PRESIDENT ASKS NEUTRALITY LAW CHANGE

Congress Convenes In Special Session

America's Desire to Remain at Peace Is Reflected in President's Historic Message to House and Senate

Outright repeal of the embargo section of the present so-called Neutrality Act was asked of Congress Thursday by President Roosevelt when he addressed that body now in special session. The President was loudly cheered on his entrance into the House of Representatives, where he was awaited by both houses of Congress and galleries crowded with important personages.

President Roosevelt began his historic address by stating that he took it for granted that every one was in favor of true neutrality and of peace for the United States. Under these conditions, he asserted that no group had the right to claim to be a peace bloc. His purpose in requesting changes in existing law is "to keep our nation from being driven into war." When he added, "my candid judgment is that we shall succeed in those efforts," he was warmly applauded.

American Policy.

After briefly tracing the immediate beginnings of the present European war and his own warnings issued to Congress last January and July, Mr. Roosevelt reminded the Congress that since 1779 the American government has been guided by the principles of international law except for a brief and disastrous period during the Napoleonic wars when the embargo and non-intercourse act was enforced. This resulted directly in involving us in the War of 1812 which resulted in the burning of the capitol itself, he said.

The next change was the passage by Congress of the Neutrality Act of 1935. "I regret that Congress passed that act—I regret I signed that act," he declared.

Asks for Revision.

Revision of the embargo section as inconsistent with American neutrality and above all American peace was urged.

Inconsistencies of the embargo which he pointed out included the right to export aluminum sheets but not aluminum airplane wings, cotton but not gun-cotton, and brass tubing but not brass tubing in the form of shell cases.

"By repealing this embargo," the President declared, "the United States more probably can remain at peace than if the law stands as it is today."

Lions Club Holds First Meeting

First meeting of the new year of the Goldthwaite Lions Club was held Tuesday night in the recreation room of the Methodist church.

Following supper, plans for the year were discussed by Lion Chairman A. H. Smith, R. E. Clements, Kelly Saylor, A. D. Kirk, Raymond Little, W. E. Miller and others.

Next Tuesday evening a group meeting of Lions Clubs will be held in San Saba.

The following Tuesday evening, October 3rd, the local Lions Club will observe Ladies Night at Lake Merritt. Teachers in the Goldthwaite school are to be guests for the occasion.

Pension Checks Are Received

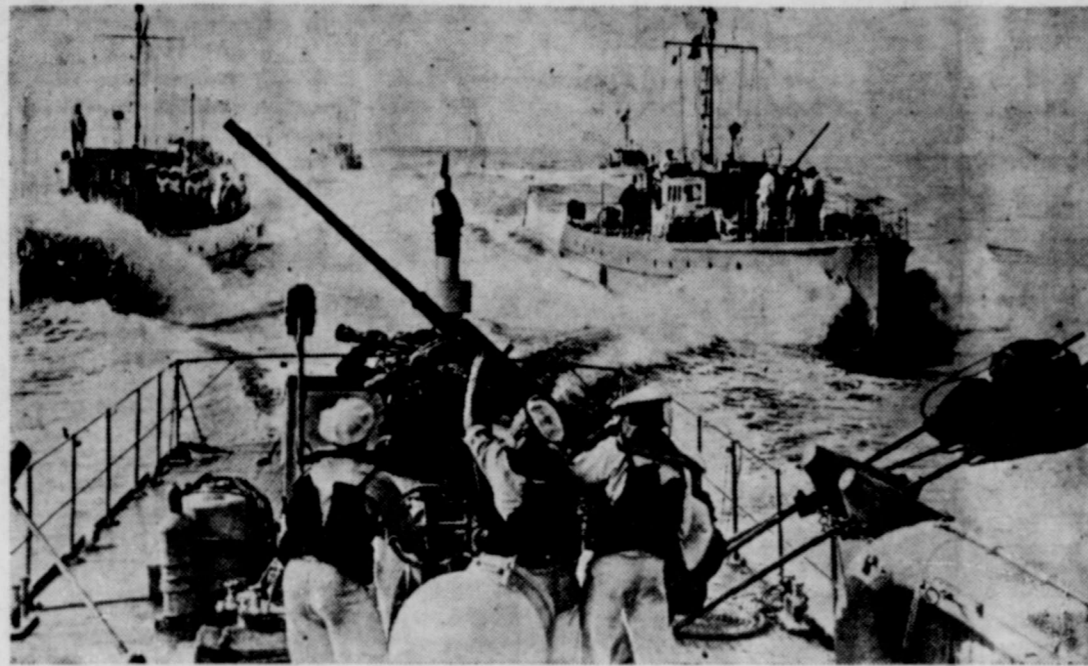

Old folks and their dependent children were made glad this week by the arrival of their long awaited old age pension checks.

Rumors that next month's checks will be cut an average of $6.00 is worrying the pensioners. The new state public welfare board, which is now handling pensions, has not stated whether each check will be reduced $6.00 or whether those receiving the smallest amounts will be cut off entirely.

Since revenues have been insufficient for some time to pay the pensions, the difference has been made up from a Dallas bank. Installments on this loan will become due next month. Hence the prospective cut.

Last spring the legislature persistently refused to increase pension revenues in the way Governor O'Daniel wanted, although the house three times voted the money in a different way. The governor declares he will not call a special session of the legislature now.

GOLDTHWAITE WINS FROM KILLEEN KANGAROOS, 20-0

The black and gold of the Goldthwaite Eagles waved triumphantly over the red and white of the Killeen Kangaroos last Friday night on the local field. Quite a large crowd, considering it was the initial game, was on hand and it was the opinion of all that they got their money's worth. The Eagles' scoring was due to sustained drives in the second and third quarters, and in the fourth with a pass interception being indirectly responsible. Final score being 20 to 0. Goldthwaite passed over for the extra point after the first touchdown with Denison showing a nice bit of running after the second score for the extra marker. The third attempt by the kick route was low.

The Eagles' starting line-up was studied by new and inexperienced men, there being only two letter-men on the squad, but for the charges of Cloninger and Stephens it can be said they show promise of being one of, if not the best, coordinated teams Goldthwaite has ever had. Its a little early in the season, of course, to make even a passing prediction as to what the team will show in the lost and won column, but it is apparent that the boys are going to be working hard through the full sixty minutes of every game and can be counted on for a good showing at every start.

Coach Leo Buckley, from Killeen, presented a team of good, clean, game youngsters who fought back all night, even though beaten. For them a right end, No. 66, Jack Cockrell, stood out in the line by fine defensive play and his ability to cover punts. They had a line-backer that bothered the Eagles a lot, and it can be said of their kicker that he placed his kicks nicely.

Among the most pleasing things from a local point of view was the offensive play of the new line, which at times showed very good. The protection the guards gave the passer was also outstanding. Several times little Cholly McLean stood back there and waited for his man to break clear without being rushed. Whether this sort of protection will still be there up against a harder charging line is one of the reasons a prediction would be out of order. The outstanding accomplishment of this years team from the viewpoint of the closer students of football is the blocking. As a weak link is to a chain, in the same way blocking is to a football team, and without good blocking no runner can even show his elusiveness. For the time of year it can be said that the Eagles were showing some real blocking ahead of the runner last Friday night. The backs were following the interference better than last season also. Down in the line Coke Long and Rose got the most tackles with Aubrey Smith leading in that department in the back-field.

One of the flaws in the Eagles' play, and it cost them plenty of yardage by penalties, was the breaking of the "back-field in motion" rule. Whether this was caused by over-anxiousness, the jitters or their timing is not known, but will no doubt be eliminated by the next game. For Referee Taylor it can justly be said he was right every time he called a play back and stepped off five yards against the Eagles, but in a close game such precious yardage as was lost by this route would be the difference in winning and losing.

The outstanding offensive star for the night was the pint-sized half-back, Cholly McLean, of the Eagles. Every time he got the ball he was a threat to go somewhere and he usually went. An elusive pair of heels, coupled with an earnest desire to "go to town" is going to make this 125 pounder a thorn in the side of every opposing team met this year. His passing could be ranked right close to excellent.

All in all it can be said that Goldthwaite is going to be very well represented on the football field and, win, lose or draw, will have ample right to be proud of their representatives. Lack of experience and being out-weighted are hard obstacles to overcome but this team is taking nothing for granted and are not beaten 'till the game is over.

The DeLeon game this Friday night is going to test their mettle to the utmost, as DeLeon is bringing over a big veteran team whose starting line-up averages around 175 pounds, along with two fast backs who have the reputation of being able to get away. It is going to take all the Eagles have to take this team into camp, who come here smarting under a 19-13 defeat administered by Coleman's great team last week.

CORN CRIB BURNS

Fire Tuesday afternoon destroyed a corn crib and about 50 bushels of corn at the home of Dr. J. M. Campbell. The corn had been stored over a year so spontaneous combustion is unlikely and the cause cannot be ascertained. The Fire Department did good work in putting out the fire and the grass fires that started from it.

Drilling Again At Spinks Well

After the toughest fishing job in his long and varied experience, Clyde Lane has finally cleared the Spinks oil test of the fouled line and cables and is ready to start drilling once more.

It was necessary to pull 1500 feet of casing in order to bring the fouled length of pipe to the surface where it was found to be packed solid with the line and tools.

The casing is being re-set and Lane plans to drill on down to the lime if possible.

HUDDLE

The local chapter of the "Monday Morning Quarter-backs" club have been playing over the Killeen game earnestly the past week and it can be said they are all pretty well satisfied with the way the Eagles conducted themselves last Friday night. It is characteristic of this club, though, to be more or less satisfied with a win, be it large or small, and the decisive win of 20 to 0 over the Kangaroos put a big smile on every member's face.

Where that smile will be next Monday morning is a matter of doubt now, as the Eagles meet a strong DeLeon team here Friday night, Sept. 22nd. Eye-witnesses to the DeLeon-Coleman fracas bring word that the enemy averages a cool 179 pounds in their starting line-up, that they have a punter who can kick it a country mile, and, most of all, boast two fast men that are long gone past the line of scrimmage.

The main pride and joy of the DeLeon team is a young man by the name of Ash, who besides doing the signal calling, is also the passer, the punter and from the standpoint of Coleman, the most potent ball carrier, he having scored twice against them the other night. It might be added that Coleman had to come back in the last quarter to win 18-13, after being on the short end of a 13-12 count at the start of the last period.

All of which brings up another subject for the local fans: How is this young Eagle team going to play from behind? Last week it was smooth sailing behind a lead and they kept their heads like veterans. We hope they never are forced to play from behind, but tradition tells us that will come about some day.

An improvement in the band is noticeable this year, both in quantity and quality of music played. Likewise the pep squad is a much peppier organization than ever before. Much of this is due, we think, to that yellow-leader de luxe, one Junior Fair-

Obituary

R. L. Steen, Sr., was born in Hamilton County on November 1st, 1874. He passed to his eternal reward on September 15th, 1939.

He was married to Lillian Page Ligon on November 1st, 1903. To this union two children were born. His wife preceded him in death a little more than a year ago. He is survived by one son, R. L. Steen, Jr., and one daughter, Mrs. Mina Summy, and two grandchildren. He leaves three living brothers, John Steen, of Sanford, Isaac Steen, of Canyon, and Will Steen, of Floydada.

Mr. Steen came to Mills county in 1913 and after a few years went into the hardware business. He was one of the successful and prominent business men of Mills county and numbered his friends by the score. He was a man of high ideals and practiced the principles of good citizenship and friendliness. He was always interested in any community or civic project that proposed to build a better community or that helped human welfare.

He was a life-long member of the Methodist Church. He was devoted to the Lord and to his church. He was regular in attendance as long as he was able. At the time of his death he was a member of the Board of Stewards and of the Board of Trustees of the Goldthwaite Methodist Church.

Mr. Steen had been in ill health for almost a year and was confined to his home for several months before his passing.

The city of Goldthwaite suffers a distinct loss in his passing and his place will not be easily filled. Men of such fine, Christian character are not the result of accidental combinations of circumstances, but of purposeful living and devotion to high ideals.

Congress Meets In Special Session

President Roosevelt outlined three other steps which he considered necessary but which he stated could be achieved through executive proclamations. These are the restraining of American ships from entering war zones, preventing American citizens from traveling on belligerent vessels or in danger areas, except at their own risk, and the prevention of the issuance of war credits.

The last named provision would require that all purchases be paid for in cash, all purchases be carried in the purchaser's own ships at the purchaser's own risk, the so-called "Cash and Carry" provisions that were formerly in the law but expired last summer.

Two other precautions which are already in effect, the President explained, are the regulation of the collection of funds for belligerent nations and maintaining a licensing system for the export and import of arms.

Regarding our own national defense, the President declared that his recent orders to increase the strength of the nation's armed forces will still leave them below the peace strength authorized by Congress. His statement that the Department of Justice had been given an increase to control subversive agencies at work in this country was wildly applauded.

Concluding President Roosevelt said that except for the revision of the neutrality law he saw no need for other legislation at this special session. He asked that with the one ideal of keeping America out of this war, he had asked the leaders of both parties in the House and Senate to remain in Washington for consultation with him over any unforeseen developments. "In the event of danger to the security of the United States, I will reconvene the Congress in another extraordinary session," he promised.

The speech ended with an eloquent and devout appeal for unity and adherence to the right.
