VOLUME FORTY-EIGHT

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, —FRIDAY, JANUARY 2, 1942.

NUMBER NINETEEN

Local Selective Service Board Gets Big Call

New Ruling Stops Publishing of Data On Soldiers Sent

The Mills County Selective Service Board has been notified that a big call for additional men will be made on it during February, and that these men will have to be selected from registrants who registered in the first and second registrations on October 16, 1940, and July 1, 1941.

Clerk Omar Shaw received instructions yesterday against giving out information as to the number of names of men called up for examination or to what camp sent. This information is being withheld to avoid giving information to the enemy.

Every Texas registrant selected for induction in the army now is receiving a booklet telling him exactly what the Army expects of him and what it offers to him, General J. Watt Page, state selective service director has announced.

Copies of this booklet, which is entitled "The Army and you" was prepared by the war department in cooperation with the selective service headquarters. They like to be received at Mr. and Mrs. J. Watt Page, and allocated to local boards for distribution to their selectees.

The booklet contains only 14 pages, 6 by 9 inches in dimensions, and is a convenient size for the selectee to carry with him. The valuable information provided for the "rookie" soldier is indicated by the following subtitles:

"In the American Spirit"; "What the Army Expects of You and What the Army Offers You"; "Teamwork is Essential"; "Military Courtesy"; "Your Health and Your Equipment Must Be Well Cared For"; "Good Food— and Plenty of It"; "The Chaplain is the Friend of Every Soldier"; "Promotion Rewards Duty Well Done"; "The Induction Station"; "The Reception; Classification and Assignment; Your Family is Kept Informed of Your Progress The Replacement Training Center.

The cover page shows American soldiers on the march and the contents include inspiring messages from President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Secretary of War Stimson, Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the United States Army, and John J. Pershing, General of the Armies of the United States, together with a quotation from Theodore Roosevelt.

LOCAL BOARD ASKS FOR VOLUNTEERS TO ACT AS REGISTRARS

possible date of registration of men from the ages of 18 to 21, inclusive, (except the men registered on Oct. 16, 1940, and July 1, 1941), being set very close for actual consummation, the local board for selective service in Mills County calls for volunteers to act as Registrars for the voting precinct in Mills County. Such registrars selected by the local board will be given instructions as to their duties by the local board. They will meet at the local board office in Goldthwaite, Texas.

Eagle Offers Low Subscription Rate To Men In Service

One Year For 50 Cents, With Regular 1-Year Subscription

The Mills County boys in the armed services of their country—Army, Navy, Marines or Air Corps—are always glad to get a letter from home, or to hear what their friends and neighbors are doing. The best letter they can receive is the county paper. The Eagle carries news each week from practically every community in the county.

The Eagle offers to send the paper each week for one year to any person in the armed forces of the United States for the price of 50 cents per year, if the subscription is accompanied by one regular subscription for one year $1.50. The Eagle also will pay any additional postage necessary to have the paper forwarded to any part of the world where the service man may be sent. This price applies to either a new or renewal subscription.

Also, although the Eagle now goes into practically every home in Mills County and parts of adjoining counties, we would like to have every family in this county on our subscription list. With total war on in earnest, 1942 will see much activity of a local nature in the way of civilian defense, and heads of committees can easily get their messages over to the whole populace through the Eagle if every family in the county is a subscriber.

If you know of any family in Mills County who is not now a subscriber to the Eagle, please tell them about the Eagle's offer.

LIVESTOCK RAISER'S SHOW JANUARY 10 ATTENTION RAISERS

The Annual Livestock Raisers' Show will be held January 10, beginning at 9:00 a. m., rain or shine, according to John A. Wright.

Everyone interested in the livestock show should pay close attention to the dates listed below:

RIGHT NOW: The catalogues are printed and ready for each family in Mills County to possess one.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 4th at 1 p. m., many persons will be needed to help erect the tent. An experienced tent man will be present to direct the job.

MONDAY, JANUARY 5TH and TUESDAY, JANUARY 6TH — Every person possessing panels for building pens will be obliged if they will bring in all they can spare; also each person will have to furnish his own bedding.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 8TH— The General Arrangements Committee, composed of Felton Waddill, Luther Jernigan, and Jack Kirby will meet behind R. L. Steen's Hardware and set up rails, panels, and anything else needed for the show. They will need help and plenty of it.

JANUARY 9TH — Livestock may be brought in and placed under tent if it is convenient to a breeder.

In order for our show to be a success everyone must cooperate and do his part. Remember the dates and places and help wherever you can.

VISIT COPPERAS COVE — Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Yarbrough spent Christmas day with his father and sister at Yarbrough's home in Copperas Cove.

What To Do In An Air Raid

OFFICIAL—U. S. Office of Civilian Defense.

1. Above all, keep cool. Don't lose your head.
2. Do not crowd the streets; avoid chaos, prevent disorder and havoc.
3. Don't believe rumors—spreading false rumors is part of the enemy's technique.
4. Air raid warning signals generally are short blasts or rising and falling pitch or whistles or horns. The all clear is a steady tone for two minutes.
5. If an incendiary bomb falls, cover it with sand, or spray it with a garden hose (never a splash or stream!) Switch to a stream to put out any fire started by the bomb. Switch back to a spray for the bomb. A jet, splash, stream or bucket of water will make the bomb explode.
6. Under raid conditions, keep a bathtub and buckets full of water for the use of the fire department in case water mains are broken.
7. If you have a soda-and-acid extinguisher (the kind you turn upside down), use it with your finger over the nozzle to make a spray. Don't use the chemical kind (small cylinders of liquid) on bombs. It is all right for ordinary fires.
8. Should gas be used, go at once to the most "inside" room in your house (fewest doors and windows.) Paste paper over glass. Stuff rags in window cracks and under doors.
9. Choose one member of the family to be the home air raid warden, who will remember all the rules and what to do.
10. Whether or not a blackout is ordered during a raid, put out all lights at once.
11. If a light inside the home is necessary, use rugs, blankets, portiers, over-drapes, or curtains, arranged in double thickness over your windows. Don't crowd or stampee doors for special material. Be ingenious—improvise.
12. During a raid, remember to shut off gas stoves, gas furnaces, and gas pilot lights.
13. If bombs start to fall near you, lie down, you will feel the blast least that way, escape fragments and splinters. The safest place is under a good stout table—the stronger the legs the better.

AIR RAID WARDENS NURSES, FIREFIGHTER VOLUNTEERS NEEDED

All persons who desire to volunteer for civilian defense will find blanks and a secretary to help in registering at the office of E. T. Fairman at the Mills County Hardware Company. The state director of civilian defense has asked only that volunteers be registered and classified to date so that they may be called on if they are needed. Classifications so far called for are: air raid wardens, nurses, and fire fighters.

CHRISTMAS VISIT

MILLS COUNTY STARTS NEW YEAR IN FINE FINANCIAL CONDITION

Mills County Commissioners' Court was in all-day session yesterday, Jan. 1, for the purpose of settling up yearly accounts.

Mills County starts off the new year in excellent financial condition. The vast majority of counties in Texas have a much larger per capita indebtedness than does Mills. No Mills County warrants have been discounted in many years.

County Judge R. J. Gerald Wednesday sent to the state department of Education Mills County's statement for $14,920 covering the yearly cost of school bus transportation. The county has already received $6,596 on this amount.

NOTICE OF RED CROSS MEETING

A Red Cross meeting will be held in the Commissioners Court Room at the court house in Goldthwaite Tuesday afternoon, January 6, 1942, at 2 p. m., for the purpose of electing officers and general business. All officers and members are urged to be present.

H. G. BODKIN, Chairman Mills County Chapter

NEW TEACHER

Miss Neva Holt of San Antonio has been selected as a teacher in the local high school. Miss Holt takes the place recently vacated by Mr. Peterson. She is a graduate of Abilene Christian College, with special training in school bus transportation. The county has already received three and one-half years and comes very highly recommended.

National Chairman Sends Telegram To County Workers

The following telegram been received here by Mayor G. Bodkin:

H. G. Bodkin, chairman Mills County Chapter American Red Cross, Goldthwaite: The ing of Pearl Harbor, Ho Manila, the invasion of the Ippines—the submarine in the Atlantic and Pac have dramatically brought to us the cruelty of this w

Wherever our soldiers and airmen are so valiantly defending our soil, there will find the flag of the Red Cross, unfurled along side Stars and Stripes. Red men are on every front and are urgently needed to contact these front lines of the enemy respects no boundaries nor week ends.

The Red Cross war fund should be pushed to rapidly over subscription. Partnership in this time of need gives all the people an opportunity to participate. The Red Cross is a people's partnership in a time of need. It is patriotism in action. Give to the Red Cross. Misericordia of war cannot be measured by quotas and mathematical yardsticks nor personal conveniences. The President, the American people and our fighting expect much of us. Although your Chapter has reached the minimum quota you are urged to continue campaign until everyone has had an opportunity to contribute. An avalanche of giving now help the Red Cross to the goods.

NORMAN H. ... National Chairman

Although Mills County quota of $1400.00 has been over subscribed, we urge all local precinct committees to keep campaign open, and forward all contributions to Miss Cloud Carroll at Mills County Chapter, care of the ... ware Company. Keeping campaign open does not mean that we expect the committee to continue to canvass the precinct or for anyone to raise original contribution.

But the purpose of keeping campaign open is to give those who have not made a contribution to the war fund an opportunity to contribute to a fund that is endorsed by our President and is needed by the Red Cross to carry on a great work.

BRIAN SMITH, War Fund Chairman

HAVE YOU HEARD?

Every Mills County citizen interested in the welfare of our soldiers, sailors and airmen from this country.

The Eagle will carry all news possible of the men in service. If you hear, definitely, that your son or your nephew at Pearl Harbor please call us and let your friends know about it. We like to hear from you with your news.

If you receive a letter from the war front most any place in the world please bring it to the Eagle.

Here Are Some Food Facts

The President of the United States says, "There is enough food for all of us and enough left over to send to those who are fighting on the same side with us."

There is no occasion for fear of food shortages or runaway prices due to the declaration of war with Japan, Germany and Italy.

Adequate supplies of all necessary foods are available to meet normal needs in addition to supplying our Allies.

Consumers buying more than normal requirements create a false demand with temporary dislocations in supply and price.

The National Association of Food Chains Has Pledged

1. To maintain efficient, economical food distribution;

2. To avoid speculation and unjustified price increases;

3. To maintain stocks of dependable quality foods and to advise customers of substitutes should temporary shortages develop;

4. To cooperate with government, producers, and consumers.

What You as a Consumer Can Do

1. Buy the same quantities you usually buy.

2. Disregard rumors, which may be spread by agitators or enemy agents.

3. Reduce waste to a minimum.

4. Cooperate with local civilian defense committees.

Nationwide cooperation in this emergency will speed the day of victory and peace.

HANNA VALLEY—

By JEWEL JONES

(Intended for Last Week)

We are having spring time weather this week end. Suppose it won't last long.

Grain is looking pretty. It is good on the river land.

Ben Egger was having some repair work done on his car Saturday.

So far, H. L. Egger has not heard from their nephew, H. C. Griffin who is in the Philippines since the war started.

Tillman Smith from Indian Creek spent Saturday night in the Alton Jones home. Tillman was having Alton tune up his car for him.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Jones and Mrs. G. H. Whitley and daughter, Laverne, visited friends and relatives in Llano last week end.

B. F. Egger and Andy Rowlett were out Monday making a drive for the Red Cross. We hope they got their quota and then some.

Geo. Goin has been working for Edgar Jones the past few days.

L. D. Egger and family visited in Edgar Jones home Sunday.

Mrs. S. M. Jones visited Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Jones last week end.

We wish all the readers of the Eagle a very happy New Year. We should all be happy to be living in the good old U. S. A. even though we are at war. It was pushed on us, let us all push it off to where it will never return. God Bless America.

COUNCIL MEETING

A BOND OF UNITY.—The handclasp of sincerity and partnership is used by artist John C. Atherton, of Bridgefield, Conn., to depict the close cooperation of the American people and their Government in financing the Defense Program through the sale of Defense Savings Bonds and Stamps.

DESCRIPTION OF MILLS CO. GIVEN

By Norman Duren, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Duren. Norman is a senior in A. and M.

In Central Texas, bordered on the southwest by the overflowing waters of the Colorado River, with a rolling to broken surface partially covered with live oak, post oak, cottonwood and pecan, and where the people are always busy, but not too busy to be friendly and kind hearted, is my home county.

Mills County was created in March 1887 from areas taken from Brown, Comanche, Hamilton and Lampasas Counties. It was named after Judge John T. Mills, an Irish lawyer, who was district judge of the 8th District of Texas for several years.

It was decided that Goldthwaite, then only a few stores near the Santa Fe railroad, located about the center of the county, would be the county seat. At that time there was a larger village in the western part of the county called "William's Ranch," but it dwindled away until nothing is left but a few stones from one of the saloons.

At present Mills County, with a total area of 696 square miles, has almost 80,000 acres of farming land divided into 1,543 farms. The soil is loam, sandy loam and sandy with some alluvials along the Colorado River, and spots of Houston clay. The farming is diversified with the principal crops being cotton, corn, small grains and grain sorghums.

Goldthwaite with a population of 1,325 is not only the county but the principal market and shipping point. Through the city limits pass U. S. Highway 84 and 81 which increase the income of the sixteen filling stations that now exist there. The town is located in a valley and may be viewed from hilltops making a very pretty picture with the center of attraction the County Court House, around which the town was built.

Mullin, a small town in the northwestern part of the county is also a market and shipping point and has a population of 495. It supplies the farmers with their needs and buys the farm products.

In the northeast section of Mills County is a very prosperous settlement known as "Pridy." Most all the farmers of this section are of German blood. They are a very hard working class of people and produce fine crops. Cotton and corn is grown mostly.

About five miles north of Goldthwaite is a small lake where the people hunt, fish and seine. On the shores of the lake are small cottages for people who wish to spend a few days hunting and fishing. A range of hills which are almost continuous and extend from north to south form a mid-rib to the county. The land along this area is very rough and it is used mostly for raising goats. It is also a good hunting ground for the game hunter. The large cracks and crevices in the rocks along the hillside make excellent places for the present rattlesnake.

Beside the main crops some peaches, watermelons and pumpkins are grown on the sandy soils. The farmers of this locality realize the need of soil conservation and improvement. They are practicing many things to preserve the soil. The native grasses are mostly buffalo and mesquite which are very good for livestock and have high nutritive value. Sudan is the principal cultivated grass. It is not only an excellent summer pasture, but makes good hay as well. Small grains planted in the fall make a very good winter pasture. The school system of Mills County is above the state average age. There are four high schools and several rural schools. School is taught only in the winter months as the chil-

INFORMATION CONCERNING ENLISTMENT IN THE NAVAL RESERVE

Enlistments are being accepted in the naval reserve for a period of two, three, four years, or minority (to serve on active duty during the war or national emergency.) Age limits are 17 to 50, with pay ranging from $21.00 to $133.50 per month. Married men may be enlisted if they are qualified to enlist at a rating in which the pay will be sufficient to support their dependents, or if their dependents have other means of support.

Men between the ages of 17 and 36 may enlist as apprentice seamen for training in the following schools: machinist, electrical, metalsmith, carpenter, signal. Those between the ages of 17 and 28 who are graduates of an aviation vocational, aviation trade school, or who are mechanically inclined may enlist for training in aviation schools.

Men enlisted for the above schools who fail to qualify in accordance with present standards for entrance to service schools will be available for general detail.

Men who are qualified by professional training or experience in a trade used in the navy, such as: machinist, mechanic, electrician, metalsmith, welder, carpenter, radioman, cook, baker, pharmacist, stenographer, aerographer, and many others, may enlist as petty officers with pay of $60.00, $72.00, $84.00, or $99.00 per month. Those who can qualify for $72.00 or more per month who have dependents receive an additional $34.50 per month. Rating and pay is dependent on extent of professional training or experience, and can be determined only after personal interview by the recruiting officer.

Men between the ages of 20 and 27 who have two or more years of college credits, or sophomores who can furnish a statement from the registrar of the college they are attending, certifying that it is reasonably certain that they will complete enough academic work during the current college year to have one-half of the credits necessary for a degree, may enlist for flight training, leading to commissions as ensigns in the naval reserve, with pay ranging from $36.00 to $245.00 per month.

Men between the ages of 19 and 28 who have a degree from an accredited college or university, or seniors and juniors regularly enrolled, who can furnish a statement from the registrar of the college they are attending, certifying that upon graduation they will have the educational qualifications required, may enlist for midshipman training, leading to commissions as ensigns in the naval reserve, with pay and allowances of ensigns in the regular navy.

Learn a trade and serve your country during the war or national emergency by volunteering in the United States Naval Reserve. For further information, call in person at the navy recruiting station, located in the post office building, Abilene, Texas.

CONSTIPATED? Spills of constipation often bring aggravating bowel gas, sour stomach, bad breath, coated tongue, headaches, dizziness, listlessness. ADLERIKA effectively blends a combination of mild laxatives and a laxative for relief of gas pains and a laxative for relief of constipation. Get ADLERIKA.

Children are busy in the fields during the summer. The children are carried to and from school in buses, thus making it easier for the rural children to attend school. Although the people of Mills County are not the best educated and by no means the most wealthy people in the world, they are usually happy, and very kind hearted. They live with and love mother nature, and have developed a very kind and friendly personality. To me Mills County people are the best in the world.

PROGRESS IN FISH CULTURE TECHNIQUE

Progress in fish culture technique are detailed in the Report. "During the 1940-41 period," the Chiem Aquatic Biologist reported, "fish production was increased 21.28 per cent over the previous year notwithstanding the fact that the Huntsville hatchery was able to produce only 105,764 fish as compared to 869,633 during 1939-40. The cost per fish was reduced from 9 mills to 7.8 mills."

Repair work on the Huntsville hatchery slowed up production at that unit during the fiscal year.

The law enforcement division, the report states, filed 1,958 game and fish law violation complaints over the state, and collected $25,058.78 in fines and court costs. Laws concerning pollution of public streams were diligently enforced. In addition, coastal deputies working under the director of coastal operations at Corpus Christi made 183 arrests for game and fish law violations during the fiscal year. Much marine biological research work was accomplished by the coastal division, the report states.

The Goliad Advance guard reports this advance along the wildlife front in Texas.

Last year 45 wild turkeys were released in the county. This year 60 additional turkeys were released. The releases were made on the O'Brien, O'Connor and Power ranches in the southern part of the county and the ranches were incorporated into a state game preserve where no hunting is allowed.

As a result of these plantings, there are now 732 wild turkeys on those ranches. As the flocks increase, turkeys will drift out of the game preserve, and there'll be good gobbling hunting in southern Goliad County one of these days!

AUSTIN, Jan. 1.—More game and fish are in Texas' fields and streams awaiting the skill of the sportsman as the result of conservation activities of the game, fish and oyster commission and the cooperation of the public, according to the commission's 1940-41 annual report, which came from the presses today and is now available to the public.

Work on wildlife research and restoration projects continued with game managers and field biologists concentrating on seven projects involving such activities as trapping and transplanting game species from well populated areas to depleted ranges, a survey of game distribution in all of Texas, the restoration of quail, deer, turkey, lesser prairie chickens and other species. This work was done and is being continued as a cooperative federal-state program, with the Federal government contributing three-fourths of all funds spent. The federal-state program, generally called the Pittman-Robertson Act which made it possible, has been in operation in Texas since 1938, and, according to the report of the director in charge of this work, "despite unavoidable delays and handicaps, the varied activities under the many projects have gone forward in a commendable manner. In looking back over the past three years, and especially the work of the last year, it is clearly evident that there have been many accomplishments, some of them beyond our most optimistic expectations."

Approximately 3,000,000 acres of land are now included in Pittman-Robertson projects designed to restore particular species of game in suitable habitats, or in regions that can be made suitable by proper land management.

AVIATION CADTS WILL BE GIVEN APPOINTMENTS

The waiting list for appointment as an Avion Cadet in the United States Army Air Corps became a thing of the past today.

Col. C. K. Riehart, army recruiting officer for North Texas, announced the all men previously found qualified for training as aviation cadets either for pilot training or for aviator-bombardier training re-eligible for enlistment immediately.

To be enlisted these men must bring with them to the army recruiting station, 56 Federal Building, Dallas their certificate from the chief of their corps, showing that they are both physically and educationally qualified.

This will be welcome news to hundreds of Texans who have awaited impatiently as their names worked slowly the top of the eligibility list for appointment.

To share in the final victory, give to the RED CROSS.

LETTERS FROM SOLDIERS

We are very proud of the letters sent in to the Eagle by our soldier boys this week and we always welcome their communications for just at this time their ideas, well being and thoughts are very interesting to home folks, for the fact that they are giving all of their time, their liberty and freedom and perhaps their lives in the cause of their country and who are not able to fight are very proud of them.

The following letter is from Lieut. Alvin Caraway to his mother, Mrs. P. K. Caraway.

Tuesday, December 9, 1941, is a day that will be long remembered by officers and men of the 144th Infantry regiment. For, on that date the regiment was alerted and moved to Fort Lewis, Washington, from Camp Bowie, Texas, was started. The units traveled by train thru the lower "panhandle" of Texas, New Mexico, Arizona, California, Oregon and Washington, the trip requiring until Sunday, December 14th, for completion. Advantage was taken of all long stops, at the various points possible by taking hikes and marches. At one place we were dismissed twenty minutes prior to departure time of train and "took the town in." Everyone had hearty appetites for the evening meal on the train.

On the trip we had varied weather conditions. Snow in New Mexico, sunshine and rain and a beautiful noon in Arizona and California, rain and sleet in California, Oregon and mist and rain in Oregon. We passed thru valleys and over high mountains for example, when we crossed the Continental Divide, in New Mexico, our elevation was 7248 feet, whereas, in the Mojave Desert we were only 483 feet, and when going into Portland, Ore., 4000 feet above sea level.

quarry many orchards and while passing thru and at Needles and local climate, palm trees and flowers were a welcome sight compared to the sleet, snow, and rain we had come thru the previous early morning.

On the morning of December 13th, we passed thru the mountains of southern Oregon, following the Willamette River for many miles. Much time was spent looking out of the windows and some were speechless at the splendor of the scenery afforded. For miles the mountain sides were covered with fir trees, and the railway curved wherever the river did. Much talk of fishing and hunting wishes therein were current.

During the day, at Eugene, Oregon, we had an excellent view of the University of Oregon and its beautiful surroundings, the railroad traversing one of the main streets of the city, passing directly in front of this place.

We saw Oregon State University, too, at Salem, Oregon. While there we saw fir "Christmas trees," priced at 5 cents each, a considerable difference from the $1.00 usually paid for them in Texas, and other distant states.

We passed thru Portland during the early evening, stopping a short time at a very large passenger station, and a few miles from there followed the Columbia River—also a beautiful sight.

The first of our trains arrived at Fort Lewis soon after midnight, and the last (sixth) arrived at approximately 6 a. m., Sunday, December 14th. We had to march a distance of about 2 miles to our regimental area, where we found another tent city awaiting us, similar to the one at Camp Bowie.

Fort Lewis is a large army post, having all types of weapons, barracks, tents, houses for officers' families who are permanently assigned here, and many other buildings. The post is only a few miles from the southern tip of Puget Sound, a bay reaching far into the country, and with a depth in places of 1025 feet, sufficient to allow the largest of vessels to come into port at points of harbors.

Some new experiences were gained, by encountering coal and wood stoves, some men having never had the experience of starting a fire in such type stoves.

The weather is not much different from what it was in Camp Bowie last winter, raining much of the winter, heavy mist falling during the night, and fog rising in the early morning.

The distance traveled by rail, during the entire trip, was 2606.9 miles. All of the men are in good spirits, and the rumors of our future actions are all very pleasing.

Oh, yes! During the latter part of the trip, from Needles, California, the train was "black-out" during the nights, at times burning only a very dim headlight and the tail-light on the caboose. Black-outs have now been lifted, except in case of actual emergencies, in all parts of this country.

HAROLD YARBOROUGH WRITES TO EAGLE

144th Inf. H. G. Co. Fort Lewis, Washington, December 19, 1941.

Dear Friends:—

I have just finished the Eagle and enjoyed reading it all. I always am interested in what is happening at home and always have been. After I read it, I mailed it to Lt. Alvin Caraway, who in turn will pass it on to Maurice Long. They are guarding points of military importance in and around Portland, Oregon.

What portion of our regiment that is temporarily stationed here at Fort Lewis are living in pyramidal tents similar to those that we had in Camp Bowie. However, we heat with wood and coal instead of natural gas and use candles instead of electricity.

I haven't been able to go into Tacoma because we cannot leave the post. However, there is plenty to do around here. Night before last I went over to the skating rink and skated three hours for only ten cents. There is a place to bowl, play basketball, several theaters, chapels, canteens, and numerous other things. It is more like a town than Camp Bowie.

On our way up here, I saw sleet and rain in Texas, snow in Mexico, rain in Arizona; in sunny California there was rain and no sunshine, snow and beautiful mountains in Oregon, and in Washington we saw more rain. However, it has rained only once since we got to Fort Lewis last Sunday morning and it hasn't stopped.

There are lots of Douglas fir trees around our company which makes a wonderful background for our company area. Forty miles to the east, Mount Ranier, snow-capped, reaches up to the clouds, so I am told. A great number of people down there think that it is cold up here, but so far the thermometer has registered between 40 and 50 degrees. Up here it gets dark about 4:30 (6:30, your time) and gets light about 8 o'clock each morning.

I would surely like to be at home to see all of my friends, but this is one time that my love for my country comes first.

Up here nobody seems too worried about things even though they realize the great danger that is confronting all of us. Things are not as bad as everyone thinks, but the U. S. will be and is prepared to meet any situation that may arise.

We, who are in the armed forces of our great country, (and proud of it) live each day as it comes and know the future will take care of itself.

The morale of our troops is very good and all of us want to fight this thing to the finish and try to see that it won't happen again. Whatever task any of us are given, we are going to do it rapidly and efficiently.

I know that everyone at home, as usual, will do everything they possibly can.

Give my best regards to everybody and the best of luck.

I am already looking forward to receiving this week's Eagle.

Your Friend,
Harold Yarbrough.

R. D. Egger In Iceland

The following is a letter received by Mr. and Mrs. Alton Jones:

Reykjavik, Iceland September 30, 1941.

Dear Alton and Jewel:—

I will try to write a few lines, that is if I can for all the noise. We work most of the time but when we're not working there isn't anything to do but sit around and bat the breeze. The island is dry and you can't buy anything to drink but some 1 per cent beer. We can't understand the Icelandic language and very few of the people can speak English. The girls won't have much to do with us now, but I think they will change before we leave.

Our warehouse, (it used to be an old fish house) is just out at the edge of town and you can stand on the inside of the building and fish out the window. We will get a new warehouse later on and after we get straightened out there won't be much to do. We work two shifts now, one works at night and the other during the day.

It has rained every day since we have been here and the wind really blows some times. Our winter clothes have been issued to us and I don't think its any danger of us freezing this winter. All of our clothes are fleece lined and you look more like an Eskimo than a soldier when you put them on.

We American soldiers think we have a hard time and cuss the pay, but we don't realize how well off we are. A private in the British army draws ($8.00) a month and don't get to much to eat or wear. Most of our food comes out of a can but we are getting plenty to eat.

We got here the 16th but didn't come ashore to stay until the 22nd. We are living in the barracks the British moved out of. It has snowed here a little but its not cold enough for it to stay on the ground here but you can see plenty of snow up on the mountains.

I will sign off for this time.

Answer soon.

As Ever,

R. D. EGGER.

BENTLEY CLEMENTS WRITES THE EAGLE

England, November 23, 1941. Editor Goldthwaite Eagle Goldthwaite, Texas.

Dear Mrs. Thompson:—

I shall like to know if some arrangements could be made by which I could get the Eagle over here in England. Many of the Canadians are having their home town paper sent to them and I thought perhaps you could arrange to send the Eagle to me. News is so scarce over here of America at home that we feel entirely cut off.

You will have to pardon the writing, since I am doing this by candlelight.

I may not be in this part of the world long for I am considering going to Egypt. While in here though, my address is: Sgt. R. B. Clements, R-87894, RCAF Overseas, England.

Your Sincerely,
BENTLEY CLEMENTS.

Ask For Your January Calendar.

Earl Clements has been confined to his room this week on account of illness.

Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Horton and children and C. H. Horton spent the Christmas holidays with Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Horton in Talpa.

VARIETY IN PHOTOGRAPHY

Winter's on the way—and here's one fellow who'll like it. Have you tried making any animal pictures recently? It's one easy way of adding variety to your picture making.

DID it ever occur to you that you may be in a rut—photographically? That's an unpleasant thought, I know, but as far as many of us are concerned it's an all too real possibility. The trouble is, we don't practice variety in our picture making.

For instance, what have you been doing recently—just making pictures of the family? That's what I thought. Well, why not turn your hand to a few landscapes and see how many successful scenes you can produce this week. Have you been making nothing but small prints? Then, if you want a new thrill from photography, make some enlargements—a few really big ones, or have your photofinisher do the job if you lack an enlarger.

Variety in photography, you see, doesn't have anything to do with the bizarre or terrifically unusual. It comes down to a matter of working, for a little while at least, on some type of picture making that is new and interesting to you—or a type which you haven't tried for some time.

Most of us, of course, do our picture making during our leisure time, but if you want a pleasant change, try taking your camera to work. Take it right into the office, or factory, or on the job. Don't let it interfere with your work—of course that would be putting pleasure before business—but in the new setting see if you can't make it pay additional dividends in picture-making enjoyment.

And say—how have you been spending your lunch hour recently? Many amateur photographers who have to work these week ends, due to the rush of defense work, keep in trim by doing their snapshotting during the noon hour. It's great fun, they report. The subjects they find range from pattern pictures of automobiles in parking lots to candid snapshots of men and women on the streets or at work in shops or stores.

There's nothing which will sharpen your picture sense more than trying something new. It's a constant stimulus because you can't just rely on the old familiar angles and methods. You can read about picture making until your eyes won't focus, but if you really want to have fun with your camera, you've got to try things for yourself.

Have you ever explored the possibilities of documentary photography? Have you ever tried to make a picture which might hang in a National Salon? Have you done any industrial, scientific, or natural history picture making recently? If you haven't, why not try picture making along one of those lines today? Introduce variety in your photography, and you'll discover that there's fun ahead!

A New Afghan Design for You to Crochet

THERE'S nothing like an afghan to tuck around your knees when there's a draft in the living room, to make an extra cover for the day bed, to use outdoors on a chilly evening or wherever a casual warm covering is needed. Clever homemakers realize, too, that an afghan can lend rare charm to the decorative scheme of a home. The styles you choose can be quaint or severely modern, depending upon your tastes, and the colors you use can dramatize the main color theme of your rooms. No handwork is quite so exciting as to watch an afghan grow under your fingers, and here's a design that will do just that. Crocheted in moth-proofed afghan wool with cross-stitch vines embroidered on alternating panels, this lovely design will make itself at home in a dozen different rooms and will become a household favorite. Directions for crocheting this afghan may be obtained by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Needlework Department of this paper, specifying design #6072.

THE MYTH OF HITLER'S INVINCIBILITY

By GEORGE C. HESTER

When the final history of this war period is written, it will carry some of the strangest stories in military annals. There will be the story of international perfidy perfected to the point of scientific skill; of treachery that would disgrace the dark ages; of diabolic and unscrupulous disregard of all rules of war and equity in the treatment of subject civilians who have fallen victims of conquest. There will also be the story of the French generals sitting placidly behind their Maginot Line and politely waiting for the Blitz to strike the invincible ramparts. The story of how more than a dozen nations allowed themselves to be picked off singly by Hitler, each believing his empty promises so frequently betrayed.

But one of the most illuminating chapters will be the story of Russia. This was the country that military experts everywhere predicted would be so much mush before the Hitler war machine. But the thing that experts over-looked was that intangible, but very vital factor in warfare. It is the morale of the people. Everyone recognized the other difficulties of invading Russia, the terrain, the lakes and swamps, the vast distances, etc.; these in a measure were overcome by the German armies in their repeated victories. But the victories were empty victories. Still the Russians fought. It is this thing that has destroyed the myth about the invincibility of Hitler's war machine. He can be whipped; he has been whipped. Put that down as the turning point in World War No. II.

Recently this column quoted from Germany telling of fighting qualities of the Russian soldiers. Some time back the Washington Post collected a long list of such quotations, which are frank confessions on the part of Germany regarding what they really encountered in Russia.

That story is further revealed in the following quotations from these German papers, collected by the Washington Post. They are repeated because they give us the inside story of what actually happened in Russia:

"This is a dangerous enemy. It is soldiery that is fanaticized by bolshevism. Our soldiers know this very well after the battles which have taken place so far. The enemy does not fight openly and honestly; ruse and highway banditry are their methods. These are the creatures who have assassinated many brave German soldiers with attacks from the back. Large gangs are scattered over the road; they fall preferably on isolated German soldiers."

(Berliner Boersen Zeitung, July 10.)

"The terrible part about war in the East is that everywhere, at least at the outset, the fronts were never clearly defined. Spaces which separated advance routes could not be filled by infantry which did not follow tanks quickly enough, forests proved impenetrable, troops suddenly found themselves encircled."

(Berliner Boersen Zeitung, July 15)

"We have passed a mad night, but the Bolshevists have had just as bad a one. Who has surprised the other? Where is the enemy? Where is the friend? Have we played hide-and-seek in the dark? How many tanks are there yet in the woods? How many of the tanks which we have heard go out are still in the woods? Who was the hunter and the hunted?"

(Das Reich, July 20)

"The desperate character of this attempt in characteristic of the fashion in which Bolshevists fight, far behind their broken and pierced line of defense. They act as Engels and Lenin have taught them to make war in their military writings. For, for them each war is a civil war and they apply to it the theories of the revolution by violence and by partisan warfare."

"War in the Soviet Union is made first radically in deep advance then diagonally up to small engagements at short distance to man. That means, for all Germans, never putting neither day or night, neither during march nor at rest, neither in cooking, nor in bathing. They sleep to the point of exhaustion. Service or work detachments must have rifles, hand grenades ready."

(Das Reich of July 27)

"In the holes, in scarcely visible niches, behind bushes and in the Soviet Russia waits until our infantry approaches, and at a distance of several meters, it opens fire. The soldiers fight bravely, their eyes fixed on the goal. Soldiers fight in isolated units not offering a continued front. They let some German infantry pass through woods and fire several hours later on following columns or on a single man. They shoot well and they mark the shot each one."

(Frankfurter Zeitung of July 2)

HATS OFF TO PRIDDY

Priddy was at home to 50 soldiers of the 111 quartermaster regiment and Chaplain O. G. Grotfend of Camp Bowie Christmas day. The chaplain, preached at the 11 o'clock hour at the Lutheran Church. He and the boys were guests at a Christmas dinner then an afternoon program of Christmas carols, and a visit in the homes of members of the congregation. A fine day for the soldier boys, who were too far from home to be with their own loved ones.

It's Your Life

Texas Safety Assn.
Austin

How high do you fly when driving? What's your 'altitude'? Silly questions? Well, not so silly as they sound! The Texas Safety Association asks you to suppose your car were to shoot straight up into the air at the speed at which you travel. How high would it go before starting to fall? At 30 miles per hour it would rise 30 feet; at 60 it would go up 120 feet!

And when it hit the ground in coming down it would be going just about the same speed as when it started up—30 miles per hour from 30 feet, 60 miles per hour from 120 feet—but the crash on landing would be no worse than hitting another car head on, a train, a bridge, or rut, or any other 'fixed' objects at such a speed. A little slip in steering at 60 miles per hour may be pretty much the same thing as the crash from a plane up 120 feet. The chances of broken bones and torn bodies would be about equal.

When driving you might think of yourself as hovering over the road (at a height which depends upon your speed) with any accident resulting in a crash from that altitude. You might even think of your speedometer as an 'altimeter' which would read like this table. When the indicator needle points to 50 don't think 50 miles per hour but 80 feet up.

Per Hour	Altitude In Feet
20	13
30	30
40	50
50	80
60	120
70	160
80	210
90	270
100	330

This will help you understand the hazards of speed. By it you can better judge when and where to drive fast or slow. Such thinking will make you a safer driver.

State Department Health Notes

Doctor Geo. W. Cox, state health officer, stated today that he believed it would be a worthwhile idea for every Texan to take a health inventory at the beginning of the New Year.

"In the true spirit of New Year, we should give some thought to the mistakes we have made during the past year, and a great deal of thought to planning some way of improving our health conditions during the coming year," Doctor Cox said.

"The American people are very fortunate. We have scientific knowledge of communicable diseases; we have already made important conquests in the warfare against infectious diseases; as a people we still cherish the methods of reasoning as the best means of adjusting human differences.

We have material wealth to make knowledge work; we have capable leaders in the sciences of life processes that see great opportunities for public good in health measures that unite effectively the resources of medicine, education, finance, and government. We are probably the most realistic and practical of all people. We should be capable of even a more vital national economy, and nothing can be of greater help to our country at this time than the conservation and promotion of good health," Doctor Cox asserted.

The state health department, according to Doctor Cox, is confident that with national health being stressed as our foremost means of civilian defense, 1942 will see great strides of progress in upbuilding the nation's health.

Highlights Of Texas History

By CHARLES O. HUCKER
University of Texas Library

NOAH SMITHWICK:

CIVIL OFFICER DELUXE

A considerable debt of long standing is acknowledged by Texas social historians to pucky old Noah Smithwick, whose famous volume of memoirs, "The Evolution of a State," is perhaps the best loved of all the books that came out of his early days. Illuminated by his acute powers of observation and his great sense of humor, it is probably the best existing source book on the human side of Texas history.

Smithwick came to Texas several years before the outbreak of the Revolution and stayed on until long after it became one of the United States, wandering on then to California. And during his stay in the Southwest he seems to have picked up and stored away in his memory most of the interesting bits of information and good stories available. Students in the University of Texas Library's unequalled Texas Collection have found more books there more delightful than his.

One of the aspects of life in old Texas which Smithwick illuminated in his memoirs is the everyday, commonplace workings of civil government in the Republic. He was in a good position to observe and write of them, for at one time and at the same time he was postmaster, lieutenant-colonel of militia and justice of the peace in the little community of Webber's Prairie.

"When the mail route up to Austin was opened," he wrote late in life, "we were allowed an office in Webber's Prairie. I was appointed postmaster with a certain percentage of all the money I took in to pay me for my trouble. That was long before the advent of postage stamps, and the charge for letters was 25 cents payable at either end of the line. Letters were consequently few and far between."

A man named Peter Carr was the first mail carrier to serve under Smithwick, and it so happened that Carr was too accommodating to think of collecting those postage fees on letters he delivered. It wasn't long before Smithwick began to suspect that something was wrong with the system and not much longer before he discovered what the trouble was.

"I then straightaway notified the postal department that unless they would furnish a locked pouch I would throw up my commission," he wrote. "I served a year or more, using my dwelling house for an office, and never got a cent either for my services or office rent."

HIS JUDICIAL CAREER

During that time Smithwick got his commission in the militia. It paid nothing. A t about the same time he consented to be elected justice of the peace—though, as he put it in his customary ironic way, "I was not selfishly inclined and had no desire to monopolize the offices"—so that he might marry his friend the schoolmaster.

"On the bench," he wrote, "I was a shining success, not one of my decisions ver being excepted to." That, it appears, is because he made none. The only case settled in court, apparently, concerned a Lipan Indian who proved that a white settler had stolen his horse, and it was settled only when Smithwick, perplexed by a situation just the reverse of normal, asked the Indian what ought to be done. "Oh turn him loose," the Indian replied, and he did. Otherwise his official acts consisted of four wedding ceremonies.

"When my time expired my constituents were anxious to again invest me with the judicial ermine," he wrote; but he declined the honor, seeming content to retain only his commission in the militia. He had never collected a dollar as justice; so he told the people he thought he would "go around," assuring them, however, that when it came his turn again he would bear the burden like a good citizen.

100 YEARS AGO IN TEXAS

"We found sticking under our door, a few mornings since, the most original and truly sentimental specimen of modern poetical genius, that we have seen in many a long day. It contained about fifteen verses composed, as the author says, 'On the present melancholy strait of Texas.' The following is the last 'verse' of that spirit stirring wht-you-may-call-it.

"The libbertis of ower counterri is gwine!
Faster then ever jailburd flap a whing;
An ef sompen arnt dun in a shorte time,
Weere gon to the devele. ef wee arnt by jing.

—Jimmy!"
Rake it down 'Jimmy'—you win.

"The Hon. Wm. Henry Daingerfield arrived in this city last evening. The members of the Senate are now all in attendance."

"Samuel Swarouth is in Washington City. He looks fat, well clad and saucy."—The Texian (Austin), Nov. 25, 1841.

Miss Velma Shaw of Abilene spent the holidays with her sister and mother, Mrs. J. M. McCasland and Mrs. Callie Shaw.

It Is Up to Patient

The most important thing the diabetic must understand from the very outset is that he himself more than anyone, is responsible for the course of his disease. When sugar is found by the doctor, preceded by the usual symptoms, of thirst, hunger, loss of weight and frequent urination, a diet will be ordered which will supply sufficient nourishment without any loss of sugar and without the additional use of insulin injections if possible. More often than not a reduction in the total quantity of one's habitual diet will if directed especially at the starches and fats, result in controlling and alleviating the disease.

In no case will the starch be cut out from the diet entirely, since this would heap the blood with fatty acids with disastrous acid coma as the result. This used to be the diabetic's Waterloo and his common end, but only carelessness permits that today. There are certain conditions especially dangerous to all diabetics, particularly infections, injuries and digestive disturbances. Many fatalities have arisen because of taking lightly so small a thing as a boil, an abrasion of the foot, an attack of diarrhea, sore throat or in fact any indisposition.

The rule is (and the diabetic can never afford to depart from it) whenever feeling unwell from any cause, go to bed, send for the doctor, and while waiting drink a glass of liquid every hour, either coffee, tea, orange juice, water gruel or plain enema. It is essential that feet be given especial care, cut corns or callouses, en in soap and water, d fully and apply salicylic acid and colloidion 1 dram to the ounce. We do not know what causes diabetes though it has an especial affinity for people who live well and are overweight and who eat heartily of breads, potatoes and sweets. It seeks out those who are physically inactive and there is no doubt that the mechanization of industry must play some part in its increase. Women are much more inclined to the disease than men. Diabetes is the only disease of which it can be said that one's fate is largely in his own hands.

To share in the final victory, give to the RED CROSS.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ducey and baby of Eagle Pass have been visiting during the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Ducey.

As Regards Old Age Assistance

Questions and Answers dealing with old age assistance by Representative Frank Howington.

I am asked many questions about old age assistance, due to this I am submitting you the following questions and answers. However, they must not be construed as the law, but is the interpretation placed on the law by the department at the present. First we must keep in mind that all state laws and interpretations must comply with federal regulations in order to receive federal aid. One of the questions often asked is how can a person establish their age? Some form of written record and must be of long standing in fact any reliable record, such as birth certificate, marriage, census, bible insurance, school employment records, baptismal records, naturalization papers. All children born since 1918 carry the parents age. If you had children in World War number 1 it should give your age. Three poll tax prior to 1935 if you are under seventy and one if over. Medical records from hospitals, lodge records. If no type of age proof is available, affidavits may be submitted.

May an aged person own real estate and be eligible? Yes an aged person may own a resident homestead. Resident homestead is held by the board to mean that a person cannot for example own a house and lot in one place and live in it and own other real estate elsewhere and come under the resident homestead law exemptions. They may hold a life insurance policy up to $1,000 and it is not considered as an income or resource. The law provides that no person shall receive more than $30.00 per month. After age proof is established then all cases are to be based on need and subject to change, and the law requires that a thorough investigation be made. The amount of your income is to be taken into consideration, income means, "Means of support" it includes wages, salary, income from property in fact all resources in cash or kind, then that is to be deducted from $30 per month to arrive at the amount you are entitled to under the law. It is a strict violation of the law for any person to transfer or make a voluntary assignment of property to qualify for assistance. It is also a violation to conceal property. Any person who feels that they come under the law has a perfect right to make application. However, it delays the program for a person to make application when it is evident they do not come under the law.

It is not at all necessary for a person to employ or consult an attorney, it is the duty of the county worker to give you all the information you will have to have and don't be misled by some shyster.

These questions are often asked. Who determines who is eligible? And how is it determined? The county worker must make a recommendation as to whether the person applying meets the requirements of the law to the area supervisor. And they approve the recommendation. The law requires that this recommendation be based on a thorough investigation of the income, needs and eligibility of the applicant.

Improved Uniform International SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for January 4

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education, used by permission.

THE SYNOPSIS GOSPELS: MATTHEW, MARK, LUKE

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 1:1, 17; Mark 1:1, 14, 15; Luke 1:1-4. GOLDEN TEXT—Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners.—1 Timothy 1:15.

A new year of God-given opportunity with the assurance of His grace and strength for our daily need. Such is the precious gift we hold in our hands as we enter on A. D. 1942.

With the new year, we enter upon a new course of study—carefully planned ahead through 1947, if the Lord tarries. We begin very appropriately with a study of the life of Christ as presented in the first three Gospels, known as the Synoptic Gospels.

"Synoptic" is a combination of two words, meaning "a view together," and refers to the fact that Matthew, Mark, and Luke give us the same general view of Christ, although differing somewhat in their emphasis.

Matthew, writing his Gospel especially to the Jews, presents Christ as King. Mark, for the Romans, presents the Servant. Luke presents to the Greeks the Son of Man—the perfect Man, and John, for the Christian church, reveals the Son of God. But note that all the Gospels are for us, and in them we find the fourfold picture which presents the many-sided glory and beauty of our Lord. Turning to our scriptures we see—

I. The King (Matt. 1:1, 17).
These verses come at the beginning and end of the kingly genealogy of Jesus. It is important that the descent of a king be carefully recorded and studied, for it alone can prove his right to the throne. We know that Israel rejected Jesus as King, but we also know what prophecy reveals that He will one day take the throne of David and reign. Does He have that right?

In Matthew 1:1-17, we have His national and royal descent. Being son of both David and Abraham, He is heir to both the promise and the throne. As King of Israel, there was no need to trace His lineage back further than Abraham through David, but we find that in Luke (2:23-28) the Son of Man is traced back to Adam. Mark has no genealogy for reasons noted below, and John also has none, for the Son of God is eternal, infinite, without need of genealogy.

Turning now to Mark, we find Him presented as
II. The Servant (Mark 1:1, 14, 15).
A servant needs no genealogy, he needs only to be able and ready to work, and that is just what we find in Mark. The account plunges at once into the story of "the gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God," who is ready to serve—by life or by death—yes, even by the death of the cross.

The forerunner, John the Baptist, bears his witness. Jesus is baptized. John is imprisoned, and immediately Jesus begins to preach, "Repent ye, and believe the gospel." The key verse of Mark is 10:45: "For even the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister." The characteristic words are "straightway," "forthwith," and "immediately." The Greek word thus translated appears about 40 times in the book. The Servant of God went quickly about the Father's business. Christians, can we say the same for ourselves?

III. The Son of Man (Luke 1:1-4).
Luke undertakes to write, under the control of the Holy Spirit, a careful account of the saving work of Christ, but he makes it doubly clear that he writes from firsthand knowledge. "Eyewitness" means those who made a personal investigation, hence, those who knew Christ as the Son of Man, the One who became flesh and dwelt among us. "Ministers" means literally those who served under Jesus, His personal assistants; again emphasizing His personal ministry as "the Son of man who is come to seek and to save that which was lost" (as Luke 19:10, the key verse of this Gospel, expresses it).

IV. The Risen and Ascended Lord (Acts 1:1-5).
Christ who was crucified arose a Victor over death and the grave, and ascended to the Father, where He now appears as our Advocate. That does not mean that His work on earth terminated, for we have in Acts what Dr. Morgan fittingly calls "the book of the continued doing and teaching of the living Christ by the Holy Spirit through His body, which is the church."

The Gospels (Acts 1:1) told only that "Jesus began to do and to teach." Acts continues, but does not complete the story. Christ is working today in and through millions of believers. Will He have silver-shed through you and that in a year of 1942? If so, it is up to you—yes, a bl

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

E. E. DAWSON, Pastor
 Next Sunday is an important date in the church's annual life. It will be the occasion of the annual Christmas offering for Buckner Orphans Home, a date that is of loving interest to all. Then it will be the quarterly observance of the Lord's Supper. Naturally these two events will move all loyal souls to be on hand and participate.

Then, too, the annual installation of officers and teachers of the Sunday school and the officers of the church takes place. Every teacher and officer elected is earnestly urged to be on hand to receive formal inauguration into office.

Sunday school at the regular hour, and the worship hours the same as have been: 10:50 in the morning and 7:00 in the evening.

You will be welcome whosoever you are.

January Conference

The Workers Conference of Mills County Baptist Association for January will be on Wednesday, January 21. The original date was January 10, but due to the fact that an association-wide meeting has been arranged for the 21st it was thought best to have just the one meeting. A board meeting will be held at the meeting.

RED CROSS IS OPEN FOR VOLUNTEER CIVILIAN DEFENSE

We are all very conscious at the present time of service which the American Red Cross is rendering to the civilian defense organization. The following outline giving, briefly, basic information concerning Red Cross services in which there are opportunities for volunteer participation in activities vital to civilian defense:

First Aid — Basic training in first aid to the injured for every worker and official in civil defense, all employees and officials in industry and government, and of the general public.

Home Nursing — (Miss Gertrude Kauhs, graduate nurse, instructor, simple training for care of sick in homes.

Nurse's Aide Corps — A short hospital training course for volunteers to assist nurses.

Motor Corps — A transportation service for the Chapter and for approved local or national organization.

Canteen Corps — Organized trained group to operate a Canteen service.

Hospital and Recreation Corps — A trained group of women to help maintain morale through friendly service and recreation for convalescent patients.

Production Corps — (Mrs. A. L. Whitaker, chairman) — The making of garments and knitted articles, and surgical dressings.

Home Service Corps— Special welfare service for men and families of men in the armed forces, as well as for veterans and their dependents.

These are patriotic services needed now. The year ahead will demand much from all of us. If you are willing to serve in any of the above courses, please register for volunteer service at the County Judge's office or with Miss Claudia Carroll, secretary of the Mills County Chapter.

MRS. JOHN G. BERRY, Volunteer Chairman, Mills County Chapter, American Red Cross.

DEFENSE HEALTH DIRECTOR APPOINTED

Acting jointly, Mayor H. G. Bodkin and County Judge R. J. Gerald have appointed a defense health director for Mills County. This appointment was made at the request of Governor Coke Stevenson, state director of civilian defense. The duties of such a director are to co-ordinate the health activities of the county for defense and preservation of the public health during the war. Dr. J. M. Campbell, county health officer, was appointed as director.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Cline, Sr., left last Wednesday for a weeks visit with their daughter, Mrs. C. H. Leverett and family of Houston.

Special Trades Day Matinee, Monday, January 4, 1942. Saturday Night Only.

Harvey Dunkle visited with home folks Christmas day.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Bayley returned Sunday from Fort Worth where they spent several days visiting Misses Mary and Lela Holley.

Mrs. R. C. Epperson and daughters, Mary Nell and Anna Merle visited in Hico with Mrs. J. A. Leach Christmas day.

Haskell Tubbs and family were Sunday visitors in the R. L. Mikeal home.

Roy Hill seems to be quite a trapper. He keeps catching bobcats around his chicken pen. He caught a large cat one night last week.

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day. Everybody be at church.

Miss Myrtle Huckaby spent last week end with relatives at Priddy.

HEAD HEIRS PRESENT PICTURE TO COUNTY

The heirs of the late Clint A. Head have presented the county with an enlarged picture of Judge J. B. Head, who was the first county judge in Mills County. The picture has been placed in the county judge's office in the court house.

Judge J. B. Head was elected first county judge of Mills County when the county was formed from portions of Lampasas, Brown and Comanche Counties in 1887. He served two terms.

The first commissioners' court of the county met on Sept. 12, 1887. The commissioners were G. H. Dalton, A. V. Patterson, D. S. Kelly, and S. M. Moore. Phil H. Clements was first county clerk, and G. W. Cunningham sheriff.

ROOSEVELT WAS RIGHT

No newspaper columnist has more angrily detested and suspected most of the internal operations of the New Deal than Westbrook Pegler, noted author and Pulitzer Prize winner. Equally, no newspaper columnist more admires now the tenacious bravery of President Roosevelt in his war policy than this same author of many criticisms of the Roosevelt administration.

In one of the most recent of his syndicated columns, entitled "Fair Enough," appearing in the Washington Post, Mr. Pegler refers to Mr. Roosevelt as the "one man who is responsible for the vast improvement of the military fitness of the United States, achieved from a standing start after the invasion of the Low Countries, never for an instant faltered in his determination to get the American Nation in shape to meet the inevitable."

"Long before the war began with the sneak-punch invasion of Catholic Poland," writes Mr. Pegler, "the President had made his own decision that Adolf Hitler was determined to see the German nation loose, armed beyond the poor, dumb power of Britain's military men or the best of ours to imagine. In a campaign to enslave Europe and conquer the United States.

"Having made up his mind on the basis of plain evidence, Mr. Roosevelt determined that this country must fight for its lift against Hitler and Japan and set about creating a war psychology in the American people so that we would not be caught entirely unprepared spiritually or entirely unarmed.

"All the way from the hour when he first realized that war with Hitler was inevitable down to the moment when Hitler's ally in the Pacific suddenly bombed a sleeping American city, Mr. Roosevelt stood by his conviction, often under conditions which would have made a weaker man give ground and look for excuses.

"Through it all, Mr. Roosevelt fought on toward a vindication which came in the dawn of Sunday in the Pacific.

"But he was right all along, and doggedly brave in the when he fought almost alone, make the people recognize the enemy and prepare to fight, and the final proof of his wise courage was given by the enemy himself that Sunday morning."
