Mills County's 1939 tax rolls, completed and mailed to the State Comptroller seven days ago, show a total taxation of $4,517,690. As to the tax rolls, only one jack in the county is rendered at $50. The most valuable livestock is rendered for a total of $32,000, or an average of $32 per head. The value of the mules which average $20 and the cattle average less than $10.

County Red Cross Roll Call Drive To Start Soon

October 17, the Mills County Red Cross Chapter held a meeting in the county court house at which time plans were discussed for the Chapter's participation in the 23rd Annual Roll Call for membership. Russell E. Peck, Field Director, with offices at the U. S. Veterans Facility, Waco assisted the Chapter officers in formulating their plans for the drive.

The annual membership drive will commence immediately after Armistice Day and will continue through Thanksgiving Day. The Mills County Chapter has been responsible this past year for assisting a number of needy emergency cases, and at the present has a balance of $193.78 on deposit in the Trent Bank. Some of the local Red Cross funds were spent this past year for clothing in emergency cases. The Chapter also assisted a great number of ex-service men file claims for benefits. Some of this work required the sending of a telegram and in some cases of a death, a long distance call.

Where the family was unable to pay for this the Red Cross Chapter of this county assisted. The funds on deposit are of course to be used in the case of extreme emergency and many of the people in Mills county know only too well how much these funds are needed in times of disaster. This past year the National Organization spent over eighty thousand dollars in the State of Texas, assisting communities which were struck by disasters. Last year the Chapter enrolled 137 adults in the American Red Cross. This year, in view of the increased needs of the Chapter and the National Organization, the Mills County Chapter has set its quota at 250 members. The Chapter plans to try and secure more than 250 members if possible, but that number is the minimum.

The present officers of the local Chapter are as follows:

H. G. Bodkin, Chapter Chairman; S. P. Sullivan, vice-chairman; Miss Claudia Carroll, secretary and treasurer; L. B. Porter, home service chairman; Judge R. J. Gerald, accident prevention chairman; Gene Dickerson, first aid chairman; Mrs. Claude Saylor, Junior Red Cross chairman; Mrs. E. T. Fairman, public information chairman; Mrs. J. E. Greathouse, Nursing chairman; E. T. Fairman, disaster chairman. The responsibility of the annual drive will be with Mrs. Jim Weatherby who was selected as the Roll Call chairman.

Mrs. Weatherby, after discussing Roll Call plans with Mr. Peck and the other Chapter officers has selected 30 workers to assist her in Goldthwaite, and nine workers in the outlying towns. This will make a total of 40 workers in the county.

The Chapter plans to commence several new activities immediately after Roll Call this year, which will be very helpful to the people of Mills county. The exact plans are being withheld at this time pending completion of same. They will be announced through this paper in the near future.

Dr. T. C. Graves has been appointed by the Chapter as the designated dentist to assist in the times of disaster. All the members of the Self Culture Club will assist in this

Goldthwaite Eagles Meet Rochelle Team Here Tonight, 7:45

Tonight, Friday, Oct. 20, the local high school football team will meet the Rochelle Hornets in the Eagles' second conference game of the season to be played here.

The Hornets promise to be a little hard to handle, in that they held the Fredericksburg Hillbillies to an 18-0 score, two weeks ago.

The defeat suffered by the Eagles last Friday night served to rekindle the fire in the local boys and they will be out to win from the Hornets.

Rochelle boasts of an experienced team with one three-year and two two-year lettermen occupying berths in the starting line-up.

Let's show the local team that we're still for them one hundred per cent by being out Friday night to see this game.

Game starts at 7:45 p. m.

drive as well as the Chapter officers and business people.

Every adult is urged to take a membership in this worthy organization which does so much to relieve human suffering in the time of need and stress.

The Chapter also felt that the Mills county people should know that over half of the funds collected remain in the county for the use of the local and rural sections.

Bumpers Are More Deadly Than Bayonets

In Texas during these October days, school bells instead of air raid sirens are sounding. Thousands of Texas boys and girls are being educated in the democratic way.

Over here we need no blackouts, no evacuation of classrooms and no air raid shelters to protect the lives of our children. It is ironic that in the midst of this peaceful school year we are failing to protect our youth from the death and destruction of modern traffic.

More than a thousand victims of school and college age found the bumper more deadly than the bayonet last year in Texas. Almost half the number were killed outright while the rest were seriously or permanently injured.

Cold steel is deadly whether in the shape of a bayonet or a bumper. The grim difference is that traffic can kill off our children long before they are old enough to march away to war.

To combat the danger is the purpose of School Safety Week, of the Texas Safety Association, Oct. 30-Nov. 4. At the present Governor O'Daniel has proclaimed this week in order that educators, parents and civic groups might intensify traffic safety education in the schools and colleges.

It is a cause which demands our full support and cooperation!

Ebony Girl Receives Honor At TSCW

Denton, Oct. 19.—Grace Briley has met the qualifications of the Advisory Council at Texas State College for Women and has been named an advisor to new students this year.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Briley, Miss Briley is majoring in music education and is in her junior year at the college.

Besides a high scholastic standing, the position of advisor demands leadership, dependability and a quality of understanding of college problems. Miss Briley has been assigned a group of new students for special guidance on the campus.

Fit and fresh the men and mounts of the First Cavalry Division marched out Monday morning on the first of a series of grueling maneuvers that will test the training of the units and the adequacy of their equipment for war.

"These two weeks' maneuvers will go far towards demonstrating the correlation of Horse Cavalry and Mechanized Cavalry in the possible warfare of tomorrow," says General Kenyon A. Joyce, commander of the First Cavalry Division and Chief Umpire of the maneuvers.

Six thousand troopers of the Regular Army are taking part in the maneuvers. The First Cavalry Brigade, commanded by Brigadier General Jonathan M. Wainwright, of Fort Clark, is composed of the famous 5th Cavalry from Fort Clark and the 12th Cavalry from Brownsville and Rio Grande City.

In the Second Cavalry Brigade, commanded by Col. Innis P. Swift, of Fort Bliss, are the no less well-known 7th and 8th Cavalry. The 2300 horses were marched overland distances ranging from 190 to 325 miles with the loss of only one horse. There was not a single sore backed mount after the long trek.

Horse Cavalry and Horse Artillery are the backbone of each Brigade but there are also speedy, radio-equipped scout cars and massive armored cars which bring twentieth century speed and mobility to the fighting horsemen.

Each arm has its place in modern warfare. While the plunging, lead-spouting armored cars are well nigh irresistible, they can be stopped or delayed by roadblocks or terrain features around which the nimble footed horses pick their way without hesitation.

In Monday's engagement the mechanized forces operated well in advance of the advancing Blue division. When they located the enemy White force, they informed the main body of the Blues who launched a brilliant enveloping attack which forced the White troops to withdraw.

At night the troops bivouac in the field under the protection of their outpost line, prepared to continue their advance at dawn.

Captain M. Y. Stokes, Jr., of Goldthwaite, is serving on the Division General Staff during the maneuvers, and Lieut. J. B. McKinley, of Hamilton, is on duty with the armored cars in the umpire section. The officers left here Saturday and will be gone the remainder of the month.

Below is "Communique No. 1" from Captain Stokes to the editor of The Eagle:

ARE THERE ANY QUESTIONS?

This information service on education is brought to you by special arrangement with Teachers College, Columbia University, New York City. Questions on education may be submitted through this newspaper.

Question: How can a parent help a child get over childish fears?

Reply: There are many reasons for children's fear, some of them very difficult to trace. Sudden noises, association of objects with some painful experience, a parent's fear communicated, threats by parents, stories of spooks by playmates, a general feeling of emotional insecurity, all may cause a child to become fearful. Once a fear has taken root it is often difficult to eliminate and may cause the child great suffering and be a considerable handicap in his general development.

Studies conducted at the Child Development Institute at Teachers College, Columbia University, indicate that one of the best ways to deal with a child's fear is to help him master it through his own direct experience. If he is afraid of heights, let him first try standing on small elevations with a friend or parent at hand, and then, as confidence is attained, let him try at higher and higher levels. If he is afraid of a dark closet, the closet might be made part of a game in which with the mother close at hand, the child goes in and out of the closet and gradually becomes accustomed to it. Similarly a fear of animals may be remedied by gradually accustoming the child under pleasant circumstances to the presence of a cat or dog.

A calm example of a parent often helps. If the child is afraid of thunderstorms, a calm, matter-of-fact attitude by an older person will guide the child to a similar attitude. Laughing at the child or trying to talk him out of his fear are not effective remedies.

In cases of deep-seated emotional insecurity the remedy is more difficult. Here the answer lies in removing the feeling of insecurity, sowing the child that he is loved and wanted, building up confidence and a feeling of security.

A frequent cause of children's fears is a parent's threatening the child in order to keep discipline. Threatening to call a policeman, to lock the child up in a dark room with the bogey, to desert him, all can do great harm to the emotional stability of the child, and cause him great hardship.

Parents often can prevent fears from arising. If the child is to be taken somewhere where unusual noises or sights may frighten him, an explanation beforehand may help.

Question: How many people suffer from speech defects, stammering etc.? What is the most common type of speech difficulty?

Reply: Estimates indicate that some 12,000,000 adults and children are one out of every ten of the population, suffer from speech defects of some sort. The most common trouble is stammering. About 85 per cent of stammers can be detected before the age of 8. There is great need for increased corrective treatment in schools for this difficulty, for although some children outgrow it, others do not, and it becomes a permanent handicap through life.

Question: I am interested in finding a magazine dealing with the problems of vocational guidance. Could you refer me to one or two?

Reply: There are a number of magazines in the field, some for vocational guidance counselors and others for the general public who may wish some help in going about finding a job. Occupations, The Vocational Guidance Magazine, published eight times a year, is the official organ of the National Vocational Guidance Association, 425 West 123rd Street, New York City. This magazine is for those interested in the problems of vocation counseling, contains articles, notes on recent publication, results of researches, etc., designed for the vocational consultant.

For the general public and for students in schools there are the following magazines:

Vocational Trends (Monthly), published by Science Research Associates, 600 South Michigan Boulevard, Chicago, Ill.

Your Future (Weekly), published by the American Education Press, Inc. 400 South Front Street, Columbus, Ohio. This is chiefly for students in schools.

Vocational Guidance Digest, Stanford University Press, Stanford University, California. This comes out ten times a year and is a digest of current material in the field.

Question: Has any definite relation been found between an increase in recreation facilities for children and a decrease in the amount of juvenile delinquency?

Reply: As far as known, no nationwide figures have been compiled on this point. In many communities, however, it has been found that with an increase in recreational facilities, juvenile delinquency has decreased very sharply. In the last five years in New York City recreation facilities available to children have trebled and the number of arrests for juvenile delinquency has fallen 50 per cent from over 6,000 in 1933 to a little over 3,000 in 1938.

Question: How many who finish grade school go on and finish high school?

Reply: Preliminary tabulations from a survey being made by the Division of Social Research of the WPA indicate that of every 100 completing the 8th grade, 65 graduate from high school, 46 of these 65 leave school on receiving their high school diploma. Only 19 enter college.

WASHINGTON SNAPSHOTS

By James Preston

Headlines about Europe's war and America's neutrality fight have overshadowed one of the most important pieces of news to emanate from Washington in months—the forthcoming purge of radicals from Government service.

Representative Martin Dies, Chairman of the House Committee investigating un-American activities, predicted the purge. He said that the Justice Department had prepared a list of some 2,800 radicals or sympathizers and that they would be dismissed.

What Dies did not say, however, was why he knew there would be a purge. There's an interesting story behind the story:

More than a year ago the Justice Department prepared its list. The list was submitted to various executive officials. Nobody was fired.

Recently, the problem of radical influences within the government has become more important. So a Senator, at the instigation of the Dies committee, gathered together all of the material he could get showing the background of one high official. And he took the information to another higher executive who had the power to dismiss the man in question and said:

"It seems to me that the situation now is such that this man should not be kept in the government service."

The reply was to this effect: "I don't see how the situation now is any different than it was. He stays." And stay the radical has.

When this information got back to Capitol Hill, things began to happen. Dies committee investigators, who never had been able to obtain the Justice Department list of 2,800 radicals, went to work compiling their own. First, they listed possible suspects. Then they began to watch them. They even took the automobile license numbers of people who went to see them at night.

After gathering this kind of information, the investigators began to line up witnesses who could and would testify about the activities and beliefs of the suspected radicals.

To date, the Dies committee has compiled a list of something over 100 government radicals about whom at least three witnesses are available to testify. The list is being added to daily. When it reaches the neighborhood of 150, it will be submitted to executive officials who have authority to fire the suspects. Time will be allowed for action. If there are no discharges, the Dies Committee will hold open hearings, disclosing not only past records of the radicals but also some startling and very recent activities. Public opinion will do the rest.

When the purge begins, it will, of course, be popular with the public, for always in time of international stress Americans have turned away from experimentalism to fundamentalism. They have, in short, gone conservative. That feeling, which began to develop because of the domestic failure of recent experiments, was intensified when war started in Europe.

Polls showed a mounting public interest in business and industry as the mechanism through which recovery could be achieved. With the international situation what it is, and the nation confronted with the necessity for preparedness, those who follow public thinking in Washington are convinced that business and industry will be looked to more than ever.

The reason, of course, is common knowledge that a nation cannot wage a war without the help and resources of industry. It will be interesting, therefore, to determine what future tests of public opinion show the reaction to be to present trends.

The government had begun several attempts to give business some help in an effort to rout depression. With the war threat, it intensified these. Harry Hopkins was made Secretary of Commerce in an effort to revitalize that Department. The Stettinius War Resources Board was created to take advantage of the best assistance industry could give in planning for national defense. Business help itself has lately been recruited for government service.

These are straws in a wind that always blows in one direction when there are troublous national times. When balmy breezes blow in Washington, when there is a serene air of peace, ambitious youngsters in political circles lie back under the bread-fruit tree and dream about billion-dollar spending programs without bothering much where the money is all going to come from. But when the war clouds gather, and practical problems have to be taken care of, then experienced business men are hastily called back into action and a state of grace.

It never falls. And it's beginning to afford a valuable clue to an observant public as to which side has its eye on the facts in the eternal debate between industry and business on the one side and the bright young theorists on the other.

Free Enterprise

In times of war or peace there is one defense we Americans constantly need and should never forget. We consider it so much a matter of course we rarely think of it.

It is the habit of free enterprise—the ability to go ahead on our own, to develop our resources; to freely exercise our enterprising spirit. This habit has most distinguished our work and progress from that of the peoples of other lands. It is not the result of an accident. It found its roots in the stern necessities of frontier life and in the independent character of the founders who so firmly believed in liberty of worship, the right of private property, freedom of speech and the printed word. Liberty and freedom of the individual were the foods on which the founders nurtured their industry, government and religion. They and their children and great grandchildren fought to obtain them. Succeeding generations by neglect are in danger of losing liberties so firmly established that they were never challenged.

Nothing is so essential to our defense at home as the maintenance of this spirit of free enterprise on which we have built. —Connecticut Economic Council.

John Quincy Adams, sixth president of the United States, who was elected to office by the House of Representatives, served in the House of Representatives for 17 years after completing his term in the White House.

Be Careful With Rural Electrification

College Station.—Texas rural people who electrify their homes in haste will probably repent in leisure unless they analyze their future as well as their present needs, warns Mrs. Bernice Claytor, specialist in home improvement for the A. and M. College Extension Service.

Pointing out the rapid construction of power lines in numerous Texas counties and communities during the last few months, the specialist said so many electricity problems have confronted rural people that expensive mistakes are likely to occur.

Because there are no zoning laws in rural areas, Mrs. Claytor urges new electricity consumers to be certain that their houses and buildings are wired adequately for safety as well as for economy. The number of outlets should be at least one double outlet per room, she says, since double outlets cost little more and give twice as much service as a single outlet.

"Before wiring the house a decision should be made as to what work the electricity is to do," the specialist explains. "In securing electrical equipment," she suggests, "purchase from some reliable local firm which will service and demonstrate the equipment in the home. Factors which must be considered are the initial cost, the cost of installation, and the cost of operation."

Tips on characteristics of economical and durable electric pumps, refrigerators, electric ranges, washing machines, and hand irons, as well as other helpful information have been incorporated by Mrs. Claytor into a handbook, "Electrifying the Rural Home," which interested persons may consult in offices of county agricultural or home demonstration agents of the Extension Service.

grades on the six week tests and are still trying hard to make excellent grades all year.

GLEE CLUB REPORT

The Glee Club shows promise of being better this year than at any time during the last several years as work has started early and there is much good material. There are 30 or more members in the club, coached by a new and able teacher, Miss Kingsbury. All are determined to accomplish something.

Last Monday, officers were elected for the year as follows: president, Wanda Bledsoe; vice-president, Syble Miller, and secretary and reporter, Wilda Bledsoe. The high school trio is composed of Wanda Bledsoe, first soprano; Aggie Forehand, second soprano, and Wilda Bledsoe, alto.

The Glee Club has joined the Federation Club and is going to send a delegate to the Federation convention at Brady, Oct 19-21.

TENNIS CLUB

The following officers were elected for the Tennis Club last week:

President, Pat Chandler; secretary-treasurer, Sammie Smith; sheriff, Lyman Saylor; reporter, Buddy Stokes.

The Tennis Club has bought, with some of the money from the treasury, a can of tennis balls, and the P.-T. A. has promised a new tennis net. The majority of the members seem well-satisfied with the officers and the laws.

In the near future, we expect more members to join, but at present our sincere thanks go to the P.-T. A. and to Mr. Crow, our director.

PEP SQUAD REPORT

Reports from football fans in Goldthwaite and the surrounding communities, indicate that the school has a better Pep Squad this year than ever before.

The members have new uniforms composed of gold satin blouses and black skirts which make a beautiful showing at the games. Mark Fairman, Wilda Bledsoe, and Aggie Forehand are the leaders and are considered the best yet by the squad. The two girls are dressed in gold slacks and gold satin shirts, while Mark is dressed in solid black.

Friday night the pep squad formed the letters "F-H" in the background for Fredericksburg, while the band formed the letters "GHS" while marching down the field directly in front of the north stands. These performances brought compliments from both stands.

The Pep Squad this year is behind the football team one hundred per cent this year and is looking forward to a big year.

FROM THE SIDELINES

Friday, the thirteenth, the Goldthwaite Eagles bowed to the Fredericksburg Hill Billies, 31-7, breaking their string of two wins and one tie against Killeen, De Leon, and the Methodist Home. The loss was easily explained by the date, a bad day for the Eagles.

The Fredericksburg team kicked off to the Eagles, but on the first play the Eagles fumbled to the Hill Billies. The Hill Billies were held to the fourth down and were forced to kick, but the kick was blocked and Alton Rose, left end for the Eagles picked up the ball and ran for a touchdown with beautiful interference. The referee called the ball back, but after a series of plays the Eagles advanced to paying dirt with Darwin Denson carrying the ball over the goal line and Aubrey catching a pass for the point, making the score 7-0 for the Eagle's only score of the game. The Eagles kicked to the Hill Billies who, after several pass plays and line smashes, carried the ball to the Goldthwaite 20 yard line, from where Don Anderegg stepped off the yardage for their first tally of the game. For the rest of the quarter neither team scored and the first quarter ended 7 to 6 in favor of the Eagles. The second quarter was a different story, with the strong Fredericksburg team scoring two touchdowns and making one point in a flat pass, making the score 19-7 in Fredericksburg's favor.

The Eagle squad came into the second half of the game with the determination to win, but succeeded only in holding Fredericksburg to two more touchdowns with no conversions, and the game ended with the Hill Billies in possession of the big end of the score, 31-7.

In the second half the Eagles played good defensive football which was sometimes smashed by long runs by Anderegg and Lukenback of Fredericksburg. Although it can be said that the Eagles failed to win, they did not quit scrapping till the whistle blew, ending the game.

This Friday, the Eagle squad meets Rochelle on the home field. As the score two weeks ago between Fredericksburg and Rochelle was 20-0, this game will probably be a close one. However, we are betting on the Eagles to pull through as the winners.

LIGHT THROUGH A KEY HOLE

Well, once again school has started and sh-h-h, if you listen closely, you probably will hear the footfalls of Snooks the snoop, Snoop XXXX Jr., and Jr. Snoop XXXX. Their accomplice, cupid, has also been around practicing archery. One of his love-coated arrows got Aubrey right in the heart.

Also a certain sophomore boy and girl seem to have been hit with an arrow or either bitten by a well-known bug. For further details see William Armstrong.

If you use those great big eyes you have to see with, you have probably noticed several girls going around with their heads laced up. Maybe this is the answer to Mrs. Marshall's problem of teaching English. Just unlace the ribbons, pour in a good knowledge of English, lace 'em back up—and you have an excellent English student.

Many of the girls' hearts have been heard going pitty-pat-pat every time the new history and economics teacher comes into the room, but he seems very definitely to be partial to redheads—so all you blonds and brunettes will just have to scatter out and maybe we'll get another new teacher sometime.

Speaking of new people, there's a new senior boy whom most people think is a "woman-hater." Several girls have been heard to say, "We'll soon break him of that," but no such luck, girls; he's not a hater, but just happens to have a steady in a near-by town.

The old high school has grown gloomy and morbid since one member, whose initials, incidentally, are the same as yours truly, has ceased to raise her voice in loud and lusty song. She bides her time these days singing "Rag Time Cowboy Joe," the first line of which begins "Out i Arizona."

Question of the week: Will Aubrey's car make it to the three-mile crossing and back in seven minutes? The affirmative side is upheld by Wilda and the car's owner. Red's contention, together with that of yours truly, is that, "When you're in love, time flies."

Until next Friday, I am,

Traveling Library

Austin. — Carrying knowledge to 1,161 towns and rural communities where library facilities are limited, the Package Loan Library Bureau, a University of Texas extension agency, last year served 33,823 Texas individuals or organizations.

This traveling library fills requests with "package libraries" from its shelves or makes up packages from the hundreds of thousands of items in its files, kept up to date by constant addition of current magazine and newspaper clippings.

Last year 1,813 books, 18,157 plays, 3,820 club outlines and 322,333 pamphlets and periodical clippings composed the packages circulated.

The 1938-39 circulation of the bureau surpassed that the preceding year by 735 packages, going to 54 more towns and rural communities than in 1937-38.

To aid the peanut producers of Texas, the Southwestern Peanut Growers' Association will pay members $63 per ton for Southwestern Spanish peanuts during 1939, diverting the surplus into oil and by-products. am comfortable in a tent with Dwight Allison, managing editor of the San Antonio Light. My job is to run the press tent—taking care of visiting newspaper men and photographers, including one from LIFE, and preparing and mailing daily news releases and news photographs. Of course I expect to be in the field some, but I will sleep in my tent every night and eat in the same mess tent, so it looks like a nice war for me. I have been furnished a cot, bedding roll, mattress, blankets, sheets, pillow and pillowcase, supplying only my towels. I have an electric light in my tent and there is a hot shower available, but, as Captain Mewshaw says, we are only going to be here two weeks.

I left Goldthwaite at 2:30 Saturday afternoon with another reserve officer, Lieut. J. B. McKinley, of Hamilton. We drove leisurely via San Angelo, had supper in McCamey, and spent the night in Fort Stockton. This morning we drove the remaining 60 miles and went through the formalities of registering and getting a physical examination.

At noon the general invited me to have lunch at his special mess with him, his chief of staff, brigade commanders and artillery commander and aides. We had a friendly chat afterwards. He asked for me by name is the only reason I am here. Just as we were finishing, the reporter from the Chicago Tribune arrived. He is an interesting chap—a former Army officer who has been with the Tribune 10 years and covered the Spanish War and Chinese War for them. Incidentally he (like me) says there is no real war in Europe now and will not be. I hope we are right.

This afternoon Capt. Mewshaw (the publicity officer) took us around the camp where there are 6000 men and 3000 horses quartered.

The show starts off with an easy problem tomorrow and gets harder day by day. Many high officers of the Army are coming down to inspect.

Popular Circus To Show In Brownwood Monday, October 23

Circus Day with its perennial appeal to all ages will be the center of attraction for many people from this vicinity when Russell Bros.' Circus exhibits at Brownwood on Monday, October 23rd, afternoon and night.

Russell Bros., one of but a few of the larger and better circuses still on the road, discredits the old saying, "If you see one you have seen them all." It has succeeded in effectively combining all the fondly cherished big top traditions of old with the latest modern trends and improvements. Its program abounds with surprising novelties and interesting innovations, together with the ever-alluring feats of skill and courage by daring aerialists, acrobats, wire artists, equilibrists, equestrians and animal performers.

Exceptionally fine horses are seen in expert performances, and in addition to the indispensable elephants, many other kinds of trained animals are presented. The entire program is, of course, plentifully interspersed with the playful pranks of the clowns, and is followed by an exciting wild-west show.

Performances start at 2 and 8 p. m., with the front doors opening at 1 and 7 p. m., to allow ample time for an inspection, without extra cost, of the wild-animal displays and horse show in the menagerie.

Birthday Celebration

Sunday was a grand day in the George Hill home. We had a picnic down in the pasture under some lovely shade trees in honor of the 52nd birthday of Mrs. George Hill and her twin brother, Mr. Ira Hutchings. They attended Sunday School and church at the Methodist Church and then came out to the picnic grounds. Everyone was very joyful and it was really no wonder. Who wouldn't be with so many goodies? Everyone brought a well filled basket. After lunch part of them attended church at South Bennett.

Those present were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Ford, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hutchings and sons, James and Herschel, Miss Bess and Mr. Otis Hutchings, Mrs. Eula and Mrs. Glenn Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stuck, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ellis and sons, George, Wayne and Joe Dan, Miss Gwendolyn Hill, Marvin Qualls, of Brownwood, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Hill and children, Christine, Norma Gene and David.

Mr. Hill and son, David, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Ellis and son, Joe Dan, Mrs. Eula Nickols, Otis and Miss Bess Hutchings all have birthdays within the next three weeks. So really it was a celebration of many birthdays instead of one.

HUDDLE

By The Bench Warmer

It might have been because it was Friday the 13th, but we can't think of any other reason for allying last week's defeat of the Eagles by the Fredericksburg Hillbillies. In many games the Monday Morning quarterbacks can meet at the "wailing wall" and yell "If our ends had played wider, if we had used another play, if the coach hadn't, etc." but for this game there were no gatherings at said wall. The Eagles most ardent fans, as well as the Eagles themselves, offer no alibis and "ifs" about it. They were just "took" and after the first quarter there never was any doubt but what the Eagles had met a superior team.

Coach Klaerner trotted out a squad of boys that out-weighted the local lads about 12 to 15 pounds per man, probably were two years older average, and were football players from the ground up. There is no doubt that Henry Anderegg, No. 30, for the Hillbillies, is the best footballer to sink his cleats on the local turf since Dean Bagley so deftly trod it last year, and there are some who are rating this lad more potent as a ball carrier than Bagley. His passing was very good in spite of some carefully planned attempts by the Eagles to curtail it. And the way he would break free from tacklers and use his high gear sidestepping up the field brought many a groan of anguish from the Eagle cohorts.

The other backfield man who caused plenty of trouble was Luckback, No. 36. He handled the ball well and caught some of those passes from Anderegg. Their left end was a constant thorn in the side to any efforts his way. To Mr. Ransleben, the quarterback, we'll say you were a shrewd player and the choice of plays was perfect.

The Eagles, for their gallant stand and their never-say-die spirit, will still find themselves "tops" with the town and community. They never let up one minute and, although outclassed and hopelessly beaten, were in there trying 'til the last whistle. The outstanding player for the night, and we know the Fredericksburg team will agree with us, was Sammie Graves, 135 pound guard, No. 24. Sammie was playing every down like it was the last he would ever play, and it seemed that it never occurred to him that the odds, as well as the score, were against him. He broke through several times to ruin a play before it got to the line with clean hard tackles, and played a "heads-up" game. As one closely associated with the team put it, "Fredericksburg beat the Eagles alright, but they never beat Sammie Graves."

Fred McKenzie played a good game in his center position. Fred looked better backing the line in this game than at anytime this season and he had more to cope with than ever before. Therefore, we give him credit for his best game. His getting down the field under the Eagles' punts was another thing worth mention.

The Eagles' offensive efforts were more or less null and void after the first quarter, as they continually found themselves in the hole and could rarely afford to try anything on account of their position. Their touchdown, and they scored first, was accomplished by recovering a fumble on about their 30 and, by a series of passing and running plays, finally gained first down by inches on the one-yard line, from where Darwin Denson carried the ball over for the score. A pass as used against DeLeon, was good for the extra point—Charlie McLean to Aubrey Smith.

This Friday night, Oct. 20, the Rochelle Hornets are coming to town to engage the Eagles. Coach Barney Hale is bringing a squad of 45 men who will average all through the squad 145, with the first 11 tilting the beam at an approximate 158. A good game between two pretty evenly matched teams is in prospect.

He is an American.

He hears an airplane overhead, and if he looks up at all, he does so in curiosity, neither in fear nor in the hope of seeing a protector.

His wife goes marketing, and her purchases are limited by her needs, her tastes, her budget, but not by decree.

He comes home of an evening through streets which are well lighted, not dimly in blue.

He reads his newspaper and knows that what it says is not concocted by a bureau, but an honest untrammelled effort to present the truth.

He has never had a gas mask on.

He has never been in a bombproof shelter.

His military training, an R. O. T. C. course in college, he took because it excused him from the gym course, and it was not compulsory.

He belongs to such fraternal organizations and clubs as he wishes.

He adheres to a political party to the extent that he desires—the dominant one, if that be his choice, but with the distinct reservation that he may criticize any of its policies with all the vigor which to him seems proper—any other as his convictions dictate, even, if it be his decision, one which holds that the theory of government of the country is wrong and should be scrapped.

He does not believe, if his party is out of power, that the only way in which it can come into power is through a bloody revolution.

He converses with friends, even with chance acquaintances, expressing freely his opinion on any subject, without fear.

He does not expect his mail to be opened between posting and receipt, nor his telephone to be tapped.

He changes his place of dwelling, and does not report so doing to the police.

He has not registered with the police.

He carries an identification card only in case he should be the victim of a traffic accident.

He thinks of his neighbors across international borders—of those to the north as though they were across a State line, rather than as foreigners—of those to the south more as strangers since they speak a language different from his, and with the knowledge that there are now matters of difference between his government and theirs, but of neither with an expectancy of war.

He worships GOD in the fashion of his choice, without let.

His children are with him in his home, neither removed to a place of greater safety, if young, nor, if older, ordered ready to serve the State with sacrifice of limb or life.

He has his problems, his troubles, his uncertainties, but all others are not overshadowed by the imminence of battle and sudden death.

He should struggle to preserve his Americanism with its priceless privileges.

He is a fortunate man.

Health Notes

Austin.—The State could appropriate and spend one million dollars annually on a health program without cost to the State, declares the Texas State Department of Health. This can be demonstrated in connection with our schools alone, without regard to the saving effected in the general economic life of the State.

If the State Department of Health had such a sum for the maintenance of a comprehensive health program in all public schools, more than that amount could be shifted back to the general fund by the schools, thru savings to their fund effected by the elimination of repeaters and other costs incident to health conditions.

At least 25 per cent of the pupils in our public schools do not make a grade per year and have to be taught a second year in the same grade. With a total enrollment in the elementary schools of 1,071,000 pupils there are approximately 289,232 repeaters. The cost of instruction for this group is thereby doubled.

It costs $45.00 per year to educate a child. If this sum is multiplied by the repeaters the loss is $13,000,000. Not all of this could be chargeable to health conditions, but at least two-thirds, or $9,750,000 could be so charged. By spending one million dollars per year, in promoting an adequate health program, enough of the money now wasted on repeaters in the elementary grades would be saved in three years to retire the present deficit in the general fund.

Lometa

Though coming not unexpectedly, the announcement Sunday afternoon that D. P. (Uncle Dud) Smith had passed away in the sanitarium at Lampasas, cast a pall of sadness over the entire town.

The following letter was received this week from J. B. Weaver, ex-Lometa citizen, and shows that even some Republicans have a tender streak in their make-up: "After suffering 20 years with hay fever, I would not like to see even a dog have it. I am submitting something that I have found at last that I find not only inexpensive, but great relief and I believe if used regularly, will cure the hay fever.

"Take a pint fruit jar. Put in 20 to 25 drops of iodine, pour in boiling water and breathe the fumes. Roll a newspaper into a funnel around the container and stir occasionally. I have had two severe cases of hay fever since moving here, but have not had any since taking this treatment.

Johnnie Sterrett and John Wesley Johnson came in this week, and as fast as they can, are getting ready to spud in the second oil test west of town. A rotary rig will be used on this test, which is on the Frank Kirby tract.

How To Become A Master

THE FORMULA IS SIMPLE: Pay the price. I've been checking up on a few masters and I've discovered that he who said that genius is the capacity for making continuous effort, knew what he was talking about.

The master goes on long after the ordinary man has stopped trying. He has infinite patience.

At one time, for instance, Luther Burbank personally conducted 6,000 experiments. He raised 1,000,000 plants a year for experimental purposes.

Paderewski, the Polish pianist, has a piano in his private railroad car and practices for hours every day.

While employed as a mechanic at $150 per month, Henry Ford spent his evenings in a barn back of his home working on a "horseless carriage." It required eight long years of patient work to develop a good motor.

Edison made thousands of experiments in the development of his many inventions. Once he spent two years and two million dollars on an invention that proved of little value. In developing the incandescent lamp, for instance, he worked three days and nights without sleep.

Patience, hard work, long hours, perseverance . . . these are the price of mastership.

A report by Leo Ehlinger that the highway department's magnetic nail picker had gathered up 596 pounds of nails, bolts and other scrap metals, and 100 pounds of tin cans is of interest. One can understand how the nails and other scraps of metal got onto the paved highway, but where did a hundred pounds of cans come from?

THE CITIZENS OF THE WORLD

LESSON TEXT.—Matthew 23:23—Let your eye be single, that your light may not be darkened. Let your eye be single, that your light may not be darkened. Let your eye be single, that your light may not be darkened.

These verses are addressed to the Pharisees, to those who had taken Christ as king of their lives. These beatitudes are not for the Pharisees, but for the disciples, to those who have taken Christ as king of their lives.

I. The Christian's King

The words which follow are the words of the Lord Jesus Christ. He said that day that He sat on the right hand of the Father, that He was the Son of Man who had humbled Himself, come the Son of Man who had humbled Himself, come the Son of Man who had humbled Himself.

II. The Christian's Character

The eight characteristics of the Christian here presented are of extended individuality, but we can offer only a few suggestions.

"Blessed are the poor in spirit, for the kingdom of heaven is theirs." Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth. Blessed are the merciful, for they shall obtain mercy.

III. The Christian's Influence

"Salt" and "light" are the two great influences of the Christian. Salt is the influence of the Christian's life, and light is the influence of the Christian's teaching.

Research Pays Research becomes progressively more powerful as an agent for human welfare because each new discovery may be useful not only by itself, but also in various combinations with all which have gone before. All logic and experience indicate that we are still only at the beginning of possibilities of using science to solve many of our pressing problems, and to achieve better living conditions for everyone. How much happier the human race will be when people come more generally to depend upon science to wrest the good things of life from nature instead of spending most of their efforts in trying to take them away from other people!—Karl T. Compton, President, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Some people don't believe I own a hack. Well I do. We have it in use most everyday. It is as handy on the farm as a pocket on a shirt. Some seem to think it must be awful old. Well, I can't say just how old it is, but our Mills county nurse, Miss Gertrude Kauhs did go with her parents to Priddy to church in it when she was rather young. Now if you can find out Miss Gertrude's age, you can almost tell how old it is. I hope sometime I can take some of my friends for a Sunday evening drive when summer comes again. Perhaps we can go fishing. Those who like to fish had better get your bid in for the ride.

 "If one wants to give woolen material that new look after repeated home pressings, it is very necessary to have a well padded ironing board," said Mrs. Earl Blake, member of the local club, which met at the home of Mrs. Ernest Ohlenbusch Thursday afternoon, October 12th, at 2:00 o'clock.
 According to first hand statements from several of the club members it is important to have the iron the proper temperature while pressing silk and rayon materials. When the iron is too hot one is liable to scorch the material.
 A very interesting program on home tailoring was given by three club members.
 After the program was over a number of clever games were played. The last game led to the presentation of a shower to one of the members.
 The next meeting will be held in the home of Mrs. Barney Laughlin Thursday afternoon, October 28th, at 2:00 o'clock. Every lady of the community has an invitation to attend. Miss Scott will meet with us at that time.
