Printers Meet To Study Code

The federal government is endeavoring to bring the business of the country back to a normal condition and on that basis the recent congress adopted what is known as the Industrial Recovery Act. This act affects many lines of business, among which is the printing industry. The requirement is for organization of printers and a uniform price to be charged for the printing and uniform wages and hours for the workmen. It is generally understood by those interested in the business that newspapers and newspaper work are not included in the law at the present time, although some phases of it may be ruled to apply to that business. However, at the present time those interested in the industry are studying the law and its requirement, in order that they may conform to it.

A meeting for the twenty-fifth senatorial district was called to convene in Coleman Tuesday to consider the situation and adopt plans of work. This meeting was by authority of the zone chairman and was largely attended, although a number of the printing plant owners of the district were not present.

H. M. Jones of the Jones Printing Co. of Brownwood served as chairman of the meeting and M. Y. Stokes, jr. of the Eagle served as secretary.

After the provisions of the new law and "code of ethics" had been thoroughly discussed, a committee was appointed to attend the zone meeting in Fort Worth Saturday to further discuss the provisions of the act and elect delegates to represent the zone at Chicago meeting July 3-14 where final plans and policies will be adopted for submission to the national administrator of the act at Washington. When all the information has been assembled and considered the administrator will issue the code covering the provisions of the act and all requirements will be observed by all printers in the United States, under penalty of a heavy fine and imprisonment for violation of their requirements.

A committee on resolutions to set forth the wishes of the employing printers of the district was appointed, composed of Ed. Blanton, Holcomb-Blanton Co., San Angelo; Wendell Mayes, of the Banner-Bulletin, Brownwood; H. H. Jackson of the Democrat-Voice, Coleman; M. Y. Stokes, jr., of the Goldthwaite Eagle. These resolutions covered all phases of the business and will be submitted to the Fort Worth meeting Saturday.

It is not known just when the act will be put in operation, neither has it been made to appear just how drastic the requirements will be, but we are all in hearty accord with President Roosevelt in his effort for business recovery and we have implicit confidence in him and believe the outcome of the enforcement of the act will be beneficial to the printing industry and the entire country.

Tom Sebolt Hurt In Auto Wreck

Tom Sebolt was the victim of a bad wreck at Waurika, Okla., Wednesday morning, when a trailer in which he was riding wrecked. He and a number of others, including S. P. Rahl and Mark Fairman, went to Fort Reno, Okla., to bring back Mr. Rahl's horses that had been in the races at that place. The horses were loaded in a trailer and Sebolt was riding in the trailer with the horses. Near Waurika the trailer became disconnected from the truck and turned over and in the wreck Sebolt's left arm was broken, his head was bruised and he was pretty badly shaken up. Nobody else was seriously hurt, although one boy was thrown violently to the ground and slightly hurt. The tail of one of the horses was broken, which was the sum total of the injury to the horses.

Sebolt was hurried to the hospital in Waurika and the family here notified of the accident.

Dr. J. M. Campbell and Will Woody left at once for the scene of the accident and returned home Wednesday night, bringing the injured gentleman with them. He is in his home here, where he is receiving careful attention and it is believed he will soon be recovered, unless unforeseen complications set up.

Live Wire Kills Driver of Truck

Mr. R. R. Collins, son-in-law of John S. Chesser of this city, was killed by coming in contact with an electric current from a high-line near Royalty, in the Big Spring section of west Texas, last Friday.

Mr. Collins was driving a truck loaded with a large steel tank. In driving under the high-line the tank caught on the electric wire and two of Mr. Collins' assistants attempted to dislodge it with poles. One of the poles broke and the wire dropped on the tank. Mr. Collins stepped out of his cab to the ground and was instantly electrocuted. So heavy was the electric current in contact with the truck that a cow walked up and put her mouth on the truck and dropped dead.

The remains of Mr. Collins were carried to his boyhood home at Zephyr and interred beside the grave of his grandparents Saturday. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Stanford, pastor of the Central Methodist church of Brownwood, and were attended by a large congregation of the friends of the deceased and his family.

Mr. Collins was 33 years of age and was married to Miss Callie Chesser at Mullin ten years ago. She and two daughters, one aged 8 years and the other 10 months survive him. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Collins of Rising Star survive.

Mr. and Mrs. Collins spent some time here in the Chesser home and the eldest daughter attended school here last fall and winter. Mrs. Collins and children left here March 30 for their new home and had been there scarcely three months when this terrible accident occurred.

For Our Own Roads

Once more opportunity is knocking at the door of Mills county. Six million dollars of federal highway money is to be spent in Texas on county roads, not a part of the federal or state highway systems. Information has been requested of county officials as to whether Mills county needs or desires such roads. The state highway department has agreed to prepare, without cost to the county, all necessary preliminary surveys and estimates of cost that must be submitted with the county's application.

We Need Such Roads

The average citizen of Mills county needs good lateral roads far more than he does a paved federal or state highway through the county. Now for the first time the opportunity is presented to secure them at no additional cost to the county.

We Are Paying for Them Anyway

The recently increased federal tax on gasoline amounting to 1 1/2 cents per gallon is already being collected. This tax must go to the government whether we get any new roads or not. Obviously it is to our interest to get those that are needed most.

What Roads Do You Want?

If you want a road improved and can show that it will be of public benefit to have the work done, now is the time to see your county commissioner about it. Don't wait until the applications have all been sent in, and then complain that your community was mistreated. Whether the county will be allotted any such road work depends on how soon the application is made and how strong a case is made in showing that the work is needed for public convenience and necessity. It has been suggested that a good road across the bayou to the Regency and Ebony sections of the county is needed. A better, more direct route to Mullin is required. What other roads should be included in Mills county's application? Now is the time for every citizen to talk.

Methodist Notes Baptist Reminder

The meeting at the Methodist church started last Sunday under most favorable circumstances. The weather is very warm and Sunday was an unusual hot day, yet we had fine audiences at both the morning and evening hour. The pastor preached at both hours and had interested audiences.

Monday Rev. J. J. Mason of San Antonio came and has been preaching interesting sermons each day, except that he did not preach Tuesday morning on account of so many people being away to celebrate the fourth of July.

We feel that all our church people of whatever denomination, should be busy in their efforts to save souls this year. This writer has been in Texas long enough to learn that the church harvest time is in those years when there is no political campaign on. The people feel that the issues involved in any political campaign are of vital importance and as a consequence almost the entire summer is given over to this. With almost constant public speaking it is difficult to maintain unbroken interest in revival meetings. To this no fault can be found. The people ought to take great interest in the political issues of the day. When our people fail to look after the welfare of our country then our blood-bought privileges are at an end and we can write "Ichabod" over our doors.

What I am saying is: We should take advantage of these off years to make the best of unobstructed times to build our Zion.

Attend the Methodist church during the revival season. All the people of the community may be greatly benefited.

I am not requested to say this but I am sure that it is timely. All who sing will be welcomed in the choir. Come, let us worship together.

I had the privilege of reading a letter from our former townsman and former pastor of the Baptist church of this city a few days since. As a matter of fact, it was a company letter, this Scribe and Pharisee being one of the company addressed. It was a great pleasure to hear from him. We miss him greatly and remember with pleasure the many moments we whiled away together in our attempt to settle the many great problems of (Continued on page 3)

Two hundred and forty-three were fine in Sunday school Sunday. We were certainly delighted to have you. Will you not be one of the seven to make it 250 this coming Sunday. It was also interesting to note that we had unusually large crowds at both morning and evening preaching services. We were glad to have Bro. Bert Wright to unite with our church Sunday morning. We are expecting others to come every Sunday.

On account of the Methodist revival we shall dismiss our evening services. Remember our meeting will start one week from this coming Sunday. Bro. Luther Harrison of Fort Worth will lead our singing. He is a consecrated, song leader, a lover of lost souls and very easily approached. If you hear him once, you will come again. FRANKLIN E. SWANNER

Cotton and Wheat Prices Go Higher

Boosted by prospects of reduced acreage and yield and influenced by the decline abroad in the value of the dollar, prices of cotton and wheat and most other commodities continued their spectacular rise this week. Cotton jumped one dollar a bale yesterday bringing it back to Monday's level of 10c a pound in Texas inland markets as compared with less than six cents this time last year. Wheat futures have passed one dollar a bushel, and indications are good for still greater increases.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Miss Aggie Johnson celebrated her 14th birthday with a party Wednesday afternoon, June 28. At 3 o'clock the guests began to arrive and by 3:30 the house and yard was a place of laughter, crowded with boys and girls. Contests and games were enjoyed an hour, then the guests gathered around a large library table and looked at Aggie's presents. This caused much fun and excitement. The children were served white cake and iced lemonade by Misses Thelma Johnson and Lillian Snow. The birthday cake was a large white one, baked by Miss Johnson. Several grownups called during the afternoon, as Aggie numbers her friends among all ages.

Norma Ruth and Charline Featherston were the youngest guests present. The guests left at a late hour, wishing Aggie many more happy birthdays. A GUEST

Mullin May Lose Highway Route

Failure of the city officials of Mullin to secure right-of-way for Highway 7 through the city may result in a new survey being made by which the paved highway will miss Mullin altogether. It was learned yesterday. For several months all the necessary right-of-way from Goldthwaite to the Brown county line has been in the hands of the highway department with the exception of a small strip through the city of Mullin. Even this was secured more than a month ago by a jury of view appointed by the Mills county commissioners court, on recommendation of the city council of Mullin, but the transaction has not been completed.

O. W. Hunn, resident highway engineer, states that there is an entirely feasible route for the highway north of Mullin that may be used in order to expedite construction work. Already one group of lettings has been missed by this project, and a second group is in preparation now. Every day's delay means putting off that much longer the spending of federal highway funds in Mills county.

Highway 81 Approved

Judge L. E. Patterson has received information from Austin that construction work on highway 81 from Fredericksburg will commence soon, as there is now sufficient federal highway money for the project. This is not a federal highway, but the federal government has set aside six million dollars for use on state and lateral highways in Texas.

A request for complete data on all lateral highways needed by this county has been sent Judge Patterson, and Mr. Hunn has received instructions to co-operate in every way possible with the county officials in running preliminary surveys and making up estimates of cost of such lateral highways and bridges.

Curb and Gutter Work Proceeds

Work has proceeded rapidly this week in the laying of curbs and gutters along the west side of Fisher street in preparation for its paving as a state highway. Work on the east side may begin next week. Danger of a hitch in the work because of the location of shade trees outside the curb line has been satisfactorily settled. Some trees will be transplanted, and some will be allowed to remain and the curb line will be broken so as not to interfere with them and only the gutter constructed there.

Free Dirt

Resident Engineer Hunn has announced that property owners on Fisher street who need dirt for filling in their sidewalks, up to the curb line, may secure it free by applying to him.

Judge Invited To C.M.T.C. Event

County Judge Patterson has received a personal invitation from General H. Dorey, camp commander, to attend the Visitors' Day exercises at the Citizens' Military Training Camp at Camp Bullis on Friday, July 14. Judge Patterson has for several years been the representative of the C.M.T.C. in Mills county. A record number of applications was sent from the county this year.

Goldthwaite Takes Game by 7-5 Score

Last Sunday the Goldthwaite baseball team at Bend ran up against some of the best pitching they have seen this season and were lucky to eke out a 7 to 5 victory. A lad by the name of Templeton started the fray in the box for Bend and lasted 6 innings, when he gave way to Baxter to finish the remainder of the game. It would be hard to state just which of these two was the better as they both had the local boys guessing all afternoon, as is evident by their 13 strikeouts.

Every man on the Goldthwaite team with the exception of Huffman fanned at least once with Nickols and Jones whiffing three times each. Aside from their mound artists, Bend presented a well-balanced team in other respects. They were exceptionally good in the infield and their outfield was a fast combination.

The local club seems to have uncovered some worthwhile pitching talent itself in young Turner, who turned in a very good performance in the 7 innings he pitched. Turner might have lasted out the game, but was visibly tiring when removed for a pinch hitter in the eighth. Turner never walked a man and had the Bend batters eating out of his hand during his sojourn in the box. He struck out 8 men and had them topping their blows all afternoon, resulting in little spinning hops to the infielders. He was given sterling support by Earl Tate, who played one of his best games at shortstop. Tate came up with several blows that were labeled hits. Credit is due this young man for the game he played last Sunday. "Pappy" McLean also gave the crowd a thrill when in the ninth he made a beautiful one-handed stab of a liner near the left field foul line. Had this hit got away from McLean this ball game would probably not be in the victory column.

It was John "Ernshaw" Weaver, who stemmed the tide and held the opposition the last two innings, after Turner was removed, and he turned in his usual heady pitching performance. All in all it was the best game from a spectator's point of view that has been played this season by the Goldthwaite team. Both teams played "heads-up" baseball all the time and the tightness of the battle kept everyone on his toes throughout the contest. The score was tied four times and Goldthwaite got their two run advantage in the eighth inning. The largest crowd Goldthwaite has played to this season either at home or away was in attendance. A FAIR DEAL

During the depression through which the country has recently passed, the Eagle continued the paper to a number of people whose subscriptions had expired. This condition still exists and if there are those receiving the paper who know their time has expired and they do not wish the paper continued to them, we ask that they just give it back to the postmaster or carrier.

With the Mills county quota of 8,178 acres already pledged, field workers throughout the county were continuing their work this week in the national cotton acreage reduction campaign.

Eighty percent of those offering to reduce their acreage are preferring the option plan whereby they will profit if the price of cotton advances as a result of the campaign, County Agent W. P. Weaver said yesterday. Although his office has been short on contract blanks, a new supply was received this week and Mr. Weaver has been assured that he will have an ample supply before the deadline on July 18 is reached.

Acting on positive instructions from state headquarters, the county committee has begun to trim over-optimistic estimates of yield per acre. Many farmers after thinking the matter over voluntarily asked that their previous estimates be reduced. In several sections of the county the estimates of yield were so conservative that no trimming was necessary. The county committee consists of W. C. Dew, Goldthwaite; E. A. Kemp, Mullin; A. G. Langford, Center City.

Response to the government's offer has been unusually good, the county agent says. Comparatively few farmers here have shown any indication of wanting their neighbors to make all the reduction, leaving them to profit from a large crop on their own land.

Warnings have been issued that no cotton is to be plowed up or destroyed until orders are given to do so by the local committee. To plow up or otherwise destroy his cotton before his contract has been accepted in Washington will deprive a grower of all benefits from the plan.

Jubilee and Races Next Month

The fair directors and others interested in bringing about a celebration to be held in Goldthwaite this summer and will succeed in the undertaking, there is no doubt. They have the horses for the races and many of them are either stabled at the fair grounds or in easy reach of the grounds. There will be plenty of exhibits procurable, although it is not the intention of the management to attempt a regular county fair. They will make room for exhibits, to be sure, and will be glad to have them, but no premium list will be attempted and no effort will be made to induce exhibits.

The main effort will be to have a grand jubilee and get-together occasion for the people some time in August at the fair grounds here. A committee is in communication with reliable carnivals to get one of the best to come here and give entertainment for the people. Then, some of the best baseball teams in this section will be secured for games and it is possible other games in which local people will be interested will be arranged.

At any rate, Goldthwaite and Mills county will have a big celebration and get-together some time this summer.

MEDICAL SCIENCE BAFLED

Medical science found itself up against a stone wall in trying to account for the magical transformation of a black man whose skin now is all white except for two small scars. But it is doubtful whether the leading dematologists were any more baffled than the 90-pound Yameond Dauphin, 57-year-old coffee planter, whose illiteracy almost blocked his entry into this country as a subject for scientific diagnosis. Dauphin's is a very strange case. He claims his skin was as black as any other Haitian native's until he ate the fateful jungle nut—the quarik of the Haiti bush. The metamorphosis followed.

PROPER REPRESENTATION

The Texas newspapers are endeavoring to have a proper representation of Texas and Texas resources made at the Century of Progress exposition at Chicago. There is a large space in the exposition grounds allotted to Texas, but no sort of representation or display. In order to defray the expense of making the exhibit it was determined to ask the public for a contribution equal to 1 cent per person for the population of the towns and cities. On this basis Goldthwaite's quota is about $15 or $18. The Eagle has agreed to ask the citizenship for the amount assessed and to forward whatever amount is contributed whether more or less than the amount indicated. One person may make the entire contribution or any one can pay whatever portion he or she may desire. If you want to have a part in making a proper representation for Texas in the world's fair send or bring in any amount you may desire and it will be forwarded to the committee designated by the Press association.

REDUCING ACREAGE

When Commissioner J. E. McDonald a year ago proposed the plowing up of every third row of Texas field cotton, his proposal was received with amazement, liberally larded with jeers. Today the people of Texas are applauding the same suggestion from Washington. And all of us who thought it was all wrong a year ago are disposed to think it is all right now. The Washington authority is trying to help our cotton growers, and the interests dependent upon cotton growing. But there is no compulsion, no dictation. Neither Mr. Roosevelt nor Mr. Wallace has proposed to tell the farmers what they must do. They are only telling them what they may do, if they want to, and are offering to pay them for it. It is a fair offer and deserves fair treatment. The grand central idea is to decrease the prospective crop vertically, and get more for what may be left than for what the whole thing otherwise might have brought. If it is a sin to plow up growing crops it must be a sin to refuse to plant them in the first place. The crops belong to those who own the land, who plant and tend them. The rest of us may look on and make remarks, but outside of that our responsibility is as limited as our authority. As a sailor, Mr. Roosevelt prefers steering to drifting.—State Press in Dallas News.

GREAT IS TEXAS

Austin Callan writing of Texas and Texas people says:

"The citizenry of this imperial state, like the architecture of ancient Rome, rests upon splendid columns. We had such immortals as Sam Houston, Stephen F. Austin, Sterling P. Robinson and Guy M. Bryan, as founders. They were rugged, intellectual, brave, he-men, and they have left an impress that cannot be erased.

"We are far from being poor in the same respect now. There are great hearts and faithful souls still living in this vast domain between the Red river and the winding Rio Grande. They have big thoughts; they have the courage to follow their principles; they are constructive; progressive, far-seeing, and honorable. We have citizens who would be an ornament to any race in any land, and they are dreaming, planning and building for the common good. They believe in themselves, in their country, and in institutions which lift civilization to a higher level, and increase the sum total of human happiness."

Among the things that came down were a lot of elevated noses.—Bethlehem Globe-Times.

Plans to urge upon the Southern Pacific railroad the advantages of immediate construction of the Gulf and West Texas railroad from San Angelo to Corpus Christi through San Antonio and Fredericksburg, were laid at a meeting of 53 business and professional men from cities along the route in San Antonio. The railroad was urged to apply for an R. F. C. loan if necessary to finance the construction of the road between San Angelo and Fredericksburg with the purchase of the 21 miles of the Fredericksburg and Northern railroad.

A TONIC Laxative

CONSTIPATION, with the annoying symptoms that usually come with it, cuts down organic force and disturbs normal health and well-being. A thorough cleansing of the digestive tract is of great assistance in the removal of sickening constipation symptoms.

When excessive accumulated waste matter disturbs and strains the muscles of the large intestines, rendering them temporarily unable to perform their wave-like evacuating movements, Theford's Black-Draught is useful in stimulating them to activity, which, again started, should continue regularly until some future disturbance interferes. In this way, Theford's Black-Draught is one of the TONIC laxatives, tending, as it does, to establish a regular habit of evacuation.

CONTROLLED PRODUCTION

The new deal at last has at last stuck the South definitely through the president's personal appeal to the cotton farmers to reduce cotton acreage by 10,000,000 acres and cotton production by at least 3,000,000 bales. The financial inducements offered to persuade the farmers to comply with the Federal program are generous and seem to be generally satisfactory to the growers of cotton. It is a safe conclusion that the South and the Southwest will fall in line with the president's appeal and make the restrictions in acreage and production as proposed.

Cotton farmers, however, should clearly understand that the present movement is merely an experiment that may be abandoned if not loyally carried out. This year's proposal is really part of a larger plan. As Mr. Cobb of the Agricultural Department recently said:

"Acreage reduction is only the beginning of a long-time plan for the control of cotton production; to bring about a better balance between supply and demand and to assure the farmer in the future a more satisfactory return for his products and a better living on his acres."

The Nation is moving into an era of controlled production in industries and agriculture. It is obvious that many other parts of the world might easily increase the amount of cotton they produce, notably Russia, India and Egypt. If the South continues to raise excessive crops of cotton, inevitably it means low prices and low living standards for the cotton farmers. The government's intention is that the cotton raised in this country shall be increasingly for home consumption and sold at fair living prices and that a steadily decreasing amount be exported at low world prices.

It may be that the new deal will prove to be really a turning point in Southern agriculture. Marginal lands should pass from use and be devoted chiefly to forestry. The depleted soil of the South should be built up through modern methods and cotton raised more scientifically so as to insure both quality and quantity per acre. Diversification of crops, living at home and the slow introduction of local industries, should accompany the movements for improvements in cotton farming. Above all, the tenant farmer should, as speedily as possible, be replaced by landowning farmers who would take pride in possessing modern homes in prosperous neighborhoods, for the sake of their children.

Let the Southwest seriously consider the present situation and co-operate with the president, not merely by conformity to this year's plans, but by aiding to bring about the new deal by working toward controlled production, scientific farming and homes fit for human beings.—Dallas News.

GAME GUY GOES UNDER KNIFE 37TH TIME

"The gamest guy in the world" is proving it again. Col. William T. Kennedy is at the Baptist hospital, New Orleans, and believed again recovering from his 37th surgical operation, since the world war. Fifteen years now the surgeons have been whittling Bill Kennedy away inch by inch.

He contracted "trench feet" in both feet and both hands in the last months of the war in France. "Endarthritis obliterans," the doctors call it. Soaked for days in a freezing mixture of mud and blood and filth in the trenches; frozen in the winter weather of France in 1918, Bill Kennedy's fingers and toes began to decompose at the tips. The sensation is the same as if a red-hot iron was laid against the flesh.

When the decomposition develops the only remedy is surgery. Bill Kennedy has lost both legs about the knees. On his right hand nothing is left but the stump of his thumb. On his left hand nothing is left but the first joint of his thumb, his first finger and his second finger. It took 37 operations to trim Bill down to this. He is officially listed as a double total war-incurred disability on the veterans' records.

But they couldn't whittle down Bill Kennedy's fighting spirit. Fourteen years ago a conference of doctors stood about Bill's bedside. They told him they knew any fighting sergeant of infantry like Bill with the A. E. F. had the courage to know the truth. He was going to die soon. They were merciful. They had ordered that Bill be given all the morphine he wanted to ease that constant burning pain.

Bill propped himself up on his elbows, lit a cigarette and grinned at them: "Oh, yeah?" said Bill. "Gonna die, huh?" You guys gonna make a hophead outa me are yuh? Listen. I'm going to your funeral yet."

Bill has been to the funerals of three of those doctors. Gov. Oscar Kelley Allen of Louisiana commissioned Bill Kennedy a colonel on his staff. What's left of Bill is driven around cheerfully grinning in an automobile.

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

ROCK SPRINGS

There were seven grown people at Sunday school Sunday morning.

I want to let Bro. Ivins know how we enjoyed his good letter in last week's paper. I hope he and his good wife are not suffering with the heat like we people out here are suffering. Write to our paper again.

Mr. Editor I heard quite a compliment passed on your paper last week.

The Fourth was a very dull day with this community. Most everyone stayed home. Some went to Brady and some to Mullin and some went to the river or creek.

I wish to express my thanks to those who helped in keeping my house, smokehouse and garage from burning last Wednesday, when my barn was burning. There were people from town, South Bennett, Center Point, Rabbit Ridge and Big Valley, who assisted in the work. The barn was a total loss. We had just stored enough feed in the barn for another winter.

We hated to see our good neighbors, J. F. Davis and wife, move to Brown county this week. We wish for them good health and good luck. Arlie Davis and wife helped to move them Monday.

Mrs. Orby Woody and daughter and Misses Fairman from town spent Thursday afternoon in the Nickols home.

J. T. Robertson and wife spent Saturday night and Sunday with their son, Douglas, and family at Lake Merritt. Mrs. Robertson stayed for a longer visit.

Charles William Ford and Charley Ford Chambers from Abilene visited in the Nickols home this week.

John Roberts and wife dined with Mr. and Mrs. Dunkle Monday.

Miss Nellie Dee Cooke from Stephenville spent the holiday at home with her father.

W. A. Daniel took his wife and Billie Ruth to Junction Monday night for a visit.

Abbie Hunt from town and Nellie D. Cooke spent the afternoon of the fourth in the McClary and Nickols homes.

Misses Cooke and McClary and Mrs. Nickols sat until bedtime Monday night with J. C. Stark and wife.

Buster Moss from San Saba county and Daley Sullivan and Shirley Nickols helped bale hay at J. O. McClary's last week.

Mrs. R. E. Clements and Owen and his sister and son spent Thursday afternoon in the Nickols home.

Mrs. Kate Sullivan and children and mother spent Sunday in San Saba county.

J. O. McClary is going to the lake lots since his wife and family are camped out there. We hope Miss McClary will gain her strength again.

Phillip Nickols came home last week from Abilene.

Beryl Vann Roberts went to Williams Ranch Sunday morning with James Nickols.

Mrs. E. L. Pass and Miss Leona from town spent the Fourth with Mr. Pass and mother.

Loy Long and wife from town spent the fourth with the Ellis and Sowers families.

The singing at J. T. Robertson's was real good last Thursday night. There were singers from Mullin, who helped to make the singing better.

Gus Roush and son from town enjoyed the Fourth with Mr. and Mrs. Dunkle and J. T. Robertson. R. C. Webb dined with Wiley Holland and wife in town last Friday.

Mrs. Lula Gatlin and Miss Love were out on the farm Tuesday afternoon.

Alton Gatlin went South to buy cotton this week.

Canning has been the hottest work in this community the last week.

We hope to get a good rain before many more days.

BEAUTY in the HOME

Modern Home Decoration

Bright Color for Lawn and Porch

THE approaching season when gliders, lawn chairs and other porch and outdoor furniture claim attention makes the above lawn scene of interest. This is particularly so on account of the modern form of upholstery used, fabrics that are very colorful and at the same time waterproof and easily cleaned. Whether left on the porch during a thunder storm or on the lawn during a shower, no damage is done.

Fabrikoid, a lacquered, moisture resistant material, is shown on chairs and glider above. The signs are many and especially this year because of the great demand for colorful as well as durable furniture. The designs include dots, squares, rings and conventionalized floral effects in various finishes including satin, crepe effects and more.

New color combinations white on vivid red background, orange on black, soft blue on orange on dark green, bright green and beige on green.

The farming section around Mullin has just about completed its 1933 threshing season. A. W. Savoy finished last week and shedded his machine for the season. Grain this season has been the shortest crop for many years. The best oats we have heard of was threshed by D. B. Eaton, making 41 bushels per acre. The best wheat was G. Y. Tomlinson's of Prairie, which made 17 1-2 bushels per acre.

The ladies of the household are as busy as the men on the farm these days, canning corn, beans, peas, potatoes, squash, and various other vegetables, and laying away food for the coming winter season. Mills county has again been blessed by a good garden season and most of our citizens will again enter the winter with a full pantry, all of which we should be extremely thankful.

ALSO AT THE EXPOSITION

Of the hundreds of thousands of visitors who are touring the exposition grounds of "A Century of Progress" in Chicago each day this summer, there are many thousands who are unaware of the great collection of world famous masterpieces that is on display in the Chicago Art Institute as a part of the exposition...

In this huge, well-lighted art museum, there has been gathered a collection of paintings and sculpture unrivalled in America, and surpassed only by the Louvre and two or three other famous European art galleries.

Reproduced on this page is an illustration of one of these famous paintings, Paolo Callari Veronese's "Marriage of St. Catherine." Though comparatively small in size, (21x34 inches), the canvas is one of the world's great works of arts. For years it hung in the gallery of Prince Lichtenstein of Vienna. It now belongs to an American who treasures it so highly that he would not permit his name to be mentioned in connection with its showing in Chicago for fear that it might attract thieves to his home after the painting has been returned.

Veronese was a painter in Venice in the sixteenth century when that fair city was at the zenith of its splendor. He excelled in the use of vivid color and graceful but virile composition. Two other paintings by the same master are also on display in Chicago, one the property of the Art Institute and the other a loan from the Ringling Museum in Sarasota, Florida.

In the same room are displayed three magnificent Titians, one of them insured for one million dollars, and all loaned to the institute for the summer. An art lover would be forced to travel all over the United States to see these famous paintings ordinarily, and many of them may not be seen by the general public under any conditions.

Probably the most notable painting in the exhibition is Whistler's famous portrait of his mother. This picture, which is also insured for a million dollars and is under armed guard day and night, is a loan from the French government. Its American painter offered it to an American art gallery for less than one thousand dollars. It was purchased by France for little more than that, and now could not be purchased for any amount. Ordinarily to see it requires a voyage to Paris.

So well arranged are the paintings and sculptures in this exhibition, and so illuminating are the lectures and guide books provided for the visitor, no prior knowledge of art is necessary for the enjoyment of these great works of art. Those who visit the "Century of Progress" and fail to see this showing of art will be the losers. For while inventions and discoveries may come and go, while science and industry may make tremendous strides, the supreme in art cannot be outclassed. This painting by Veronese, though nearly four centuries old, is yet alive with the genius that created it. Long after the temporary structures of the exposition have been torn down, the permanence of its art will give pleasure to the eye and satisfaction to the mind.

A NEW KIND OF K. K. K.

Herr Hitler, Germany's wonder man, has announced the first features of his four-year-plan. There, as here, construction of public buildings and public roads constitutes the backbone of his plan for recovery from depression and unemployment, but the feature that is attracting most comment is his plan to put the women out of public life and into the kitchen.

The three K's should take all of every woman's interest and time, the Nazis proclaim. These are "Kinder, Kirche and Kueche," or children, church and kitchen. Newly-weds will be given loans of $275 for the purchase of household supplies, if the bride will give up her job within six months after her marriage and will not go to work again until the loan has been repaid.

This scheme is supported by a tax on unmarried men and women, so the poor working girl of Germany will be taxed if she works and paid if she weds. Some 150,000 new marriages are in prospect in consequence. To encourage the employment of girls as servants in homes instead of in factories, German income tax payers may claim exemption for their women servants, just as if they were members of their families.

By the end of the four years, Chancellor Hitler confidently expects that all women will have been returned to their homes and their jobs will be filled by men, now unemployed.

Ultra-modern Germany is being brought back to the conservative Germany of the good old days. Nudist camps, where naked men, women and children abandoned all clothes and sought nature unadorned, have been closed. Unclad women have been banned from the theatres and movies, and their pictures are not permitted to be published. Herr Hitler's actions are often drastic, but that the aims he is striving for are for the best interests of Germany does not seem open to doubt.

Perhaps America may eventually find its way to a return to those ideals in which Hitler's three K's are a woman's greatest concern. It seems old-fashioned now, but it is evident that no nation can grow or prosper for long, if its women are wage-earners first and mothers last, if at all.

THE AX FALLS

Four hundred thousand veterans of the United States have received their last pay check from Uncle Sam and are wondering what will happen to them next. Although many of them were swivel chair heroes who had contracted ailments years after they had left the army, there are also many thousands who have been dealt with with unnecessary harshness.

Although forewarned two months ago that the blow was approaching, few, if any, of the veterans have been able to prepare themselves adequately for the shock that has at last arrived. That many of them will now be forced on local relief rolls is evident. Twenty-five thousand—or about one out of 16—are being enlisted in the Civilian Conservation Corps—the tree army. The other 375,000 will have to shift for themselves or depend upon already overburdened relatives and friends.

It is a serious situation, and one made doubly so by the unnecessarily lavish bestowal of pensions by the Republican congress of 1930. Tempted by the laxness of the regulations, many veterans who applied for and received compensation then, did so without being forced to it. Now that this support has been withdrawn, they find themselves in a very different world. Jobs, though increasing, are not yet easy to find, and wages are slight. What will happen as the result will give an accurate index to the character and forbearance of these former soldiers.

Perhaps the curtailment has been ruthless at first with the idea of restoring to the rolls later those who are entitled to government aid. Such procedure is simpler and easier to administer, although its humanitarianism is open to question.

THE REALM OF SCIENCE

RESIN: False Teeth Plates or Houses Made of Same Material.

Under the name of synthetic resins few persons would recognize their bakelite cigarette holders, pipe stems, beetleware bathroom tumblers, or their vinylite long-playing phonograph records. But this type of plastic material grows increasingly important each year as more uses are found for it.

Architects, ever alert for new building materials for the house of the future, have been watching developments in the plastic industry with a sharp eye. For the idea of whole rooms being molded at once from a doughy mass has appealed to them.

At the Chicago Fair they have had an opportunity to see what a resin-house would look like, and last week in Industrial and Engineering Chemistry they were able to read how it was made.

The three-room house, or apartment, at the Fair is made from vinyl resin, a product of Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corporation. Its green walls have a soft luster which will never require painting. If it is scratched the mark will not show, for the panels are the same color throughout.

The resin tiles, a green and yellow checkerboard, are exceedingly durable. They will wash easily and will not show signs of wear. The translucent resin plates in the windows are unbreakable.

Carbide and carbon, long satisfied with using their vinyl resins to make false teeth dentures, automobile steering wheels, jewel boxes, clock cases, etc., got the house building idea almost by accident.

When the Pierce Foundation set funds aside to build an ultra-modern house, utilizing only experimental materials, it was decided to use hard rubber doors. The rubber castings failed, but they retained their moulds and tried vinylite. The first attempt was successful, and two dozen were cast just to make sure that the first had not been a happy accident.

Their sturdy doors did not warp or fall in any way, so research men turned to making wall panels. Big ones, 2.5 by 8 feet, were thoroughly successful. Out of this experiment the house idea grew.

The synthetic resins are made by a variety of methods. The simplest is the carbolic acid-formaldehyde resin. When these substances are mixed, a white filtrable precipitate is evolved. A gob of this white, doughy stuff is placed in a heated mold and put under pressure, and a clear, reasonably flexible resin results.

To get any color, from a light pastel to a midnight blue, dye is added to the unpressed dough.

Health Hint

ATHLETE'S FOOT

The common disease, popularly known as Athlete's Foot, is due to a little mold-like growth or fungus. When this appears on any part of the body it is called ringworm. This fungus thrives best where there is moisture and warmth. Therefore the feet make an ideal place for the growth of this germ.

To contract Athlete's Foot, you must get the infection from some one else directly or, more commonly, indirectly. The most common places to get the infection are around shower rooms, baths or bath houses, locker rooms, gymnasias and other places used by the public, where persons go barefoot. It is probable that at least one-half of all adults suffer from it at some time.

An individual affected with ringworm of the feet, or Athlete's Foot, should be most scrupulous about having his own towels and soap, and his socks, slippers and shoes should be worn by no one else. The use of light canvas slippers in dressing rooms would probably result in a decrease in this disease.

It has frequently been noted that those going to the seashore and exposing themselves to the sun and salt water often recover in a short time. This observation has led to the use of ultra-violet light, and, under medical supervision, this remedy is often of great aid. Infected stockings, shoes and slippers should not be worn. The Texas state department of health urges everyone having this disease to visit his doctor and continue treatment until pronounced cured.

The Voice of the Press

INDUSTRY FALLS IN LINE

Co-operation in the bituminous coal industry under the national recovery act has reached its highest point since the world war, Administrator Hugh S. Johnson says.

Recognizing the problems faced by the industry in reaching a code of fair competition that would be workable in all sections, Johnson said that he was "very much encouraged by what they are doing."

Johnson, at the second press conference since his appointment, said that his administration was speeding the organization of a consumers' advisory board and that the board would be organized on the proposed code for the cotton textile industry.

The consumers' board will work side by side with boards representing employers and labor, Johnson said, in order that the interest of the entire public will be presented in the final agreement.

The administrator disclaimed any intention of setting up an industrial "czarism."

"What we want," he said, "is an industrial self-government. The problem is different now from what it was with the war industries board. I want to avoid any czaristic appearance of fact."

Discussing the coal situation, which has been the subject of numerous conferences in Chicago, Pittsburgh and Washington, Johnson said:

"That's the pineapple of this whole business. I am very much encouraged by what they are doing because it is a terrible problem. The co-operation they are showing is the greatest in that industry since the war."

Johnson said he did not know of any industry which was not trying to "get together" on a code of fair competition. He said the whole matter was going ahead much faster than he thought.

THE GREATEST OF OUR NATURAL RESOURCES

NAMING A WAR

Although it is 68 years since Lee surrendered to Grant at Appomattox, no name for the war which that historic event terminated has been proposed upon which all Americans can agree.

The term "civil war," which is most generally used, is not liked by certain elements in the south, as is pointed out by the Columbia State, while "war of secession" and "war of the rebellion" are entirely obnoxious to the people of Dixie.

For many years the United Daughters of the Confederacy have sponsored the term "war between the states," but have made a little headway in securing its adoption by writers or speakers. The term is criticised as being unwieldy, indelicate and ungrammatical.

"Whatever objections may be made by individuals or groups, it now seems that the tragic struggle of the sixties will be generally known to history as the civil war, a short name unmistakable in its meaning and implying no reflection on either North or South.

Anyway, the name is not especially important. A war by any name is just as horrible.—Stamford American.

ent, but which has been awakened at crucial hours, harnessed and transformed into power.

Tyrannies would never have been possible, in the opinion of this speaker, if there had not been back of them the will of a majority of the people. They have been overthrown as that will has been withdrawn.

The long record sustains the assertion, showing that throughout the centuries reactions of the general will have shaken and changed the world. That force, however violent it may have been at times, has been essentially democratic. The natural resource classification is new, but it is sound and justified.

President Roosevelt could make no test of his new deal program if public opinion were not strongly back of him. There is encouragement in that support to believe that the full measure of co-operation which is essential to the success of the program be accorded. The greatest of our natural resources will thus be converted into the power that is needed to assure national recovery.—Dallas Journal.

Hamilton

The young people of the Methodist church held open house Thursday night in the basement of the church. The C. C. C. army camp boys had a special invitation to attend. An entertaining program was rendered and interesting games were played.

According to Al Kinsey, night watchman, the little town of Levita, which is seven miles below Ireland, on the Cotton Belt railroad caught fire at 1 o'clock a.m. today and was thought to be completely destroyed. The post-office, the Masonic Hall and the general store burned.

Drawings for a new high school building, gymnasium and enlarged athletic field and playground has been received by R. B. Miller from the architects. The high school building will incorporate the present auditorium. The building now used as a high school would become one of the ward schools and a separate building would be erected to replace the East Ward school. The gym would be located on the northwest corner of the present school lot and additional land running south of the school will be purchased. This proposed project hinges upon a loan that is being sought through the Industrial Recovery Act. Definite information cannot be had at this time.—News.

Lampasas

The ministers of Lampasas have arranged to conduct services for the men at Camp Miriam.

The Lampasas Wolf Club meets Saturday, July 8, at 3 o'clock in the court house at Lampasas.

The canner, operated by the school here, is doing lots of canning for the people around Lampasas and the part kept by the school will be used to operate the school kitchen next winter.

Sheriff A. R. Harvey returned Wednesday from points in Mississippi, where he has been visiting with relatives for a few days. Mr. Harvey says Lampasas county looks better to him than any county he has been through.

Some of the men in Camp Miriam discovered a copperhead snake around their tent Monday night and in a short time killed it. They were examining the snake and pried its mouth open and one of the men was very close to the snake's head and it spit venom into one of his eyes. The man's eye was washed out with an antiseptic and he suffered no ill effects from the poison in the eye.

Deputy Sheriffs Long and Ramsey recovered a car Thursday afternoon, which stolen last Friday from a parking lot of the Belton Motor Co. The car was discovered on the Santiago Garza place on the Lampasas river. The man suspected of stealing the car has not been arrested yet, but the officers expect to capture him in a short time. The car was a Ford coupe and was being driven by the Bell county judge.—Leader.

Thousands of Women Have Taken Cardui on Their Mothers' Advice

It is an impressive fact that many women have said they learned of the value of Cardui from their mothers. What stronger evidence of her confidence in a medicine could a mother have than that she advises her daughter to take it? Cardui is given the credit for relieving "so many" cases of womanly suffering that it is widely and favorably known. Druggists, everywhere, sell it. If you are weak, run-down, suffering monthly, take Cardui. Take it for a reasonable length of time and you will be thoroughly. As your health improves, you will share the satisfaction of thousands of women who have written to say: "Cardui saved me!"

Brownwood

A consignment of bass, ranging from three to eight inches in length, were placed in Lake Brownwood Wednesday. The fish were from the Cisco hatchery and represented all available fish when four of the six ponds at the Cisco state hatchery were drained.

The Taxpayers League of Brown county will hold a meeting in the district court room in Brownwood, July 15, according to announcement of W. R. Chambers of May, president of the League. The purpose of the meeting will be a general discussion of the four constitutional amendments before the voters of Texas at the special election August 26.

The first 24 farmers signing cotton acreage retirement contracts in Brown county showed a decided preference for the contract calling for part cash with an option on government owned cotton at 6 cents per pound. Only three of the 24 requested all cash settlement, while 21 preferred to take chances on receiving more money through the sale of government cotton at higher prices.

One employee of the Brownwood postoffice faces immediate retirement, and at least two others may be retired within a few years, as a result of the recently enacted federal involuntary retirement bill, it was learned this week, when a bulletin was received at the local postoffice explaining the provisions of the bill. The new bill provides for the payment of those involuntary retired $100 a month less 3 1-2 per cent, or $96.50 per month. It is left to the discretion of the local postmaster whether the provisions of the bill are put in effect in his postoffice. The purpose of the bill is to create more federal jobs. — Banner-Bulletin.

HARD LINES FOR PANHANDLERS

The very world activity that might be expected to continue its thriving in a depression is now in a decided slump. No late reports have come to hand on the workings of Mussolini's laws against begging, but winter tourists come back with stories of the virtual disappearance of the crowds with their hands out that used to assail visitors throughout Italy and that were especially annoying in Naples. Kemal enacted severe penalties against begging in Turkey and after a few months a survey showed that not only had the swarms of whining mendicants decreased almost to the vanishing point, but that tourists in Constantinople had increased remarkably.

The increase being attributed directly to the decrease in the former, the Egyptian council of ministers adopted the anti-begging code, for Egypt needs tourists this year. It is too much to hope that the appeals for backsheesh will entirely cease along the Nile and in the vicinity of the pyramids, but they will be heard in single, clandestine cries and not in the former swelling choruses.

Both the elevated and subway lines in New York have posted warnings that panhandlers are prohibited from asking alms in their cars and stations and will be arrested, and placards request passengers not to respond to pleas for aid. "It is a mistaken kindness to give to beggars," the companies say, intimating that donations will probably be spent for drink, as welfare efforts suffice for the really needy.

We have had some great years for panhandling, but evidently more discrimination between the just and unjust, the deserving and undeserving is coming.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Claiming he stole $7000 of her late husband's insurance money, Mrs. Helen Baker asked to have Michael arrested of Johnston, Pa. Police found him in Gary, Ind., and took him back, but now they say charges probably will be dropped. Soraka and Mrs. Baker got married.

The pecan crop is going to be very poor this year, is the opinion of most pecan authorities in the Mason section. They claim the walnut moths and leaf worms are very bad. The scale is bad, too, and where trees have not been sprayed or treated, not much hope is entertained for many nuts.

Rescinding a specific demand for removal of General Frank T. Hines, as director-general of the veterans' bureau, the Disabled American Veterans of the world war convention at Cincinnati adopted a resolution criticizing "all those responsible" for adoption of the administration's national economy act.

The Texas railroad commission ruled it was without authority to regulate the interchange of freight on through bills of lading between rail lines and motor truck lines. The effect of the decision was that the commission cannot forbid such interchange or supervise it if carried on by licensed operators.

Wheat at $48 a bushel was predicted by Wilbur Glenn Voliva, religious sect leader, who believes the earth is flat. Voliva made his forecast at the mid-week prayer meeting in Zion City, Ill., and said the $48 wheat would come as the result of seven years of drought. He said the grain would become so scarce it would be doled out in handfuls.

The Jackson county, Texas, jail holds an unusual prisoner—a negro facing a charge of breaking "into" jail. The negro, who has long worked for the sheriff was arrested and charged with breaking into the jail building. While the sheriff was at a show someone was observed trying to break into one of the windows. The sheriff was notified and the negro discovered and arrested.

The federal farm credit administration at Washington has made no provision to allow fall seed loans to Texas farmers, according to word received. The only agency through which such loans may be secured is the regional Agricultural Credit Corporation office, the advices said. Loans by the government this year are being made only on crops which are harvested within the present year, said the advices.

For the first time in many years a counterfeit United States one-cent piece has made its appearance, and so perfect in workmanship is it, that an examination with a magnifying glass almost failed to detect any irregularity. It was only when the coin was dropped that the counterfeit was noticeable. Federal officials do not believe it is the work of a real counterfeiter, but that some one made a duplicate penny at a cost much greater than a cent.

In the same gold room of a Broadway, New York, funeral church, in which Rudolph Valentino's body lay seven years ago, while thousands outside fought for a glimpse of the noted screen actor's face, the body of Fatty Arbuckle was placed Friday afternoon, there to remain until funeral services and cremation on Saturday. Arbuckle, who had been attempting a "comeback" from the blight that fell on his career as the result of the death of an actress during a gay party in 1921, died in his sleep in his room in a New York hotel.

THE LATEST FAD

IS WHOLESOME

Suddenly and unheralded, the bicycle has staged a comeback on Dallas streets. Youngsters, middle-agers and oldsters alike have gone in for the good old sport with enthusiasm. Wheels are being mobilized for hire on strategic outdoor corners, and the enterprising mobiliers are doing a lucrative business. In the early morning and late afternoon hours, and more thickly after nightfall, the outlying thoroughfares are lures for many individual cyclists and merry wheeling parties.

It is because bicycling yields pleasure and physical benefits that the fad may last longer than most that have made appeal to a people always ready for some new form of entertainment. There is no finer exercise or any form of locomotion that is more desirable. But it must be apparent to the observant citizen that the increase in this type of vehicle has created a new traffic hazard, and that a need has developed for the exercise of greater vigilance by motorists and bicyclists alike.

The fact that there are city ordinances that require the registration and lighting of bicycles which operate within the limits of Dallas has been impressed upon the public. Lights are a protective essential, in Dallas proper, and the requirement that they be installed on bicycles is reasonable. All who are interested in the fad, either as followers or as business men, should remember that these ordinances are in existence. If bicycles grow thicker and thicker on the city streets it may become necessary to enforce the requirements. — Dallas Journal.

DOLLAR WHEAT; DIME COTTON

Natural forces, much more than the allotment plan and the processing tax, are at the foundation of the sharp rise in the price of wheat. For the first time in three years options sold in the Chicago Board of Trade for more than $1 a bushel.

For the sensational rise in the price of wheat, recent crop damage due to extreme heat and drought is responsible.

Three months ago the price of wheat began to advance because of reduced sowing of winter wheat in all important producing nations. With other basic commodities wheat was then lifted another step up the ladder by the Farm Relief Act, with its inflation rider. Comes now the third factor, and for the moment more powerful one, severe crop damage.

Dollar wheat then, as dramatic as it is, does not spell unimixed blessing to the wheat grower. Its portent for general economic improvement is not entirely favorable because of the small harvest and the relatively low money value of the crop.

But dollar wheat and the advance in other grains likely to follow will probably render unnecessary for the present at least resort to the processing taxes and to other features of the program designed to push up the price of farm products.

The sharp increase in the price of cotton is due to a rapid expansion of operation in the manufacturing industry and to the report from Washington that the president is sponsoring a program involving destruction of at least one-fourth of the growing crop. Rather more than any other industry, cotton manufacturing has been stepped up sharply in anticipation of the processing taxes, and as a consequence consumption has lately reached theoretical normal. If it remains there will be no occasion for crop destruction or for other measures of price restoration.

From the broad economic point of view, the rise in the price of cotton is a more favorable development than that in wheat. It is based upon a greatly increased demand for a basic product.—Cleveland Plain Dealer

Submission of a code of fair competition for the women's apparel industry is expected to give a postholiday impetus to the campaign to bring America's industries into the national recovery campaign as rapidly as possible. The apparel code will be followed quickly by attempts to effect trade agreements for iron and steel, oil, coal, automobiles, woollens and lumber.

The 15 per cent reduction in the salaries of all government employees was extended to Dec. 31, Wednesday by President Roosevelt in an executive order. The extension from July 1 was made after a study of the “costs of living” index for the six months ending June 30. The cost of living for that period was 23.9 per cent lower than for the base period, namely the six months ending June 30, 1928.

The mobilization record of the army during the early period of the world war was exceeded by the Civilian Conservation corps, which on July 1, had 250,000 men in forest work camps. Orders calling 150 reserve officers to active duty with the civilian conservation corps for 60 days of service are being issued from San Antonio headquarters.

church and state, which so often pressed upon us for solution. I do not know that ever settled anything and moreover we always felt disposed to feel that if we did, they did not stay settled and if they stayed settled they were not settled right. But this never discouraged us. We were usually on the job again at our first meeting in an attempt to fix the thing up, no matter what it was—from predestination to the settlement of things more modern—beer sale, light wine and heavy whisky and the best means of distributing to a thirsty public, who proposed to aid the world back to prosperity.

Evins did not say as much, but, reading between the lines, a gambler would bet that that gentleman would like to be back among the fleshpots of these hills. He longs, I am sure to be here where he can poke fun at people, take any kind of a joke in good part or else leave the town because of his lack of appreciation of a good joke.

I overheard a conversation between two of our worthies a few days ago. The subject was the merits of the Eagle, more especially an occasional scribbler. One of the wise men said: “I ain't read it yet, but I am sure it some foolishness any way.” Correst, as a matter of fact that is just about the intent and purpose of that part of the Eagle make-up.

ANTI-TRUST LAWS

Whether or not enabling legislation is effected in Texas to permit a let-down in the enforcement of the anti-trust laws and afford participation in the national industrial recovery act meant little to labor, industry and business in Dallas Wednesday as they continued their plans for a 100 per cent co-operation with President Roosevelt's business revival program.

While some leaders think that a suspension of the state's anti-trust laws will be necessary before it can take a part in the Nation-wide project, others coincide with the belief expressed by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, administrator of the recovery program, who points out that federal statutes supersede state statutes that may be in conflict.

Whatever the case may be, local co-operation is not worrying about the result and steps are being taken for participation. Belief has been expressed that if the Texas anti-trust laws are not suspended the Attorney General will not make a case against any organization or individual in its or his effort to comply with the national emergency act.—Dallas Journal

WE MUSTN'T IMPOSE ON UNCLE SANTA CLAUS

This idea of plowing up cotton and addressing your Santa Claus letter to Washington is getting complicated. County agents report that the farmer's guess of how much cotton he would make if he didn't promise to plow it under is by no means modest. Half bale to the acre cotton is as common as dry weather—to hear the farmers tell it.

The gimme-gimmes are a contagious disease. If the farmers caught it they caught it in town—you can put your John Henry to that in affidavit form. But the gimme-gimmes bring a headache sooner or later.—Dallas Journal.

Hud Hamilton has accepted a position with the Saylor Chevrolet Co.

O. H. Yarborough is able to be about his business, after suffering several days with an infection in his leg.

Don't forget the Eagle will receive contributions to have Texas properly represented at the World's fair. The quota is one cent for each citizen of the town.

Wilbur Fairman and family are arranging to leave either today or in the next few days for Chicago, to see the Century of Progress exposition. They will likely make the trip in their car.
