

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

VOLUME FORTY

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1933.

NUMBER TWELVE

Public Works Employment

Under the national administration's plan for furnishing employment to the unemployed of all sections, approximately forty men have been put to work by the R. F. C. committee in Goldthwaite and others will be employed at several other points. The men put to work yesterday are repairing the streets and doing work in the cemetery.

The system is to give each man thirty hours of work per week and this can be arranged on any schedule desired. Those on the Goldthwaite streets are to work five hours per day under the present arrangement.

Commissioner Burnett has been allowed an appropriation from the same fund for work in the Hanna Valley section of his precinct. Commissioner Hamilton also has a project allowed for work on the road from Moline to Star and other projects will doubtless receive favorable consideration.

An application to have some seeded work done on Goldthwaite public school grounds has received favorable consideration and the work will likely start Saturday or Monday.

The P. T. A. met Tuesday, Nov. 14, in its regular monthly meeting with the eighth and sixth grade mothers as hostesses. The following program with National Book Week and Educational Week as its chief theme was rendered by Mrs. Smith:

Song: America.
 Lord's prayer in unison.
 How I developed reading in my home—Mrs. J. A. Hester.
 Education—Mrs. Jacob Saylor.
 What I have learned about children's interests in books—Mrs. Joe A. Palmer.

After the program the president opened a business session. The treasurer's report revealed the fact that about $130 was cleared by the P. T. A. on the Hallowe'en carnival.

Several projects for the year were discussed and it was definitely settled that funds for the following should be appropriated: Purchase of a large dictionary for the high school. Purchase of a set of reference books. Purchase of some books of fiction for the grammar school library. Setting up of a fountain in the high school building. Purchase of a piano cover for the piano in the auditorium.

A committee was appointed to investigate the purchase of a victrola to be used in the music classes and music memory contest in the grammar grades. A small appropriation was made also for the purpose of providing material for interscholastic League debate and declamation work.

Other plans for the year were mentioned and are being investigated by the executive committee. A rising vote of thanks was given to the Art and Civic club for the Extension Loan library, consisting of 173 books, which recently has been transferred to the school libraries.

A count was made and it was found that the fifth grade won the prize for having the greatest number of mothers present.

After the business session the hostesses served delicious home made candy.

The next meeting will be held on the second Tuesday in December. Mothers, we need you and your help, so try to be with us. XX

A SMALL BLAZE

A fire alarm was turned in from W. L. Burks' residence Wednesday morning and the fire company made a quick run to the place, but members of the family had the fire under control before the help arrived.

The blaze started in the roof, when a piece of burning paper from the kitchen flue ignited the shingles. Very little damage was done by the fire.

Methodist Notes

In my absence from this vicinity the past week I have lost touch with things. So it is just a little difficult to get my bearings, Methodist, or otherwise. I learn, however, that the Methodists had a fine day last Sunday. The Baptist folk, in the absence of their pastor Sunday night, attended the services in a goodly number. This gave the pastor a much appreciated audience to preach to at the evening hour. I am sure the pastor, and the Methodist congregation, appreciate this brotherliness of action, and that should the opportunity come, this spirit will be freely reciprocated.

My sojourn in Corsicana, my association among the members of my own conference, afforded a degree of pleasure that is inexpressible. I had not attended the conference gathering in four years. It is said that "Absence makes the heart grow fonder." Whether this is always true or not, it was a joy to me, after the absence of these years, to meet old friends and to greet new ones. To me there are but few fellowships that surpass that of those who have been "comrades in arms," especially, that of the ministry.

With passing years I am becoming more and more convinced that there are certain and distinct favors, and joys, which come to us through the disagreeable. For instance, advancing years are not looked forward to with any great degree of pleasure. In the life of a minister of the gospel, age and consequent superannuation to some becomes a thing to be dreaded. No one views with joy the thought that he is to become one of the "forgotten men." Notwithstanding this fact, there is an almost indescribable joy in that his associates are so solicitous about his welfare, at times, unconsciously, causing him embarrassment by their tender solicitude. Probably this scribe was never more conscious of this fact than at the session of this conference. He was told at once that he was to be entertained in one of the best homes in the city and near the place of the meetings of the sessions. In addition to this consideration on the part of the pastor and the committee on entertainment, it seemed that everybody in the conference with whom he came in contact, and everybody in the home where he was entertained, seemed to think of everything that could in any way contribute to the comfort and convenience of the old superannuate. So it is not altogether cloudy, up here, in the evening. It was the consensus of opinion among the other four superannuates who were entertained in the home with me, that we really had the best home in the city of Corsicana.

It is a joy to know that the good women who have charge of the Red Cross enrollment are succeeding so wonderfully. No one is surprised at this. The nature and importance of the work they have so graciously assumed, and the well known faithfulness of those who have charge of it could not but bring success. It is a sincere desire that all who can possibly spare the sum of one dollar may do their part in this great work. Enroll now.

It may be impossible for the committee in charge of the canvass to see all who would be glad to enroll. Especially is this true of our citizens who live in the country. Let those leave their money with some one in town. Anyone will receive your enrollment and hand it to some member of the committee. The more money given the better able our local chapter will be to aid those who are sure to need help this winter.

Don't forget that the church is your mother. She has nurtured and helped you in all the years of the past. Your mother wants you to come home. Be there Sunday at both the Sunday school hour and at preaching.

Regular Term of Commissioners

Commissioners court was in regular session Monday and transacted considerable routine business, such as auditing reports, allowing accounts and looking after the regular run of county business.

A road was granted from the Chapel Hill school house to the Leverett cut-off road.

Highway money was divided to the precincts from which it was collected. Precinct No. 1 received $44.27; No. 2, $8.76; No. 3, $27.01; No. 4, $8.99.

SELF CULTURE CLUB

A meeting packed with interest throughout was held Thursday, November 9. The president, Mrs. R. E. Clements, was in the chair during the business meeting after which Mrs. E. B. Anderson was leader for the lesson study.

Yellow chrysanthemums were arranged in profusion in the club room and, as always, Mrs. Anderson made the program very enjoyable.

"The Dickens Country" was the subject for the day. A short prayer opened the meeting, after which Mrs. R. E. Clements read a paper, "Dickens in Portsmouth, Chatham and London." Mrs. R. M. Thompson, in her own charming manner, gave a splendid review of "David Copperfield." It was indeed well done and much praise is due Mrs. Thompson for this review.

We were glad to welcome our new members, Mrs. A. H. Smith, and Mrs. W. C. Dew, and Mrs. J. V. Cockrum, an associate member.

The following ladies were our guests: Mmes. John Scholer, Claude Eacott, Neal Dickerson, Marvin Hodges, W. W. Stevens and W. P. McCullough.

The next meeting will be held November 23. REPORTER

MERRY WIVES CLUB

Mrs. D. A. Trent was hostess for a beautifully appointed bridge party Tuesday of this week. The reception suite held vases of autumn flowers most effectively placed in various nooks and corners. For success in bridge Mrs. Frank Taylor received an attractive trophy. The table cuts went to Mmes. Chas. Frizzell, Earl Summy, Marvin Hodges, C. M. Burch, Ed Gilliam and Miss Lucille Conro. The guests other than the ones named were Mmes. Bob Steen, Foster Brim, W. C. Dew, Kelly Saylor, Walter Fairman and Miss Adeline Little. REPORTER

Cotton Report Is Unchanged

The census report of cotton ginned in Mills county for the season up to October 18 is the same as the previous report, which shows there was no ginning in the county for the two weeks prior to that date. The amount ginned up to October 18 this year was 6116 bales, as compared with 3681 up to the same date last year.

COTTON OPTIONS TO BE PAID

The county agent has been notified that benefit options on plow-up cotton will be paid soon, probably in the form of a loan similar to that now being made on cotton. Proceeds from the 2,400,000 option bales will put into the pockets of co-operating farmers about $48,000,000, a sum that will go a long way in paying debts and supplying family needs.

The 1934-35 cotton reduction plan is not yet complete in all details, but the fundamental points are already worked out.

Land owners and cash renters may sign a contract. Landowners must sign with the cash renter. The contract covers 1934 and 1935. The reduction will be 40 percent of the 5 year average acreage. The rental paid will be 3¢ a pound on the 5 year average yield and in addition a supplementing payment per pound will be made on the domestic allotment to put cotton on a parity with manufactured goods.

The complete contract is expected to be out within a few days and signing to finish in January.

More information will be passed out as soon as it comes to this office.

There was a very serious automobile wreck near Star, on the Evans road, Sunday afternoon about 3 o'clock, when two cars met head on. Vernon Mason of Fairview and Rev. The Junior girls' Choral Club is doing nicely in their work. They were well represented at the ball games Friday. Their red and white suits were very noticeable in the crowd.

The Senior Choral Club reporter, Eunice Reeves, has been absent from school for several days because of illness. The girls wish her a swift recovery, that she might come back to school. This club has been rather slow in getting started, but their director, Miss Walton, has worked patiently with them and we hope they shall soon be doing good work.

The ladies desire to express their appreciation to everyone who took part or helped in any way to make the Minister's Tea a success. Especially to Mrs. Bowles for her untiring efforts in presenting the play, and Prof. Smith for many courtesies.

PRESIDENT

MUST BE SIGNED

Two excellent communications were discarded this week because of the fact that the editor had no way of knowing who was responsible for them. One was a community letter and the other was a school report. Possibly the writers have sent in communications heretofore and thought a signature at this time was not necessary, but it is necessary every time. We appreciate these letters and always gladly publish them when we know the author is responsible and reliable, but we must know that.

Baptist Reminder

Rev. Franklin E. Swanner, who was called to Collinsville the first of the week, wired the Eagle yesterday to announce he would fill his pulpit at both hours Sunday. His congregation is pleased to know he will return in time for the services and he can be sure of a full house at both services.

The ladies of Lometa had prepared a most sumptuous luncheon, which was added to by each Auxiliary from the other places, making more than was possible to consume by the 85 or 90 people present.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: Zone leader, Mrs. Pence, San Saba; zone secretary, Mrs. Walter Martin, Lampasas.

Those attending from Goldthwaite were Mmes. Highsmith, Jno. Keese, Hugh Moreland, Crews, Henry Martin, Dan Westerman, Eli Fairman, Tom Collier, H. B. Johnson and R. M. Thompson.

Little Mary Dell Highsmith and Billie Collier helped make up the crowd. REPORTER

Highway Work Will Be Urged

A delegation of citizens will go to Austin next week to urge the state Highway Department to expedite work on the approved highways in this county. Some of the work has been held in abeyance most of the year and still there are no prospects of its being done. Early in the year right of way was purchased and fences set back and everything made ready by the county for building the highways, but nothing has been done by the state department and the citizens will endeavor to get some assurance that work will be started on these highways. In one case a demand has been made on the county for a right of way, but the court has very properly answered that it would be useless for the county to go to the expense of preparing for the road building if the highway department is not prepared to do the work after right of way is procured.

If the contracts are authorized by the department a lot of work will be provided for the unemployed.

Clears Up Sluggish, Dull Feeling

"I have used Theford's Black-Draught for constipation for a long time, and find it gives relief for this trouble," writes Mrs. Frank Champion, of Wynne, Ark. "I think it is good for spells caused from gas on the stomach. If I get up in the morning feeling dull and sluggish, a dose of Black-Draught taken three times a day will cause the feeling to pass away, and in a day or two I feel like a new person. After many years of use we would not exchange Black-Draught for any medicine."

P.S.—If you have CHILDREN, give them the new, pleasant-tasting SYRUP of Theford's Black-Draught.

Agents of the federal surplus relief administration and the farm credit administration purchased 19,000 hogs on the Chicago market last Saturday, at from $4.35 to $4.50 for hogs averaging 250 pounds each. Although denials of such purchases were made Saturday, it was asserted by the relief agency that the purchases by the assistant director of procurement for the surplus relief corporation, and the farm credit administration—relieved a situation created by a sellers' strike on the Chicago market.

LAWSON—WOODARD

Miss Bernice Woodard of Goldthwaite and Theron Lawson of Caradan were quietly married Friday, November 10, 1933, at 3 o'clock p. m. in Hamilton.

The wedding was rather a surprise to everyone who knew them.

They were accompanied by Miss Thelma Johnson of Goldthwaite and Marvin Scott of Mount Olive.

Mrs. Lawson will be greatly missed here, as she is going to make her home at Caradan presently.

As friends of both, we wish for them a very long, happy married life. XX

HERE AND THERE

Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald this week uttered a public invitation to the German government to return to the Geneva world conferences. In a speech in the House of Commons, during the debate on the British foreign policy, the Prime Minister made it plain that he believed only failure would come out of attempts to build a disarmament pact unless Germany became a signatory to the treaty. He held the door open for a return to Geneva on the grounds that "there would be no use" in persuading two or three nations to enter an arms convention. He declared that, regardless of events, the work of the disarmament conference ought to continue.

Every one of the 100,000 men ordered to be taken off the relief rolls will be employed on relief projects, Texas relief commission headquarters announces. If work projects for the men have not been approved in any community, they will be put to work temporarily in clean-up campaigns under direction of local fire chiefs and firemen. Indications are now that approved work projects will be available in most places. Besides 530 projects that had been given approval prior to the new work order, 250 more had been given approval. Between 300 and 400 others were being checked at relief headquarters. Others were arriving with each mail delivery.

IN A CIVILIZED COUNTRY

A mob of 2000 persons at Mount Pleasant, N. Y., fighting and clawing for flowers from Texas Guinan's casket, left at least a dozen injured in what officials called the "most shameful and disrespectful scene that ever occurred in Westchester county." The riot occurred at the gate of the Heaven cemetery Sunday, when the body of the night club hostess was being lowered in the grave.

The milling crowd stripped floral offerings from the casket and denuded three motor cars carrying flowers. A small police guard was swept aside.

One man seized a wreath from the coffin and was bearing it triumphantly aloft when he was besieged by hundreds near by. All fought for a bit of the wreath and it was torn into many pieces. The incident turned the milling crowd into a mob, with every person struggling to get a souvenir.

Men and women were knocked down and brushed aside as the mob surged toward the receiving vault. The funeral service was ended abruptly by screams and yells. The fight to get flowers continued until there was not a spray or wreath remaining.

Hours before the cortege was scheduled to arrive at the gate of Heaven cemetery a large crowd had assembled. Many persons climbed on tombstones and monuments to get a better view. Others climbed to the roof of the receiving vault.

The crowd broke into a hushed cheer as the hearse passed thru the cemetery gate. As the casket was removed, hundreds surged forward. The way was blocked and the procession was forced to halt. Finally a way was cleared for the pallbearers and members of the family and the casket was carried into the vault. It was then that the riot started.

Five of the injured were passengers in a motor car which collided with three other machines during the melee.

"This is GAS AND OIL MONEY — BELIEVE IT OR NOT!"

Sally: "Really? Tell me about it, Helen." Helen: "Well, as I use the car most of the time these days and actually buy the oil and gas, Dick thought it a good plan to turn the car budget over to me entirely." Sally: "How does that give you extra money?" Helen: "I have more time than Dick and have learned some surprising things about the cost of car operation. Dick thought all gas and oil sold at approximately the same price were of equal value. When the motor broke down, he considered it just hard luck and paid the repair bill." Sally: "Isn't it?" Helen: "No! It is poor motor protection. More than half the entire motor wear occurs during the few minutes of starting when the motor is cold. Only one brand of oil—Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil—penetrates the metal so that a portion of it, nearly a quart, stays up in your motor, greatly reducing the wear. So checking back on repair bills that were paid before I changed to Conoco, we've saved a lot of money this last year." Sally: "What about gasoline?" Helen: "To me that choice depended on quick starting—Dick used to choke the car until he was wild. It wasted so much gasoline in cold weather—ran the battery down and the nerves, too. With Conoco Bronze, the motor starts at the first turn and has power galore—goes further on each gallon and is anti-knock also. So you see how I did it?" Sally: "I certainly do, Helen—and I think you're a very clever girl!"

Why Uncle George needs MORE LIGHT than Billy . . .

● Notice how much smaller the pupil of Uncle George's eye is than Billy's. But then, Uncle is sixty-two years old, while Billy just turned twelve.

It only goes to prove that as people get older the pupils of their eyes shrink in size . . . and so they need better light than they did before. But Billy's eyes should not be neglected either, because he's in the growing stage and studying and playing in poor light now may mean poor sight later.

Why not give the whole family the kind of light that's good for them? We will be glad to consult with you on this all-important problem.

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

EBONY

Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Campbell of Goldthwaite, representatives of the county health department, held an immunization clinic at our school Monday morning at 10 o'clock, in which 33 children were made immune to diphtheria. Almost every child in this community eligible for the serum took advantage of this opportunity. We consider this a great favor, having the clinic brought, as it were, to our own door. The teachers and parents and all the citizens wish to express to Dr. and Mrs. Campbell their gratitude for this service.

Just before our immunization clinic was held Monday morning we were startled at the tragic sight of seeing our neighbor's house wrapped in flames. The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Griffin was burned to the ground. Fire is thought to have caught from sparks from the flue. When the fire broke out Mr. and Mrs. Griffin were away fixing fence. Only Miss Odell and her little brother were at the house. Neighbors soon hastened to the scene, and most of the contents of the home were saved. The family is at present housing themselves in the barn.

This house was built about 1890 by Mr. Griffin's father. At this place was erected the first store ever built in this community. Also here the Ebony post office had its birth. It was later moved to its present site.

Mrs. Ross White and Mrs. Edna Bolinger of the Oakland community took advantage of our clinic Monday morning.

The teachers were gratified to see so many of the parents at school Monday and they expressed a desire that we might have some kind of a meet to bring them out oftener. Among those present there for the clinic were Mrs. Ernest Russell, Mrs. Allen Lovelace, Mrs. Loyt Roberts, Mrs. Will Crowder, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Reynolds, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Tippen, Nelson Williams, Walter Minica and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Clements.

Little Joe Bailey Russell, his mother said, when he had heard the doctor was coming had saved his pennies until he had enough to pay his fee of 50c. Joe Bailey is four years old. Dr. Campbell said he would get through the world all right.

Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Singleton and granddaughters, Janie and Jenave Singleton, and Gladys Griffin attended the box supper at Ridge Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Haynes and Cleone attended the birthday dinner of Henry Egger at Regency.

Mrs. Arle Egger of Ridge spent Monday and Tuesday of last week with her sister, Mrs. Will Corwder.

R. V. Beeman and family attended church at Regency Sunday and visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee.

Mrs. John Reeves, our old friend and neighbor, visited at the home of her son, S. H. Reeves, Sunday.

Mrs. Tillman Smith scalded a foot last week and is laid up in bed.

Charm Whittenburg is real ill at this writing.

Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Dwyer, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Wilmeth, Mrs. Nellie Malone, Mrs. Clara Wilmeth, Mrs. J. R. Briley and Grace visited at the Clements home Sunday afternoon.

We expect to have a cemetery working here Thanksgiving day. Everybody remember that next Sunday is church day. Bro. E. L. Green of Brownwood is to do the preaching Sunday morning. Be sure to come.

It was announced Sunday that the members and friends of the Church of Christ would meet Tuesday, November 21, to see what could be done about walling the tabernacle for winter use.

BLANTON SERVES

PAY CUT NOTICE

Representative Blanton has served notice to government employes working for restoration of their pay cuts that they had "better let well enough alone."

In a letter to E. Claude Babcock, president of the American Federation of Government Employes, released in Washington, Blanton said that in the last Congress he "fought against cutting the small salaries, but sought to cut to the bone all of the larger salaries."

"You entered civil service employment 10 years ago at a salary of $1100, while as secretary of the civil service, the government was paying you last August $5600 per annum," Blanton wrote Babcock.

"If you will send me a list of all your members who are dissatisfied with their government pay and are willing to give up their positions I will furnish 500 qualified applicants for each position, who will gladly take the job at a lower salary. You had better let well enough alone. The people are waking up. They want pledges made to them and not to selfish groups. They want their new deal continued. They are backing the president 100 per cent in reducing expenditures."—Star-Telegram

Pep Squad

Last Friday, an enthusiastic student body went to the ball park with high hopes of defeating Richland Springs Coyotes. We were not disappointed, for the Eagles came through with a score of 13-6 in their favor.

The pep squad, wearing the glorious school colors of black and gold, lined up at the forty yard line with a pep that only a patriotic pep squad could have. There was no lull in their enthusiasm at the end of the first half. At the half the pep squad formed two lines, a leader leading each line and carrying the black and gold flag of the Eagles and the blue and white flag of the Coyotes. The line following the blue and white flag marched toward the north goal post and formed a C, while the line following the black and gold flag marched toward the south goal post and formed an E. The girls in the blue and white line gave a locomotive yell for the Coyotes and sprinkled blue and white confetti on the ground, which left the form of a C on the field.

The girls in the black and gold line gave a locomotive yell for the Eagles and left black and gold confetti in the form of an E on the field. The football sponsor, Gertrude Johnson, then walked to the center carrying the United States flag and, while Harmon Frazier gave taps, the two leaders saluted and the pep squad stood at attention. The pep squads marched off in two lines from the center. At the end of the formations, the blue and white flag was presented to the Coyotes' yell leader.

Monday morning at assembly period, the pep squad met and Lucile Hoover, one of our leaders, gave the girls an enthusiastic talk concerning school spirit and our school song. Some of the girls have not yet come to the realization of what our school song means, and we hope they profited by her enthusiastic talk. It is quite natural that the freshmen should not realize what the song means, but those who are older, especially the seniors, should feel the same when they hear the school song as they do when they hear the Star Spangled Banner or America.

The boys will play San Saba Friday, November 17. It is the most important game of the season, so make it a point to be there and help our team win. If we beat San Saba, it means we still have a chance for district honors and our boys need your support.

Beat San Saba—

Goldthwaite Defeats Richland
For the first time in four years the Goldthwaite Eagles defeated the Richland Springs Coyotes Friday, November 10.

The Richland Springs team was strong and had only received one defeat up until Friday. The Coyotes' team was about the same size of the Goldthwaite aggregation.

The Eagles scored two touchdowns in the first half of the game to break the old jinx of making only six points in the first half. The Eagles had not scored over six points in the first half of any game they had played until Friday.

A pass from Todd to Harvey accounted for the first touchdown. The other touch down was made by Kirby.

The next game will be played with San Saba here Friday, Nov. 17, at 3:15 o'clock. Be sure and be there and see the Eagles win.

Beat San Saba—

Eagles vs. Armadillos

The Eagles and the San Saba Armadillos will meet Friday at the Goldthwaite fair park for their annual football tilt.

The San Saba team will be fighting for the title of this division, while the Eagles will be fighting for a three-way tie, which will be with Goldthwaite, Brady and San Saba.

The San Saba team has several points on the Eagles by dope: San Saba beat Lometa, 28-0. Goldthwaite beat Lometa 6-0. San Saba beat Brady 7-6. Brady beat Goldthwaite 13-6. San Saba beat Lampasas 41-7. Goldthwaite beat Lampasas 26-0.

Although the dope points toward a victory for San Saba, they are a long ways from having it cinched. The Eagles have now won two straight games, and are ready to make it three in a row.

Do you realize that we have a real little football team right here at home? We have, and you will decide this too, if you will only back them in their games. We need everyone that we can get down there rooting for us Friday. Eagles beat San Saba!

The ones, who do not come and back their team this week are slackers. Are you a slacker? San Saba must not win.

Freshman Class Meets

The freshmen met in a regular class meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 7. Most of the old business of the class was attended to. The red rose was chosen as the flower of the class, and crimson and black as the colors. The first Tuesday in every month was set aside as freshman day. Our president, Leon Gray, appointed Lottie Bell Hester, Mildred Tyson and Alice Dorsett to print and frame the class motto and hang it in the home room. Other plans for the home room will be made later.

Junior Class

A meeting was called Tuesday, Nov. 7, for the junior class to select the class colors and to discuss the entertainment that a member of the class intends to promote in the near future.

The house was called to order by the president and many various colors were voted on, but finally the two colors true blue and pure white were decided upon.

After selecting the colors Mary Louise Fairman postponed the junior class entertainment until a later date because of conflicts.

The juniors are indeed very lucky. Each morning they are first to see Captain Ted Kirby, "Star" Bill Todd, "Honorable" Lawrence Bledsoe, "Handsome" Woody Saylor, "Fat" Leonard Huddleston, "Son" Allen Campbell, "Freckles" Harold Yarborough, "Rogers" Clements, "Mutt" Howard and others on the Eagle team, you have heard so much about. Come and see the whole team clean up on San Saba Friday.

Press Club Meets

Last Thursday, November 9, the press club met for the first time as a body. The editor-in-chief took charge of the meeting and a business session ensued. Miss Euna Vee Brim was unanimously elected sponsor. About a week ago the senior class suggested a list of names for these columns. Secret judges were appointed by Mr. Smith. The name "High School Herald" had been selected when the press club was notified Thursday. Each suggestion had a number on it, and it was found that Evelyn Gartman was the senior who had suggested that name. Evelyn Gartman was then elected reporter of the press club and will assume her duties at the next meeting.

The press club is composed of all present reporters and anyone who wish to join and study journalism.

It is the plan of the club to meet each Thursday morning for the purpose of learning something concerning newspaper work. We intend to have talks and speeches by people who can help us to learn something about newspaper work. We are eager to not make the work simply an extra curricula activity, but to derive much good from the study of it also.

Seventh Grade Party

Armistice night Mrs. J. A. Palmer honored the seventh grade class with a masquerade party. About seven o'clock Spaniards, witches, colonial ladies and devils began to arrive. We had great fun trying to recognize one another.

We played many amusing games, but the game of Sultener caused the most merriment. Mrs. Palmer had a big bon fire in the yard, so we played a number of games outside. When we had played ourselves down we were served chili and crackers.

About nine o'clock our parents began to call for us. We left thanking Mrs. Palmer for such a pleasant evening and wishing she would ask us again soon.

Primary Department

The primary department has made a great improvement in the appearance of the school ground by piling up the loose rocks. Mr. Smith came to our aid and secured the services of Bill Jones and his truck. He has hauled away seven loads and the work will continue until the rocks are all hauled away. This not only adds to the appearance of the grounds, but saves many skinned knees and elbows among the little folk.

We are glad to announce that at last report Miss Archer, one of our teachers, who is in a Temple sanitarium, is improving as rapidly as can be expected. We hope that she will soon be back with us.

COTTON CONTROL

The report of the national agricultural department, showing an estimated yield of 13,100,000 bales of cotton from the 1933 crop, proves the wisdom and necessity of the plow-up campaign of last summer. Had all of the cotton been allowed to grow to maturity, there would have undoubtedly been a crop of twenty million bales. In the light of the season's price and judging by experience of former years, the crop of the estimated amount would have impoverished everybody connected with it.

PATRIOTISM SURPRISING

The trip thru the west of General Johnson, administrator of business and industry control of the federal government, resulted in a revelation to him as to the spirit of the people and brought forth from him expressions of surprise because of the loyalty he found. He evidently did not expect to find such universal patriotism and desire upon the part of those over whom he exercises control to carry out the demands of the administration regardless of their ideas or interests.

A HABIT THAT GROWS

It is a well known and often demonstrated fact that a habit—any kind of habit—will grow on an individual and after it becomes fixed it is hard to break. Few habits are more easily attained than that of ordering merchandise from mail order houses. There is a certain amount of mystery about it that attracts and there is a thrill in receiving the package and looking into it. Many people have the ordering habit so fixed upon them that they refuse to even consider the home dealer in the wanted line of merchandise, preferring to order from a description in a catalog or advertisement rather than go into the place of business, inspect the merchandise and make a selection.

BUILDING BACK

There can be no doubt that the country in general is in far better condition than it was a year ago. While all of our surroundings are not entirely to our liking and few people are making any considerable progress in a financial way, it is a fact that most people find themselves better off than they were a year or two years ago. This is not universally true, for some have made no progress and some have even retrograded, but in the main, the financial and economic condition of the people is better than at the beginning of last winter and the outlook is undoubtedly better.

KEEPING UP WITH TEXAS

State relief headquarters in Austin have instructed all county administrators to prepare for the winter months by furnishing blankets and warm clothing for persons on the relief rolls.

Action to clear up $1,000,000-300 worth of home loans and release the money to depositors in closed banks was announced in Washington this week.

In acting on separate appeals, challenging the validity of the Texas statute under which trucks are prohibited from engaging in interstate commerce over the highways of this state as private contract motor carriers without obtaining a permit from the Texas railroad commission, the supreme court at Washington affirmed the ruling of the federal district court. The carriers asserted they were engaged exclusively in the transportation of commodities under private contract shipped in interstate commerce and contended the state of Texas had no constitutional right to regulate such interstate commerce, insisting it was solely within the jurisdiction of congress. The federal district court for southern Texas sustained the law as valid, holding it was not in conflict with the commerce clause of the federal constitution.

SMALLEST REPUBLIC

Considerable confusion exists over the question of just what is the smallest republic in the world. Newspapers and magazines have mentioned both Andorra and San Marino in this connection. As a matter of fact, to neither of these does the honor of being the most diminutive belong. Andorra has not been a republic for centuries, and the fact that this country in the Pyrenees mountains on the Franco-Spanish border has 191 square miles in contrast to San Marino's 38 certainly puts it out of the running.

PROFITABLE INVESTMENTS

No amount of hortatory rhetoric will avail to dispose of the fact that return—in plain language, profit—on invested capital is the very heart and essence of what we call the capitalist system. Without it that system cannot exist in any form. If people are to continue to save and to put their savings to work, they must have a sufficient motive and the only conceivable motive that will suffice is the expectation of profit. That profit, moreover, must be large enough to make the motive effective.

Yet our politicians have sought to reverse the usual sequence, and ask our business men to "invest in wages and in work," and then wait for their profit as an ultimate result of that investment.

Now at this juncture when business men are alarmed and hesitant, the administration should take steps to encourage them.

Drastic modification of the oppressive NRA program, efforts to make labor sensibly co-operative in recovery movements which will eventually ensure to labor's benefit, effective restriction against competitive imports and vigorous reduction of confiscatory income taxes would all help enormously to hearten business men to build up business and thus naturally and legitimately to increase employment and restore prosperity. — Wall Street Journal.

was used as a concentration camp for seditious gladiators. The people on this isle still speak Latin, with their pronunciation aided by German scholars some 75 years ago.

During the years 1836 to 1896, the island was not independent, being owned by the Bartoloni family—a gift of King Carlo Alberto. In the latter year the rights of this family were contested and Tavorala regained her freedom promptly electing a president and six councilmen to govern the 100 people of the island without pay.

A tie through Charlemagne exists between the two states of Andorra and San Marino, for it was in the year of 802 when Charlemagne granted the state in the Pyrenees her independence, San Marino declared war on that mighty monarch. The latter's Latin secretary reported that the ruler died without learning the location of the state which declared war on him. — Pathfinder.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

IEWS OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE

THE DAY OF RECKONING

This great nation has won its supremacy by its acceptance and adherence to certain fundamental principles. These principles were followed by the men who laid the foundation of this government and by those who build upon that foundation.

Chief among all of these principles which they laid down and which they followed with unswerving fidelity, were frugality, economy, honesty. Up to the moment, no one has dared question the virtue of these qualities, whether exemplified by the individual, or by the state.

But now a new philosophy seems to have seized us with irresistible force: To borrow, borrow, borrow—with little concern about our ability to pay. It has taken hold of the city, of the county, of the schools, of the state, of the nation. It has become an uncontrolled passion. We are being urged and goaded to set aside all time honored limitations and rules of safety and security. We are being pushed forward to some unknown goal—what appears to be a quagmire of hopeless insolvency.

We are reveling in the self delusion by some grandiose stroke of ingenuity on our part we shall be able to defy the eternal economic laws upon which society, if it is to endure, must rest, although we have only to review the sad pages of history to see the stupidity of such a venture.

Frugality, economy and honesty must still remain our guiding principals. There can be no escape from the penalties that come from ignoring these homely virtues in public affairs.—J.W. Howell, State Chairman, Utah Taxpayers Association.

POLISH-GERMAN RELATIONS

A completely unlooked for, but none the less welcome, outcome of the National Socialist conquest of Germany has been a noticeable lessening of tension between Poland and Germany. Before the National Socialists came to power a considerable part of their attention on foreign affairs was guided in Poland's directions.

Today, however, it is quiet on Germany's eastern front. There is trouble on all her frontiers except the Polish one. And though she comparative calm on the Polish front is due largely to Germany's troubles elsewhere, it is none the less satisfactory that for almost the first time in years the League Council has no complaints from the German minority in Upper Silesia. Poles and National Socialists have buried the hatchet in Danzig—with a resulting diminution of business for the hard-worked world court. Germany has followed Poland's example—given two years ago—in ratifying their social insurance treaty, one of the most far-reaching in existence. Young German National Socialists have sung Polish patriotic songs and Polish youths German ones, while the two groups were fraternizing in the lovely Polish Tatra mountains.

Whatever the cause of the improved atmosphere, the change is certainly very much to the good. For as long as the plumage of the Polish and German eagles remained ruffled by the rancor of old quarrels there was no opportunity of getting the two countries to seek a peaceful way of solving what are admittedly very difficult problems. Nearly 600 years of intermittent strife should be sufficient evidence of the failure of war to settle the fate of the Polish Corridor and Upper Silesia. But if the present improvement is maintained, there may soon be an opportunity for a peaceful approach to these questions.

All this is not to say that a final solution is in sight. Very far from it. But through an unexpected concatenation of circumstances the political barometer in this part of the world no longer registers "stormy." Complete liquidation of the German-Polish quarrel can not of course be brought about by a mere wave of the hand. But the process of appeasement has certainly begun, and wise statesmanship must foster this development in every possible way.—Christian Science Monitor.

WILD LIFE IN DANGER

Since the dawn of human history men and animals have disputed possession of the world, and in modern times the spread of civilization reduces everywhere the places of refuge for wild life in the fields and forests. Africa, the hunters' paradise, is not safe from the influences which nearly wiped out many game birds and beasts from the American Continent in the pioneering era. The big-game sportsman and the indiscriminate slaughter of animals for food are a double danger to the herds which roam the veldt and the greater beasts of the African jungles and river courses.

Representatives of fourteen nations are meeting in London to devise a practical program for conserving Africa's wild life. The United States is represented by an observer, since this Nation owns no territory in Africa, but is interested, nevertheless, in the world-wide problem of conservation. Once before a similar conference failed of its purpose, when delegates of seven nations drew up a treaty to protect the wild life of Africa, but were unable to persuade their governments to ratify it.

In this country the same problem is under renewed discussion, following a report to the annual meeting of the National Association of Audubon Societies that the birds of America are suffering seriously from the depression. Illegal shooting of birds and small game, it is said, has increased as the effect of unemployment and the natural urge of man to secure food. Appropriations for protection of wild life, moreover, have been drastically reduced in many states.

It was realized long ago that it is a duty and necessity that civilized society protect the wild life which it displaces. Otherwise, the last lion will some day be shot in Africa, the last deer dead in the woods of America. By careful conservation the law of "survival of the fittest" may be intelligently controlled, for the mutual benefit of man and his furred and feathered neighbors.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

THE TRAGEDY DEEPENS

Poor Cuba! The radicals rage, the moderate reformers are shaken in their hold on power. Persons versed in the ways of revolution knew all along that the heat of revolt did not come from the moderates, from the sane and wiser elements who would do the good that could be done and refrain from vain attempts to realize Utopia overnight; it came, as it always comes, from the ignorant and the oppressed; those driven mad by suffering and brooding over wrongs, real or imaginary.

And so we have the prospects of anarchy or an irresponsible government in the island just off our coast. It brings up again the troublesome question of what may be done with a country without a government, or with an irresponsible government. In days gone by there would have been no question. Foreign forces would have moved in, some world power would have intervened to protect its interests and to restore peace, and, possibly, to pay itself, well for its effort.

We do not wish to do that today. We wish, rather, scrupulously to observe the sovereignty of these afflicted countries. But must we see our own people terrorized or slain and their property, legitimately acquired, destroyed, rather than use force to protect them, and if necessary, to enforce peace? We must answer the question, of course, for other nations than our own. Britain and France and Spain would have have to answer it for themselves except for our Monroe Doctrine, but since we have faced them with that doctrine they have countered by telling us to assume the responsibility for the protection of all Europeans in the American hemisphere. And we must accept the responsibility.

It is sincerely to be hoped that we can safeguard the interests of foreigners while permitting the Cubans every freedom in establishing the kind of government they desire, and that that

DIVERSIFICATION NOT

For many years economists the South have been urging diversification in agriculture. Educational campaigns were lessly conducted until it became apparent that the ignorance and lethargy generated by decades of habitual cotton dependence were being usually overcome. More than was given to restriction of cotton planting, to diversification of crops, to effective utilization of land. Just as results were being achieved, along came cotton plan for 1933 with strange inconsistencies with progressive trends in the S. Efforts at intelligent diversification were abruptly halted by proviso in the act that land freed from cotton acreage be planted in no other crop be offered for sale. Agricultural in brief, became "frozen." That knows today—unless the plan radically altered in the meantime—exactly how much cotton it may plant next year; just will be permitted to plant still a puzzle, but the total acre Texas may plant has already been prescribed. And what be grown—or more correctly what may not be grown—on retired land has likewise been made known to us. So any progressive that Texas and South may care to do about diversifying their agriculture be just a waste of time. problems of Texas and the S. are no longer ours for solution. Texas Weekly.

THE FARMER'S REVOL

If more serious troubles in the middle western farm states result from President Roosevelt's rejection of the governors' fixing demands, it will be difficult to place the blame will rest squarely on those friends of the farmers who are telling them that they are getting a fair deal from the administration at Washington urging them to press their case by every means, including force, if necessary, to gain their ends.

In Missouri, Milo Reno been calling for an uprising the masses. From the Des Moines headquarters of the Farmer Holiday association orders have been issued to members in twenty-one states to strike. At Appleton, Wis., a strike leader led his followers to use every weapon at their command, and claimed: "When I said wear I mean weapons." In several states shipments of milk and other products are being held on the highways. There have been numerous bombings of cheese factories and pitched battles between strikers and farmers who are trying to transport their products to market.

Governor Langer of North Dakota disgruntled with his rejection at the White House, repeated the absurd remark that a farmer is the forgotten man. At the same time Secretary Wallace was announcing an extension of the liberal plans for loans to farmers on corn with loan from the market, and it was intimated that the scheme might be applied to wheat as well. The administration is about to invest $50,000,000 in hog production for relief of the poor. In action, the processing taxes should yield $350,000,000 to corn and producers.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

TOO MUCH COTTON

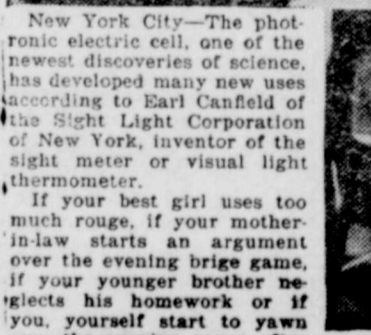

The cotton crop is getting bigger and bigger. The conviction strengthens that the farmer after plowing up his part of it and did some real farming on the cotton that was left. haven't had ideal cotton weather, by any means. But modern farmers know how to grow more cotton on fewer acres. They have heard of that before. — Dallas Journal.

government will be one capable of keeping Cuba a responsible member of the family of nations. We can be sure that every effort of the Roosevelt administration will be to this end—fairness to the outside world, but sympathy and helpfulness for Cuba.—Houston Chronicle.

Prying Electric Eye Finds Bad Lighting Cause of Many Errors

Below—Public Schools and Institutions are now using the Sight Meter to determine the proper amount of illumination.

New York City—The photonic electric cell, one of the newest discoveries of science, has developed many new uses according to Earl Canfield of the Sight Meter Corporation of New York, inventor of the sight meter or visual light thermometer.

If your best girl uses too much rouge, if your mother-in-law starts an argument over the evening bridge game, if your younger brother neglects his homework or if you, yourself start to yawn over the evening paper after supper the trouble is now quickly traced by that photonic photo-electric sleuth, the sight meter, to incorrect illumination.

Almost uncanny in its operation, this small meter, which can be conveniently carried about in the ordinary coat pocket or woman's handbag, registers exactly the amount of light intensity in any room using artificial light and indicates whether the light used is sufficient and adequate for reading, or doing detailed work.

The new meter weighs but eight ounces and comes in an attractive leather carrying case. It takes its place with the thermometer in the home, office, school or factory in measuring the amount of light necessary for the proper work or reading to be done under the existing circumstances. It is used for checking intensities of artificial light on dull days or at night—for checking reflection from walls and ceilings of various colors, tints of paints, etc.

ers. of students and others is increased as much as seventy percent when proper lighting is provided. Likewise it is shown conclusively by medical and eye specialists that the health of the individual as well as his eye sight is impaired by insufficient light for work or reading.

Reading rooms in libraries, schools and colleges often have improperly placed lighting fixtures, causing eyestrain on the readers and students. Use of the sight meter will serve to correct these conditions. A recent example of the eye strain prevalent in colleges, students was given when a military organization, composed of students in several well known colleges was forced to reject 621 out of 690 applicants because of faulty vision, most of which it was believed resulted from eye strain due to study. The sight meter itself is made compact in form, simple in operation and tests have shown it to function without any deviation from accuracy over a long period of time with no replacements required. It is priced low enough for any householder to buy one and institutions can afford several with which to constantly check their lighting intensity.

On Wednesday morning a few minutes before 8 o'clock Ben Hartgraves, janitor at the court house, discovered that the gas fire in the boiler room in the basement of the building had somehow become extinguished, and went into the room to turn off the gas at the furnace. Portions of the big boiler that furnished the steam heat throught the building flew in every direction. Mr. Hartgraves said he was struck on the forehead with a piece of metal that cut a gash several inches long across his nose and left eye, and sustained other injuries that were minor, and deemed miraculous that he escaped alive. The force of the explosion shattered the small window panes in the boiler room, and opened small fissures in the concrete floor of the office of Tax Assessor Hurley, just above the gas furnace. An empty five-gallon oil can that was on the walk close by a basement window on the west was hurled out on the lawn a distance of some twelve feet. FROM FAR-AWAY OREGON

Hubbard, Ore., Nov. 6.

To the Goldthwaite and Center City Friends:

It's been a little more than a year since we left the dear, old Lone Star State, and came to the famous Willamette Valley in western Oregon. Crops have been good here this year, but prices have been low. Apples, pears, grapes and all kinds of vegetables are just going to waste. Wheat made from 30 to 45 bushels per acre. Not many strawberries, as the severe freeze last winter froze them out. Evergreen and logan berries make from four to six tons per acre, which usually sell for 5c per pound in normal times.

This valley is about 250 miles long and 80 miles wide. Most everything grows to perfection as the soil is the best to be found. The rainfall usually begins in September and continues until June 1. Then it is clear and dry. It never gets hot, just cool and pleasant. The climate can't be excelled.

From my home I can see three snow covered mountains, with snow on them every day in the year.

I have just come back from the Hood River Valley, which is noted for its fine apples and pears. I went by way of Portland and up the Columbia river highway, the most scenic drive in the U. S. A. While in Hood River Valley, I went fishing. Had to hike three or four miles through the jungles to a small mountain stream. We caught all the mountain trout we wanted. There are plenty of deer and bear in those jungles. I thought of Dr. Campbell. How I wish I could see him turned loose there with a 30-30.

Oregon is a fine country to live in. Beautiful flowers and scenery. Plenty of everything except money. We have a fine class of people here—friendly and sociable. But, I being a southerner, wish there were lots of Texas folk here. When planning your vacation don't forget Oregon via Pacific highway and stop in and see an old Texas friend.

If the editor prints this I may write again some time.

Comanche

After standing idle for two years, the Lone Star Gasoline Casinghead Refinery, located six miles east of Rising Star on the Sipe Springs road, resumed operations last Wednesday.

The Comanche county grand jury established a near record for felony indictments here when it adjourned Friday, after returning 47 true bills of indictment in felony cases and one misdemeanor.

The Comanche county district court is still enforcing the liquor laws it appears from the action of the first three days of criminal court, which began here Monday. Seven cases went to trial during the first three days and as many terms in the penitentiary were assessed with two suspended.

John L. Cadenhead, 78, dropped dead in the yard at the home of his brother, Frank Cadenhead, with whom he made his home in Comanche on Dublin street, about 6 o'clock Thursday evening, Nov. 2. Mr. Cadenhead, who had been in poor health from heart trouble for several years had been feeling well as usual on the day of his death, according to relatives, and had done light work about the place. — Chief.

Lady Took Cardui And Got Rid of Pain In Her Side

"Last summer, my health was bad, so I began taking Cardui," writes Mrs. H. E. Slaughter, of Norman, Okla. "My mother had given me Cardui in girlhood, so naturally I turned to it when I felt I needed it. I felt run-down and a general weakness. I had had, dizzy headaches when everything would seem to dance before my eyes. My right side pained me so much, but since taking Cardui the pain has left me. I have taken several bottles of Cardui and have improved a great deal."

Cardui is sold at drug stores here.

STYLES IN NEW YORK

Accessories Play Brilliant Role in the Mode.

The trend toward lustrous shiny accents in the mode is evidenced particularly in the newer accessories which are being played up brilliantly in New York shops just now. Shoes and handbags of suede—so favored this season—have taken on trims of patent leather, shiny kid, metal cloth and shiny stitchings. One smart display features shoes with matching bag and belt in combination of rich brown suede and brown patent leather. The shoes are of high oxford type with patent cuff and scuffless heel. The bag is in envelope styling with patent leather and suede interestingly combined, and is further accented by an amber colored composition bar-clasp extending entirely across the top. The matching two-inch belt carries out the same effect thru a large matching composition buckle.

Another display shows a very narrow black patent leather belt on a white crepe evening gown. This new style feeling for shiny surfaces in accessories is seen also in the new satin gloves and scarves and in some of the smart new hats with trims of jet, sequins and lacquered quills.

Shiny Notes In Costume Jewelry.

With bright and shining accents pepping up the whole field of fashion, it is perhaps only natural we should have a revival of jet, and that sequins should sparkle not only on hats, scarves and jackets, but as a medium for costume jewelry. Smart New York shops are showing sequin bracelets, earrings, clips and bandeaux for the hair. These items are seen in gold and silver, as sponsored by Chanel, and with a plain black or white evening gown make a splendid brilliance. This same glittering theme is carried out in new cravats and collars for afternoon frocks, vying in interest with the shiny satin cravats and collars.

Eyeglasses Distinctive in Styling.

Eyeglasses in a new flattering graceful streamline styling are being shown this season, along with other accessories for the classroom and campus. Particularly favored by the college crowd are the new shell frames with gold-filled hand engraved bridges. They are decidedly youthful in appearance and, at the same time, combine strength and comfort with their beauty. One notes them in soft pleasing new amber tones and in cloudy greys, the former, however, more in favor.

College Colors In Smart Football Fashions.

Harvard crimson, Yale blue and Princeton yellow are some of the new colors football is inspiring in grandstand fashions, with New York shops featuring them particularly in accessories, such as the matching velvet scarfs and berets, the little brimmed woolen hat with matching scarf and glove cuffs, and in some of the new soft woolen frocks with rayon satin trims, to be worn under collegiate coats and smart tweedy suits with knitted sweater blouses. Big buttons of plastic composition, wood, leather and metal distinguish many of the smartest frocks in football fashion displays.

Secretary Ickes has dismissed Harry S. Berry, public works engineer for the state of Tennessee, asserting that Berry in a circular letter to civic organizations had expressed the opinion loans for non-federal projects would not have to be repaid.

Gillets Make Two Frocks From One.

The latest trick in make two frocks from one is the new gillet. It's a sort of separate vestee that covers the front of the waist completely and ties in the back at the neck and waist. One notes them in rayon crepes, satins, transparent velvet, metal cloth and cires. They are decidedly effective when contrasting the frock in color and fabric—as, for example, a bright red plastron with a black frock, or a rust-colored plastron with a brown dress. The idea was Vionnett's, but it is being done in New York in a variety of smart ways and is "putting up a smart front" just now for many a plain dress. It's really a stunning way to make a new costume out of a left-over.

New Ways With Colors and Materials In Modern Apartment.

A different color for each of the four walls of a living room, copper and cork paneled and floored foyer, and a kitchen done in vivid red, white and chromium are all featured in a smart modern apartment, now on display. Two walls of the living room are painted cafe au lait, one a grayish green and one a steel gray. One of the inset of deep brown patent leather. The ceiling is gray. Draperies are of beige wool and match brown and beige chairs. Washable white fabrikoid chairs are featured in the red, white and chromium scheme of the kitchen. Bright yellow fabrikoid upholstered on chromium frame chairs and a small cork table constitute the furniture of the cork foyer, with its ceiling painted a bright yellow to match the chairs. Gray and delicate silver tones characterize the dining room with accents of deep red brown, while bedrooms are done in tones of beige, grey and pale green, with accents of deep red brown, while bedrooms are done in tones of beige, grey and pale green, with accents of brown and rust.

Washable Wall Papers Smart and Practical.

Wall papers in new colors and designs and with a coated or lacquered surface, so that they can be washed easily with soap and water, are being featured now in all the up to now shops. Smart new designs in new color combinations for every room of the house from bath to drawing room are shown, each with suitable new drapery fabrics befitting the purpose. For the most part, designs are simple. Heavy rayon fabrics are favored among drapes. Light-colored papers and drapes in new greens, blues and rust shades are very important.

Style Flashes.

In keeping with the trend for shiny accents in the mode are the bright new vanities in circulars and squares of gleaming chromium with Scotties and other designs.

Mexico is inspiring some of the strong new colors that promise to be very important in cruise and southern resort styles. There is Russian influence, too, on the horizon.
