VOLUME FORTY-SIX

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, AUGUST 9, 1940.

NUMBER FIFTY-TWO

CONGRESS UNDER GUARD

WASHINGTON.—It has been done so quietly that only a few officials know it, but congress now is being guarded by the most elaborate police system since World War days. The legislators are protected almost as carefully as the President.

The first step was taken last fall when a detail of G-men and detectives was assigned to reinforce the Capitol's regular police force, which is made up chiefly of patronage appointees, students working their way through school. Then in the spring a squadron of metropolitan uniformed police was sent to the Hill—making a total of 250 blue-coats and plainclothes men guarding 531 senators and representatives.

Last week, still another protective measure was taken in the form of a set of drastic regulations under which:

The Capitol is closed to the public daily at 4:30, except when congress is in session, and admittance is only by special cards.

Guards are stationed at the subway entrances of the senate and house wings to scrutinize everyone going in and out and to examine all packages.

The Capitol's power plant is guarded 24 hours a day.

Plainclothes men accompany every group of sightseers.

All persons who summon members of the floor are kept under constant surveillance.

A constant police vigil is kept in the public galleries, in the restaurants, and at night, in all corridors inside, and the grounds outside.

One reason for these elaborate precautions is to prevent a recurrence of the bombing that took place in the Capitol prior to American entry into the last war. Planted in a senate reception room by a pacifistic college professor, the bomb exploded at midnight, July 2, 1915, and left the chamber a shambles.

Earlier that day the Washington Times received a letter from the perpetrator announcing his intention to bomb the Capitol "as an exclamation point to my appeal for peace." He was arrested several days later at Mineola, L. I. He committed suicide in his cell.

WILLKIE'S SPEECH

That acceptance speech Wendell Willkie is writing is one of the toughest jobs he's ever tackled! It can make him or break him.

Willkie has got to crack two of the hardest political nuts ever handed a G. O. P. standard bearer: the power issue and foreign policy.

Even under normal conditions the power issue is pure TNT, particularly in the West, which is strong for public power. For Willkie, with

Wheat Insurance Pays Here

All-risk crop insurance indemnity payments to Mills county growers who suffered losses have passed the $300.00 mark with adjustment work still going on.

Applications for indemnity payments have been filed by 16 wheat producers in the county for a total of 343.20, G. R. Goosby, Secretary of the county AAA committee, announced. Of these, 15 have already been certified to the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation and checks or wheat have been delivered to 14 growers.

Most loss claims in the county were due to drought, the secretary explained, with about five per cent of the loss claims constituting total losses, the producers receiving the full 75 per cent of their crop for which they were insured.

Indemnity payments are made either in bushels of wheat or the cash equivalent at the going market, the AAA secretary explained. If payment is taken in wheat, that wheat is eligible for a loan from the Commodity Credit Corporation, if the farmer wants to hold it for a better market by putting it under the loan.

In 1939, 12 crops were insured with three losses paid, two of which were total losses. Seventy wheat crops were insured in 1940 with 16 crops failing to make the amount insured. Of these 16 crops only one was a total loss.

Only Three Classes Eligible to Vote by Absentee Ballot

To those who wish to vote an absentee vote: will state that it seems that in the July primary election there was some confusion as to who was entitled to vote an absentee ballot. We find from the correct interpretation of the law that only three classes of voters are entitled to such votes. These are as follows:

First, the person who is out of the county and claims this county as his home.

Second, the person who lives in the county and expects to be out of the county on the day of the next primary election.

Third, the person who is sick and absolutely unable to get to the polling place. For such a person to obtain a ballot, he must make application to the county clerk for a ballot, and with this application must be sent a certificate from a regularly practicing physician, to the effect that he is unable to attend the polling place. This certificate must accompany the application, not be sent in afterward. A person who cannot make out his application for a ballot on account of physical disability may have an assistant to do it for him.

County Chairman.

479 Mattresses Made By County Citizens

Mills county cotton applicants have processed 479 standard, 50-pound mattresses from cotton and ticking provided by the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation. This project has progressed in Mills county under the direction of the county home demonstration agent, Emma Scott, the Adjustment Administrative Assistant, and approximately 125 community committee women and 50 community committee men. The splendid success of this project can be attributed to the fine cooperative spirit of these community leaders. Cotton centers have operated in 15 communities in the county. Three more will be opened when the third and last cotton and ticking order arrives.

This program grew out of the mattress making demonstrations offered by the county home demonstration agents in Texas and other southern states through which many farm women and 4-H girls learned to make mattresses in their homes. Since each family is supposed to process its own mattress and help others in the group with which they work, 479 Mills county families, including the mother, father, and the larger boys and girls know how to make a standard mattress.

One problem of the cotton situation lays in the lack of consumption, and as Director H. H. Williamson, of the Texas Extension Service, pointed out, these mattresses offer the quickest avenue of approach to the cotton consumption program. Mills county alone will consume 70 bales of cotton and 7000 yards of cotton ticking upon the completion of this project.

The 20-minute technicolor feature film, "The Flag Speaks," will be included on the Melba theater's program Sunday and Monday. The patriotic film has been widely acclaimed, and is shown in Goldthwaite under the sponsorship of the Harry F. Edmondson post of the American Legion. Post Commander John Skipper and the management of the theater were enthusiastic in their recommendation of the picture.

BLUE BONNET CLUB

The Blue Bonnet Club met with Mrs. Bacus last Tuesday, with 12 members present.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. M. L. Casbeer, Tuesday, Aug. 13.

Flood Control Survey Reports Good Progress

The Department of Agriculture, which is making a detailed flood control survey of the Middle Colorado River Watershed, under the Omnibus Flood Control Act of 1936, reports that the work is progressing satisfactorily. This survey has been under way since March 1, but until the present most of the work has been confined to the preliminary phases of the survey, which include making work plans and accumulating any published data concerning the watershed that may be existent.

For the next several months all three of the bureaus which are engaged in this survey expect to spend most of their time in the field obtaining first-hand information concerning land use practices. The soil conservation service and the Forest Service are interested in securing information on such items as types of soil, vegetative cover, and amount of erosion. The bureau of Agricultural Economics, after having made a study of the AAA records in each county in the watershed, has selected some typical or representative farm or ranch enterprises on which they hope to secure detailed information regarding ranching and farming practices. Experience has indicated that many useful suggestions come from individual farm and ranch men, and that a wealth of information can be obtained from these same individuals.

All three of the bureaus that are cooperating on this survey have their headquarters in Coleman with offices in the Office Building. L. W. Harvel of the Soil Conservation Service is the project leader.

STAR H. D. CLUB REPORT

The Star Home Demonstration Club met in the home economics building August 1, with our new president, Mrs. D. B. Thompson in the chair.

During the business meeting new members were enrolled. We planned a picnic supper for Aug. 15. Each member is to take sand wiches, cake and ice cream (to be made at the creek) for her family and guests.

The meeting was then turned over to Miss Scott who gave a very interesting talk and demonstration on the value, use and canning of tomatoes and tomato juice. We were then served delicious tomato juice.

HUNGRY RECRUITS

Not the Democratic Way!

From the Altus (Okla.) Times-Democrat

A dozen raw recruits for Uncle Sam's Army got on a bus we rode out of Oklahoma City last night. They were genuine Okies gathered by the Tulsa recruiting offices from the hills of eastern Oklahoma. Not one appeared to be over 20 years old and one lad in the crowd could have passed for 16. Quite obviously they were from relief families and they were joining the Army for a meal ticket. The boys stated that they had passed physical examinations, although one youngster looked anemic and another had a bad cough.

We applaud the patriotism of those boys and we hope Uncle Sam takes good care of them. But one thing is sure: The Army is hard up for new recruits, or better selections would be made. Not over two or three in that gang are physically fit at this time for hard labor and some of them never will be.

The men for this great army of defense that America is trying to organize must not come alone from families on relief. This war business is not a WPA project. It is unfair as well as dangerous to fill the Army and Navy with jobless boys who have nothing

Blockade As Offensive Weapon

The British blockade, recently extended to the whole of the European continent, remains today, after the demonstrated effectiveness of air power, England's major offensive weapon against Germany. The question agitating impartial military observers is: Can Britain check the dynamism of German aerial warfare sufficiently to allow its (Britain's) navy's war of attrition time enough to effect the ultimate objective—Nazi economic exhaustion, which must precede capitulation. The British think they can, and are busily strengthening their fighting forces with needed personnel to this end. At the Royal Naval College, in Greenwich, the two young officers shown above are being taught the importance of chemistry; it is a fact that no naval officer can hope for promotion unless he has attained a remarkably high standard of chemical knowledge. Below, students at the Naval College are let out after classes. In a few months they will be tangling with "Jerry."

MISS MARY M. BIGHAM WILL TEACH IN KNOX CITY

Denton.—Miss Mary Margaret Bigham of Goldthwaite, a 1940 graduate of the Texas State College for Women has just been employed as teacher of home economics in Knox City.

Taking a B. S. degree, Miss Bigham majored in vocational home economics and minored in general science. During her college career she was an outstanding student and a member of the student council.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sparks Bigham.

MILLS, BROWN COUNTIES PLAN SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT

Contract to Pave 5 Miles South Is Due In October

Officials of the Texas Highway Department have announced that contract for construction of five miles of paving south from Goldthwaite on Highway 16 will be let in October.

With the completion of this contract in Mills county, only a five-mile strip between the end of the new pavement and the Colorado river bridge will remain unfinished in the total distance between San Saba and Goldthwaite. Work has already begun on that part of the highway in San Saba county.

The highway department's statement was issued to County Judge R. J. Gerald, who with Mayor H. G. Bodkin visited the state offices in Austin this week.

Surveying has not been completed on the new right-of-way for Highway 16 north from Goldthwaite to Comanche.

4-H Boys Attend District Camp

Fifteen Mills county 4-H Club boys were accompanied by Charles Conrad, Big Valley 4-H club leader, and County Agent Sam Rosenberg to the District Seven 4-H encampment held at Lake Brownwood State Park, July 25 to 27. The boys and leaders reported a highly enjoyable time.

The district encampment is an annual event held by the nineteen counties in extension 7.

There were three-hundred and fifty club boys, leaders, and county agents at this summer's encampment.

Highlights of the camp program were rifle school, swimming and ball games. Thurman Randall of Dallas, a member of the International Rifle Team from the United States, and a coach of the team for several years, coached the boys in rifle practice. This part of the program was sponsored by the National Rifle Association and was greatly enjoyed by the boys.

Two picture shows, one of western cowboy life and the other of 4-H club work, and of the national encampment trip, were shown. The last two shows were in color and many attractive scenic views were included.

A. L. Smith, beef cattle specialist of the extension service, made several short talks about the livestock industry and about 4-H beef cattle feeding. R. E. Callender, wildlife specialist for the Extension Service, and Game Warden made short talks about wildlife and its necessary place in America's agriculture and also had a number of mounted trophies of wild game to show the group.

C. M. Caraway of De Leon, a member of the State Soil Conservation Board, spoke to the boys about soil conservation and the part 4-H Club boys could play in this very important work. Other speakers included Jack Shelton, vice-director and State Agent of the Extension Service, Judge E. M. Davis and Dr. Shelton, both of Brownwood, and L. L. Johnson and J. W. Potts of the Extension Service.

With three full days of fun and education mixed together and plenty of good food to eat, club boys were reluctant to see the encampment close.

4-H Club boys from Mills county who attended the encampment were: Gail Pyburn, Melvin Duren, Roddy Duren, Bobby Green, James Green, all of Duren; Daugherty Dunlap of Prairie, Loy Butts and Belve Bean of Mullin, Charles Hill of Goldthwaite, Winfred Soules of Star, Billy Hale, Billy Dennard, Ralph Woods, D. J. McConal and Charles Conrad of Big Valley and county agent Sam von Rosenberg.

A joint meeting of the Brown County Soil Conservation Committee and the Mills County Soil Conservation Committee was held Tuesday, July 23rd, at Mullin, Texas. These two committees came together to discuss the possibilities of grouping Brown and Mills counties into one proposed Soil Conservation District. These two county committees were represented by members of the County Soil Conservation Advisory Board, the County Land Use Planning Committee, and farmer-landowners, county agents, representatives of the Soil Conservation Service, Vocational Agriculture teachers, and AAA representatives were also present at the meeting. There were seven members of the Brown County Committee and 13 members of the Mills County committee present. Total attendance of the meeting was 29.

Willis Hill of Goldthwaite, was elected by the group to act as chairman of the meeting and G. Lucas of Brownwood was elected co-chairman. County agent Sam von Rosenberg was elected secretary of the meeting.

As expressed by all members of the group, there are many advantages of Mills and Brown counties grouping themselves together for one Soil Conservation District. Both counties have a great need for soil conservation. Much terracing, tank-building and contour furrowing is already underway in both counties and there is a need in both counties for greater facilities for this work. The CCC Camp and Soil Conservation Service which is now located at Brownwood is now doing work in both counties and will in the future be able to serve both counties in this work. These two counties are similar in soil types and practice similar farming and ranching methods which makes the soil conservation problems in both counties very much alike.

The Soil Conservation District which is now proposed for the two counties will provide a way, if created, for landowners to secure more help and assistance in doing soil conservation work, which is so badly needed. This district, if created, will be wholly and entirely in the hands of (Continued on Page Eight)

Pensioners to Get $10.86 This Month

Austin.—Texas' old age pensioners will receive an average of $10.86 for August which is an increase of 24 cents over the average July payment. Rolls now completed carry 119,052 pensioners.

A liberal increase in pension payments for September or October is expected with settlement of indebtedness that has kept down available pension disbursements.

A $200,000 installment on the debt will be paid this month, leaving $160,000 to be paid off in September to retire the debt which was originally $2,223,000. A special session of the State Welfare Board will be held in September to consider the situation.

When payment of the debt was ordered by the last legislature, pension payments took a drop of $6. Whether all will be restored was considered doubtful. Re-examinations required by the federal government have been made. Director Adam Johnson said.

TEXAS OUT-O'-DOORS

Quail Areas Total 88,735 Acres.

Forty-nine quail demonstration areas have been set up by the Texas Game, Fish and Oyster Commission in 45 counties of the state, according to a report by the director of wildlife restoration to the executive secretary of the Game Department. These areas total 88,735 acres.

Demonstration areas are set up with the aid of federal funds to show what can be done by way of restoring the crop of quail in various parts of the state. Fenced areas are constructed on most of the plots of ground, but various practices are followed in the providing of suitable habitat for the birds, the methods used depending upon the section of the state in which the areas are located.

Landowners interested in raising more quail visit the areas in large numbers and are given a visual example of how to proceed.

The largest of the quail demonstration areas is 4,000 acres and the smallest is 160. The areas average 1,775 acres. Fifteen of the areas are set up in central Texas, four in East Texas, 11 in south Texas, nine in the western part of the state and 10 in the Panhandle.

The project is one of a half dozen with which the Game Department is helping to restore game in the Lone Star State by the use of Pittman-Robertson federal funds. Three-fourths of the cost of the projects are borne by federal funds and the Game Department provides the other fourth.

Dallasite Makes Strange Catch.

Charley Jenkins of Dallas, an expert fisherman, now boasts a story of his own, about one of the strangest catches in the history of Texas. He made his strange catch in his own garage and was not even there at the time.

Jenkins was recently attracted by the howling of the family pup in the garage, where the fishermen had left some tackle. Upon investigation, Jenkins found a baby opossum had hooked himself squarely through the jaw.

Catching Big Gar.

Reports of anglers fishing for gar with the wire nooses recommended by the Game Department continue to reach the executive secretary of the Commission. Some extremely large gar are being caught in various parts of the state. The largest one hauled in and reported to Austin was by Earl Hennesdorf of San Angelo. His catch weighed 14 pounds, 5 ounces and was 50 1/2 inches long. Nine, ten and eleven pounders are not unusual.

It requires considerable skill to haul in the heavier gar on light tackle with the loops made of small wire.

Handle Fish Carefully.

When you catch a fish shorter than the legal length, give it a chance to survive, the executive secretary of the Game Department continues to urge. Wet your hands, grasp the fish by the lower lip with the thumb and forefinger and remove the hook as gently as possible. Release it into the water with much care.

Catches Huge Sawfish.

A fish which gave even anglers accustomed to making huge hauls a thrill was pulled in out of the Texas coastal waters recently by a fishing party composed of Tracy Suddugh, Leonard R. Roberts and C. F. Hoch. It was a sawfish which measured 18 feet, four inches and which weighed, it is estimated, 1,200 to 1,500 pounds.

The party was after Jewfish when the monster sawfish took the bait. Before the battle of nearly a half hour ended the monster had left several teeth in the stern of the launch Dorothy, which was badly battered by the sawfish.

The human eye is thousands of times more sensitive to light than any instrument made by man. Sunlight at noon is a million times brighter than the illumination given by a full moon, yet the eyes of the average person can see well under the two extremes of light.

A Meal To Make In Your Electric Roaster

By Katharine Fisher

Director, Good Housekeeping Institute

KATHARINE FISHER
Director of Good Housekeeping Institute

Lucky the woman who has a portable electric roaster to help with her summertime cooking. In it she can cook many a meal with a minimum of fuss, with cool comfort in the kitchen. The electric roaster won't take the place of a range, but it's versatile none the less. "Roaster" is really a misnomer, for it will bake, broil and cook whole meals, as well as roast. Being portable, you can use it on the porch or wherever there is an appliance outlet. Picnic meals can be cooked at home and carried to the picnic spot in the roaster. Wrapped in a motor rug it will keep the food warm for several hours. Try this dinner menu in your electric roaster.

- Buttered Canned Corn
- Lettuce, Cucumber and Scallion Salad

Glazed Ham Loaves

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

Use Institute-approved measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

- 1-lb. smoked ham, ground
- 1-lb. veal shoulder, ground
- 1/2 c. cracker crumbs
- 2 eggs, beaten slightly
- 1/2 c. bottled milk, or 2 tbs. evaporated milk and 2 tbs. water
- 2 tbs. minced onion
- 2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 tsp. pepper

Combine all the ingredients, and mix thoroughly. Shape into 5 or 6 individual loaves about 5" x 1 1/2" x 1 1/2". Place in the meat inset pan of the roaster, and cover with Brown Sugar Glaze. To make the glaze combine 1/2 c. vinegar and 1/2 c. water with 1 1/2 c. brown sugar and 2 tsp. prepared mustard; add about 8 whole cloves; boil together for 8 min., then pour over meat. Bake in preheated roaster at 400° F. for 1 hr. 45 min. Serves 4 or 5. To serve 2 or 3, make 1/2 this recipe.

Baked Zucchini

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

Use Institute-approved measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

- 6 small or 3 medium zucchini
- 1 1/2 c. peeled, sliced onions
- 4 tsp. salad oil or olive oil
- 1 1/2 tsp. salt
- 2 tbs. pepper
- 1 3/4-c. onion tomato sauce

Wash and cut the zucchini in 1/2" crosswise slices without paring. Place in vegetable pan of roaster, add sliced onions, oil, salt, pepper and tomato sauce. Cover and bake in preheated roaster at 400° F. for 1 hr. 45 min. Serves 6. To serve 2 or 3, make 1/2 this recipe.

Meringue Cake with Crushed Raspberries

(Tested by Good Housekeeping Institute)

Use Institute-approved measuring cups and spoons. Measure level.

- 4 tbs. shortening
- 1 c. granulated sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1 1/2 c. sifted cake flour
- 2 tsp. baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1 tbs. milk
- 1/2 tsp. vanilla, extract
- 2 tbs. boxes raspberries, crushed and sweetened

Cream shortening by mashing it with a spoon until creamy. Add 1/2 c. of the sugar gradually, creaming well after each addition. Add egg yolks one at a time while beating. Sift together flour, baking powder and salt, and add to mixture alternately with combined milk and vanilla. Pour into greased cake pan 8 x 8 x 2 inches. Then beat the egg whites until foamy with a rotary beater; add the remaining 1/2 c. sugar, 2 tbs. at a time while beating, and beat until the mixture peaks. Pile on cake. Bake on rack suggested by manufacturer, in preheated roaster at 350° F. for 50 min. Remove, let stand 10 min., then loosen edges. Invert cake rack, remove pan and quickly turn right side up. Serve in squares, topped with raspberries. Serves 8.

IN USING AN ELECTRIC BEATER let shortening stand at room temperature until soft. Cream it for 1 min. at high speed. Add the sugar gradually with the beater still at high speed. After all the sugar is added, scrape the bowl and beat 1 min. longer. Add the egg yolks, one at a time, and beat 1 min. after each addition, still using high speed. Scrape the bowl with a spatula or cake scraper, or reverse the bowl; beat mixture a few seconds longer. Now, turn the beater to the lowest speed and add the dry ingredients which have been sifted together, alternately with the milk to which the vanilla has been added, as rapidly as possible, about one-quarter of each at a time. Scrape the bowl and beat a few seconds longer.

Southwestern To Enter Its Second Century Sept. 16

Georgetown.—"We are entering our second century with the brightest outlook of our entire history," said President John W. Bergin, in speaking of the forthcoming opening of the 101st session of Southwestern university Sept. 16.

Advance registrations indicate a full enrollment for the coming year. Limited to 500 students, the Southwestern student body has an average of one instructor to every 15 students, thus giving the opportunities for personal attention and individualized education. Southwestern, a four-year coeducational liberal arts college, is one of the few denominational colleges of Texas which enjoys the highest academic rating in the Southern Association of Colleges.

Believing that the development of leadership and personality is an important part of a college education, the Southwestern administration encourages active participation of all its students in extra-curricula activities. With its limited student body it is possible for each student to play an active part in some phase of campus life.

A complete athletic program is carried on during the year, offering sports activities to all students. R. M. Medley, head coach of the Pirate football and basketball teams, is director of athletics, and Rhea Williams is director of an intramural sports program in which over 80 per cent of the students participated last year.

The Southwestern chorus and the Southwestern band are two outstanding collegiate musical organizations. Directed by Madame Margarita Slaviansky, the chorus has gained an enviable reputation for its distinctive choral interpretations, and presents many concerts during the year. The band under the direction of Tom Johnson, is a limited organization in which all of the membership is selective, and during the year makes an annual 1,000-mile tour.

Speech and debate teams, and the Mask and Wig club, offer opportunity for valuable experience to dramatic art and law students.

These clubs are sponsored by the speech department, headed by Prof. T. H. Marsh.

Latest addition to the campus, the new west gymnasium, will be opened with the beginning of the fall semester. The gymnasium and the new Cody Memorial library are two of the accomplished objective of President Bergin's five-point program. Other accomplishments during the past five years include the liquidation of all indebtedness, increasing the size of the faculty, betterment of the academic standing of the institution, and the celebration of the Southwestern centennial of a century of service to youth, which was held last April. —Temple Daily Telegram.

Sour Cream

College Sta.—The tragedy of sour cream may be turned into a triumph if it is baked in a baked fish dish, or for baked veal chops or cutlets, or for gravy.

Nora Ellen Elliot, foods preparation specialist of the Texas A&M college extension service comes up with this argument:

Fish and veal are often seasoned with lemon and butter. The acid of soured cream corresponds to the lemon and the cream supplies the fat.

The method is to season the fish with salt and put it in a very hot oven for about five minutes. Then add sour cream to cover, sprinkle with bread crumbs, and bake at a moderate temperature until the fish is tender and the crumbs are brown.

Veal chops and cutlets are first pan-broiled and then baked in the sour cream.

And Miss Elliott points out that sour cream makes a gravy that

Salt Is Good Cramp Preventive

AUSTIN—If your work is such that it causes excessive perspiration, add a pinch of ordinary table salt to each drink of water you take to help prevent heat cramps. This is advised by Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, to forestall a possible increase in the number of heat victims as the Texas thermometer hits 90 degrees and above.

Laborers, mechanics, farmers, and white collar workers whose work causes them to sweat profusely are in danger of having their body salt content become deficient, with resulting heat cramps or heat lag. Salt is a prominent constituent of sweat; the body may lose as high as 40 to 50 grams of salt during hot days.

In industry, a method of preventing heat cramps is to take a tablet of pure salt and dextrose with each drink of water. Workmen whose duties require muscular exertion should be especially careful to add more than the usual amount of salt to food and drink.

Salt deficiency may be prevented by taking salt in various ways. Where prepared salt tablets are not available, table salt may be added to each drink of water. Milk is a source of salt and will help make up for the deficiency caused by sweating. Alcoholic drinks should be avoided.

Heat cramp is characterized by pains (cramps) in the abdominal region, headache, and in severe cases, by nausea and vomiting. The body temperature remains about normal, likewise the pulse rate. Body salt losses occur without the knowledge of the individual until there is a deficiency; then the abdominal muscles begin to cramp.

Farmers to Teach V. A. Teachers

College Station.—It looks like anything might happen in 1940. The routine will be revolutionized here when approximately 600 Texas teachers of vocational agriculture meet at Texas A&M college for the annual statewide conference, August 7-10, when farmers are scheduled to teach the teachers.

R. A. Manire, Austin, director of vocational agriculture, said, "Our teachers of vocational agriculture need to find out more about farmer thinking." Ten farmers, one future farmer and two non-farmers will be the speakers.

The subjects of discussion will range from "Problem and Policies for Triple A, through Developing District Programs for Soil and Water Conservation" to Agricultural Economics from the Farmer's Point of View.

Farmers who will do the teaching include: Walter Hammond, Tye; Peter Harton, Danevang; Romeo Korth, Ecletto; V. C. Marshall, Heidenheimer; R. C. Miller, Orange Grove; Leo Owen, Sinton; V. A. Peterson, Danevang; George Slaughter, Wharton; Tom Walton, Groveton; and Jess Watson, Newcastle. The future farmer will be R. C. Scruggs, newly elected president, Texas Association of the Future Farmers of America. The two non-farmers will be Director Manire and J. B. Rutland, Austin, state supervisor, FFA.

Manire said that these men have been selected because they have become leaders among farmers in their own communities and in the state as well.

Part of every Texas oil dollar finds its way INTO YOUR POCKET

EVERY merchant in our State—every business and professional man—every worker, shares in Texas oil's huge expenditures. Many Texas cities with all their varied businesses and employment exist and prosper today because of oil. Last year petroleum created a direct buying power in our state of 550 million dollars. Of this, Texas retail merchants received 324 million dollars, landlords 44 million, utilities 38 million and professional men 22 million, while 83 million more went for insurance and savings. This huge sum is distributed and redistributed in an endless chain of income for our State and its people. Texas oil payrolls are over 60 per cent of all the wages paid to all Texas workers. Directly or indirectly, you get a part of your income from oil. If you're a Texan, you're in the oil business.

Ebony

By Clementine Wilmeth Briley

The Church of Christ revival conducted by Paul McClung of Gilmer will continue until Sunday night, August 11. Dinner on the ground Sunday. Everybody cordially invited to attend.

Mrs. Wood Roberts had to go to Brownwood to the doctor again Saturday. She is not improving as fast as we would like to see her, but has been a little better the last few days. Since she is not able to do her home duties, she and Mr. Roberts are staying at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Billie McNurlin, for a few days.

We congratulate Mr. and Mrs. Charm Whittenburg on the arrival of a second son, Jack Alden, born Tuesday, July 30, at a Brownwood hospital. Mrs. Whittenburg and the baby are being cared for at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. R. Reid. Both are doing well.

After being isolated from the rest of the world because of no phone connection for sometime, Ebony has again phone connection with Brownwood. A toll box has been installed at the Ebony post office.

FOR REPRESENTATIVE

SETH MOORE

The time has come, friends, when your representative must do something besides vote. If old age pensions and social security obligations are financed and a truck law of 20,000 pounds passed, then we must have a representative at Austin who will do something besides just vote. He must have the ability and, above all, the backbone to stand up and fight for your rights. He must bear in mind that he is representing the people and not himself. I want you people to realize that this is not Seth Moore's fight, but a fight for the common citizens of this district.

Now, if you just want a man to cast votes, I can do that by telephone and stay here in Goldthwaite, thereby saving the state some $1600.00, but if you want a representative—then you must have a man who has the ability and backbone to tell those high-collared lobbyists at Austin that he is representing the people and nothing they will say can change his mind.

Friends, I have no strings tied to me. I am not obligated to any click or clan or organization, in anyway, as some representatives are. I am free to act and talk in your behalf. No man or organization can seal my mouth, for I intend to use it to represent you as you should have been represented in the past.

Thanking you for your confidence in the past. Here is hoping I will see you all at Goldthwaite Saturday, August 10.

As ever,
 SETH MOORE

DON'T NEGLECT FUNDAMENTALS IN YOUR NEW HOME

1 This is a corner of the foundation and footings. Your whole house rests upon it. It can never be replaced.

2 This is the same foundation with timber skeleton now in place. Again here is a part of your home that can never be replaced.

Glitter of Gadgets Often Distracts Builder From Quality Where It's Needed Most

Are you building a house for the first time? Then chances are you are in kind of a daze. There are so many things to decide, so many things to buy, so many more things you want and can't buy because there is just so much money. Now there's nothing less glamorous than the concrete footings and foundation. One doesn't show them off to one's friends, but if you skimp on either, you'll be busy for years to come trying to cover up cracked walls that all your friends will see.

Don't Skimp On Framework
 Likewise the timber skeleton or frame of your house is going to be all covered up, but if you skimp on it you'll have sagging floors that squeak at every step.

And how about those great big holes in the wall, the rough window openings. You can buy windows and window frames to fill these holes pretty cheap. And you'll pay for them for years to come in heat loss, drafty floors and wet walls. Or, you can buy carefully designed, precision built and factory fitted windows and window frames complete with weatherstrip that will be a joy and a comfort every year that you live in your house. Yes, and you'll find that the extra cost was money well spent because of heat bills, repair bills and redecorating bills saved.

Can't Replace Windows

Good windows are a permanent part of your walls. They protect your investment in insulation and quality construction. Any home without weathertight windows is only one-half insulated. So when you build, get down to fundamentals. Always remember—you can add the gadgets any time, but you can't replace footings or timbers or windows. They've got to be good right from the start.

Secretary Hull Calls For Sacrifices

Washington.—Secretary of State Cordell Hull today called upon all Americans to be "ready and willing for real sacrifice of time and substance, and for hard personal service" in order to create an unbreakable resistance to forces of aggression.

His views were contained in a statement which he issued thru the State Department without explanation. Observers viewed the statement as designed to support the general administration program of preparedness. He did not mention conscription specifically however.

Hull, who now is vacationing at White Sulphur Springs, Va., pointed out that a basis for continental defense had been established at the recent Pan-American consultative conference at Havana. He said that it was up to the United States to be ready to back up that compact by action.

"The one and only sure way for our nation to avoid being drawn into serious trouble or actual war by the wild and destructive forces now abroad and elsewhere in the world, and to command respect for its rights and interest abroad," Hull said, "is for our people to become thoroughly conscious of the possibilities of danger, to make up their minds that we must continue to arm and to arm to such an extent that the forces of conquest and ruin will not dare make an attack upon us or any part of this hemisphere."

Olga Schwartz who has been in a San Angelo hospital is at home again.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

ACTION SHOOTING

A subject such as this will make a good "action sequence"—a series of pictures showing the complete toss, step by step. Pose your subject in "slow motion," and it's easy.

ACTION shooting is one of the most interesting phases of amateur photography—and good action pictures can be obtained with any camera, if you know how.

To "stop" true fast action, and get sharp pictures, you need a fast shutter—one that can be adjusted to 1/400 or 1/500 second. Such a camera is a wise investment if you intend to do much shooting of unposed action subjects—you simply set the shutter for top speed, adjust the lens opening for correct exposure at that speed, and fire away.

With slower cameras, however, you can still get good action pictures if you pose your subject in slow motion. Let him go through the natural motions of the sport—golf, tennis, or whatever you choose—but have him move as slowly as possible. Then shoot when the action looks most effective.

This trick will work for box cameras, as well as the many excellent folding cameras whose shutters adjust no higher than 1/100 second. And it is marvelously effective if well done, the pictures retaining a genuine appearance of fast action.

Interesting action "sequences" can be made in the manner just described. For example, a series of a young woman tossing a beach ball. Two or three shots of the swing, each at a different point; a fourth with the ball barely supported by her finger tips; a fifth with her arms fully extended and the ball out of the picture. Such a sequence is easily obtained if the subject goes through the action very slowly several times—and it is surprisingly effective when the pictures are mounted in proper order in your album.

In all action shooting, take care not to become excited, or you may press the shutter release too jerkily—moving the camera and blurring the shot. When taking a posed-action shot, of a subject that will stay in one place, it's often a good idea to put the camera on a tripod or some other firm support.

Try your hand at action shots—including a few sequences such as that outlined above. It's interesting photography—and good, lively shots of this type add spice to your album.

GLASS HOUSES

WHAT they promise in their advertisements, and what they deliver in their merchandise, are right there for all to see.

If they deliver what they promise, they make friends and steady customers. If not they make enemies, lose patronage and finally go out of business.

Those are the cold, hard reasons why honesty is the best policy—especially in advertising.

But the real fact is that advertisers as a class are humanly jealous of their good names. The trade-marks of manufacturers and the published recommendations of merchants are only accorded to products which they can offer you with confidence and pride.

"Get wisdom, get understanding; forget it not; neither decline from the words of my mouth. Forsake her not, and she shall preserve thee."—Prov. 4:5, 6a.

A WAY TO RETRENCH

Announcement by Social Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt that the ranks of the Civilian Conservation Corps are now open to college students coming from low income homes recalls the fact that when it was organized in 1933, the CCC was made up entirely of youths in actual need. Recently the regulations were relaxed to permit the entry of deserving youths whose families though not on the relief rolls were not able to provide for them as they would like. Now the entrance requirements are being made still easier, and a proposal has actually been made to exempt CCC enrollees from conscription!

This calls attention to one of the frequent dangers of government projects. When the actual need which called them into being is ended, their administrators invariably attempt to perpetuate them under one excuse or another.

The fact that billions of dollars are being blithely appropriated by Congress these days for national defense does not lessen the need for curtailment of other governmental expenses. It makes such curtailment all the more necessary. If the CCC cannot find enough youths on relief to fill its ranks, then it should be reduced. The work that it is doing is non-essential in times like these and should be so treated.

While much of the work accomplished by the CCC is valuable, there is little, if any, of it which has not cost far more, all factors considered, than it would have cost if contracted for by the lowest bidder. Surely it is not right to continue more camps than are required to give employment to those youths whose families are dependent upon them.

Another consideration is the fact that the CCC camps are largely administered by men who belong to the Army officers reserve corps. Since the President now seeks to give these officers military training, their places will have to be filled by other men recruited from private life. If the CCC camps can be drastically reduced, their replacement will be made with less interference to industry.

From every consideration except that of bureaucracy, now is the time to reduce the CCC.

A. Yes. The Hospital for crippled and deformed children located in Galveston provides for treatment of crippled children under 14 years of age.

Q. Does the Crippled Children's Division of the State Department of Education send children only to the State Hospital in Galveston?

S.S. America Adds Distinction to U.S. Merchant Marine

The commissioning of the United States Lines' new luxury liner America, scheduled to pull out of New York harbor August 10 on her maiden voyage, adds to the American merchant marine the largest passenger ever built in this country and the most outstanding ship to be constructed thus far in the vast building program laid down by the United States Marine Commission which calls for the construction of 500 merchant vessels within the next ten years.

The new vessel, barred from the North Atlantic trade, for which she was designed, by the neutrality act, will inaugurate a fortnightly schedule of vacation voyages to neutral ports in the West Indies, calling at St. Thomas, Virgin Islands; San Juan, Puerto Rico; Port-au-Prince in Haiti, and at Havana.

The contract for the America was signed on October 21, 1937, and work began at once at the yards of the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock company. The keel was laid on August 22, 1938. On August 31 of the following year, in the presence of 30,000 people gathered for the launching, Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt broke a bottle of champagne on the bow of the big liner and formally christened her.

Outward appearance, the big boat is distinctive, with curved raking stem, high freeboard forward and modern streamlined treatment of the curving bridge front and superstructure. The unusual design of the two widely spaced streamlined stacks with winged "sampan" tops to deflect soot from the sports deck, and a glass-enclosed promenade deck 514 feet long with windows extending from floor to ceiling, create an impression of grace, power and speed, and make her easily distinguishable from other vessels.

The America's length of 723 feet, and her 26,454 gross tons make her the largest liner ever built in an American yard. She has a maximum molded beam measurement of 93' 3", molded depth of 92' 4" to the sports deck and is designed for a service speed of 20 knots, and a reserve speed of 23 knots. Accommodations are provided for 1202 passengers and she will require a crew of 643.

The ship's main propulsion machinery consists of triple expansion turbines located in one engine room, designed to deliver 34,000 shaft horsepower with a propeller speed of 128 r.p.m.

According to Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, there are at least 500,000 farm families which are in urgent need of rehabilitation loans but have been unable to get them because of the limited funds available.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE WORKS AND THE WORD OF GOD

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 19. GOLDEN TEXT—Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer.—Psalm 19:14.

Consistently beautiful and beautifully consistent is the revelation of God, whether it be in the glory of His works, in the perfection of His Word, or in His gracious dealings with man. The spiritually minded man sees God in all of His works, whereas the blind materialist sees only matter and natural laws which he may use or abuse. He makes of God's creation things for his own comfort or for the destruction of his fellow men, not recognizing "the Creator, who is blessed forever." This is a serious matter, for in so doing the unbeliever has "changed the truth of God into a lie" (read Rom. 1:20-25).

The psalmist here presents God as He is revealed in nature, in His Word, and in the heart of man.

I. God's Glory Revealed in Nature (vv. 1-6).

"The heavens declare the glory of God." The sun in all its glory and power and the starry stillness of the night all "utter forth a glorious voice," as Joseph Addison expresses it:

"Forever singing, as they shine, 'The hand that made us is divine.'" Nature speaks eloquently of God without saying a single word. The eye, the mind, and the heart of man may see in and know from nature alone the "eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse" (Rom. 1:20). "No man living beneath the copes of heaven dwells beyond the bounds of God's court preachers."

Those who do not hear or heed these voices, whether their ears "are stopped with the clay of earthly tastes and occupations, or stupefied with scientific wadding of the most modern kind" (Maclaren), are described by Paul as having their foolish heart darkened: "Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools" (Rom. 1:21, 22).

Nature gives only a limited revelation of God, showing His existence, power and wisdom; but to really know Him we must see

II. God's Perfection Revealed in His Word (vv. 7-11).

Nowhere in the book of nature is it written that God is a Redeemer, a cleanser from sin, a restorer of the soul. That truth is found only in His Word—the Bible. What folly then for sinful men who need redemption to see God only in nature, but never look into His Word or go to church that they may hear His truth proclaimed. The final and perfect revelation of God is in His Son, Jesus Christ, the Redeemer. The psalmist with the eye of faith saw the perfection of God revealed in His law. We are privileged to "know the Son of God who came not 'to destroy the law . . . but to fulfill."

Note the beautiful symmetry of verses 7-9:

Law perfect, restoring (R. V.)
Testimony sure making wise
Statutes right rejoicing
Commandment pure enlightening
Fear clean enduring
Judgments true altogether righteous

Little wonder that the psalmist says that the words of God are sweeter than honey, more precious than gold, and worthy to be heeded and kept. The great reward of thus knowing God's Word is that we may learn of

III. God's Grace Revealed in the Heart of Man (vv. 12-14).

Man is a sinner; sometimes he sins unwittingly and ignorantly; sometimes deliberately and in premeditation; and sometimes both. What shall he do with his sin? The psalmist says to bring it to God in repentance and prayer for cleansing. We may add to his invitation the admonition to come for cleansing in the blood of Christ.

"Come to this fountain, so rich and sweet; cast thy poor soul at the Saviour's feet; Plunge in today, and be made complete; Glory to His name!"

God's grace not only cleanses—it keeps us. He is able and willing to make not only the words of our mouth, but the very meditation of our hearts acceptable in His sight. That means holy living. There is nothing more needed in our day than a revival of Christian living in the daily responsibilities of life. Personal purity of heart and motive, recognition of God's Word in thought and life—these things will make the believer "upright" (v. 13) and reflect honor and glory on the Lord who is our "strength" (R. V. "rock") and "redeemer" (v. 14).

Principle Holds Good

Except a man become like a little child, we are told, he cannot enter into the kingdom of heaven. This principle holds good in other kingdoms as well. Unless we become as humble as a child and are willing to be taught we cannot enter into the kingdom of music, or art, or knowledge, or scientific agriculture.

It Sure Has Been A Lesson to Me—

The next time I see a June bug on his back, pawing desperately at the air, I'm not going to pass him by. No, sir, I'm going to set him right side up with care and let him buzz away because I know just how he feels.

This business of lying on your back, staring at the spots on the ceiling for three weeks is no joke anyway you look at it. And if for over two of those weeks you have an infernal machine strapped around your shoulders with a metal buckle in the middle of your back, it's downright boring.

I'm not going to talk about the auto accident that put me in bed. I've a good flyer friend who says accidents don't just happen, they are caused, and until every driver really learns the lesson that he has no control over the other fellow's car and that any guess he makes as to what it is going to do may turn out wrong, there will continue to be accidents. If I haven't learned this lesson now, it hasn't been for lack of time and opportunity to study it.

Although I've flown a good many hours and thousands of miles, and have driven in three different countries including a good many states and cities in the U. S. A., I'd never been in an accident where anyone was even so much as scratched or where the car was damaged more than a few dents. But when I did get initiated, I got all 32 degrees at once. If anyone had told me I would be in a wreck going to work, in town, in broad daylight in which my car would be wrecked beyond repair and I would be put in the hospital, I wouldn't have believed it. But I've learned my lesson now.

More than that, I've learned how good it feels when a pain stops, how fine it is to get home from the hospital, how welcome sleep is when you've run out of sheep to count, how tasty new dishes can be, how interesting the radio usually is and how good it is to be able to turn it off when you have had enough, how smart you feel when you take those first few tottery steps and how comfortable the old bed is afterwards, how interesting a friendly letter is, and how it feels to have more time on your hands than you have any use for.

But I'm mighty glad to say that these are not the only lessons I have learned. I've learned again how many good friends I have, people who have really put themselves out to be of service or to offer their help and to inquire about me and to send their sympathy and good wishes. It makes me ashamed that I have missed so many opportunities to prove my friendship to other sufferers in the past.

I have learned that even under unfavorable and uncomfortable conditions it is much better to look forward with optimism than to look backward with useless regret, and that no experience can be wholly bad if we will profit from the lesson learned.

But the thing I have learned most and oftenest because no one has failed to remind me of it at least once is that "IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE."

As the horse thief said just before the vigilantes strung him up, "This sure is going to be a lesson to me."

Kathleen Norris Says:

Better Days Are Ahead

(Bell Syndicate—WNU Service.)

This war will end. Humiliations will be swallowed; prices will be paid; hearts broken; children starved or destroyed by malnutrition; the dead will be buried; and a great many loud voices will be silenced by death.

By KATHLEEN NORRIS

TWO pamphlets came to my desk this morning, from the Writers Anti-War bureau for Anti-War Mobilization. If your interior economy, like mine, has been in something of a quiver of irrepresible terror over the war news of late, over the horrors that pour in upon us from the telephone, radio, movie news, press, the two treatises together form a fine tonic for today's excitement and hysteria; the "frantic boast and foolish word" of Germany and Italy are affecting us all, and we are already looking skyward to see the parachute troops darkening our free skies.

A victorious Germany, this article reminds us, won't be much better off than a defeated France and England. Famine is staring all Europe in the face now, victors and vanquished alike.

Policing Task Tremendous.
The complete picture of Hitler's policing job would look like this, according to the pamphlet. Forty-two million Frenchmen, forty-six million British; seventeen million Belgians and Dutch; plus Norwegians, Poles, Danes, Czechs, Austrians and Luxembourgers will bring the total to over one hundred fifty million persons.

"Most of these," the essay states, "are more bitterly opposed to Hitler than we are—they have more reason to be. Furthermore, inside Germany itself all is not well. With this threatening mass of hatred around him, Hitler would probably think more than twice before he looked around for more enemies."

Friends Now, Foes Later.
The article goes on to sketch the situation of a completely triumphant Germany, holding a very shaky truce with Russia, it is true, but Stalin is none too comfortable a neighbor, and holding with Italy one of those compacts which, as we've all seen in the last disgraceful weeks, is all ready to be transferred to any new winner, as soon as that winner is declared.

But suppose all that settled, and the European peoples, one hundred and fifty million strong, meekly herded into line; then we are to imagine Hitler turning toward us. His dead buried, the crippled activities of a dozen nations mended and shakily busy once more, the inevitable famine of the awful winter of 1940-41 somehow survived, and the dictators themselves still alive—which is always a big assumption—then they're ready for us. The plan would be to establish a great military base in one of the Central American countries. But hundreds of thousands of men must be landed there before a gun can be fired, lines of communication opened, and guns, tanks, ammunition, hospitals, commissary, the tremendous staffs of engineers and mechanics made available. Raw country must be opened, and the complete co-operation of the entire invaded country assured. And what would we be doing?

Odds in Our Favor.
Maj. Gen. Johnson Hagood, chief of staff, line of communications, A. E. F., says that we have only five points in the United States at which enemy forces could disembark. All the while he was getting ashore his fighters, barges, piers, cranes, special equipment, we would be right in our own country, with inexhaustible supplies at our backs. Military experts maintain, says this authority, that our navy and airplanes could stop Hitler long before he got anywhere near our shores.

Obviously, an invading army, especially across one of the great

DON'T BE AFRAID
America is as free from danger of invasion as she ever was, Kathleen Norris believes. She points out that many years will pass before Hitler can be ready to attack us, and a lot of things can happen in that time. If he does try to come over here, his invading fleets would be stopped long before they reached our shores, Miss Norris points out.

Oceans, is at a disadvantage. That's why we are as nearly invincible at home as any country can be. That's why it seems, to many women at least, a foolish thing to carry naval threats too far away from home. Taking care of ourselves, maintaining a dignified attitude to national troubles overseas that are neither understood by us nor of our making, would seem the wiser policy. It would seem the characteristic American policy. For while we are willing to help in every other possible way, and have so helped and while we are willing to give political recognition to totalitarian governments everywhere, and have so given it, it is too much to expect a normally peaceful and friendly nation that she be scared into sharing in wars she did nothing to create.

Life Will Go On.
This war will end. Humiliations will be swallowed; prices will be paid; hearts broken; children starved or destroyed by malnutrition; the dead will be buried; and a great many loud voices will be silenced by death. And when we'll all emerge, adjusted to the new conditions, recognizing a little less power and pride in this nation, a little more power and pride in that, a tag of territory clipped off here and attached there.

And for the great mass of European women the day's problem will be what it always was: a job for the man, a welcome for the new baby, a little less butter perhaps and fewer exchanges of old cars for new; pleasures that can't be kept away where there is health and work and love; reconciliation to new ideas—ideas which will be fading and blending and changing into the old ideas before they are fairly accepted.

It Has Happened Before.
For the face of Europe has been war-riddled and the boundaries of Europe changed incessantly for one thousand years. Spain ruled the Netherlands by inherited right; Poland has been anybody's and everybody's; Calais was Queen Mary's; Alsace and Lorraine have to look in the glass every morning to see whether they're French or German; autocracy starved and shot down the people of Russia within the memory of man; nothing that can happen there today can surprise them after what they knew in 1905, and all the long centuries before 1905. Spain has had a dozen insurrections in a hundred years; her kings disappear, reappear, fly again. Napoleon thought he owned Holland and Italy, and sallied gallantly into Russia across what wasn't yet Belgium, in 1800. In a generation or two all the countries lapsed back to their original positions, if indeed European countries may be said to have such things.

So "sursum corda." Which is one way of saying: "Lift up your hearts." Our own history is a gallant one—unafraid, friendly, contented within its own borders. Our northern neighbors are united to us by more than one hundred years of friendship. Our two great oceans give us a protection that any European nation will envy. We are not thieves; we buy what we want and keep the friendship of the purchaser. The world laughed at us when we bought Alaska, at the Gadsden Purchase, the Louisiana Purchase, when we made compensation for the Philippines. But that was wise dealing. France, Spain, Russia aren't trying to steal anything back from us, as a result. Let the other nations learn that lesson and we'll have a better world.

Don't be afraid.

Rock Springs

By Mrs. Eula Nickols

Believe it or not I have pretty white stationary with lines. I visited our Editor last Tuesday afternoon, but didn't find her at home, so I got acquainted with one of the young men I hadn't met who gave me the nice paper. Well, as to the hot weather. I don't see how we can stand many more days like Sunday was but I feel sure we will have more just such days if it doesn't rain pretty soon.

Ernest Strickland and daughter and her son from Brady spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Roberts.

Mrs. Rudolph Cooke is enjoying ironing with an electric iron. Horace Cooke made her a present of it.

Last Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock I joined Miss Maudie Bell Kirby, now Mrs. Price, with more of her friends in Mrs. Bert Wright's home for a bridal shower. It was a terribly warm afternoon. Mrs. Wright had her electric fan going, so no one died. Mmes. Wright and Richard had everything well arranged, especially the nice cold punch which everyone enjoyed. Maudie Bell received lots of nice gifts which I am sure she appreciated very much. We all wish Maudie Belle a long and happy life.

Mrs. Eula Nickols spent Tuesday in Center Point visiting in the Hutchings and Self homes.

Landy Ellis and wife spent last week on their vacation. They were hunting a location as Walton Daniel has bought their place. Walton and family will move the first of the year. We will hate very much to give Mr. and Mrs. Ellis up, as they have been good neighbors. We hope they don't move too far away.

Miss Billie Ruth Daniel went to Stephenville Sunday with Philip Nickols and wife and Roberta Robertson of Big Valley.

SAVE THOSE OLD MAGAZINES

Austin—Remember that box of magazines in the attic? Don't take a sudden spurt of ambition one of these days and burn the lot—instead, send them to the University of Texas' library.

That's the plea of Donald Conroy, University librarian, who points out that popular magazines, even the pulp-paper ones like Argosy, have their value to University research students.

"They mirror their own times," he declared. "In tracing a record of the changing times they are quite worth having."

Due to the expense involved, the University library has not been able to keep up files of Collier's, Liberty, Ladies' Home Journal, Woman's Home Companion, St. Nicholas and other of similar nature, he explained.

"But there should be such files in many Texas homes, and we would appreciate knowing of their whereabouts," he said.

EVERY HOME IS BUILT AROUND ITS WINDOWS

Sponsor of Famous World's Fair Home Points Out Importance of Good Windows

By W. Wadsworth Wood
Director, National Small Home Bureau

New York City — Few people, when they build a new home, seem to realize the importance of windows. Yet every home is built around them. This is literally true in two different ways. First, the frame of your house is actually built around its window openings. Take a look at a home under construction sometime. Notice how the framing timbers around every window opening are doubled.

H. D. COUNCIL REPORT

"A trip to the A&M College for the summer Short Course is time and money well spent." So ran the comment of each of the five delegates who reported their experiences at the county council of H. D. clubs in Miss Scott's office last Saturday, August 3.

Mrs. Oran Carothers went as a delegate from the county council. Miss Mary Beth Miller was sent by the council for her outstanding 4-H Club work. Mrs. Geo. Fletcher of Mullin was awarded a trip as first prize in the dress revue. Mrs. Jess Massey was a delegate from Lake Merritt, Miss Edith Hale from Scallorn, and Mrs. Fred Reynolds who was unable to be present Saturday, was sent by the Goldthwaite club. Aside from the helpful information brought back by these delegates, the interest and enthusiasm engendered by these trips more than repay the clubs that send them.

August being vacation month, each club plans its own program. These meetings usually take the form of a picnic or ice cream supper. Midway reported a picnic scheduled for August 17, Scallorn a chicken barbecue at the Ohlenbusch Ranch, August 3, Star a picnic for August 15, Priddy an ice cream supper, date not yet set, while Pleasant Grove had an ice cream supper on July 26.

Miss Scott announced that a chicken clinic would be held here late in August or early in September by specialists from A&M. She also reported that to date 468 mattresses had been received in Mills county. Total applications verified were 699. Even at the low estimate of $10 per mattress this means much to the county.

Plans for the next year book were discussed at length and available courses of study were given to each delegate to submit to her club for selection. Reports of votes are to be given at the October council meeting.

Those present were Meses. J. C. Ellis, Priddy; A. C. Miller and Oran Carothers, Pleasant Grove; Geo. White, Priddy; Jake Brown, W. E. Garner and Jess Massey, Lake Merritt; Lester Kerby, Midway; Lora Lindsey and Della Keiso, Ridge; F. M. Tillman and Geo. Fletcher, Mullin; John Edlin and W. A. Shotwell, Star; Harvey Hale and E. D. Rober-

Second, the arrangement of your rooms, the arrangement of your furniture, is all done around the windows. Available wall space is largely determined by windows. On the outside the architectural harmony is largely determined by the placing or grouping of windows.

Thus you see how important windows are just from appearance alone. But appearance, important as it is, is only half of the story. Here are some of the other things that a good window should do:

Keep cold air out. Keep warm air in. Keep cool air in. Keep hot air out. Keep insects out. Keep dirt and dust out. Work freely under all conditions without rattling. Provide ventilation when open. Be watertight when closed. Let light in. Give clear vision out. Add beauty to your home. Harmonize with your style of architecture.

No other architectural feature in a house must perform so many functions.

his Wall Street and utility background, the handling of this issue so it doesn't explode in his face is doubly delicate.

Perhaps even more difficult is the question of foreign affairs and its closely related problem of compulsory military service. On the latter, Willkie has never declared himself and the Republican platform also is silent.

Roosevelt has declared for "universal training," although so far he has not expressed a view on the pending bill. But his leaders are for it and it's generally considered an administration measure.

On foreign policy, particularly on aid to the British, the President's record is an open book. And so was Willkie's until he was nominated. Since that moment not one word has come from him on this all-important topic, though he has talked daily on various other matters.

It didn't leak out at the time, but when Willkie visited Washington early last month, the G. O. P. isolationists, led by Senator Vandenberg, tried to corral the new candidate and give him a big isolationist sales talk; warning him to pipe down on aiding the British. But Willkie sidestepped the bloc and they didn't get a chance to put on the pressure.

Note—Regardless of what Willkie says, running-mate Sen. Charles McNary is isolationist and pro-public power. He intends to say so in his acceptance speech late this month.

Goldthwaite Man In Student Army

Considerable attention has been given the Business and Professional Men's division of the Citizen's Military Training Camps this year.

These groups are made up of mature business men who are paying Uncle Sam for the privilege of getting a month's military training.

Goldthwaite is represented at Camp Bullis by Barton Smith who sent the following interesting account of his experiences to a friend here:

Dear Friends:

I will try to give you a brief outline of my experiences here thus far.

The everyday work is, of course, basic military training. I am sure you will be interested in hearing something of the results of its application to this particular group, since it is the first of its kind to take basic training. Even our officers admit frankly that they are experimenting with us, and so far they seem to be well pleased with the experiment. In fact, they all, from General Kruger on down tell us we are better than the young boys in the other companies, even though a great many of them have previously had one or more training periods in these camps, and also training in various schools. This, of course, makes us feel much younger.

There is one thing that has been very noticeable to all, in that respect. We have a regimental review almost every day, either just before noon or just before retreat. And you, no doubt, know very well how hot it is in a mass formation of that size with the sun bearing down. Well, the point I am making is that almost, without exception, one or two of the boys pass out cold at each review and have to be picked up by an ambulance. So far no man of Co. G has even had to fall out, much less be carried in. We have had a few men drop out of ranks on practice marches, but they always come into camp under their own power. I am not making these statements as a boast but rather as a practical illustration of what is happening when the young man and the older man are put to test side by side under identical conditions.

Two of my tent mates are A.E.F. soldiers, one of whom was an artillery officer. They have fought World War No. 1 over thoroughly and violently and with considerable profanity since coming here. Several nights even taps failed to silence them.

We had what was to me a very thrilling experience one night of last week. The General visited our company at morning drill and made us a little talk and wound up by telling us he had the entire Second Division out here in the hills of the reservation on maneuvers. He offered to furnish transportation to any of us who wished to go out and see the division in action at night. Of course, the entire company took him up on it. Having supper an hour early we left here at 7:00 p. m. in ten of the big troop transport trucks. We were moved first to the ordinance control point which we reached

THE LAFOLLETTES

In the current pre-campaign jockeying for position, both Republican and Democratic chiefs are warily watching Wisconsin's famous brothers LaFollette—Senator Bob, who is up for re-election this year, and ex-Governor Phil, who since his defeat two years ago has been quietly promoting a "Fuehrer-principle" kind of organization which he launched in the spring of 1938 with a lot of fanfare.

Bob LaFollette faces a tough battle. Three key voting blocs in the state are the large German, Scandinavian and Polish groups. Obviously playing for the favor of the first two, Bob was a very active isolationist last November.

But this stand boomeranged when Hitler invaded the unarmed Scandinavian countries. So with the Poles already down on him, the disaffection of the Scandinavians was a serious blow.

There is no question of LaFollette's personal hostility toward Hitler and Nazism.

the landowners of the District and it will be through their cooperative planning that they can and will accomplish much in soil conservation.

This proposed district will include all of both Brown and Mills counties and the name decided on by the committee for the district is Brown-Mills Soil Conservation District. This motion for named district, when proposed, was passed on unanimously. Headquarters for the proposed District was designated at Mullin as this point is most centrally located for both counties.

W. H. Simmons of Brown county and Willis Hill of Mills county were recommended by the committee as supervisors for the proposed district upon the appointment and approval of the State Soil Conservation Board. Three other supervisors will be elected by landowners when the District is created. All supervisors must be landowners and must be living in the District.

W. P. Weaver, county agent emeritus of Mills county was unanimously elected by the committee to act as Polling Superintendent for the District in its election which will be held in the next group of these elections.

Wish to offer our heartfelt thanks to the many friends and relatives of the late Mrs. Mary Fowler Soules of Star, who so freely gave their assistance during her long illness, also for their kind deeds and their lovely floral offerings at the time of her recent death.

Grown, Sold and Eaten in Mills County

The champion melon man, Earl Ballard, undoubtedly has the honor of raising the most melons in Mills county this year.

He has four and a half acres on the Erie D. Roberson place this year, and raised something like 2500 saleable melons of a superior quality. This is only one example of diversification taking the place of the so-called "Old King Cotton." Melons have been cheap this year, but what else could bring more money to the acre than these did to the grower. Mr. Ballard says he will go in the business in a much bigger way next year and really try to grow melons.

The above picture shows 450 melons, being unloaded at Curtis Long's store, who bought the larger part of the crop. The melons were of the finest grade and type.

The Eagle Editor can vouch for the fine quality of these melons, one of which was presented to her by Erie D. Roberson.

Goldthwaite Man In Student Army

Considerable attention has been given the Business and Professional Men's division of the Citizen's Military Training Camps this year.

These groups are made up of mature business men who are paying Uncle Sam for the privilege of getting a month's military training.

Goldthwaite is represented at Camp Bullis by Barton Smith who sent the following interesting account of his experiences to a friend here:

Dear Friends:

I will try to give you a brief outline of my experiences here thus far.

The everyday work is, of course, basic military training. I am sure you will be interested in hearing something of the results of its application to this particular group, since it is the first of its kind to take basic training. Even our officers admit frankly that they are experimenting with us, and so far they seem to be well pleased with the experiment. In fact, they all, from General Kruger on down tell us we are better than the young boys in the other companies, even though a great many of them have previously had one or more training periods in these camps, and also training in various schools. This, of course, makes us feel much younger.

There is one thing that has been very noticeable to all, in that respect. We have a regimental review almost every day, either just before noon or just before retreat. And you, no doubt, know very well how hot it is in a mass formation of that size with the sun bearing down. Well, the point I am making is that almost, without exception, one or two of the boys pass out cold at each review and have to be picked up by an ambulance. So far no man of Co. G has even had to fall out, much less be carried in. We have had a few men drop out of ranks on practice marches, but they always come into camp under their own power. I am not making these statements as a boast but rather as a practical illustration of what is happening when the young man and the older man are put to test side by side under identical conditions.

Two of my tent mates are A.E.F. soldiers, one of whom was an artillery officer. They have fought World War No. 1 over thoroughly and violently and with considerable profanity since coming here. Several nights even taps failed to silence them.

We had what was to me a very thrilling experience one night of last week. The General visited our company at morning drill and made us a little talk and wound up by telling us he had the entire Second Division out here in the hills of the reservation on maneuvers. He offered to furnish transportation to any of us who wished to go out and see the division in action at night. Of course, the entire company took him up on it. Having supper an hour early we left here at 7:00 p. m. in ten of the big troop transport trucks. We were moved first to the ordinance control point which we reached extensive riding on her father's ranch.

Soon after this, she moved to San Antonio where her mother has made her home since that time. Mrs. Murrah is now visiting her daughter in New York, the two residing in White Plains for the summer. Now in her early forties, Miss Murrah often takes time off from her Red Cross work to run down to Dallas and San Antonio and renew her many Texas friendships.

Miss Murrah graduated from the University of Texas while the World War was in progress which may explain some of her interest in the Red Cross, now evidenced by a long record of fine service with the organization. Among her classmates were Wright Morrow, now president of the Houston Chamber of Commerce and prominent in recent political activities, and Major Curtis De Ware of the United States Army, located now at San Antonio.

Receives Master's Degree.

After graduation, Miss Murrah came to New York and Columbia University where she received her Master's degree in nutrition. Immediately afterward, she joined the local staff of the American Red Cross and has been with them ever since. For one period, she was in Los Angeles, Calif., assisting in the organization of a chapter there.

"New York is the most fascinating place in the world," she said. "Of course one has to keep on her toes but that is necessary in any endeavor which holds an active and important place in one's life."

Her present work though often classed as welfare in one sense, is really educational and its benefits have reached many who are more fortunate in a financial way than they are in knowledge of proper diet. In appearance, Miss Murrah is an excellent example of good health, herself.

She acts as consultant for the professional workers which the Red Cross lends to other organizations having similar functions. In fact, the Texas woman has come to be recognized as an authority on foods and their relation to improvement of our present society.

The doctors who are assigned to welfare work by the city, whose job it is to guide the health futures of many children whose parents do not know how to feed them, come to Miss Murrah for instruction. Often they consult with her on their many problems of feeding small and anxious mouths, and the results they obtain from her are recognized in the esteemed position she now holds in the opinion of her associates.

Records of her department show that the present crop of young children are fine physical specimens; that the death rate among infants is lower than in many years; and that as a result the future of these little tots is more assured than ever before as far as health is concerned.

Regarding the war situation and the probable influx of young and hungry refugees, Miss Murrah is confident. She feels that the Red Cross and affiliated agencies will be able to cope with any emergency.

"Our first line of defense should be a healthy people," Miss Murrah said when questioned about the part she would play in case of war.

Meet Refugee Ships.

Whenever a refugee ship arrives in port here, officials of the Red Cross along with Miss Murrah meet the ship and help to care for whatever children are in need. A recent problem to the officials was a woman who arrived with her five children from a foreign land. She was in need of food and other things, but since she was not a citizen, she and her brood were not eligible for relief. This technical problem was solved by Miss Murrah and her staff, and the Red Cross is now helping this mother and her children.

The Red Cross is also helping people find their relatives in war-torn Europe, the Texan pointed out in relating some of her other activities.
