Mrs. Borah May Write . . . Mrs. Taft Can Speak . . . New Conversations Between Nazis and Soviet Worry Allies.

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON .- Plans for the future are still uncertain for "Little Borah" as Mrs. William E. Borah, widow of the senator, is affectionately known. Except for one thing-the decision to give up the spacious, beautifully furnished apartment in which she and the senator lived for many years. It was their only They had none in Idaho. When they returned there in the summer they lived in a Boise hotel.

The senator left a small estate which, with the $10,000 which widows of members of congress receive, will enable Mrs. Borah to live comfortably. Borah could have made big money, but he always refused. He had many offers of legal cases; and a few years ago he was handed a contract by a newspaper syndicate for $52,000 to write a weekly, 1,200-word article. But he rigidly adhered to the rule that he was an employee of the people and that they were entitled to his full Borah was so meticulous about this that when, during his fourth term, congress increased senatorial pay from $7,500 to $10,000 a year, he refused to accept the additional $2,500 until re-elected.

No. Borah has a sister in Moscow, Idaho, and another in Portland, Ore. She will visit them before deciding where she will settle permanently. In the past, she has had a number of requests to write about Washington and about her many experiences in the official and social world. She has always declined, but now she may turn her gentle wit and charm to ### War Pessimism.

The confidential war reports re ceived by government agencies have not been too optimistic of late regarding the Allied positions.

This pessimism has nothing to do with the sudden mobilization of the Dutch and Belgians, which had behind it only the fact that the canals which constitute the best defense against Germany were frozen, and the lan and countries suddenly realized now easy it would be for the

Sunday's Fog Causes Wrecks

Unusually dense fogs settled on this section Saturday night and several wrecks on the Goldthwaite-Brownwood highway resulted. Two cars collided and the occupants received minor injuries. A little later when a bystander struck a match to examine one of the cars, it caught fire and was destroyed.

One of the survivors of the wreck caught a ride to Mullin. On his return in another car to Goldthwaite, the car in which he was riding collided with a truck parked on the highway.

At Coleman an entire family of five was killed when their car ran into a railroad train in the dons and mammoths on each side-Musso at 260, Baby Ray at 245, and others at 240 or perhaps 230. He is a needle in football's haystack. Yet Dave O'Brien has never had time taken out in three hard years at T. C. U. and this last year, his as a pro with the Eagles.

As a forward passer they have bounced his head and slender body off the ground more than 200 times, but he has always bounded back with a grin. He has been the rubber ball of the gridiron. And, don't forget, he can split a line as well as throw a pass.

Baseball's Share

eball has also known its share of these magnificent midgets.

What about Johnny Evers, the "Human Splinter?" Evers was a stout 118-pounder in his early Cub days, but Johnny was a 200-pound thorn in the side of John McGraw and his Giants.

And there was Rabbit Maranville of the Cubs and Braves, another chunk or guncotton, who was about the size of a baseball bat.

And there was Dicky Kerr of the White Sox, one of the few small pitchers who could make the grade. To keep from being waylaid and assaulted I'll also give you Wee Willie Keeler from a lost decade, who was smart enough to "hit 'em where they ain't." I saw Keeler play 40 years ago and I still think he stands out as the most scientific hitter of all time. An oldtimer by the name of Denton Tecumseh (Cy) Young agrees

Willie Keeler "Willie was one you couldn't fool," Cy says. And Cy

fooled most of them. In Boxing

Who was the all-time top of the little fellows in boxing? There was Jimmy Wilde, "The Great Atom," a 105-pound flyweight who for years whipped men who were 15 to 25 pounds heavier. I saw Wilde near the sunset of his career when he, Bob Edgren, Jack Wheeler and I played golf together belo his fatal battle with Pancho Villa, the pounding Filipino, who nailed him after the bell had rung. Wilde's frail system was loaded with disaster for his opponents until Villa caught him on the downward trail.

And I'd like to give you Harry Greb, who at 160 was whipping Gene Tunney, and Tom Gibbons, and who mauled Jack Dempsey all over the ring in a workout. He almost wrecked 180-pound Jack Dillon, The Killer. Greb thought nothing of giving . way 20, 30 and 40 pounds. And he would still win in a common canter, going away. They began to beat Gree when he was blind in one eye and half blind in the other.

The all-time top in tennis for the little men was Little Bill Johnston of the Pacific. Little Bill once told me his normal weight was around 116 pounds. Yet in 1919 he beat Big Bill Tilden three out of four sets for the championship, and always carried Big Bill head and head into the stretch.

Johnston had a forehand drive worthy of someone who weighed over 170 pounds. It was terrific-smoking hot. And that from a man whose normal weight was considerably less than 125 pounds.

IN THE SPORTLIGHT

Because of unusual bad weather the past weeks, there has Robert Henry Johnson, Jane been little or no sport activities, Black. except, of course, the winter sports, if we can call "dunking" the teachers in the snow sport.

Last Monday night, Mark Fairman, a popular senior of Goldthwaite, entered the lightweight division in the Golden Gloves at JUNIOR CLASS REPORT Brownwood. Although he was defeated by a technical knock- place in the annual Stunt Night out, he should be commended which was given the night of FFA CHAPTER REPORT highly for his spunk. Although Feb. 1. the fight lasted only one round most furious battles of the even- T. A. on Wednesday, Feb. 14. ing. Fairman's opponent was almost dizzy, but he landed several savage blows to the head, and the referee stopped the fight. The only explanation to Mark's defeat was one given by assistant coach Stephens, as follows:

"Mark smashed his opponent several hard blows to the face and then stopped to wonder why he didn't fall. By that time the fight was over."

Although there will not be a basketball team in high school this year, Coach Cloninger has already started practice for track. There are several good boys out, and they hope to break some of the following records made in Mills County Meets:

120 yard high hurdles 15-6, Baily Kuykendall; 220 low hurdles, 27-5, Red Swindle; 440 yard dash, 53, J. D. McKenzie; vaulting, 11-6, J. D. McKenzie; high jump, 5-10, Red Swindle; broad jump, 19-6, Obie Sheppard; mile, 5-11, Bill Saylor; shot put, 37-5, Fayne Coffman; javelin, 137 Charles Hill; and discus, 112-3, Red Swindle.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL

HONOR ROLL First grade: Sadie Hibler, Sybil Casbeer, Celia Ann Simpson, Johnny Bob Calaway, Monette nament at Waco. Harriet Aller and Imarhea Henry composed the girls team representing Goldthwaite, and Cartwright Oglesby

and Sam Graves represented the boys. Both teams profited by their experience at the meet.

The boys debated Borer, Gaston, and Wills Point, defeating Wills Point. They were to have debated Corsicana, but the latter's failure to appear automatically made the decision a win for Goldthwaite.

The girls won over Borger and lost to Kerrville, Denton, and San Antonio.

Saturday of this week a number of the debaters are going to attend a tournament in Brownwood.

IN A RECENT TALK Lloyd Douglas, the famous author, told the story about Pygmalion, the sculptor, and his statue-Galatea. Out of the cold marble, with loving, painstaking care, Pygmalion chiseled the form of a beautiful woman. Working on his masterpiece with sincere devotion, he found himself falling in love with his creation. Forsaking all other things he labored day and night. And then the miracle occurred! Galatea changed from cold marble to a living, breathing personality! She came alive!

Many a failure is frozen in the marble of fear. A word of courage or hope from us may create the spark that will bring him to life. There are many potentially happy people whose lives are imprisoned in the marble of despair and pessimism, people who may be liberated into the sunshine of more abundant living by something friendly and cheerful we may say to them.

As we journey along, contacting people on the highways and byways of life, we are sculptors of personalties. We may be the creators of little private miracles. A friendly hand on a shoulder. An expression of love. In little ways we may build people up, inspire them, strengthen them, spur them onward and upward in life.

We have the power as human sculptors to make people come alive to the glory of triumphant living!

THE PERILS OF REJECTING CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 21:28-43.
GOLDEN TEXT—I am the way, through and the life; no man cometh up the Father, but by me.—John 14:6.

Fearlessly facing crucifixion within a few days, Jesus stood in the temple, there facing His bitter enemies and replying to their attacks in words such as no man ever spake. He brought them face to face with the very essence of sin, which is the rejection of Christ. Their own words condemned them, but when they should have repented, they became embittered and hardened in their sin. Let no one who reads these lines follow their example, but if the Holy Spirit brings conviction, turn to Him in repentance and faith.

Every Sunday School lesson is of great importance, but possibly no lesson we shall ever have to teach will be as important as this one, for it deals very plainly with the awful peril of rejecting Christ. Eternal destiny depends upon the choices made in response to this lesson.' Let every one of us study it and teach it with solemn earnestness.

I. Actions Speak Louder Than Words (vv. 28-32).

All church members, who have come into that relationship by smoothly spoken words of acceptance and devotion to Christ which then have not been lived out in the daily walk, may see themselves picand glibly assured his father that he could depend on him, and then promptly went his own way. They will see that they need to repent and substitute real heart-moving and life-changing action for their words, lest the harlots and publicans pass them and go into heaven before them. Professing church member without any evidence of God's

Note the word of encouragement to repentant sinners. Perhaps someone who reads this paragraph has at some time rejected Christ and has since thought that he could not turn back, that it was too late for him to do the thing which his heart tells him to do even though his lips have spoken unkind words of rejec-

II. Selfish Unbelief Results Christ-Rejection (vv. 33-41).

This parable clearly relates to the they? Are not the appalling majority of Gentiles walking in that same road of selfish unbelief which

No man or woman can go on selfishly taking the benefits of God, using them for self advantage or comfort, turning a deaf ear to the cries of God's messengers, and hope to Regulation of the Texas oil and have any ultimate result other than and a thousand lives can be sav- gas industry by the Texas Rail- Christ-rejection. > III. Rejection of Christ Does Not Defeat God (vv. 42, 43).

At first glance one wonders why Christ at this point turned so abruptly from the figure of the vineyard to that of the cornerstone. "The reason why He leaves for a moment the image of the vineyard, is because of its inadequacy to set forth one important part of the truth which was needful to make the moral complete, namely this, that the malice of the Pharisees should not defeat the purpose of God-that the Son should yet be the heir-that not merely vengeance should be taken, but that He should take it. Now this is distinctly set forth by the rejected stone becoming the head of the corner, on which the builders stumbled and fell, and were broken -on which they were now already stumbling and falling, and which, if they set themselves against it to the end, would fall upon them and crush and destroy them utterly" (Trench)

God was not defeated by the crucifixion of Christ. Christ will not be defeated simply because men reject Him in the world. We who are on His side, we who are the followers of the Lord are on the victorious side. Those who oppose Him and speak ill of His name may appear to be victors for the moment, but the judgment of God is yet to come

WASHINGTON .- If we want to take a hand in the wild European war game, let's do it above the board, discard our neutrality and take the consequences. Sending money to the Finns to buy our "surplus agricultural products" in full knowledge that they do not not need them, do need arms, and can and will sell them to create credit to buy arms, is just another Rooseveltian "clever little scheme."

The fight on the Finnish front is a key-battle. It is a dangerous flank attack in the war between western and eastern Europe. The defense ranks with the highest of all military traditions. It is strangely like the heroic stand at Thermopylae. There a handful of Greeks held off a Persian steam-roller waiting for Spartan assistance which could have brought victory but never came.

Yes, Finland which is the narrow eastern gate to Scandinavia, is defending the left flank of all western Europe. As those endangered nations value eventual victory, they ought to rally to her not only by furnishing credits to enable her to buy arms here, but in every other way. Our case is different. With all the good-will and admiration possible we must still remember that this key position is in a European war-in which our people almost unanimously wish to have no part.

WASHINGTON .- The question of using CCC as an army reserve or pool of possible recruits in case of war is being agitated again. The project won't get far.

Even though the subject was approached with the greatest caution and no such purpose was announced. the first smell of it aroused a howl of protest from one end of the country to the other.

The complaint was and will is: "Why should the very poorest of our youth be put out first as cannon fodder?"

The average CCC company knows hardly enough about military drill to fall in for roll-call. It does live in barracks under rules for hygiene, sanitation and cleanliness that approximate army barrack life, but there the similarity ends with a our military puzzles. Under the selective draft principle used in 1917-1918 we can get the very cream of our crop of youth with practically no delay whatever. By intensive training they can be taught in a few days more than the average CCC boy knows about military serv-

But the selective service idea won't work at all if its burdens do not bear with absolute fairness on every class of men within the draft

Proposals now being discussed are not to require CCC boys to join the army but to encourage and to permit them to volunteer. They have that right anyway in peace, but if we have to raise a big army for war we will have to have selective service. After that starts, volunteering must end. You can't have two classes-the "wents" and the "sents" under the selective system.

Borah This country, as never before, needs men like Senator Borah. You can count his like on the fingers of one hand.

He and I have had disagreements. He was a great disagreer. You couldn't have a whole senate of Borahs and still have either party organization or much cohesion in the senate itself. Alone with such a few veterans as Carter Glass, he simply did not play in the pork-barrel game of po-litical patronage. He was so arongly entrenched in the good-will and confidence of the people of his state that there was no necessity to do that. But we need a quota of such men. It is the antidote for personalized power. Like Thomas Jefferson, he had sworn eternal hostility toward any form of domination over the mind of man. He voted and acted as he thought and believed-and he always thought and believed sincerely. With this controlling principle guiding him, he paid scant attention to party policy, presidential prestige or popular reaction—if any of these influences interfered with what he thought was right.

In private life he was as gentle es a woman.

Dallas.-Sulphapyridine bagged a goal this week to bring hospital.

Soules was brought to the hospital in a critical condition. Sul- nesday, Feb. 14, at 8 p. m. phapridine, which was administered to him, is a new drug, out the nation

The remarkable new drug, which, during the past year, has reduced the number of deaths caused primarily by pneumonia from 90 to 10 per cent, started Soules on the road to recovery a few hours after being adminis-

Soules' father, Luther Soules of Goldthwaite, feels that his life was saved last year by a kindred drug, sulphanilamide.

Will Lecture At Howard Payne

Brownwood.-Hon Ruth Bryan victory to Fred Soules in his bat- Owen (Rhode), daughter of that tle with pneumonia in a Dallas great Commoner, William Jennings Bryan, will lecture here at Howard Payne auditorium, Wed-

She will discuss the subject, "This Democracy of Ours," a most which has proved successful in timely one as public attention over 75 per cent of its cases thru today is being focused as never before on Democracy, what it is, how it may be safeguarded.

Noted for her eloquence and possessing rare personal charm, Mrs. Owen has for the past ten years been one of the most popular figures on the lecture plat-

Her political background has seen punctuated with unusual honors. She was the first woman to represent the "Old South" in Congress, the first woman to serve on the Congressional Foreign Affairs Committee, the first woman to represent the United States at the inter-parliamentary union in London (1930), and pioneers of Mills county, died at her appointment as minister to Denmark gave her the distincman diplomat.

soil and water resources unless he people living on the watershed are benefitted. Damage to the watershed is important only because it damages the lives of people and threatens the general welfare, it was pointed out.

The Colorado survey, when completed, will make direct recommendations for a watershed control program. This constiutes the third step in bringing a control program into operation. The detailed survey will form the basis of definite recommendations to Congress. If and when Congress approves the recommendations and makes funds available for the work, a ontrol program can be launch-

Based on favorable results obtained at erosion control experiment stations and in soil conservation demonstration projects, amps and state soil conservaion districts, it is believed that the application of conservation practices to the agrcultural lands gram in that it will:

vation, even aside from flood Russia's transportation and incontrol aspects.

2. Eliminate what would otherwise be recurring minor floods. 3. Decrease the volume and velocity of surface run-off water and thus reduce the hazards of

4. Reduce the sedimentation of reservoirs constructed for flood control and other purposes, and 5. Minimize the silting of the tream channels and deposition

n valley farm lands. The desired control of erosion and the conservation of moisture on watersheds is obtained by the retirement of steep and severely eroded land from cultivation and the conversion of this land to grass and trees; the practical use of various adaptations of thick growing vegetation in pastures, meadows, woodlands, strip crops, cover crops, crop rotations and vegetated waterways: the use of engineering structures and mechanical devices such as contour furrows and ridges, terraces, temporary and permanent structures in small waterways, small reservoirs, small detention, retention and diversion dams, water spreaders and other devices for recharging underground water supplies. The objective is to keep more of the water on the land where it falls and to insure the orderly drainage from the land of excess rainfall. This will aid materialy in flood control in that it reduces the volume of water entering streams and rivers and keeps out soil washed into streams by uncontrolled rainfall run-off. The retention of soil and water on the land aids the farmer who must depend on these resources to make crops and at the same time contributes to the control of floods.
