayest thou, guided by the heavenly father, lead the nations to loftier heights, nobler aims, worthier deeds, till the sword is beaten into the plowshare and peace, benign, hallowed peace, dwells among all the sons of men in a world republic.

The author of the above beautiful tribute to our flag, has more recently written one of the fiercest and most ferocious invectives on the Red flag. Here is what he thinks of the Red banner of Communism:

THE RED FLAG, spawned in the blackest crypts of the infernal regions, born of Beelzebub Father of Lies, she poisons the pure air of freedom and flaunts the decency and honor of all mankind.

THE RED FLAG, she floats in ghoulish triumph mid scenes of carnage, rapine and wrecked homes, gloating over her orgy of horror and outrage, lashing the brute in humanity to infamy's deepest depths.

THE RED FLAG, appealing to the baseness, bestiality and devil in man, no worthy cause ever found shelter or support 'neath her treacherous, snakelike folds; her record reeks with the vilest deeds, deeds imploring heaven for vengeance.

THE RED FLAG, fouling the earth's fair face with miasmas of malignity, generated in the fetid odors of envy, jealousy and greed, she has wrought destruction in every nation and violently seeks to set at naught the blood, toil and treasure of twenty centuries.

THE RED FLAG, sworn foe of the Nazarene, morality and religion, polluter of youth, propagandist of persecuting, Christ-hating atheism, she degraded woman, choicest work of the Creator, to the level of the beast and hurled to ruin a mighty empire, frantically striving to enslave human nature by the most despotic tyranny that ever reared its satyrhead among the sons of men.

THE RED FLAG, crimsoned with countless iniquities, loathsome, leprous symbol of shame, cowardice, degeneracy and the most infamous conspiracy against the rights of man ever forged in all the tides of time, diabolical in conception, more ruthlessly fiendish than the torturing savage, the race stands aghast at the saturnalia of crime and corruption this thing of monstrous evil has loosed in its frenzied fury.

THE RED FLAG, never shall she wave where free men dwell or fly unchallenged over a foot of our beauteous land; her revolting dastardies must be expiated in God's hour of retribution. A creature of hades, there only will this outcast reign among the cohorts of Satan and his crew of destroying demons, eternal enemies of virtue, patriotism, righteousness. — Pathfinder.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Tusko, largest elephant in captivity, died Saturday at the Woodlawn Park Zoo, in Seattle, Washington. He was 42 years old, weighed seven tons, 213 pounds, was 10 feet 2 inches tall and 18 feet, 11 inches from rump to end of his trunk.

Mrs. Ben Small of Fort Worth suffered a crushed and lacerated left arm eight miles north of San Saba Saturday, when her car was wrecked. Austin celebrated Roosevelt Day Monday as an expression of good will to the president of the United States. The capital city had arranged a program with pictures of President Franklin D. Roosevelt and placards bearing the slogan, "Prosperity's rose blooms again with Roosevelt," were placed in show windows of business houses. The Austin boy scouts arranged a flag ceremony and a parade and a street dance followed.

Travis county's "depression" grand jury has been in session this week. The grand jury was instructed by Judge Moore to consider only felony cases, leaving misdemeanor cases to lower courts; to get through in a week or ten days; and to be otherwise sparing in its use of the people's money. The jury was denied the usual multitude of bailiffs, and the sheriff furnished deputies, without pay, to summon such witnesses as were necessary.

The Southwest Political Council at Hong Kong, cabled Saturday to the American Reconstruction Finance Corporation, protesting against the cotton and wheat loan to China, arranged by T. V. Soong. The council alleged the proceeds of the loan will be devoted to a civil war which the Nanking national government must wage if it proposes to carry out the terms of the recent settlement with Japan. Doctor Soong, the council asserted, has added nearly $1,000,000,000 to China's public debt to enable his brother-in-law to wage a series of disastrous civil wars.

The Rome tribunal has just settled a dispute between two Italian communes that has been dragging through the courts for four centuries—ever since 1545. The two communes, Vodo and Borca, in northern Italy, have been waging the legal fight generation after generation over possession of a forest which stands between the two communes. Finally the Rome tribunal has decreed that the forest be equally divided between them.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which functioned without Republican members during most of the special session of congress, Saturday night was lined up through quick action by President Roosevelt and congress with two members of the minority party on its board. One was former Senator Blaine of Wisconsin, a member of the Republican independent group, while in the senate. The other was C. B. Merriam of Kansas.

The first camp for unemployed women, known as Camp Tera, and suggested by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Secretary of Labor Perkins, opened Saturday in Bear Mountain, N. Y., with 17 women, ranging in age from 18 to 30, arriving from New York. For the first week, rest will be the order for the jobless women. Each Wednesday and Saturday a new contingent will arrive until the camp's capacity of 200 is filled. No wages will be paid the women, but they will be cared for completely. A cook and an assistant cook have been provided but the women will do the other chores. Camp Tera, some 200 acres in extent, is on land of the state conservation commission and is operated by the state unemployment relief commission.

LOW PRICE CARS VS. CHEAP CARS

We do not build a low-price car: the cost to us of building our car is pretty high.

But we do sell a high quality car at a low price. Almost every new Ford V-8 car we have built so far this year, has cost more to manufacture than its selling price was. As you buy them at only $490 to $610, we have to depend on increasing volume to make up the difference.

The reason for this is simple: — a manufacturer who gives good value must expect to lose money on the first cars he sells because he cannot charge all his costs to the people who are first to buy.

But with the purchaser it is different — he cannot afford to lose anything on a car. It must give him full value from the first, and keep on giving him full value for years.

Two things make possible our combination of low prices and high cost quality:

1. Volume Production
2. Taking only one profit

First, we set our price at what would be fair to the public on the basis of economies we enjoy in volume production. Then, in order to justify and maintain our low price we must get volume sales.

Thus it comes that a car which is really high-cost to make, is also low-cost to buy.

There is a difference between a cheap car and a low-priced high quality car.

Ford prices are always fixed at a point which makes it profitable for a customer to buy.

Good and lasting business must produce profit to the buyer as well as to the seller. And of the two, the buyer's profit must be, comparatively, the larger one.

It pays us to sell the Ford V-8 because it pays you to buy it.

Henry Ford

POPULIST PARTY REMEMBERED

Some months ago an affable gentleman called on the editor of this paper and asked for information about the campaigns and political achievements of the Populist party in Mills county in the early nineties. He carefully studied the Eagle's files for those years and asked numerous questions. He was writing a book on the Populist party, he said, and promised to send the EAGLE a copy when it was published.

Now the volume has been received. It is entitled "The People's Party in Texas, a Study in Third Party Politics," and is published by the University of Texas, the author, Roscoe C. Martin, being adjunct professor of government there.

A vast amount of original research has gone into the writing of this 280-page book. The author has interviewed hundreds of men who were active in the battles of Populism and Democracy, has read, apparently, every Texas newspaper published during those exciting times when Stump Ashby thrilled the multitudes with his eloquent speeches and Cyclone Davis could not find his match in the rough and tumble of debate.

Dr. Martin's comprehensive study is more than an historical account of the rise and decline of the People's party. It is a study of men and motives and of principles that were denounced as rabidly radical when they were proposed but have long since been accepted by the more conservative political parties.

To those whose political memories embrace those earlier depression years, there is much in this book to refresh their recollection of men and events that are now seen to have made history. Some statements may appear a little hazy, and some of the facts may seem to have received scarcely the attention they deserve, but no fault can be found with the author on the grounds of partisanship. Readers who have no recollection of the events described by the book will be surprised to note how faithfully history repeats itself and to discover how much of our present-day political heritage was evolved during those transition days.

A TEAPOT TEMPEST

When two little boys have it in for each other, there are nearly always some big boys at hand to push the little fellows into each other and start a fight. But when Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt made a brief stop in Dallas recently on her aerial trip west, some very little fellows tried hard, but unsuccessfully, to renew a smoldering feud between two pretty big men, Jim Ferguson and Amon Carter.

But the little fellows, reporters, rather grudgingly, it seemed, had to admit there was no fight or even unpleasantness to report. The facts of the case seem to be simply as follows: Governor and ex-Governor Ferguson were on hand at the Dallas airport to welcome the wife of the President of the United States upon her arrival in Texas. Mr. Carter, a bitter anti-Ferguson politician, and his wife were also there. The two couples spoke and shook hands.

After Mrs. Roosevelt arrived and was properly greeted, the Carters took her to breakfast. The Fergusons were not invited to the breakfast, but went back to their own hotel where they breakfasted with friends.

Now, why all the commotion? If Mrs. Roosevelt had been giving the breakfast, unquestionably the Fergusons would have been invited. If the Carters had been giving the breakfast to anyone else, unquestionably the Fergusons would not have been invited. The first lady of the nation was not guilty of any discourtesy towards the first lady of Texas. Amon Carter did not swallow his pride and his sentiments and invite the Fergusons to a purely private meal simply for the sake of appearances. No, everyone concerned seems to have acted naturally and becomingly.

The Dallas and Fort Worth reporters are the only ones who failed to do honor to the occasion. But they have been punished enough. Their exaggerated stories fell flat.

BLANTON TELLS THEM

Our faithful representative in Congress produces more inside information on the working of government than any other 10 men in Congress. He is always and eternally fighting for economy and justice for the taxpayer, and that, even now, is not popular in Congress.

Recently when the railroad bill was under consideration, Blanton sought to attach an amendment that would keep salaries to be paid by the "coordinator" down to $10,000 a year. Because when Blanton thinks how many farms it takes to make enough to pay the salary of one of these $75,000 or $100,000 government experts, he begins to see red.

His Colleague from Texas, Congressman Rayburn, couldn't see Judge Blanton's point. He objected that the salaries to be paid would come out of the railroads, and not out of taxes, so he inferred, why should congress worry about how much these railroad supervisors should be paid? But Judge Blanton is looking after the interests of the people, and he could see no more reason why they should be saddled with new officials at outrageous salaries which they would have to pay with higher freight rates instead of higher taxes, and he said so.

Here is one of the reasons for Blanton's superiority to so many other congressmen: Most congressmen go to congress imbued with the idea of cutting expenses and really accomplishing something that will help the common run of humanity. They get up and try to do something, and the standpatters and the lobbyists whip their ears down, and they stay licked.

Tom Blanton has lost plenty of roll calls, but every now and then he wins one. And every time he does, the common people benefit. We need more Blantons.

ONE WAY TO GET BUSINESS

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has announced the loan of fifty million dollars to China for the purchase of American cotton and wheat. The loan will bear 5 per cent interest, will be paid back, it is hoped, by instalments over a period of three years, and is secured by a prior lien on Chinese taxes that last year amounted to $22,000,000.

With China in the throes of war, with an invading army already on her soil, and with a government notably unstable, some question might be raised as to how good the loan will prove to be.

But to the members of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation who have been shoveling out tax money by the millions for so long it has become commonplace, no such doubt appears to have occurred. It is true enough that alongside some of the RFC loans already made, the Chinese deal appears sound and the security ample.

At any rate the cotton that it takes off the market should strengthen the price here at home, and America has made so many uncollectable loans in recent years, fifty millions more won't be noticed.

THE REALM OF SCIENCE
MORE ABOUT TERMITES

Termites multiply rapidly, work slowly but thoroughly. New York's invasion came three years ago; when, no one knows. Now every section of the metropolitan area is infested. A theatre near Times Square, a building downtown, apartment houses in the Bronx, homes in Queens, Brooklyn, New Jersey, Staten Island are being undermined.

In the U. S. termites are commonly called "white ants." But they are not ants and are not always white. Termites may be readily distinguished from ants by the absence of a "waist" or constriction where abdomen joins thorax. They look more like tiny cockroaches, but they have a social organization unlike in its complexity.

Most termite colonies are divided into five castes, apparently determined in the egg. Topping the social scale are the king and queen. They have wings and reproduce. Next comes two wingless courtier castes, also fertile, which may step into the reproductive breach if king or queen should die. To the termite proletariat belong the pin-headed, speck-brained workers which do all the damage, the soldiers, big of head and jaws. More potent than the fighter is a type with retort-shaped head from which it squirts a pungent secretion on its enemies, chiefly ants. These two castes are sterile and of both sexes, unlike ants, whose females do all the work and fighting.

Periodically a colony's young kings and queens swarm out into open, shed their wings. Those which survive birds, lizards and man pair off to start new colonies. They care for offspring until enough workers have grown up to take care of the community. Then the king and queen settle down to steady reproduction. The queen becomes a huge inert egg-laying machine with a production capacity of some 50,000 per day. The king is a tiny fellow whose main function is to be the queen's husband. They cohabit for life, which may last ten years. Their offspring feed them and each other with food either regurgitated or exuded through the skin. Some species sprout an edible fungus garden in which the young may graze.

Dr. Spangenberg of Germany has developed a quick method of sprouting grain, by which fodder may be harvested after 10 to 15 days. The grain is not planted, but is spread on large iron sheets and a secret liquid poured over it.

CALCIUM IN THE DIET
Prof. H. C. Sherman, as long ago as 1911, called attention to the fact that the average American dietary is deficient in calcium.

Now 22 years later he again states that "probably a larger proportion of adults and of children can be improved by enrichment of calcium than in any one chemical element."

In substantiation of his statement, there are the results of a study made of the dietary histories of more than 4000 patients in the New York hospital. Only two out of the 4000 showed an adequate intake of calcium.

Professor Sherman took a number of rats thriving on what is considered an adequate uniform diet. He added to this milk and vitamin G. He noted that in these rats there was a more rapid and efficient growth, a lower death rate, a higher vitality at all ages, and an increase of 10 per cent in the average longevity of adults.

THE MARK-DOWN OF MORALITY

Of all our great issues, one, which is fundamental, has been obscured, even though it cuts squarely across every other and must be settled first. It is less a matter of economics and politics than of plain, old-fashioned morality. It is this: Are we to condone, and even officially encourage, the breaking of promises? That issue is involved in such practices and proposals as federal sanction of default on municipal bonds, farm mortgages and even the government's own seed, crop and reclamation loans.

The essence of each of these is a broken promise. The essence of business and political and professional morality is the kept word. "You can count on what he says," "he's dependable," have been tests of character since the beginning. The young of every generation have been counselled, admonished, exhorted by copy book, parent, teacher, preacher, to this faith.

The elder Morgan, when asked by a senate committee, upon what security he lent money, replied, "Character." Not a reader of this page but who can discover instances of men and women—who sacrificed greatly through the years to pay up debts of '07 and '93 rather than break their word.

When a nation blandly declines to pay its obligations to another; when a government suggests to the citizen that he can repudiate without losing his good name, at that moment moral fibers become flabby, guideposts vanish, and national disintegration sets in.

The time has come for men and institutions to stand up and be counted. Is it to be the easy way? Then make the long slide easier by removing constitutional obstacles to the impairment of private contracts, and by changing our time-honored copy-book maxims. Pull all the stops! Discourage thrift by penalizing it; encourage folly by rewarding it; carry on to the bitter end the delusion of a bottomless public treasury.

This would give us the frosted cake today, but would leave no bread for tomorrow.

Or is it to be the hard way? Call a halt on the devising of fresh palliatives, and contract rather than expand the scope of those upon which we now lean. They only delay the inevitable accounting; their promise brings fear to some, false hope to others; hesitation to all.

The battle must be fought somewhere, sometime. It might as well be here, now. Let the defaulter—nation or institution—default and wear the label. Let the individual with obligations, who is willing and eager to hide behind new and strange defenses, stand up to public opinion. And, let us see to it that the individual who regards his obligations as a sacred duty, and fights to perform them, receives proper credit and acclaim, lest he be the real forgotten man.

Such a course means stern readjustments, distressing enough, but not so painful in the give and take of the market-place as amid the inequalities and injustices worked by arbitrary fiat. Such a course, for one thing, would return an enduring compensation of self-respect. The pure gold would be found in the crucible after the hot fire has cooled. No course could be too drastic which would preserve for this nation its time-honored conception of reliability and dependability, of the sacredness of the promised word. — M e r i e Thorpe in Nation's Business.

TIME TO FIGHT FOR INDUSTRIES

If, as the continued improvement in commodity prices and general market values leads us to believe, economic recovery has set in, this is the opportune time for vigorous efforts on the part of the small cities to promote industrial development. To be sure this is not an auspicious time for raising money in most small communities, but those which have courage to do it, and actually have distinct advantages for industry, will be amply rewarded.

This is the logical time for extensive progress in the decentralization of industry. The movement has been under way for several years, but was interrupted by the depression which made new ventures hazardous. With the loosening of credit and capital facilities attendant upon the inauguration of recovery, the movement doubtless will be renewed at an accelerated tempo. During the so-called inflation period it was possible for manufacturers to show a profit in almost any location under almost any circumstances. There was little incentive to move. For the next few years, however, industrial management must give close attention to favorable conditions and general economy. If, as is generally admitted, smaller communities make possible economy in production over the larger communities, managerial interests may be expected to be more amenable to proposals to leave larger commercial centers.

Almost every small community has certainly fundamental advantages over the commercial centers. Living costs are generally lower, making for lower production costs; housing conditions are more satisfactory, resulting in more settled labor conditions. In short, the manufacturing can be carried on in the small community at a minimum of cost and difficulty if transportation facilities for raw material and the finished product are in any way comparable to those of the larger cities. The high degree of development of transportation in this modern age of course has improved the status of the small community substantially in this aspect.

The small town should, by thorough survey, ascertain its advantages, then take steps to present them to industries which their local surveys indicate be long profitably in their particular locality.

A survey of this nature, and the presentation of the information to likely prospects would cost money. For this reason a great many communities anxious to obtain industrial development have adopted a policy of hopeful waiting. Because of keen compe-

THAT ERROR THAT SHOWS UP IN THE HOME PAPER

Speaking of typographical errors, no one appreciates one of these like a newspaperman, and we are quoting a bit of doggerel that might possibly give the reader a slant that he has not heretofore had. The author—well, the least said about that, the better. Read it and weep: You may print a good clean paper, as ever has been seen, As you say, "She may be empty, but I'll tell the world she's clean."

But when the sheet is printed and is out upon the mail, On its way to the subscribers I have never seen it fail—

In the center of the front page, in a most conspicuous place, Some typographical error fairly kick you in the face.

For the typographical error is a slippery thing and sly, You can hunt 'till you are dizzy, but it somehow will get by.

'Till the forms are off the presses it is strange how still it keeps,

It shrinks down into a corner and it never stirs or peeps

That typographical error too small for human eyes, 'Till the ink is on the paper when it grows to mountain size.

And you see that blasted error as far as you could throw a dog

Looming up in all its splendor, like a lighthouse in a fog!

That glaring blunder jets out like an ulcerated tooth, Where it dodges the eagle vision of the napping comma sleuth.

It is sure too late to mind it, but it fills your soul with rage.

The boss he stares with horror, then he grabs his hair and groans,

The copy reader drops his head and loudly moans.

The remainder of the issue may be clean as clean can be,

But that typographical error is the only thing you see.

It was down among the six-point till the copy was all read,

When it shifted into blackface or a two-inch banner head—

Then when the sheet was printed it jumped up and howled "Boo!"

You never saw me, did you? This is sure a horse on you!"

—Columbus Citizen.

tion, however, those towns which muster the courage to intelligently press their advantages no doubt will gain and maintain a tremendous advantage of those that are waiting and hoping. Providence is generous, but aggressive effort can be made to influence it to a surprising degree. If we do not act now, we very likely shall pass up a golden opportunity. — Vernon Record.

The EYE and how we see

The Protection Of The Eye

So delicate is the mechanism of the eye that every means is taken to protect it. In the first place, it is protected in its position by being placed in a bony socket of the skull in such a way that only a direct blow from the front can injure it. It is protected in the second place by the eyebrows and eyelashes, which guard it from dust and moisture, and by the eyelid, which can cover it in case of more serious threatened injury. In fact, the wink is the fastest human reflex, and the eye can close almost instantaneously.

The transparent part of the outer surface of the eyeball itself, called the cornea, is composed of a highly sensitive membrane, so sensitive that it is only with the greatest difficulty that it can be touched at all. Everyone knows how hard it is to keep the eyelid open after any foreign matter has blown in. The surface is kept clean by the tears which gather easily if the eye is disturbed, and the dirt is collected in a sticky substance at the corner of the eyes, the schlemm or "sleep" as it is sometimes called.

The retina, or the "receiving plate" of the eye, may be injured chiefly by an excess of light, and precautions against this are automatically taken in a number of ways. The eyelids can be half closed in brilliant light, but more important is the contracting and expanding of the iris, the circular band of muscles which con-

The teachers were not elected in April when the board elected 75 teachers, pending action by the legislature on the question of scholastic age, whether the schools should continue to accept the six year old children or exclude. The legislature decided to keep the six year olds on the rolls and the election of the additional teachers was made necessary.

FORMAL HOUSE VOTE

LETS BLANTON TALK

A formal house roll call was required last week to permit Representative Blanton (Dem.), Texas, to finish a speech.

TEXAS COMPENSATION LAWS GOVERNOR FERGUSON APPOINTS CHAIRMAN

A mercantile firm in Dallas, with every opportunity to develop into a major industry, was forced out of business because of the speculations of a night watchman. Doubtless that sort of case has been duplicated many times. Today a national industry of vital concern to thousands of working people has its existence threatened because business losses, occasioned by laws that regulate but do not protect, tend to make the cost of workmen's compensation insurance too high for practicability.

No industry has suffered more than has insurance from fraudulent practice or specious claim sustained by misguided juries. With the exception of motor car liability and damage, no form of insurance has been victimized so much as underwriting in workmen's compensation. The courts have gone far afield in construing coverage and employer's responsibility. Juries have vied with one another in rendering verdicts out of line with the intent of compensation laws. In both cases the outcome is all too frequently due to the human element. Before the court is the sometimes pitiful individual case played up by skillful lawyers. In the background is the shadowy corporation that pays—and pays—and pays. Liberal courts and juries fail to see the still more pitiable figure, the man whose legitimate protection is removed if underwriters and employers are driven out of business.

Pending in the senate and house of the legislature are several measures which represent the joint effort of insurance companies and employers in Texas to put compensation on a sound basis. The principal aim is to make very definite responsibility of insuring companies, character of juries and treatment and procedure for claim recovery. With adoption, much of the vague application of the present law, which stimulates the activity of the ambulance chaser, would be done away with.

The sooner Texas and other states put their compensation laws on a sound basis and outlaw present raids on compensation companies through sympathetic judgments, the better off will be employees in the mass, who require protection against time, loss or death through injury incident to their labor. — Dallas News.

The first step was taken Saturday by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson toward obtaining Texas' answer to the question whether national prohibition should be repealed. The governor named Morris Sheppard, United States senator, temporary chairman of the anti-repealists' convention to select a list of delegates who would represent them at a state convention to be held later when the state's vote is formally cast. She said she would designate some one later to preside over the repealists' convention to be held in Austin on June 27, the same day those opposed to repeal gather. The legislature, in providing for selection of candidates as delegates by both factions to the state convention, empowered the governor to appoint the temporary chairmen.

A GOOD MAN GONE

Mr. R. G. Huffman, aged 47, died in a Brownwood hospital last Friday night, after a short illness, although his condition had been serious for some time. Several months ago he underwent an operation for some trouble in his stomach and it was a return of this trouble, or a continuation of it, that caused his death. He was carried to the hospital Thursday night of last week and an operation was performed in an effort to save his life, but all that medical science and surgery could do for him was of no avail and after several hours of intense suffering he passed away.

Mr. Huffman was reared in Goldthwaite and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. He was an upright, honorable man and one who made friends of all who had dealings with him.

He leaves a wife, two married daughters, Mrs. Floyd Frazier of Brownwood and Mrs. Elmer Horton of Scallorn; one son, R. G. Jr., and a young daughter, Almine, aged about 12 years.

The funeral Saturday afternoon was attended by a large number of the friends of the bereaved family and the floral offering was beautiful, expressive of the sympathy felt for the family and the high regard in which the deceased gentleman was held by the people among whom he had spent his life.

Many of the players are known to the fans here, as they have played with San Saba for several years. Earl Robbins was the star at bat and outfield for San Saba, making a few nice catches and getting three hits in four times at bat. Hamilton, Tate, Littlepage, led the batting attack for Goldthwaite. Weaver started on the mound for Goldthwaite and pitched six innings. Turner finishing the game.

reinforced by Bro. Walter Lipps, pastor of the Methodist church at Carrizo Springs. I do not know just why Bro. Hammond should have sought this re-enforcement. It may possibly be that the profound theological pabulum which he received at Georgetown did not affect him as favorably as he thought it had Bro. Lipps, and so brought him along as a sample of what these theologians could really do for a young preacher. At any rate Bro. Lipps peached to a fine audience at the morning hour and a small audience at night; a good sermon at both hours. The rain that fell at the evening hour spoiled the audience, but did no perceptible damage to the growing crops, which were beginning to show a need of moisture.

Another of our good Methodist brethren has answered the last call since our last letter. Bro. Charley Brown of Lake Merritt community passed quietly away Sunday evening while talking to his family. A gentleman who knew him well preached a great funeral sermon. He said to this writer when he told him that Bro. Brown had passed away that "Brother Brown was one of the best men in Mills county." No finer tribute could have been paid to any man than this statement by this layman. It was a fine funeral sermon, though not purposed as such.

I want everybody in town and surrounding country to hear Arthur W. Jones speak next Sunday night. The place will be announced in this week's Eagle. Arthur Jones is well known here and as everybody knows is able to take care of himself in any company when he discusses the prohibition question. Let everybody hear him. J. S. BOWLES.
