THE GOSPEL IS TAKEN INTO EUROPE

It was a crucial point in the history of Christianity; yes, and of the world, when the gospel came to Europe. I. By Providential Hindrance (vv. 6-9). Not only are "the steps of a good man ordered by the Lord" (Ps. 37:23), but his steps as well. That is not an easy lesson to learn. Let us remember that we may be as much in the will of the Lord when all our efforts are thwarted as when they prosper.

II. By Divine Guidance (vv. 9, 10). The Spirit spoke to Paul in a vision, revealing the divine purpose that the gospel should go over into Macedonia. The Spirit leads in our day, possibly not by visions, but by impelling inward prompting complemented and checked by the teaching of Scripture and by providential circumstances, and thus a man may know what is the will of God for him.

III. Through a Faithful Witness (vv. 11-14). The gospel came to Europe because Paul and his fellow workers were faithful to their calling. When God led, they went to Macedonia (vv. 11, 12), where they succeeded out those who were in the place of prayer (v. 13). Paul spoke to them about Christ (v. 14). There he met the man of Macedonia who turned out to be a woman. For some reason the men were absent from the place of prayer on that all-important Sabbath morning. They were undoubtedly the ancient counterpart of our present day men who are "brothers-in-law" to the church, these foolish men who seem to assume that a bit of "religion" second hand through the wife or children will suffice.

IV. Through a Receptive Heart (vv. 14b-15). God sent an obedient messenger to the place where He had a prepared heart. Lydia was a woman of distinction, business ability, and high moral character. But she knew, and Paul knew, that even good people need to be saved. We do well to keep that fact before us. Paul spoke the truth of God, who opened Lydia's heart. Observe that she not only received the Word of God into her own heart, but at once gave herself to the task of passing it on. The first thing she could do was to give aid and comfort to the messenger of the truth, and she did that at once. Be assured that from that day on she did all she could to prosper the gospel on its way through Europe and to the ends of the earth. Have we done likewise?

BRIDGING THE FUTURE

LIKE A MIGHTY RIVER roaring through a rocky gorge the unknown future faces America.
We in America today face the gigantic task of building a bridge to span the dangerous years ahead. We must build a bridge above the dark waters of disaster, over which the generations-to-come may pass in safety.
Spanning the Hudson River, from the Palisades of the New Jersey Shore to the Heights of Manhattan on the New York side, is the famous George Washington Bridge—one of the longest and largest suspension bridges in the world.
The length of the main span of the bridge is 3,566 feet! The total length between anchorages is 8,200 feet! From a distance, the cables look like the web of a spider, but they are the strength of the bridge; they must support the tremendous weight of 160,000,000 pounds! These cables are three feet in diameter; they are made of sixty-one interwoven cables, four and one-half inches thick. The smaller cables are made by spinning together 434 strands of thin steel wire, each wire less than one-fiftieth of an inch in diameter. Thus bound together, 26,474 of these tiny wires make the large cables that must support the load of millions of pounds.
The strength of America's bridge depends upon spinning the tiny wires of individual ability into the sturdy cables of co-operative strength.
All the tiny wires of constructive Americanism: creative ideas, team-work, loyalty, faith, courage, work, love, must be united in powerful cables to withstand the pounding force of the world-storms which are endangering our way of life.
Each of us can help to build that bridge by junking the defective wires of discord and bitterness, and spinning into the giant cables only the best qualities of our minds, hearts and spirits. We must spin together everything that is strong and good in America and omit all that is weak. Thus, together, we can build an American Bridge with the supreme strength to span any future!

Connally Measure Gets Results

Washington, July 2.—With word from the War Department that more men were on strike than at any other time since the beginning of the emergency, the bill to stop strikes by Senator Tom Connally of Texas effected a crystallization of sentiment among both executive and legislative authorities expected to end this irritating interference with national defense efforts.
The measure, known as Senate 1600, authorizes the government to take over and operate in the national interest any plant or factory engaged in the production of defense articles in which the production of such articles is hampered, delayed or impeded by the existence of a strike or other labor disturbance.
Senator Connally emphasized that strikers, who are stopping work in plants that ought to be running 24 hours per day in behalf of our defense, are attacking the national welfare and the national safety by a form of creeping paralysis.
"America faces a great crisis. The national security is imperiled. The nation does not propose to have its safety imperiled and its program for national defense delayed or bogged down by selfish and willful groups who seek to take advantage of the nation's necessities to improve their own condition at the expense of the safety of one hundred and thirty millions of people. Strikes in defense plants must stop. My bill will stop them."

NEW NATIONAL SLOGAN IS TO BE 'KEEP 'EM FLYIN!' JAMES SOULES, STAR BOY, NOW ARMY WAR BIRD

A comprehensive nation-wide campaign is now under way to make the army-inspired slogan "KEEP 'EM FLYIN!" the national slogan comparable to "Thumbs up!" It is designed as an expression of felicity and high moral, and can be used as a toast. The slogan applies to the wheels of progress of the whole national defense effort, as well as to airplanes. The campaign is intended to popularize "KEEP 'EM FLYIN!" to the extent that it will be used by persons of all ages and in all walks of life as an everyday expression replacing such expressions as "So long," "How!", "I'll be seeing you!", "Down the hatch!", "Good-bye!", "Good night!", "Aloha!", "Best of luck!", "Adios!", etc.
The War Department has just completed mailing letters and other material to many hundreds of trade, patriotic, fraternal, and civic organizations, large business concerns, radio and movie companies, publications, and individuals, asking for their co-operation, and en-

State Department Health Notes

Dr. George W. Cox, state health officer, today issued a warning to Texas housewives to guard against food spoilage and resultant human food poisoning during the summer months.
Summer heat and food spoilage were closely coupled together in Victorian days as a sure sign of summer, and the association continues today, unless scrupulous care is taken to avoid food spoilage.
"Long hot days in July and August necessitate keeping food clean, covered, and refrigerated, plus additional hot weather safeguards," Dr. Cox stated.
It should be kept in mind that food poisoning is more common in summer than in winter. The summer menu usually includes smaller helpings of cooked food and increased amounts of raw and cold food which may be more subject to spoilage or contamination. Vegetables and fruits which are eaten without peeling should be washed carefully to avoid possible contamination with mineral poisons from chemical sprays.
Harmful germs which may be harbored in raw dairy products or imperfectly cooked food cause typhoid fever, dysentery, summer diarrhea, scarlet fever, diphtheria and other diseases. Perishable foods should be handled carefully and kept under constant refrigeration until time to serve.
Special care should be taken with milk and milk products, since milk is an excellent medium for bacterial growth.

Three Cornell University scientists report a new method to retain the full vitamin C content of pasteurized milk by taking the air out of it. A quart of de-aerated pasteurized milk has a vitamin C content equal to a whole orange. Vitamin C loss in ordinary pasteurized milk makes a quart equivalent to a slice of orange.
More than 50,000 Texas oil wells have been pumped in order to produce oil.

Second Armored Division—Known As The Hell On Wheels
The hell on wheels is our name, it does not sound good, but we have fame.
We arm up to the teeth and move.
Fast just like the bees.
We rumble along on highways, through woods and swamps.
We take and we like it the way it comes;
In front are the tanks, the trucks in rear;
We rumble along, we don't have a fear.
We know where the enemy is about,
Thanks to our scouts, who found that out.
We get him by the nose and kick him from behind,
We don't say, "Please be so kind."
We fight to the end; we seldom retreat.
We depend on our tanks; they are our feet.
We stand side by side, officers and men,
We are one—there is no difference then.
We swallow the dust and eat the sand,
But we don't mind it—it's from our land.
We are dirty and hungry and thirsty too,
But we don't worry, the kitchen truck will come through.
At night we sleep good under the sky.
Our guards watch that no one gets by.
We are on alert at day and at night,
We're always ready to attack fight.
The maneuvers are over, the peace is signed,
We are all glad, we don't mind.
When we come back we are all proud.
It's the hell on wheels, you better watch out,
For we're leaving Tennessee To fight the Devils in the swamps of Louisiana.

Highlights Of Texas History

By CHARLES O. HUCKER University of Texas Library

MORE ABOUT BEAN: HE GETS REVENGE

After years of solitary confinement in a dungeon cell, in what condition does a man come again into the light of day?
Dead Alexander Dumas and his fellow romanticists and you will find a withered, long-bearded, white-haired creature with bleak staring eyes, returned to life like a corpse from a grave. But pick up the great true saga of Ellis P. Bean—one of the most dramatic stories to be found among the multitudes in the Texas Collection of the University of Texas Library—and you'll find a different picture.
The stirring story of young Bean, who was a Spanish prisoner in Mexico for eleven years and locked in solid confinement for almost two and a half of them, was begun in this column last week, following a brief survey of the history of Philip Nolan's filibustering expedition into Texas of 1800, which is its logical introduction. It is a story of battle, capture, imprisonment, escape, recapture, hope and disillusionment—and as wondrous a story as has ever been proved true.
HOW HE CAME BACK
Eventually, however, there came release—and just at the right moment. Thoroughly exasperated by Bean's unquenchable ability, the governor of Acapulco castle, where he had undergone 28 months of solitary confinement with double irons on his arms, asked the viceroy of Mexico please to transfer the troublesome American elsewhere as speedily as possible; and it was decided he should be sent to the East Indies—to a place called Manila. But before he could be shipped away the Mexican Revolution broke out and he was offered freedom if he would fight in the Spanish army, which he readily consented to do.
Thus Bean finally came forth out of his living tomb. And the remainder of his story is the most remarkable part of it. For here was no withered weakling. Rather, he was a man strong in body and spirit, a man bursting with the stored-up energy of years and an unshrinking indignation against his Spanish oppressors. Weak? He was a holy terror.
The agreement was, as stated, that Bean should join the Royalist army in its fight against the uprising Republicans, and he did. But he had no real intention of fighting against his companions in oppression. Instead, before many days had passed he made Republicans of seventy men in his company; and they one night took command of the artillery and almost without firing a shot gathered 526 prisoners, 400 of whom the next day marched off with Bean to align themselves with the nearest Republican force.
HIS HOPES FULFILLED
During the years that followed Bean was a mighty thorn in the Royalist side. Twice in rapid succession he and his men annihilated Spanish armies, in the latter battle seriously wounding his old acquaintance, the governor of Acapulco. Then—spurning an offer of ten thousand dollars and a colonel's commission if he would return to the Royalists—he went on to take the fortified castle itself.
Thereafter, except for a short time in 1814 when he returned to the United States just in time to participate with his old friends Andrew Jackson and Jean Lafitte in the battle of New Orleans against the British, Bean devoted his life to the Republic. And with its permanent establishment in 1821 he was honored for his service with a high-ranking place in its army. His revenge was complete.

100 YEARS AGO IN TEXAS

TOURISTS WILL SPEND FIVE TO 6 BILLION DOLLARS

The 3,065,000 miles of highways in America, upon which "virtually one-third of a nation" will travel on vacation this summer, play a second vital role as the arteries of a vast dollar flow from section to section, state to state, coast to coast. American highway tourists will spend between five and six billion dollars for vacation tours this year, according to estimates of travel bureau experts.
By U. S. estimate, approximately half of the 27,300,000 cars registered in the country will carry their owners on summer jaunts averaging 3,300 miles—a greater distance than from the Atlantic to the Pacific. With an average of 3.5 persons per car, this represents some 47,775,000 Americans en route over the highways.
Virtually every fourth car on the road today is a Chevrolet, according to William E. Holler, Chevrolet general sales manager, who has headed an organization that has sold a million cars a year during the seven years he has held that position. "Assuming that Chevrolet owners are represented among the summer tourists only in proportion to the number of Chevrolets as compared with all other makes," he said, "by the law of averages, Chevrolet owners will spend more than a billion dollars on summer vacations.
"While some areas are distinctly 'tourist country,' they are not the only regions to profit from tourist travel," Mr. Holler said. "And, peculiarly enough, recreation is far from the largest single item of expenditure on the tourist's budget. Actually travelers spend 25 per cent of their vacation allowance in retail stores. A total of 21 per cent is spent in hotel dining rooms, restaurants and roadside dining places. Twenty per cent goes to hotels, tourist camps, tourist homes and for other accommodations. Another 20 per cent is required for gas, oil, repairs and garaging of the car. Only eight per cent is spent for recreation, with a final six per cent allotted to refreshments, soft drinks, hot dogs, and what have you."

"The contradictory articles in another column, which are copied from our exchange papers, show the doubt and uncertainty which exist abroad relative to the loan. We regret that we can communicate no official intelligence that would tend to remove this uncertainty. The information contained in the dispatches that Gen. Hamilton has lately sent to Austin has not yet been made public. We have little doubt, however, that a part of the loan has been negotiated, and will be available in a few weeks. The mystery which some individuals are attempting to throw around this affair, will doubtless keep our treasury notes fluctuating until more definite intelligence shall be received, and in the meantime the brokers and sharps are laying their plans to profit by the first favorable turn in the market."
