VOLUME FORTY

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1933.

NUMBER FOURTEEN

Banquet Planned By P. T. A.

The P. T. A. is planning a banquet for next Friday night, Dec. 8, in the Harrison building, next door to Steen & Son's store, honoring the members of the school board, the members of the public school faculty and the football team. In order that all outstanding citizens may have opportunity to attend the banquet, the ladies have arranged to sell tickets, which will be on sale at both drug stores.

All who know anything of the P. T. A. membership know full well that the banquet will be one of the outstanding events of this school year and the social season. Goldthwaite has a splendid school, an excellent faculty, a highly appreciated and faithful school board and one of the best football teams the town has ever had. The space in the band hall will be limited, necessarily, and those who are so fortunate as to be numbered among the guests will be fortunate indeed.

HEALTH NURSE COMING

Miss Cella Moore, nurse from the state department of health, will be in Mills county from December 4 to December 23. She expects to visit every school in county. No definite schedule can be arranged, on account of unsettled weather conditions at this time of year. However, in so far as possible, each school will be notified a day or two in advance of her visit. Each school is invited to secure health cards on Judge L. E. Patterson, and cards with pupils' names, weights and heights. All schools that have not had diphtheria clinics are urged to do so. For any information desired, communicate with Mrs. Roy Rowntree, county chairman.

MILLS CO. HEALTH COM.

A RARE TREAT

A number of Goldthwaite hunters have already visited the hunting grounds in the counties where deer are found and several have had the good fortune to secure one of the antlers-bearing animals. Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Gilmore were among the successful hunters and Mr. Gilbert was doubly successful, bringing back two bucks. He and Mrs. Gilbert have some of their friends with a generous donation. Fortunately, they were numbered in the list of friends and enjoyed a delicious steak. We are all mighty glad of the good news of our friends, the Gilmores, especially as it turned out to be our good luck as well.

MARRIED

Miss Rose Henson and Wiley M. Johnston at Cain Valley, Ky., November 25, 1891.

Five friends gathered here for the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston to celebrate their second wedding anniversary.

A well appointed buffet supper served at 6 p. m., after which several spirited games of pool were played, then the friends gathered around Mr. and Mrs. Johnston to present their congratulations and good wishes, after which Mrs. Johnston very charmingly told the romance of the school which who wooed the belle in this town.

THOUGHTFUL FRIENDS

and Mrs. F. M. Stephens, of the editor's appreciated list, presented him some fish tanksgiving, which was most stable and highly appreciated. This is not the first time friends have remembered the eagle man in this way, but has their kind thoughtful been more appreciated.

Methodist Notes

We had a great day at our church Sunday last. The pastor preached a Thanksgiving sermon and the choir was at its best in the Thanksgiving songs.

The exercise through which our leader, Mr. Dew, is putting the choir, is showing most excellent results. Let all who will sing with us come to the rehearsals Wednesday evenings. It will be helpful to attend the prayer service, we shall spend a half hour preparing the songs for the Sunday morning services. Come with us; we shall all appreciate your help.

The attendance at Sunday school last Sunday was the best in some time. We are pressed for room for the classes and hope to make plans to meet this great need.

With the beginning of the new year there will be an elective course of study in our Sunday school literature on the History of Methodism. This grows out of the fact that next year is the 150th anniversary of the organization of the Methodist church in America. As the Methodist bodies of the United States are to celebrate this event during the entire year, it might be well for the Sunday schools of the church, especially the adult division, to use this elective course. If all the classes could meet together with a competent teacher to instruct them, it might be of great service to the church and Sunday school. I trust, some thought may be given to this suggestion. It may be of value to the Sunday school and church for the future.

Our men's class was especially delighted to have so many visitors with us Sunday. Several strangers who were passing thru town stopped to spend the Sunday school hour with us, and were of value to us in their able discussion of the lesson. This is as it should be. I have often thought that this would be a fine plan for travelers. Their presence would be a great help to the local church and they would get the value of the services of which they would otherwise be robbed.

The greatest social event of our town in recent months was the meeting of the Philathea class last Monday evening. The meeting was in the hospitable home of the teacher, Mrs. R. M. Thompson. Thirty-five or more class members were in attendance, together with some visitors. This writer does not pretend to be a judge of such matters, but if allowed to express his honest convictions he would pronounce it a classic, whatever that may mean. The ladies were dressed in the costume of half a century ago, although none would pretend that they had ever had experience so ancient as that. Personally, I may have seen some people dressed as were these, but frankly, I do not know when or where. To use an expression some times heard among the elect it was a "scream" from beginning to the end. I think it was the consensus of opinion of those present that it was one of the finest meetings this great Sunday school class has ever held.

Those who attended the set-up meeting for the district at Llano last Wednesday reported a great meeting, which got the district off to a good start for the coming conference year. All the pastors seem to be hopeful and enthusiastic. As a matter of fact, the oppressive times which confront them seem to be a challenge to them to put forth their best efforts for a mighty victory.

At the meeting of the board of stewards last week the board adopted a new plan to raise the financial budget for the year. Instead of an assessment, as they had done in other years, they are simply asking the membership to make a voluntary subscription. The board hopes this subscription may be as liberal as possible. Doubtless there are

Teachers Attend Convention

Most of the faculty of Goldthwaite and Mullin schools, as well as a number of teachers in the other schools of the county, attended the state teachers meeting in Austin Thursday.

Supt. A. H. Smith of this city is one of the vice presidents of the state association and others of Mills county teachers take a lively interest in the proceedings and work of the association.

The annual meeting is generally held on Thanksgiving, in order that there may be a good attendance and the teachers may have the benefit of the information, instruction and associations of the convention.

BIBLE STUDY

Circle No. 2 met in the home of our chairman, Mrs. Annie Armstrong, with a real nice crowd present. Everyone seems to enjoy these lessons more and more, as the last lesson seems to be just a little more interesting than the one before.

Mrs. Hudson explained the book of Hosea very clearly, which made it interesting to all.

As Thanksgiving was so near we made the social hour one of thanksgiving and prayer.

It was an inspiration to listen to each and every one as they told of the many, many blessings that had come their way thru out the past year.

Mrs. Orville Greathouse favored us with a reading entitled "A Cheerful Caller," which was enjoyed by every one, and as we are at this time, telling how thankful we are for every blessing, please, Mr. Editor, permit me to say that we are grateful to you and your co-workers for the best paper published. We feel like there is none better. The editorial page is worth many times the price of the paper, and we appreciate your efforts in giving us the best reading matter available.

Next week will be the week of prayer and let us every one be very prayerful, and ask our heavenly Father to continue His blessings on us as He has done in the past.

We were glad to have as visitors Bro. Swanner, our president Mrs. W. P. McCullough, and Mrs. L. J. Gartman. We were also glad to have Mrs. Greathouse, Mrs. Clyde Faulkner and Mrs. Sansom, the former a visitor from Circle No. 4, the last two members of our circle.

LAKE MERRITT CONSOLIDATED SCHOOL

The Lake Merritt consolidated school wishes to thank its friends and patrons who have so willingly helped move the buildings and get them in condition for teaching. A few of the patrons took it upon themselves to see that the work was done and the community wishes to thank them for their services.

School has been in session for six weeks and a majority of the patrons are well pleased with the new system. However, the grounds need cleaning and a few improvements need to be made, so the community has set Friday, December 8, as clean up day and urge that everyone keep this in mind and be present to help.

NAZARENE NOTES

Rev. Wm. Braswell is expected to return home from his trip to Tulsa, Okla., in time to fill his pulpit Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and Sunday night.

We also hope to have with us Rev. Murphy of Dublin, Texas, for a series of meetings, beginning Monday night, December 4. He was expected to begin a revival here two weeks ago, but was detained at Brooksmith in a revival, where a number of souls were saved.

We invite the co-operation of all Christian people.

Social Events

ART AND CIVIC CLUB

A luncheon, which claimed outstanding social interest, took place Friday, November 24, at 12:30 o'clock in the beautiful Prock McCullough home.

Mrs. Jake Saylor, in her charming way, led the day's program, the principal features of which were, Invocation, done in song, by Mrs. Claud Eacott; reports from the state convention by Mrs. Roy Rowntree, who was a delegate to the 36th annual convention of the Federated Women's clubs of Texas. Mrs. Rowntree brought to the club a very beneficial and interesting report on the first state club home in the United States, its location, cost and size; the luncheon and programs she attended and her work with the district presidents.

Mrs. Hodges, who attended the convention, made an interesting talk, concerning the convention programs, her visit to the governor's mansion and the Elizabeth Ney studio. She also presented to the club the picture won by the club for having done the most in raising the standard of beauty in their community.

Mrs. Hugh McCullough and Mrs. C. L. Woodard of Hico delighted everyone with a piano duet. A very fitting poem, "The Always Faithful Few," was read by Mrs. Keese.

Local anecdotes told by the club members and guests ended one of the most enjoyable social events of the year.

The personnel of this delightful affair included club members and the following guests: Mmes. Walter Fairman, Bowman, Holland Frizzell, Jo Frizzell, Haynes Harrison, Earl Clements, Walter Weatherby, Duke Clements, Mark Fairman and W. E. Miller. Out-of-town guests were Mmes. Othel Smith, Lampasas; Hugh McCullough, Hico, and Mrs. C. L. Woodard, honor guest, Hico.

MERRY WIVES CLUB

A very delightful affair was the evening bridge on Friday, Nov. 25, in the Burch home, with Mrs. C. M. Burch and Mrs. Chas. Frizzell as co-hostesses. The reception rooms were made even more inviting by a wood fire in an open fire place. Chrysanthemums of many hues and zinnias added just the right touch of color. After several interesting games of bridge a dainty salad coagulation was served.

High score prizes, unique novelties, were awarded Miss Adeline Little, Mrs. Kelly Saylor and Mrs. Earl Summy. The personnel of the delightful affair included members of the Merry Wives club, their husbands, Miss Georgia Frizzell, Miss Adeline Little and Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Stephens and daughter, Patricia.

COTTON GINNED

The Mills county ginners report to the census department that 6236 bales of cotton were ginned in the county up to November 14, as compared to 5395 bales, up to the same date last year.

Interscholastic League Plans

The Interscholastic League of this county offers the schools this year a wide variety of contests, according to Mr. Tolbert Patterson, recently elected director general of the organization for the current school year.

"No other extra-curricula activity," he said, "engages the interest and stimulates endeavor along helpful lines more than the contests which are scheduled for the county meets. Here we have an activity for practically every child. There is opportunity for participation in fifteen different fields, both athletic and literary, ranging from the third grade on up to the last year in high school.

"We are advised from the state office that the constitution and rules is ready for distribution and that applications for membership are coming in from schools in all parts of the state. The schools in this county should get in on the ground floor and begin preparations early. Each school that joins is given a copy of the constitution and rules, a copy of the current spelling list and is entered for a year's subscription to the Interscholastic League. Last year nearly six thousand schools joined the League and participated in its work in 220 different counties.

There are contests arranged for every class of public school, including rural, ward and both small and large high schools, and all-round championships are decided in each of the divisions at the county meet."

STAR SCHOOL NEWS

Sports

The seniors boys' and girls' basketball teams went to Center City last Friday evening to play ball and came with their colors flying with victory.

The junior basket ball boys went to McGirk and won a game there.

Clubs

The clubs report fairly good work. Both choral clubs will entertain at the play and program next Friday night, December 1. "The Last of the Lowries," a tragedy, will be presented by Billie Jo Williams, V. D. Adams, Margaret House and Florence Soules Friday night.

Jokes

The senior Better English club met one day to write a poem. When one stanza was finished, the first line had no connection whatever with the last line. Mr. Gerald asked why this poem was so different from other poetry. Billie Jo spoke up quickly, "Different poets write different poetry." Come on, seniors, you'll be real poets some day!

Margaret House's waistline,
Cuba Luca's eyes,
Florence Soule's mischievousness,

Eunice Reeve's complexion,
Opal Gordon's ability to wear clothes,

Oleta Faye Shave's pose,
Lena Bell Hill's hands and,

Wouldn't she be one perfect girl?

AGRICULTURAL ADJUSTMENT ADMINISTRATION

The A. A. A. is functioning surely but slowly in Mills county. The plow up checks have been delivered except seven. The 1934 cotton plow up has been announced and necessary blanks are expected daily. The sign up should be completed by January 15, 1934.

The cotton option certificates have not been received to date. The F. E. R. A. offers to buy 70 fat cows from Mills county stockmen to be delivered at Waco.

The Hog-Corn program is expected as soon as blocks can be printed.

Baptist Reminder

It was a joy to have such large crowds at both services Sunday. The Sunday school and B. T. S. were also well attended. We always want you to feel welcome in the Baptist church at any service.

I will preach Sunday at both the morning and evening hours. Sunday school at ten and B. T. S. at 6:15.

Next week the women will observe the "week of prayer." They have programs arranged for Monday and Tuesday afternoons. The services for Wednesday will be held at the prayer meeting hour. I am glad for the women to have the prayer hour.

CENTER CITY SCHOOL NEWS

The ball games we had last Friday afternoon were not so successful, as we had hoped for them to be. Star defeated both the girls and boys. However, we hope that it was only a streak of bad luck and that the next time we will have better luck.

Mr. Kirby's room entertained the school with the following chapel program Wednesday morning:

Reading—R. L. Atchison and Frank Teperin.
Debate: Resolved, that the RFC has done more harm than good.—Garth Carter and Carl Casbeer.

Maurice Langford read Mr. Kirby's room newspaper, "The Leader," and the school paper, "The Rambling Ranger," was also read.

The next chapel program will be given by the high school room.

The women that belong to the P. T. A. are getting busy on the quilt that will buy the girls a basket ball. They have decided to meet Monday at Mrs. Cherter Head's to piece the quilt and decide on a place to quilt it. The chances will be sold later.

Everyone buy chances and help the girls buy their basket ball. You will have a chance to get a very beautiful quilt, besides helping the school. The pattern chosen for the quilt is "The Pantry."

We are sorry to report that our principal, Mr. Neighbors, has been quite ill. He has been absent from school since last Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Mohler Oglesby is substituting for him.

The fifteenth of December the P. T. A. will have another meeting. The school will put on the program for this time. Every one come and see how well our school is progressing.

All the pupils, as well as the faculty, were happy to have the holidays, Thursday and Friday. All work and no play, makes Jack a dull boy.

Thanksgiving A Holiday

Thanksgiving was universally observed as a holiday in Goldthwaite. The business places and schools were closed and many citizens took advantage of the opportunity to make visits or engage in some pleasant recreation.

Thanksgiving is one of the four holidays designated for observance by the Retail Merchants association and is one holiday that is always observed in this city.

Because of the observance of the holiday, the Eagle is one day late in reaching some of its readers, while some receive it on time. The day falling in the middle of the week always interferes with the Eagle's publication, but coming as it does only once a year, we can all stand the inconvenience, and possibly, some of the readers will receive their paper as early as they would otherwise receive it.

EAGLES DECLARED DISTRICT WINNERS

The Goldthwaite Eagles were automatically declared the champions of the eastern division of District 13-B, at the meeting of the Executive committee at Santa Anna, Monday afternoon.

Brady forfeited all its games, when the committee declared Jesus Hernandez, reserve Brady tackle, to be over the age limit, which left Goldthwaite and San Saba tied for the honors in this division. However, since San Saba has already played nine games, and since no more than 10 games may be played from opening of school to and including Thanksgiving week, when the district championship must be decided, the Eagles were declared the only team eligible to represent this side of the district.—Brady Standard.

OPPORTUNITY PASSING

The opportunity is now offered to secure public funds on the easiest possible terms for all manner of public improvements. It is only necessary for the city or county to provide the material for any enterprise and the money from the federal appropriations can be secured for payment of labor. This is a rare opportunity and probably will not be offered again in many years. Paving, sidewalk building, roads and all other improvements where the general public is interested can be done with this money secured on the easiest possible terms and a good percent of it is donated. Several of these projects are under consideration in this city and county and it behooves the citizens generally to unite in planning for all needed improvements while the funds are available. Every street in the city can be paved and public enterprises of various kinds can be installed if the application is submitted to the state commission and is approved.

RED CROSS WORK

The local chapter of the Red Cross has made the following distributions the past year: Ebony community storm sufferers, $145.70, cash donated, $81.54. Clothing and furniture to the storm area, $135. Rio Grande storm sufferers, $15. Sweaters distributed, 226. Flour (sacked), 677. New cotton cloth, 1750 yards. New garments, 318 suits.

PROJECTS SUBMITTED

A number of local projects in which unemployed laborers can be used have been prepared and submitted by the Mills county committee, but they have not yet been approved by the state commission. About sixty men are now employed on C. W. A. work in the county and many more will be employed as soon as the projects are approved.

BUSY BEE

TREE ARMY

Hq. Texas District, C.C.C., Fort Sam Houston, Texas, Capt. M. Y. Stokes, Jr., MI-Res., Public Relations Officer.

Announcement that all regular army officers and enlisted men on duty with Civilian Conservation corps companies would be returned to their army stations by December 15 was enthusiastically received this week by officers of the Second Division at Fort Sam Houston. Although a number of the regular army officers originally detailed to duty with the CCC have already been relieved by reserve officers, normal activities have been greatly handicapped by the absence of the 74 officers and 118 enlisted men from Fort Sam Houston, who are still in the work camps.

The wholehearted response of the army to the call of the Civilian Conservation corps last spring left the organizations composing the division with barely enough officers to maintain post activities. Training, the primary peace time activity of the army was necessarily curtailed. In the 23d Infantry at Fort Sam Houston, for example, a captain who was commanding two battalions and his own company at Fort Sam Houston, was also placed in command of a C. M. T. C. unit and an infantry company detailed on C. M. T. C. duty at Camp Bullis. The 9th Infantry for some time had only its colonel, a major, a captain and three second Lieutenants to perform the duties ordinarily requiring 42 officers. The artillery and other organizations were deprived of their officers in the same way.

While the regular army officers have been commanding companies of the CCC in the field—and this includes providing shelter, clothing, food, medical attention and recreation for each man—they have at the same time, been training the reserve officers assigned to their camps to perform these duties. Recent inspections indicate that these reserve officers are now sufficiently familiar with the multitudinous details of camp administration to take over the CCC companies, and, as camp construction for winter is practically complete, the regular army of-

DEATH TAKES B. A. CORDELL

Ben A. Cordell, inspector for the state livestock commission, at one time politically prominent in Bexar county, died unexpectedly at his station in St. Ignacio Friday, according to word received by Street Commissioner Paul Steffler.

His wife was present at the time of his death, Steffler said. No further details have been received.

Cordell was at one time city clerk under the late Mayor O. B. Black, and was a candidate for fire and police commissioner several years ago.

His last political activity was a speaking tour for Governor Ferguson last year. — San Antonio Light.

Mr. Cordell was quite well known in Mills county and had a great many friends here. He came to Mills county first as a Nazarene preacher and held a number of meetings in the county and was noted for his oratory and forceful speaking. At one time he and his brother-in-law, W. H. Walton, owned the C—ranch and lived there. A good many years ago he disposed of that property and moved to San Antonio.

Officers will be returned to their own organizations. A similar training process has been under way to train enrollees to take their places as cooks, mess and supply sergeants and company clerks, thus relieving the four enlisted men on duty at each camp so that they too may go back to their buddies in the army.

The operation of the CCC camps will not be affected by this relief of regular army personnel, and supervision by regular army officers at District and Sub-District Headquarters will be maintained. The army will continue to feed, clothe and furnish medical attention for the men enrolled in the CCC, but it will no longer be forced to curtail its own training and other peace time duties in so doing.

STYLES IN NEW YORK

Colorful Costumes At National Horse Show

The National Horse Show, which officially opened the New York social season this year, brought out an unusual number of "blue ribbon" costumes. Ermine, chinchillas, velvets, metal brocades and shimmering satins scored high among evening wraps at the gala opening of this social event, which celebrated its year its golden jubilee. Color played its part not only in the riding togs of equestrians, but in evening gowns and wraps. Gowns of black velvet in transparent, ribbed, plain and shirred versions were seen oftener than not with long sleeves and carrying their quota of gold in gold lame jackets, or gold necklaces and bracelets. While black predominated, there were velvets, satin and crepe gowns in vivid reds such as flame and Chinese lacquer—colors that were noted also in smart cape linings often accompanying black gowns. Blue in a new turquoise shade was outstanding. Very smart were the new amethyst shades in these fabrics, particularly when worn by silvery white-haired fashionables.

From most coiffures, stars twinkled. Some were crowned with glittering tiaras or diadems. Still others were accented by bands of fabric matching the gown worn, and held in place by jeweled clips.

Hunt Displays Featured The hunting season has afforded some of the shops and large stores opportunity to delight the eyes of outdoor women with displays of shotguns which appeal to the modern Diana. In one of the more elaborate exhibits are featured several kinds of 20 gauge shotguns, sporting arms of lighter weight than 12 gauge guns which most men formerly used. The 20 gauge models give very light recoil, a feature which is appreciated by the woman shooter. Choice of types of this small gauge and easily handled gun includes repeaters and auto-loading ones. Of particular interest is the over and under double gun, which is new on this side of the Atlantic, though sportswomen abroad have used it for some time. By over and under is meant that one barrel is above the other, not side by side, as is the case with a double barrel gun such as has been in use for many years. Women trapshooters are showing as much interest in the light weight guns as are those who pal with their men folk on hunting trips. Too, there is much in the gun displays to appeal to women who go in for Skeet, the new form of target shooting, in which clay pigeons are thrown from traps in a manner to simulate the flight of winged upland game. Others who are taking keen interest in the showing of shotguns are those who are early looking over the range of gift possibilities for the holidays.

Handbags of Pyroxilin Plastic In Evening Mode In keeping with the vogue for shiny accents are the new bags with metal frames and rhinestone trims featured now in New York shops for the evening mode. In new shapes, including variations of pouch and envelope styles, and in both top and back handles, these bags are carried out in white, black and in combinations of white and black, and with rayon faille or satin linings. In some models the rhinestone trim is featured on both the bag and the handle. This applies particularly to models featuring the round bracelet handle. In day time numbers these bags are noted in black and brown in both envelope and pouch styles. One very chic model in flat pouch styling has an inch band of the same material in dull leather effect extending entirely around the bag at each end.

Toppers Give New Style Note To the Mode New York shops are featuring a new style note now through toppers—those ingenious shapes in fabrics that tie around the neck and at the waist and transform a plain dress into something smart and often glamorous. One notes them in a variety of materials—crepes, velvets, satins, plain, ribbed and crinkled. Many are colorful—such as bright red or green crepes dotted with gold. There are some of lames and metal brocades. A simple black frock with one of these style devices gives it a decidedly 1933 accent. Particularly smart is the black crepe frock with velvet topper in such shades as flame, emerald or chartreuse, or a brown crepe frock with a green velvet topper.

Daytime skirts are getting a little shorter, which is a more youthful style note.

The trend in all fashions is for greater simplicity, which is more youthful. Ornate effects do not go with youthful treatment.

A heavy knotted fringe is featured on a heavy sheer dinner dress in a smart New York collection, which features also another model in black sheer with triangle bib effect outlined with deep band of bugle beads in red.

Following the convertible dress vogue in Paris, New York shops are featuring frocks and gowns with sleeves that can be slipped on and off at will. Another way to make the dress suit the occasion—or to make two frocks out of one.

Mexican and Russian influences are both noted in some of the new millinery, the former in wide-brimmed hats that are worn well back off the face, the latter in new Soviet caps—little peaked affairs—also face revealing.

The new fashion for long sleeves is carried out in some of the smartest new mossy crepe frocks, as well as in the new ribbed chiffon velvets. Some feature color accents through flow-ers of the same materials worn at the neck.

The youthful beret continues the most important hat style—but it has new twists. With a casual feather or clip, it is shown in New York's smartest hat salons. The latest fancy is to place the trim, which is usually of bright contrasting color, over the right eye, where the beret dips forward, and let it follow the backward line of the hat.

Hand in hand with gowns and frocks this season are gloves. Very chic just now are the new shirred velvet ones to match the shirred velvet sweater frocks—new in the evening mode. There are the new triple cuff satin gloves, too, for the satin gown. And often, one notes that smart tricky gloves are accompanied by matching scarfs.

BEAUTY in the HOME

New Beauty For the Boudoir Table The fashion that has returned to favor and which promises to stay, stressing the use of toilettware on dressing table tops, is fostered materially by the new materials of which these sets are made. Pyralin, combining beauty and practicality, is the material used in the set shown here, in a combination of black and chromium, especially suited to modern decorative effects. Such effects, incidentally, are being achieved through details as much as through major furnishings. Plainness, in fact almost a severity of design, plus beauty attained through materials used, make this set essentially modern. Mirror and brush, both round, have a chromium metal yoke which extends half way round the head and is attached to a round metal handle with a raised design. The color of the head, black, is repeated in the color of the knob at the end of the handle. This particular set known as the Claridge is also available in translucent jade and maize, suitable either for the modern or the more conservative decorated boudoir.

Exams are here again—to our sorrow!

We are going to get Thursday and Friday off for Thanksgiving. A large crowd attended the program Friday night. We hope to see a large crowd next time.

Grammar School

Everything is going smoothly for us. We are taking our second month's examinations. We hope we will make better grades than we did last month.

We believe that we keep the cleanest room in the school. We wish to invite you to come and see for yourself.

Our room was well represented in the program rendered Friday night. We did not have as much time as we would have liked to have had. Some day we will put on a really good play for you.

The boys in our room are learning to comb their hair every morning before coming to school. Look out girls, or they will have neater heads than we have.

Mrs. George Poer visited our room one day last week.

We extend a hearty welcome to any one who wishes to visit our room.

We wish to resolve that we will study harder and make better grades next month than we made the first two months.

Primary News

The primary pupils showed some excellent talent Friday night when they rendered some Thanksgiving poems, songs and readings.

The second grade is rejoicing! They won the prize for having kept the cleanest house this month.

The second and third grades have organized a "Good English" club. Every mistake they hear made they write it down and put it in the bad English box. The mistakes will be read and counted at the end of the two weeks.

Exams! But why should we worry? We get Thursday and Friday as Thanksgiving holidays.

Chapel Program

Tuesday, November 28, a fifteen minute chapel program was given by members of Mrs. Bowles' public speaking class. Miss Geraldine Burnett took charge of the program. First, Doyle Wilson, who will some day be a great orator, gave a short talk on the "Origin of Thanksgiving." Next Geneva Sparkman, who is rapidly developing into a platform speaker, gave a talk on "Why We Should Observe Thanksgiving In America." The last number on the program was a pleasant surprise. This was a brief play featuring the coming Mark Twain of Texas, Max Harrison, assisted by a future great politician, Merlin Faulkner, and a great suffragette, Miss Reba Dail Corneilus. This play was about a son, who had run away from his parents many years ago and returned home to his old parents on Thanksgiving day.

The program was enjoyed by everyone, and we hope the public speaking class will not wait very long before entertaining again.

Pep Squad

Last Saturday the pep squad sold home made candy. As a result a much needed amount of two dollars was gained. Candy will be sold again this Saturday and the pep squad would like very much to have you buy some.

As the football season is coming to a close, the pep squad will disband. Our leaders, Daphane Evans, Roy Hunt and Lucille Hoover, have been faithful at all times and the other members appreciate their never-tiring efforts. The pep squad has become a loyal band of sisters, and it is with sorrow that we disband.

Assembly Program

Friday, November 24, during the assembly, different football boys and some of the teachers gave the students a talk.

There were quite a number of our boys who were to play their last game for G. H. S. Two of them played their last in the San Saba game, Captain Ted Kirby and Virgil "Mutt" Howard.

The coach called on these for a talk. Those who were in their last game in the school were Bobby Boland, Todd, J. N. Bayley, Clark Huddleston, Ralph Swindle, Woody Saylor, Jack Chilton and Bentley Clements. They said they were dedicating the game with Llano to their captain and Howard. Then Ted and Howard each made a talk. After that, two of the best little players for G. H. S., Lawrence Bledsoe and Earl Harvey made talks.

The program was concluded by talks from Mrs. Bowles and Miss Kerfoot.

Grammar School Football
 Grammar school football season closed with a heated game between grades five and six. The largest crowd of spectators ever gathered to witness a grammar school game was present.

The line up of the fifth grade for the season was Charlie McLean, Edward Eugene Palmer, Sam Saylor, Darwin Denson, Wallace Stroud, Mark Fairman, Jr., Glynn Collier, George Stebbins, Aubrey Harris Smith, Joe other affilia... Mahan, J. T. D. McLean, Lewis Otis, Whitt, Orval Huffman and Pat Chandler.

The sixth grade lineup for the season was Captain Vernard Tyson; players John Bowman, Walter Carroll, Edward Dean Dickerson, Carl Doggett, Edward Harris, Wallace Long, Fred Marshall and Pat Obenhouse.

The sixth grade downed the fifth grade to the tune of 12 to 9.

The season closed with a score of two victories for the fifth and one for the sixth grade.

Mrs. Bigham Honors Grade Five

Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock the fifth grade pupils hiked out to Mrs. Bigham's for a party. Mr. Smith had offered a fourth of a day holiday to the room having the fewest tardies. Grade five proved to be the most prompt pupils in the school, so they celebrated the occasion with a weenie roast.

Mrs. Bigham entertained them in her usual hospitable manner. She was assisted by Mesdames Stroud, Jack Bigham and Billie Bigham.

The All-Boys' Club and the All-Girls' Club rendered an interesting Thanksgiving program in the grammar school auditorium Wednesday morning.

We are glad to have Miss Ellen Archer at home again. We hope to have her at school soon.

Mrs. J. T. Helm has been out of school for the past week. We are glad she is improving and will be with us again in a few days.

The Music Club composed of pupils from the sixth and seventh grades and sponsored by Miss Miller, is doing some very nice work. The club meets every Friday and all enjoy the programs.

A musical play, "The Mother Speaks," given by the members of the club showed good results of their efforts. The play was presented in the grammar school auditorium as an Armistice Day program.

A feature of the Christmas celebration by the members of the club will be a program of Christmas carols to be given the second Tuesday in December.

San Saba Defeats Goldthwaite

The San Saba Armadillos defeated the Goldthwaite Eagles Tuesday 51 to 0. The Eagles do not offer any excuses for such a terrific defeat, but anyone who saw the game will tell you that the Eagles were not in condition to play.

The boys also had a little hard luck before they left. Some of the parents did not allow their sons to go, for fear they would receive some injury. This left the team short-handed and they had only two or three substitutes.

Football is a man's game and if your boy is not able to care and look out for himself, then he does not belong on a football squad. He should stay at home and be a ladies' man. Football will bring out what your boy really is. It will make a man out of your boy if he wants to be a man, or if he does not have what we call "the guts" to stick, he will quit.

These boys have to meet the hard knocks in life, and if they can not meet them now, they can't meet them in later years. Let's give the boys a chance to show us of what they are really made. FOOTBALL REPORTER

MULLIN GETS TRAVELING LIBRARY

Wednesday, November 8, the traveling library from the Texas State Library of Austin arrived at the high school building. It is through the aid of the faculty members and the P. T. A. that these books were secured. The teachers secured them and the P. T. A. paid the necessary expenses.

This collection contains fifty books, of which several are suitable for the grammar school. The remainder of them were placed in separate shelves in the high school library. Among these are various types of books and many authors are represented.

These books are not only for the students in school, but may be checked out to any member of the community. The citizens are invited to make use of these books. They may be checked out for one week, and are not subject to renewal. A list of the points received in English for reading each book has been placed in the library. It is hoped that by the time three months are up that each person will have read his choice of the books. — Mullin Tattler.

A GOOD LESSON

Few people endorse mob law or the policy of citizens taking the law into their own hands in inflicting punishment on criminals, yet there are cases where the citizens can not be blamed or censured for dealing out justice to those who have outrageously violated the principles of right and humanity, as well as the law of the land. The case in point is the action of the outraged citizens of California, who took the two confessed murderers of young Hart, a kidnaped victim, from the jail at San Jose and, after battering their bodies, hung them. The governor's proclamation announcing that he would pardon any person convicted of having participated in the lynching has met with both criticism and commendation. Most of those who disagree with the governor's action, however, would have a very different idea if the victim, who was so cruelly and wantonly murdered, had been their relative or even a friend. The two men who committed the murder confessed the crime, the victim's body had been recovered and there was no doubt of either the crime having been committed or the guilt of the accused. The citizens were not willing that those who committed the crime should have the benefit of a long drawn out court trial and be given the benefit of every imaginable technicality and a possibility of being eventually freed. It is a bad public policy to advocate mob violence, but the citizens who participate in dealing out justice to persons who commit outrageous crimes are at least actuated by a desire to prevent a recurrence of the sort punished. The action of the California law-enforcement citizens should be a good lesson to those who have their minds turned toward kidnaping and murder.

CHANGES IN PRACTICE PROPOSED

There has been considerable discussion of needed changes in court proceedings in this state and some of the proposed changes appear to be good. One of the most important changes advocated is to allow juries to consider the fact, in reaching a verdict in a criminal case, that the defendant did not testify in his case. It is a known rule of law that one charged with crime can not be forced to incriminate himself, yet it seems only fair to give the courts and society the advantage of a defendant's version of the charge against him. If he is innocent, there would seem to be no reason for refusing to go before a jury and tell the facts, while if he is guilty it is important that the jury have the benefit of his testimony in reaching a just verdict. Many of our laws are easy to evade and the technicalities are mighty hard to overcome, when a person charged with crime is brought to trial and much of the mode of procedure seems to be formed in the interest of the law violator, rather than in protection of the law abiding citizenship. Certainly one charged with an infraction of the law can not be forced to testify in the case in which he is the defendant, but the jury should have the right to consider the fact that he did not testify and give the court and jury an opportunity to hear his version of the act charged against him.

A PUBLIC CHRISTMAS GIFT

The forth coming Christmas tide will afford an opportunity, more than in any former season of good cheer, for people to give themselves presents that will be of public benefit and extend cheer to others. This is an opportunity for building or expanding private premises or private enterprises that will accomplish a two-fold purpose—provide the comforts and conveniences the individual wants and provide employment for others that will enable them to make happy the hearts of those dependent upon them. Anything that will provide employment for those who are out of work will accomplish good. No better time can be found than the present for inaugurating a campaign of improvement and betterment—new houses, new roofs, new furniture, another coat of paint on the old house or barn. Such a wave of improvement would be of vast helpfulness to any community.

HELPING OUR NEIGHBORS

Aside from the payment of taxes being a patriotic duty, it is a help to the entire taxpaying citizenship to pay the taxes assessed. It has been clearly established that a delinquency in tax payments throws a heavier burden on those who do pay. It is, therefore, due our neighbors and fellow citizens that we pay our taxes, in order that the other property owners may not be called upon to pay more than their just portion of taxes necessary for the support of the state and county governments, the municipality and school. It is readily recognized that some people can not pay, but those who can by economy and sacrifice meet their obligations in this particular should undoubtedly do so, in consideration of their fellow citizens, most of whom have heavy enough burdens anyway.

AFTER THE MOTORIST

The motorist is an ever productive source of revenue for almost every line of business and certainly for every phase of taxation. One cartoonist has illustrated his conception of the way in which everybody is after the motorist. In this he portrays the thought that the wheat barons and corn kings are seeking a law making mandatory the blending of wheat and corn alcohol with gasoline, legislatures are constantly being importuned to levy additional tax on the fuels used by motorists and to divert the funds collected for highway improvement to some other purposes. It is right and proper to collect a fair portion of the highway improvement and upkeep expense from the motorists, but they should not be made the burden bearers for every part of the government.

THE CAMPAIGN COMING

The political campaign in this state next year promises to be one of the most intensive experienced for several years. A number of interests and influences will enter into it to make it interesting, one of which is the selection of a United States senator. Joe W. Bailey, Jr., now a congressman at large, has already announced he will try for the toga now worn by Tom Connerly and the outcome will be watched because of the various influences entering into it. The gubernatorial campaign will also be well up to the standard of recent years and some of the lesser offices are attracting candidates who will make an intensive and, some say, a red hot campaign. The liquor question, the national policies and other questions will enter into the campaign to make it interesting.

Health Hint

COLDS DANGEROUS

"Beware of the common cold," Dr. John W. Brown, state health officer, in a statement issued this week, cautioned the people of the state of Texas. "This is the season of the year when colds are most prevalent, and their consequences more far reaching. The organism causing the disease is not known, but every individual is acquainted with its effects."

Not a little of the susceptibility of catching colds can be overcome by a gradual acclimating to lower temperatures and inclement outdoor weather. This hardening should begin now, and consist of regular exercise—walking is good—to be continued throughout the winter, in weather of every kind. Some things to avoid are wet stockings, drying on one's feet; over heavy clothing; over heated rooms.

There are two broad principles to observe in the treatment and prevention of colds. The first says: "Let the patient keep to himself, and keep his oral and nasal discharges to himself." This includes indiscriminate spitting, kissing and other forms of contact.

The second principle requires doing away with coddling and over protection of the body against the elements.

The cold is a common disease. But every cold is important enough to justify careful attention and treatment for its immediate cure. Death-dealing pneumonia and tuberculosis may begin with colds that did not receive care and attention.

Over indulgence of devitalizing stimulants, such as alcohol, tobacco, tea, and coffee do much to lower the resistance to colds.

THE REALM OF SCIENCE

Smuggled liquor valued at approximately $7000 was seized by United States customs officers in a raid at a ranch seven miles north of Brady. The contraband, consisting of 1500 gallons of Cuban alcohol and Belgian cologne spirits, was found by officers in underground chambers in a sheep pen on the ranch. An investigator who pretended to be a geologist located the cache.

The deadlocked jury which heard the murder case of A. M. White at Comanche was discharged Monday by Judge R. B. Cross. The case probably will be set again during the current court term, Judge Cross said. White was charged in connection with the death of Pink Milton, who was shot to death and robbed last January 2. R. C. Tipton, co-defendant with White, was give a life term last week.

The University of Texas will never be poverty stricken so long as oil is used to propel motor cars and airplanes, in the opinion of the geologist for the lease board of the University of Texas. The university has approximately 2,000,000 acres of lands in West Texas under lease to oil companies and this land should prove an ever increasing source of revenue to the school, Dr. Bybee declares. The school already has collected $20,000,000 from the land, this despite the fact that production has been sharply curtailed under government regulation in the past three or four years.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

Rattlesnakes have their good points, too. G. Henry, Jr., would have you believe in this story, which he relates from his post in Tucumcari, N. M.:

Several years ago, while employed as night telegraph operator, I caught a young rattler and named him Rufus. We became great friends, even sharing the same bed. He was very intelligent and it was only a short time before he learned the telegraph code and could tell my office call.

Rufus would coil up on the telegraph table, and while I used his body for a head rest he would keep close watch over the office. If the dispatcher called me, or anyone came near he would rattle and tickle me under the chin to wake me up. Although of a kind, gentle and loving disposition, Rufus was very poisonous. So much so that one day when he bit a stray dog, the canine's great grandfather died, in a place more than a hundred miles away.

Rufus and I always sat down to the table together and he ate whatever I did. In this way he acquired a taste for beer and from that time on he refused to eat unless he got his beer. One day I started to drink another brand and Rufus insisted that he be allowed to sample the new brand first. It was fortunate I gave in, for he died almost immediately after taking the first drink, and the death of the faithful Rufus thus saved my life.—Pathfinder.

VIEWES OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE

THE LEGION CAN HELP

If the American Legion men of Texas can help the state centennial commission in getting plans for a proper observance afoot—as will be considered at a joint conference of Legion leaders and members of the commission in a Dallas meeting—they will have added to the gratitude which all patriotic Texans hold for them. Due to the failure of the legislature to vote funds for a centennial observance, despite the fact that the people by specific vote on a constitutional amendment, had authorized such action, the centennial commission is almost at a standstill. Apparently it has not the funds even to carry on a campaign over the state for action at the next called session of the legislature—when and if there is such a session.

The American Legion plan to allow the commission to participate with it in the sale of half-dollar pieces as authorized by the last session of congress (the returns from the sale of the coins were to have been used in the construction of a Texas museum at Austin as a part of the centennial) should at least give the centennial commission funds on which to make a start, to arouse the public, to create plans.

With distressing economic conditions holding their attention, with federal reconstruction efforts demanding full support and understanding, the people of Texas have failed to show great interest in the proposed celebration of the state's 100th birthday in 1936. Nevertheless, the assertion can be made without qualification that if no creditable celebration is held at that time there will be widespread wrath among the people that proper preparation was not made.

If the subject can be put properly before them now in the form of concrete plans, feasible from the financial viewpoint, they will speedily approve those plans, and the legislature will have no remaining doubt that action is desired.

The Legion can not do a better thing for Texas than to put the necessary steam behind the beginning of the project.—Houston Chronicle.

OUR OWN PEOPLE

The great cultural, social and economic tasks which challenge us must be performed by and with our own people. The leadership must come from our own people, and the human materials out of which we must build a better civilization are already here. We have reached a point in our history where it is more important what we do with the existing population than what we do to bring additional population to the state from the outside. That means, first of all, that the initiative and the leadership necessary to economic advance in the state must be provided very largely by ourselves. And it gives new importance to every form of effort having any relation to the educational social and general cultural advance of our people.

This does not mean that Texas does not need and should not make an effort to obtain help from the outside. Quite the contrary. Texas is so immense in size and is possessed of such rich undeveloped resources that every legitimate effort should be made to bring new population and capital into the state. But even in relation to such effort, it must henceforth be of primary importance that we shall ourselves carry forward the work of economic development and that we shall labor unceasingly to raise the level of life—economically, socially and culturally—among our own people.—Texas Weekly.

HIGH WHEAT

A home grown economist says to control the price of wheat bar combines and self binders from the wheat fields and make cutting wheat with the "old cradle" the lawful way. He confidently says with a tariff to keep foreign wheat out, our wheat would soon sell for $3 to $4 per bushel, due to supply and demand. Would any body have work? Yes, what?—Tloga Herald.

THE PUBLIC DEFENDER

District Attorney Kelley's indorsement of the movement of the Legal Aid Society and the voluntary defender committee to have adopted the defender plan which has been so successful in other cities comes at a timely moment. This cause, which has been fathered by leading members of the bar and many prominent citizens, has been taken over by the united campaign for the two welfare federations. This gives an additional reason for the support of the united campaign, for its success in reaching its goal will insure the funds that will be required to put the defender program into practical operation in the criminal courts of Philadelphia.

One of the most serious problems facing a trial judge in the criminal courts is presented by a number of defendants without means to pay capable counsel or any counsel at all. A recent survey made for the prison society and the penal affairs committee of the Public Charities association revealed the large proportion of trials in which the prisoners were virtually undefended. A poor man's defender possessing the confidence of the court and devoting his whole time to the work has been found to be of the utmost advantage, not only in expediting and simplifying the processes of justice but in eliminating the vast number of cases which should never go to trial at all.

Indorsement of this effort by judges as well as the prosecuting officers by the Criminal Justice association is the best evidence of its worthiness. The attainment of its goal by the United Campaign will, with funds already privately raised for the purpose, insure a three-year trial in the Philadelphia courts of this system.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

JAPAN BUILDS A FORTRESS

China supposedly is a sovereign state and foreigners in settlements, as at Shanghai, have such rights only as are secured to them by treaty arrangements. During the troubles of recent years four of the great powers—Great Britain, France, the United States, Japan—sent extra troops to their settlements in that city, but these were mostly withdrawn when fighting ceased.

Chinese affairs, however, published at Shanghai, reports that the Japanese have constructed a great fortress of steel and cement, capable of housing 2,000 to 2,500 troops, in the neighborhood of Hongkew Park, with windows so placed as to command by artillery all approaches. "Rooms have been provided for the housing of numerous tanks and armored cars and many others for the storage of large quantities of ammunition." The editor assumes that this construction is a violation of Chinese sovereignty, an utter disregard of international law and of treaties and proof of the charge that Japan intends at some convenient time to continue an aggressive policy against China, with the intention of dominating Shanghai and the Yangtze valley.

The odd thing is that the other three powers chiefly interested in that region have made no open protest against the erection of this fortification. Yet they must know that the Japanese have made it plain that they favor the expulsion of western nations from all of their holdings in East Asia. If that really is part of Japan's program, its fortification at Shanghai, located on the water front with access to the sea, gives to that far-sighted nation a splendid base from which to dictate terms and command withdrawal.—Dallas News.

REDUCING ACREAGE

The department of agriculture declares we have too much land in cultivation, while the interior department succeeded in getting the last Congress to appropriate $22,700,000 to redeem 100,000 acres of arid land in the state of Wyoming. The Boulder Dam is the child of the interior department and the object of half a billion dollars in that project is to reclaim the Mohave desert

TEXAS CHEATS HERSELF

The state of Texas owed to her own subsidiary institutions nearly half a million dollars on August 31, in interest on past due bonds of the state which belong to the permanent endowments of other educational and eleemosynary institutions. These facts have been known to the few who read the Comptroller's reports for years; they were especially clarified and tabulated in state Auditor Moore Lynn's second biennial report.

Now comes Edward Crane, former regent of the University of Texas, who demands some pledge that the proposed $20,000,000 state bond issue will not be forced upon these endowment funds as so frequently has been done in the past. His protest is timely, and the people of the state are entitled to an answer, insofar as those now in authority are concerned.

Quoting from Auditor Lynn's report, Mr. Crane reminds us that no interest has been paid on some of these state obligations since 1914, and so far as we are able to learn, no provision has been made to pay from the state general fund the $495,273 in past due bonds and interest which were due the various endowment funds on August 31, 1933.

Mr. Crane charges that by forcing these state bonds upon the institutional endowment funds governors have been able to point with pride to reductions of the tax rate during their administrations.

Texas has been cheating herself too long. It is time that these obligations be paid. Her total indebtedness, to the funds of her own institutions, amounts to $4,102,200. Unless it was done by the recent legislature, no sinking funds have been provided. The permanent school funds holds $2,872,000, the University permanent fund holds $625,000, the A. and M. College permanent fund holds $209,000, and other institutional endowments hold lesser amounts.

By failing to meet interest and to pay some past due bonds, and by neglecting to provide sinking funds for bonds not yet due, the institutions affected have had to be fed more largely on biennial appropriations than should have been necessary had the state itself met its obligations. This process smacks too much of the devious bookkeeping methods of high finance to suit the people of Texas.

We compliment Mr. Crane and endorse his suggestion that citizens discuss it with their representatives.—Farm and Ranch.

SELLING COTTON TO RUSSIA

Disappointment over the price of cotton following record prices of Russia is natural. But these are the facts before 1914 the per capita consumption of cotton in Russia was four pounds per capita now in Switzerland and nineteen pounds in the United States.)

Over against that four pound figure contrasts the fact that Russia grows as much as a million and one-half bales of cotton for her 150,000,000 population. It figures out five pounds per capita production.

That is why the New York exchange says that sale of cotton to Russia depends upon the success of the Soviet in raising the standard of living of the moujiks. Russia is a potential market, but potentials have to be awaited.—Dallas Journal.

of more than 3,000,000 acres. Among the arguments made in Congress at the time this great project was started was the claim that by the irrigation this dam would cause, that Arizona and California would be able to produce an additional 700,000 bales of cotton, while $ C. Campaign this year cost the government $200,000,000 in an attempt to reduce the cotton yield 5,000,000 bales.

And the agricultural department's plan is that the government buy 5,000,000 acres of land now in cultivation and make national parks. Mr. Wallace may not know this, but the price he has paid the farmer to plow up his cotton would have bought the land, cotton, weeds, grass and all.—Marshall News.

The Heart of Texas radio station was closed this week when federal charges were filed against the operators, charging interference with stations KMBK Kansas City, WHO and WOC of Davenport, Iowa. The Brownwood station was operated by Alton Stewart, who made bond of $500, when served with the federal warrant. She was indicted by a Brown county grand jury in four counts, charging embezzlement in November, 1931. She became bursar at Howard Payne in 1929. According to a statement she made when she was arrested in July, 1931, she estimated she had appropriated about $50,000 of the college funds for her own use over a period of five or six years.—Banner.

Hamilton

Frank Holmes and Jim Sparks, who went to Mason county to seek the fleet-footed white tail, were the first Hamilton county nrmrods to report a kill. They returned Thursday night with a 5 point buck.

In response to a message from eye specialists in the Baptist Memorial hospital in Waco, that Leard Meadows, jr., had sufficiently recovered to be brought home. Prof. Cecil Nix, superintendent of the schools, made a trip to that city Tuesday to convey the young high school student and football player to Hamilton. He will return to Waco occasionally for treatment of his injured eye until the member is entirely healed. It is expected that the sight of his eye will be restored to some extent.

W. M. Harris, 58 years of age, died at the sanitarium Monday night, November 20, at about ten o'clock, from a gunshot wound in his left side. Mr. Harris and his family composed of a wife and daughter, came to Hamilton county from Brownwood some two weeks ago, and had settled on the A. R. Eldson farm and ranch west of town. Soon after 12 o'clock on Monday, Mr. Harris was in a room in his home alone when a gun was discharged, the shot passing through his side in the region of the lung. He never regained consciousness but it is surmised that it was possibly an accident, as he gave no indication to his family of his intention to take his life.

The local Retail Merchants association declared emphatically against the continuation of palming the all too numerous advertising grafts presented here where any part of the proceeds is taken out of the town by transient grafters. Several instances experienced lately were brought to notice where more money was carried out of town by transient grafters, than was realized by local people. This is an important step in ridding the town of public parasites who "work" the town in carrying out schemes supposedly for the increase of trade, and which really results in the "grafter" walking away with money that could have been employed in a highly beneficial advertising campaign for the commercial advancement of the town. Hereafter, when individual members of the association are approached by one of these transient advertising grafters or his agents, he will be referred to the Secretary of the Retail Merchants association.—Record-Herald.

While nearly 105,000 Texans drew their first week's wages Saturday, under the civil works construction program, state and federal agencies considered plans to put additional thousands to work and give remunerative employment to women who must support themselves and their dependents. It was pay day for thousands who had been unemployed for months — some of them for as long as two years. Paymasters of the civil works administration released $1,298,192 to workmen in virtually every county of the state. The minimum wage paid was $12 for 30 hours work. The pay roll was participated in by 104,959 persons and represented 3,755,207 hours of work.

those who may not be able to pay much, but let everybody do the best possible, that the work may be carried on. Should there be those among us who can not help in this great work they should not feel embarrassed about it, but be faithful in attendance at the services. The church needs you in the congregation, and you need the church as much as in all your life.

Let us all work together to make this the best year in the history of our church.

OKLAHOMA DEATH
A message to Mr. and Mrs. H.E. Moreland, bringing the sad news and death of Fred Richardson of Wapaucha, Okla., came this week. He suffered with typhoid fever and pneumonia. He was 23 years old and was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Will Richardson.

The family lived here several years ago. He was a nephew of the late Capt. I. T. Moreland.

The family has the sympathy of their Mills county friends.
