HINTS ON CANNING CHICKEN

Hens not laying enough at present to earn their feed and roost may be just right for canning. The best chickens to put in jars or cans are plump hens, two years or a little older, because of the precooling and subsequent temperature under pressure which are involved in the process of canning. The texture of the meat is usually firmer, the broth more concentrated and the flavor more characteristic than that of young birds.

For homemakers who plan to put up some "chicken dinners" now for winter-time eating, here are a few of the high lights of chicken canning directions as used by Geraldene Summers, the Home Demonstration Agent, in giving chicken canning demonstrations.

First and most important, there must be a steam pressure cooker on hand. Only with one of these it is possible to maintain a temperature above boiling inside a can or jar. This heat is necessary to kill the bacteria that may cause dangerous food poisoning. It is not safe to can poultry or any meat in water baths, steam cookers without pressure, or in the oven, because in none of these does the temperature get even above boiling.

Containers for canning chickens may be either glass or tin. Pint jars and No. 2 tin cans are the advisable sizes. Larger containers are not recommended because they need such heavy processing.

For canning boned chicken, you should leave the chicken in four different parts. First separate the white meat from the dark by locating the ends of the shoulder blades which run just over the ribs and parallel to the backbone. Slip the knife under them and cut up to the wings, taking care not to cut the breast meat. Pull the back and breast apart. The bird has been easily and quickly drawn and cut and is ready to pre-cook for canning. Left in these pieces the tissues of meat do not shrink as when cut further. The meat is easily removed from the bone in large attractive pieces after it has been pre-cooked.

Birds cut and drawn for canning are pre-cooked by placing the white and dark meat on the rack in the cooker. The feet and neck should be placed in the bottom of the cooker as they will help congeal the broth. Add one cup of boiling water per chicken. Fasten the lid on the cooker, leave the petcock open and place the cooker on the stove. When a steady gush of steam has issued from the petcock for seven minutes or when pressure has come up one-half to one pound indicating that no air remains inside, then close the petcock and cook at 10 pounds pressure from 15 to 30 minutes, depending upon the age of the bird and the altitude. The meat will be tender but cling to the bone when cooked the correct time.

Remove the cooker from the stove then open the petcock so as to release the steam slowly. When the dial registers zero, remove the lid from the cooker. Lift the meat from the cooker and place in a pan. Pour the broth into a pan and set it aside for 30 minutes for surplus fat to rise; remove fat and keep hot but do not boil.

After pre-cooking remove the meat from the breast and thighs, keeping it in large pieces. Cut the meat the length of the container and pack into containers with the length of the pieces running parallel with the height of the container. For each pint jar, use around 18 oz. of meat, 1-2 cup of broth, and 1-2 teaspoon salt.

Exhaust at 10 pounds pressure pint glass jars 25 minutes. Seal immediately. Process at 15 pounds pressure for 60 minutes.

For canning raw chicken, ground chicken, broth, giblets and tamales, please consult your County Home Demonstration Agent.

ADVICE TO HOMEMAKERS—BE CALM.

One of the most important things at the present time is to BE CALM. In any emergency, the person who is effective is the person who keeps a cool clear head, who acts after she has considered. That considerations might take only a minute, but it's not the sort of impulsive thing that a person does when he flies off the handle. Be a pillar of strength in an emergency, not a limp wet dishrag.

Second, you can do your job of homemaking just a little bit better. You are the second line of defense. Our boys are doing their best. Are you?

Keep well. That means eating the right food, getting enough sleep, exercising. We need to keep well both because we can contribute more when we are in top physical condition and because there is a shortage of doctors and nurses for civilian practice.

Conserve some of those things that we have always accepted without much thought, clothes for example. Make over last year's dress. Add a dickey to that old suit. Dye that faded sweater.

Conserve food. Raise your own food at home and save the canned goods for people in our cities. Save that scrap fat. CONSERVE FOR UNCLE SAM.

This is a time of heightened emotions when some may "want to give up." Have courage. And remember at a time like this we want to be wholesome, fine people to meet the trials ahead.

Homemakers Can Do Their Part

Maybe you're wishing you were in the army . . . Maybe you've got an idea you'd like to be a navy nurse . . .

Maybe you'd even settle for a welder's torch on a factory line. Maybe you get a little restless sometimes, wondering if you shouldn't be doing just a little bit MORE about this mess than just looking after the children, worrying about three square meals a day.

Homemaker, you've got a job right at home. YOU'VE GOT TO GET IN THE SCRAP.

This is a hard, dirty, and unromantic chore, but nobody else but you can do it.

You and your 40 million civilian sisters represent the hard-fighting woman-power in the country. The Army, the Navy, the Nurses, the factories depend upon you. If you don't make it your business to get in all the scrap, war factories will close down for lack of vital material. SCRAP IS THE BACKBONE OF A FIGHTING WAR, and WASTE IS TREASON.

DO YOUR PART!

CARE OF WORK SHOES

Farm work shoes, which are constantly subjected to mud and moisture, will be no exception to the priorities pinch as shoe leather becomes increasingly scarce.

Summing up the shoe situation. Miss Geraldene Summers, Home Demonstration Agent, indicates that men's heavy soled shoes have soles not nearly as thick as those of 1941, and that shoes are being designed to use every scrap of leather. This economy in shoe manufacture indicates how serious the situation is and how important it is for every person to take care of every pair of work or dress shoes he owns.

Mud, moisture, and misuse shorten the life expectancy of shoes. As to the mud problem, the solution is quick removal of the mud while it is wet. Warm water, not hot, is recommended following which the leather needs a good rubbing with oil or grease while it is still damp. This will prevent the leather from becoming stiff and hard when dry. Too often muddy work shoes are dumped on the back porch where mud cakes on them and absorbs oil from the leather.

A further precaution is to stuff the shoes with soft, crumpled paper to keep them in shape and absorb the inside moisture. They should then be put in a dry place where they will dry out at a normal temperature. Wet leather scorches easily.

Hence placing a wet pair of shoes too near the fire is sure to be hard on the leather. On the other hand if wet shoes are worn the wet leather will be pulled out of shape.

Among oils recommended for heavy leather shoes are castor oil, tallow and wool greases. Street shoes do not need much greasing except when wet, and then castor oil will do the trick. Otherwise ordinary shoe polish will keep them in condition. Castor oil is the only lubricant over which shoes polish can be used.

LOCAL MAN'S MOTHER DIES IN HOME AT FORT WORTH

Mrs. John W. Moore, 81, pioneer resident of Texas, died Oct. 13, 1942, at her home, 3228 W. Sixth, in Fort Worth.

Mrs. Moore, a native of Missouri, came to Wise County with her husband, who later became sheriff of that county. She had resided in Fort Worth for 35 years.

Surviving are three sons, C. F. Moore, employed in the post office here, Grover C. Moore and Arthur Lee Moore, Fort Worth; two daughters, Mrs. Mary Chenoweth, Fort Worth, and Mrs. E. C. Britt, Dallas.

Funeral services were held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Seacrest-CrCoward Funeral Chapel. Interment was in Rose Hill Cemetery.

Mrs. Earl Clements and her sister, Mrs. H. C. Burch of Houston, spent last week-end in Fort Stockton visiting their aunt and brother, Mrs. W. S. Meadors and Con Cunningham.

SCALLORN—

By MRS. OPA BLACK

Grain sowing and land breaking have been retarded for the present time due to several inches of rain which have fallen in the past few days.

Quite a few from here attended the football game Friday night at Goldthwaite.

C. H. Horton spent Saturday night in Goldthwaite with his son Elmer who is to be inducted into the army.

Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Eckert were Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Derrick and family.

Last Sunday guests of the writer were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright of Brownwood and their son Lamorn of College Station. C. H. Black and family and Mrs. Earl Blake.

Mr. and Mrs. John Allen Todd and little son were week-end visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hines.

Mrs. Cora Ford was made happy Sunday afternoon on her arrival home from Mercury, where she had been visiting the last two weeks with her son and family, to find her daughter, Mrs. Earl Malone of Del Rio, Mr. Malone and their two daughters, Kiddo and Earline, had just driven up on her arrival. After greetings were exchanged, telephone messages were sent to Mrs. Malone's brothers and sister and pretty soon a family reunion was under way. Present members of the family were Mr. and Mrs. Earl Malone and daughters of Del Rio, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Ford of Belton, Mr. and Mrs. Delma Ford of Lometa, Mr. and Mrs. Hassell Ford of Mercury, Mr. and Mrs. Webb Laughlin and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Ford and family. Two sons, Alva and Sherwood, were absent and are now in service.

Miss Deola Hale of Waco visited over the week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hale. Honoring Marsh Johnson, Gordon McWhorter and Alva Ford, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Black entertained with a 9 o'clock dinner Saturday evening. Those present were Messrs. R. A. Worley, Houston Kuykendall, James Teague of Dawson, Mrs. Earl Black and Mrs. Della Tyson.

What came near being a serious accident Saturday afternoon on the railroad crossing near the church house when a car driven by Mrs. Wayne Henry and a motor car driven by Mr. Clements, a Santa Fe employe, collided. Mrs. Henry and two children escaped without injury, while Mr. Clements was rushed to Goldthwaite where it was found he had four front teeth missing with several bad face lacerations and bruises. Mr. Clements resides at Lometa.

Mrs. Earl Blake and mother, Mrs. Ora Black, attended the funeral Tuesday in Goldthwaite of B. P. Hurdle.

The Red Cross sewing is going rather slowly in our circle to date. Since our last report Mrs. Tom Hale has made 26 garments and the writer 8 garments and 7 hospital robes. Let's all try and be ready to sew when the next shipment arrives, which will be within the next few days.

Dean Dickerson and Floyd McKenzie of Los Angeles came home last Saturday.

Miss Alta Cook spent last Saturday night and Sunday visiting relatives in Santa Anna.
