GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, MARCH 10, 1939.

NUMBER TWENTY-NINE

Mills County Foots WPA Payment List

$36,567 disbursed Here Over Three Years

The county's share of the $7,399,969 WPA funds expended by the federal government in the 22 counties with headquarters at Goldthwaite during the past three and one-half years is only $36,567 according to a report issued this morning by C. H. Harrison, administrative officer. This figure is $4.41 per capita for Mills county or an average of only $1.16 per capita for the other counties in the state. This compares with $18.17 in Lampasas and $11.16 in McLennan county.

county depends on the number of persons eligible for works program employment in that county and upon the willingness or ability of the political subdivisions in each county to sponsor projects."

There have many criticisms of the strictness with which the out-of-county WPA officials have barred Mills county residents from the WPA rolls, and the figures given by the administrator show that the complaints are justified.

It is, however, generally conceded that there is less poverty and more thrift practiced in Mills county than anywhere else in Texas.

There is another advantage found in the condition shown. Many other counties, cities, and school districts have gone heavily in debt in order to provide the money supplied by local sponsors of WPA projects. For this district, the local sponsors have averaged one-fourth of the total amount expended. On the other hand, Mills county taxpayers are paying federal taxes that are being spent in other counties.

expansion and improvement of recreational facilities such as athletic fields, playgrounds, gymnasiums, swimming pools and tennis courts was accomplished through expenditures of $80,536. On 21 conservation projects there was expended $272,908.

Installation of sewer lines, water pipes and other improvements to publicly-owned or operated utilities were completed through expenditures of $303,255. Other types of work completed were listed as follows: conducting of adult education classes and nursery schools, $59,217; professional and service projects, $555,545; conducting of municipal recreational activities, $78,847; canning plants and other goods projects, $42,869; community sanitation and public health improvements, $636,789; distribution of surplus commodities, $99,052; miscellaneous projects not elsewhere classified, $83,249.

The grand total in the 22 counties of $9,587,630 was distributed as follows:

the construction and improvement of highways, roads, streets went $4,684,509, work has been completed on 379 projects in this territory, including among non-construction projects was the operation of sewing rooms in which thousands of garments were produced by women workers for distribution to the needy. ## Re-Elected

SUPT. A. H. SMITH

A. H. Smith was re-elected superintendent of the Goldthwaite schools by the trustees of the Goldthwaite Independent School District at their meeting Saturday.

Mr. Smith, who came here from Winters, has instituted many improvements in the school system in the six years he has been superintendent. During this time the enrollment in the school has increased 33 1-3 per cent and six teachers have been added. Seven school buses have been put in service to bring in pupils from outside the city. State aid has been increased from a negligible amount to $13,000 for this year. The fine lighted athletic field completed last fall also was initiated by him. He has added several rooms to the grammar school building and more cement walks for the convenience of the children.

Vocational courses have been added to the curriculum in agriculture, home economics and bookkeeping, and the number of affiliation credits increased. Supt. Smith is also an active civic worker, and as president of the Lions Club has been untiring in working for better highways and other improvements.

Local H. D. Club Will Meet March 14

Legislative Activities

Our constitutional Amendments Committee referred all three joint resolutions proposing to amend the constitution to submit a sales tax, a transaction tax, and a modified transaction tax, to a sub-committee composed of Senators Clint Small, A. M. Aiken, Jr., and Olan R. Van Zandt, and instructed the sub-committee to report back March 13. They will study the tax plans and will recommend a consolidated plan to the Constitutional Amendments Committee.

The Governor sent up a message asking immediate legislative attention to promoting the Big Bend Park in West Texas. He did not recommend any specific appropriation, but said the Park would yield the State a very high return on the money it would be necessary for the State to invest.

The bill, introduced in the Senate by H. L. Winfield of Fort Stockton and in the House by R. A. Cauthorn of Del Rio, is to set up an organization for the acquisition of the necessary land.

The committee on Commerce and Manufacturing reported favorably the Fair Trade Act bill by Senator J. Franklin Spears of San Antonio, the bill in which the independent merchants are so vitally interested.

PENROSE B. METCALFE, Senator, 25th District.

Work began Wednesday on the erection of an ultra-modern service station for the Magnolia Petroleum Company at the corner of Fisher and Fifth streets, the corner diagonally from the county jail. The building on that location, now housing the Mills County Produce Company, is being cut in two. The west end of the structure will be moved to the south side of the present east wing.

Roy Rountree of Houston who has contracted with the Magnolia Company for a long term lease, will erect the new station.

The building itself will be constructed of brick with the office built entirely of glass, according to R. H. Chandler, local Magnolia representative. It will be painted white with a wainscot of gray at the base of the building. A wide, ninety foot front will provide ample drive-in capacity.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

OUTDOORS AT NIGHT

Above—taken at twilight. The "campfire" can be an amateur food bulb or extension cord. At right—silhouettes against real campfire, using a time exposure.

Picnics, campfires, and hayrides are events which offer a wealth of picture opportunities. Some picnics are daytime affairs, but others take place at twilight or after dark—and there are no times more opportune for charming campfire snapshots.

For twilight snaps, wait until the sky is almost dark. Set the camera for a "time" exposure, place it on a firm support, and take a picture that includes the campfire, the group around it, and some sky. With proper choice of time the sky will reproduce deep gray, the campfire warm and brilliant—giving a picture full of the mystery and atmosphere of an ending day.

Campfire shots taken well after twilight are wonderfully effective. They show the fire, the faces of the group about it—but everything else in rich, mysterious shadow. These can be taken just like the twilight shots, with a short "time" exposure. It is best to have someone sit between the camera and the brightest part of the fire—his silhouette will add interest and keep the fire from appearing too bright.

Modern films are fast, so exposures need not be long. With a good bright fire, try two to five seconds at f.11, or ten to thirty seconds with a box camera.

To show added detail in an outdoor night scene, use a flash bulb. It's easy. Have the camera on a firm support, shutter on "time," lens set at f.11. Open the shutter, flash the bulb, close the shutter—there's all there is to it. Flash bulbs can be used in a "synchroflash" that fires the bulb and trips the camera shutter at the same time—or they can be used in inexpensive holders that resemble a pocket flashlight.

Campfire effects can be obtained with flash bulbs, without a campfire. Set up the camera for a snapshot of your group, and flash the bulb from the ground, below or slightly behind the camera. The low angle of lighting produces the campfire effect. Amateur food bulbs can be used on an extension cord in the same way.

Take the camera along on your next evening picnic or other outing. You'll come home with snapshots that are distinctive and different!

Mock Battle For San Antonio

Visitors to San Antonio's annual Fiesta de San Jacinto this year, April 17 through 22, will have the opportunity of witnessing a spectacle never before attempted during this most colorful of all Texas celebrations.

The spectacle, "La Noche de los Militares," or Alamo Spectacle, will be a re-enactment of the battle of the Alamo with all the theatrical realism of a movie production. It will be staged on Wednesday night, April 19, at Fort San Houston under the direction of Col. Joseph M. Swing, assistant chief of staff of the Second Provisional Division, Fort San Houston, as part of the army's participation in the annual Fiesta extravaganza. Col. Swing has also been asked to act as grand marshal of the Battle of Flowers Parade, the high point of the week when the carnival spirit reigns thru-out San Antonio.

The Alamo spectacle will retell the story of the Alamo's fall in action replete with the booming of cannon, the clash of swords and the rattle of musketry. Travis, Bonham, Bowie, Crockett and other notable figures of the famous battle will be portrayed by picked army officers.

Scenes in the spectacle will include the arrival of David Crockett and his small force, followed by the arrival of Bowie and later Col. Travis of the approach of Santa Anna and his Mexican army. During the final battle scene, it is planned to use blank ammunition in 75 millimeter artillery guns for the cannon, and fireworks and blank rifle ammunition to carry out the effects of the fierce fighting. The sixth and final scene will portray Santa Anna's victory, and distant flames will simulate the burning of the bodies of the fallen defenders of the Alamo.

As a setting for the spectacle, the army will construct an exact replica of the Alamo and Alamo Plaza, just as it appeared in 1836 according to the most authentic sources. The show will take place in Christy Mathewson Baseball Stadium at Fort San Houston and will climax an afternoon of entertainment at the Post in connection with "Texas Town," a typical frontier village

Democracy in Danger

DENTON, Texas, March 9.—Democracy may not survive in America through the next decade; the real crisis in this country may come within the next two years, warned Dr. E. C. Linderman, president of the Institute of Propaganda Analysis, in a talk delivered last week at the North Texas State Teachers College.

Democratic principles have lost ground steadily in the last 10 years, Linderman declared. Even England and France are no longer democratic nations, he asserted. Mysticism, ritualism, hatred, bitterness, and other "escape mechanisms" current in many countries seeking to run away from the pending world crisis are of no avail, the speaker pointed out. Linderman said that if democracy is to succeed and survive it must be wary of false propaganda, make a better application of the science of technology, make a better distribution of our national wealth, and help all of our people to participate in our culture.

consisting of 90 buildings wherein visitors will enter into the life of an early Texas town. The Texas Town entertainment will begin at 5 o'clock in the afternoon to be followed at 10 o'clock that night by the Alamo spectacle.

San Antonio is already making elaborate preparations to take care of the largest throng of visitors expected to attend the festivities this year.

Breeder-Feeder Association

The best time to cultivate the soil is before it is planted. All things that go into the making of a good seed bed for the particular crop affect the harvest months ahead, and no amount of cultivation afterwards will overcome the lack of preparation before the seed goes into the ground. Besides, putting the bare land in tith ahead of planting is easier to do than to worry in cloudy, trashy fields in the cultivation when the little seedlings are so easy to cover up. You cannot make a full yield out of a full stand; you cannot have a good stand without a good seed bed and good seed; you can hold a full stand in a rough field without wasting a lot of seed at the first cultivation; and you cannot give the tender seedlings that extra boost by an early tilling with harrow or fine-till cultivator in rough land. If you plant it up and it is better to plant a few days to prepare a good seed bed than to tangle it in and hope for the best. If the work that goes into tilling or repairing terraces, leveling bedding on the contour, and pulverizing (and pulverizing is needed) is done more thoroughly and can be done with a wider variety of implements and the work of planting and leveling. The work of preparation also has wider limits in time, since (except for the final tilling just prior to planting) it can be done as well one week earlier. This is not true after the most favorable date of planting comes around on the calendar. From that time until the cultivation every operation should be timed to the needs of the crop if best results are to be obtained. The seedling stage is the most critical in the life of the plant, the quicker the seedlings are to establish good roots and get up to a vigorous stature the better the prospects of a crop the easier to cultivate. ### Star

By Mrs. Dora Goode

Sunday was a very beautiful day with wild geese honking their way north again after a winter's sojourn away down south. Jonquils blooming, doves cooling, and blue birds singing "Soo—Carrie. Soo, Carrie." Red birds whistle from high tree tops, "Be cheerful," while bobwhites chortle in the mesquite flat. Blackbirds swoop and circle in dense clouds as they journey northward. Meadow larks in golden vests take the journey more leisurely, singing and playing along the way. But by May, they too, will be whistling their nesting melodies on Wyoming prairies. But while birds sleep and song and melody and chatter are still, the rabbits sneak in and eat up all the garden peas and do any other devilment they can find. That spoils Jenny wren's early morning serenade and makes the creamed coffee curdle in the stomach. The woman who has a rabbit-proof fenced garden is just naturally better off than the one who is less fortunate. Prizes don't always go to the people who try the hardest fighting odds, but to those who bring in the goods.

Sunday was Bro. Hester's preaching day. There were services Sunday night also. Between times when Bro. Hester isn't studying, visiting, or preaching, he is digging around the parsonage, setting out fruit trees, shrubs and things like that to take away that lonesome-looking feeling about the church property. Oh, that the Holy Spirit might, in Pentecostal power, come down and abide in our hearts so that we wouldn't be afraid to throw back our heads, lift up our hands and our voices and sing and shout the praises of God, like the mocking bird who flits from limb to limb, almost bursting his throat in the use of the talent God gave him.

As spring comes on with its song of beauty, so do the evils that beset us. So many are sick in bed, of long affliction. Ben Cox is suffering a long and troublesome heart ailment, confined to his bed for four or five years. Grandpa (Bob) Boykin has been in bed for some weeks; Joe Petre has been up and down—mostly down—for some seven weeks, from an attack of grippe. Mrs. Keith is very poorly and confined to her bed most of the time. Grandma Garrett is rather sick at this writing. Mr. and Mrs. Howard Petre have both been quite sick. Mrs. Petre was in the Hamilton hospital for several days.

Mrs. Vernon Perkins attended the H. D. Council meeting in Goldthwaite last Saturday. J. E. Peck and son, Gerald, of Georgetown, were visitors in the T. H. Peck home the latter part of the week.

Will Waddell and family have returned from Arizona to make Star their home for the summer. The H. D. Agent, Miss Scott, was out the first Thursday to help with pattern cutting. A group of members met in the forenoon with Mrs. Vada Guice. After lunch they went to the home of Mrs. Medford for the club meeting where, after the business meeting, more patterns were cut and others perfected. The club meets next with the president, Mrs. Vernon Perkins, March 15.

I guess the signs were right the latter part of last week, because most every woman, whether club member or not, got her tomato seed under the dirt. But for the life of me, I can't see what good sign planting does. I was always too busy keeping up with my five rearing-tearing boys to even know "there be signs," and I had good gardens. I always thought good dirt was the main thing, good varieties and good seed next, with plenty of elbow grease and backbone to go with it.

Well, so long, everybody.

NOTICE TO SCHOOL OFFICIALS

March is the month for taking the scholastic census. Most of the school districts have taken their supplies cut and are taking the census, but some have not yet taken their supplies from this office. Trustees who have not done so should begin the taking of the census in their districts as soon as possible.

Saturday, April 1, is trustee election day all over Texas. In all districts having three trustees one new trustee is to be elected. District having seven trustees will elect either two or three new members.

Two places are to be filled on the County Board this year, one in Commissioners Precinct No. 3 and the countywide place. The Precinct No. 3 place is held at present by Mr. Geo. M. Fletcher, Chairman of the Board, and the countywide place is held by Mr. C. D. Bledsoe.

All trustee election supplies are now ready in this office and trustees should get them and post notices by Friday, March 10. The law places the responsibility of selecting election judges on the local trustees in each district.

The law provides that any five resident qualified voters of a district may, by written petition to the County Judge, have the name of a candidate placed on the official ballot for trustee; or that any individual who wishes to be a candidate for trustee may, by written and signed application to the County Judge, have his own name printed on the official ballot for trustee.

All names of candidates must be on file in this office at least ten days before the election, which makes it necessary this year for all names to be on file by March 21.

Howington's Remarks

A proposed constitutional amendment to finance old age assistance combining elements of the sales, transaction, service and natural resources levies was reported favorably 13 to 2 by the House Committee on Constitutional Amendments.
We think the bill will probably reach the floor of the House sometime next week. The proposed amendment will require 100 votes in the House and 21 in the Senate to submit it to the people as a constitutional amendment. A levy of 2 1/2 per cent on long distance and local calls, and upon sale, retail or leasing of equipment or for services. All places of amusement, athletic contests would pay a tax of 2 1/2 per cent on admission charges except where the charge is less than 50c.
Sulphur production would pay an increase of 25 per cent over its present rate of $1.03 per ton.
Oil production would pay an increase of 25 per cent over its present rate of 2 3/4 per cent of value.
Natural gas production would pay an increase of 25 per cent over its present rate of 3c of value.
Exemption from the terms of the amendment include first sales of horticulture, agriculture, livestock, poultry and dairy products; and all commodities now paying a sales tax, namely gasoline, cigarettes, liquor, beer and wine, the sale of newspapers and magazines.
The date set for a public voting on the amendment is the first Saturday in June of this year.
This proposed amendment liberalizes the old age pension program and conforms with the Governor's plan, striking out the ability of kinfolks to pay. However, it is still based on need and net income of $30.00 per month. This bill is figured to take care of the old people, dependent children and the teachers' retirement fund, and is figured to raise thirtythree millions dollars.
At this time I am not in a position to state the attitude of the House, as I have not yet heard it discussed. There have been to date 810 bills introduced in the House, 56 Senate bills received and 154 House Simple Resolutions introduced, 50 House Concurrent Resolutions introduced 39 House Joint Resolutions introduced.
The equalization appropriation for the biennium as passed by the Forty-Fifth Legislature providing money for the teachers, was passed in the House Monday which I think will meet with the rural schools' approval.
S. J. HOWINGTON, State Representative.

Mrs. W. C. Dew was hostess on Friday, March 3 to the Self Culture Club. After a brief business session, Mrs. Randolph, as program leader, made a few well chosen remarks introducing Mrs. Gordon McCann who gave a splendid interpretation of Ibsen's drama "A Dolls House." Mrs. McCann is a most talented reader. It is no easy matter to impersonate so many different characters where they differ so in voice, movements and views; yet she successfully portrayed each. With pleasing voice, exquisite dignity and charm, she led her hearers through the scenes with infinite skill. Those who heard her were indeed fortunate. The club is very proud to have had her as our guest artist.
Delicious refreshments were served to members and Mrs. Tom Toland, associate member, Mmes. A. L. Whittaker, Mrs. Walter Fairman, M. H. Fletcher, Marvin Hodges, Ann Little, Sparks Bigham and Gordon McCann.—Reporter.

KEENER THAN SWORDS

A strange scene took place on a football field in London recently. While 70,000 spectators looked on, Benny Austin, tennis champion and idol of Britain, accompanied by Major George Eyston, who set a new world's speed record on Utah's salt flats last year, and other topnotchers in the world of sport, were introduced. Austin then made a plea for moral rearmament in a world gone mad with hatred and with fear.

Other pleas for spiritual and moral rearmament have issued from influential sources recently. Five years ago our own Secretary Hull spoke of the necessity of a return to the old moral values which once characterized this nation. Only recently Ex-President Herbert Hoover voiced the same idea. Queen Wilhelmina of Holland and former Prime Minister Baldwin of England have lent the weight of their influence to this new movement.

What is this moral rearmament which is being urged upon us? Simply stated it is a recognition and a re-affirmation of those fundamentals of thought and action which centuries of trial have proved are necessary to sane and fruitful living. Just as the "Three R's" are essential to education, the four simple virtues of honesty, unselfishness, purity and love are the solid foundation for harmonious living, whether by individuals, families, nations or groups of nations.

That the world in general has strayed very far from these essential standards of conduct is common knowledge. That the present mad race for greater and more destructive armaments is leading all peoples into ruin is everywhere admitted. So far America rests fortunately just outside the swirling whirlpool in which great nations of Europe and Asia are being tossed helplessly about.

But the stark fear that we too may at anytime be drawn into the maelstrom has been voiced again and again in and out of Congress. Now we too are feverishly forging more and more instruments of war in frantic preparation for—what?

Unquestionably the United States is the richest and potentially the most powerful nation in the world. But are we morally and spiritually fit for the role of world leader and world example? We fear not. Faced by greedy, uncompromising dictators abroad and threatened within by the tools of these same dictators, too many of our people are possessed with an insatiable desire for amusement, diversion, distraction that is making a mockery of the noble ideals upon which our government was founded.

The old-fashioned virtue of common honesty is out of style, and in its place is a dangerous doctrine that "anything is all right that you can get away with." The mania for gambling is one indication of this lack of honesty. The almost universal demands upon the government for something for nothing are yet another symptom.

Selfishness has turned this peaceful, prosperous nation into two snarling camps composed of the haves and have-nots. Purity of ideals and conduct is sneered at by a cynical, material-minded America which follows more and more closely the lustful patterns of Hollywood. And love, according to the golden rule, is a rarity indeed, while its opposites, hatred and prejudice, are growing bolder day by day. Exceptions there are in abundance, but not enough to establish the validity of our claims to moral leadership.

And so this world-wide appeal for moral and spiritual rearmament needs to be answered here as well as across the sea. Fighting fire with fire is a dangerous alternative. Meeting threat with threat and force with force leaves us still at the mercy of the foe who, by arming first, is stronger, and, by temperament, is more brutal than we.

"The god whom the cynic said was on the side of the biggest battalions, is not the God of justice and of right. That God demands clean hands and a pure heart as truly today as thirty centuries ago. A sincere return, first by individuals, then as a nation, to the virtues of honesty and truth, probity and purity, unselfishness and love is the only hope for America and for all the world. Without them we are back in the jungle under the domination of fear and hatred, prejudice and greed.

But what an opportunity is offered if enough of us will arm ourselves with the implements of right thinking and righteous living. Then will arise a new strength of character akin to that which made Oliver Cromwell's ungainly Roundheads invincible in the field. Then will we achieve a new national solidarity, a cohesive union of noble purpose and high ideals. Then will we manifest a friendlier attitude towards the peoples beyond the seas and seek to remove the causes of friction and enmity instead of uncompromisingly demanding a strict adherence to the status quo. Then only will we be prepared to lead the world to an era of peace and mutual good will. For then we shall indeed be armed with weapons far keener than swords.

He Wrote on the Ceiling

THOMAS WOLFE, who died recently at the age of 37, was hailed as a new genius of American literature. Six feet, six inches of dynamic energy, his writing shook the world of letters.

Writing of Thomas Wolfe in the New York Times Book Review, Peter Munro Jack said, "I remember him stretching himself impatiently to write on the ceiling because there was no paper handy."

Stretching himself to write on the ceiling! Here is a word picture of a man reaching toward an idea—stretching himself into greatness. Nothing could stop the superb expression of his thoughts and so he reached the ceiling of achievement in his chosen field.

There is a ceiling in your life and mine toward which we should also reach. It is the better life we can live, the better work we can do if we stretch ourselves! Stretching ourselves means stretching our hearts, our minds, our spirits—setting new marks in life, climbing to new heights.

Look upward at your ceiling and stretch yourself toward it!

Swept into Last War, We May Repeat Folly, Warns Stuart Chase

AMERICA had better plan now how to keep us out of war, or we may be swept into the next European conflagration against our will, just as we were dragged into the last war, warns Stuart Chase, noted economist, in the March Cosmopolitan.

In his challenging article, "Keep Your Powder Dry!" Mr. Chase reviews how in 1917 we drifted into a position where we had to fight, even though no one wanted to fight, except the few who saw an opportunity to acquire wealth and power out of war, and those who were bored to death by peace. What Chase fears is that we will repeat our folly and go blundering off to war again without reason.

A recent survey by the George Gallup Institute revealed that 69% of the people want the country to remain neutral in the event of war; and that 73% believe war is inevitable. These figures puzzle Mr. Chase. Why, he asks, is the government doing so little to prevent our becoming enmeshed again, when the majority of us want no part of war. The Neutrality Act of 1935 was a step in the right direction, but it didn't go far enough. It is foolish to think we are now safe because of the Act, he challenges Washington.

The best program yet seen by Mr. Chase to keep us out of war, is "The Maintenance of American Neutrality," prepared by a group of experts. The following are the terms:

- 1. When war comes, restrict exports to belligerents by government quotas, the quotas to be based on the average of actual exports to these countries during the last three peacetime years. (The Neutrality Act of 1935 only restricts exports of munitions; this provision restricts all exports.)
- 2. Shut off all credit to belligerents. Make them come and get their goods in their own ships and pay cash. Thus, if the ships are bombed, our citizens will not be aboard, and our exporters will not suffer any losses.

As for our defense, Mr. Chase believes we should be thoroughly equipped to make an invasion by a foreign country unthinkable. In his estimation Germany, Italy and Japan are the only countries likely to cause trouble; therefore, we should be strong enough to defend ourselves against one or all of them.

Further, he advises shying away from any military alliances with European powers, and to shut our ears when we hear of any proposal to make the world safe for something.

Gov. O'Daniel For Texas Exhibit At World's Fair

AUSTIN.—Declaring that "Texas must tell the world before she can sell the world," Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel this week urged all Texans to co-operate in the drive to place in outstanding exhibit at the New York World's Fair as the first step toward the industrialization of Texas.

"We must advertise to the world the vast resources, the opportunities for industrial development, and the conditions for betterment of life which abound in Texas," the Governor said. "The greatest opportunity for so advertising Texas will be available to us by adequate participation in the New York World's Fair."

"We are endeavoring to raise $250,000 to present and maintain an exhibit at the World's

What Mrs. Roosevelt Thinks About Issues

Increasing our land and air forces is not encouraging this country to take part in war, says Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in the February Democratic Digest, published by the Women's Division of the Democratic National Committee. "With the picture of the situation in Europe which has been passing before our eyes," continues Mrs. Roosevelt in an answer to the question of Mrs. William E. Maulsby of Des Moines, Iowa. "I should think we would all of us realize that there are times when an adequate defense enables us to preserve a just peace and other time when inadequate defense obliges one to accept injustices at the time and future insecurity."

To the suggestion of Mrs. William Ruth de Prater of Jackson, Mississippi, that this country is being overly influenced by polls of public opinion, Mrs. Roosevelt thinks that "apparently polls have some influence on representatives in legislative bodies. I should think them somewhat unreliable because many people vote in them but do not take them very seriously and they can only represent a passing decision which may be influenced at any time by new developments new facts or points of view as brought out."

Mrs. Roosevelt does not fear that the radio will retard initiative and standardize opinions. Nor does she think that listening in at the right time is hard on homework. To the query of Mrs. Henry F. Grady on this theme she answers: "I cannot see why listening to programs on the radio need retard one's initiative or standardize one's opinions. In the past many people have read the same books, seen the same plays and heard the same music. It is simply a case of different times and different interests. Everything one sees or hears or reads has to go through one's own intelligence before it makes any real impression on the inner personality. It is not just listening to a thing which matters, but it is what one's environment teaches one to do with all of the contacts of life. This is the responsibility of the home and not of the radio companies."

Lights Save Lives

(By a Highway Patrolman)
Are you afraid of the dark? Accident records show that you should be. While deaths from accidents during daylight hours showed a decrease of 12 per cent, those occurring during night hours showed an increase of 42 per cent. Too many drivers fail to recognize the fact that they cannot see at night except what is illuminated or revealed by their lights. A natural consequence is to over-drive their headlights, or in other words, drive too fast to stop within the distance their lights reveal an object to them.

Our law requires all passenger vehicles to have two clear headlights and one red or amber tail light when on the road during the hours between thirty minutes after sunset and thirty minutes before sunrise. If any of the three required lights are not in operation then that vehicle becomes dangerous to all traffic on the same road. Deaths are caused every night by cars with only one headlight. Always remember that the only thing about your car that an approaching driver can see is your headlights. If you have only one light, how can he know which one is burning—this leaves half of your car unrevealed to him. If he guesses wrong then a serious collision is likely to result.

Have you had the experience of driving behind a vehicle at night with no rear light of any kind? You were unable to see that vehicle until your headlights revealed it to you. You could have seen it much easier if there had been a bright red light there—especially if you were meeting another car with bright headlights. This one circumstance causes serious collisions, and the only reason is the absence of a tail light.

It requires but a very little time and effort to check your lights each time you start out at night. Don't overlook the fact that it is a lot easier and cheaper to check your lights and keep them in operation than it is to suffer the results of a collision and pay a hospital bill. The owl and cat can see better at night—but you can't—so, slow down and live longer.

Palatial Trailer Takes the Road

Utility, comfort and compactness reach a new "high" in the trailer-office which Myron Zobel, eastern advertising executive, recently put into commission as a means of maintaining personal contacts throughout his territory.

The new trailer, known as the Graduate Group Continental Clipper, is powered by a Chevrolet cab-over-engine truck. The outfit is maximum legal length, and combined in its streamlined body are an office, a traveling home, a short-wave amateur radio station, and four private power plants operating the radio transmitter and receiver, air-conditioning equipment, and house and running lights.

An all-steel insulated body affords maximum safety and comfort. Interior arrangements have been designed ingeniously to afford sleeping space for six within the trailer, as well as an apartment-size kitchenette, tile bath, radio transmitter for amateur broadcasting, radio receiver and phonograph, typewriter, dictaphone, filing space, dining space, and ample lounging room for about 10 persons. Six months were required for its construction.

Much of the owner's traveling will be done at night. Two formidable bus drivers will handle the wheel, alternating their rest periods in a comfortable sleeping compartment built into the spacious motor unit. A steward also travels with the trailer, sleeping on a specially constructed bed in the galley.

The trailer is completely air-conditioned, and is also steam-heated by a "split-system" type of heating. Indirect lighting adds another modern note to the homelike interior. Satinwood and aspen were used in decorating the interior.

A 110-volt DC generator produces 1,500 watts of power to run the 3/4-horsepower air-conditioning unit. In addition, 1,750 volts are produced by a special generator for the radio transmitting outfit. Eighteen storage batteries, set into a compartment at the rear of the trailer, supply six volts of current for lights. The trailer is completely self-sustaining, except for water and gasoline. Storage tanks carry 72 gallons of water and 65 gallons of gasoline.

When traveling, occupants of the trailer can mount to a forward deck and enjoy the scenery by looking out over the truck cab. A duplicate of the tractor unit's instrument panel is set into the front of the trailer above the observation deck. There is a private phone between trailer and cab.

The observation seat is reversible, so that the rider may face forward or backward. In addition, it folds out into a full-size bed at night.

A specially-constructed cable composed of 48 strands is required for the various circuits between the trailer and cab.

The trailer was built in Elkart, Ind., and cost, including radio transmitting set, which is to be used strictly non-commercially, in excess of $20,000.

PWA is Building 59 Water Works

Fifty-nine waterworks systems costing an estimated $6,403,025 are being built by Texas communities under the current national Federal Public Work Administration program, George M. Bull, Regional PWA Director, said today.

The waterworks projects are included in a group of 73 new PWA projects being built in the state with the purpose of protecting public health. Hospitals and sanitary sewerage systems and disposal plants are also included in the group of health projects. While the Texas PWA program is dominated by educational buildings, the group of health projects is in second place both in the number of projects and the total amount involved. The projects range in size from improvement of waterworks facilities at Houston, which will cost $1,000,000 down to projects in smaller communities involving only a few thousand dollars. The reduction of fire insurance rates, a by-product of the construction of PWA-aided waterworks systems has been surprisingly large.

PROGRESS THROUGH CHEMISTRY
By Dr. Jas. K. Hunt

Top, a research worker looks through a photometer used for the comparison of colors. Lower, a skin winding machine gathers dyed yarn for examination as to weight and color fastness.

A New Color Stem

A NEW source of colors, chemically akin to the natural pigments that color plants green and your blood red, has just been brought to light by chemists. It represents a highly important development in this field, a sphere in which the technically trained laboratory man has, oddly enough, far eclipsed the romantic artist of another day. Announcement of a new color stem, as it were, rises out of the realm of the commonplace, for while colors and pigments are made in a multitude of shades, they resolve themselves down into a relatively few primary groups based upon their chemical composition. The new basic group, just made known, represents the first important addition to come up in the past 25 years.

At the recent American Chemical Society meeting, Dr. Miles A. Dahl, du Pont chemist, made public the results of the research in this new family of colors which has now been added to the chemist's palette. They are known chemically as "phthalocyanines," and are based on a substance closely akin to chlorophyll, the green coloring matter in plants, and hemin, the red coloring matter of the blood. Up to now these colors run the range from a very light blue through to dark blue, dark green and out to light green. Their chief merits lie in the fact that they are highly resistant to fading, and are free from spectral "impurities"—that is, free of unwanted colors.

This means that for the first time, "pure" blues containing no trace of red, are now available. This is particularly of importance to the printing industry, for example, since the enormous increase of color printing in magazines, booklets, advertisements and so on has created the need for "pure" colors that will blend in with others in process printing to give the desired effect. All blues previously contained some slight trace of red.

The new pigment group also makes available light blues and light green paints for outdoor painting such as on shutters, where, unfading colors have not been possible. Inside the house, too, this is important, for wallpaper in light blue or green tones has generally faded out speedily due to the action of light or the alkali in the plaster. It provides colors for oil painting which have the valuable property of appearing the same under artificial light as under daylight.

Hamilton

Hamilton, headquarters for the Hamilton County Electric Co-operative Association with V. A. Rogers, Project Superintendent, is teaming with new people this week. The construction crew superintendents, foremen and skilled laborers in the various divisions of the Rural Electrification project in Section No. 2, with the J. E. Morgan & Sons, contractors, have arrived in Hamilton. The J. E. Morgan & Sons offices have been established in the Hamilton National Bank Building, which since Monday has been like a busy bee hive. Martin F. Bowman, General Superintendent, is in and out of Hamilton. Frank Turrentine, Superintendent of the Section No. 2 project, which will include construction covering a territory including Eant, Star, Goldthwaite, Pottsville, Shive, Indian Gap, Priddy and Gentry's Mills, is established in the office here with the bookkeeper, Ross Marchman and others.

Checks for 1938 Agricultural Conservation Program continue to be received in the county office almost daily. 1,584 checks amounting to $135,755.80 have been received up to Thursday morning and more are expected at an early date.

Inspector A. S. Page, of Fort Worth, was in Hamilton through the middle of the week and in company with Postmaster Winfred Williams and others, made a tour of the city, carefully looking over the sites offered for the new postoffice building, for which a recent allotment of $75,000.00 was made by the Federal Postoffice Department at Washington.

Bishop Ivan Lee Holt preached at the Methodist Church Thursday night at the Youth Crusade

Lampasas

The new Post Office for Lampasas is a building that is used by practically every citizen of the town and county, and many favorable comments are heard each day from the patrons of the local office. Mail was placed in the local boxes last Sunday morning for the first time.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock for Mrs. Lillie Madora Griggs at the Central Christian Church by Dr. G. L. Messenger. Interment was in Oak Hill cemetery.

Mrs. M. Y. Stokes has returned from Houston and San Antonio where she spent several months visiting.

Low Simons of Austin is to replace Jimmie Burr as the Old Age Assistance Investigator for Lampasas county.

Charles Stokes, Jr., of Austin spent Thursday here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stokes.—Leader.

Things are taking shape down on the Lampasas Fair Grounds for the first rodeo days of the year which will be April 21 and 22, when four performances will be started the afternoon and night of each day, with the opening big parade at 10 a. m. the first day.

Another Lampasas old-timer answered the last call Friday, February 24 at a few minutes after 1:00 p. m., when I. C. (uncle Cris) Fletcher, 84, died at his home in Old Depot town.—Record.

DECLAMATION

The declaimers from several schools came to the practice speech tournament which was held last Saturday. The declaimers from Goldthwaite High took the first places, however, in every class.

Aubrey Smith and Mamie Lou Womack took the first places in the Senior boys' and girls' divisions.

In the Junior class, Pat Bohanon took first place in the boys' contests and Sybil Miller won first in the girls' contests.

The try-outs for the Goldthwaite High declaimers who will be in the County Meet will be held within the next week or two.

DIDJA KNOW? DIDJA?

What good little animals (with apologies to Miss Gatlin) the students of G. H. S. can be when they take a mind to. Why, they might be on a strike against the Snooper for all the dirt we could dig up this week. It isn't much, but if you want a newsy column, well, a good reporter will make news if he can't find some. Anyway, here goes this time.

Frowns and dirty looks can be mighty boring, even to the Mac's. Fred McKenzie and Charley McLean, are the ones we speak of.

We always thought that when J. T. Soules started talking, it was hard to stop him, but we understand he couldn't think of a thing to say when his O. A. O. was brought into a debate last Saturday.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: O. A. O. refers to One And Only.)

We wonder if the milk maid goes along with the dairy, or if Ellis is just mixing business with pleasure.

SPEECH TOURNAMENT

The Speech Tournament held last Saturday, was a great success as far as the debates were concerned. There were seven boys' teams and five girls' teams here.

One of the Goldthwaite girls' teams, Thelma Henry and Harriet Allen, won the girls' division.

One of the Goldthwaite boys' teams, Lawrence Stokes and Joe Bailey Kerby, won up to the finals in which they were to contest Mullin for the championship. They let Richland Springs, who had done very little debating during the day, take their place against Mullin. Mullin defeated them.

The debaters got some valuable experience and participated in several practice debates this week. San Saba came Wednesday night and part of our debaters went to Comanche one night this week.

FACULTY MEMBERS GO TO RICHLAND SPRINGS

Several members of the Goldthwaite schools' faculty went to Richland Springs last Monday to judge some elimination contests for that school. Those who went were Mr. Smith, Mr. Layton, Mrs. Barnett, and Mrs. Marshall. The contests which they judged were to determine who should represent Richland Springs in their County Meet.

The eliminations in Goldthwaite High will be held in the next week probably, and several of the instructors from Richland Springs will come over and act as judges. The date for our contests has not been set yet, but in order to let the winners have plenty of time to prepare for the County Meet, they will be held as soon as possible.

Methodist Church

The enrollment for our Training School has come up to our expectations. About sixty are enrolled and the interest is enthusiastic. It is indeed encouraging to see such interest and loyalty.

We will have our regular services next Sunday morning. May we make this Pre-Easter season one of religious devotion and revival. May we honor the Living Christ with a spirit of self-denial and of faithfulness. We urge all our members to be at the services Sunday.

We will not have preaching services Sunday night but will visit with our Baptist brethren who are having a revival. The leagues meet as usual.

Mrs. Mary A. Ritchie

Mrs. Ritchie was born January 29, 1857, at Palmiro, Ill., married to M. A. Ritchie in 1872, who preceded her in death several years ago. To this union six children were born. Three of them to-wit Mrs. R. W. Long and Joe Ritchie of Goldthwaite, and Mrs. R. D. Jackson of Payson, Arizona are still living and were present when she died Feb. 27, 1939. The other children preceded her in death.

Besides the three surviving children, Grandmother Ritchie leaves 16 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

Her health was bad for a long time and for several months was confined to her bed but during all this illness she bore her suffering with Christian fortitude.

In early life grandma became a member of the Christian Church and was noted for her pious Christian life.

For many years she had made her home with Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Long where she was given every attention and help that loving hands of children and grandchildren and neighbors could give. Her remains were carried back to near Coma, Texas and placed beside her husband, there to await the resurrection morn when the spirit which took its flight on Feb. 27, will again be reunited with the body, and sickness and pain will be no more.

And so I say to her children, grandchildren and sorrowing friends take comfort from these things.—A friend, G. W. Jackson.

Card of Thanks

To our friends who take this method to express our heart felt thanks for your help during the sickness and death of our dear mother and grandmother, Mrs. Mary Ritchie.

You can never know how deeply we appreciate your help and comfort in the time of need. May God's richest blessings be on you all.
Her Children and grandchildren.
