Football Sweaters Awarded Tuesday

Sweaters were awarded in chapel Tuesday morning to the eighteen lettermen of the 1936 football squad. These boys showed the local fans a new style of football for Goldthwaite, and they and Coach Cloninger should be praised for their good record, and especially the game with San Saba which was indeed a boost to Goldthwaite.

Those receiving letters and sweaters will be found in the High School Herald in this week's issue.

Euel Davis Shot In Niagara, Wis.

Euel Davis, thirteen-year old grandson of W. N. Kelly, Goldthwaite ranchman, was mysteriously shot at his home in Niagara, Wis., on Sunday, Feb. 28. Euel attended the Goldthwaite schools year before last when his parents resided here. The following account is taken from the Niagara paper:

Euel Davis, 13-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Davis of Niagara, is a patient in the Iron Mountain general hospital where he was taken shortly before noon yesterday when he was shot through the right side of the chest by someone whose identity has not been learned. Dr. Edward McCormack, of Niagara this morning described the boy's condition as "favorable."

Temporarily Unable to Speak

Assisted into the house by his father, the boy was still suffering from shock and could not talk for several minutes. When he finally was able to tell his story, Mr. Davis loosened the boy's clothing and found the bullet hole. The injury did not bleed profusely.

Cemetery Association Receiving Donations

Good news for those interested in the Goldthwaite Cemetery: Money for clearing off and keeping in decent order our sacred places of the dead is coming in from those living at a distance as well as at home. Those who have loved ones resting on the hillside have read and heeded the pleas made by the Eagle in behalf of our cemetery.

VISIT'S BROTHER

J. W. Beery, who is in the mercantile business in Atwood, Colo., has been visiting his brother, Rev. J. K. Beery. Rev. Beery had not seen his brother in 12 years. Mr. Propst, a friend from the same community, accompanied him. They arrived Monday afternoon and left Wednesday for an extended tour of southern and central Texas.

Commissioners' Court In Regular Meeting

Commissioners' court met in regular session Monday, March 8. Most of the session was taken up with regular routine matters. Bids of contractors on salvaging the wreckage of the Regency bridge were opened. No action was taken on them, as the San Saba county court did not come to any decision as to whether or not they wished to accept or reject bids. The two counties are jointly interested in the bridge.

It was brought to the attention of the court that quite a number of car owners close to the county line are in the habit of paying their car taxes in other counties. No doubt people who do this do so thoughtlessly, as the only source of funds for road maintenance is the car tax and every man who pays his car tax in another county simply robs his own county of that much work on the roads in his own county. Furthermore, if a person pays a car tax in a county other than that of his residence the tax can be collected again for no lawful car license can be obtained except in the owner's home county.

Persons who contemplate paying car tax in other counties should take notice of these facts and co-operate with their commissioners' court for the betterment of the roads in Mills county. It has been the policy of the tax collector's office in Mills county to refuse to accept payment of any car tax of non-residents. Persons who pay car taxes in other counties may be forced to pay again in this county. XXX.

Nazarene Remarks

Some needed repairs are being made around the church during the week. A new roof has already been placed on the church, and the appearance of this tends to enhance the appreciation of the work which is being done. May the good work continue.

The zone rally which was to be held March 26 will not be held until the following week, April 2. This change has been made because of the inability of some to participate in the rally at the first time. As previously planned, the rally will be held with the Cleveland church.

MRS. BEERY HOSTESS TO MISSIONARY SOCIETY

Both circles of the Missionary Society met Monday afternoon in the Methodist parsonage with Mrs. J. K. Beery as hostess. The world outlook program, led by Mrs. C. E. Bayley, was the subject and the information from the schools and community houses was very interesting. After the program a business meeting was held and such business as needed attention was acted upon.

April 10 Is Set For Vote to Fill Buchanan's Seat

Austin, Texas.—Gov. James V. Allred Saturday set April 10 for a special election to choose a Congressman in the tenth district to succeed J. P. Buchanan of Brehm, who died Feb. 22.

Sharp interest was focused on the race because it will be the first voter test in the Nation of President Roosevelt's Supreme Court revision plan through a congressional election. Two of eight announced candidates promptly participated in the issue, one running on a platform of support for the President and another opposing him. Slightly more than 41,000 poll tax payments were recorded as exemptions raised the estimated voting strength of the district to 50,000. Counties in the district are Travis, Hays, Caldwell, Bastrop, Williamson, Burnet, Lee, Burleson, Blanco and Washington.

Lyndon B. Johnson, who resigned as state director of the national youth administration, was the first to announce and pitched his campaign on wholehearted support of the President's plans, while Polk Shelton, an Austin attorney, is running on a platform opposing the proposed change.

Other announced candidates are C. N. Avery of Austin, manager of Buchanan's many successful campaigns, Senator Houghton Brownlee of Austin, who won an overwhelming victory last summer in the six-county senatorial district of which Travis, Williamson and Burnet are in the congressional district, Merton L. Harris, assistant attorney general, who formerly was district attorney in the Smithville district, R. S. Bowers of Caldwell, member of the state board of education and former state senator, Edwin Walker of San Marcos and A. K. Ross of Austin, unsuccessful Townsend plan candidate against Buchanan last summer. Others are expected to join in the race. —Dallas News.

PRIDDY PARENTS AND TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

Regular meeting time for the P.-T. A. of Priddy is the third Friday of each month. A number of the school patrons and friends of the school have asked that we try to interest every citizen of the Priddy community in helping to build a woven fence around the school yard by taking a donation for this purpose at the next meeting. A woven fence, with cattleguard and turnstiles can be placed around the school yard for less than $50. In all probability, $40 will cover the entire expense. Three hundred and thirty-three feet of woven fencing, approximately 20 posts, and about 160 feet of two-inch pipe, for a cattle guard, will be needed.

Every community has enough pride in its school to wish to take the best care of it. If these recommendations are carried out, Goldthwaite will be the only school in the county to rank higher than our school in Priddy in the matter of an attractive and well kept school ground.—Jesse L. Roberts, President of Priddy P.-T.A.

PRIDDY F.F.A. NEWS

The F.F.A. boys of Priddy attended the judging show held at Comanche March 10. By attending these shows we may learn the work of our neighbors and to learn how to judge cattle.

The 60-horsepower Ford V-8 engine was first developed for Europe, where fuel costs are high. Two years' usage there proved its unusual economy.

When the "60" came to this country this year, the Ford Motor Company made no mileage claims—waited for facts, written on American roads by American drivers.

Now Ford "60" owners are reporting averages of 22 to 27 miles on a gallon of gasoline. That makes it the most economical Ford car ever built!

Best of all, the Ford "60" is just as big and roomy—just as handsome, sturdy and safe—as the famous 85-horsepower Ford V-8. And it sells at the lowest Ford price in years.

If you want a big car for a small budget—a car you can drive with pride and profit—see the thrifty "60" soon!

He related some of his experiences which have included sermons to strikers and non-strikers. He preached in Michigan to the workers in many factories at the invitation of the officials, it was said.

While in Detroit, Rev. Mr. Norris, as pastor of the Temple Baptist church, supervised the construction of an $80,000 Sunday school building occupied last Sunday. He also laid the cornerstone for the new auditorium of the church. At that service, Rev. Mr. Norris said, 5,000 per-

JUNIOR CLASS
 Plans for the junior-senior banquet are now underway. Mrs. Marsh Johnson and Mrs. Marvin Hodges have been conferring with the junior girls about the decorations. Few definite arrangements have been made, but the general theme of the banquet has been decided upon. The date will be announced in the near future.

The juniors are glad to report that Dorothy Hartman is back in her place at school after an absence of four weeks. During that time Dorothy underwent an operation at the Sealy Hospital in Santa Anna. Her health is almost back to normal.

A new addition to the ill-and-injured list is Joyce Johnson. She received a deep cut on her right hand from a broken window pane Sunday night. The injury has not kept her from attending school.

Jean Goosby spent the weekend with friends in Comanche. Jeanette Martin visited her sister, Aileen, at Baylor College in Belton.

The juniors take this means of expressing their sympathy to their classmates, George and Snow Johnson, in their recent misfortune. If there is anything that can be done to help at this time, their friends would consider it a privilege to be called upon.

Sympathy is extended to Lala Joyce Batchelor, Sumter, Stoddard and Lendon Dale Gerald in the death of their grandfather last week; we wish also to express our sympathy to Gloria Armstrong in the death of her grandfather, Em Wilson.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL GOSSIP

The play "Coast to Coast" was presented last Thursday and Friday nights in our auditorium. We wish to thank the P.-T. A. for presenting it. It was very comical, especially the part Mr. Shultze played. (Will he ever live it down?)

The chapel program last Wednesday, which Mrs. Carothers conducted, was very interesting. One thing, especially, we enjoyed, much to Mr. Smith's surprise, we sang him the old, old birthday song. How old is he, we wonder? You had better tell Mr. Smith, or we will "snoop" around and find out and it may be exaggerated.

CHATTER

Our straw vote kinda faded out, it seems, but really, there wasn't much use in continuing it for all the letters we received were favorable and it got monotonous. Variety, you know, is the spice of life.

The recluse has emerged! The woman-hater has succumbed! And he is doing alright for himself, too. One week Leo Long steps out with Dorothy Morris, and the next Saturday night he is seen squiring Katherine Hodges around. Nice going, Leo.

What kind of a card was that Fayne Cauffman and Butter Berry sent Al Langford? We suspect that the lad can or will, sue for slander as soon as he is able. Tch, tch!

Where were all the beaux the night of "Coast to Coast" last week? Most of the current couples were around, but NOT in couples. What's the idea? Epidemic of broken hearts? Or is it just broken matches! And perhaps the boys got wise—you never can tell.

WANTED: A strong, healthy young man for reporting job. He should be possessed of much courage in order to take the place of Scout .001, recently deceased. Address inquiries to Chatter Column, The Herald, Goldthwaite High School.

Intriguing facts about intristing peepul:

Healy is on the make again. This time he is stepping with the blonde newcomer, Dorothy Fessler, from Mexia. Al Langford was cut out when he had an accident recently, but Joe Davis is still in the field. Oh, well, may the best man win.

He is in again—a jam, we mean. Warren Thompson has a date with Gartman for Thursday night—and one with Ohlenbusch for the pep squad club party, which, incidentally is also on Thursday night. Oh, boy! This ought to be good!

HOW OFTEN CAN YOU KISS AND MAKE UP?

NEW husbands can understand why a wife should turn from a pleasant companion into a shrew for one whole week in every month. You can say "I'm sorry" and kiss and make up easier before marriage than after. If you're wise and if you want to hold your husband, you won't be a three-quarter wife.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure in the three eras of life: 1. Turning from girlhood to womanhood. 2. Preparing for motherhood. 3. Approaching "middle age."

Don't be a three-quarter wife, take LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND and Go "Smiling Through."

The following is an account of a unit of teaching perfected by Miss Skinner in her first grade room. The work carried on in this project represents the newer type of teaching. In such a project the child is given experiences in which he will need and want to know the things that he is expected to learn. The parents of the children in Miss Skinner's room will do well to visit the room and observe this project.

A Unit on Shelter

This unit on Shelter is one of the most logical, and interesting units for study in the primary grades as every child knows what is meant by a home. A desire for this unit came one day when I asked my pupils how they would like to have a real playhouse to play in. They became interested at once and began asking me all kinds of questions which I answered as best as I could. After school that day I went over to Supt. Smith's office and asked him if Mr. Henry could make me a playhouse as my pupils were too young to make it. He consented at once, and Mr. Smith did all he could to make my playhouse a success.

The first thing I took up in my unit was the background of shelter, such as showing that primitive men built shelters on plains, mountain sides, river banks and lake shores; and that these shelters were made of ice, straw, mud and bamboo. Man had to guard himself against the dangers of cold and heat and against winds, storms and sandblasts. He had to protect himself and his family from wild beasts. From this as a background we progressed through the ages finding that the now modern single-family house and the multiple family house came from the idea that centuries ago when people lived in the single-family cave, an dthe multiple-family cave. The climate, surface and vegetation of the environment used to determine the kinds of materials could be used, but now materials are brought great distances and many kinds of workers are used. The playhouse was by now in our room—an unfinished house that we, the first grade, were anxious to finish. The first thing we decided to do to it was to choose what colors we would paint it. After considering carefully it was decided that we would paint the house white and the roof green. Each child was allowed to paint until it was finished.

Next we discussed what we should do with the inside, and what color scheme should be used there. Since the house was not large enough to make into several rooms we decided to make it into a bedroom for our dolls; and that it would be a blue and yellow room. After that it would be a glue and yellow room. After we papered it with white wall paper the children made blue and yellow rabbits as a border for the room. Then we put blue and yellow curtains at the windows, and several small pictures on the walls. Several of the children brought doll furniture which we paced around the room and made the house complete. It was now ready to be occupied—and it has been occupied ever since.

Through this study of shelter the pupils studied the following:

1. That shelter provides for different needs in different environments.
2. That people in different environments adapt the materials there to the construction of their homes.
3. That the kind of shelter was due to the time it was used.
4. The different industries that contribute to the erecting of shelter.
5. The sources of building materials.
6. The way materials are sent from one place to another.
7. The cooperation needed in building a shelter.
8. The chief public utilities

9. That homes should be properly cared for.
10. Firms which produce various types of building materials.
11. Pictures of different kinds of houses which pupils brought to class, and discussed the architecture.
12. Discussing of the colors that are appropriate for the interiors and the exteriors of buildings.
13. Discussing beautiful homes.
14. Finding the length and gardens and trees.
15. The names of the men that build the shelter.
16. The names of the different rooms of the house.
17. The order in which the shelter is built.
18. Ways to beautify homes.

The local Future Farmers will leave Saturday morning for Fort Worth to attend the fat stock show. A school bus will be used to carry the boys. They will return Sunday night. This year—with good seed corn scarce and expensive—seed treatment with SEMESAN JR. amounts to real crop insurance. ALBERTUS DICKERSON

Albertus Dickerson was born May 30, 1879, in Mills county, Texas, and passed away after a brief illness at his home in Goldthwaite, Texas, Sunday Feb. 28, 1937, at 10:39 p.m., being near his 58th birthday. His going was peaceful and without a struggle.

On Oct. 20, 1909, he was happily married to Miss Gladys Grady. To this union two children were born, Eugene Byron and Miss Floyce Aine Posides.

His wife and two children are going leaves three brothers, Ed Dickerson of San Saba, Neal and Claude Dickerson of Goldthwaite and one aunt, Mrs. Joan Kerby of Lometa. He was converted and united with the Methodist church about 25 years ago with his wife, and where his membership remained until God's call came to join that Great Company on the other side.

Thornton Wilder has said that of all the genuines, plain goodness has had the longest awkward age, and it is this genius that our friend possessed to a large degree.

To him belonged those sturdy qualities of piety, faithfulness and loyalty that characterized the men who have made our nation.

however, that it came from the south as a building in the neighborhood would have deflected a shot fired more to the west.

A wooded hill directly south of the addition was carefully searched but failed to yield so much as a footprint, Rousse said. He covered about a half-mile area and was unable to find where there had been any shooting.

It was reported that several groups of boys who own .22 rifles have been going into the baseball park for shooting matches, firing either at targets set atop the board fence or at knotholes in the boards. It would have been possible, the authorities agree, that the bullet was fired from the vicinity of the ball park which is due west from the spot where the boy was injured, and glanced off a rock or tree trunk.

Rousse said there were several suspects, boys known to be careless in the use of firearms. If the bullet is recovered from the boy's body, Rousse said the guns will be sent to a ballistic expert along with the lead pellet to learn if it was fired from one of their weapons.

REV. NAIL TO BE LISTED IN TEXAN WHO'S WHO

Lampasas will be honored in having one of its citizens and ministers listed in the Texan Who's Who that is now being compiled and will be ready for the press during the year. Information has been received here stating that the Rev. Olin W. Nail, pastor of the First Methodist church, is to be among the distinguished leaders of the state thus honored. The honor came wholly unsuspected and unexpected on the part of the Rev. Mr. Nail but his outstanding work in editing the Texas Methodist Centennial Yearbook and other state activities have resulted in his being elected to this place of distinction.

The new work is the first of its kind ever attempted for Texas. It will carry sketches of leaders in all walks of life and is commended by Gov. James V. Allred and many teachers, librarians and scholars throughout the state. It will adhere to requirements like that of Who's Who in America. Space cannot be bought and the names included will be by invitation of the editorial committee. The book is destined to have historic significance and to be listed in the first edition comes as no small honor. The local pastor's name

FEWER FAILURES NOW

In January of this year commercial failures in the entire state of Texas totalled only thirteen with average liabilities of only $5,000 each. No truer picture could be painted of improved business conditions in Texas.

There is a vast difference in conditions now and in the grisly Hoover days when business after business, many with old and enviable histories, succumbed to the pressure of the depression. Business is better now, and these figures prove it.

A SOUTHERN GENTLEMAN

In the passing last week of Thomas Sumter Gerald, Mills county has lost an irreplaceable link of the present with the gallant past. As a Confederate soldier who survived the arduous campaigns of four long years and as a chivalrous Southern gentleman whose every word and gesture reflected an innate courtesy, Mr. Gerald cannot be replaced.

Only a few years ago Mills County boasted a goodly number of Confederate Veterans whose annual reunions were the brightest days of the entire year. One by one they answered the bugle call that summoned them across the river into eternity. One by one they left behind them a heritage for the generations that have followed them. Now the last one of these gallant gentlemen has answered his call. No more will his associates hear his friendly greetings or his carefully considered opinions which were untainted by rancor or prejudice.

Thomas Sumter Gerald has left us. But his family and friends may proudly treasure their memories of a life well lived.

STRANGE DOCTRINES

In New York city the other day a high school girl asked the court to restrain her father from compelling her to be in her room by eleven each evening, and for objecting to her smoking cigarettes.

The judge, whose name indicates a Middle European ancestry, hailed the old-fashioned father into court and unmercifully berated him. Cringing with fear of the court's authority, the poor man speedily agreed to let his little daughter have her way.

To celebrate her new-found freedom, the girl had her photograph made with a cigarette dangling between her lips as she leered with half-closed eyes.

In this same state of New York a few weeks ago seven youths under the age of twenty-one were in the Sing Sing death house at the same time, awaiting their time to die. Evidently their fathers had not required the urging of a modern judge to permit these vicious youngsters to have their own way.

LABOR, BEWARE

In their lust for power at all hazards certain labor leaders in the United States are fast creating a dangerous situation. It is time to see what has happened in this connection in other countries and to profit by their experiences.

Italy after the World War was torn by strikes much as is the United States today. Finally in desperation at being crushed between the millstones of labor and capital, Mussolini and his black shirt militia began seizing factories and ousting the radical element. No one will ever know how many of these agitators were put to death. Eventually Mussolini became all-powerful, and today neither labor nor capital dares make a move unopposed by him. Even the Italian courts have ceased to function as in a free nation, and the whole country lives under a rod of iron. There are no more strikes, however, and consumers as well as producers are once more assured of a square deal.

Germany presents much the same story. Her factories were rapidly being disorganized by strikes led by communists. Hitler's first acts were to suppress rigidly all such manifestations. Today labor in Germany has no rights except to work as it is directed. The country is at peace and is producing as never before, and there are no strikes, but much of the liberty gained in the revolution against Kaiser Wilhelm has been permanently withdrawn.

To persist in the course now being followed by American radical labor leaders is to invite a fascist dictatorship in this country. Let us not fool ourselves. The great middle classes of this country will not long tolerate the extravagance and inconsequence of strikes for which the public always has to pay. If they continue, it is a certainty that a strong man will arise, even as in Italy and Germany, who will seize the reins of government, banish the agitators, and see that the workers are allowed to work and the consumers' interests are protected.

Absolutely No Justification

By IRVIN S. COBB

A DISTINGUISHED actor of my acquaintance was playing an engagement in Chicago. One day he took a stroll along South Clark Street and came to a district of second-hand clothing shops. A thing he saw there sent him back post-haste to find three of his friends and take them with him to help him enjoy his discovery. I was one of the trio who accompanied him.

He halted us in front of a show-window filled with garments bearing seductively worded legends purporting to represent that these offerings had been cast back upon the makers' hands through no fault of their own but rather because of the capriciousness of the original purchaser. The words "Misfit," "Not Claimed," "Tailor's Sample," and so on, recurred time and time again.

But in the central display, originality in the gentle art of advertising phraseology had scored a triumph. Behind the glass dangles a pair of trousers of a most startling cut and an even more startling pattern. The colors fairly leaped through the window to smite the passerby in the eye. To the garment was affixed a card bearing this statement: "The Pants Were Uncalled For."

learning the exact location of the reputed mine. Believing he had found the secret, he started from San Antonio with eight men to make explorations, but at Calf Creek, 20 miles east of Menard, was attacked by a large Indian band and forced to return to San Antonio, where he soon after was killed in the battle of the Alamo, without revealing whatever secrets he may have learned. The mine, for that reason, became known as "the lost Bowie Mine."

In this column answers will be given to inquiries as to Texas history and other matters pertaining to the state and its people. Address inquiries to Will H. Mayes, Austin, Texas

Q. Was the capital of the Republic of Texas ever located in Fayette county?

A. In 1837, the Second Congress of the Republic in session at Houston appointed a commission to select and report on a site for a permanent capital to be known as Austin; the commission reported to an adjourning session in Houston April 15, 1838, recommending the "John Ebhart league" adjoining LaGrange; the report was adopted April 17, but President Houston vetoed the bill, giving as his reason that "it was premature to select a new site in 1838, for any intervening congress might at its will change it." Many believed that Houston did this to have the capital remain permanently at Houston.

Q. Who was the first of the Sinks family to come to Texas?

A. George W. Sinks came to Texas in 1836 from Cincinnati, Ohio, and was in the postmaster general's department of the Republic at Houston, Old Washington and Austin, serving at one time as acting postmaster-general. He is credited with initiating mail service on wheels, while serving as chief clerk at Houston, using a gig. Later he was in the mercantile business at LaGrange.

Q. What state produces most of the polo ponies of America?

A. Texas produces 90 per cent of all American polo ponies and they are marketed in every country where polo is played.

Q. Why is the legendary silver mine on the San Saba river near Menard known as the Bowie Mine?

A. James Bowie spent a year living with the Indians around the old Spanish fort, built in 1756, for the sole purpose of

EDITORIAL COMMENT

VIEWS OF THE NATION'S PRESS ON TOPICS OF INTEREST AND IMPORTANCE

'KEEDOOZLE' STORE

In 1916, Clarence Saunders applied the self-service idea to Grocery-shopping by founding a chain of Piggly Wiggly stores. Then in 1923, the fortune he made out of this was lost; when he staged a spectacular Wall street fight to stop "bears" from dumping Piggly Wiggly stock on the market.

In the years since then, the energetic one-time grocery clerk of Clarksville, Tenn., has tried the comeback trail with ideas designed to bring him another fortune. Latest and most unusual of these was announced last week in Memphis, where Saunders has introduced a brand-new merchandising unit called the "keedoozle" store.

As worked out by Saunders, the store will be operated this way: As the customer enters, she will receive a "key" about 7 inches long. With this "key"—a fiber rod with a red light bulb at one end—she will walk past glass enclosed shelves, that have usual grocery store items, including meats. To buy any item she will insert the key in a shelf hole corresponding to the products, thus setting up an electrical contact. As soon as the "key" bulb flashes red, her purchase will be registered and taken care of. When she concludes her shopping tour, she will return to the cashier (the only employe visible in the store) and the cashier will then insert the key into another hole, and all the purchases made by the customer will be released on a conveyor belt as an electric adding machine automatically totals the bill.

Memphis will be the try-out city for the "Keedoozle" plan. Other stores will be added in chain fashion if things work out as successfully as Saunders hopes.—Pathfinder.

THE GRAND CIRCLE

Amelia Earhart has arrived at the Burbank Union air terminal to make arrangements for her ambitious nearest - the-equator round-the-world air flight. If anyone can accomplish this feat it is our world's premier woman air pilot. The circumference of the globe at the equator is some 25,000 miles, a distance no aviator has ever yet covered in a continuous flight. Some intrepid souls have covered slices of the earth in the northern hemisphere which took them over a segment of its terrain and so completed the smaller circle. But no one yet has flown the globe at the equator. Miss Earhart will not be able to follow the equator along the whole course. To cross the Pacific Ocean from South America to the east coast of Asia would involve a 9,000-mile non-stop flight, while the flight over the Indian Ocean would add 4,000 miles of salt water. She will necessarily have to zigzag her course to find landing places where she can replenish her gas supply. So when she finishes her flight she will have covered more than the 25,000 miles represented by the equator. The flight is scheduled to start in three weeks. She will take with her the best wishes for her success from millions of admirers.—Los Angeles Times.

JNO. D. ROCKEFELLER, JR., PLEA

In Protestant circles last week, there was one subject of outstanding interest. It had to do with an appeal for a united Christian church that would cut across sectarian lines and free itself of denominationalism.

The appeal won attention not so much because of its novelty as because of the man who made it. The man was John D. Rockefeller, Jr. the philanthropic Baptist whose opinions on church affairs carry no little weight. Speaking on a radio program that reached hundreds of thousands of Methodists taking part in a membership drive, Rockefeller called for a united church to "stem the rising tide of materialism and selfishness, of crumbling moral standards . . ."

The Protestant church with its sects, said Rockefeller, "still clings to its denominationalism, in which a drifting, disillusioned, discouraged world sees confusion rather than hope." He suggested that a single united church could be called "the church of the Living God, with all sectarian churches as branches." In closing his appeal he declared: "Christ stands waiting to see his followers united irrespective of race or creed and praying to the Father that 'they may all be one.' How long, oh God, must we wait?"—Pathfinder.

ALONG SPAIN'S BORDERS

Word came from London that the plan to patrol the Spanish frontiers would not be put into effect by March 6, the date announced last week. Within the non-intervention committee sitting in the British capital sharp differences have developed regarding the patrol program. The distribution of foreign "observers," their number and nationality, and the assignment of routes to the naval patrols, have provoked controversy. It is explained, and probably will force modification of the original plan. Hope was expressed, however, that some sort of modified program might be placed in operation by general consent on March 6 and that its progressive strengthening may be brought about by later negotiation with and between the governments now forcing delay by their objections. Dissension in the non-intervention committee is now a new thing, and delay of the international patrol around Spain causes no surprise. As the patrol plan was outlined in earlier advices, nothing beyond "observation" was contemplated or permitted. Even if the patrol forces came upon a direct and flagrant violation of the agreement to send no more "volunteers" into Spain, they had no authority to prevent that violation, but could only report it to the London committee. That committee, so far as we recall, did nothing effective about the earlier reports of violations of the first non-intervention agreement. There is little if any reason to believe that it will prove any more efficient with respect to enforcement of the new pact against "volunteers." Disagreement about details of the postponing or preventing a really worthwhile watch along the

CARD OF THANKS

We take this method of thanking our many friends and neighbors for the love and kindness shown us during the sickness and death of our dear mother and grandmother. We especially thank the pastors and our doctor and family for the words of love and comfort given us at a time most needed, and for the beautiful flowers and the nice dinner sent by our friends and neighbors. May God bless each and every one of you in our prayer. The Oden children and Grandchildren.

Mrs. L. J. Gartman returned home Friday from a week's trip to Temple and in Austin with her daughter, Evelyn, who is a student in Texas University.
