A woman does not need to argue a point to have it her own way.

Marriage is always a lottery when his mother-in-law scoops him.

A man is none the less a thief when he knows his yardstick is a bit too short.

Any public will suffer when her servants clutch for honor, thirst for applause and "crave power."

Don't be afraid to undertake a new thing. Such spirits are world builders and history-makers.

Don't fool yourself. Every worthy man respects the fellow that lives within his means.

A great deal depends on your garb. A freeman proved it by starting out to walk in a prison suit from one city to another. He was arrested nine times within thirty miles. See?

An ingenious person has invented a sate which revolves so rapidly that it is impossible to burglarize it. What a scheme that would be for some husbands if the thing would fit in the trouser pockets.

Be it said in the general defense of men that if women could be immune from the poisoned words of their own set, the battle of men would bring no tarnish to their fair names. Is it very strange that at the tragic trial of some social vampire women crowd the court room?

We grow tired watching men spend all their days on affairs far beneath their powers. The vast bulk of the world's power is unused. Many a pointer pup wastes his energies pointing sparrows in the park. He needs someone to take him afield. And so do you!

Mr. Lively said his wife and baby were in the garden the day before and heard something coming thru the air, the object falling in a foot or two of them. Mrs. Lively thought at first her son had thrown something to scare her, but found he was several hundred yards away and he said he did not throw anything. Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Halle, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'do-less.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." ... If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician.

CHAMBERS WILL VOTE ON COUNTY SEAT JUNE 29.

Enactment of a "hog law" thirty years ago caused removal of the county seat of Chambers county from Wallisville to Anahuac. But the court house at Anahuac burned last month and Wallisville citing that Anahuac now has a "hog law," too, has forced a county-wide vote, set for June 29, on location of the court house which will grace the county seat.

Wallisville pioneers contend that the county seat was literally "stolen" from them thirty years ago by their sister and, though Anahuac now boasts a population of 513, Wallisville claims most of them as original home town boys who joined the general exodus brought on by the "hog law."

Wallisville bases its claim to the county seat now on its proximity to Mont Belvieu, a comparatively populous community of the county. June 29 will see the question settled.

KEEP A GOOD LAXATIVE always in your home

Among the necessities of home is a good, reliable laxative. Don't be without one! Do your best to prevent constipation. Don't neglect it when you feel any of its disagreeable symptoms coming on. "We have used Thadford's Black-Draught for 21 years and have found it a very useful medicine that every family ought to have in their home," writes Mrs. Perry Hicks, of Belton, Texas. "I take Black-Draught for biliousness, constipation and other ills where a good laxative or purgative is needed. I have always found Black-Draught gives good results."

PLIGHT OF THE PACIFIST

If the pacifists of this country could succeed in abolishing the army and navy of the United States, and if Mexico should then calmly swallow up Cuba, then a few years later re-annex Texas, and the following year Oklahoma and Arkansas, the pacifists might begin to wonder if an army and navy might not be of some use after all.

Something similar to this state of affairs is taking place in the Far East today. China, with 400,000,000 people, is helpless in the clutches of a Japanese army of only a few thousand men, backed up by armored cars and airplanes and a large efficient army at home. While China is without an army not so much from the agitations of pacifists as from greed of Chinese politicians, the result is the same. China has no national defense, and Japan is biting out chunk after chunk of her rich territories.

Some years ago Japan took Korea, which, while nominally independent, was under the protection of China. In 1932 Japan seized the rich, newly developed province of Manchukuo. A year later she took Jehol, and this year it is Hopei, a province twice the size of Wisconsin populated by nearly thirty million industrious Chinese.

Of course China belongs to the League of Nations and is, like the United States and Japan, a signer of the Five-Power Pact which guaranteed the integrity of her territory. But Japan has guns and ammunition, and well trained soldiers, and neither this country nor any other is going to interfere. The United States has even ceased to waste paper and ink with the futile notes of protest with which President Hoover's secretary of state bombarded the Japanese foreign office to the hardly disguised amazement of the Mikao's canny diplomats.

It is hard on the peaceable Chinese, but perhaps they would rather pay dollars to support a Japanese army in their midst than the cents that would have provided an adequate army of defense.

FALL OF NRA HELPS BUSINESS

In a formal statement by the commerce department, the administration has stated that "there was no indication that the NRA situation was exerting any pronounced effect on trade one way or the other." But it went on to report "widespread gains" in retail trade throughout the country. It, therefore, stands to reason that if business is not being injured by the abandonment of the Blue Eagle, the effect is helpful.

The benefit is largely psychological. It is true, but it is a benefit none the less. During the period when the NRA was being most rigidly enforced, it was flouted with impunity by one of the largest automobile manufacturers in the country and by the big mail order houses. There was scarcely a community in which some of its regulations were not broken or ignored, yet nothing was done about it.

Business men who tried to live up to the provisions of the multitudinous codes saw some of their competitors making a joke of them. In Washington alone nearly 5000 tax-eating government employees were living off of the NRA, and throughout the nation the huge sum of $96,000,000 annually was being spent on useless administrators, code authorities and the like.

While the abandonment of the whole system has naturally caused distress to the thousands directly employed in running it, it has not resulted in the wholesale wage cuts or hour increases in industry which its administrators so positively predicted. Instead, business men are going ahead with renewed confidence, the drains on their treasuries for the support of the code authorities stopped, and the threat of persecution by self-important inquisitors ended.

It is not surprising under these conditions that business should show improvement, and still greater improvement should come with time.

MISSING THE MARK

The recently enacted social service program of the federal administration, which provides for the pensioning of old people to the extent of $15 per month, provided their state appropriates a like amount for their support, has entirely missed the purpose of the backers of the plan to pension those over sixty years and will be of very little benefit to the deserving old people. However, the purpose of the agitators of the pension plan was to appropriate a sufficient amount to induce old people to retire from gainful occupations, giving place to younger people and thereby doing away with unemployment and placing every person in producing age in a position to earn. The intention of the plan was to have every one receiving the pension spend it before another payment could be secured. The money could not be hoarded or given away, but must be spent in the legitimate channels of trade. The intention was to make the government the custodian of the funds, most of which were to be secured by direct taxation, but all must come out of a 2 per cent transaction tax, which it was calculated would pay for the pensions and the administration of the funds. It was not the purpose of the plan to simply pay a pension to all persons over sixty years, the main purpose being to provide employment and improve business in every line, without costing the government a penny. These aims are not accomplished by the enacted pension plan.

FEEDER ROADS

The Eagle has for years insisted on the importance of good lateral, or feeder, roads as a part of the county program. Highways are important, but their value, after all, is probably greater to the transient and to those living adjacent to them than to the residents of the county at large. But good community roads are indispensable to the progress and prosperity of every agricultural section.

By limiting a major portion of the huge five billion dollar work relief appropriation to labor items, the federal government has indicated that the construction and improvement of lateral roads will receive favorable consideration.

Now is the time for Mills county to secure this assistance, for if a comprehensive lateral road program is begun now, by the time the new highways in this county have been completed, there will be good secondary roads connecting them with all sections of the county.

TYPHOID FEVER

Recent floods may be responsible for an epidemic of typhoid fever, declares the Texas state health officer. Flood conditions have prevailed over most of the state and unless the utmost precautions have been observed to prevent this disease the monetary loss from illness may equal the property loss.

Typhoid fever is often called a "filth-borne" disease. It can only grow into epidemic proportions under conditions which are insanitary. A typhoid epidemic means that water, milk, or food have been contaminated with germs from the body discharges of a patient or carrier. Contamination of milk or food by flies is favored by a lack of sanitation.

The prevention of typhoid fever is peculiarly a matter of community responsibility. In cities large and small most urgent control measures are those providing for (1) proper disposal of human excreta through sewage disposal plants and toilets of sanitary type; (2) safe public and well water supplies; (3) extermination of flies; (4) healthy food handlers; (5) supervision of disease carriers and (6) public milk supplies of high quality with the added safeguard of careful pasteurization.

Inoculations with vaccine increase individual resistance to typhoid fever. Such treatments are advised for exposed persons and those who, through travel or change of residence are subject to varied water, food, and milk supplies. For the rank and file of our population, reduction of deaths and sickness from preventable disease like typhoid fever is largely dependent upon carrying out the six above mentioned measures.

THE SOY BEAN

A communication in an exchange says:

"Somewhat over a dozen years ago there were only a few thousand acres of soy bean cultivated in America. In 1934, it was estimated, about five million acres. In the early part of the nineteenth century the first seed was planted in America. There are now several hundred types in the United States, each type being developed to meet certain sectional requirements of the country. In the Orient the soy bean has been a substitute for meat and wheat among countless millions of Orientals, supplementing their rice diet. The bean is cooked green, ground for flour, fermented into food and drink, its oil extracted for salad oil, and its milk preparation used for curds and cheese. The Chinese use soy meal for fertilizer for their rice crops. By a process of soaking the beans, and then grinding them, the Oriental processes a form of milk. This is due to the protein and oil in the soy. A creamy mixture results which, when, properly boiled and strained, can be used for practically the same purposes as cow's milk."

"The flour from soy has recently been improved in taste, and is now used extensively in Europe. In America the soy meal is an important livestock food, equaling linseed or cottonseed cake even when most of its oil is extracted. The oil content of the bean varies from 15 per cent to 23 per cent high. The chemical analysis of the oil shows it to be a hydrocarbon plus oxygen. By removing the oxygen, a form of petroleum is left. This can be distilled into a lubricating oil. Japanese scientists are now reported working on the idea of drawing gasoline from this oil, but no practical method has yet been found. However, there are possibilities. American soap factories use several million pounds of soy bean oil a year. The Chinese varnishes and lacquers are unexcelled, and soy bean oil has been used in them for centuries. Many paints manufactured in this country are using increasing quantities of soy bean oil. A splendid water-proof glue is said to be made from it. Its industrial uses are many."

"Soy bean makes a splendid hay crop, giving one to three tons of excellent hay per acre. The straw makes fine nitrogen fertilizer for the soil. A good stand of soy bean builds up the soil, the plant being a legume, which means storing up that great plant essential, nitrogen, under its roots. The soy bean does well even on poor soil, which is an advantage to many farmers."

SELLING FEED ON FOOT

Fat steers are always in demand at the meat packeries and the price paid for the fat ones makes the lean ones look drooldden. But when the steer increases to twice his weight after three or four months on corn all the fat shouldn't go to the feeder, seems like. It costs something to range a steer on grass, and if the grazer has worried with creature for eight months, the feeder shouldn't get half the increase for one half the time given to the year-old-beefer. State Press is not trying to interfere with any amicable arrangement between the grass man and the corn man. Nor is he concerning himself with any feeling the steer may express. He is simply saying that it is an inequitable division of profits. How would it do to fatten the steer closer home, on cottonseed meal, and divide with the oil miller instead of the corn feeder? It is sometimes claimed that a few days of corn feeding hardens the beef and makes it more desired by the consumer. But, as a matter of fact, the consumer doesn't know the difference. Probably the market man doesn't either. Also, how would it do for the grazer to grow enough corn to fatten his own herd? He could reduce the size of the herd in proportion to the size of his corn crop, couldn't he? A smaller pasture and a larger cornfield might prove the right answer. At any rate, this comment shows that State Press knows something about the beef-producing business. Or doesn't it?—State Press in Dallas News.

FORGET IT!

This nation needs to practice Christian Science. We are not sick if we could only get that fact into our heads. There is too much scare, too much worry and too much put on.

Abundant rains have fallen in all parts of the country. Crops are good, cattle are fat and the people are enjoying good health. How happy the pilgrims would have been, as fortunately situated. They would have blessed God instead of complained to Washington. They would have relied upon their strength instead of upon their congressman.

Of course we hope for the best possible treatment from the government. We want the "forgotten man" to be remembered by the powers that be. There ought to be fresh opportunities and just divisions of what is created, but each individual should pull up the slack in his belt, face the east and begin marching.

Work and courage made this a mighty nation. That had more to do with our progress than any laws that have been passed.

Let us take a new hold on ourselves and go forward. Let us depend largely on what we can do for ourselves. If we do that we will not fail.—Waco Record.

DO YOU KNOW

The national income which dropped from over $36,000,000,000 in 1929 to $49,000,000,000 in 1933 has increased to approximately $60,000,000,000 yearly.

Taxes on motor vehicles run well over $1,000,000,000 a year.

The labor of $3,000,000 bees is required to produce the tons of beeswax used in making autos.

The average age of world war veterans is now around 40 years.

The total value of all farm lands and buildings in this country is estimated at close to $33,000,000,000.

Some youngsters in Colorado two and three years old never saw it rain until recently.

There are maintained by the rural districts of the United States a total of 350 schools each with an average attendance of one pupil, 750 with two pupils, 1500 with three pupils, 2250 with four pupils, 3000 with five pupils, 14,000 with six or seven pupils, nearly 52,000 with 13 or fewer pupils, and 85,000 have a daily attendance of less than 17.

There are now less than 60 per cent as many children being born in England as 30 years ago.

From 1924 to 1930 births in the United States decreased an average of 55,000 a year and from 1930 to 1933 by 100,000 a year (But the decline in the birth rate is expected to end with the recent increase in the number of marriages).

VIEWS OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE

TEXAS REGIONAL EXHIBITS FOR CENTENNIAL EXPOSITION

Valley Centennial Exhibit Corporation, that lately called upon the secretary of state for a charter, exemplifies a type of project which should spread throughout Texas. As W. R. Montgomery of Edinburg, spokesman for the movement, explains, the new organization will undertake to assemble a representative Lower Rio Grande Valley exhibit for the Texas centennial exposition in Dallas next year.

As plans for the exposition are taking definite shape, it is none too early for communities and regions desiring to participate to begin work on their displays. Building up an exhibit which will do justice to such an agricultural horticultural territory as the Lower Rio Grande Valley will take time.

Every industrial community, every truck-growing district, every section which has its own distinctive economic interest should follow the Lower Rio Grande Valley's example. The Winter Garden might "feature" spinach and Bermuda onions. Poteet might display strawberries. DeWitt county, turkeys; Yoakum, tomatoes; San Angelo, wool and mohair production; Corpus Christi its seaport and alkali industry, and so on indefinitely. The field is practically limitless.

The Lower Rio Grande Valley has plenty to show; its 8,000,000 citrus trees represent but one major economic interest. The region grows truck crops the year round and still regularly harvests the country's first bale of new crop cotton. It has industries also; food processing has developed into a major pursuit. Grapefruit juice, the canned fruit, marmalade, a variety of canned vegetables, supply a clientele which appreciates quality. That market is growing continually. The seaports have opened up new fields to exploit, which should be adequately depicted in the exhibit.

Quite justifiably the Lower Rio Grande Valley calls itself "the show place of Texas." Evidently the region's business and civic leaders consider the Dallas exhibit an effectual means of inviting centennial visitors to see the valley while in Texas.—San Antonio Express.

ANTI-RED HYSTERIA

It is perhaps appropriate that the hearing in Chicago in connection with the charges that the University of Chicago and Northwestern University are "hotbeds of Communism" was adjourned as a result of a fist fight. Ordinarily this sort of thing is more likely to occur at a pacifist meeting—there being few more bellicose and cantankerous people than pacifists. This time it occurred because a gentleman reputed to represent an "anti-defamation" society was indiscreet enough to make a derogatory remark about a Red-baiting lady witness in the presence of her husband.

It is hard, as a matter of fact, to have patience with the repeated charges that the colleges are overrun with "reds." When, as has happened in Chicago not only the president of the university but a number of distinguished professors are singled out by name and charged with being conscious or unconscious tools of the Communists the presumption is that those making these charges are emotionally overwrought. There are, of course, foolish theorists among professors—as among other categories of men. Here and there a professor may preach doctrines that are genuinely contrary to the American political and social system. But such men are rare and wield little influence.

As has already been indicated in these columns, to fear that mere exposure to radical ideas will corrupt or demoralize the youth of America is to show a strange lack of confidence in the character and upbringing of the boys and girls of this generation.—New York Herald-Tribune.

THE SOCIAL SECURITY BILL

It seems almost too late to hope that a measure of so sweeping a nature will receive the close and careful study it deserves. The case for splitting it into its constituent parts is a strong one. It would obviously be desirable to break it into at least three separate measures—one providing for immediate old age assistance and federal contributions for maternal and child aid, a second providing for unemployment insurance, and the third providing for permanent old age insurance. Only after such a division would each section be likely to receive sufficient consideration, and to be voted upon as its merits deserve.

The whole contributory old age pension scheme in particular ought to be postponed and turned over to an expert commission for study. As it stands it imposes a gradually rising tax on both employers and employees, which at the end of ten years, it has been estimated, will amount to $1,700,000,000 (billions) a year. This in itself would mean an added tax burden equal to nearly half of the existing total federal tax burden. Further, it would result, it has been calculated, in the accumulation of an eventual reserve fund of the immense total of $32,000,000,000 (billions). The problem of managing such a reserve fund, and its possible social and economic effects, have not yet received anything like adequate study. Alternative types of old-age pensions ought to be considered.

Nothing has yet been done, again, about amending the major defects of the unemployment insurance plan as it stands. It still does not provide that the workers shall contribute toward their own insurance, in spite of the convincing arguments for this practice and the fact that it prevails in virtually every such system abroad. And it still, for no good reason that it would be possible to think of, levies a 3 per cent tax on the total payroll of employers, instead of merely on that part which is paid to workers actually covered by the insurance benefits.—New York Times.

AN EXTRA BURDEN

Much of the burden of the relief agencies would be removed should the government give more attention to the residence of aliens in this country unlawfully and send them back to the countries from which they came. Martin Dies, member of congress from a southern Texas district, asserts there are thousands of these aliens, who have entered United States illegally, many of whom are on the relief rolls, while others who are at work are filling positions or holding jobs that would otherwise be filled and held by citizens who would then be self-supporting.

Years ago we were fond of hearing the emigrants from Europe declare they came to this country because in the native lands they had no freedom, and we patted ourselves on the back because we were affording them the opportunity to make homes and become citizens of this country. Many of the immigrants did this and are today good citizens, but others, especially many who have come in the past few years, are anything but desirable. Some who entered legally have never taken citizenship while those who were smuggled in or bribed their way in, of course, dare not apply for naturalization.

It is this element that Representative Dies asserts should be deported and there is reason in his argument. A family that had not sufficient food for its members surely would not be expected to take in and feed every ho-bob that came along. By the same reasoning, United States should not be expected to feed and otherwise care for persons not citizens of this country and who have come here without authorization. Some money spent in ferreting out these people and sending them away would probably reduce the relief rolls and result in less money being required for that purpose.—Paris Morning News.

LIFE-LONG EDUCATION

Prominent educators advocating education time. This is the time. There was a time when up to 12 years of age were compelled to go to school 24 weeks every year. The days of the three-day school age was over. Finally, it has been raised without a certificate by the states of the compulsory states illiterate compelled to attend night school an elementary school.

Adult education has considerable emphasis in years. With compulsory education extended to a life-long stage.

Yet there is every opportunity to extend the education through all of life. This is true in a democracy.

In Russia and Germany have what they call "learning" of the party. This which is applied to the are members of the party which controls the find out whether they are true to its ideal.

Why should not every citizen from time to time pass a test to see if he understands what goes on all about, and to learn the voter really knows about the issues upon which is called upon to give through his ballot.

There are all too many who are incompetent to do anything but the elementary propositions of their country. They are Republicans or Democrats, protection free traders, not because they are intelligent upon the subject but because they lack sense.

Candidates for office of character, in ability, announced views on what claim have on the goodwill or the support of the voter?

Of course, we can not the government can any educational system that a man through life principle is a sound one should be learning and getting all his life.

We have the opportunity this country, through classes and through through a wide system of courses, and through variety of journals and newspapers, all that is ad is that the people should themselves of these opportunities.—Chronicle-Telegraph, Ohio.

Highway engineers with the results of publication on highway frank in declaring that must abandon its efforts to turf the roadside. State highway can meet Mother on equal terms and by perennials and indigenous improve the landscape they can do nothing motoring public which that flowers are made. There's a law on the subject but there are laws on many subjects which the citizen cheerfully ignores. It is probably right as but is grievously wrong feasting constructive to relieve the monotony of highway landscape.

ROCK SPRINGS

There was church Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. Sunday school Sunday morning. Bro. Homer Starnes wasn't able to fill the pulpit, so Bro. Davis preached for him. We always enjoy Bro. Davis' sermons. We hope Bro. Starnes will soon be well.

I went to the Baptist church in town Sunday morning. Bro. Swanner preached a fine sermon. If he lives he will be as good as some evangelists some day. Believe it or not, the Mountaineer Quartet sang well. They sang an old song our mothers used to sing to us when we were small. "At the Sounding of the Trumpet." I hope Bro. Swanner has the Mountaineers on program often.

John W. Roberts will finish cutting his oat crop this week. His binder has been in use 33 years. He has owned it 25 years. This year is the first year a new canvas had to be put on it. Mr. Roberts bought this binder in 1910 from Jack Cook at Moline.

Jake McClary from Fort Worth came last week to cook for Frank McDermott's thrasher. The hands are expecting lots of good eating.

Dick Shipman and wife from Richland Springs came for his mother Sunday.

Goodie Miller from town visited in the E. D. Roberson home last week end.

Mrs. Eula Nickols helped her daughter, Mrs. Joe Roberts, can plums and make bread and butter pickles Friday afternoon.

Earl Evans and family from Fort Worth, Lealie Clark and wife from Killen visited in the Ellis home Saturday night and Sunday.

J. R. Alley from Itasca, Loell McKnight from Bangs, Greta May Alley and Arlie Davis and family from Brownwood, Marion Robertson and wife and son, Ray Stark and family and mother visited with J. F. and Joe Davis and families Sunday.

Mrs. Homer Doggett and Janee have spent this week with Mrs. Nickols and boys.

Beryl Turner and family and Bernice Traylor from Brownwood spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mrs. Traylor and family.

There has been quite a bit of road and bridge work to do since the big rain. Mr. Burnham had a bunch of his men to help Mr. Egger's men to fix some small bridges down toward the bayou.

James and Shirley Nickols and their mother sat until bed time with R. E. Collier and wife Tuesday night. Mr. Collier and Shirley beat James and his mother playing dominoes. Mrs. Collier kept books.

Herbert, Horace and Nellie Dee Cooke write they are liking the school fine. Herbert and Nellie Dee don't really enjoy their swimming lessons, as it is too cold. Since the overflow in Austin, Horace has wished for a good drink from Mills county.

Collier Ballard will have to move his cotton patch as his field is all washed out in the road.

E. L. Pass has sure sold his nice plums this week.

W. A. Daniel took cattle to Fort Worth Sunday night.

Joe Amos Davis took his mother to the country Monday to supervise the canning.

Some from here are getting their canning done in town at the cannery.

Mrs. John Roberts was fortunate enough to win a dozen pint glass jars at the cooking school in town. She and Mrs. Duey Bohannon attended the cooking school both days.

J. R. Davis and wife spent Sunday in the Faulkner and Laird homes.

Mrs. Lula Gatlin and Miss Love cooked Oscar a good dinner on the farm Monday.

Phillip, James and Shirley Nickols drove cattle from Williams ranch to Mullin for V. D. Tyson Monday. They also helped to load the cattle to be shipped to Fort Worth.

W. A. Cooke and Rudolph enjoyed a good feast on the bayou Sunday with William Wilcox and relatives. They celebrated Mr. Wilcox's birthday.

Bedford Renfro thrashed Adrian Long's oats Monday.

W. A. Cooke visited in the Jeff Urquhart home in town Sunday afternoon.

Charley Frank Davis spent Sunday night and Monday with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stark.

Landy Ellis' mother and three motors visited him and wife last

ROOSEVELT ASKS DISCONTINUANCE OF SPECIAL COIN ISSUES

President Roosevelt has asked congress to stop authorizing coins commemorating historical events, because they "jeopardize the integrity of our coins and cause confusion."

In letters to the senate banking committee and the house coinage committee, the president suggested instead that government medals be struck to mark anniversaries of historical importance.

Since 1933, he said, congress has authorized nine issues of 50-cent pieces aggregating 3,000,000 coins, despite the opposition of the treasury. Between 1920 and 1930, 15 issues aggregating 13,600,000 were put out.

The president said government medals could be furnished at cost by the bureau of the mint, and would provide "more suitable inscriptions and more artistic commemorative designs."

A bill drafted by the treasury to provide for the medals instead of coins, accompanied the letters.

The Texas centennial 50-cent piece, which was issued last year, was one of those referred to by the president.

GIRL WHO CARED FOR GRANDFATHER REWARDED

The young woman who cared for her aged grandfather for years in his humble home in Oklahoma City, Okla., while neighbors believed him almost penniless, was the heir last week to all but $25 of his estate, valued at more than $300,000.

Miss Bessie Hamby was named as principal heir and administrator of the estate of R. Schwink, eccentric real estate dealer who conducted his business from the home where she served him as housekeeper and secretary. The will, filed for probate, left only $25 to a daughter of Hiawatha, Kansas. Schwink died April 3. He was more than 80 years old.

There was lots of canning done at my house Thursday by Joe Roberts and family, Homer Doggett and family and Mrs. Glenn Nickols. They canned 92 cans of beans and squash.

Duey Bohannon and wife and Mrs. John Roberts went down to E. L. Pass' Thursday and bought plums for themselves and Joe Roberts.

Mrs. Woody Traylor and daughters visited with Mrs. Claud Laird and children Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Eula Nickols and James and Shirley were lonesome last Thursday night, so they went to Center Point to visit in the Otis Hutchings home. They had a little trouble crossing the creek going over, so they enjoyed a longer ride going home by way of town.

We hope the creek between here and Center Point can soon be fixed. It has washed out terribly.

Eula Belle Dewbre from town is enjoying the country air this week on the Daniel farm.

Frank McDermott will start his thrasher Thursday afternoon if it is still pretty weather.

Mrs. Nickols canned plums for W. A. Cooke Tuesday.

Goodie Miller from town visited a few days last week with his sister, Mrs. Traylor, and children. Wednesday afternoon, his daughter, Mrs. Marsh Johnson, and son from town, visited in the Traylor home and she took her father home.

Joe Roberts has been doing some radio work in town the last week.

Rudolph Cooke and his father sat until bed time in the Nickols home Monday night.

Joe Davis cut J. C. Stark's oats this week. A. R. Kaush shocked for Mr. Stark Monday.

The farmers are working fast while the sun shines.

GATHERING OF FORMER MILLS COUNTY CITIZENS AT ARLINGTON

Many of the former citizens of Mills county who now live in Dallas, Fort Worth, Arlington and other communities in that part of the state gathered for a reunion and picnic in Arlington Municipal park Sunday, June 16. There was a large crowd present and some of them had not seen each other for thirty years and some had never met. Marvin Atinip of Dallas and Waddy Ross of Fort Worth were the extemporaneous speakers for the occasion. Mmes. Julia Sullivan Atinip, Lida Thompson Byrne of Dallas, Daisy Queen Milton of Arlington and Mary Lou Grundy Barr of Sherman constituted the arrangement committee for this gathering.

It was decided to make the get-together an annual affair for former Mills county people and next year the meeting will be held in Dallas, on account of the centennial celebration being in progress at that time.

It is estimated there are between 500 and 600 former Mills county people living in that part of the state and the gathering at Arlington would have been much larger had it not been for the flooded streams in that section and the further fact that many of them did not know of the proposed meeting. Those in attendance were:

Dr. Buel Hearne, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. C. Hicks, J. N. McGirk, Mrs. J. S. Caldwell, Bonnie McPherson Bussey, Louise, Bonnie and Sue Tannahill, Mrs. Callie Hicks Ross, Mary Russel Ross, and Waddy R. Ross, Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Swaim, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Stangle, Martha Alice Stangle, Mrs. Alice Bratton Wilsford, R. M. Bratton, Mrs. L. O. Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. (Doc) Kelly, Mrs. J. H. BODY OF MINER TRAPPED YEARS AGO FOUND IN CAVE

The body of an ancient "Floyd Collins," trapped far in the depths of a cavern in Mammoth Cave National Park, probably before Columbus set sail for America, is guarded while it is being chemically treated.

Archaeologists feared sightseers would shake it to pieces before they could figure out exactly who the man was and how he came to be mining with crude tools.

Since the discovery of the desiccated body, described as an important scientific "find," in a cave, one-half mile from Violet City, Ky., archaeologists of the national park service have been hunting for clues to shed some light on who he was. They believe he was a miner who lived in the pre-Columbus period.

The remains are being treated chemically so that no clue may be lost. Because of the fragile nature of the body no one is allowed on "Mummy Ledge."

Apparently the prehistoric man met the same fate as Floyd Collins, who was trapped in a cave in that vicinity 10 years ago, when a rock fell on him while he was exploring. Collins' plight became a subject of worldwide concern during the days of attempts to rescue him. He was reached after 17 days, but had been dead at least 24 hours.

Discovery of the prehistoric man's body, lying face down on a sand ledge under a rock, which had slipped and pinned him, was made June 7, by Grover Campbell and Lyman Cutliff, cave guides.

The discovery is expected to bring out many new facts about the history of Mammoth Cave. Apparently this man was digging for something under the rocks when he was trapped.

A woven fiber loin cloth, covers the hip. A fiber necklace cord was found in place. A large cord found on the sand apparently was the carrying cord of a fiber woven bag beneath the body. Woven sandals were found in the cave.

The only stone tools so far discovered in the cave are crude, dull or blunt-pointed limestone pecking hammers, used in digging sand and in pecking off gypsum crystals from the cave walls.

Archaeologists sought answers to these questions: What was he digging to obtain under the rock? What will be in his woven bag? What is on the end of the string around his neck?

be encouraged by putting a premium upon it in way of license.

It is said that Pat was convicted to serve a sentence for drunkenness in an English prison. When the judge pronounced the sentence, Biddie, the faithful wife of Pat, asked permission to say a word. She arose and said: "Your honor, Patrick has been in jail several times for drunkenness. Might it not serve a fine purpose to let Patrick go home to his family and place strong drink in jail for a time." I wonder if Biddie was not right in the matter. Mills county might well get busy in an effort to answer that question August 24.

Come to church Sunday. Come early if you expect to get a choice seat. You would best not be late if you expect to get a seat of any sort. J. S. BOWLES
