CANNING AND DRYING CORN

Fresh corn . . . on the cob or off . . . holds a spotlight all its own at any meal from a picnic to a formal dinner. Almost everyone likes corn, and there is plenty of it these summer days—crisp and fresh, straight from the fields.

But not so far away in mild weather, when fresh vegetables will be a thing of the past for the time being. If we want corn, then we have to make preparation now—while we can still get it newly picked and just right for storing.

Canning and drying are two ways to put up corn for future use. Here are some pointers on just how to follow through with these methods.

Canning Corn—Whole Grain
Use only freshly gathered corn, with husks green and kernels tender and full of milky juice.

"Two hours from garden to can" is a good rule to follow with sweet corn for canning. The sugar in corn begins turning to starch as soon as the ears leave the stalk. And in hot weather especially, other changes can take place that may make canned corn difficult to keep if the corn stands around too long before it is put up. Can it quickly, keep it cool until you do.

When you are ready to can, shuck and silk the corn and cut it from the cob—deeply enough to take off most of the kernels without removing the hulls too. Do not scrape the cobs for whole grain style corn.

Put the corn in a kettle. Add one teaspoon of salt for each quart of corn, and half as much boiling water as the corn weighed. The amount needed will be about 2 cups of water to a quart of corn.

Heat to boiling, then pack into glass jars or tin cans while hot. Be sure to leave enough head space when packing . . . one inch for glass jars and 1-2 inch for tin cans. Head space is necessary so the corn will have room to expand while processing.

The cans are scarce this year because of the need for tin and steel plate for war. If you do can corn in tin, be sure the cans have a C-ensaged lining. Corn in plain tin cans turns dark—not that the dark color is dangerous to health but it makes the corn look unappetizing.

Once the hot corn is packed into containers, leave no time in getting it into the pressure canner. And above all, process canned corn in a canner under steam pressure. It is not safe to try to can corn in a boiling water bath or in the oven. Corn is starchy, best penetrates slowly, and corn must be thoroughly processed to the center of the jar to kill the bacteria that may make it spoil.

So, play safe, process corn at 240 degrees F, or at 15 pounds pressure. Processing time is as follows: 60 minutes for pint jars (glass), 70 minutes for glass quart jars, 90 minutes for No. 2 tin cans, and 65 minutes for No. 3 tin cans.

Then cool the corn thoroughly and store in a cool, dry place—a dark one too for glass jars. "Flat sour" can easily develop in home canned corn not cooled quickly enough or stored in too warm a place.

In canning whole grain style corn of the field varieties, follow the above directions and add 15 minutes extra processing time. However, it is much better to use the sweet corn rather than the field corn in canning whole grain style corn.

MAKE LIMITED SUGAR SUPPLIES FILL THE BUDGET

By careful planning the homemaker can meet the needs of the family food preservation budget, despite the limited amount of sugar she can obtain.

Stretch your sugar allowance by: Thinner syrups for canning fruits and fruit juices will have to be used, it will be necessary to dry some fruits; fewer jars of preserves and jams than usual will be made; and jelly—as the least nutritious of the list—should be made last after the remainder of the budget has been filled.

By using corn syrup or honey the limited amount of sugar can be made to go farther. Both of these can be substituted for some or all of the sugar in almost all of your favorite recipes.

Corn Syrup: Corn syrup is quite good for canning because it doesn't mask the flavor of the fruit. To make a light syrup use 1-2 cup corn syrup to 1-2 cup water. Other directions in canning fruit are given in B-85, Canning Fruits and Vegetables. Corn syrup is fair in making preserves and jams when it is used with an equal amount of sugar. It is not so good for jelly because it takes longer to jelly and is then somewhat sticky.

Honey for Canning: When honey is diluted sufficiently it is good for canning. About 3-4 cup of water and 1-4 cup of honey make a good syrup for canning most fruits. First, bring the water to the boiling point, and add honey and stir. Again let come to good boil, remove scum and pour over fruit. Follow other directions for processing in B-85.

For Preserves and Sweet Pickles: Honey is much better in preserves and jams than in jelly. If possible, use at least one-third sugar and two-thirds honey for preserves. Honey is especially good in sweet pickles, probably better than plain sugar.

For Jelly: Honey makes a good texture of jelly. Substitute it for sugar cup for cup. The color of the jelly is darker, however, and it takes a minute longer to cook. The flavor is in most cases strong with the honey. If it is necessary to use honey in making jelly, it is best to use one-half sugar and one-half honey. Be sure to use a large kettle because honey foams considerably and there is danger of its boiling over.

Consider the Cost: When bought, honey is two and one-half or three times as expensive as sugar, and corn syrup is about twice as expensive.

How to Make Invert Sugar: A Florida experiment station scientist recommends making invert sugar to make it go farther. To do this, mix one cup of sugar and 14 tablespoons of water. Add one-fourth teaspoon of tartaric acid (which you can get at any drug store). Cover this sugar, water and tartaric acid mixture and boil gently for 30 minutes. Allow it to cool. Then you have invert sugar syrup. Each cup is equal in sweetening to a cup of sugar. In other words it is about 1 3-4 times as sweet as the same weight in plain sugar.

Use of Invert Sugar: This syrup is excellent to use in canning, and it may be diluted one-half syrup and one-half water. It is also good in sweetening fruits, cereals, ice cream and beverages.

By MRS. EULA NICKOLS

Our sympathy goes to Mr. and Mrs. E. W. McNutt, who live in Trigler Mountain community, for the going away of their son Roy who was working at Pearl Harbor. In your sad hours may our Savior be your guide and comforter.

Some from here went down to O. B. Bell's Saturday night to a musical. A. J. Bell and wife and son from Stamford were there, and their son, A. J., played his violin while J. D. Berry, Pat Obenhaus and Richard Sanders accompanied him on their guitars. Mrs. J. D. Berry played the piano. This young man, A. J. Bell, is blind. He has dog that takes him from place to place. The music was fine.

Mrs. Ben Davis and son went home Monday after a few days' visit in the McGowan home.

O. L. Ellis from Stephenville came for another load of melons Monday afternoon.

Rufus Pierce and wife visited with John Roberts and wife Friday night.

I am glad to say my boy Dwight is able to be up some now. Also glad to hear Hugh Dennard at Big Valley is better.

W. M. Keen and wife and Mrs. John Roberts went fishing last Thursday.

It is just too bad we can't get a good rain. It might cool the atmosphere and everybody would feel much better.

FROM MISS GRIFFIN

Dear Mrs. Thompson and Eagle Readers:
Just a line to let you know that I am still a weekly reader of the Eagle, and am forever thinking of good old Mills County.

I am now working in the Waco Army Flying School as a mechanic-learner at the salary of $75 a month, after completing my seven-weeks' training in the N.Y.A. center here in Waco.

You girls between the ages of 18 and 24 don't know the pleasure and good in life you are missing when you haven't considered entering the N.Y.A. It certainly is a swell place to stay and get some valuable training. There are several girls from Mills County here and as a whole we like it lots.

Seventy-five dollars a month might not sound like much to some people, but as a mechanic-learner with a good view of a big job ahead it means plenty to me.

I wrote this letter mostly as an inducement to you girls of Mills County between the ages I mentioned to start thinking about getting in the N.Y.A. and helping more than ever to win this war. You really don't know what you are missing, so think it over and finally decide to come to Waco and go to work. There's plenty of room for you.

Here's hoping I hear of several more girls entering school in Waco soon.

May Dell Griffin, 413½ Washington Ave. Waco, Texas.

JAMES V. ALLRED OPENS RUN-OFF RACE AT ABILENE TUESDAY

Judge James V. Allred passed through Goldthwaite Tuesday afternoon on his way to Abilene to open his run-off campaign against W. Lee O'Daniel for the office of United States Senator from Texas. Mr. Allred visited the Eagle Office and left a copy of his address delivered at Abilene Tuesday night.

Among high points of his address were included:

There is going to be a run-off. It's here! A majority of the people of Texas broke the boasted charm of invincibility. The second front of allied Texans is opened here tonight. The real campaign is on. It is a campaign in which I urge all serious-minded Texans to toll with me every day, every hour and every minute from now until the polls close on August 22.

On that day the people of Texas will make the most important political decision in the history of the state. The eyes of the nation, indeed of the world, are on Texas. Before the results of the first primary had been finally determined, the Chicago Tribune and other isolationists groups who have always opposed the national defense program, gleefully hailed the election as a repudiation of President Roosevelt. But now they predict just as brazenly that the isolationists who voted to disband our army before Pearl Harbor will be victorious August 22nd. We shall see!

In broad outline and briefly stated my platform is:

- (1) To win the people's war as quickly as possible;
- (2) To provide for our boys in uniform while they are in and when they come out of the service;
- (3) To set up the machinery for readjustment at the present time and rehabilitation after the war is over;
- (4) To write and enforce an enduring peace that shall insure our children against another war.

CONGRESSMAN SOUTH EXPLAINS REASONS FOR WITHDRAWAL

In a letter sent to the Eagle late last week, Congressman South announced at Coleman that he would not enter the run-off primary against O. C. Fisher, who received a slight lead over him following the July 25 primary. Simultaneously it was announced that Mr. South would become a member of the law firm of Dibrell and Snodgrass of Coleman, one of the oldest and best-known firms in that section of the state.

"During ordinary times I would welcome an opportunity to discuss vital issues in a campaign. These are not ordinary times. Our first and primary duty is winning the war and this calls for a united people. I believe politics ought to be adjourned for the time being. I do not know whether I could win it at all or not, but I am sure I could not win it without waging a vigorous and active campaign, which I do not care to under the circumstances," Mr. South announced to the press.

"I want to extend congratulations to our next Congressman, Mr. O. C. Fisher, and I pledge him my full co-operation in his efforts to represent this great district in Congress.

"My constituents have been most generous with me, and I deeply appreciate their confidence and support. During the few remaining months before the expiration of my present term, I expect to continue my best efforts to be of worth-while service," Mr. South said.

For a government guarantee of a 25 cents per pound minimum during the duration of cotton produced in the United States.

For the government buying storing the surplus wool and mohair of the nation for future use; against the government buying South American coffee. Against gasoline proration in Texas.

O. H. MOORE MAKES STATEMENT TO VOTERS OF 104TH DIST.

I want to express appreciation of the vote I received in Mills County and thank each of you. As you know it is impossible for us to run our cars as heretofore and I have not been able to see all the people of Mills County and take this method to solicit your support in the Run-off Primary Aug. 22.

As you know, there were three of us in this race from De Leon. The other candidates are good citizens, well known, and reputable. I did not feel that a campaign against these men would be in good taste. I did not announce in our local paper. Each of us had many friends here who would be free to vote his own way as far as I was concerned. I can say, so far as I know, they treated me with the same consideration that I extended to them. However, I carried the De Leon vote and also I was high man in Comanche County, where I have taught school. I was given a larger vote than all my opponents combined. I submit this to you as a sufficient recommendation from those who know me best that I may ask you for your vote.

I wish to say that I feel prepared to take my place in our Legislature and have studied Social Science in the University of Texas, and believe I understand our tax structure. I believe I can render a service to the schools. I hope to see a work shop erected and equipped in every school so that our boys may study mechanics and precision tools as girls study Domestic Science.

I am not a politician and feel it is proper to include in this message to you a statement from which you can see something of why I have gone into this race:

A Statement To The Voters:

As chairman of the organization that "drafted" and endorsed O. H. Moore for the place on the ticket for Representative, I wish to make this statement:

- (1) Mr. Moore had entertained no notion of running and it was at the urgent request of the citizens attending this meeting that he became a candidate.
- (2) Mr. Howington has been given the place for the customary two terms.
- (3) Our old people are facing a cut in their pensions on account of the "ceiling" voted into the Omnibus Bill.
- (4) Mr. Howington voted for this ceiling and did not commit himself to remove it.
- (5) Mr. Moore is well qualified by education and training to serve in the Legislature. For these reasons we urge that you concur in this endorsement and help send Mr. Moore to the Legislature, where we are sure he will lend his every effort to improve the pension situation and will be helpful in promoting constructive legislation in our state.

In the Welfare Department, which handles pension applications, they have 953 persons employed at salaries ranging up to $5,000.00 at a total cost of $1,788,094.00 and that department has 19,000 applications not acted upon. With such numerous employees and extravagant waste of the funds, those who receive pensions are threatened with cuts in their meager allowance. We believe we have a right, as citizens, to seek relief from this deplorable condition and we hope to assist in this by the election of Mr. Moore.

L. E. STEELE, Chairman.

There were 2,500 votes cast in the District for the two candidates that were eliminated, and it is from these votes that I hope to secure my plurality. I have not at any time tried to take the other man's votes. I respectfully ask that you in Mills County who voted for one of the other men to consider my candidacy.

While I have nothing but the kindest regard for my opponent, I will say that the people of Comanche County gave him an office some years ago for the customary two terms, but he ran for a third term and was defeated. This Legislative District has given him this office for the customary two terms and he is asking for a third term. I believe I can render a constructive service in the Legislature. Those who know me best indicated that they thought so by the vote they have given me, and with the help of my friends in Mills County I feel that I will be elected, and I assure you that I will make every effort in every way to render a service that you will approve.

Very sincerely yours,
O. H. MOORE.
Candidate for Representative.

JESTER OPENS HIS CAMPAIGN FRI. NIGHT

Corsicana, Aug. 7.—Opening his run-off battle for the State Railroad Commission, Beauford Jester will discuss the importance of his campaign in a radio speech to a statewide audience from his home town, Corsicana, tonight. The talk will be carried over a 15-station network.

"Texas oil and transportation are vitally important to our war effort," Mr. Jester said. "Most of the oil that will fly our planes, power our mechanized divisions, and fuel the ships of America and her Allies will come from Texas. There must be no bottlenecks in Texas' oil production and transportation facilities.

"The people of Texas need a war veteran and a fully qualified Railroad Commissioner who will see to it that every industry regulated by the commission can and does function at its maximum in our war effort," Mr. Jester declared.

A native of Corsicana, Jester is a graduate of Texas University and served from 1932 to 1935 as chairman of the University's board of regents. He interrupted his law studies to go overseas in 1917 as an infantry captain in the 90th Division. He saw action in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives. Returning to the law after the armistice, he completed his studies and has practiced in Corsicana ever since. He has taught a Sunday school class in his Methodist Church since 1924, and since 1935 has been a member of the State Advisory Board of the National Youth Administration.

GRATEFUL TO VOTERS

I am deeply grateful for the loyal support of those many friends who supported me throughout the campaign.

I shall never cease to be grateful to them for their loyalty and consideration during the recent campaign and for your splendid co-operation during the years that I was your Commissioner.

Very truly,
W. L. BARKER.

FISHER ASSURED CONGRESSIONAL POST AS SOUTH QUITS RUN-OFF

(From San Angelo Standard) O. C. Fisher of San Angelo, now serving his third term as 51st district attorney, stands assured of election to a higher post, that of Congressman of the 21st District, following Rep. Charles L. South's withdrawal from the prospective runoff contest.

Declaring that "a united people is needed in the current war emergency Rep. South said that "I believe politics ought to be adjourned for the time being." He gave his good wishes to his opponent.

Mr. Fisher, upon learning of Mr. South's withdrawal, stated: "I shall assume the responsibilities of the high office to which I have just been nominated in a spirit of humility at one of the most trying times in our history.

"Both Mr. South and Mr. Knox have conducted clean campaigns, and have treated me with every courtesy.

"I need, and earnestly solicit, the good will, the friendship and the support of both Mr. South and Mr. Knox as well as that of every man, woman and child in the district. For my part I can do no more than to renew my pledge of earnest, honest and conscientious performance of duty at all times."

Mr. Fisher, a native of Kimble County and owner of a stock farm near Junction, had announced his candidacy last December 4 and had continued an aggressive campaign in the vast 21st district, one of the nation's largest.

Finally carrying 19 of the 27 counties, and given a vote of 24,256 to Mr. South's 21,442 and the 7,034 for Harry Knox of Brownwood, Mr. Fisher started his run-off campaign even before the complete first primary results became known.

Rep. South's withdrawal from the run-off continued for Fisher an unbroken stream of seven political victories. A newcomer to San Angelo from Kimble County in 1931, he then won the office of Tom Green County Attorney by a 3-to-1 vote, and was re-elected to another term, then won the 91st district legislative post, and thereafter three consecutive terms as 51st district attorney—and each time, when opposed, received 2-to-1 majorities in his home county.

Mr. Fisher expressed his appreciation to everyone in the district who had contributed to the splendid vote which he received in the first primary election.

To Mills County Voters:

We are not making a house-to-house canvas over the county. I feel that it is our duty to help win the war, by conserving rubber, as well as trying to win in the race for Sheriff, Tax Assessor and Collector of Mills County.

So I take this method of soliciting your vote and influence in the coming election.

James V. Allred

For UNITED STATES SENATOR

There is a written record made of every speech during the first primary. It shows that James V. Allred engaged in no personalities, and that he did not reflect on the honor or integrity of any candidate but dealt simply and strictly with the records.

A part of his platform is as follows:

- (1)—To win the people's war as quickly as possible;
- (2)—To provide for our boys in uniform while they are in and after they come out of the service;
- (3)—To set up the machinery for readjustment at the present time and rehabilitation after the war is over;
- (4)—To write and enforce an enduring peace that shall insure our children against another war.

James V. Allred, in his speech at Abilene Tuesday night, said the first day he sat in the Senate Chamber at Washington he would introduce a bill to guarantee cotton growers of the United States a minimum price of 25 cents per pound for their cotton. That he would sponsor a bill giving the government authority to buy and store for future use the wool and mohair surplus of our country—instead of buying South American coffee to relieve the coffee surplus there.
