

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

VOLUME THIRTY-NINE

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, AUGUST 25, 1933.

NUMBER FIFTY-TWO.

Cotton Contracts Being Completed

We are advised by the county agent's office that 643 cotton benefit contracts have been completed and forwarded to Washington. More than seventy are being held for notices of acceptance from Washington or for farmers to complete destruction of the cotton. It is not known how soon checks may be expected, but likely by the end of this week or early next week.

Notice to Wheat Growers

W. P. Weaver, county agent, left Tuesday for Mineral Wells to attend a three day's meeting of wheat growers and representatives of the department of agriculture. At this meeting county agents will receive a full explanation of the plan and upon their return the last of the week, will begin organization of farmers who desire to reduce acreage and receive the benefits.

Emergency Hog Control

The county agent is advised that Texas growers may participate in emergency hog control program. The price to be paid for pigs weighing from 25 to 100 pounds will be from $6 to $9 per hundred weight, with lighter pigs at higher prices. If satisfactory arrangements can be made with backing plants, a premium of $4 per head above market price will be paid for bred sows, weighing not less than 275 lbs. Traders and speculators will not be allowed to participate in these premiums.

Farmers who need hogs to provide their meat should procure some of these sows from governmental agencies, for after their destruction hog products will be much higher than at present. The Eagle feels sure County Agent Weaver can give all desired information and will be of much service in procuring sows for those who need them.

Voters Handle Three Tickets

The tickets and other election supplies have been sent to the twenty voting boxes in the county and all is in readiness for holding the election Saturday. This will perhaps be the first time many of the voters have ever been called upon to handle more than one ticket in an election and in this election three tickets are provided. The longest is that requiring the selection of delegates to a state convention to cast the state's vote on the question of retention or abolition of the eighteenth amendment — the prohibition amendment. The second refers to the state constitutional amendments and the small ticket is on the subject of allowing 3.2 beer sold in this county or prohibiting it. This last question is submitted with the proviso that the eighteenth amendment is abolished, otherwise it will not be effective.

Voters who are not advised on amendments should look up their copy of the Eagle of the latter part of May, in which the amendments were published. The ticket carrying the names of those for and against the eighteenth amendment appeared in this paper last week and is easily obtainable by those who are not informed or do not understand its voting.

It is important that all voters carry their poll tax receipts or exemption certificates to the polls with them, in order to save time and trouble for the election officials.

ASSOCIATION MEETING AT TRIGGER MOUNTAIN

The Baptist association held a very interesting meeting at Trigger Mountain beginning last Friday night and continuing through Sunday. G. W. Jackson was re-elected moderator and J. L. Stewart was elected clerk. The next annual meeting of the association will be held with the Goldthwaite church.

Methodist Notes

In spite of the excessive heat and the absence of the pastor, the Methodist church was well filled at both the morning and evening hours last Sunday. It is always a disappointment for people to come to church to hear the pastor and then be compelled to listen to a rather prosy substitute, but the Methodist folk are loyal to their church, rather than to the man who may be in the pulpit. In nothing have they manifested this loyalty in a more beautiful way than in the patience with which they listened last Sunday.

Bro. Hammond will return from his vacation this week. He will be in his pulpit at both the morning and evening hours next Sunday. Let all our people show their loyalty and appreciation by giving him a full house at both morning and evening hours.

We learn from a reliable source that Bro. Swanner, pastor of the Baptist church, is to wear the new off that new car of his in a trip to his old haunts in Kentucky. In addition to a visit among the friends and relatives of his youth, he is to hold a meeting for the home folk some place in the region of Middleborough. Personally, this Pharisee almost envies him the trip, as he once practiced his very poor ability as a preacher in that section of the great old state. That, however, has been so long ago, that it seems like ancient history. We trust that Bro. Swanner may have a fine visit and may hold a great meeting. I am sure that unless there has been a great change in the religious life of that section since this writer was there nearly a half century ago, like Mammoth Cave, there is a great opening there.

Lost, strayed or stolen, one perfectly good pastor of the Church of Christ of this city. He answers to the name of Hoover. The supposition is that he is out some place in the not far distant regions holding meetings and having a great time. No reward is offered as we all know he will return before winter. If a reward is claimed for his discovery and return, you will collect from Joe Curtis.

Prof. Smith is about as busy these days as the average candidate. He is getting everything in shape for the opening of school, September 11.

I sometimes wonder if the average American is conscious of the importance of the school and its depth of meaning to the future of our citizenship.

The citizenship of the coming generation depends upon the home, the church and school. If we could only get this truth upon our minds as we should, we certainly would have a greater interest in the wellbeing of these institutions than ever before.

Of these three institutions the home is probably the one that should be of the greatest concern. If there is a break down in the church the entire institution may soon be righted because of (Continued on page 8)

Highway Work Not Yet Started

No highway grading or hard surfacing has yet been authorized in Mills county by the highway commission, and it is not known when such work will be started. Fences have been set back to provide for the 100-foot right-of-way required along much of the distance, and cement curbing has been set along the streets in this city through which the highways pass. Since no contract has been announced and the indications are that considerable time will elapse before the hard surfacing is done, the ditches made for the curbing have been filled with dirt taken from them, but it is loose and its removal will not require much time or expense.

The people along the routes are hopeful that the commission will contract for the highway building as soon as possible.

GOING AWAY PARTY AT LAKE MERRITT

Under the leadership of Mrs. M. H. Fletcher, a number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Dew entertained in their honor at Lake Merritt Tuesday evening, prior to their departure next Tuesday by airship for Chicago, to see the Century of Progress exposition.

Guests were bidden to assemble at 7 o'clock and each was assigned a portion of the menu to provide, hence the arrivals were without delay and the spread was one of the most delightful ever enjoyed at the popular club picnic grounds.

A long table was arranged and provided with electric lights from the club plant and soon after the arrival of the honorees the ladies of the party busied themselves with the preparation of the cold drinks, arranging the plates and viands. When all was in readiness an invitation was issued to gather around the table and a second bidding was not necessary. It was said there were thirty-six in the gathering and it was indeed a pleasant assembly.

After supper some time was spent in pleasant conversation, then a number took advantage of the opportunity to refresh themselves with a swim in the lake, while others contented themselves with watching the swimmers and an exchange of pleasantries with them.

At a late hour those present extended good wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Dew for a pleasant trip to the fair and safe return home and the assembly dispersed, after expressing to Mrs. Fletcher their thanks for an opportunity to participate in such a delightful event.

Married In East Texas

Elder Eris A. Ritchie of Tampa, Fla., and Miss Mary Ethel Tackett, registrar of a college in Nashville, Tenn., were married at the home of her parents at Troupe, after which they came here for a visit in the home of his father, Joe Ritchie, and while here he will fill the pulpit next Sunday for Elder Hoover.

County Board Holds Session

The county school board held an important session in the court house Wednesday and it was attended by representatives of a good many schools. The meeting was for the purpose of discussing some of the changes in the requirements of schools receiving state aid, as well as in the classification of rural schools. Some of the rulings and requirements are not fully understood by the trustees and teachers and the entire day was taken up in discussing and explaining all these matters. It is possible some of the new plans are not fully understood yet and another meeting may have to be held later.

Much Mohair Being Marketed

Goldthwaite is recognized as one of the best wool and mohair markets in this part of Texas, as is evidenced by the amount being brought in. Shearing is under way in all parts of this and adjoining counties and the market price makes it certain that considerable money will be put in circulation because of this crop.

The following program will be rendered Sunday morning by Philathea class at the Methodist church, in the general assembly of the Sunday school.

NEW COTTON CROP MOVING TO MARKET

The new cotton crop is being moved to market rapidly and announcement of receipts and price is being made in all parts of the cotton growing section. The yield is reported to be pretty good and the plant is much better than could have been expected, when it has grown and produced with so little rain.

The plow-up campaign has undoubtedly greatly reduced the crop and has been helpful to the price.

Goldthwaite is recognized as one of the best cotton markets in the state and the farmers have learned that they can depend upon our buyers paying them as much as the staple is worth in any local market.

A number of bales have been brought in this week and the price has been better than 9c. It is hard to guess just what the market will do, but the cotton growers in this section will be safe in bringing their cotton to Goldthwaite.

Corpus Christi's New Paper

A copy of the Corpus Christi Eagle, published tri-weekly by the Eagle Publishing Co. of that city, with Dr. Em Wilson as managing editor, has been received at this office and the management of this newspaper, together with all the friends here of Dr. Wilson and family, extends hearty good wishes for our namesake. The Wilson family published the Eagle in Goldthwaite nine years and proved their ability as newspaper folk and built on the foundation of high regard already established. Wilson and the other members of his family are valuable citizens of any community and are always enterprising and energetic, looking to the advancement of public interests. Success and prosperity to the Corpus Christi Eagle.

Eris A. Ritchie of Tampa, Fla., will speak at the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning. All members and friends are cordially invited to be present at 10 o'clock for Bible study and at 11 for the regular services.

Takes 2 Games

Help us make it 300 in Sunday school Sunday. I am anxious that every member of our church be present Sunday morning and night. Mrs. Swanner and I will be leaving for a meeting in my home church in Kentucky, early Monday morning. We are especially anxious to see you Sunday. We will be away two Sundays.

While we are away Bro. Roy Durnal and wife of Rogers, Texas, will occupy the pastorium, and supply at the regular preaching hours, also the mid-week services. He is a graduate of Baylor university and has had two and one-half years work in the Baptist seminary at Fort Worth. You will enjoy hearing him at every service.

H. Grady Harlan's State College quartette of San Marcos will give an hour of sacred music at the Baptist church Saturday evening at 8 o'clock. This is a concert organization of college students, singing two to four concerts weekly, driving and averaging fifty thousand miles annually over every section of Texas and adjoining states. If you appreciate good music you will enjoy this program.

FRANKLIN E. SWANNER.

Another Good Rain Falls Thursday

Rain commenced to fall here shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday morning and continued at intervals throughout the day. While the precipitation was not heavy at any time and the measurement of the water would not reach a high figure, the crops and pastures were greatly benefited by it and the farm land was put in good condition. Row crops and fall feed of all kinds will be much better because of this rain and it is possible that late cotton may be benefited.

School Board Transacts Business

The Goldthwaite school board met Monday night and adopted a budget for the school, selected the Trent State Bank as depository for the school funds for the next two years and transacted other business of a routine nature.

Mills county baseball fans and their visitors were treated last week to three of the most interesting and thrilling ball games that have ever been played on the Fair Park diamond. Due to the cancellation of the horse races just before the fair the baseball games were the stellar afternoon attraction and each game found the grandstand filled and a good crowd on the sidelines. More interest was displayed by the town people in this three-game series than ever before, and the business men cooperated by closing their stores each day at 2:30 that everyone could attend the ball games. For the three games Goldthwaite's opponents were Dr. Pepper from Brownwood, McAnalley's Bend and Evant—three strong teams that can hold their own with any town. Goldthwaite lost the first game in the tenth inning and proceeded to win the next two by stirring ninth inning rallies. For the series Goldthwaite and their opponents made exactly the same number of hits and runs. Goldthwaite made 17 runs and 33 hits and their opponents scored a like number.

Goldthwaite 2—Dr. Pepper 5

By scoring three runs in their half of the tenth inning the Brownwood team won a hard-earned victory over the Goldthwaite crew on the opening day of the fair. Going into the tenth with the score tied at 2-all, the visitors capitalized three runs on two singles, a double, an error and a fielders choice.

In their half of the tenth inning Goldthwaite was unable to get a run across. Heath tripled, after two were out, but was left stranded, when Wilcox fanned to end the game.

Brooks Page, the ace of the Brownwood pitching staff, hurled for Dr. Pepper and pitched a nice game, being very stingy with hits in the pinches. No record was kept of men left on bases, but Goldthwaite exceeded in this department by a big majority. Page struck out 10 batsmen and issued no walks. He had a good fast ball which he mixed with his curve effectively, and he held the pace all during the game — even getting better as he went along.

Johnson, pitching for Goldthwaite, struck out three and did not walk a man. His delivery was combed for 11 heats, which proves he wasn't as good as usual. Without any errors behind him Johnson might have won this game, but it is doubtful as the Dr. Pepper boys were getting to him every inning. Goldthwaite scored first by some pretty base running by Elmo Littlepage. First up in the third Littlepage beat out an infield tap—he slid into third on a single by McLean and beat the throw home by an eyelash on Hamilton's hit to the infield. For the locals Heath with a single and a triple and McLean with two singles led the batting attack while Hodges and Hoague for the Brownwood team starred with the stick. Hodges hit in the sixth that was held to a double by ground ruling, was one of the longest hit balls seen this season.

Hollis Blackwell took Jones' place at shortstop for the last four innings and fielded the ball well, but didn't get a hit in his two appearances at the plate. The story of this game would not be complete without relating the diving, somersaulting catch of Hud Hamilton. He came in fast on a hump-backed liner, got the ball about four inches off the ground then turned completely over and came up with the ball. Had this ball gotten away from Hamilton the game would no doubt have been salted away right there, as there were two men on base at the time and both could have easily scored.

Goldthwaite 7—Bend 5

For the fan who likes to see the batting and plenty of it, the second day of the fair would have been their pleasure day.

Supt. Tolbert Patterson of the Mullin schools was a visitor to the city Tuesday and made the Eagle an appreciated call. LIENDO, THE HOME OF ELIZABET NEY

Liendo, a landmark that should be a treasure to Texas, lies dilapidated and obscure — it is none other than the home of Elizabeth Ney, noted sculptress and her philosopher husband, Dr. Edmund Duncan Montgomery. This brilliant couple purchased the Groce plantation, after its builder and owner, Leonard Groce, had lost his slaves with the fall of the Southern Confederacy in 1865.

So extensive were the grounds about it and so limited the knowledge of southern agricultural practices of this European couple that poverty soon mingled with aristocracy and no doubt darkened the once hospitable home, so that its occupants sought solace in other channels — Elizabeth Ney found her place in the realm of art and was commissioned to execute a number of models of Texas heroes, for example, Stephen F. Austin. Her husband became "the Hermit Philosopher and Scientist of Liendo," corresponding with European notables and becoming famous on the Continent. This correspondence unfortunately was destroyed by the old German nurse, 'Cencie,' upon his death. Southern Methodist University has placed a marker over this grand old aristocrat, who sleeps in the rose garden of yore beside his famous Elizabeth. His tombstone carries the dates of 1835-1911, while his wife's massive red granite slab is dated 1834-1907.

Let us visit Liendo with its old memories. One needs only to follow the first lane on the left of the Austin - Houston highway, about one-half mile out of Hempstead, Waller county, and he cannot fail to cross three small creeks—the second of which leads one to the forks of the road and by taking the right hand road and now crossing the third creek, we find ourselves at the Geo. E. Harris mail box and pasture gate. Do not feel lost here, when you do not face a palatial home, but keep the right lane again and within half mile into what seemingly brings one into a thicket, concealed behind over-grown foliage and hovering branches of aged moss-covered oaks. Liendo stands in its pride. The extensive lawn shaded by enormous oaks is bordered by Spanish daggers. The mass of buckeye and poison ivy lend an appearance of general neglect to the grounds. Even the iron fence surrounding the graves is over-grown with this ivy.

Directly in front of the square pillared structure are the remains of the sun dial, although, one would hardly recognize it as such—the dial having been removed and sent to the museum at Huntsville. (Very likely at Sam Houston College Museum. I will look for it there on my next trip to Huntsville.) Upon entering the grim mansion, greying with age, we find its beams are strong and steady, yet it is eighty years old. On the right we enter the dismal room and view the colonial fireplace, said to have been the pyre of Elizabeth Ney's first child, whose ashes were buried with his father in 1811, after having remained in an urn in the room closed for many, many years. In this room, too, one becomes acquainted with Miss Ney's art—a beautiful bust model of herself as a young woman. Another attraction of beauty is the artistic rose medallion in the center of the ceiling and the frescoes on either side of the mantel, that were done by an itinerant artist during the Groce ownership.

We mount the steep staircase at the rear of the hall and come on to a cool veranda on the upper story. To our left we enter Miss Ney's bedroom, where one sees her enlarged photograph. The strength and determination revealed in her face are indicative of a strong will, while her dark curly hair, eyes and classic nose pronounce her outstanding beauty as a young woman. The mother's narrow home-made chaise lounge is found in the northeast corner, while her baby's cradle and son's small four-poster bed with draperies and coverlet of rose are nearby. Across the hall is the doctor's bedroom, quite comfortable and spacious, though less adorned than his wife's.

When departing we linger once more to gaze on Liendo in its fading majesty. Shall it perish? It is an epic of Texas history and a landmark that we must not forget. Let us keep Liendo alive for posterity.

FRANCES M. STONEHAM, July 28, 1933.

A Visit to Liendo.

By Mrs. R. M. Thompson

This writer, in company with several other ladies, just recently had the pleasure of a visit to the old Colonel Groce estate, just out a short way from Hempstead, which later became the welcome retreat for the famous sculptress, Elizabeth Ney, and her famous scientist husband, Dr. Montgomery.

The isolation and splendor of the old place caught the imagination of the couple and for 40 years it was their home, altho Elizabeth Ney established an art studio in Austin, which was the beginning of art education in Texas, and lived there alone for the last fifteen years of her life.

Mr. and Mrs. George Harris came from South Dakota and purchased Liendo in 1910, three years after Elizabeth Ney's death in 1907, and nine months before Dr. Montgomery's death, with the stipulation that rooms be reserved for himself and faithful old servant, Cencie.

Dr. Montgomery left a wonderful library of his scientific writings and in March, 1930, the Harris family gave the Montgomery library to Southern Methodist University and on April 17, 1931, the University placed a bronze plaque on the grave stone at Liendo plantation honoring the man who slept beneath.

Liendo is already a place of pilgrimage. Week after week, year in and year out, Mrs. Harris, in her pleasant and amiable manner, entertains the guests and tells them all the details of the lives of the notables, with which she is familiar.

Liendo might as well be a museum instead of a private home," says Mrs. Harris, so many visitors and sometimes a few are not appreciative of her kindness in showing them the things that hold so much interest to the people of Texas.

HERE'S ONE GOOD WAY TO END AGONY OF NEURITIS

Newark Man Knows How and Loses 10 Pounds.

"Gentlemen: I used Kruschen Salts to try and get rid of Neuritis from which I had suffered for one year in my left shoulder and arm. . . I took a little of the salts in the morning, sometimes in my coffee, other times in water. I would also occasionally take a dose in water at night before retiring. For 3 months I used the salts and while I lost 10 pounds in weight, the pain in my shoulder HAS ENTIRELY DISAPPEARED. During the time I was taking the salts I received no other medical treatment so I am fully convinced the Kruschen Salts did the trick."—C. K. Murray, Newark, N. J.

Take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning—a jar lasts 4 weeks—get it as any druggist in the world—costs but a trifle.

A GOVERNMENT CLAIM

Secretary Wallace announces that southern cotton farmers who participated in the cotton reduction campaign this year will be required to pay back debts to the government amounting to less than $10,000,000 out of the $110,000,000 they will receive in benefit payments.

The secretary of agriculture told newspaper men that a check by the farm credit administration and farm adjustment administration financial experts had shown that less than 10 per cent of the funds would be affected by debts the farmer owes the government for feed, seed and other federal loans in the past.

The ruling on the back debts owed by cotton producers was that they would be asked to pay a part of this debt out of their money from the cotton benefit payment if their financial condition permitted.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Wheat planters who intend to reduce their crops in accordance with President Roosevelt's agricultural program may go ahead and plant at least 80 per cent of their average acreage without conflicting with the contract, agricultural adjustment administration officials said this week.

According to Secretary Wallace the department of agriculture will buy from farmers enough light hogs and sows to remove 600,000,000 to 700,000,000 of live pork from the fall and winter market. The total reduction may amount to 1,800,000,000 pounds of live hogs, or 16 per cent of normal production. Wallace said such a reduction should increase hog prices 25 to 30 per cent.

The vice president of one of Denver's largest banks, wants it known that he is not selling false teeth as a sideline. He has been receiving pleading, even threatening letters, from persons throughout Colorado, demanding that he rush delivery on teeth ordered by the writers. Police are seeking swindlers who have been using the banker's name in connection with some sort of tooth-selling racket.

A Shackelford county woman is determined to have the last word in a difference with the husband of another woman. She has taken her conviction for simple assault to the court of criminal appeals. She was accused of entering the home of the couple and assaulting the husband by "hitting him and pulling his hair." Rather than pay the $10 fine assessed her in the Shackelford county court, she is going to the higher courts in an effort to secure exoneration.

A communication from Paris, France, says that the largest clock in the world is now being planned for the great Eiffel tower which serves as post meteorological observations and broadcasting station. It will have no hands and will consist of two clock dials, one facing in the direction of the Concorde bridge and the other toward Trocadero. The hour will be indicated by a line of electric lights so that it will be visible for some distance, at least from three miles off. The clock will be placed at a height of 650 feet and will be 65 feet in diameter.

Wheat farmers who reduce acreage under President Roosevelt's recovery program will receive cash without any deduction for governmental indebtedness, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace announces. Wheat growers will have about $100,000,000 coming to them from processing taxes. The legal department adjustment administration ruled that the governmental liens on the wheat crop do not require deductions. Hence wheat checks will be issued directly to wheat farmers. About $10,000,000 out of $110,000,000 going to cotton farmers for acreage reduction will be held up because of indebtedness to the government. A legal distinction, said Wallace, between the cotton and wheat debts accounts for the difference in handling checks.

Overcoming one of the greatest difficulties in life—that of blindness—a 17-year-old Oxford undergraduate, has crowned a brilliant scholastic career by gaining first class honors in the final history examinations for the university degree. She was born blind, was still a pupil at Chorley Wood College—the public school run by the National Institute for the Blind—when she achieved remarkable success of winning an open scholarship at Lady Margaret Hall, Oxford. During her first year in residence at the university she underwent an operation for appendicitis, but five days later she sat successfully for "Pass mods." As she is unable to read ordinary printed matter all the textbooks required in her work at the university have been transcribed into Braille for her by volunteers—attached to the Institute of the Blind.

CASH VALUE OF SAFETY

While the most important phase of the accident problem is obviously the unnecessary toll of deaths and injuries, there is another phase that should not be overlooked—the economic one.

Every accident costs money. Every accident places a burden upon the average pocketbook, and the total of costs for a year runs into many millions. Accident prevention, as a result, pays cash dividends.

In industry it has been the inevitable experience that a low accident rate is accompanied by higher efficiency. When a great many accidents occur in an industry, the morale of workers is seriously impaired. There is a distinct slowing down in their operations. There is discontent—that most potent of all disturbers. And there is very likely a red-link showing at the end of the month or the quarter.

STYLES IN NEW YORK

Coiffure Important in Fall Hat Mode

A hat this season is only as smart as the coiffure it reveals, which accounts for the style interest in the new ways with side and back curls, and the vogue for bangs as seen in New York's smartest beauty salons. In many cases, correct coiffures are being demonstrated with the hats, showing how to make the most of these rakishly-tilted, high-pitched turbans, toques, forward moving berets and visor brims. Tips on the fall coiffure, with hats in mind, stress the importance of bangs, not the old-fashioned curtain-hanging type, but light, thin, airy bangs, arranged usually on one side or the other, leaving the center of forehead open. Also, light side curls and waves are featured—these placed higher, revealing at least half of the ear, and, at the back, soft, close-fitting curls, swirls and waves, also in higher arrangement, leaving a straight-across clean-cut neckline with no peaks, buns, rolls or sausage curls.

Discreet combs, clips and bandeaux are featured in some stylings, particularly for the evening mode—serving not only to give a decorative touch but to keep curls and waves in place.

Generally speaking, hair is shorter, usually not more than three inches on top, two inches on the sides and for bangs, and even shorter in the back.

Novelty Fabrics Mark Smart Fall Hats.

Novelty fabrics, including many of the new silk and rayon versions of velvet and satin, are featured in the smartest hat displays now seen in New York, these particularly in the various beret and turban interpretations. The new waterproofed velvets are important, also the new ribbed velvets and satins and novelty woolsens in tweed effects. In all, one notes attention given to line and detail. When trimming is used, it is very discreetly chosen—often a cleverly-placed metal or composition clip, or perhaps a lacquered quill. The beret, which is first in style importance just now, often features multiple-stitched sections, which give the real "milliner" aspect.

Fabrics Vie With Leathers in Smart Fall Shops.

The trend for fabrics in the shoe mode increases—vying in interest with that of leathers—often compromising through a combination of fabric and leather. The oxford, which continues to be the most important among shoe types, is being fashioned in various new fabrics including some of the new lustrous rayon satins, which are particularly smart for afternoon wear, especially when matching satin frocks. Fabric as well as leather oxfords are noted in various ties—from the single eyelet, featured in many of the dressier types, to the seven eyelet—which is also seen in some dressy models.

Next to black, brown is the most important fall shoe color. There is some grey for the fall clothes in the grey register, but for these ensembles, greyish browns are favored. Suede and calf are most important among leathers. One smart New York shop is featuring among its new fall oxfords a gaiter model—a sort of gaiter overlay effect that is very distinctive in giving a shorter vamp appearance. Toes are round and fuller than those of last season but without any effect of stubbiness. Scuffless heels are featured on some models, these including both leather and fabric numbers. One of the most distinctive heels is what might be called a modified Continental, being something of a merger of the Continental and the Chinese. It is a straighter, thinner, dressier heel than the Continental, combining the height of the Louis heel with the stability of the Continental.

For evening, velvet promises to be important—along and combined with silver and gold leathers. There are also many smart new models in satin combined with the silver and gold leathers.

Satin Blouse Important in Mode

The satin costume blouse for smart afternoon wear is important style news just now. These blouses, usually in the peplum style and fitting the hips snugly, some with tabs at shoulders, high neckline and sleeve fullness at elbow or wrist, are noted not only in the lustrous ivory white so chic for the black satin suit, but in such new shades as rose, aqua, chateause, amber, rust and a vivid lacquer red. Buttons—big ones—usually of composition in contrasting colors that show right up—are featured on some of the smarted models. They are seen on pockets and in various new arrangements with scarf collars—holding them in place.

Newer than the dead white or cream white satin, just now, is the silvery white satin—a satin that has a very pale silvery gray tint. It links admirably to the interest in silver and ivory that is noted in the apparel and interior decoration mode in general.

The sudden vogue for bright red shades seen in Paris and New York finds particular favor in the little summer velvet jackets worn over summer evening dresses.

Among fall wash fabrics, checks are most important, whether in printed or woven fabrics—the printed versions usually having a novelty aspect, while in the woven fabrics they remain classical.

ROCK SPRINGS

There were ten at Sunday school Sunday morning. There were more at B. Y. P. U., but no one to play the piano or lead the songs, so the crowd enjoyed a social talk for awhile.

Saturday and Sunday will be church days. Come and bring the one next to you.

There were eleven from here attended the association at Trigger Mountain Saturday. The next association meets at Goldthwaite, beginning on Thursday night before the third Sunday in August, 1934. Let's make this one the best ever held in this county.

These are the guests who called on Will Stark, wife, children, grandchildren and great grandchildren last Wednesday afternoon. As I was one of the guests I was asked to report their family reunion. The guests were Joe Davis and family, J. T. Robertson and wife, Mrs. John Roberts, Mrs. Harvey Dunkle, J. M. Traylor, wife, daughters and son, W. A. Cooke, J. C. Stark, Mrs. J. D. Dewbre and Eula Belle, Ray Stark and wife and Mrs. Eula Nickols. The afternoon was enjoyed by everyone. This was one of the largest reunions that this place ever had. Mr. and Mrs. Will Stark have eleven children, six girls and five boys. All were present, but one son, Hugh. He lives at Palmdale, Cal. Those present were Alvin Newton and family of Evant, C. A. Simpson and family of Live Oak, Mrs. Dolcia Wright and daughter of But-ton Willow, Cal., J. A. Stark and family of Rabbit Ridge, W. A. Stark and family of Valley Springs, W. C. Stark and family of Hico, Addie Noggle and girls of Breckenridge, Wesley Stark and family of Palmdale, Cal., W. E. Hagen and family of Rock Springs, A. M. Whitt and family of Rabbit Ridge, Earl Hale and family of Big Valley. Guests were J. R. Cooke, wife and daughter, from Winters. On Tuesday fifty-four ate dinner and on Wednesday fifty-seven. We hope Mr. and Mrs. Stark can live to have another reunion.

J. R. Davis and wife had a reunion. Elbert Davis and family, Ben Davis and family from here, Mrs. Noah Orr and son from Brownwood, Mrs. Janie Davis and children and Warren Davis and family from Wichita Falls. Mrs. Eula Nickols also had all of her children at home last week, so you see there were three reunions in this community. It is nice that families can all be together as often as they can, but it is lonesome afterwards.

Orby Woody and wife drove out to the Gatlin farm Sunday afternoon. Someone helped themselves to Oscar Gatlin's spare tire at the fair. Oran Cole and family from Hamilton visited with the Sowers and Ellis families. Clifton Ballard and family from Moran visited in C. Ballard's home last week end.

Ed Hufstutler, Rush Allison and sons and mother, Collier Ballard and Miss Nevert Roberts and her mother visited in the Ellis and Sowers home Sunday. Bob Robertson and wife and niece from Big Valley, Jim Circle and wife, Gus Roush and family visited with the Robertson and Dunkle families Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Eula Nickols dined with C. H. Ford and wife in town on Tuesday. Ina Gene Moss, who lives at Catclaw, visited her cousins, Lou Dell and Reva Sullivan, last week. Woody Traylor and family spent Sunday in the Robertson home.

Mrs. J. C. Stark came home Saturday morning from her daughter's, Mrs. Arthur Smith's, at Sabine Pass. Greta Traylor and Reva Sullivan exchanged visits last week. Claud Holley from Gonzales came after his wife Saturday. Mrs. Holley spent two weeks with her mother. Cone Sullivan had business in town late Monday afternoon.

Some from here attended the fair. Those who missed missed lots. One of Glenn Nickols' fine hounds died last week. Charley Miller and family from Plainview visited in J. M. Traylor's home last week. We are glad to say Harvey Dunkle is able to up most all the time now.

W. A. Cooke, Mrs. Eula Nickols and Phillip sat until bedtime with Joe Davis and family Monday night. J. T. Stark from Rising Star spent about four hours Saturday night with his parents. He has a good job at the ice plant in Rising Star.

AN EARLY CANDIDATE

District Attorney C. L. South of Coleman was a visitor to Goldthwaite last week end and, in conversation with some of his friends, imparted the information that he was considering entering the congressional race in this district. The last legislature created a new district in which Mills county was placed, cutting us out of Mr. Blanton's district, and we will be compelled to elect a new man next year. Judge South is the first to indicate a desire to fill the place and he will undoubtedly make a strong candidate. He was county judge in Coleman for a number of years, since which time he has been district attorney and has made a fine record.

This was not Judge South's first visit to Goldthwaite. He attended a Lions club banquet at the lake some years ago and made a very favorable impression on all who met him and heard him speak.

Mmes. Traylor, Dunkle and Circle called on Mrs. Joe Roberts last Thursday afternoon.

Daley Sullivan is helping J. T. Robertson gather corn this week. J. R. Cooke and wife and daughter from Winters visited in J. C. Stark's and W. A. Cooke's homes last week.

Mmes. Holley and Nickols spent the day with Mrs. Gatlin and Miss Love in town last Friday.

Charles Ford Chambers from Abilene went home this week, after a visit in the Nickols home.

Daley Sullivan helped Woody Traylor grub up cockleburrs last week. Mrs. Ray Davis and children from South Bennett and Mrs. J. C. Stark spent Monday with Joe Davis and family.

Mrs. Eula Nickols and boys and Charles Chambers, Mrs. Claud Holley and Beryl and James Roberts dined with Homer Doggett and family in town Thursday.

W. A. Daniel and Miss Oleta took stock to Cowtown Monday afternoon.

Don't forget to go to the polls and vote tomorrow. Be sure and do your best to vote right. If it ever was a time to vote right it is now. For fear you may not know which side I am on, I'll tell you "I'm for the drys." And I hope you are there too.

J. C. Stark and wife and Ray Stark and wife sat until bedtime with Claud Smith and wife at South Bennett Monday night.

Saturday afternoon John Roberts and wife, M. R. Circle and wife and Mrs. Sullivan visited Mrs. McClary and Minnie at the Lake Sunday afternoon. Mmes. Joe Roberts, John Roberts and Eula Nickols, W. A. Cooke and J. O. McClary visited them.

Philip Nickols is working for W. A. Daniel. James is helping Barton Head shear goats at Center City. Shirley is working for Landy Ellis this week.

Jack Robertson didn't let the fair stop him from going to town every morning this week, so he must have a permanent job. BUSY BEE.

Lady Took Cardui And Got Rid of Pain In Her Side

"Last summer, my health was bad, so I began taking Cardui," writes Mrs. H. E. Slaughter, of Norman, Okla. "My mother had given me Cardui in girlhood, so naturally I turned to it when I felt I needed it. I felt run-down and a general weakness. I had bad, dizzy headaches when everything would seem to dance before my eyes. My right side pained me so much, but since taking Cardui the pain has left me. I have taken several bottles of Cardui and have improved a great deal." Cardui is sold at drug stores here.

GOSSIP

You probably know very well what gossip is. All that you have to do is to live anywhere and remain in possession of the transmission senses—sight, hearing and speech. But this column rises valiantly to the defense of gossip, it is the interest that oils the wheels of living. It is difficult to get anybody to sit down and read the dry pages of recorded history that deal with events. But, when a Peppy diary, a St. Simon's memoirs, turns up to paint the life that went on behind the dates we are told to remember and never can, why we find that it is interesting even though it deals with folks dead and gone these hundreds of years. The person who shuts his ears to gossip and passes on no tales is admirable, but he is not human and what's more he is not in the newspaper business. —State Press in Dallas News.

There will be a revival meeting starting at the tabernacle at the school house at Williams Ranch Thursday night. Bro. Wm. Braswell of Goldthwaite will do the preaching. Everyone is invited to come out and attend each service. BO-PEEP.

TREE ARMY FATTENS

The tree army reports that its 300,000 members have gained an average of 12 pounds per man in weight during the few weeks they have been in camp, and a glimpse at a list of food consumed shows the reason why:

Out at Missoula, Mont., a company of 200 men devoured 2250 hot cakes at one breakfast, an average of 11 cakes per man. The big man of the that camp ate 25 of the cakes. The report shows that the tree army is doing its share in reducing the hog population of the country. During one month it takes 185,000 hogs to feed the tree army workers. Nor is pork the only kind of meat eaten. Each month the tree army consumes 9375 steers and 281,250 chickens.

TEXAS DAY AT THE FAIR

Texas' day at the Century of Progress Wednesday found thousands who had been arriving by special train, bus, automobile and airplane, ready to make it an impressive event—as befits the Union's largest state.

The program began in the afternoon with dedication of the Lone Star exhibit.

The exhibit walls are covered with paintings—cotton picking, Mexican and cowboy scenes—typical of Texas and the southwest.

In the center is a mural portraying progress in Texas from the days of Bowie to the present. At the far end is a portrait of General Sam Houston and at the other a portrait of Mrs. William Henry Tobin of Austin, who headed the Texas world's fair commission to the Columbian exposition in 1893.

A model of the Alamo, Texas shrine, where the entire garrison of 179 men under Colonel William Travis was killed on March 7, 1836, is also on display. Typically southwestern and drawing cards for the crowds, were collections of branding irons and a layout of various ways to tie a knot. The oil industry had its representation in a miniature oil field.

Billie Stephens is expected home this week end from Kingsville, where he has been in college.

Rev. S. O. Hammond and family are expected home this week end from a visit to relatives in New Mexico and Colorado.

Dr. Richard Burgess and family of Denton came in yesterday for a visit, having been called here by the serious condition of Mrs. D. D. Kemper, mother of Mrs. Burgess.

Fishing tackle, reels and rods—Racket Store.

Mrs. Hamilton of Amhurst is visiting friends here and is leaving after her farm in the Mount Olive community.

Wire line—Racket Store. Rev. F. M. Jackson and his son, Eugene, were visitors from San Angelo to this city yesterday. He was pastor of the Methodist church in this city some years ago and has also served as pastor of other churches in this county. He and his family have a great many friends in Goldthwaite and throughout Mills county.

FINE STOCK

The editor and wife had occasion this week to make a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. A. J. McDonald in their home, a mile north of Mullin. We found Mr. McDonald just removing his saddle from his old grey nag, after having just rounded up his 10 head of white face heifers and of course we had to go to the lots and see his new purchase. He has just bought this 10 head of high grade Herefords from a party in Jones county and they were trucked to the McDonald farm without having suffered any damage from the transporting. They are about 18 months old, well marked and will probably weigh about 700 pounds on an average. Mr. McDonald expects to use these heifers as a basis on which to build a fine herd of cattle, and with the start he has, in a few years he should have one of the finest herds of Herefords in this section of Texas.

Cotton is coming in right along and people are very busy with the early opening of it. INTERESTING BALL GAME

The Bend team presented their same line-up they have had all season with Baxter doing the pitching. By a combination of hits and errors they got off to a two-run lead in the first inning and kept up the heavy clouting all afternoon. They out-hit Goldthwaite 16 to 14, but the locals made their count for more runs by topping off the game with a sizzling ninth inning rally. Bend enjoyed a 5 to 2 lead up until the seventh and had their other pitching star, Templeton, replaced Baxter at this time the game would probably be a differ story.

Beryl Turner was in the box for Goldthwaite and wasn't quite up to form in the first five innings, but during the sixth and seventh he seemed to be getting stronger on every man. Taking his turn at bat in the seventh, he received a painful injury to his pitching arm, when struck by one of Baxter's wild pitches, making it necessary for him to leave the game. Up to that time he had struck out seven men and issued no free passes. Turner's departure from the game marked the only time during the three-game series that the starting pitcher didn't go the route, and in this one instance only through an injury. Adams was moved in from second base to hurl the last two innings and he did a creditable job. He allowed one hit and struck out two men.

Baxter for Bend struck out 3 and did not walk a man, but hit four. In addition to Turner, Tate, Huffman and Wilcox went to first for being hit with pitched balls. In the seventh when Adams went to the box, Hamilton took his place at second base and Heath was placed in left field.

From a Goldthwaite fan's point of view, all the game was played in the ninth inning, for after one man was out the local team started a hitting attack that only ended with the game in the win column. Hamilton shot a single to right and McLean followed with one to the same field, then Heath making his first appearance at the plate hit one down the third base line that just fell in fair territory—the third baseman almost making a barehanded catch of the ball. Hamilton was held at third on the play. Tate, who had been coming up with men on bases for the last three games with little results, caught one to his liking and the old ball game was over.

Outstanding players for Goldthwaite for the day were Tate and McLean. Tate, by coming through with the hit that won the ball game was the outstanding hitter, while the spirited play of Lamar McLean at third base was a feature of the game. McLean went in the game at third base in the place of Wilcox during the fifth inning and his entry proved to be the spark that the infield needed. Besides his hit during the rally in the ninth, he garnered another—a double on his first trip to the plate. Another player deserving mention was Hamilton in left field whose hard hustling of balls held several blows to singles and doubles that were labeled for more bases. For Bend, Maurice Hoover, a native of Bend, but the son of Rev. Clem W. Hoover, of this city, played an outstanding game at first base and got two of his team's hits. Bearder, their peppery catcher, was also a star with the stick, getting three blows besides catching a good game.

Goldthwaite 8—Evant 7

In a ball game that included nearly every thrill known to the game, Goldthwaite made an uphill battle all the way and by a brilliant ninth inning rally took the disciples of Evant into camp by a score of 8 to 7. Going into the ninth inning four runs behind and apparently helpless before the offerings of Hammonds, the Evant pitcher, they laid down a hitting barrage that left their followers wild with delight. This game and the uprising in the ninth will be told and replayed in the minds of the fans for many years to come. To make the spoils of victory sweeter, the game was not won from a strictly Evant team, there being only three players in the line-up who make their home at Evant. They presented an aggregation of stars gathered together from Hamilton, Lampasas, Austin and San Angelo, but their efforts were to no avail against the inspired play of the Goldthwaite crew.

Three runs behind and with their backs to the wall the local crew came to bat in the ninth. Fuzzy Heath was put in as a pinch hitter to start the memorable round. He watched a ball and a strike float by before he caught one and when he did, it was for two bases down the left field foul line. McLean brought him home with a clean double to center. Then Hud Hamilton made the first out by fanning on three pitched balls. Jess Smith was purposely walked in order to get a forced play at every base and possibly a double play. This brought up Prentiss Smith, the big catcher from San Saba, who is one of the best "money" players in this section. He calmly let two go by and then Hammonds made the mistake of throwing him one just right. Smith hit a mighty wallop to left center that took a freak bounce by the fielder and rolled all the way to the race track. This home run with two runners aboard put a real story book finish to the ball game that thrilled hundreds of Mills county fans and sent many Evant partisans home with long faces and much wiser.

Buck Hammonds pitched for Evant and Dickie Robbins pitched for Goldthwaite. Both hurlers turned in good games but Robbins was the most effective—he giving up only six hits, while Hammonds allowed ten—three of them in the last inning. Hammonds is a portsider and was

INSURED BANK DEPOSITS

Unless advanced by the president, the date on which the new act for the federal insurance of bank deposits takes effect will be January 1. This alone will be sufficient reason for the lack of any preparations as yet at Washington for putting the system in operation. However, reports are printed from time to time that changes in the law will be asked when Congress meets in January.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, directed by the Comptroller of the Currency and two board members at $10,000 a year, will administer the system. For the corporation's proposed guarantee fund, the government will subscribe $150,000,000, or such part of the amount as the board may deem necessary. To an issue of its A stock all member banks will be required to subscribe amounts equal to one-half of 1 per cent of all their time and demand deposits. In addition, the twelve Federal Reserve Banks must subscribe to an issue of B stock amounts proportioned to their surplus. The total guarantee fund thus created is estimated at $500,000,000. From a temporary fund, deposits up to $2500 will be insured until July 1 of next year, after which provision will be made for insuring in full deposits up to $10,000 and 75 per cent of deposits ranging from $10,000 to $50,000 and 50 per cent of deposits exceeding $50,000.

This insurance will be obligatory in the case of all national banks and other banks affiliated with the Federal Reserve system and in competition with these banks guaranteeing depositors. It is not expected that many of the banks can remain out of the insurance system and survive.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

bothersome to the locals as they haven't seen too many of such this season. Robbins deserves much credit for the win due to the fact that he never became disheartened, regardless of the fate of the game. He didn't allow a run after the fourth, but before that time his infield had bracked wide open behind him, allowing four scores to cross the plate in the first inning by errors. Goldthwaite was guilty of six errors for the game—all by the infield with Wilcox, Adams and Tate erring twice.

The individual stars for the day were Smith and McLean for Goldthwaite, and Heatherly and Edmondson for the losers. McLean playing first base made three runs and fielded his position well. Smith with three hits knocked in five runs—two in the first on his single, his double in the fourth coming with one on base and then his climaxing home run in the last chapter. His catching was very good and no runner stole a base on him all afternoon. He caught three attempting such. The famed Fatty Heatherly, who plays shortstop for San Angelo in the West Texas league, showed he had class in the field, but his batting efforts were confined to one single.

All three games were of the spectacular sort that real base ball fans like to see, whether their home team wins or not. Good crowds were in attendance from neighboring towns and the games proved an attraction for the fair as well as a good advertisement for future fairs. REPORTER.

TWO IMPORTANT ISSUES

Saturday of this week the voters of this state must settle some very important questions at the polls and it is the duty of every qualified voter to take part in the settlement of these questions, by casting a ballot for or against each proposition submitted. There are two major issues involved in this election. One is as to whether or not the state shall be bonded in the sum of twenty million dollars and the other is whether or not the eighteenth amendment—the prohibition amendment to the federal constitution—shall be allowed to stand. The voters of this state have only a partial responsibility in the last named issue, in that all the states of the Union have a voice in the abolition or retention of the amendment, but the first named question is squarely up to the voters of this state and they alone have the disposition of it. Some of the propagandists for the bonds make the claim that the federal authorities will withhold further appropriations for R. F. C. work in Texas if the bond issue is not ratified. The Eagle would not take the responsibility to deny or affirm the statement, yet it does not hesitate to express an opinion that the federal funds will continue to go out pro rata to the states of this Union where a showing of need is made, else why has not a demand gone out from Washington for all states to vote bonds. Why single out Texas and demand that a burden be placed on the taxpayers of this state for thirty years in order that the pro rata due the state be granted. On the other hand, if these funds to be secured by issuance of the bonds are in reality so badly needed, would it not be better for our state legislature to make appropriations from the state treasury to supply this assistance and then when the need has been supplied the appropriation can be stopped and there will be no debt to bear interest for forty years. By all means the bonds should be overwhelmingly defeated. If the voters objected to the bond issue proposed by Governor Sterling, which issue was to be used wholly for highway construction and hence provide work for those who wanted or needed it, surely they should reject the proposal to issue this immense amount of state bonds.

A NEEDED CHANGE

There is a movement on to secure the submission of a constitutional amendment by the next session of the Texas legislature providing for the election of a board of pardons and taking the pardoning power out of the hands of the governor. There can be no doubt of the wisdom of this amendment and certainly the voters of the state would approve it. Under the present constitutional provisions, the governor has the sole authority and power in issuing paroles and pardons from the state's penal institutions. While this power should be placed in an officer or board, because of the fact that undoubtedly there are those confined in the penitentiary who are deserving of clemency, it is not a good plan to allow one man (or woman) full and unlimited power in such matters. In the first place, the responsibility is too great. After one charged with crime has been given a fair trial in the local courts and then has access to the higher courts and is allowed representation before the courts and juries by attorneys who can bring to bear every legitimate influence in the way of presumption of innocence, every technicality in the law and procedure, it is not fair to society to allow one man or woman who occupies the position of chief executive of the state's laws to set aside the decisions of the courts and the juries, neither is it a good plan to place so great a temptation in the way of an executive, where those convicted, or their friends, can offer rewards for a parole or pardon. If the cause must be submitted to three elected members of a board it would not be likely that all members of such board could be "reached," neither would the members of the board be subject to such severe criticism and even suspicion where clemency is extended, as is the case where the one executive has the undisputed right and power to free one convicted, no matter how heinous the crime or how near the proof of guilt.

OPEN SALOONS NOT AUTHORIZED

If the voters throughout the nation decree the abolition of the eighteenth amendment and the voters of Mills county vote in majority in favor of allowing the sale of 3.2 beer in this county, there will yet be much to do and many impediments to be removed before the old time saloons can be opened in this county. Texas has a constitution inhibition that will not be removed either by doing away with the eighteenth amendment or authorizing the sale of 3.2 beer. An amendment to the state constitution will have to be submitted by a regular session of the legislature and voted on by the electorate in the regular way. Should that amendment receive a majority of the votes Mills county would still be a prohibition county unless changed by a majority vote, as the 3.2 beer proposal will not authorize open saloons in this county or the sale of any prohibited liquor except the beer of the per cent of alcohol named in the election petition and proclamation. Those who think they will vote next Saturday for or against open saloons in Mills county are simply mistaken.

IF WE BUT KNEW

Many people are inclined to criticize public officers and those charged with public duties because of their methods and policies, when their criticisms would be less severe if they understood everything that actuates those whose policies are not endorsed. To prove this point we need only remember the harsh criticism indulged in over President Woodrow Wilson's dealings with Mexico and his temporizing with the outrages committed along the border, but when the world war came on and we understood that President Wilson knew there was bad trouble ahead, we realized that he could not afford to have this country involved in a war with Mexico when all the resources of the nation would be needed to make sure of success in the mightier conflict. Faith and confidence should rule our thinking in regard to those charged with the conduct of public affairs. Unless we understand thoroughly all details we should refrain from harsh criticism, for if we knew all we likely would change our views.

A NEED WILL APPEAR

There are people in almost all communities who feel they have no need for a local paper and, therefore, give such publication no support. The opinion has long been held by the editor of this paper that every citizen at some time needs the services of a local paper. When that time arrives, those who have not given patronage of any kind to the paper are not in an attitude to expect courtesies or favors from it, but it is this editor's experience that they are the first to expect and even demand courtesies.

KEEPING UP WITH TEXAS

The manager for Texas seed corn has received word that the date for making feed loans in West Texas by the government office at Dallas had been extended indefinitely. The deadline previously had been August 15.

One of three men charged by indictment with conspiracy to rob W. W. McAllister, president of the San Antonio Building and Loan association, June 21, was released Monday, after having to sign his own $500 recognizance bond.

A trespass to try title suit, involving 238 persons, and dating back to the first half of the nineteenth century, has been filed in district court in San Angelo. The litigation centers on 10,000 acres of land in what is now Tom Green county, but which was a part of Bexar county when Gustavus Schleichler was in this country buying land grants. Some of these grants are involved in the suit.

Hal Sevier of Corpus Christi is to be ambassador to Chile. The approval of the Chilean government for his appointment has been asked and a favorable reply is anticipated. Mrs. Sevier, nee Clara Driscoll, is prominent in Texas, where she has been custodian of the Alamo at San Antonio. Both were active in the presidential campaign last year. Sevier has served in the Texas legislature and is a former newspaper publisher.

It was recently announced that farmers in the Coastal Bend districts would be permitted to plant commercial vegetable crops on land where cotton had been plowed up. Vegetable farmers in irrigated districts of Texas, especially the Winter Garden district, and the Lower Rio Grande district are protesting this very strenuously as they claim it is open discrimination against the old irrigated districts of Texas.

Two kidnapers who fled from the automobile in which they had abducted Dr. E. L. Beck, wealthy Texarkana surgeon, after the car had stalled on a railroad crossing in the path of an on-rushing train, are being hunted. Warned by a train whistle of his imminent danger, Dr. Beck tore blindfold from his eyes and leaped to safety just a fraction of a second before the train demolished the car. The only clues to the identity of the kidnapers, besides Dr. Beck's description of them were fingerprints taken from the car, which belonged to Dr. Beck.

Twenty-four motor buses will supply transportation for students attending public schools in the largest school district in the United States this year. The district is located in Hidalgo county and includes the Edinburg community and its outlying sections. Officials of the district have announced plans for operating 24 bus routes to carry the children to school each morning and return them to their homes each afternoon. The expense of the buses amounts to a considerable sum. They travel 503 miles daily, serving some 800 students attending school from rural sections. In total square miles the Edinburg school district is the largest in the entire nation.

FAIR WILL STAGE BABY DOLL PARADE

Cash Prizes will be awarded the winners of the Baby Doll Parade, which will be held on Saturday, October 21, at the State Fair of Texas, it has been announced by Otto Herold, president of the exposition. The parade will be open to children under the age of ten, from the entire state.

Three awards will be made to winners of the parade. The revue will again be held in front of the auditorium and plans are being made to make this one of the biggest events of its kind ever held in the South. Entries will be judged on their own beauty, the decorations of their doll buggies and on their dolls. There will be no entry fee collected and entries can be made at any time. It is expected that 150 little girls will participate in the parade this year.

Health Hint

The physicians find it difficult to interest their patients in the onion, laments the Ami du Peuple (Paris), on the authority of a recent hospital report. So many of us need the onion, it says.

The swollen limb, it seems, the bodily organism charged with the ills of high living, the patient suffering from an abundance of uric acid—these are but a few among the many classes which should seek this humble vegetable. We read:

It is enough to include the onion in the daily bill of fare to derive the benefits of its salutary effects.

The onion cure is no more difficult to take than the fruit cure.

The capacity of the ordinary household cook is adequate to the preparation of the onion in various inviting forms and we should experience a genuine satisfaction in eating it.

The onion is also a basis of an efficient poultice because of its drawing power. It gets results quickly where an ordinary poultice is required.

Novel as these details may now seem, they were common-place to the ancients, who gave the onion a conspicuous place in their food.

Let us imitate them in this respect, and above all let us have recourse to the onion whenever our tired kidneys need rest or an acid.—Literary Digest.

THE REALM OF SCIENCE

Heating home canned foods thoroughly for 10 to 15 minutes after removal from the container is sufficient to inactivate the toxins of botulinus, the deadly food poison, but is no guarantee that the poisonous properties will not develop again if the foods are stored away for later use. According to North Dakota Agricultural college bacteriologists, you have to keep foods at the temperature of boiling water for six hours in order to kill all the spores from which the poison develops.

This explains why spoiled food, which has been cooked for a short period and then recanned may again be poisonous when opened at a later date. The safest practice, and that recommended by food specialists, is to always cook home canned non-acid vegetables and meats thoroughly upon removal from the can. This is necessary although the foods have been reheated previously.—Exchange.

FINE SOCIAL SCHEMES AND HUMAN SELFISHNESS

Great Britain adopted a national health insurance system. The purpose was to provide medical attention for workers earning too little pay for it as individuals. Now a British physician, Sir Henry Brackenbury, suggests that it has become less a method of medical service than a "gigantic machine" for doling out small sums of money weekly or monthly to those who are insured.

At a meeting of a section of the British Medical Association, Sir Henry said this insurance plan is "manifesting the weakness inherent in all socialism," and added:

"The selfishness of human nature is the rock on which the finance of all socialistic schemes breaks. There is no efficient check on the unemployed, who by means of exaggerating trivial complaints can convert insurance benefits into a dole."

Distribution of public funds to individuals do not have to be "socialistic" to be exposed to abuse. The commander of the American Legion states publicly that the organization is trying to keep "goldbrickers" off the veterans' list so that truly deserving men will be respected by the public and given the assistance they should rightfully have. On an ideal basis, old age pensions should be a cheaper as well as a kinder way of caring for destitute aged persons than putting them in an institution. But when you set up age and property qualifications, you invite attempts at abuse—all the more difficult to prevent because the pension fund would be administered by a political agency.—Arkansas Gazette.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

VIEW OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE

MORE LEISURE HOURS—FOR WHAT?

While the "blue eagle" flaps his wings over the nation, putting the depression to full flight, the more important duty, of course, is giving the utmost in co-operation to the president and his staff of strategists.

But there is another question to be considered. What are the hundreds of thousands of American workers going to do with their added hours of leisure granted by the NRA? The 40-hour week naturally means a readjustment in home life, as well as a radical departure in the field of business. Doubtless, the great majority of American people will utilize the extended liberation from shop, office and factory to some good purpose. Some of them are going to make their homes a better place in which to live; some of them are going to get a little better acquainted with their families.

The hen-pecked husband will take a post graduate course in dish washing and house cleaning. Others will squander the added hours of freedom. To a great many, it will mean just that much more time in which to chase around with somebody else's wife—or husband—and greatly increase the risk of the life insurance companies.

Some will spend more time on streams and in the woods; others who have been denied the opportunity, now will cultivate personal hobbies. And that will be time well spent.

But, why not read more good books and periodicals, thereby enlarging our knowledge and better fitting ourselves for the individual niches we must fill in the new American scheme of things? One volume that should head every list is the large book which for years has collected the dust and cobwebs in most homes. It tells about a highly important event which transpired 1933 years ago; it relates many other historical events concerning the world at large, and also offers very valuable advice to everyone.—Kerrville Mountain Sun.

CORRECTIVE AMENDMENT

One of the constitutional amendments submitted at the August 26 election affects but a small part of the tax-paying population of Texas, but, unless it is adopted, an injustice unwittingly done this minority in the previous homestead exemption amendment will be continued.

When the electorate exempted homesteads from taxation on value up to $3000 last year, the amendment specifically excluded counties enjoying tax remission, until the period of remission should expire. This was, of course, just but the remission acts do not exempt the affected counties from all state taxes. In most cases it is only the tax for general purposes from which they are exempt, so that the actual wording of the homestead amendment results in inequitable taxation. Dallas county homesteads are exempt, for instance, from taxation for all state purposes up to $3000 in taxable valuation. But the homestead owner in a tax remission county has to pay on full valuation for the Confederate pension fund, schools and other items.

The corrective amendment provides that the $3000 exemption from state taxation shall not be applicable to that portion of the state ad valorem taxes levied for state purposes which has been remitted to counties for local improvements. The only change is to insert the words, "that portion" thus relieving state taxes not remitted of the extra burden.

There is a growing feeling that tax remission is in all cases a bad policy. The News believed before the homestead exemption amendment was adopted that it was unwise and has been confirmed in that view by the resulting effect on state finances. But, as long as both tax remission and the homestead amendment are accomplished facts, Texas in simple justice should afford the relief of this new amendment to taxpayers who are now the victims of discrimination.—Dallas News.

HEALTH REQUIREMENT FOR TEXAS MARRIAGE HOLDS

Civil District Attorney Neel has given his opinion to County Clerk Fisher that the act of the Texas legislature repealing the so-called "gin-marriage" law left the requirement of a medical certificate for prospective bridegrooms still standing. If that opinion is upheld by other authoritative advisers, it will govern the issuance of marriage licenses in Texas after August 31. For that reason it is of great significance.

Much of the advocacy for repeal of the old law was prompted by evidence that the law had failed of its good purpose, but quite as much by the desire to keep marriage license and ceremonial fees in Texas. The trekking of thousands of couples to adjoining states, as a means of avoiding the notice-of-intention requirement, meant the transfer of Texas money to out-of-state hands. Some advocates of repeal had worthy reasons, but their number was comparatively few.

Now, with the medical certificate still to be required, can it reasonably be expected that gretna greening across the borders of Texas will be appreciably halted? Desire to avoid this requirement was responsible for many of the border-crossings, and still will be under the new dispensation. Yet the requirement should stand. It is far more important than the notice-of-intention provision, now repealed.—Dallas Journal.

SALES TAX RESURRECTION TALK PROVOKES PROTEST

In advance of the anticipated call for a special session of the legislature, the possibility that the sales tax idea will be resurrected through resubmission by the Fergusons has provoked greater discussion than the important questions that are to be voted upon this next Saturday. Unless that possibility is removed by an authoritative announcement that a sales tax measure will not be submitted to the legislators, the discussion will wax warmer, with an increasing volume of protest.

A sales tax is not popular with the merchants or the people of Texas. Texas business men will have problems enough in their loyal efforts to conform to NRA and the addition of a sales tax would prove the breaking straw. Injustice to Texas business would work injustice to the public. Business and the public should be as one in protesting against any such imposition.

The one matter that has made call for an extra session necessary is that of revising the state anti-trust laws so that they will conform and not conflict with the national recovery act. It should have immediate attention, and no other matters should be presented which would prevent serious consideration of this major business.—Dallas Journal.

LO, THE RICH INDIAN

The public works administration in Washington had the shock of its life the other day when the Menominee Indians in Wisconsin sent back a $30,000 loan for road building, with the information that they didn't need the money.

This at a time when paleface congressmen, governors and mayors have been besieging the nation's capital with urgent pleas for hand outs.

The Indians explained that they could afford to build the roads themselves, and that the government probably needed the funds for other projects. The government, after blinking its eyes rapidly, agreed.

It strikes us that these original Americans show the rest of us up in a pretty poor light. With most of the villages, towns and cities of the states frankly out to scalp their Uncle Samuel, they have set an example of self-reliance that their white brothers might well emulate.

THE CONSUMER PAYS

We continually hear that the "consumer always pays." Well, else could be expected to pay unless it is the consumer? When we speak of consumers that includes all of us—everybody who in business as well as everybody who is not in business. Manufacturer, wholesaler or retail merchant could not pay every tax and special assessment without adding the extra amount to whatever commodity he might sell, without first adding the same amount to the price of his goods—not if he expected to stay in business. Persons engaged in any line of business as consumers—along with those who are not engaged in business—and when they make purchases as customers they contribute their share of the tax money to be raised. Thus it is with the state sales tax which has just gone into effect in California—when one merchant buys of another he pays the tax just the same as any other consumer making purchases. What's the difference whether the tax is "collected at the source" or when retail sales are made—we're all consumers and have to pay in proportion to what we buy. And the person who is able to buy most pays the most tax.—Upland, Cal., News.

WHAT RECOMPENSE

It is strange there should be so much misrepresentation about recognition of the Soviets! We should any one in this country insist on distorting the picture. There is nothing to gain economically. Is it solely because we must, by every means possible, show our sympathy for Soviet ideals and practices?

In any case the question of recognizing Russia is quite different from that of our relationship with countries which have failed or refused to pay the public debts. Aside from a question of the Soviets' responsibility for American money loaned the Kerensky government or the czarist government, is the little item of the privately owned American property confiscated by them. The value of this was more than $444,000,000.

No other nation in all the world has ever confiscated or destroyed the private property of our nationals without being called to task for it, and required to pay in full. We would not think of permitting Great Britain or France or China or Haiti to do it. Why should we bow down in acquiescence when the communists dictators do it?—Houston Chronicle.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

Living in no days is a career of milk and honey and the age is about as another. Each considers itself so far ahead of what went before that it must verbally chasten the reminiscence which sigh for the delights of the past. And no age can envision the improvements of its successor. The housewife with artificial ice wonders how her grandmother got along without it, but could no see gas and electric refrigeration around the corner of time. Folk live to old age now who would have died young but for Pasteur and some die now who would dodge the end for decades if the celebrated Whowhat's cancer cure of tomorrow were here to day. The good old days were good enough, just as 1933 will be good enough old day to the next century. We only live the day we have.—State Press in Dallas, News.

WANT A PRICE FIXED

A telegram sent to the federal agricultural department this week by 400 farmers of Bellville says:

"Whereas, the secretary of agriculture has set a price of wheat, gasoline and other commodities and as our crop is in the process of being gathered we respectfully ask that the same consideration be granted the cotton growers and set a minimum of 15 cents a pound.

"We further ask to withdraw all linters and untenderable cotton from the market and not condemn the short selling of cotton, which is not good for the producer. We recommend that the government regulate the cotton exchange the same as the grain exchanges."

The maintenance of the public school means much to the property holders in the community. The loss of any credit by the school would lessen the value of the land owned by all. Therefore, from a selfish standpoint, it is to your interest to pay up your delinquent taxes. — Reporter.

Comanche

More than two hundred relatives and friends of the Gressett and Vineyard families met at Lake Eanes Friday for a reunion.

A jail break was thwarted early Wednesday morning, when Sheriff Dwight Brightman heard a noise in the felony cage on the second story of the Comanche county jail and upon examination found the lock broken from the cell door and nearly enough bolts removed to let the prisoners escape. Two saws were found in the cell which was occupied by Hunter Russell and Red Landrum, held in connection with the robbery of the Proctor bank.

A residence in East Comanche belonging to Mrs. J. H. Williams and occupied by Albert Gossett, was destroyed by fire about nine o'clock Sunday night. About half of the household goods were saved. Mr. Gossett said that he had been burning rags in a coal scuttle a short time before the fire was discovered in order to smoke out mosquitoes, but did not think that caused the fire.

One hundred and forty members of the Cunningham family attended the 34th annual reunion of the descendants of the late Captain James and Aunt Susan Cunningham at their historic camp grounds eight miles south of Comanche on the Pecan Belt highway Tuesday and Wednesday. The attendance was smaller than that of last year when 180 relatives were in attendance, but the reunion was one of the most enjoyable in the history of the gathering.

The Texas Railroad Commission Tuesday decided two appeals, taken to it by gas distribution companies, from ordinances passed by the cities of Atlanta and DeLeon, which arbitrarily fixed the gas rates for consumers in those municipalities. The commission sustained the appeal of the Southwest Gas Company in the DeLeon case and held void a city ordinance fixing the rate there at 40 cents per 1000 cubic feet. The company's rate had been placed at 75 cents per 1000 cubic feet. The city lowered it by ordinance and the company appealed to the commission. — Chief.

The annual reunion of old settlers last week was by far the largest and most successful yet staged.

In response to a petition of qualified voters the commissioners court of San Saba county has ordered an election which has for its purpose to legalize the sale of 3.2 beer in San Saba county if and when the Eighteenth Amendment is repealed. This beer election will be held by the same officers holding the state-wide special election next Saturday, August 26. — News.

Brownwood

The cost of holding the special election August 26 will be approximately $700 to Brown county, according to estimates of County Judge Courtney Gray. The county must stand the entire expense of the election.

Brown county voters will have an opportunity to vote August 26 on local option, in so far as it applies to the sale of 3.2 beer, the commissioners court this week having ordered the local test along with the other issues facing the voters at the special election on this date.

When Brown county voters express their opinions on local option at the August 26 election this year, it will be the fourth time in the history of the county that a county-wide local option election has been held, records at the court house show.

The county tax rate for 1933 was fixed at $1 per $100 valuation by the commissioners court this week. This is the same rate as last year. The state tax rate has been increased to 77 cents, however, making a total county and state rate this year $1.77, as against $1.69 last year.

The agent will serve under temporary appointment during the last four months of this year, September through December, and a provision is contained in the 1934 budget for his salary during that year. THE PASSING AWAY OF

LEE A. WILKINSON

Mr. Lee A. Wilkinson passed away at 10:45 a. m. Friday, after undergoing an operation at a hospital in Dallas.

He was born at Denison, Texas, November 11, 1903. He was converted and joined the Church of Christ at the age of sixteen. He had lived a Christian life until God called him to come home. He now is sweetly resting on Jesus' breast, free from care and sorrow. His soul is at rest.

He started out in business when he was very young, serving as operator on a ship during the world war.

He was a very intelligent young man, inventing a short wave station in his home. Not having time to complete his work and receive his patent before God said—

"Your work now is finished. Your earthly task is through, I know that you will greatly miss me, but I have greater work for you."

Mr. Wilkinson will be remembered here as operator of the radio station KGKE. He married Miss Hazel Faulkner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Faulkner February 10, 1929. Going from here to Brownwood he worked a short time, then moving to Dallas, where he has been operator of station WFAA at the plant near Grapevine, until his illness and death.

His funeral was held at five o'clock Saturday evening at the Ed C. Smith funeral home by Rev. Leo Johnston of the Church of Christ, who held his father's funeral over fourteen years ago.

Pallbearers were Paul Barnes, Raymond Collins and Clyde Mostello of radio station WFAA, Sam Harry of WRR, Ray Flynn of KRLD and R. C. Stinson of WBAP. Honorary pallbearers were Clyde Phillips, Ed Kemp and the operating personnel of all north Texas radio stations.

He was laid to rest in Grove Hill cemetery at Dallas. The floral offering was so beautiful. It expressed the sympathy felt for the family and the high regard in which the deceased was held by all whom he had come in contact with.

Those who are left to mourn his passing are his wife, his little three-year-old son, Kenneth Eugene, his mother, Mrs. L. Wilkinson, his grandmother, Mrs. Sue Brooks, his sister, Miss Gladys Wilkinson and one uncle, N. A. Casey, all of Dallas.

A FRIEND.

SATURDAY, A CRUCIAL TEST

Saturday is the time when Christians will be called upon to show their fidelity to the cause of righteousness. Not one unkind word do we have for those who are not in accord with our belief. Many of them are our best friends, and when the smoke of battle has cleared away, we still want them to be our friends regardless of who wins the victory.

We would not be true to God and the forces of righteousness if we did not voice our protest against an enemy that has brought to mankind sorrow, poverty and death. We are wondering if the Christians will do their best to keep this monster from entering into our homes? If you will, that means that you will march to the polls Saturday and protest against his return to your community.

Do you have children? Do you have friends that have children? If so, are you by your vote Saturday, going to bring back into your community an enemy that has no heart, no voice of conscience, no arms of sympathy, no limbs to run errands of mercy, no love for those whom he has beaten and robbed and left by the side of the road. We ask you again, are you going to help bring back an enemy that will rob mankind of their reasoning power, and their thinking facilities, and leave them upon the highway of life stranded and helpless?

Will you vote Saturday to bring back temptations to our boys and girls, who in their innocence, will become the fathers and mothers of tomorrow? Will you vote Saturday for an enemy that will take bread out of the mouths of helpless women and children? Will you vote Saturday for an enemy that will make the highways an unsafe place upon which to travel? Will you vote Saturday for an enemy that has no eyes and that will run over innocent children in the street and snuff out their little lives? God forbid that any Christian will do such a thing.

Mr. Christian, will you steal away to some secluded place Saturday morning and place your hand upon your heart and say "Lord speak to my heart?" These are crucial times and the testing time is here. If you will do this God will speak to your heart and the results will not be in doubt.

HERE AND THERE

A diver has recovered a safety deposit box containing more than $7000 in money orders, cash and registered mail, which was stolen from the South Lawrence, Mass., postal station.

A Denver woman of 90 years, who owns property worth more than a quarter million dollars, set an old age record for hitchhikers, when she thumbed her way to Colorado Springs, 75 miles distant, "just for the fun of it."

For a consideration of $2, the state of Utah recently came into possession of two colleges, Weber at Ogden and Dixie at St. George. The colleges were formerly the property of the Latter Day Saints (Mormon) church, and represent investments of thousands of dollars. Under the agreement covering the sale of Dixie College, the church will continue to pay $7500 toward its maintenance and Washington county, in which it is located, will contribute toward its support.

A new calendar is proposed by Howard Barker, an official in the Salt Lake City department of education, and contains 15 months of equal length with a short one thrown in for good measure. Barker says his calendar would fit 1933 and every following year. The years would still have 365 days, except leap year, which would have 366 as at present. All months would be exactly alike, with four six-day weeks, two of which would be holidays. In fact, the total of leisure days would be in ordinary years 125 and in leap years 126. The three extra months are named Vernal, Tropic and Harvest. Thursday is dropped out of the week altogether, on the theory that since Thursday is for Thor, God of War, it had no place in peaceful societies.

FORESTRY ARMY

Beginning September 1, a system of non-coms similar to that in the regular army will be put into effect in all forestry camps. Those being promoted from $1-a-day men to sort of assistant leader jobs will get paid from $36 to $45 a month. These men will be expected to assume some of the leadership in the camps, thus relieving the regular officers.

The forestry army is conserving other things besides forests. The camp near Gillette, Wyo., has the task of conserving Uncle Sam's vast coal fields by putting out underground fires, some of which have been burning for years.

Like soldiers of the regular army members of the Civilian Conservation Corps are to receive medals for outstanding acts. They will be gold medals suspended by a gold clasp in the shape of an American eagle. The face of the medals will show an oak tree with stars above and leaves beneath. — Pathfinder.

Black-Draught Clears Up Sluggish, Dull Feeling

"I have used Theford's Black-Draught for constipation for a long time, and find it gives relief for this trouble," writes Mrs. Frank Champion, of Wynoo, Ark. "I think it is good for spells caused from gas on the stomach. If I get up in the morning feeling dull and sluggish, a dose of Black-Draught taken three times a day will cause the feeling to pass away, and in a day or two I feel like a new person. After many years of use we would not exchange Black-Draught for any medicine."

P. S.—If you have children, give them the new, pleasant-tasting SYRUP of Theford's Black-Draught.

MA ASKS LOAN

President Roosevelt has been requested by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson to ask the federal reserve board to authorize long-time loans on cotton as a means of keeping the staple off an unprofitable market.

She suggested that the reserve board ask member banks to "at once announce that loans of 80 per cent of the value of cotton will be made for 12 months at five per cent on all spot cotton offered and for the farmer to present his compress receipt and get the money."

"To enforce this request you can announce that if the federal reserve banks will not make the loans that the government will issue currency now authorized and make the loan and take at least half the crop off the market," the governor's telegram stated. "This will leave the cotton in the hands of the farmer and by acreage reduction next year the price can be stabilized and ruin of the cotton planter can be averted."

CHEVROLET We didn't actually plan on elephants when we chose the bodies for the new Chevrolet. But we did choose bodies rigid enough, and strong enough, to support six tons of elephant, or anything else you can name... Fisher bodies... steel bodies plus a hardwood frame... exactly the same type of bodies used on all 12 and 16-cylinder cars. Steel alone is not enough to make you as safe and secure as we want you to be in a Chevrolet. A steel body, welded into a solid wall of protection plus resilient hardwood reinforcing to take up stress, absorb shocks and prevent the steel from buckling under pressure makes the sturdiest body of all—the kind used on the Chevrolet, and on no other low-priced car. Remember that when you buy a car. Be sure to get all you pay for... the super-safety of a steel-plus-wood Fisher body.

the fact that the church belongs to and is controlled by the public. The same can be said of the school. If poor leadership be found in the church the membership can soon change that, and usually does so. If poorly equipped, or morally unsafe teachers get into our schools, their places are easily supplied by those who are worthy of such responsibilities. But not so with the home. If we have parents who set the wrong example before their children, and take no interest in their moral or religious training, it is difficult to interfere with the situation. All of this is a mighty warning for the church and school to do their utmost for the youths committed to their care.

MR. WALLACE STEPS

Secretary Wallace acknowledges the crudity of plowing up cotton to get a crop reduction. But he has hope that something good and permanent will come of it: "The new social and economic machinery that we have set going in this country since March 4 is as crude and as promising as Robert Fulton's first steamboat." He continues:

The cotton plan, the corn and hog plan, the dairy, tobacco, fruit and wheat programs that we are now launching—all these are experimental first steps in a new direction. Once you take the first step in that direction you are forced to other steps and a wider outlook.

There is not much explanation of what this wider outlook will include next year, except as to cotton. Next spring we are going to plant 25,000,000 acres instead of 40,000,000 acres of cotton, Secretary Wallace believes. The "other steps" to which we are to be "forced" will amount, it seems, to further government control of farming.

The control will be extended not only in point of time, but also in degree, apparently. Mr. Wallace is right about the compulsion of events involved. Mr. Hoover's "farm relief," which relieved many farmers of their farms and did not relieve them of their debts, has pushed us into a succession of efforts. Plowing up cotton, instead of being itself a first step, was really a fifth or sixth step, and leaves us still far from the objective—which appears to be success in farming guaranteed by the government.—Dallas News.

RESPONSE OF MORTGAGEES HAS BEEN ENCOURAGING

State Manager Shaw of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation has made report on results in the short time the regional institution has operated that holds encouragement for distressed home owners who have hoped to share in the saving relief, which the corporation was created to extend. On application for loans filed with the Dallas branch, holders of mortgages totaling $1,086,000 already have agreed to accept the bonds of the corporation in exchange for their liens. No reports have been received from the agencies at San Antonio, Houston and Amarillo, but applications at these points have been as numerous and the attitude of mortgagees presumably is quite as favorable.

Manager Shaw himself is encouraged by this evidence of willingness on the part of many mortgagees to accept the bonds, and so greatly encouraged as to believe that there will be general acceptance of them as a sound investment. Unless there is such favorable reaction, the home loan corporations will not extend the measure of relief for which they were designed. There is no provision in the law to compel a mortgagee to accept the bonds, and if any considerable number refuse to do so, as many homes may be lost in foreclosures as will be saved thru extension of corporation loans. —Dallas Journal.

TIME AND TIME AGAIN

We have urged you to buy before the Cotton Process Tax, The Industrial Tax and The Labor Tax are added to present day prices.

This is the last appeal we can make before you have to pay that difference. NOW, IS THE TIME TO BUY!

Just as surely as you read this, the prices are ascending and are already doubled on many articles. That does not mean that we have doubled the price, but it does mean that we can't replace what we have to offer you. Perhaps you wonder what difference it makes to YARBOROUGH'S—well, here it is—IF WE CAN'T SELL TO OUR CUSTOMERS AT THE RIGHT PRICES THEN WE CAN'T KEEP THE PLACE WE HOLD AS BEING THE BEST. WE WANT TO SAVE YOU MONEY!

This does not apply to any special thing in our house, but it is a positive Guarantee that what you buy from us now will save you all kinds of money. It is not your fault that prices are going up, it is not our fault either, and all we know is that it is the time to buy dry goods if there ever was one. Many articles you buy from us now we couldn't hope to buy them wholesale for the same money. That is why we know that it is the time to buy.

The Cotton Process Tax becomes effective September 1, and any cotton goods that you buy now saves you nearly 4 1/2c a pound on cotton goods, besides the normal rise in prices already quoted by wholesalers to us.

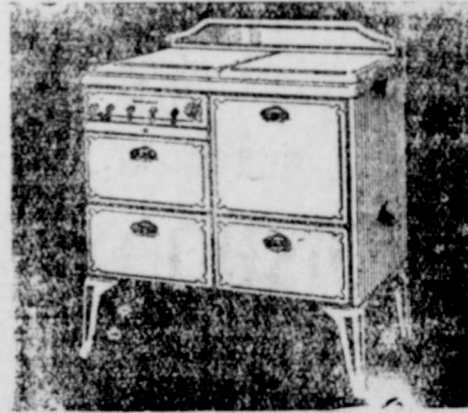

We are offering you a real bargain in everything in our house. We are passing the information on to you so that you can take advantage of prices that will be the lowest in many seasons to come.

Come around and we will talk it over.
