Methodist Notes

With passing centuries Christendom has never lost interest in Easter Sunday, and that for which it stands. Possibly there was never a greater interest manifest throughout the world than the Easter Sunday just passed. Large audiences attended the church services throughout the country, if the papers to which we had access are to be credited. It is well that this is true, for if there was ever a time when the Christian church should awake to its duty and to a greater degree of consecration it is now.

The Methodist church was filled Sunday morning. The service was of a high order. One entire family united with the church, the ordinance of baptism was administered. Bro. Duke preached a good sermon and after this the sacrament of the Lord's supper was administered. At the evening hour a large audience heard the cantata given by the choir. It was thoroughly enjoyed.

We are learning with the passing of the years that the headlines in the papers do not always set forth just what they are supposed to indicate. For instance, one of our great dailies, reporting the actions of our Texas legislature, carried the following headline: "Marble Machines Are Outlawed In Action of House." "Vicious Form of Gambling Members Told In Debate." Somehow this struck at least one reader as being a fine statement of the case: That for once the Texas legislature was talking in language in harmony with cold facts. But imagine the disconcerting condition when informed that our lawmaking body acknowledged that the marble machines constituted "pernicious gambling," these wise men proposed to take the "pernicious gambling" out of it by a $10 tax. So we are to learn that gambling is "pernicious," but when a tax is placed upon it the "perniciousness" in gambling ceases. By the same reason, I suppose that all "perniciousness" ceases to exist in anything usually considered "pernicious," when a tax is collected from it. Stealing is "pernicious," the sale of intoxicants is "pernicious," murder is "pernicious," profanity is "pernicious." In fact, all crimes may be robbed of their "perniciousness," the very moment that a tax is pasted upon it. If this entire theory is correct, and from the standpoint of many, it is obviously correct, our legislative bodies, and many others who hold to their theory, are missing a great opportunity to relieve the overburdened taxpayers of tax burden. Why not awake to the opportunity before us and support the government altogether by taxing crime, and the thing that leads to crime? Not only would this be a great source of revenue, but millions of jobs could be opened up for the millions of unemployed. Men and women could be employed to go out and teach crime since crime is to be legitimate and is to be such a fine source of much-needed revenue. Wake up, Texas and America! Let us bring about a taxless state and nation by following this plan so clearly endorsed by our theory, that crime can be immune from its "perniciousness" by the mere tax-anesthetic. Yours for a great advance, into the realm of an advance, into real statesmanship.

Commissioners Court Holds Session

Commissioners court held a one-day session Monday for the purpose of completing the business of last week's term, including examining and approving some reports and looking after other routine matters.

A representative of the Monarch Engineering Co. of San Antonio was before the court with an estimate of the cost of repairing the bayou bridge at Slack crossing. The matter was discussed at considerable length, but no definite decision was reached.

The court now has everything in readiness for the highway commission to begin work on 74a and complete the work on the other highways. Most of the right of way has been fenced and all of the county's part of the work will be completed before the highway commission get its work under way.

Nazarene Remarks

The revival conducted by Rev. E. G. Theus, closed last Sunday night with good results. The entire church feels that it was a very profitable meeting. There was good attendance throughout the revival services. In all, there were twenty-four professions during the meeting, as well as a special revival spirit predominating throughout the church. There was a class of fifteen received into the church last Sunday morning, and some eight or ten more will come in this week. There will be a baptismal service at the lake next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Bible Study

Circle No. 1 met in the home of Mrs. E. B. Anderson last Monday to continue our weekly Bible lesson.

Our chairman being absent because of sickness, Mrs. Anderson presided.

Opening prayer was led by Mrs. Allen, after which Mrs. Sallie Rudd read the devotional.

Mrs. Wylie Johnston then took up the discussion from the book of First Peter.

The study was indeed interesting, just as all the others have been. As we are nearing the close of the Bible, these lessons have certainly been inspiring and a light unto our pathway.

At the close of the meeting Mrs. Anderson, assisted by Mrs. Ed Gilliam, Jr., and Mrs. Flora Jackson, served delicious ice cream and cake.

Our next meeting will be with Mrs. Jeff Priddy, Mrs. Irwin will read the devotional.

Pecan School Huge Success

Two hundred and seventy-five persons from all parts of Mills county and a number from other counties attended the Pecan Growers School and picnic at Center City the twelfth of April. The event was staged in the W. W. Head orchard on Bennett Creek, where the native grove has been cleared out, thinned and top worked. Beginning in 1928, Mr. Head has top worked over 200 trees, the greater number to Burkett. Texas Prolific Halbert and other varieties have also been used. Much favorable comment concerning this splendid demonstration was heard from the experts present.

A basket picnic dinner was served, which reflected the generosity of Center City people, and throughout the day demonstrations in topping, budding, grafting and tree surgery was given by J. T. Kelly, state department of agriculture; Hoyt Cockrell, Goldthwaite; Mr. King, Richland Springs, and Mr. West, San Antonio.

The next school will likely be held near Mullin, April, 1936. X

Dr. and Mrs. Mills Entertain

One of the most delightful social affairs of the season was the bridge party, given on last Wednesday evening by Dr. and Mrs. C. K. Mills at their home. Roses and other spring flowers were used in attractive arrangement in decorating the game rooms.

At the conclusion of the games a delectable salad course, suggestive of Easter, with punch, was served. Prettily filled Easter baskets were used as table centers, and later given as table low score prizes. Attractive prizes were also given to those scoring high.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fairman, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Fairman, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Summy, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Trent, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. M. Y. Stokes, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Burch, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Hodges, Miss Frances Page, Miss Lucille Conro, Hulon Fletcher and Mr. T. M. Stokes of New York City.

Valuable Customer

The Eagle has a valuable and most unusual customer in the firm of Nelson Chesman Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., advertising representatives of the Chattanooga Medicine Co. products, including Cardui and Black Draught. This company has been a constant advertiser in the Eagle for forty years—or about that long—during which time they have never been sent a statement and only a few times—perhaps three times—have they claimed to have failed to receive the paper mailed from this office containing their advertisements. They never fail to send their check at the end of each quarter for the three months advertising.

If any business institution can surpass that record the Eagle would like to see them try.

Tuberculosis Eradication

A federal veterinarian is expected to arrive Monday to begin the work of eradication of tuberculosis among cattle in this county. He is expected to bring ten assistant veterinarians on the work, which is to be done without cost to the owners of livestock. The county is co-operating with the federal government in this work.

Bonds Sold

The bonds of the Star school district, in the amount of $5000, recently voted for improving and equipping the school building, were sold this week at a premium of $250 to the Trent State bank of this city.

Paving Started

Work was commenced this week in preparation for paving the three sides of the public square, the east side being on the route of highway 74a, hence will be paved by the state highway commission. The city and county will share the expense of paving the north, west and south sides of the square. This work is now under way and the Uvalde asphalt will be used for the paving. As soon as the work on the square is completed it is understood the city will negotiate with property owners to join in paving some of the residential streets.

Planning Sewage

The city's application for federal government funds to provide a sewerage system has not yet been submitted, as the government's plans for making such loans or donations have not been announced. However, the engineer employed by the city to prepare the application and estimate the cost of installing the system has everything in readiness for making the application.

The state engineer in charge of PWA apportionments in this state is to be in Breckenridge today. Mayor H. G. Bodkin and City Attorney F. P. Bowman expect to meet him there and go into the proposition with him. They will likely have some interesting facts to give out when they return.

Judge Pierson Killed

Austin, April 24 — Associate Justice William A. Pierson of the Texas Supreme Court and Mrs. Pierson were fatally shot by two robbers near Austin tonight. Howard Pierson, Jr., 21, son of Justice Pierson, reported to officers that two men stopped his father, his mother and himself, while they were riding on the Bull Creek road in an automobile.

At the point of pistols, the highwaymen took money and a watch from Justice Pierson. In an ensuing struggle, young Pierson said, the robbers began shooting, he himself was shot in the arm and he believed his parents were killed.

He hid in the bushes near the scene and then made his way to the Seton hospital in Austin.

Four Escape State Prison Farm

Four prisoners kidnaped a guard, slugged the canning plant superintendent and two convicts and escaped from the Imperial state prison farm at Sugarland late Wednesday. The convicts escaped in a state-owned automobile, taking a guard as hostage. The automobile later was abandoned near Claudine, twenty miles from Houston and the guard was freed a mile from the farm. He was bruised by several blows.

The break apparently was carefully planned. The signal for it was given by two convicts who casually walked away from the prison power house where they were working. Outside the power house they were joined by the other convicts who escaped with them.

Mohair Market

Most of the mohair growers in this county and throughout this section have their mohair ready for market, and those who are not ready will soon have their hair in a marketable condition. The price is reported higher than for several seasons, sales at the largest concentration points in Texas were from 25 cents up this week. This is a big advance over last year and certainly is encouraging to the growers. The advance means a lot to this county.

The vote at Star was unanimous in favor of the consolidation, 49 votes having been cast. At Hurst Ranch the vote was 17 for consolidation and 16 against it.

JAMES M. ADAMS, PIONEER TEXAN, ANSWERS SUMMONS

On Friday afternoon, April 12, at three o'clock, a great throng of sorrowing friends gathered with bereaved loved ones beside an open grave in the Hurst cemetery, near Star, to pay a last tribute to James Marion Adams, a citizen of worth and a Soldier of the Cross for forty years.

Rev. John D. West, of Hamilton, and Rev. Allen DeHart of Evant, conducted the funeral service which fittingly honored the dead, and was consoling to those left behind.

Mr. Adams, aged and afflicted with heart trouble, was critically ill for some two weeks before his departure from this life. His children, several of whom live at great distances, gathered in the home with the other members of the family and were with him when the end came and lent peace and happiness to his leaving and gave courage and consolation to their heart-broken mother.

An interesting sketch of the life of James Marion Adams, with the following tribute, was given by Rev. John D. West, long-time friend of deceased, for publication.

James Marion Adams was born in Georgia, April 15, 1858. He came to Texas at the age of seventeen years. He located first in Williamson county. Three months later Mr. Adams came to Hamilton county, now Mills, and settled on the place where he continued to reside until called to his home above. He had lost his parents at an early age, and carved out his own destiny with little earthly guidance. He built mind and body nobly and accumulated honestly of this world's goods a plentiful store.

On July 4, 1883, James Marion Adams was married to Miss Samantha Johnson and their lives together proved an ideal companionship. They were the parents of nine children, three sons and six daughters, seven of whom survive the beloved father. They are T. L. Adams, Star; Mrs. Doslia Mason, Littlefield; Mrs. Meddie Close, Taft, Calif.; Archie Adams, Thrifty; Mrs. Urs Allen, Summertown, Ariz.; Mrs. Bessie Gummelt, Taft, Calif.; Mrs. Charlean Waltrip, Rucker. Other survivors are fifteen grandchildren, three great grandchildren one sister, Mrs. Tom Williams, Center City, Texas.

James Marion Adams was a good man, very kind and patient in his last illness. He was a loyal citizen, husband, father and neighbor and was rich in friends. The place of such a man can not be filled, but those who know and loved him, may build on the foundation he has laid nobler structures for the future.

A FRIEND

AMERICA IN ARMS RACE

While America has made it plain by her indifference to European squabbles that she is not contemplating spending more of her blood and billions by shooting it out with any of those foreign belligerents, neither is she sitting idly back while other nations make balls which might eventually be fired in her direction. On the contrary she is molding a defense machine which should cause considerable hesitation on the part of any possible future aggressor.

In the number of men now under arms the United States falls below any of the powers, even the recent increase in the army to 165,000 men failing to bring it abreast of the English army the lowest in Europe. Otherwise however, our country is not so backward. The planned expenditures of $375,000,000 for national defense during the coming year are larger than those of any nation in the world, except possibly, Russia. Both in number and number of warships of navy ranks first, and we are topped only by Russia and France in the size of our air force. There are weak spots, of course, occasioned by the lack of destroyers and submarines in the navy, and the lack of equipment in both the army and navy. But many of these gaps are expected to be sealed over during the coming year. Army strength, however, is apt to remain as it is, with little hope or little fear of it ever reaching a peace-time strength equal to France's 600,000 or Russia's 650,000. — Pathfinder.

GATE RECEIPTS GET THE GATE

American college sport has gained a stride in its perennial footrace with the athletic budget. Harvard university's plan to take the profit motive out of intercollegiate competition by establishing an endowment fund to support its athletic program is the most constructive proposal that has appeared along this line since the Carnegie Foundation's bombshell against commercialized football burst on the campus nearly a decade ago.

Harvard's decision, in effect, acknowledges the desirability of divorcing the athletic system from what President Conant regards as a "vicious connection" with football gate receipts. An endowment fund should stabilize the entire athletic program and insure it against curtailment resulting from an occasional decline in football gate receipts. Income from football games long has been the chief means of defraying the cost of other intercollegiate and intramural athletics within American school viewed in its proper perspective, football is a splendid sport. It has won a tremendous public following. For this very reason football has been widely exploited to sustain demands for supporting the nonpaying forms of undergraduate competition.

In recent years the quest for gate receipts has cast a dubious shadow over the playing fields of American colleges. Sportsmanship and good fun have suffered wherever monetary profit, even indirectly, has asserted its demand for winning football. Harvard's plan to lift the whole athletic burden from football's shoulders is a practical step toward giving the game back to the boys.—Christian Science Monitor.

FAIR COMPETITION

A new attack against what critics call government "intrusion in business" is predicted in official quarters as a probable outcome of the convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, April 29, to May 2.

A high official said although business always has opposed government interference, many executives feel currents now in motion foreshadow operations by the federal power far greater than ever before.

An indication of the importance of this topic was given in the chamber's "Washington Review," published Saturday.

"One of the major concerns of business today," the Review said "is the encroachment of government into the business field as a competitor of private enterprise."

"The actual intrusion that already has taken place and the threat of further activity of this character is one of the main causes of present business uncertainty."

"The forthcoming meeting can be expected to define proper limitations upon government in business and to give occasion for renewed efforts to protect business against this kind of unfair competition."

CONSCRIPTION FOR WAR

Under the provisions of the Universal Draft Act being sponsored by the American Legion, the entire citizenship of the nation would be drafted in time of war. Not only would the government draft able bodied men between the ages of 18 to 45 to serve in the army, but the government would draft labor, capital and industry to serve where and when needed. The munition plants would be taken over by the government and munition workers and technicians and executives would serve for the same wages paid the army. Every other war necessity would be mobilized for government and war service. The entire country would be put on a war footing at once and the chances for war profiteering would disappear. It is extremely doubtful if the measure will ever pass any congress, however. It is too honest a measure to ever become a law. Capital will oppose it and there seems to be a tendency on the part of organized labor to oppose the measure. Selfishness is universal and the capitalists want more in one second and the laborer more a day than the fighting man will receive in a month. If the legion would make the passage of the law the major objective of the national organization it might be passed over the objection of selfish interests by an aroused public opinion. The passage of the law would do more to prevent our becoming involved in a war than all the treaties signed by full dressed diplomats in the history of the world. The interests in this country seeking to cash in on blood would be blocked and the efficiency of the measure would do much to discourage other countries from seeking an armed conflict.—Forrest City, Iowa, Summit.

CONFIDENT-COURAGEOUS LIFE

Every day the news dispatches convey the stories of men and women who have lost their grip. These suicides have not been confident of their ability to eventually overcome their handicaps or difficulties.

One of our readers recently wrote and asked how he could attain the confident-courageous attitude toward life. He also wished to know how he could gain more personal power.

The recipe is simple although a thousand pages would not exhaust a detailed elaboration. The difficulty comes in following it.

Having confidence in one's source is often an aid to gaining confidence in one's powers. The finest flowering of many religious systems of thought is the idea that the soul of man is of the same essence as the Infinite Creator. Those who need to gain confidence in their inherent powers would do well to think of this several times a day. They should read all they can supporting this idea.

When they have firmly fixed in the mind who and what they are they will very often find that the cringing, fearful attitude has been crowded out in much the same manner as light pushes back darkness. Having gained an inner confidence a man may still lack the force to express it outwardly, courageously.

In similar mental mood a man may be confident in his own mind that he can lift two hundred pounds of sand. However, when he has actually done it he isn't afraid to tackle any two-hundred pound sack of sand, no matter who is looking. Then he has confirmed courageous-confidence. But, how can he get to do it? Easy! By practicing at every opportunity on twenty-five pounds of sand and then fifty and then an hundred and then an hundred and fifty and finally on the two hundred. If he never masters the two hundred he will come much nearer doing so than as though he had not followed this method.

The same method will do much in the matter of developing untried confidence into confirmed-courageous-confidence. One should begin the developing process by doing and saying the things of which he is only a little bit timid.

The confident-courageous attitude, like muscle power, develops through use.

Constipation Symptoms Soon Go Away After Use of Black-Draught

Mrs. S. G. Ranney, of Henryetta, Okla., writes that she has taken Theford's Black-Draught about twenty-five years, when needed, and has "found it very good." "When I have a sour stomach and my mouth tastes bitter, and I feel bilious, sluggish and tired, I will very soon have a severe headache if I don't take something. I have learned to keep off these spells by taking Theford's Black-Draught. Very soon I am feeling better and that Black-Draught can't be substituted as a family medicine." Sold in 25¢ packages.

Interesting People

He is average in height and a good looking chap. He has dark blonde hair and bluish-green eyes. His name is Albert Stahnke—we call him Rambling Pete. This is his senior year at Priddy high and we are sorry for him to say farewell to us, for he has won everyone's heart with his smile and kind disposition. Pete is a fair student in all his subjects and I am sure he will not be easily forgotten.

She is just another senior of 1935 and has blonde hair, blue eyes and a fair complexion. She is five feet, four inches tall and weighs 110 lbs. She is a good all-around sport and has a smile for every one she meets. This is her first year at Priddy high school and as the end of school is drawing nigh she will soon say good bye to her beloved senior classmates. Who is this senior? If you guessed Jewell Bramblett, your guess was correct.

We Wonder Why

J. T. studies so hard. Velma is short and fat. Henry is high-tempered. Ethel is lonely. Martin has big ears. Mutt is so funny. Hilma likes Fords. Edna goes to Brownwood. Jewell is so sleepy. Stewart is so slow. Walter is in love. Paula likes to come to Priddy. Pete dresses so swell.

The seniors have selected most of the cast for their play, "Silas Smidge from Turnip Ridge," which is to be presented at the Priddy auditorium May 10. The cast is as follows.

Neurasthenia Twigg, a stage struck hired girl—Hilma Hein. Miss Simplicity McPheeters, Thaddeus McPheeters' sister—Velma Bufe.

Oswald Garlick, a clerk in Thaddeus' store—Albert Shwartz. Judy, an orphan waif—Edna Lubke.

Florence McPheeters, Thaddeus' aristocratic daughter—Jewel Bramblett.

Thaddeus McPheeters, the village shylock—Walter Druceckhammer.

Ralph Thornhill, young minister—Henry Nauert. Enid Thornhill, his sister—Paula Weidbusch.

Leola Pixley, the village postmistress—Ethel Hill.

Ben Bruce, a young farmer, Silas' nephew—Johnnie Mason.

Silas Smidge—J. W. Stuart. Wayne Kendall, Thaddeus' stepson.

Miss Muriel Armitage, Judy's aunt.

We hope to have a large crowd present, because it will mean very much to the seniors.

Home Economics

Most of the girls have patterns and material for their dresses. They are anxious to get started. A home economics program is planned. The girls will style their dresses in the home. The other articles of the community are invited to be present. Regular home economics is an interesting program given by the girls and will be served to the visiting girls. Mullin News

News Notes Clipped From the Mullin Enterprise

MULLIN FACULTY IS RE-ELECTED

The school board met since the last issue of this paper and re-elected the faculty of Mullin school. The superintendent was re-elected some time ago. The school has accomplished splendid results this year.

The co-operation of parents, pupils and faculty speak complimentary for the town and school. It requires great ability to function any public work efficiently and without friction.

ELECTION DRAWS LARGE QUOTA SATURDAY

The election Saturday to decide whether or not the city of Mullin would remain an incorporated town or not, was magnetic to almost full strength vote. Sixty-two voted to retain the incorporation of the city and 17 votes were against it.

Mrs. C. L. Summy was the presiding officer. Mrs. F. M. Tillman and Mrs. W. H. McFarland were assistants. The town has been incorporated continuously for the past twenty-three years.

BEST RAIN OF YEAR FALLS

A three-inch rain fell here Thursday night and Friday, breaking the spring drouth and stopping the western sandstorms. The rain fell just right, slowly and gently, all being absorbed by the thirsty soil. This looks like a new country, a different country.

In fact, it looks like magic has been employed. The grain, corn and cotton, as well as pastures, are all wonderfully benefited. The citizens are rejoicing with a large crowd in town Saturday. April is usually our generous month with moisture.

WILSON PARK ESTABLISHED

The people here are justly proud of the new park and it has been named Wilson Park in honor of Mrs. J. H. Wilson and family, who were generous in granting a liberal discount on the five acres that was obtained in the tract from the Wilson estate.

Several of the business men and John Berry of the highway department also deserve credit for assisting in the purchase of the excess land, as the park will consist of only three acres. It is situated at Mullin creek on the new highway and is an ideal location. It is three-quarters of a mile east of town.

A landscape architect will begin plans and work there at once and Mr. Berry and others have generously offered assistance in the improvement and beautification of the park.

It is an ideal location and nature has smiled upon that lovely little spot, giving generously of her best gifts.

Mrs. W. S. Kemp is chairman of the park committee and we extend to her and her committee appreciation.

JOHN WILLIAMS WEDS

John Williams of this city and Miss Louise McDaniel of Brownwood were married at her home Sunday morning at 9 o'clock.

Rev. Hornburg, read the impressive ring ceremony. The winsome young bride has frequently visited here and her magnetic personality has made many friends. The lucky young groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Williams and is a favorite among the young people. He is a fine, alert teacher in Brown county and the happy young couple will make their home in Brownwood.

Guests from here attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Williams, Misses Eula May Williams and Marie Wallace and Mrs. Hoyt Williams.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

Mrs. S. M. Casey set 33 turkey eggs and hatched 32 turkeys and the other egg was fertile, but the turk did not push through the shell.

Editorial by the Editor

Work—what does it mean to you? Is it something you enjoy doing, or is it just a drudge, a bother to you.

One definition we find says, "Work is exertion directed to accomplish something." The definition, according to physics is, "Transference of energy from one body or system to another, that which is accomplished by a force when it acts through a distance."

So, in thinking of work, we should bear these definitions in mind. It is only human to wish to accomplish something, so why not center our thoughts and interest in the thing to be gained by our work.

Of course, we get no more out of work than we put into it, so the harder we work the more we gain.

Work is a great teacher. It does more than gain a certain goal for us, for as we travel along toward this goal, we learn to stick to unpleasant tasks and be dependable.

Work is a great doctor. Its cures many human ills and hurts. We can recover from almost any kind of grief or shock by working long and hard. Those unkind things, which leave an ugly scar on heart and mind may be soon healed if we put them behind us and work.

So upon careful consideration we find work to be a blessing instead of a curse.

Thomas L. Blanton, according to a telegram to the Abilene Reporter News, states he does not solicit or want to be a federal judge in any newly organized West Texas district.

RABBIT RIDGE

The first thing I want to mention is the four inch rain that fell last Thursday night about 10 o'clock. It was the hardest rain and hail that fell I believe. We have had in years. It beat the gardens and corn down pretty badly, but I think the rain was worth so much until we have hardly noticed the damage done. I believe the corn will come out and we sure have plenty of moisture to plant our gardens again.

PREPAREDNESS MAY BE HELPFUL

The fact that all of Europe is an armed camp and every nation is expecting hostilities at any time, may have the effect of postponing hostilities for a year or so. Preparedness sometimes has that effect, yet one has to be considerable of an optimist to hope for a delay that long. No government and no outstanding statesmen or diplomats appear to be seriously opposing war, hence the developments along what might easily be termed the battle fronts are not reassuring, to say the least of it.

The developments seem to point to the fact that the balance of power in determining peace or war may eventually lie with Russia. She has one of the world's foremost military machines and no country in the world would like to go to grips with the big bear. In addition, she connects the East and the West, and can stand as a barrier to the ambitions of Japan as well as to those of Germany. Russian attitude at present seems to be a desire for peace—not because her government is basically pacific, but because she can not spare the energy and money that a war would require and at the same time pursue her vast internal development program.

So far, the United States has taken no hand in the European muddle. Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy is one of isolation and strict neutrality. However, in any proceedings designed to overhaul the Versailles pact, center of the present discord, our government is almost bound to take a hand, as we were one of the signers and our war president, Woodrow Wilson, helped write it.

A SERIOUS PROBLEM

The present session of the Texas legislature, like all of the legislative sessions of recent years, has been faced with the serious problem of providing for necessary finances to defray the constantly increasing expenses of the state government. The delinquent tax problem was, and long has been, the outstanding problem. Many of the delinquents are able to pay if they only would, while the depression and drought of recent years have made it impossible for some to meet their tax obligations. Then other sources of taxation have been sought to provide the required revenue, in case the measures by which delinquent collections are to be made and future delinquencies are to be avoided prove ineffective. It is claimed by those who at least think they know that there is a leakage in the state gasoline tax of a million and a half, while it is claimed that four million additional would be brought into the state treasury from the cigarette tax, if there was no tax avoidance or bootlegging of these products. There appears to be more of a disposition, however, to search out new sources of taxation than to discover means for collecting the taxes already levied.

CONTINUED IMPROVEMENT

Those who see a steady improvement in the country's comeback to normal are not alone optimists, but really are supported by facts and figures that tell the story of improvement in no uncertain terms. There are no characteristics of a boom about the improvement, but it is gradual, while perhaps slower than many would like. An example is the decrease in liabilities of 7 per cent in commercial failures over those of a year ago. Not a big improvement, to be sure, but an improvement. There was an increase in the number of commercial failures in March, as compared with February, but a much smaller increase in the number was recorded over March a year ago, which is an encouraging showing. There was also an increase in the number of Texas charters issued in March of this year over March of last year. Another and more convincing showing of improvement is the sharp increase in the sales of automobiles, which were 30 per cent over the corresponding month a year ago. Taken for a shorter period: The increase in automobile sales in Texas for the quarter was 62 per cent over the same period of 1934. These are representative business indicators and prove beyond a doubt that the country is recovering from the result of the depression. Many other signs point to a steady economic improvement, not only in Texas, but throughout the country and the entire citizenship has taken courage and feels hopeful of better times.

A DECISION PROMISED

The supreme court of the United States has indicated, if not outright promised, that a decision will be rendered on the constitutionality of Mr. Roosevelt's NRA before court adjourns for the summer. The act of congress which created the president's pet measure gave it only two years of life and the time limit will run against it on June 16. Congress is being urged to give the measure a new lease of life without awaiting the decision of the highest tribunal, the idea being that if the measure is found to be constitutional it will be firmly fastened on the country for another term and the horde of enforcement officers, supervisors and lesser dignitaries will be securely established in their positions for two more years, while without the extending legislation their positions are decidedly uncertain. Every influence possible has been brought to bear on congress for the re-enactment of the measure, but so far without results and the cause of this pet measure was considerably weakened by the action of the government in withdrawing the test case a few weeks ago, just as the highest court was prepared to pass on it. There is just cause for the belief that the withdrawal was for the purpose of selecting a case that would have a better chance for success before the court. The smaller business institutions of the country will have cause for rejoicing if it is put out of commission forever.

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By Julian Capers, Jr.

Whether conditions on Retrieve prison farm are disgraceful, as charged by Dolly Boyett, prison board member, or whether sensational stories of mistreatment of prisoners are newspaper exaggerations, will be finally determined by a house probe committee. Houston newspaper "broke" the story. Prison Manager Lee Simmons denied it. Ranger Capt. McDaniel investigated at the governor's order, upheld Simmons. The house, unconvinced, named its own committee to look into the matter.

Outraged at propaganda stories in favor of federal oil dictatorship being published in national magazines and elsewhere, in which immoderate attacks on the integrity of Texas public officials, and wild statements about the volume of "hot" oil flowing in Texas—which are refuted by official figures of the U. S. bureau of mines—Representative Augustin Celeya of Brownsville has written a resolution calling for a house committee to investigate these charges, and if they are found untrue, to issue an official denial. The house was to consider the suggestion during this week.

Texans are active on other fronts. In New Orleans, ex-Gov. Dan Moody has been making good on advance forecasts that he would cause the Huey Long political machine some sleepless night in his prosecution of federal income tax evasion indictments against certain Long henchmen. Whatever the jury decides, observers are unanimous in New Orleans, according to word reaching Austin, that Moody was never a more relentless prosecutor than in his present case against the government's representative Joseph Fisher, in United States district court at the Crescent City.

In Washington Col. E. O. Thompson, railroad commission chairman, was to offer an eloquent and logical plea against federal dictatorship for oil being the senate mines and mining sub-committee. A statement prepared for presentation by Col. Thompson asserts the Thomas bill ought to die in committee, because:

- 1. There is no conceivable necessity for this drastic legislation.
2. It is undoubtedly unconstitutional.
3. It will retard recovery and cause chaos and uncertainty in the third largest American industry.
4. It seeks to change our system of government and violates every principle of state sovereignty in express contradiction of President Roosevelt's public utterance on the oil question of April 3, 1933.
5. The overwhelming majority of the industry and the oil producing states are opposed to it.

Col. Thompson eloquently developed this brief by pointing out that the Cole oil investigating committee, named by congress to study the whole oil question, failed to recommend federal oil dictatorship, and asserted specifically that federal control was full of constitutional questions.

"Even the most ardent supporters of the present Thomas federal dictator bill will not contend that hot oil in any appreciable amount is being run," he said. "It has been reduced to a minimum. The price is firm at $1 a barrel, and production is a quarter million barrels less than consumption and export daily."

Decision of the third court of civil appeals at Austin, that the Texas anti-trust laws are invalid, and holding the state has had no anti-trust laws since 1911, will not mark the end of the suits against major oil companies. Attorney General Bill McCraw, inheritor of the suits, remarked tersely: "The question is deserving of an expression from the supreme court," and forthwith prepared to take the case there. But the decision does present an interesting sidelight on legislative blunders.

The court found that in 1902 the United States supreme court held Illinois anti-trust laws invalid, because they exempted

PRACTICAL PROBLEMS

By J.E.P.

Many problems face individuals and groups of individuals today. Some of them can, with ingenuity, tact and perseverance, be satisfactorily solved. Others it is best to leave alone for the time being. The man who can quickly make up his mind into which category a problem falls will soon be solving something.

If you are the sort of person who will compromise with your neighbor over a difference rather than let a minor grievance develop into an open breach with long-time bitterness then you have that self control and grace and magnanimity which will mark distinguishing characteristics that generation of men and woman who will settle their international differences without resort to war.

Families of character make communities of character. Communities of character make states of character. States of character make a commonwealth of peoples whose agreements can be depended on. It makes a difference in all the world how I live and how you live and how our neighbors live.

It is still true that some things are good for a man and some things decidedly not so good. If a thought or act is a breaking down of one's standards of temperance or makes him in any sense less fair to his fellow humans or incapacitates him ever so slightly to face his difficulties manfully—it's not so good.

SNAKE BITES

A warning about the dangers of snake bite has just been issued by the state health officer. A number of cases of snake bite are reported each year in Texas during the summer and early fall. However, few of these result fatally.

Most of the bites occur on the hands or feet, which indicates that stepping or falling in the immediate vicinity of an unseen snake or picking up objects under similar conditions are the hazards of contracting snake bite. The pain following the injection of the poison is most intense. Other symptoms are swelling, giddiness, difficult breathing, hemorrhage, weak pulse and vomiting.

If one is unfortunate enough to be bitten by a poisonous snake such as the rattlesnake, the following first aid measures should be carried out.

After making proper incisions at the site of the wound, apply suction and continue for at least half an hour.

Apply a tourniquet above the site of the wound, releasing same every ten or fifteen minutes for about a minute at a time.

If the proper antivenom serum is available, apply it according to directions, but most important of all is to remove as much of the poison as is possible, so as to prevent its absorption.

Secure the services of a physician at once.

If one is bitten by a poisonous snake Do Not run or get overheated and Do Not take any alcoholic stimulants, because circulation increased by alcohol or exercise serves to distribute the poison much more rapidly thru the body.

Don't injure the tissues by injecting permanganate of potash, which is known to be of no value as an antidote.

Don't depend on home remedies or so-called snake bite cures for they are of no value.

farmers and stockmen. The following year, Texas revised its anti-trust laws to meet this objection. In 1911, in recodifying Texas laws, the legislature managed to get the original version back into the revised statutes. In 1925 the statutes were again revised, again the exemption of farmers appeared in the revision.

The Austin district court dismissed the attorney general's conspiracy suits against 15 major oil companies because, it held, the NRA superseded the Texas anti-trust laws. The appeals court did not pass on this interesting question, but held the legislature clearly intended to exempt farms, since the exemption was carried through two revisions. When the supreme court rules, the legislature may have to enact new anti-trust legislation; possible also new laws to permit farm co-operative associations.

VIEWS OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE

PARIMONY DOESN'T HELP RECOVERY

It has always been regarded as beneficial to whoever practiced it to economize by holding expenses to the minimum. But in this depression those men who have whittled the size of their working force down to the thinnest shadow possible have not been a help.

Work has been the most essential thing in the program of recovery. If there was work for all there would not be a problem now for us to face. Consequently it follows that those who have let men out when it was possible to hold them have fed the flames of distress instead of being a help in putting out the fire.

There is too great a tendency to cut the payroll. And when all the payrolls are cut the purchasing ability of the country is lowered and as long as it is held down there won't be that normalcy which we need in the industrial field to bring America back to a state of contentment, prosperity and happiness. Low wages are bad enough, but no wages depress and discourage to an extent that all the talk in the world can not over come. It does not mean a thing to tell the working man that figures show times are getting better unless you can give him something to do to make his own situation better.

Keep all the help that you have; try to find something for someone else to do. Don't feel that it is enough to have the government feeding the distressed. Some time the government must quit, and if there are still millions being fed when that time comes what will become of them?

Being as economical as possible without making that economy spread a bare table for some working man. If you do that you are not helping the people or the country to get back on the right highway.—Waco Record.

THE COST OF WAR

The cost of war in modern times has become so great that if peoples could be brought to realize how great it is, this in itself would be an immense advance toward a more peaceful world. Dr. Butler, in elaborating the thought expressed above, quoted from the Congressional Record an estimate that the world war cost thirty million lives and four hundred billion dollars. The quotation from the Record illustrated what this means as follows:

"With that amount we could have built a $2500 house and furnished this house with $1000 worth of furniture and placed it on five acres of land worth $100 an acre and given all this to each and every family in the United States of America, Canada, Australia, England, Wales, Ireland, Scotland, France, Belgium, Germany and Russia. After doing this there would be enough money left to give each city of 200,000 inhabitants and over in all the countries named a $5,000,000 library, a $5,000,000 hospital and a $10,000,000 university. And then out of the balance we could still have sufficient money to set aside a sum at 5 per cent interest which would pay for all time to come a $1000 yearly salary to each of an army of 125,000 teachers, and in addition to this to pay the same salary to each of 125,000 nurses. And, after having done all this, we could still have enough left out of our $400,000,000,000 to buy up all of France and Belgium and everything of value that France and Belgium possess; that is every French and Belgian farm, home, factory, church, railroad, street car—in fact, everything of value in those two countries in 1914. For it must be remembered that the total valuation of France in 1914, according to the French official figures, was sixty-two billion dollars. The total of Belgium, according to Belgian official figures, was in the neighborhood of twelve billion dollars. This means a total valuation of the two countries in 1914 of less than seventy-five billion dollars. In other words,

BALANCING EUROPE

The Stresa conference probably will accomplish little. There can really be but two purposes in it:

- 1. To draw Great Britain into a French-Soviet-Italian balance of power against Germany, a proposal which Premier MacDonald will definitely, if diplomatically, reject.
2. Arrangement for a mutual guarantee of peace in Europe, including adherence by Germany and Poland. This is not to be had, except on the basis of agreement to German rearmament, which would imply similar permission to Austria, Hungary, Bulgaria and possibly Turkey. France, Russia and Italy will never agree to this.

The picture is best given by the fact that Sir John Simon and Premier MacDonald will represent Great Britain at Stresa, rather than the young Capt. Anthony Eden, who, it will be remembered, found so much similarity between the Soviet and British views. That unity of thought is not particularly noticeable today, which arouses a mild suspicion as to whether the captain's sudden decline in health is not in the same class with Herr Hitler's recent call.

Out of it all we can expect a loose and instable balance of power as between France, Russia, Italy and Czechoslovakia on one side and German on the other, with Japan and Poland, Austria and Hungary possible allies, as events might determine.

With such an arrangement Great Britain would clearly be the deciding factor. Nor, we may be sure, would any war likely be started until some one or more parties believed they had Britain's backing.

In such a situation, why should Britain commit herself? Why not sit as the arbiter of continental issues without obligating herself to anyone?

That is her logical and most likely course.—Houston Chronicle.

OLD IN SIN

There are numerous good men who got that way late in life. But they achieved social and moral reform by changing their associations and joining the church. There is nothing like a discovery of Christianity to reform a bad man. Most men who turn to the comforts of religion late in life had a plus upbringing, from which they departed in the flush of adolescent freedom. Such freedom may have introduced them gradually into bad associations, from which beginning they went from bad to worse by degrees. In their evil condition they may have looked upon the past with regret and remembered the relative satisfaction of their earlier years. In this condition of mind they have sometimes made their way backward toward beginnings and, finally, to complete reform. But it must be conceded that it is seldom that one hardened in sin ever softens. He is more apt to hold grudges against what is called society and the elements of law and decency. The lawless man becomes cynical with increasing age. He doubts if anybody is sincerely good, but good only for profit. He is at enmity with all who are at enmity with his way of life. Little Ishmael was that way—he was against every man, and every man's hand against him. Ishmael thought himself ill-treated by his father, which seems to have been the case. The Arabs, who claim descent from Ishmael, have never been very sociable with other races. Mahomet, who asserted lineal descent, founded a religion which has been a grief to Christians for a thousand years.—State Press in Dallas News.

The price which the leaders and statesmen of the entente, including the 'statesmen' of the United States, made the people of the world pay for the victory over Germany was equal to the value of five countries like France, plus five countries like Belgium.—Texas Weekly.

New England's call for the textile industry grows daily urgent. With still more reported "closed for an indefinite period" — at Adams, North Adams and Williamstown — not words, show the severity of the emergency and its with incontrovertible fact. The growing loss of wages gives the New England delegation the strongest plea for support the interplea for remedial action in Washington. Surely a man who declares that increased employment throughout the his major purpose, can only by and see many of the workers deprived of the as a direct result of the administration's own policies.

If Mr. Roosevelt has any that the AAA's cotton taxes have far overburdened, and are causing harm than good, let him the testimony of Henry H. dall, the trusted chairman, unusually competent committee in the department of commerce. Speaking of wide knowledge of millions both in the north and south, Mr. Kendall says, "the whole industry is bankruptcy." In fact, the processing taxes incurred, the present one-way sectional or limited textile manufacturers in one of the country are among the AAA's sales tax of 1934 has not only caused a decrease of popular purchasing consumption of cotton goods also has eaten deep into working capital of many. Since the manufacturers pay the tax soon after the of raw cotton are open their plants, and then the public to buy, an increase share of the burden of the heavy tax is the industry.

With such an outlook the planters, and with the textile manufacturers universally in trouble, the president and congress means to save the situation for it is too late. Not AAA is so sacrosanct as of the new deal that defense of its policies is followed to defeat the purposes of the new deal. Boston Transcript.

TRADING AT HOME

There are any number of people living in this town at the idea that it is better at home. They take that it does no matter they spend their money to get their money's worth only obligation they home town is to get can out of it.

Our idea of trading does not include buying from merchants who exorbitant profits. It necessitate the acceptance of worn, dirty or bedraggled from old time merchants. It is up to us to humnity to keep them. It only means giving merchant a chance and buy if he can reason other competition.

The local merchants, side, have duties in respect to trade-at-home idea. To keep the buyer informed what they have to sell must be stock new goods must be accommodated to render real service to the chaser. They must refuse shoddy goods, or to sell something that is unprofitable. In all must maintain, at all confidence of the community. The average citizen, taking it, have pleasure in the total volume of business. Out of this the prosperity of the larger it is the average share. If there is any one thing that can be said about the new spring hats, it is that their lines know no uniformity, regardless of what your particular type may be, there is sure to be a hat that will bring out your points.

Just a glance at the offerings in millinery being shown in the "mart" shops makes one wonder if there is a wearable hat in the whole display, but the wise woman will not be content with a mere glance, but will devote some time to trying on the newer models.

You can't imagine just how smart the straight-brimmed sailors can be with the new suits and tailored things. For the more feminine type, the poke bonnets will be more becoming. Then there are Breton sailors, worn far back on the head, the pill boxes and turbans which mount to sharp points.

There are hats equally as smart and far more becoming to the average woman, which have medium-sized brims which have a sweeping air, dipping over the right eye.

While there are any number of varied styles, there's one favorite which is still with us—the be-ret. Soft doeskin in colors that will go with anything you wear, berets in pure white or pigskin both boast accompanying accessories which make them the choice of many smart women.

So varied are the styles, the fabrics and the colors, that the selection of a becoming hat should be easy for every woman.

Motorists who know these facts will save money:

Motor oils refined by the usual methods have some oiliness and film strength, but they may form carbon and sludge, which lead to expensive motor repairs.

Other oils may form almost no carbon and sludge, but are so over-refined that they are robbed of oiliness and film strength they need to prevent motor wear.

Germ Processed Oil is refined to eliminate carbon and sludge troubles and then the Germ Process adds extra oiliness and 2 to 4 times more film strength than any mineral oil.*

YOU will save money on repairs and have a smoother running motor if you use Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil!

The Germ Process—adding concentrated oily essence to highly refined oil—gives it the extra oiliness and film strength so necessary for full protection of high-powered, high-speed motors. No other oil is made by the Germ Process.

HELP CRIPPLED CHILDREN

The Texas Society for Crippled Children, Inc., is working in co-operation with all groups and organizations. It has already allied itself with the Crippled Children's division of the state department of vocational rehabilitation in order that these children may be hospitalized first and then later trained for vocations suitable to them.

Purposes

- 1. To locate crippled children of the state whose condition may be improved through proper surgical and hospital care.
2. To make available such hospital and other facilities as may be required in the treatment of such persons.
3. To see that every crippled child receives an education, which includes vocational guidance, training and placement of a type that will secure and safeguard remunerative employment.
4. To keep the general public interested in the rights of the crippled children and the economy of fitting them into the normal life of their communities.
5. To co-operate with all agencies, public or private, and interested individuals in the attainment of these objectives.
6. To provide a balanced program for the care of the state's crippled children namely: Discovery, treatment, education, vocational training and placement in remunerative employment.

Definition of the Crippled Child
"A crippled child is defined as any person of normal mentality, under twenty-one years of age, whose physical functions or movements are impaired by reason of a joint, bone or muscle defect or deformity, to the extent that the child is or may be expected to be totally or partially incapacitated for education or remunerative occupation."

Eligibility

"To be eligible for service, the child's disability must be such that it is reasonable to expect that such child can be improved through hospitalization, medical, or surgical care, artificial appliances or through a combination of these services."

LODGE RESOLUTIONS

Goldthwaite, April 18, 1935. To the Worshipful Master, Wardens and Brethren:—

We, your committee heretofore appointed to draft appropriate resolutions on the death of our Masonic brother, L. B. Walters, beg leave to submit the following:

Whereas, God in His Infinite Wisdom, being more far-seeing and infallible than mortal man, has deemed it wise to call within the portals of the Supreme Grand Lodge above, our beloved fraternal brother, L. B. Walters, and,

Whereas, we sadly miss his kindly voice, his wise counsel, his confident presence and his loving personality at our monthly gatherings to do the work of Masonry, and

Whereas, we feel that he has made for himself a place that none other can take, and built for himself a chair in our Spiritual Masonic Lodge, as did our first Grand Master, that no one else can fill,

That he was a true and faithful Mason, casting out before him as a rule and guide to his faith and practice the Holy Bible, the Great Light in Masonry;

That following its inspired tenets, he lived a conscientious citizen, a kind companion, a faithful friend, and beloved brother and a model Mason,

And that, for many days, tho he went about his daily task, tho he walked our streets and halls, tho he met us with a smile and cheerful greeting, Bro. Walters had, in Spirit, been standing just at the threshold of the Supreme Grand Lodge above. That tho we took his kindly hand and he walked and talked with us, as the Master did with His Disciples on the road to Emmaus, even then the Supreme Grand Master had ordered the Tyler to admit him, for he was truly clothed with all the habiliments of a true Mason, a Living Stone, refined and fit to be placed in that Spiritual Building, that house not made with hands, eternal in the Heavens:

Therefore, be it resolved, that we humbly submit to God's will, as best becomes men and Masons, and that tho our hearts cry out against his going, we bid him Godspeed and say, as did David of old, "Though he can not come to me, I can go to him."

Be it further resolved, that we honor his life, reverse his memory and enshrine his lovely character as one of the fairest pictures on memory's wall. Be it further resolved, that we extend our condolence to his family and friends outside of Masonry, who so sadly mourn his loss. That we adjure them not to sorrow, as those having no hope, but look gladsly forward to that time when we, with our Redeemer, shall stand at the latter day upon the earth.

W. M. JOHNSTON, W. M. JOHNSTON, F. P. BOWMAN, Resolution Committee.

TROUBLESOME PROBLEMS

The restoration of full productivity to the United States depends on the recuperation of its industry and agriculture. This does not depend on export of its agriculture does. This is the reverse of that in the United Kingdom. American manufacturing industries do not look to exports for recovery. restoration of effective purchasing power in the home market would absorb and overtake capacity to produce. But the reduction of wealth from the human, mechanical, scientific equipment which the United States possesses has capabilities which far outstrip capacity of domestic production to be expected from existing economic order.

The problem before the United States is the disposal of the exportable surplus of production resulting from the utilization of these resources. The assumption is that the exportable surplus of production could be compensated by a corresponding increase in the production of industrial and other goods, accompanied by a remunerative employment of all classes of labor, but difficult to see how this can be achieved without a planned economy enforced economic dictatorship, not possible in the United States.
