STENOGRAPHER REQUIREMENTS ARE LOWERED

Several changes designed to speed up recruiting of vitally needed stenographers in Washington, D. C., was announced by the Tenth Civil Service region today.

Under new requirements for the junior stenographer position, entrance salary $1440 a year the age limit is lowered to 17 one-half years, and applicants must be able to take dictation at the rate of 80 words per minute instead of 96 words.

A promotion examination to junior stenographer positions in Washington for all clerks and typists already employed in federal agencies throughout Louisiana and Texas was also announced. Applicants now employed as clerks will be required to take a typing and stenography test. Typists will only be required to take the stenography test. No general test will be required under the promotion examination.

Applications may be secured from any first or second class post office in Louisiana or Texas or from the regional director, Tenth Civil Service region, Customhouse, New Orleans.

NAVY SAYS USE FAST V MAIL SYSTEM NOW

New Orleans, Sept. 15.—Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, Commander-in-Chief of the Pacific Fleet, has issued an appeal to families of service personnel to use the new, fast V-Mail system for correspondence from Mainland to forces afloat and afield.

Pacific Fleet V-Mail authorities pointed out that speed, privacy and economy should make use of this microfilm service attractive to the armed forces.

Whereas regular airmail from the Hawaiian area to Pacific Coast points often takes many days—even going by convoy when mails are unusually congested—V-Mail to these same cities averages only four days. V-Mail for East Coast points takes only six days from the time of posting to arrival at its addressed destination.

In the fleet, mail clerks have been supplied with special V-Mail forms. Letters written on these blanks and posted for censorship are not read again until they reach the addresses.

Hawaiian area V-Mail is photographed on 16-millimeter microfilm spools in Honolulu. These rolls, two of which contain as many letters as an ordinary mail pouch, go to the mainland by the FIRST AVAILABLE air transportation. They rate highest priority; they go immediately.

By fast train mail, completed V-Mail is then sped to recipients, who get 4 by 5 one-half inch enlargements of the tiny negatives in official envelopes—without charge.

Mainlanders corresponding with men afloat or afield may obtain their V-Mail blanks from any postoffice. Full instructions appear on each form. Letters are sent to the nearest V-Mail center for forwarding by air to the soldier, sailor or marine concerned. Again days are saved; and valuable airplane space is conserved for vital war goods.

It was urged that service users of V-Mail request their correspondents to take advantage of this fast system. V-Mail now goes to personnel on duty in Australia—and in intermediate island bases.

A NEW INSURANCE CO. OPENS IN GOLDTHWAITE
Attention is called to the ad last week of the Commercial Union Insurance Company of Waco, which has opened an office for business in Goldthwaite. Many families will appreciate the group family plan insurance of this good company.

DESIGN FOR SCANDAL HILARIOUS ROMANTIC COMEDY

Rosalind Russell, who has run a wide gamut in her screen characterizations, now emerges as a lady judge in M-G-M's "Design for Scandal." This feature shows Thursday, Friday and Saturday matinee at the Melba Theatre. It is a role which proves once and for all that as a comedienne Miss Russell comes close to leading the Hollywood field.

Teamed with Walter Pidgeon, in the role of a magazine photographer who attempts to involve Rosalind in a scandal, the actress once again demonstrates her flair for comedy timing and the ability to give a fresh accent to almost any situation.

She has an able foil in Pidgeon as the man who makes himself agreeable to the lady judge only with the hope of unseating her from the bench, he makes his "Jeff Sherman" not only likeable but completely believable.

BOMBARDIER ENLISTMENTS

San Angelo, Sept. 15.—In the first ten days of the air forces specialists enlistment program, 107 men from San Angelo and nearby communities qualified and were accepted through the AAF Advanced Flying School for bombardiers, which will be opened here soon. Men from 29 communities enlisted during the first ten days. Fifty of these were from San Angelo. Coleman was second with eight, El Dorado third with seven and Miles was fourth with five.

Under this temporary program men with experience as mechanics, radio repairmen, welders and sheet metalmen may enlist for on-the-ground aircraft training with an excellent chance of being stationed initially at one of the two nearby fields.

The following is a complete score of the communities which enlisted men through the bombardier school:

Arden 1; Ballinger 2; Big Lake 2; Big Spring 1; Brownwood 2; Christoval 4; Coleman 9; Crane 2; El Dorado 7; Eola 2; Fort McKavett 1; Gouldbusk 1; Hext 1; Leaday 1; Mereta 3; Menard 2; Mertzon 1; Miles 4; Robert Lee 3; Rowena 1; Sanco 1; Sanderson 1; San Angelo 50; Sonora 1; Stephenville 1; Texon 1; Valera 1; Wall 1; water Valley 1.

"All Through the Night", which shows Saturday night at the Melba Theatre, chalks up a high score of thrills, action and rousing screen excitement. It is the story of an ex-gangster who goes after the Gestapo, using just about the same tactics he used against rival mobs in Prohibition days. With Humphrey Bogart as the gangster, a wonderful supporting cast which includes Kaaren Verne, Conrad Veidt, Judith Anderson, Peter Lorre, Jane Darwell and Frank McHugh. "All Through the Night" spells entertainment plus

BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. D. A. Bryant of Richland Springs preached both morning and evening at the Baptist church Sunday, September 13. The church will meet in Conference at 11 o'clock Sunday, September 20, for the purpose of considering him as a pastor. If a majority of the membership voting favor him as pastor, he will possibly move to Goldthwaite the following week. The committee urges the membership to be present at the church conference.

PRUITT LISTS WAYS OF SECURING SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBERS

That workers in all walks of life are war conscious and are anxious to contribute to the war effort is indicated by the large increase in the issuance of social security account numbers since December 7, according to David S. Pruitt, manager of the Austin office of the Social Security Board.

Thousands of workers continue to apply for their social security account number cards in person, according to Pruitt, who pointed out that while a personal call may be necessary in some instances, most applicants may readily secure their original or their duplicate cards by mail. "This not only saves the applicant time and money but aids the war effort through reduced use of automobiles and public transportation facilities," Pruitt said. The following suggestions were offered to workers who desire to obtain their social security numbers by mail:

1. Obtain Form SS-5, "Application for Social Security Account Number," from the nearest Social Security Board office either by telephone or letter. Application forms are also available at all post offices and United States Employment Service offices.
2. Carefully read the instructions for filling in the form. These instructions are given on the reverse side of the form itself.
3. Each item on the application form must be filled in. If the information called for in any item is not known, write "unknown."
4. Print (in blue or black ink) or use typewriter for all items except signature.
5. Use full names and not initials unless it is an initial name, in which case draw a line after each initial to indicate that it is an initial name.
6. If the employee has ever had a social security card before he must fill in item 11 of the application in full. He should also write his old number on the application if he has kept a record of it.
7. Women who have married since they obtained their first card and who have not changed their name on our records should obtain a "Request for Change of Records" (Form OAAAN-7003) rather than Form SS-5. Upon the basis of this form they may obtain their duplicate card and change their name on our records at the same time. They should place their old number on the form and return it together with their old card if they have it.

SOCIAL SECURITY TAX EXPLAINED

Some confusion seems to exist on the part of many employers regarding their responsibilities in connection with payment of the Federal tax on old-age and survivors insurance and the contribution levied for the State Unemployment Compensation program, according to David S. Pruitt, manager of the Austin Social Security Board field office.

"The Social Security Board, as such, collects no taxes," said Mr. Pruitt. "Collection of the old-age and survivors insurance tax is the responsibility of the Bureau of Internal Revenue," he continued. "However, there are two separate and distinct programs—the Federal old-age and survivors insurance system and the State unemployment compensation law. The coverage for employers under the Federal law applies to employers with one or more workers. Under the State law, coverage varies and contributions to the system by employers vary. The two programs are entirely separate agencies," Mr. Pruitt explained.

In some instances the employers have gotten the impression that they were not subject to the old-age and survivors insurance tax because they did not have the same or the required number of workers as the employer next door, who was covered under the State law and the Federal law also. "It is possible, Pruitt stated, for an employer to be subject to the old-age and survivors insurance tax and at the same time not be subject to the unemployment compensation tax. In any case an employer with one or more workers in a business covered by the old-age and survivors insurance law is subject to the tax of 2 per cent. The employer pays the tax but may deduct 1 per cent from the employee's wages. The total is reported to the collector of internal revenue, Pruitt said.

8. The mail address on the application must be correct as this is the address to which the card will be mailed.

9. Sign application as name is usually written.

10. Mail application to nearest Social Security Board office.

"Clerks assigned the duty of processing mail applications see to it that immediate action is taken on all such applications," Pruitt said.

RATIONING BOARD ISSUES STATEMENTS

A. T. Pribble, Chairman of the Mills County War Price and Rationing Board, called attention to the fact that many persons, either from lack of information or through negligence, are failing to surrender their War Ration Books to the local board when they are inducted into the armed services.

Heirs and next-of-kin also are failing to surrender to the board the books of persons who have died, Mr. Pribble said.

"There have been only 20 ration books surrendered for these causes to this board," he pointed out, "while conservative estimates are that 46 persons have entered the armed services from this county since May 4, 1942.

"Birth registrations and surrenders of books as a result of deaths also are considerably below our estimates of the reasonable expectation."

Mr. Pribble added that the war rationing regulations are very strict in this regard and he expressed hope that the local board would not have to call on the Office of Price Administration to invoke penalty provisions against persons who fail to observe this regulation.

CAMP HOOD SOLDIER AND BROTHER MEET AFTER LONG SEPARATION

(Temple Telegram)
CAMP BOWIE, Sept. 8.—They are still trying to figure out how it all happened, but so far they are blaming it on Fate. Cpl. Beecher Workman of the 605th tank destroyed battalion of Camp Hood, Texas, was admitted to the station hospital, Ward A-20, at Camp Bowie Tuesday night. The next morning he awakened to find, to his great surprise, his brother—whom he had not seen in over two years—in the next bed.

Sgt. Dorsey Workman, the long-lost brother, and a soldier with the 748th tank battalion of Camp Bowie, was admitted to the same hospital the afternoon before, causing the unexpected meeting—the first in over two years and more than 1,000 miles from the last meeting place.

The brothers, sons of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Workman of Charleston, W. Va., had no idea of each others whereabouts and had been trying to locate each other since their separation.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

FLOYD P. SMITH, Pastor

Our Revival with Rev. and Mrs. C. William Fisher started last Tuesday night with a good attendance and much interest has been shown by visiting friends and neighbors. The music, both instrumental and vocal, has been an outstanding part of each service and the congregational singing has been very enthusiastic. Friday night has been designated as Neighbor Night and we urge every one to invite his neighbor on that night. Special music has been arranged for that night. Sermon subjects for the remainder of this week will be as follows:

Friday night—Life's Great Tragedy.

Saturday night—All This and Heaven Too.

Sunday night—Christ and Holiness.

Sunday Night—God's Castaways

Other sermon subjects will be announced during the services. Everybody is invited to attend these great services and hear these young people sing and preach.

Shults Faulkner, Marvin Hodges Jr., and Aubrey Smith of Texas University visited home-folks for a few days the latter part of last week.

NEW HUNTING AND FISHING LICENSES ARE NOW NEEDED

All hunting, fishing, and trapping licenses, including commercial fishing licenses and licenses issued to other persons who make a living off wildlife resources, such as fish dealers and fur traders, expired the end of August, the close of the state's fiscal year, W. J. Tucker, the Executive Secretary of the Game Department, has announced.

Hunters and fishermen and all others interested were advised to purchase their new 1942-43 licenses as soon as possible.

The licenses may be obtained from Game Wardens, County Clerks and official license dealers, most of the latter being sporting goods dealers in the various cities and towns of the state.

Most in demand at present are the new hunting licenses, because of the nearness of the Fall hunting seasons. They open September 1 with the regular open season on mourning and white-winged doves. The season in the North Zone opened Sept. 1 and will last through October 12. The open season on these birds in the South Zone will open on Sept. 16 and last throughout Oct. 27.

Remember—the bag limit on doves this year is 10, and not 12, as it was last year. This is the result of a conflict between state laws passed by the Legislature and federal regulations governing migratory birds and waterfowl, which are issued each year by the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

For the convenience of hunters, the Game Department has prepared a map outlining all pertinent information regarding the dove season. This map was published in the Eagle last week.

Although shooting of white-winged doves in the lower Rio Grande Valley will not start until Sept. 17, William J. Tucker, executive secretary of the State Game Department, has asked sportsmen to start spreading the word around that if any white-wings with leg bands attached are shot, the leg bands should be forwarded to the department's Austin office.

The Executive Secretary emphasized that it is not illegal to have in possession a banded white-wing dove, or any other banded game bird killed in season.

The birds are banded so that geologists of the Game Department may study migrations and other aspects of the white-wing's life history. All of this scientific information is compiled and used in an effort to further conserve and increase the supply of white-wings. The banding technique has been used for years with bobwhite and blue quail, turkeys, and other birds besides the white-winged dove. Occasionally reports have reached the Game Department that either banded birds were not kept in possession, or that the leg bands were removed and thrown away, and this prompted the Executive Secretary to assure all persons of the legality of keeping banded birds and the necessity in the interest of conservation of sending the bands to the Game Department's office.

MEMORIAL BOOKS

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Scarborough of Austin this week sent funds to the Goldthwaite Public Library to purchase books as a memorial to Judge E. B. Anderson.

We who knew Judge Anderson feel that a more fitting tribute could not be paid his memory. The Library Board plans to mark the case containing the books as well as each book, so that all may know how these friends of Judge Anderson showed their friendship and esteem.

MRS. JOHN SCHOOLER.

EBONY—

By Clementine Wilmet Briley

Another good rain fell here last week making this a good year for fall gardens. And old timers say they never saw the grass finer.

The heart-breaking task of moving from the maneuver area has begun. Barney Tippen has bought a place close to Goldthwaite and has already moved.

P. R. Reid is planning to move his house down on the Clara Whittenburg place and live there until he finds a new location.

Wallace Perkins has leased a place near Mullin, but has not yet moved.

Billie McMullen has moved his cattle on the old Kelly place, now owned by John and Charles White.

Earl Day has bought a ranch at Elm Grove in San Saba Co. and will move his stock there.

Ernest Malone and Leslie White have been hauling corn bought from P. R. Reid this past week.

Luther Jernigan has bought 100 bushels of P. R. Reid's corn. Stanley Reeves has bought 300 bushels of corn from Cloud Mashburn.

Mrs. Effie Egger has been sending some of her turkeys to Brownwood.

R. M. Haynes, whom we are all glad to see looking so much better again, says he was able to do AAA work last week, and also hauled some of the loose stuff off his little place that is to go into the maneuver area.

Perhaps no one is more hurt in having to move from the maneuver area than Miss Dolly Reynolds. Both her little home at Ebony and her farm east of the Charlie Roberts place are to be taken. She doesn't know yet where she will go or what she will do. But most everyone left down here are saying "Miss Dolly, you can move your little house on my land." While Mrs. Sarah Ann Reeves, who struck up a friendship with the Reynolds family when the Reeves first came here from Tennessee in the early 30's, went up to see her Sunday to beg her to move her house down near her. This is a hard country in which to move houses, and then it is feared that it will be hard to find some one to do the moving.

Ebony claims a distinguished guest this week in the person of Mrs. Cicero Reeves of Trinidad, Colorado, who arrived at the Reeves home Friday.

Perhaps no other person has walked so deep into the hearts of the people of this community as "Miss Sallie", as we all call her. She first came to this community in the fall of 1895, as Miss Sallie Hildebrand, the first teacher of the Reeves school. She had the knack of winning the confidence of her pupils, and she became the confidential friend and adviser of most every pupil who went to school to her.

Miss Sallie boarded at the Reeves home, and through this years that followed, though she taught all over the county, this place became home to her. In about 1902 she and Cicero Reeves were married. They made their home here until 1913, when they moved to New Mexico and later to Colorado. She has been gone from here for almost 30 years. This is her first time to come back. The years have touched her lightly. We find very little change. She is still our Miss Sallie, the same vivacious person, still loving intensely the ones she loves, and perhaps, still hating intensely the things she hates.

Miss Sallie has taught for 51 years. I hardly think during that time she has missed a school, yet she has reared four children. She expected to retire this year, but since teachers are so scarce, she will teach again, and must be back in Colorado to begin her next term next week.

Since Mr. Reeves' tragic death a few months ago, Miss Sallie has traded her farm for a house in Trinidad. Her home has eleven rooms. She says it is the first time in her life she has had enough room, and she doesn't get lonesome much, for she has bushels of company.

Miss Sallie says she has lived in New Mexico and Colorado, and has been in California, but Texas is the best of all. "I love that place down there," she continued, "better than any other place in the world." And she pointed toward the old Reeves home.

PLEASANT GROVE HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB MET LAST WEDNESDAY

(Mrs. David Watters)
The Pleasant Grove Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. Trueman (Pete) Miles Wednesday, September 9. Mrs. Louise McAllister, County Home Demonstration Agent, met with the club. She demonstrated each step in the process of canning hominy. The result was a beautiful product that looked as well as any commercial brand of the same food.

The regular business meeting was held and Mrs. Shady and Mrs. McAllister contributed games for the recreational period. Mrs. Minnie Crawford, recreational Chairman of the club, has moved to Goldthwaite, therefore different members of the club were asked to volunteer to direct the recreational period until the next election. Mrs. Crawford was a loyal club member and shall be missed.

Those present at the meeting were Mmes. O. Z. Berry, C. H. Hill, A. C. Miller, George Shady, David Watters, Walker Wigley, Judge Miles, Louise McAllister and the hostess, Mrs. Trueman Miles. The next meeting will be held at the school house Tuesday, October 6.

Miss Emma Harrison has received word that her nephew, Jake Harrison, has joined the navy and is a chief petty officer instructing gunnery at San Diego California.

A Plan to Protect Agriculture After This War

For years the tragic results of the expansion of food-producing acreage during World War I has haunted American agriculture. Every farmer, as a matter of patriotism, interrupted his rotation of crops to produce food and more food for our armies and our Allies. Now again in World War II, to feed our soldiers and to serve the special demands of war industry, we are dislocating our normal production as a matter of patriotic service.

It seems plain that by the end of this war American farmers will have created a tremendous surplus production power which ordinary peacetime requirements will not absorb. By the end of 1942 our overall average increase production over the average for the last 10 years will be more than 21 per cent. How then can American agriculture side-step a post-war farm tragedy even worse than that following World War I?

Experiments in Rubber and Other Products.

Our Government is now experimenting with domestic sources for rubber. Some sixty thousand acres are devoted to the production of guayule and its possibilities as a source of domestic rubber. Emergency plants for the production of thousands of tons of synthetic rubber from oil and alcohol are now springing into production.

We have learned how to make paper from slash pine and starch from potatoes. We are learning how to raise medicinal herbs which we formerly imported.

Denied the use of kapok which we imported from the East Indies and used in life preservers, we have discovered that the floss from milkweed makes better life preservers than kapok ever did. Factories have been built and several thousand acres are now devoted to raising milkweed intensively.

Already we are producing tung oil successfully. Thousands of acres will be needed before we can supply even our present domestic market.

Luckily, we have at hand the National Farm Chemurgic Council, an organization of research chemists from our several industries who compare notes and gain new enthusiasm in the research for new uses of old crops and new crops which can be cultivated in America. Our government has established regional research laboratories.

More than fifteen thousand different kinds of plants grow in the natural state in the United States. We use less than three hundred of these plants. Farm chemistry will not be complete, nor the post-war problem of agriculture solved until every plant is re-examined in the light of modern science and made to serve its part in contributing to the comfort, happiness and security of our America of the future.

A Plan That Deserves Support.

The United States Senate is considering a plan which will require the use of 20 per cent of war profits during the war for the purchase of Recovery Bonds by each company in order to have available the necessary cash to quickly change their business and industrial plants back to peace-time activities at the close of the war and to adjust the employment of their normal number of factory workers.

This percentage of war profits could also be used in a broad plan of research by industrial chemists to develop new uses for products of the farm by our domestic industry. If our industry has the knowledge and the money in hand to convert an all-out war effort to peacetime production, maintain employment and launch the new products discovered by science, we have a reasonable chance to absorb our farm surplus even in the post-war period.

Depression hit our rural areas longer and harder than our industrial areas. Our hope for the security, happiness and prosperity of Rural America is at stake. If we can develop this practical plan for taking care of our surplus in the after war period, we can go forward unafraid in an all-out production effort for the winning of this war and in providing the food necessary for starving people in the after war period. We will know that we have provided an ever-expanding America with new crops and new uses. Worth thinking about.

Agriculture and Labor

"Agriculture has excellent reasons to take concern for the welfare of labor," says Wheeler McMillen. "The situation after the war is over will be of particular importance to farmers. Men earning good wages full time are much better customers than men without jobs. Men steadily employed under satisfactory conditions are far less likely than men without work to become the prey of men who agitate for strange kinds of government. Agriculture ought not, therefore, to develop hostility toward labor and toward labor organizations as such. A wiser course would be to try to use agriculture's influence for correction of those abuses which do no good either to laborers, farmers or the nation."

America's Real Stimulant

"In the United States, every man's value is determined by his activity, and every man is given the opportunity to develop his abilities. An American's real stimulant and pride consist in being a self-made man, in fighting, and in winning the fight."—Javier Prado.

TREASURY TAX SAVING NOTES ARE CHANGED

Secretary Morgenthau today announced changes in the terms of the Treasury Tax Savings Notes, which have been on sale since August 1, 1941, for the convenience of the taxpayers and which are receivable at par and accrued interest in payment of Federal income, estate, and gift taxes.

The changes are effective in new Treasury Notes of Tax Series A-1945 and Tax Series C-1945 which will be offered for sale beginning September 14, although the new notes will not be ready for delivery before the latter part of the month. The notes of Tax Series A-1944 and Tax Series B-1944, which have been available since January 1, 1942, were withdrawn from sale at the close of business September 12, 1942.

The new notes of Tax Series C are adaptable for dual purposes: (1) for the accumulation of tax reserves and (2) for the temporary or short-term investment of cash balances which are at present idle. This new series of Treasury Notes, the Secretary said, will furnish a security well adapted to corporations and other investors for the mobilization of their idle funds for the war program. The new terms provide greater flexibility, and, through provision for cash redemption with interest, permit holders of Tax Series C notes to realize on the notes without loss of interest.

Members of the Victory Fund Committees in the twelve Federal Reserve Districts, with trained securities sales personnel, will participate actively in the sale of the new Tax Saving Notes. Each Federal Reserve District Committee is headed by the President of the Federal Reserve Bank of the District. Members of Victory Fund Committees, as well as bankers and securities salesmen generally, will have complete information and application forms and will assist taxpayers and other investors desiring to purchase these notes.

The notes of Tax Series A-1945 like those of prior Series A notes, are intended primarily for the smaller tax payer. The new notes will be dated September 1, 1942, and will mature September 1, 1945, thus providing a maturity of three rather than two years from issue date. The limitation on the principal amount that may be presented on account of any one taxpayer's liability for each class of taxes (income, estate or gift) for each taxable period has been raised from $1200 to $5,000.

The new limitation will also apply to prior Tax Series A-1943 and A-1944, or to any combination of these series. In other respects the terms of notes of Tax Series A-1945 remain the same as those of A-1944. Interest will accrue (from September 1942) at the rate of 16 cents per month per $100, equivalent to a yield of approximately 1.92 percent per annum. The notes will be issued at par and accrued interest. If not presented in payment of taxes, the notes will be redeemed at the purchase price only, without advance notice. The notes will be available in the denominations of $25, $50, $100, $500, $1000, and $5000.

The new notes of Tax Series

C will be dated as of the first day of the month in which purchased, will mature three years thereafter, and they will be issued at par. Interest on the notes will accrue each month from month of issue, on a graduated scale, the equivalent yield if held to maturity being approximately 1.07 percent per annum. The amount of accrual each month on each $1,000 principal amount of notes, from month of issue to month of maturity, follows:

First half year 50c, one-half to one year 80c, one to one and one-half years 90c, one and one-half to two years $1.00, two to two and one-half years $1.10, two and one-half to three years $1.10.

If not presented for taxes, and except for those in the names of banks that accept demand deposits, the notes of Tax Series C will be redeemable at par and accrued interest, either at maturity or, on thirty days' advance notice, during and after the sixth calendar month after the month of issue. If inscribed in the name of a bank that accepts demand deposits, the notes will be accepted at par and accrued interest in payment of taxes, but redeemed for cash at or before maturity only at the purchase price, or par. The notes of this series may be pledged with banking institutions as collateral for loans but no other hypothecation will be recognized by the Treasury Department.

The new Treasury Savings Notes, like those of prior series, will be issued only by the Federal Reserve Banks and Branches, and the Treasury Department, Washington.

IN A WORLD AT WAR, THE RED CROSS MEETS MANY WARTIME NEEDS

In a world at war the Red Cross has had to face a tremendous job in meeting its manifold responsibilities born of war. They are obligations which can not be disregarded, nor treated lightly. They stem from a solemn treaty of nations which recognized that humanitarianism has a place alongside of guns and bayonets. The Red Cross is both a peacetime and a wartime organization. But it was born of war, and its structure is especially tuned to meet the needs growing out of war. Today this is obvious when we really know of the full scope of the work of the Red Cross—its relief ships to starving nations, and to prisoners of war, its hospital supplies, food, and medicines to fighting forces and to civilian victims of war, its work in civilian defense, its welfare service for men of the armed forces and their families back home. The biggest job that the Red Cross has today is that of working with soldiers and sailors and marines and members of their families, caring for the sick and wounded, taking care of their helpless dependents, keeping the morale high in both camp and home.

I stress these things because it is important that you know the facts—that you have an intelligent understanding of the scope of the Red Cross work and the conditions under which the organization can operate most effectively.

To carry on its operations it is necessary that the Red Cross operate independently in campaigning for funds. This insistence upon independence has created some discussion in local communities. The Red Cross has been asked why it cannot enter into alliances with War Chests and other similar emergency organizations. The reason for its not doing so is this: This decision to operate independently was not reached on an arbitrary basis. It was determined by the very nature of the Red Cross and the conditions and responsibilities determined by its law and treaty. Because it has rigid treaty and charter obligations to abide by the Red Cross is in a distinctly different status from any other organizations which might join in a united drive for funds. And I want to emphasize the word "different," for in using this word there is no implication of superiority or aloofness on the part of the Red Cross. The simple fact is that the Red Cross operates under an act of Congress, under international treaties and under regulations of the War and Navy Departments. This quasi-governmental character of the organization, particularly in relation to our armed forces in time of war, both in this country and abroad, makes it necessary for the Red Cross to maintain complete freedom of action.

Of Red Cross participation in War Chests the New York Times has said editorially: "It would be a pity if such a plan were adopted. The Red Cross is unique among all our relief organizations. To confuse its present direct appeal for purposes so clearly understood with other appeals would be an error. The American public feels that it is part of the American Red Cross. It is through their interest and gifts that the Red Cross has acquired its special and indispensable place in the community. If its fund-raising campaign were now to lose its identity the organization would suffer and other organizations would gain nothing. . . . The Red Cross has a personality of its own which would be extinguished in an arbitrary grouping of agencies."

Let me illustrate just how different and important Red Cross services are. Here in our chapter we have what is known as Home Service, organized to assist families of service men in meeting the social and economic problems which arise while the men are serving in the armed forces. There are four general divisions of its work. Assistance with communications between servicemen and their families, with inquiries in regard to their welfare, and with information concerning regulations and legislation affecting service and ex-service men and their dependents. This is one division.

The second phase of the work is co-operation with military and naval authorities by obtaining social history material required for medical treatment and by making reports on home conditions needed by commanding officers in deciding questions of discharge, furloughs, clemency, et cetera.

A third function is to render assistance to disabled and discharged service men and to the dependents of deceased service men in presenting claims for pensions and other government benefits.

The fourth phase is to render assistance in emergency family problems.

Closely allied with these services and in fact, dependent upon its successful functioning, is the Military and Naval Welfare Service of the Red Cross. This service is responsible for all Red Cross activities in military and naval posts, stations, camps and hospitals and in offices of the Veterans' Administration.

The Red Cross has field directors and assistants in every Army, Navy and Marine Corps station and camp in the United States, insular territories and off-shore bases and in all of the spots on foreign soil into which American soldiers and sailors are going.

To these Field Directors are referred service men who are disturbed by family or personal problems. Here Home Service demonstrates its functions of investigation and communication.

In all Naval and Army general hospitals the Red Cross maintains social service departments and directs recreation programs.

To those of us who have come to recognize the Red Cross as the great disaster relief organization in time of flood, hurricane, tornado, earthquake, pestilence and explosion and fire, the war has brought new and broader concept of Red Cross services.

We see women volunteers making surgical dressings, knitting, sewing and serving as members of motor corps. We see the Blood Plasma project which is saving thousands of lives on and near the battlefield. We participate with our neighbors in the study of first aid. We see water safety programs developed and nutrition and home nursing courses being studied by our wives, friends and neighbors. They are all a part of the American Red Cross service to America. But most of all—we need now to see, understand and support wholeheartedly the work of the Red Cross with our boys in service.

This service is a responsibility put upon the Red Cross by Congressional charter which authorizes it "to act in matters of voluntary relief and in accord with the military and naval authorities as a medium of communication between the people of the United States and their Army and Navy."

The Red Cross is doing a big and important job, an essential job. It is doing it well. Experienced, level-headed and respected citizens not only direct but participate in the doing of that job. You are invited to join in this effort, to encourage others also to join. Your part in the war effort of America includes this responsibility.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

THE ILLUSION OF DEPTH

The illusion of depth is very important to a landscape picture. You can achieve this effect in your pictures by observing a few simple rules.

DO YOU want to get a feeling of great depth in your pictures? Do you want, when picturing landscapes, to give the impression of vast distances? It's not at all hard to do—if you use a little common sense in choosing an appropriate camera position, watch the foreground, and work with the light instead of against it.

Take this week's illustration, for instance. As landscapes go, it's not bad. In fact it conveys the illusion of depth to an unusual degree . . . but not by chance. The photographer, I dare say, planned it so.

In the first place, you'll note that instead of taking a picture when the lake was devoid of life he waited until a canoe passed through the foreground. Or perhaps he "planted" it there. Regardless, the appearance of the canoe in the foreground immediately accomplished two things: It added human interest to the picture, and gave us a basis of comparison for the other objects in the scene.

Not content with that, however, the photographer very carefully chose a point of view behind some low hanging trees so that a few branches hung down from above, and thus added another plane to the scene. In other words, he gave us something familiar and very near to look at, and also something distant to see. Fortunately, too, there are three tones or planes in the distant shore, and mountain beyond, which further emphasize the illusion of depth.

And there, in a nutshell, is the secret of getting a feeling of depth in your pictures. Make sure that some familiar object—such as a tree, a barn, a house, a horse, a canoe, etc.—is included in the foreground of your picture, along with "human interest" when possible.

Here's one further tip which isn't illustrated by the picture, but which is important just the same. Watch for sidelighting. Objects and scenes which are pictured when the sun is shining upon them from the side appear to have a greater feeling of roundness and depth than those pictured with flat illumination.

A Surprise Birthday Party

Saturday, Sept. 5, was a red-letter day for Mrs. A. J. Gatlin when a few of her friends surprised her with a party in honor of her birthday, each taking a little gift to show in this small way their love for her.

Mrs. Gatlin met the guests at the door in her own gracious and charming manner, but imagine her surprise when they sang "Happy Birthday." It was a joy to see her open each little gift and she seemed to enjoy her party as much as her guests did. Her daughters, Miss Love and Mrs. Orbie Woody, served delicious iced punch to Mesdames Neal Dickerson, J. C. Mulvan, Roy Wilkins, Julian Evans, Marsh Johnson, Lewis Hudson, Dwight Nickols, and J. C. Evans. They joined in wishing Mrs. Gatlin many happy returns of her natal day. Mrs. O. H. Yarbrough and Miss Lillie Martin sent gifts.

Sumter is the son of County Judge and Mrs. R. J. Gerald. He also is a graduate of Goldthwaite High School and John Tarleton College. He is in the United States Army Air Corps and is at present stationed at Ellington Field, Houston, Texas.

Former classmates of the young couple made up the dinner guests; including Misses Virginia Ruth Rudd, Katherine Hedges, Mamie Lou Womack, Vesava Sellers and Janice Rogers of Breckenridge, Texas, Mrs. R. J. Gerald, Mrs. Saylor and the honoree.

Mrs. Berry was assisted in entertaining by Mrs. Bruce Campbell and Billy Saylor.

The wedding is to take place in the fall.

Those who witnessed the ceremony were the bride's mother and a few close friends, Misses Margaret McFadin and Vivian Kilpatrick of Arlington and Private Sterling Hart of Las Vegas.

Big Valley H. D. Club

The Big Valley Home Demonstration Club met September 10 with Mrs. Charles Miller. Mrs. McAllister met with us and demonstrated the easiest method of making and canning hominy. The club voted to have the meetings every six weeks hereafter. On these days we will have an all day meeting and try to accomplish something worth while in the way of quilting, Red Cross sewing, etc. We would be glad if more of the ladies would attend these meetings. The next will be October 22, with Mrs. E. D. Roberson.

Plans are now being made for the annual club social to be held the night of September 19. We will meet in the picnic grove at the home of Robert Weaver. Call your neighbor and learn the particulars. Then come and bring the whole family for a few hours of fun and relaxation. Everybody in Big Valley who is interested in keeping up the morale of our community is invited to come and take part.—Reporter.

FREE FORMS FOR ARMY V-MAIL NOW AVAILABLE

V-mail letter forms are now available in every community and on every rural mail route in the nation, the War Department announces.

Since V-Mail—the fast new service for dispatch of mail to and from American forces overseas—was instituted two months ago, the Post Office Department has been distributing the letter forms, and they are now available at each of the 45,000 post offices in the country, as well as from rural carriers, without charge.

The Army Postal Service urges that all persons writing to members of the armed forces outside the United States use V-Mail, as it is now not only the most expeditious service possible, but saves vitally needed cargo space, since this type of mail is much lighter than regular mail.

V-Mail facilities have been established at points of embarkation in this country as well as in the United Kingdom, the Hawaiian Islands, Australia and the Near East, and is being rapidly expanded to many other points. In other areas overseas, where V-Mail facilities have not yet been installed, it is sent in its regular form, being flown wherever planes are available.

ARMY MEDICAL PERSONNEL TO CARRY IDENTIFICATION

Red Cross brassards and identification cards will be issued as soon as practicable to all military personnel on duty in theaters of operation who are entitled to the protection of the Geneva Red Cross Convention of July 27, 1929, the War Department announces.

Under that convention, all personnel of the Army Medical Department on the field of battle are to be regarded as non-combatants. This protection extends to civilians authorized to serve in the theater of operations with the Medical Department.

In the future, personnel entitled to the protection of the Geneva Convention will be issued the Red Cross brassard and identification card at the port of embarkation or other control point through which they pass.

SOLDIERS MAY RETAIN ARMY ISSUE CLOTHING

All soldiers who successfully complete the course at an Officer Candidate School and are discharged to accept commissions may retain all serviceable clothing issued to them, the War Department announces. Items not desired for immediate use are to be turned in to the local Quartermaster to be reconditioned and reissued.

WAR DEPARTMENT TO END MISUSE OF FREE POSTAGE

The War Department has called attention of military personnel to the provisions of the Postal Laws and Regulations granting free postage on first-class mail matter to members of the armed forces on active duty, and pointed out that the spirit of the law is violated if soldiers leave signed envelopes with relatives, mail wedding announcements, seal packages of photographs, films and records so that they become first-class mail matter. The War Department ordered these practices discontinued.

The primary purpose of the free mailing privilege, it was stressed, was to facilitate personal correspondence between members of the armed forces and their relatives and friends in the form of ordinary letters and cards.

SMALL COCKPIT OF ARMY FIGHTERS DEBARS BIG MEN

The cockpits of Army Air Forces fighter planes of the "P" group, which includes the Airacobra, Kittyhawk, Mustang Thunderbolt and others, are built to accommodate pilots not more than 5 feet 9 inches tall and not over 170 pounds in weight, the War Department points out. It is preferred that they be shorter and lighter than the maximum.

The cockpit, which is just large enough for a man of the size indicated to move about, utilizes every bit of space. It contains the necessary flight instruments, controls, both for the armament and flight; has armored walls, and its protected bucket seat is so designed it will hold the pilot, equipped with his chute, comfortably, if a bit snugly.

Holding down the size of the cockpit makes for streamlining which, in turn, makes for greater speed and maneuverability.

Mrs. Fred Reynolds's father, C. H. Balber, who has been seriously ill with blood poisoning at the Stephenville hospital, was able to be moved to his home at Dublin last Sunday. He is slowly improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wooten and Mr. and Mrs. Bunk Wooten of Whitney spent last week end with R. E. Worley and family.

Miss Bess Crews is on a week vacation visiting friends in Arlington and Fort Worth.

Miss Grace Denson left Monday for Brownwood. She returned to her duty as P. B. X. operator.

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Rudd and son, Charles, of Wichita Falls spent the week end with his mother, Mrs. Chas. Rudd. Mrs. Rudd, who had a bad fall some weeks ago, is slowly improving.

Mr. and Mrs. Dumble Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Archer spent Sunday in San Angelo with Mrs. Ellen Cockrum and little daughter, and the Luther Oquin family.

Mrs. Ellen Cockrum is now in government work at Goodfellow Air Field drawing a splendid salary.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley Wilson have spent this week in San Angelo where Mrs. Wilson had her tonsils removed and is reported getting along nicely.

Mrs. Jno. O. Beck returned to her home in McCamey Sunday, after a visit in the home of her sister, Mrs. J. B. Burnett, and other relatives.

Safety Suggestions

Just as every soldier or sailor put out of action temporarily or permanently by wounds represents a loss to the armed services, every worker injured or maimed is a distinct loss to the country, too.

Accordingly every person working at a task in which an element of risk is involved—and that covers virtually every worker, in greater or lesser degree—has a duty to his country at this time as well as to himself to avoid time-destroying and crippling accidents.

For this reason an official of the Department of Labor, whose activities are in behalf of conservation of man power for war industries, has advanced a "Dozen Don'ts on Safety", which all workers should observe. They follow:

Don't tackle a job without considering a safe way of doing it. Don't wear loose or torn garments, or finger rings around machinery. Don't tamper with safety guards on machines.

Following these simple suggestions will prevent thousands of fatal, time-consuming or crippling accidents.

BABSON SAYS—

SPIRITUAL AWAKENING NEEDED

Babson Says this is the Only Cure for Inflation

Readers know that I feel the World Wars I and II have come about because the leading nations during the past 50 years have been trying to get along without God.

Why Business Depressions Occur

As my column is supposed to cover only business, real estate, finance, etc., it is perhaps, out of place to preach this kind of sermon.

Starting at a normal level, the business improves until it gets into a period of prosperity. This prosperity develops dishonesty, carelessness, inefficiency, and waste, which, in turn, result in a business depression.

We Must Learn to Sacrifice

Once was the time when economists taught that all wealth is a result of three factors—land, labor, and capital. Now it is being recognized that there is an additional factor, namely sane religion.

that this combination can be used equally well in destroying the street or in repairing the street according to the religious motives of the man. Hence, it is impossible to fully cover the business and financial situation without a consideration of religion which determines how land, labor and capital are to be used.

The above is especially important at this time when we hear so much about inflation, rationing, price fixing, etc. Once again I commend Leon Henderson in his desperate attempts to control the purchases of 130,000,000 of people by legislation and policemen.

What About Life?

Donald Nelson goes to the U. S. Treasury and asks for $250,000 to buy a bomber. Ultimately the bomber is destroyed but the $250,000 continues to exist.

Whenever I write along the above lines a flood of letters comes in asking me what I mean by a spiritual awakening and how we should adjust our lives thereto.

State Department Health Notes

Strengthening a campaign for the control of Typus in Texas, Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, announced that the State Department of Health in collaboration with the League of Texas Municipalities has prepared a pattern ordinance for the disposal of garbage which it is hoped will be widely adopted by cities and communities throughout the State.

"Rats, like any other animals, seek those fields which offer the most food and best shelter," Dr. Cox said. "Any Typus control program must necessarily hinge on making food inaccessible to rats. It has been found that the rat population in Texas is much greater in those towns where no regular garbage collection is maintained."

Dr. Cox said that this pattern ordinance conforming with war restrictions eliminates the use of critical materials substituting wooden garbage pails for the cast iron type formerly used. In order to eliminate the use of war materials for building incinerators the ordinance provides for the use of the land-fill method.

Some of the cities now considering the adoption of this ordinance are Brownwood, Mineral Wells, Killeen, Valasco, Ft. Stockton, and other defense areas. Dr. Cox stated that full information concerning this ordinance can be had through the State Health Department and suggested that all cities and communities which might be benefitted by such protection consult the State Department of Health for full particulars.

Federal allotment of funds for garbage disposal have been made in some instances, in defense areas where local funds were inadequate.

Improved Uniform International LESSON

JUDAH: AN EXAMPLE OF SELF-SACRIFICE

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 44:18-34. GOLDEN TEXT—Hereby perceive ye the love of God, because he laid down his life for us; and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.—I John 3:16.

The family is still the fundamental unit of society, and is therefore of more importance than the church, the state, or the social order of which it is a vital part.

Men have too often chosen to go the way of the flesh, and therefore they have disregarded God's plan and purpose. But marriage is just as sacred as ever in His sight; the home is to be kept for Him; and brotherly love still finds a high place among the virtues of real men.

Today's lesson is a continuation of the story of Joseph's life. As we study it we must bear in mind Joseph's dealings with his brethren, who as yet did not recognize him as the one they had sold into captivity.

To do so he had brought disaster upon them. Being happy on their way homeward with a new supply of food, they were overtaken and proved to be thieves, and Benjamin, the beloved of their father Jacob, stood condemned by their own words, to death.

In that crisis the mouths of the others seemed closed, but Judah, who had really saved Joseph's life (Gen. 37:26, 27) and who had apparently come to himself as a man of essential goodness, pleaded for Benjamin's life. That plea presented a truly sacrificial brotherly love, as he manifested

I. Courage (v. 18). Easy rests the yoke of family life as long as all is joyful and prosperous. But when adversity strikes, when sorrow comes, or sickness, or sin, then the true test of devotion is at hand.

It was a brave and manly thing for Judah to stand before the one whom he knew only as the man who was "even as Pharaoh." The circumstances were all against him. He expected the flaming anger of the offended ruler. His brethren had collapsed in despair. It was one of those dark hours which come to every family when someone must demonstrate true love by being strong-hearted and steady.

II. Intelligence (vv. 19-29). Crises call for more than a cheerful smile or an encouraging word, much as they may mean in such an hour. We must be prepared by our close contact with our loved ones to speak and act with vigor and assurance.

Judah's plea is a masterpiece of argumentation and appeal, demonstrating that he was not only well-informed about his family and its problems, but ready to use his knowledge skillfully and effectively.

III. Self-Denial (vv. 30-33). One step deeper goes the devotion of this man to his father and his brother. He had done no wrong that merited punishment, but evidently his brother Benjamin had been guilty. Had he been of the spirit of Cain he would have said, "Am I my brother's keeper?" and let him answer for himself.

IV. Love (v. 34). Love for father and brother underlies all of the courage, conviction and self-sacrifice of a man like Judah. In his younger years, and possibly under the influence of his brothers, he had failed in that respect, but now his real devotion to his brother was evident.

That affection was a real, powerful, and beautiful thing, and yet it is but a faint prefiguring of the affection of the One who "sticketh closer than a brother," who "though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich" (Prov. 18:24; II Cor. 8:9).

Let us improve the opportunity to review our relations with our own family, to determine whether there is aught that we in intelligent and courageous self-sacrifice should do for our own.

Know Your Neighbors Know your neighbors. Call on them to meet together, in your home to exchange information. This friendly association, this neighborliness, will create courage and confidence—the morale so necessary for victory.

A SOLDIER AND A SAILOR

(By Mrs. A. L. Harris, Star, Tex.)

Two little boys played round my chair, 'Twas yesterday it seems. They were my joy, my heart's delight— Sweet babies of my dreams.

Today they're far away from home, Where I often do not know, But my earnest prayers shall follow them Wherever they may go.

One stands behind the guns that guard Our shores of Liberty, The other rides the tossing waves Of a deep and treacherous sea.

One wears the khaki uniform, The other wears the blue— Just a soldier and a sailor Beneath the red, white and blue.

I am sure that they will do their part In this awful war to win, And I pray thee Lord to give them, too, The victory over sin.

That thou who heard from those baby lips, "Now I lay me down to sleep," Will watch o'er them wherever they go, Their precious souls to keep.

If it be Thy will bring them safely home, When this murderous war is o'er, If not, may we meet to never part, Where we shall learn war no more.

Our fighting men are doing their share. Here at home the least we can do is put 10% of our income in War Bonds for our share in America.

SEPTEMBER'S VISIT

(By May Marshall Weaver)

Behold, September now is here, The month that brings fall of the year; Perhaps Fall's the choice of the seasons, Just enumerate the reasons.

September brings so many things, To gladden commoners and kings; Indian summer's curtain of haze Now somewhat softens Old Sol's rays.

Bright Summer's too intensive heat We're assured now is on retreat; The dying Summer's falling tears Now moistens earth and lessens fears.

September bids us now awake— It's time more active steps to take; We, Summer's crops should put in store; As Fall approaches, plant some more.

Fall crops and gardens should be found

Soon germinating in the ground; September's somber shortening days Tend to teach us wisdom's ways. Spring and Fall contest for beauty, Each shows loyalty to duty; Spring parades Youth, Music, Flowers— Fall paints Autumn leave's gorgeous bowers.

75 MOTOR MECHANICS NEEDED AT CAMP BOWIE CAMP BOWIE, Sept. 16.—Captain Letton H. Hollon, commanding the Fourth District Motor Transport Base, announces that his organization needs about 75 good motor mechanics, machinists, and carburetor and ignition repair men.

Several men from Brownwood and neighboring communities are now working on the motor base mechanical staff but many more good motor mechanics are needed, Captain Hollon points out, to complete the expanding motor base staff.

Motor mechanics, machinists, carburetor and ignition men are requested to contact Captain Hollon, Fourth District Motor Transport Office, Warehouse 24, Camp Bowie.
