APPRECIATION

I should like to take this means of publicly expressing my gratitude to the citizens of Goldthwaite and Mills County for the fine reception that both Mrs. Emery and I have received since moving to Goldthwaite. We no longer feel that we are strangers and we rejoice in the fine spirit of friendliness that characterizes our little city. Especially to those friends of other denominations, we are grateful for your gestures of thoughtfulness and we are most appreciative.

As the days come and go we hope to know you each better and better.

JOSEPH L. EMERY, Pastor,
First Baptist Church.

CONGRATULATIONS TO NEW PASTOR

D. A. BRYANT
Congratulations Brother Emery upon your decision to go to Goldthwaite and First Baptist Church. Your splendid work in Hinedheimer and this District has been a "labor of love" and I doubt that any pastor has met with greater success in his work in this section than you have. May you always be happy in the thought that you left behind a record of loyalty and devotion.

You have moved into the midst of a lovely people. No life can fail to be better after living a while in the atmosphere of your splendid community. The church you have chosen to serve will help you be successful and happy, and the whole community will take you right in to its life.

Again, let me say congratulations to you and to Mrs. Emery, and best wishes for many years ahead.

Sincerely,
D. A. BRYANT, Pastor,

GOLDTHWAITE EAGLES MEET METHODIST HOME TONIGHT

Coach Ted Kirby will toss in 1734 pounds of Goldthwaite Eagles tonight against The Waco Methodist Home in the first of a series of seven home football games to be played on Eagle Field this season. In the starting lineups, the Goldthwaite players will outweigh the Orphans by 104 pounds.

The Eagles return for the season with four backfield lettermen, a victory over the Waco team last year, and additional weight to give the locals an edge on paper, but in actual play the two teams will probably fight a good game for the entire period. On the other hand, the Wacoans have played two games this year for added experience.

The Waco boys have broken even this season by being defeated by Marlin, losing by 13 points and winning from Midway by 13 points. Jim White, coach for the Orphans, is putting his hopes into 140 pounder Jack Hicks playing quarterback Friday night. Three others to be watched are Marvin Brown, 150 pound fullback and Captain of the visitors; Jack Smith, tackle, and Walter Jones, guard. According to coach White, his boys are "light and greep, but they make up for that in determination."

With the exception of Louis Gillispie, left guard for the visiting eleven, the starting team have two and three more years to play. Waco has three boys coming out of the hospital and they will probably be able to play Friday night. Line Coach James Jackson will be on hand to send in starters Walter Jones and Jack Smith. Jackson believes they will develop into two of the best linemen in this part of the country.

Locally speaking, the boys have engaged in light scrimmage and are reported to be in good condition. The starting lineup will probably consist of Carlin Wicker at center, Mammel Lynch at left guard, Wantha Long at right guard, Gene Long

Eagle Field is in good condition, pep squads have been organized and from all indications fans will see a good football game to officially open the season tonight.

When little man football comes along, keep an eye on 110 pound Larry Simmons, GHS Sophomore. He is a small boy but he'll be mixing with the gang a big part of the time. Officials for the 8 o'clock game will be Albert Crow, Thomas Levisay and one other from Brownwood.

Boyd Hunt has assisted Coach Kirby with his line this season.

TO BUSINESS MEN AND VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT OF THE CITY OF GOLDTHWAITE

It is of the utmost importance that the business men of Goldthwaite and their eligible employees join the Goldthwaite Volunteer Fire Department, and most of all—is that volunteer firemen come out to the regular drills.

If this is not done, the City will lose its insurance rate and be put on the unprotected list. Governor Beauford Jester has proclaimed October 5 to 11 as Fire Prevention Week for the State of Texas, and the City Officials and the Volunteer Fire Department wish to do their part in fire prevention as well as fire protection.

Therefore it is very important that members of the Volunteer Fire Department of the City turn out to the monthly fire drills as well as to fires.

The following are extracts from a letter recently received by the City from State Fire Insurance Commissioner Marvin Hall:

"I write you in regard to the matter of a voluntary fire department organization in your city and its required schedule of regular monthly drills. This matter is of utmost importance to your citizens, and we are wondering if they realize what it means to them, because the time has now arrived when it is necessary for them to decide whether they are to enjoy the rate reduction which they now have, or whether, due to the consequence of their inaction, we will be forced to place your city on the unprotected list, removing all this rate credit. We hope that such action will not be necessary but we wish to assure you that something radical must be done on the part of your city to correct this condition which has now gone on too long in the past.

"To assist you in this problem, we are going to suggest that you immediately contact C. H. R. Brayton, Director Firemen's Training School, College Station, and he will be very glad, we know, to send one of his field representatives to your city at no cost to help you start with the proper training program and organization of the department.—Marvin Hall, Commissioner.

The City of Goldthwaite and the Volunteer Fire Department requests the co-operation of the business men and citizens of the City in this matter.

October 5 Through 11 Proclaimed Fire Prevention Week In Texas

Austin, Sept. 24—Governor Beauford Jester officially proclaimed October 5 through 11 as "Fire Prevention Week in Texas."

The Governor, in calling upon every citizen of Texas to actively participate in Fire Prevention Week, stated that "when there is a universal scarcity of nearly every commodity needed to feed clothe and shelter, not only our own people but the starving and war-torn world, the continued annual destruction of a half-billion dollars in irreplaceable material resources not only became more tragic but wholly inexcusable, and cannot continue without permanent impairment to the people of Texas and the United States, and of the world."

"The rising fire loss in Texas and the United States with its tremendous sacrifice of life and destruction of property has become a vital national problem affecting the welfare of all our people," the proclamation stated.

Fire prevention was observed annually as "Fire Prevention Day" for some thirty years until 1920 when President Wilson proclaimed "Fire Prevention Week" to include the date of October 9, stated Marvin Hall State Fire Insurance Commissioner, in commenting on Jester's proclamation. This date is the anniversary of the great Chicago fire of 1871, which wiped out the entire business section and a large part of the residential properties in the south and southwest parts of that city.

"Since the Chicago conflagration, fire prevention and protection have progressed from a rule-of-thumb method, an occasional practice, to the status of a science," the Commissioner said. "Sound rules of fire safety are now well established and are available to all. They may be easily obtained in printed form and in expert advice covering construction, protection and organization against fire, from the local fire chief, members of the National Fire Waste Council, such as the National Board of Fire Underwriters, National Fire Protection Association, United States Forest Service, and many other national fire protection and fire safety organizations. They may also be obtained from all fire insurance organizations and representatives."

The United States Chamber of Commerce from its inception in 1912 has recognized the enormous and useless and destructive each year of the nation's wealth by fire and has been one of the nation's leading organizations in the crusade to reduce the annual toll of fire waste.

In 1922 the National Chamber organized the National Fire Waste Council, Hall stated, which comprises thirty-one national organizations actively engaged in promoting fire prevention and protection. At the same time the Inter-Chamber Fire Waste Program, featuring an annual contest among the participating cities, was inaugurated.

Nearly 600 chambers of commerce with their cities engage actively in this program and their continuous, systematic efforts have made a notable contribution to reducing and controlling the nation's fire losses. Many of the participating cities have reduced fire losses as much as 50 per cent, and some as little as 10 per cent, of their previous losses.

"The people of Texas were shocked at the explosions and fires that partially demolished Texas City in April of this year," Hall reminded. "They were equally amazed at the destruction by single fires of the LaSalle and Winecoff Hotels. Many other fires of serious destructive nature have occurred since the end of the war, and today an aroused state should undertake in whole-hearted support of Governor Jester to eliminate the menace of fire and its attendant loss of life and property, so that the State's housing shortage and scarcity of materials may be eliminated without the interruptions and hindrances of wasteful and destructive fires."

CHANCE FOR A HOSPITAL?

At a recent meeting in Austin of the State Hospital Advisory Commission and the officials of the State Board of Health with some 300 other hospital authorities, the vital necessity for doing something to alleviate the deficiency of hospital beds in many Texas communities was stressed again.

It was brought out at the meeting that there are 62 Texas communities without hospital facilities, and these were given priority to be the first—if they desire and will put up money to match that of the federal government—to get a chance at the federal funds, which amount to $24,400,000 to be spent in Texas over the next five years in a hospital building program.

Applications for funds are to be received after October first. Thirty-four of the counties given first priority are in west Texas. Communities in this section which will receive first chance at the federal funds are Goldthwaite, San Saba, Llano, Menard and Junction.

Norman B. Roberts, head of the health department's hospital division, estimates 54,136 additional hospital beds are now needed in Texas, and that they will cost $433 million. Hospitals in Texas now have 17,248 hospital beds.

Mills County people should take immediate steps to raise money for matching federal funds in order that a county-wide, non-profit hospital can be built here.

HAMILTON CO. REA GETS $390,000 LOAN

'CARNIVAL AT COSTA RICA'

Turning its omnivorous musical talent to a heretofore untapped source of colorful spectacle and rhythmic richness, Twentieth Century-Fox has dipped into the fabulous caribbean area for its newest Technicolor musical extravaganza, "Carnival In Costa Rica." The film, starring Dick Haymes, Vera-Ellen, Cesar Romero and Cleste Holm, and showing Saturday night pre-view, Sunday and Monday at the Melba Theatre, is said to blaze a brilliant new path in unusual and exciting musical entertainment.

Knowing a good thing when it sees it, the studio set an unlimited budget to capture on film the spectacular settings, pulsating music and riotous festivities of the exotic Central American island. Producer William A. Bachor (of "Leave Her To Heaven" fame), after securing celebrated Gregory Ratoff to direct, assigned the famous Latin American composer, Ernesto Lecuona, whose tunes including "Siboney," "Andalucia" and "Always In My Heart" have outsold many topnotch Tin Pan Alley numbers, to do the music for "Carnival In Costa Rica." In addition, Leonide Massine, world's greatest dancer since Nijinsky, was called in to direct the picture's colorful dance routines which are based on authentic native rumbas and other dance forms.

ROMANTIC ACTION FILM

ZESTFUL FRONTIER DRAMA

Heralded as one of the most beautifully photographed, as well as one of the most exciting romantic action pictures of the year, Rex Beach's "Michigan Kid" in Cinecolor will play Tuesday and Wednesday at the Melba Theatre.

The Universal production, lensed by the veteran photographer, Virgil Miller, was filmed in the glorious new Cinecolor process in the seldom seen mountain country of Northern California's famed High Sierras.

The drama is said to be unusually outstanding for its abundance of whirlwind riding and daredevil action sequences, which are doubly pleasing when photographed against a scenic background of such breathtaking beauty.

With Jon Hall in the title role of the Kid, the story concerns the hair-raising adventures of a gun-sure peace officer, who is forced out of retirement to pit himself against a ruthless frontier underworld headed by Victor MacLaglen and Andy Devine.

Beautiful Rita Johnson portrays the Kid's determined sweetheart, who gets her man with the aid of his comrades.

played by Milburn Stone, Leonard East and William Brooks.

RIOTOUS MODERN COMEDY AT THE MELBA

Warners' "Love and Learn," showing Saturday night only at the Melba Theatre, is a riotous modern comedy, co-starring Jack Carson, Robert Hutton, Martha Vickers and Janis Paige. The film tells the story of the vicissitudes of two tunesmiths who finally are able to get their songs on the Hit Parade, and be with the woman they love.

Jingles Collins (played by Jack Carson) and Bob Grant (Robert Hutton) are a song-writing team who haven't been able to get any songs published. Bob becomes discouraged with their lack of success and decides to return to Sperryville, Indiana. While celebrating his last night in New York with Jingles' girl friend Jackie Madden (Janis Paige) and Jingles, he meets Barbara Smith (Martha Vickers), who is really heiress Barbara Wingate using an alias and posing as a hostess at Danceland.

'ANNIE GET YOUR GUN' AT STATE FAIR

Latest reports from New York City, where rehearsals for "Annie Get Your Gun", mammoth musical slated for the State Fair Auditorium during the 1947 State Fair of Texas, October 4th through 19th, and starring Texas' own Mary Martin, are now underway tell of the engagement of a number of principals to support Miss Martin.

Players announced by the Rodgers and Hammerstein office as signed for the production, set for its first appearance outside New York since its Broadway opening, are male lead Earl Covert as Fronk Butler; Bernard Hoffman as Pawnee Bill; Charles Taylor and Ed Clay.

Reharsels are now well underway with famed Joshua Logan holding the directorial reins. "Annie's" musical score was written by top songwriter Irwin Berlin and the tiptop book comes from the combined pens of Hurbert and Dorothy Fields. The story of Annie Oakley, "Little Miss Suparshot", one of the greatest Marksmen ever known, "Annie Get Your Gun" deals with her life while traveling with the Buffalo Bill Wild West Show in the Gay Nineties.

"WHAT YOU WANT WHEN YOU WANT IT"

FARM FACTS WORTH KNOWING

Q. What is the cause of a cow giving bitter, rancid milk?

A. This trouble is usually due to the action of an enzyme known as lipase which is normally not present in milk but may occur in the last stages of the lactation period or in cows suffering from mastitis. If not due to mastitis, the trouble will usually disappear when the animal freshens or after she goes on pasture. The difficulty may be overcome by heating the milk to 145° F. and then cooling promptly.

Q. What factors should be considered in selecting the boar for the breeding herd?

A. The major factors to consider in selection of the herd boar are:

1. Individuality or outward appearance.
2. Ancestry or the inherited ability to produce strong, healthy and desirable offspring.
3. Performance record or the test of production.

Q. After rabbits have been mated, is it advisable to have the does rebred?

A. Yes. The Rabbits at the Ralston Purina Research Farm recommend that rabbits be mated and the same pair remated five hours later. Then, because of the possibility of does going through a period of pseudopregnancy (false pregnancy) all does are rebred again on the 18th day.

Q. My five-month-old capons are developing breast blisters. These capons have been raised on wire since they were four weeks old. Is there any way to get rid of these blisters, and will they affect the quality of the meat?

A. These breast blisters are no doubt caused by irritation from the wire floors. Raising the birds on slate floors will prevent most of this trouble. Blisters that become punctured and infected would make the carcass unsalable. But ordinary breast blisters do not affect the quality of the meat although they do hurt the appearance of the carcass when dressed.

RE EDGEGATE — Court Comes High Any Way You Take It

BY LOUIS RICHARD

FARM NEWS
The County Agricultural Conservation Committee

Producers have until which peanuts have been picked and thrashed since 1943. The information will be used in establishing eligibility to vote in the coming marketing quota referendum for 1948-crop peanuts. Therefore, it is highly important that peanut farmers either mail or bring the forms to the county office. Farmers who have not received the questionnaire may obtain one at the county office," Mr. Bain said. The facts furnished by the Mills County producers will be used in determining each farm's share of the State peanut allotment. Producers will be notified of their acreage allotments before the referendum on marketing quotas. The date of the referendum will be announced soon, Mr. Bain said.

WINTER LEGUMES
If early business is any indication, Mills County farmers will seed a big acreage to winter legumes this fall. The Mills County AAA Office has been full of farmers requesting prior approvals and purchase orders for winter legume seed all this past week, and according to Lester F. Bain, Sec. Mills County A. C. A. there seems to be more interest than ever in this phase of the National Agricultural Conservation Program. Mr. Bain said that more and more farmers are planting winter legumes each year. The first winter legumes were planted in Mills County under the AAA program in 1944. That year there were approximately 100 acres seeded to this crop. Last fall 200 farmers seeded 11,000 acres to winter legumes. The increased production in the crop following winter legumes and the protection from erosion given the land covered with legumes during the rainy season has been the major factors in the increased acreage.

Robert H. Johnson was eighth high man of the Show. The boys reported that they had some nice stock up there and that most of it was very closely matched.

JOHNSON-KIDD

One of the loveliest weddings of Goldthwaite took place at the Methodist Church Thursday evening, September 18, at seven o'clock when Miss Myra Nelle Johnson became the bride of Mr. Kenneth M. Kidd. The church decorations were entirely in bridal white with a background of greenery. Snow-on-the-Mountain in tall baskets flanked the altar which was formed by two arrangements of white gladioli in white pottery containers. Just behind the flowers, floor candleabra held twenty-six white tapers over the bridal party.

IN THE EARLIEST SCHOOLS OF OUR COUNTRY, BOOKS WERE SO HARD TO COME BY THAT ONE BOOK, ITS PAGES SEPARATED AND PROTECTED BY TRANSPARENT SHEETS OF HORN, OFTEN HAD TO SERVE AN ENTIRE CLASS.

"HORNBOOKS" ARE A CURIO TODAY, WHEN OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS AND FREE PUBLIC LIBRARIES MAKE AVAILABLE TO ALL OUR PEOPLE - CHILDREN AND GROWN-UPS ALIKE - BOOKS BY THE MILLIONS.

At the appropriate time, Mrs. Robert L. Steen took her place at the organ and played a prelude of wedding music consisting of "To the Evening Star," by R. Wagner, and "Liebestraum," by Franz Schubert. While she played the candles were lit by pews. Mrs. W. Marsh Johnson, Sr., and Mr. Harold Yarborough.

Just preceding the wedding ceremony the parents of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben P. Kidd, were ushered to their pews. Mrs. W. Marsh Johnson, Sr., was then ushered to her place.

"Because," by Guy D'Hardelot, was sung by Mmes. Parker Shaw, J. Woody Saylor and Harold Yarborough. The white vestments worn by them and the organist added to the beauty and sacredness of the wedding. Immediately following the trio, the opening bars of "The Bridal Chorus," by Lohengrin, signaled the entrance of the wedding party.

Rev. M. Dick Lowry took his place at the altar as the groom and his best man, Mr. T. Wallace Johnson, entered from the side. Mrs. David A. Duffy, sister of the bride and her only attendant, then entered the church coming down the center aisle. She was attired in a beautiful grey Townley suit with black accessories. She wore a gardenia corsage.

The bride entered on the arm of her father, Mr. W. Marsh Johnson, and she was the picture of loveliness in a pearl grey Townley suit, a feathered hat of blending shade and fuchsia accessories. She wore an orchid corsage. She was met at the altar by the groom, and Rev. Lowry conducted the impressive and beautiful Methodist ritual of the double-ring ceremony.

During the ceremony the organist played softly "Indian Love Call," from "Rose Marie," by Rudolph Frime and immediately after the ceremony the joyous notes of Mendelssohn's Wedding March rang out.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents for the wedding party, out of town guests, relatives, and a few close friends. The living dining room was attractively decorated with candles and white gladioli. The table was laid with a white Maderia cloth and was centered with an elaborately embossed three-tiered wedding cake encircled with a garland of greenery. Lime sherbert punch was served from one end of the table by Mrs. Woody Saylor. Mrs. W. Marsh Johnson, Jr., served the cake after the bride had cut the first slice.

Mrs. David A. Duffy presided at the Bride's Book. Out of town guests for the wedding were: Mr. and Mrs. Reuben K. Kidd, Mason, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Kuykendall and grandson Jimmy Kuykendall, Cherokee, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Walker, Mrs. G. A. Arheiger, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Wayland, San Saba, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Porch, Cherokee; Miss Alene Cryer, Brownwood; and Mrs. David A. Duffy, Whittier, Alaska.

SAFETY TIP OF THE WEEK

LOST—3,500 CHILDREN!

Sounds like a lot of kids, doesn't it? And all of them under 14, too—real lively youngsters. More than you'd care to cope with? Well, you won't have to; they're all dead. Not in Nazi concentration camps—here at home, on American streets and highways, in the year 1946.

Wherever there may be children playing in or near the roadway, motorist must be prepared to stop INSTANTLY, and this means a very, very low driving speed. Children are unpredictable, and a pre-occupied youngster who seems to be going safely about his business one moment, may, in the next, run in front of your car.

School zones are special danger spots. It is no coincidence that during the months when schools are in session, pedestrian deaths DOUBLE between three and five o'clock in the afternoon.

Money back—if this recipe fails
 Many of the thousands of folks who have been taking lemon juice for rheumatic pain have found that by adding two tablespoonfuls of Allenru to one tablespoonful of Lemon Juice in a glass of water, they get faster relief for the aches and pains caused by the gouty phases of rheumatism, neu-ritis and lumbago. Allenru is a 20 year old prescription made just to relieve such symptoms. Costs little at druggists.

share his success with friends and neighbors. Edward Hinesly of Indiana Creek and Harold Sikes spent Sunday afternoon with Clayton and Lester Whalley. They all enjoyed a dip in the river. Mrs. Edward Egger of Ebony visited with Mrs. F. L. Crowder Wednesday morning while her husband helped Alvin Hanna with the addition he is building to the front room of his home. This addition will include a stone and brick fireplace. The very little cotton grown in this community is being picked this week. Most of the corn is gathered. There is still no stock water!

(Continued from page 1.) to be an annual illusion. And Silly Sally asked the drug store clerk for some green lipstick because her boyfriend was a railroad man and green is the RR signal for go ahead. When a customer said to the Eagle Office office boy this week, "I inserted an advertisement for my lost dog in the paper here. Has anything been heard of it?" I offered a big reward," the office boy answered: "Sorry, the editor and all of the office force are out looking for the dog." And when a friend asked the Boss why he was so jubilant, the Boss said: "I have just received another fine contribution from Farmer Brown's pen." Friend—"Huh—what was it?" Boss—"A fine fat pig on subscription."

Also, Old Hunnert has decided to quit burning his bridges behind him—he's starting to burn 'em before he reaches them. When a braggart opens his mouth he's always putting his feet into it.

FAMOUS LAST WORDS— Just before she stepped into her bath yesterday morning the lady of the house mounted the scales. As she peered hopefully down at the wattering needle, her husband came in through the kitchen and paused at the bathroom door. "How many pounds today, beautiful?" "Fifty, sweetheart. And be darned sure you don't leave those ice tongs on the back porch where the neighbors can see 'em."

GOSSIP COLUMN— She joined the mother's club—As did a lot of others. She knew nothing about babies— But lots about their mothers.

Mark Anthony—"I want to see Cleopatra!" Caesar—"She's in bed with laryngitis." Mark A.— "Dern those Greeks!"

When a friend got mad and asked the Old Man why he had kicked the dog which don't even bite, the Old Man replied, "Yes, but he raised his leg and I thought he was going to kick And when the Goldthwaite mother asked her daughter why she didn't yell for help when that sailor kissed her, the daughter said: "That sailor didn't need any help." The Old Man heard two purty beauty operatorettes talking this week: First BO—"You know that young doctor that just moved to town? I'm going to have him examine me BO—"Why, you're everywhere." First B but does he know it? A naval officer fell and was rescued by a hand. The officer's preserver how he called him. "The best was Jack. "Is to say nothing. If the other fellow pulled you out, they'd in." The Old Man has been out during his 77 year life: When a woman her voice it's a sign she something: when she it's a sign she didn't get And the Old Man people are in favor of enforcement of the law it doesn't interfere with mode of living. First Hen—That big has been making love Second Hen—Did you any encouragement? Pa—Just egged him on a After the Old Man had in a cafe in San Antonio while himself, he heard them city-slicker fell in the water: "By love to see you back. Has been settled?" Walter— "Strike, sir?" City-slicker— come now. Where have you since you took my order? Here's a mighty true but nobody won't pay attention to it: You can manage to say the right at the right time if you your mouth shut most of time. Also—it's funny never get too old to learn new way to be foolish. And also, love is the only against which there is no insurance.

DOWN IN ANNA MAE'S ALLEY

After the long summer months, Anna Mae has come to tell who's who in snooping.

If you notice Gwindolyn Wright with a far away look in her eyes, it's because Charles Lee Griffin has gone to New Mexico.

Velda Williams has a one track mind and that track leads to Hilo. I wonder why?

Did you see Cecil Virden traveling back and forth in front of the school the other day? Maybe it's because Ruth Ell Duncan is enrolled here.

Lately, Vallie Covington seems to be walking in the clouds. Maybe it's because she and Arnold Kelley went airplane riding last Sunday.

Say, Mattie Jo, I thought you and Marvin Lindsay had broke up, but I see you were at it again Saturday night!

We wonder why Jerry Collier is always wanting to go to Goldthwaite, especially to visit school. Couldn't be because Jamie Brown is going to Goldthwaite HI, could it?

Seems as Janetha Lee is feeling pretty good since her dream man is in this locality; we wonder who it is! Could it be J. O. Williams?

Oh, by the way Mary Leish, where in the world did you drop Dixie? I haven't seen you with him lately. Could it be that you are writing to that certain sailor named Neal Hamilton?

Christine, can't Roland take a hint that you had rather not go with him?

Carloes, what's this we hear about you and Carolyn?

Dorothy Duncan seemed happy when Bobby Lee appeared on the scene.

Jerry C., don't you get along well with these Star boys?

Mary Jo, did you enjoy your ride to the game at Sidney Friday?

Zane, did Sue keep you up late Thursday night?

It seems as if ants are the common thing found around Mildred—so says David.

Uvaughn, Billy and Johnnie seem to think you're a good nurse, are you?

Roland and Floyd; David and Mildred; Billy Ray and Laveta said they really enjoyed the show Saturday night, especially Roland. Wonder why?!!

THE PIRATES' TREASURE

Well the Pirates are getting set to launch out in a new ocean. Mr. Rankin our Superintendent has adopted a new rule that has an old color. A great part of the time must be spent in the tool subjects; reading writing and arithmetic.

Along with occupational guidance, there must be some inspirational guidance. He says we must inspire more today than ever before in our history. "Teach boys and girls to read and think", is the motto. Mr. Rankin says he doubts that education can be defined. The greatest heritage is to teach boys and girls to work. Success is, Work! Work! Work!

The great poet spoke these simple lines:

"Give me the boy who sings at his work,
And the world will be made anew."
Up and at them Pirates, Fight! Fight!

SENIORS

Our senior class has increased this week. We are fortunate to have a new senior boy. He is Lee Jones and comes to us from Lockney, Texas. This increases our number to twelve.

In a class meeting Friday, the seniors decided on having the Bingo stand at the Halloween Carnival.

BASKETBALL

In our basketball write-up last week, we omitted the name of Dora Fulberg in the girls line up.

Mr. Rankin issued suits to seven other girls. He is undecided as to who the other five suits will go to. They will probably be issued this week.

We regret very much that one of our students, Imogene Wagner, has had to return to Warm Springs. The entire student body will surely miss her and look forward to her return.

SENIOR INTERVIEWS

Howard Wagner began his schooling at Priddy and will finish at Priddy next spring. He is 15 years old, has light brown hair, is six feet tall. He is a member of the F. F. A. and also is active in tennis, basketball, baseball and track.

Howard has several individual honors in his senior year. Besides being class president, he is also the youngest member of the class. He had the honor of being Valedictorian when graduating from grammar school and is a strong contender for Valedictorian next spring.

Alton Drueckhammer began his schooling at Priddy when he was in the sixth grade. He is 16 years old, has light brown hair, weighs 146, and stands six foot one. He is vice-president of the senior class, a member of the F. F. A., and is active in baseball, basketball, and track. Likes—pretty girls.
Dislikes—Getting home early.
Ambition—farming.

THE UNMASKED EYE

Bernice, where is that good parking lot at?

Wanda, don't you get enough schooling during the week, so that you have to park at the school house door on Sunday nights? Or is it different lessons?

Joyce Mae, did we say steady?

Ruth, what is there to be so stuck up about? Maybe trying to make two years of school into one.

Looks as though Robert Lee is really interested in the Thetfords. Wonder who, Yvonne, Pete or someone else at I. G.?

Weldon really has a large ring, doesn't he Geneva? It takes a lot of tape to make it fit your finger.

What happened to Rubeline last night? Charline had to take the car home herself.

Charlene what happened, why didn't Pete come up to Hohertz's house to get you after the social?

Flash! Skinny, you better hurry and get through picking

Uncle Sam Says

Millions of my young nieces and nephews are returning to school to learn from their teachers, school-mates and books a way of life. Besides grammar, history, arithmetic, home economics and a variety of other courses, they will come face to face with sportsmanship, honesty, self-reliance and the habit of thrift. Facts crammed into the heads of Willie and Jane will come in handy, but thrift is something which will be vital to their well-being every day of their lives. Of course the habit of thrift may be acquired in many ways, but a sure way is the participation of my young nieces and nephews in the United States Treasury Department's School Savings Program.

Uncle Sam Says

Millions of my nieces and nephews are increasing their take-home pay by the simple, automatic Payroll Savings Plan. Let's take one example. Suppose you tell your employer that you want to take $6.25 of your weekly pay in Bonds. In three weeks the accumulation of $18.75 will buy one $25 Savings Bond. Merely by holding these bonds to maturity in 10 years you are raising your take-home income $2.08 every week. It is obvious that the so-called deduction for Savings Bonds is not a deduction but a way for you to store and increase your earnings for your future use.

KIRBY-DUNCAN

Miss Mildred Ann Kirby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Kirby of Lometa, became the bride of Troy Duncan, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Duncan of Goldthwaite, in a candlelight ceremony, September 12, in the home of the bride's parents.

The home was beautifully decorated throughout with gladioli, roses and bridal wreath.

The single ring ceremony was performed by C. W. Hoover of San Saba, before a background of greenery. Banking the living room fireplace were white floor-baskets of pastel and white gladioli and bridal wreath. On the mantel was an arrangement of candleabra of white tapers banked by small baskets of white mums and fern. Preceding the ceremony the tapers were lighted by Everett Kirby, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Foy McMahan, of Lometa, sang "Always" accompanied by Mrs. William Watson at the piano who also played the traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a chartreuse crepe dress with form fitting bodice trimmed with a splash of sequin flowers on the right shoulder; the skirt was the new circular length. Her accessories were of brown and her halo was of matching chartreuse sequins, topped by a shoulder length veil of brown. She carried a white Bible, with a white orchid, from which a shower of white ribbon hung.

Mrs. John E. Clardy, of Abilene, sister of the bride, and her only attendant, wore a brown dress with a crownless feather hat, of beige shades, with matching gloves and shoulder length corsage of white gladioli. Mrs. Kirby, mother of the bride, wore a black crepe dress with sequin trim and a corsage of orchid gladioli. The groom's mother chose a grey crepe dress and a pink gladioli corsage.

The best man was Curtis Goodman of Lometa. Immediately following the ceremony the guests were served from a lace-laid bride's table centered with white mums and gladioli. The three tiered wedding cake was topped with orchids and embossed with lilies of the valley.

For traveling the bride wore a black moire taffeta suit with an orchid corsage and black accessories.

Members of the house party were: Mmes. Frank Prachyl, Curtis Goodman and D. F. Ausley, and Miss Dorothy Duncan. Out of town guests were: Mr.

and Mrs. Frank Prachyl, Dallas, Mrs. D. F. Ausley of Houston, Mrs. Frank C. Letterst of Houston, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hoover of San Saba, Fred Hunt of Dancinger, Texas; Mrs. L. J. Cowart of Dallas, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Clardy of Abilene.

Ann Kirby received her business course at Robertson's Secretarial School in Dallas, and has since been employed in Dallas and Houston.

After finishing school, Mr. Duncan spent two years in the Maritime Service. He is now employed by Draghon's Business College in Abilene.

The couple will be at home at 433 Cedar Street, Abilene, Texas.

71ST BIRTHDAY

Sam Edlin and daughter, Mrs. Letha Makin, and granddaughter, Daphne Makin, of Olilton, Oklahoma, came in week before last to visit his brother, J. W. Edlin of Brownwood, and half-brothers and sisters, Otis and Ira and Miss Bess Hutchings, and Mrs. G. W. Hill.

It is his first visit here since 1925 and he surely is enjoying meeting relatives and friends.

Sunday his sisters helped him celebrate his 71st birthday by having a dinner for him in the G. W. Hill home.

Those who helped him celebrate were J. W. Edlin of Brownwood; Mr. and Mrs. Ira Hutchings; James and Miss Evelyn Ethridge and Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Ellis and boys of Democrat; Otis and Miss Bess Hutchings, Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Hill and children of Goldthwaite; Sam Edlin, Mrs. Makin and Daphne of Olilton, Oklahoma and Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Hill and David.

It is the first time Sam has spent the day with all his brothers and sisters together for 40 years.

We all enjoyed a nice dinner and the afternoon was spent in talking and making pictures.

It made us sad to know Mrs. J. W. Edlin or Mrs. Sam Edlin were not either physically able to be with us. We are hoping that some time soon we may be together again and they may be in the crowd.

War Department Two-Year Man-Hunt For Prisoner Of War Proves Battlefield Death Identification

(Editors Note—As World War II dead are expected to begin arriving here some time in October for reburial in local cemeteries, The Eagle prints the following War Department release in full, which shows to what great length the Identification Department goes to be sure the right body is positively identified.

The strangest "man-hunt" story to come out of the maelstrom of World War II was marked closed today when a battlefield identification of a soldier's remains was reaffirmed before a board of review in the Quartermaster General's Memorial Division in Washington.

The case involved the fate of Stephen C. Lautenbach, son of Mrs. Udaya C. Podoloff, 268 Sherman Avenue, New Haven, Connecticut. Lautenbach, an Infantry Rifleman in the 79th Division, was marked by the Army as missing in a skirmish outside the French town of Haguenau on November 29th, 1944. A body recovered from the battlefield was identified four days later on December 3rd, 1944, as that of Lautenbach. Mrs. Podoloff, as emergency addressee, was notified in the middle of December and the body was buried at the United States Military Cemetery, Hochfelden, France.

Four months later, in April 1945, the German Prisoner-of-War Camp known as Stalag XII-A, at Limburg-On-Lahn, Germany, was liberated. Associated Press Photographer, William C. Allen, who was present at the time of liberation, made several photographs of the Medical Ward of the Camp, showing a large number of American prisoners, most of whom were in more or less advanced stages of malnutrition. The photograph was reproduced as a wirephoto in the New York Times of April 8th, 1945. Mrs. Podoloff saw the picture and noticed that one of the persons pictured bore what she believed to be a startling resemblance to her son. Not having had any message from her boy she concluded when she saw the photograph that her son was possibly an amnesia victim.

Unwilling to relinquish hope, Mrs. Podoloff appealed to the Army for assistance in finding the boy in the picture.

In answer to Mrs. Podoloff's plea the Army enlisted the aid of photographer Allen, who was able to give the slim primary leads which eventually led to the identification of the youth in the picture as Leslie H. Woolf of 311 High Street, Watertown, New York.

Exhumation of the body buried as Lautenbach at Hochfelden and comparison of bodily features and dental characteristics of the body with known features of Lautenbach have reaffirmed beyond doubt the Army's original identification of the remains.

Although the search for the youth whom Mrs. Podoloff believed to be her son had gone on for two years, the "Man-hunt" achieved the fever-heat of a detective thriller denouement only in the past fortnight. Officials of the Army's Graves Registration Service blanketed the United States in the closing days of August and the first week of September before finding Woolf and obtaining from him a statement that he was the man in the Prison Camp photograph taken by Associated Press Photographer Allen.

The search also brought the Quartermaster officials to three former buddies of Lautenbach, who saw him die in a heroic attempt to storm a German Machine Gunner who had slain the automatic rifleman of Lautenbach's squad.

It took them, too, to the dentists who had worked on Lautenbach's teeth during his army service.

The original lead given the Army by photographer Allen came from a caption of one picture among a file kept by the cameraman's wife while he was overseas with the 9th Armored Division. Cut off from her husband by the tides of battle, Mrs. Allen had clipped all the pictures bearing his credit line and had saved them in a scrapbook. Allen was unable to identify from memory anyone in the photo but one picture from Limburg identified an individual in the background as Leonard Nevius, of 4105 W. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. Nevius was traced by the Army to 1635 Piedmont Road, Charleston, West Virginia.

Unable to identify other persons in the picture, Nevius, however, named several individuals who were in the camp, including Captain Charles M. Berry, of (196 Peachtree Way), Atlanta, Ga., and Joseph W. Hutton of (817 Spring Garden Street), Greensboro, N. C.

Although an interview with Berry, who had been seriously ill in the camp, was unavailing, Hutton's assistance proved invaluable in the furtherance of the "man-hunt." Hutton, an American "Medic" with the 120th Infantry, 30th Division, before his capture August 9, 1944, in France, while in the prison camp acted as the assistant to Captain Charles A. Gallup, of (Los Angeles General Hospital), Los Angeles Calif. Captain Gallup was the senior American Medical Officer in charge of the Prisoners-Of-War in the ward photographed by Allen.

Hutton, interviewed at his home in Greensboro, had in his possession a black book in which he had kept the names and home addresses of several fellow prisoners of war. Among these names were those of Dan R. Ellis of Wadesboro, N. C.; James W. Bilton, of Holly Hill, S. C.; Bradford F. Grant, of (672 Washington Street), Defiance, Ohio; Alex J. Haag of (2027 Bradley Place), Chicago, Ill.; Thomas U. Johnson, of Mt. Jewett, Pa.; Leo K. Rowell, of Tremont, Ill. and Raymond Koenig, of (3714 North Bosworth Avenue), Chicago, Ill. Each of these when interviewed, gave additional names, either from memory or from records they had kept, until 47 of the 116 men in the Prison Camp Hospital on Liberation Day had been identified.

Hutton, it developed, had been in charge of the records of all patients in the ward throughout his confinement at Limburg. Though he recalled many names, he never heard the name Lautenbach and had never written this name in his records. Probing the possibility, as Mrs. Podoloff believed, that Lautenbach might have been in the camp as an amnesia victim, the investigators asked whether any persons suffering from loss of memory had been confined there. Hutton declared that he had never had an amnesia victim in his charge.

When the investigators trailed to Alex Haag in Chicago. A two-year old series of correspondence between Haag, Hutton and David Podoloff, step-father of Lautenbach was uncovered. Young Lautenbach's relatives had attempted without avail in 1945 to find the youth whom they believed to be their son. In this correspondence, the parents appealed for help. And in a letter from Hutton to Haag, the North Carolinian said, "Concerning the picture, I certainly agree with you, it is a clear case of mistaken identity. The parents, poor things, will cling to this straw of hope. The boy whose picture is circled was my patient before being moved across the ward. His name is Wolfe. I do not know his first name. His diagnosis was pneumonia and malnutrition."

Haag told the Army interviewer that he had also received a letter from Lautenbach's mother in October 1945 in which she said, "Sgt. Hutton believes that boy we think is our son, his name was Wolfe and he was there three weeks from March 7th. You stated a couple of days and that seems to be the information given by Lowe."

In a long distance telephone conversation arranged by the Army, Haag and Hutton discussed the case and reaffirmed that the man was "Wolfe." Neither was able to give any further clue as to "Wolfe's" identity.

Hutton and Haag agreed that at the time of Liberation, the German Captors were unable to control the near-starving Russians in the compound, and that on the eve of the American capture of the Prison-Camp the Germans had armed the Americans so that the Americans could protect themselves from the comparatively worse-off Russians. Because of the extremely dangerous condition within the camp, all Americans in the hospital were confined to their wards until the American Liberators appeared. One of the first persons to arrive in addition to Photographer Allen, was a Red Cross Representative who provided all inmates of the ward with telegraphic blanks on which to send messages to their next-of-kin. No Americans were allowed out of the barracks until medical personnel of the 617th Collection Company evacuated them by air from the combat zone. The two men agreed that there was no possibility of any individuals wandering off, even had they wished to.

Had it been necessary, the Army Investigators would have appealed to the Red Cross or to Western Union for aid in tracing all men sending telegrams on that day. However, it appeared to be simpler to check the whereabouts of the man "Wolfe" and in the search for this soldier, the Army turned up a one-in-a-billion coincidence finally breaking the link between the man Lautenbach and the man in the photograph.

Records in the Provost Marshal General's Office in Washington showed that Prisoners of War named "Wolfe," "Wolf," "Wolff" and "Woolf" numbered thirty-nine in all. One, named Leon Wolff, of (160 South 2nd Ave.) Mt. Vernon, N. Y., was shown as having been a prisoner at Stalag XII-A. He was interviewed at his home and found not to be the man in the picture. Conversation turned to the circumstances of Woolf's capture. It developed that Woolf had served in the same Division—the same regiment—the same battalion—the same company—the same platoon as Lautenbach. He had been present when Lautenbach was killed. He had heard Lautenbach's last words

"Let's get the sons—" as Lautenbach rose to charge the machine gun nest and was dropped by a burst of fire. A short time later Woolf was captured.

Captured with Woolf was Preston F. Schultheiss, of (4519 Broadway), Union City, N. J. Schultheiss also had seen Lautenbach fall and, in fact, had searched Lautenbach's rifle-belt for precious ammunition when his own short supply became exhausted.

Although neither Schultheiss nor Woolf had been able to identify Lautenbach other than as "The German Interpreter" a previous interview had established that the Company's German translator had been Lautenbach. This information came from First Sergeant Bernard A. Howell, now on recruiting duty at (270 Broadway), New York City, who had appointed Lautenbach the company's interpreter a few days before the fatal fire-fight of November 29, 1944. Howell also stated that he had gone with Lautenbach's platoon on that day and had seen Lautenbach fall. "I turned him over," Howell stated. "He was dead."

Later, the three former buddies of Lautenbach were brought together and discussed the events of the day of Lautenbach's death at length.

Meanwhile, a search of the demobilization records now stored at St. Louis revealed a roster prepared by the 617th Medical Collection Company showing the names of individuals evacuated from the Limburg Camp. The only Woolf (or similar name) listed was that of Leslie H. Woolf, of Watertown, a name which had never been received by the Army from the International Red Cross, apparently because of Defect in the German Army's normally adequate Prisoner-Reporting procedure. (311 High Street), Watertown, N. Y.

The Army Investigator then in New York City attempted to reach Woolf at Watertown and finally reached him through co-operation of the Watertown Police Department. An all-night drive through New York State brought—the investigator to Woolf's home by morning and Woolf was able to identify himself as the individual in the photograph whom Mrs. Podoloff believed to be her son. To substantiate his identification of himself, Woolf agreed to go to nearby Pine Camp, N. Y., and pose in an army uniform in a similar position to the one in the picture. The resemblance was more striking; discounting the difference in looks resulting from a weight gain of over forty pounds since liberation from prison. The pictures were virtually identical.

In a statement made to the investigator, Woolf told how he had occupied the bunk and had passed crusts of bread to the starving Russian Prisoners outside the window beside his bunk. He explained his unusual position, cross-legged with a box in his lap, by saying that he had been using the box as a table on which to write the telegram which Red Cross would send to his parents.

On Friday, September 5, 1947, the case was closed. Hutton, the medic who had tended the sick in the Limburg Camp, and Woolf, the man in the picture, met in a Washington office. Hutton recognized his former patient; Woolf remembered his former nurse.

While the spectacular man-hunt had been going on other Army Researchers had been busy on the mustier, dustier but equally important task of identifying through records the body in Lautenbach's grave as the body of Mrs. Podoloff's son. Every record of dental work done on Lautenbach by army dentists at Camp Croft, S. C., and Camp Pickett, Va., was consolidated on a single chart. To this chart was added information supplied by Lautenbach's civilian dentists. The consolidated chart showed two extractions—upper wisdom teeth—fifteen silver amalgam fillings, and one gold inlay. X-rays and jaw casts were made of the body lying in Lautenbach's grave, and from these X-rays and castings a parallel chart was made. The chart also showed the upper wisdom teeth extracted. The fifteen silver amalgam fillings on the Lautenbach chart agreed in every particular with the fifteen fillings in the teeth of the body. There was even a gold inlay in the same tooth, and in the inlay the discrepancy between the Lautenbach chart and the body's chart. This discrepancy was only one of technique. Lautenbach's civilian dentist had stated that the inlay had been placed in the tooth according to one type of standard preparation; the X-rays indicated another type of preparation. In all, the similarity of number, type and location of silver fillings, coupled with the extraction of a similar number of teeth—the identical teeth—and the presence of a gold inlay in the same tooth on each chart was mathematically beyond the possibility of coincidence.

A final link between the living Lautenbach and the dead soldier was provided by Dr. G. J. Piner, of (11 Alton Place) Brookline, Mass. a dentist at the Veterans Administration Hospital at Framington, Mass. Piner, a former army dentist who worked on Lautenbach's teeth at Camp Croft, S. C., in May of 1943, was able to identify the work he had done on Lautenbach with the aid of Dental records which he had signed at Camp Croft, photographs of the teeth of the dead soldier and a stone cast of the dead man's teeth.

He recalled Lautenbach, the individual, because while he was polishing the fillings he had put in Lautenbach's mouth, Piner was notified that his change-of-station orders had been received. Lautenbach's name, face and teeth remain in his memory, Piner explained, because the soldier was the last patient he treated before leaving Camp Croft.

In addition to the evidence of the Teeth, which is considered to be second only to fingerprinting as conclusive identification, an autopsy performed the first exhumation showed the body to have had the appendix removed. Lautenbach's army records indicated an appendix scar. At the time of the first exhumation, however, it was impossible to take fingerprints, even with the advanced "moulage" technique used by identification experts in many cases.

Found on the body at the time of exhumation were clothes liberally marked with identification point to Lautenbach, either by name or by laundry mark number. The usual army procedure for laundry marking is the initial of the last name followed by the last four digits of the serial number. Since Lautenbach's serial number was 11092050, his laundry mark would be "L2050." This mark was found on shirt, undershirt, trousers, and belt. The shoes were marked on the inside with a tape bearing the name Lautenbach. A standard army identification tag with the marking "Lautenbach," Stephen C. 11-092050" was on a chain around the neck of the body. Clipped to the undershirt was an expensive fountain pen bearing the initials SCL, which since has been returned to Lautenbach's mother as a treasure which she had given her son when he went to war. Also on the body was an Lautenbach's name and two letters to Lautenbach from his mother.

Despite this evidence the Pathological Examination which showed the remains to be of substantially the same size as those of her son, Mrs. Podoloff held with a mother's fierce devotion to the hope that the boy in the picture was her son. She turned to the belief that in the confusion of battle her son had been captured by the Germans and stripped of his clothing before being evacuated to the enemy rear area. The body of a dead German, she believed, had been dressed in her son's clothing and substituted on the battlefield for the body of Lautenbach.

Based on tooth charts alone, army statisticians determined that the chance of such a switch of bodies would be one in twenty-four octillion. Even this superastronomical figure did not take into consideration such factors as size, weight and the presence of an appendix scar—all factors which would have made the odds against a switch of bodies, one octillion individuals to be substituted would have had to have been on the same battlefield at the time of the engagement.

In commenting on the reaffirmation of the original battlefield identification of Lautenbach, Brigadier General Geo. A. Horkan, in charge of the Army's Graves Registration and Memorial activities, said:

"I sincerely regret that our efforts on behalf of this steadfast mother have proved so tragically disappointing. The handling of the Return Program is a difficult and depressing task. It is the desire of the War Department to do everything possible for the next of kin and particularly to assure them that the identity of their loved ones has been established beyond any doubt."

"The search for the man in the Associated Press Picture and the conclusion of the investigation should give additional assurance to bereaved Americans that the Army spares no effort to insure positive and accurate identification of deceased servicemen."

"If the Army errs in these matters, it errs on the side of caution. More than 17,000 men who died for their country in World War II now lie in graves officially marked "unknown." How many of these men will subsequently be identified, no one knows. We do know, however, that when the Army finally gives any of these men a name, it will be the name he bore from the cradle to the grave."

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rolands of Alamogordo, N. M., and Erlene Simpson of Bryan spent their vacation here with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Simpson. Robert Jones of Bryan was a week-end visitor in the Simpson home last week.

Peter Stevens of Dallas spent the week-end here in the home of his parents

GOOD SPORTSMANSHIP PAYS

Due to bad sportsmanship on the part of a few of the Eagle fans last football season, our team is not able to play in the 32A district conference this season. It is, therefore, the duty of our community and fans to show the rivals of this year that they can conduct themselves in a sporting manner. It is in this way that the public can show that it is behind the team and help regain the team's respectable position in the conference. We want to see our community backing these boys wholeheartedly but not to the extent that they show bad sportsmanship whatever the results of the game.

When we attend a football game, we go there for pleasure and to boost our team, not to tell the coach who to play and how, or the officials how to call the game. Let's also remember that to enjoy a good football game, it is not necessary to be drinking. Last season several games were interrupted because of drunken fighters on the sideline. Surely no team would want a group of drunks boosting them, whether they were on their home field or on the opponent's field. It doesn't matter who you are playing or when you are playing, but it ALWAYS PAYS to show the best sportsmanship possible. Sportsmanships invalues honest rivalry, courteous relations and graceful acceptance of results. Lets all show good sportsmanship this season, beginning Friday night at Eagle Field.

down to their last year at Goldthwaite High. During the past two weeks the seniors elected officers and a sponsor. We are glad to have Mrs. Campbell Thompson for sponsor again this year. The officers are:
President—Ed Gilliam.
Vice-President—Geraldine Laughlin.
Secretary—Jerol Vaughn.
Treasurer—Jackie Gearld.
Reporter—Edna Roberts.
We are proud to say that the pep leaders were all seniors. The seniors are tickled pink to have quiet a little sum of money in the bank at the beginning of this year and hope we will be able to use it for a good cause.

JUNIOR CLASS REPORT

We are well into the school term now and everything is doing fine. We had planned to have a picnic this week, but due to the fact that there are so many Junoir boys on the main football team, we postponed it. We want them to make a good showing Friday night. We can hardly wait to order our Senior rings. When will it be, Mr. Johnson?
The Junior girls turned out almost unanimously to support our football team by joining the pep squad. Two Junior girls, Anita Lappe and Nelda Jones are the flag bearers. We are looking forward to Friday night's game. Here's luck to you, boys.

PEP SQUAD ELECTS LEADERS

A meeting was held Wednesday and, after try-outs, the following girls were elected pep leaders: Norma Sue Ross, Geraldine Laughlin, Joyce Harrell, Carlene Featherston. Nelda Jones and Anita Lappe were elected flag bearers. The pep squad has selected white coveralls as its uniform. The leaders have also made plans for their uniforms and hope to have them for the first game.

The pep squad would like to see every Eagle fan come out Friday night and help the Goldthwaite Eagles win a victory!

MR. Y. B. JOHNSON

The man seen riding around in Goldthwaite in the jeep is our new Algebra teacher, Mr. Y. B. Johnson. He is six feet tall and has blue eyes and brown hair.
Mr. and Mrs. Johnson live in the southern part of town.
Mr. Johnson received his B. S. degree from A. and M. College in 1947. While attending college, he was a member of the "T" association. He served four years in the Infantry of the Army. He may be a stranger to some people here because he is from Colman He played football on the Coleman team while attending school there.

Mr. Johnson is very fond of sports. He is the pitcher for the Goldthwaite Giants.

GIRLS' SPORTS

The girls of Goldthwaite High School who were interested in girls' sports held a meeting last week and formed a girls' athletic club. The following officers were elected: President—Geraldine Laughlin; Vice-President—Jane Ann Steen; Secretary—Betty Williford; Reporter—Georgia Simpson; Senior Team's Captain—Ruby Nugent; Junior Team's Captain—Dorine (Chubby) Kirby. June Tyson was elected captain of the basketball team.

TWENTY-FOUR STUDENTS REPORT FOR CHEMISTRY

Twenty-four students have enrolled for the first course of chemistry ever offered in Goldthwaite High School. The class has been studying the construction of atoms and the method in which they unite to form compounds. They have also studied the ninety-two elements and their symbols.
New text books and lab equipment have been ordered and all signs point to a successful year.

THE TOP DRAWER

(Everything goes into it.)
Since the top drawer of every desk, dresser or chest always catches—goodness knows what, we're going to drag something out of it every week for you to add to your collection of gossip. The first thing that we'll take from the top drawer this week is: My! That c-u-t-e sophomore couple Jane Ann Steen and Larry Simmons were seen together Saturday night. Is this gonna be regular or steady? we hope so.
Jerol Vaughan must not like this "ole steady stuff" any more. She and her new beau from Brownwood sure seemed to enjoy the Daniel Baker football game Saturday night.
Anifa, where did you find that tall blonde guy you were with Saturday night?
La Verne, how did you and Sue enjoy the Boat Races Saturday afternoon? We bet Ed and Billy Chadwick liked them O. K.
Zephyr seems to be quite popular. Friday night it was Rita and Buddy J. and Nelda R. and Mackie. Saturday night it was Earline and Jimmy M. Rita and Garth G. and Nelda and Emmet G.

STAR P. T. A.

The Star P. T. A. had its first meeting of the year Friday night September 5, with a play-night. After a few minutes of recreation, a short business meeting, refreshments were served. Plans and discussions were partly made for the program during the coming year.

One of the teachers in the school will have charge of the first program. The following program two weeks later will be in charge of the parents. Definite plans will be published later.

We were glad to have Mr. Maxey from Evant, owner of the Four County Press, with us at our last meeting. He offered the P. T. A. a proposition whereby we may begin to put money into the treasury. We hope to add a list to his subscribers list before long, and at the same time collect funds for our treasury.

JUST A PUSH

Recently I came onto the question, "When is a person said to be well read? Or how many books on subjects must one have mastered in order to be well read?"

Such a question has more or less abstraction for lack of a perfect standard. One thing to start with to be well read requires time. It requires much time but I would think it the most fruitful use of time.

After an old white head visitor had left the room a little girl in the home said to her mother, "If I make an old lady as gentle, as beautiful and sweet as she, I wouldn't mind to grow old and have white hair." The thoughtful mother said, "daughter if you are to make that sort of person, its time to begin now."

It doesn't strike me that her type of people were made in a hurry. So it is with reading for purposes of expanding knowledge, multiplying mental strength and ideals.

The late Sir W. Pattison in speaking for men of his profession, said a man can't treat himself with respect if he hasn't as many as a thousand books in his library. Certainly, a person can have a thousand books or more and then not be well read.

When a small boy, I carried an illusion for a time. A man was pointed out on the streets to me as the only college graduate in my town or county. That sounds fishy these times when surrounded daily with college graduates. But in my simple boyish mind Prof. Sam Ryan knew all there was to be known. I supposed the college sent him out home because there was nothing more to teach him. Whereas the more real knowledge one has the more beckoning and challenging from the many fields unknown. Or that is what they say.

One thing more is certain - he who is well read reads well, that is concentrates. He does not read in order to pout or to boast of the things in possession of but for the dear sake of knowing things that are worth knowing.

Whatever one's vocation any of us have odd moments and spare time if spent on good literature and high class reading to be comparatively well read.

I regret my omission; there's no back moves to human life.

LIVES VS. MINUTES

Why, ask those who are shocked by our annual traffic death rate, do motorists weave in and out of traffic lanes? Why do they blast their horns when another auto fails to get away fast when the stop light changes to green? Why do drivers stopping at intersections ease their vehicles over the crosswalks, thus blocking pedestrian lanes?

The answer is no less shameful than it is simple. The motorist just wants to get someplace in a hurry. He is maddened by the potentialities of speed in the powerful machine he drives, he is intoxicated with the idea that this modern age demands haste at all times.

He wants to get someplace in just a little less time than he got there the last time so he can prate and boast of his prowess as a madcap Barney Oldfield. It makes good conservation. But so do funerals. And the average modern driver is contributing equally to both subjects of conservation.

Traffic engineers who design our streets and highways have done everything in their power to minimize the danger of driving. Enforcement officials are likewise improving and standardizing regulations to take the bugs out of traffic hazards. They are engaged in a life and death race with increasing auto production. One major fault in our modern life deters them. That fault is the irresponsible attitude of the man behind the wheel.

All the education, enforcement and engineering we can muster will be of little avail if the individual driver persists in the attitude that the spectre of accidents will not touch him and he can indulge in excessive speed and reckless driving. In the final analysis, each individual must do his or her part if we are to save the lives of our friends, our families, or ourselves.

Saving lives is infinitely more important than saving minutes

LIVING TOGETHER

The other night I attended the program arranged by the Parent-Teacher Association of the Goldthwaite public schools. I enjoyed it very much. It was fine, but the thing that stands out in my mind is what the lady said when she announced the work program for the year. She said: "It will be called 'Living Together'."

Perhaps none of the fine arts have been so neglected as the art of Living Together. Mankind has reached great heights in music, painting, sculpture, and science, but he has never learned to live in unity with his neighbor. The individual who wishes to achieve perfection in his chosen field faithfully trains and practices until the thing he is trying to do becomes a part of him. How glorious it would be if men through the centuries had been equally faithful to the ideals of Christian fellow-ship and had really perfected the fine art of Living Together.

In Christ we have the method and the way. He said: "I am the vine, ye are the branches" John 15:5. Thus as we are joined to Him we are united with one another, bound together by a tie which is stronger than steel cables the tie which binds our hearts together in Christian love. The early Christians knew this as they worked together, served together and gave their all for one another. They were so bound together by their mutual love of Christ, and the word of God, that they had no place nor time nor use for Manuals or Creeds or Articles, but were in unity and became martyrs for the Master.

The way to perfect the fine art of Living Together is to put into practice our love for Christ in all our relationships with other people. When we are filled with Christian love, the love that knows no Law but God's Law, and cause that love to abound, we shall live in unity with our neighbors.

Our aim and prayer should be "Grant unto us such a oneness of Spirit in Christ Jesus, O Lord, that we shall dwell in unity with our fellow-man."

My congratulations to the Goldthwaite P. T. A., and my whole-hearted support is hereby offered.

SCRIPTURE: Ecclesiastes.
DEVOTIONAL READING: Ecclesiastes 1:1-7.

Worthy Objectives

Lesson for September 28, 1947

THE Book of Ecclesiastes, written by Solomon, B. C. 977, is profitable in the fact that it discloses the findings of a very remarkable man on life. Solomon tells us that he had tried every tempting offer of the world, but found it vanity. "Vanity of vanities, all is vanity," he declares.

Solomon is often referred to as the wisest of men. He does not make this claim, nor would I suggest it. As a matter of fact, Solomon was a very unwise man in many of the manifestations of his life. He had every advantage, but yielded to selfish pursuits of pleasure when he might have been serving his day and generation by the will of God.

Why do I point to Solomon as an unwise man? From his own testimony—"I gave my heart to know wisdom, and to know madness and folly; I perceived that this also is vexation of spirit. For in much wisdom is much grief; and he that increaseth knowledge increaseth sorrow."

Excellent Advice
EVEN so, Solomon was ready, by the time he wrote Ecclesiastes, to give some excellent advice. He had discovered that pomp and ceremony are meaningless—that they turn at last to ashes.

For example, "He (God) hath made everything beautiful in its time," chapter 3, verse 11. Solomon had dealt in the artificial. He had worn the most costly robes, lived in the finest palaces, had gardens set up to please any passing whim.

But now that he has come to see the vanity of men, he can at last open his eyes to the beauty which God creates. And now he has become a wise man, indeed. There is beauty everywhere if only we have eyes to see.

Words of Wisdom
THE next section of Sunday's lesson brings us to one of Solomon's greatest confessions. He says, chapter 3, verse 14: "I know that, whatsoever God doeth, it shall be forever; nothing can be put to it, nor anything taken from it; and God doeth it, that men should fear before him."

We do well to remember that God is, and that he is good, and that he is sovereign. "This is our Father's world," wrote Malbie Babcock. Here is a truth for today. In our dismay over the atomic bomb, we are about to forget that God intended for man to discover atomic energy, and he expected man to have enough moral stamina to use this discovery for his good and God's glory.

Which brings us to the heart of the Preacher's message, chapter 12, verse 13: "Let us hear the conclusion of the whole matter; fear God, and keep his commandments; for this is the whole duty of man."

Seeking the Best in Life
SOLOMON, by his own testimony, missed much of the finer things of life; but he admonishes the reader to profit by his mistake and seek the best in life. For example, in chapter 2, verse 24, Solomon says: "There is nothing better for a man, than that he should eat and drink, and that he should make his soul enjoy good in his labour."

Every boy and girl in the world knows the joy of honest work, at least I hope so. Have you grown a beautiful flower? A vegetable garden? Cut a cord of fire wood? Then you know that work is one of the essential ways of seeking the best in life.

Then Solomon comes to the first eight verses of the last chapter—a golden section for memory. It is one of the first passages of Scripture I ever learned. I trust every young person reading this column will commit that passage to memory, if you have not already done so.

Testing Life's Philosophies
SOLOMON concludes his confessions with this probing declaration: "For God shall bring every work into judgment, with every secret thing, whether it be good, or whether it be evil."

What is he saying? He is reminding us that whatever may be our philosophy of life, such philosophy, together with our commitments thereto, will be tested out under the white light of God's ultimate truth. My conclusion is that I desire but one thing—to find and follow the will of God, which is always right and always best.

CHOICE is the note of today's career

Would you go to Europe, Japan or Korea?
Or would you stay near home? Any man who has had prior service in the Armed Forces may elect to do any of these things if he enlists in the Army now for 3 years or with one of five famous Infantry divisions in the series for East. Or he may choose to be stationed near home for the first full year of his enlistment (where there are vacancies).
Men with or without prior service may choose one of the most famous combat divisions in Japan or Korea.

Would you select a career in aviation?
This you can do, and be guaranteed the training you choose before you enlist! Only requirements beyond regular physical and mental examinations are that you be a high school graduate, or that you are in the Air Force and can qualify. It's today's great opportunity to write your own ticket in the Air Force.

Would you want to learn to fly? If you are single, 20 to 26½, and have had two or more years of college education or the equivalent, you can become an Aviation Cadet with the U. S. Air Force. Nowhere else can you get better training, for nowhere else is aviation advancing as fast or as far as in our own Air Force.

Would you go to a leadership school?
If you have qualities of leadership, would you want to develop them to their fullest? U. S. Army Leadership Schools are now selecting likely candidates from servicemen to take these valuable courses.

The Army and Air Force are doing everything possible today to help each individual develop along the lines that he picks for himself. Army and Air Force training is thorough and take-home pay is better than most civilian jobs.
Opportunities for advancement are wide open to every man in uniform.
Make your choice today at your U. S. Army and Air Force Recruiting Station.

Mums, which have grown to consecutive year.

The flower has "grown-up" with football. In quality, they are a combination of the Aster and Carnation, however, they dwarf each in size. Mums, according to R. L. Padgett, require more work than any other flower. They have to be pruned from one to ten times and have to be washed off every other day. The football flower ranges in all colors except bright red and with the use of dyes, they can be made any color.

This little incident happened last season: A High School stu-

the Floral for a black flower and promised with the young man by

Feedlots Are Food Factories

Now, with the approach of fall, the endless streams of cattle and lambs flow down out of the high summer pastures. Last spring's pigs soon will be on the way to market. The sorting lots and corrals will soon be busy.

In the valleys and plains the feedlots begin to fill. They dam back some of this fall flood of animals... You who feed livestock know well how important this is. You realize that it helps avoid periods of glut and scarcity, by stretching out, over months, the time of marketing. You know, too, how such year "round" marketing serves to lessen big "feast-or-famine" price fluctuations. And who should understand better than you how the feedlots of America add millions of pounds to the nation's meat supply?

Feedlots save for the land much of the fertility which the selling of grain crops and hay would take out of the land. For example, you sell a steer that has gained 500 pounds in your feedlot. You are selling off your land only about 12½ pounds of nitrogen, 3 pounds of phosphorus, 1 pound of potash, which his body has absorbed out of your feeds. But suppose you were to sell as cash crops the grain and hay which you put into that steer.
Then you would deplete your soil of about seven times as much nitrogen, four times as much phosphorus, and twenty times as much potash.

Keeping the soil fertile through use of manure from livestock is only one factor in judging whether "feeding" is likely to be a profitable venture. There are many others which are being constantly studied by individuals, colleges, and experiment stations. In every feeding area they are trying out new rations, watching costs, plugging "leaks," developing more efficient feeding techniques. So if you are feeding livestock, or are considering it, it may be worth your while to consult your county agent, vocational agriculture teacher, or state agricultural college. Ask them what they have that's new in up-to-the-minute feeding information... maybe you'll find some new wrinkle that will lower your costs, increase your profit possibilities.

How many Meat Packers?

Here's an interesting thing to note.
There is, on an average, more than 1,000 miles between the point where livestock is raised and the point where the meat products are eaten. Largely because of this 1,000-mile gap, national meat packers came into being.
The small meat packers buy livestock locally, slaughter and sell meat in the territory surrounding their plants. In addition to this service, nationwide organizations are equipped to do another big job—and do it economically. They perform the service of moving dressed meat the long distances from areas of production to large consuming areas where relatively little livestock is produced. These areas of great meat consumption and small meat production depend upon nationwide meat packers, like Swift & Company, for a large part of their meat products. Livestock-producing areas also depend on the large meat packers, as an outlet for the livestock their immediate market cannot consume.

Most livestock producers market their livestock at only one market. So they come in contact with only a few livestock buyers. Dealing with such a small number of firms leads farmers and ranchers, naturally enough, to the thought that there is only a small number of meat packers in the United States. Actually, according to the latest figures available, there are approximately 4,000 meat packers and about 22,500 other commercial slaughterers of livestock. Some slaughter millions of head per year. Others kill thousands of head annually, and still others only hundreds.

New "Slant" Saves Pigs

Farrowing pens with sloping floors are the answer to clumsy sows that step or lie on baby pigs. The slant of the floor takes advantage of the natural tendency of sows to lie with their backs uphill, while the tiny baby pigs tumble downhill safely out of her way. Used extensively in Kentucky, sloping floors have cut baby pig losses to only one out of thirty, according to W. P. Garrigus of the University of Kentucky. He writes:

"Crushing or crippling by brood sows is the chief cause of pig losses. Normally, one out of every five new-born pigs is doomed to be mashed or severely crippled by clumsy, awkward brood sows the first day or so after farrowing. This loss to the swine industry adds up to a staggering total. According to the United States Department of Agriculture, each pig killed at farrowing represents a loss of 140 pounds of the feed consumed by the sow during the gestation and suckling periods. Figuring two pigs killed to the litter, this loss in one year alone, 1944, cost hog men 75 million dollars.

"Very little of this tremendous loss needs to be tolerated. Three years of experimentation and observation of herd tests in Kentucky show that sows farrowing on sloping floors raised from one to four pigs more than when they farrowed on level floors. On 49 Kentucky farms where records have been kept, with 385 litters, an average of only one pig out of 30 farrowed has been crushed on sloping floors."

The College of Agriculture, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky., has detailed information on sloping floors for farrowing pens, instructions for building, etc.

Track Down the Facts

If you ever see tracks like this in the snow, dust, or mud, you'll know there's been a white-tailed deer around. An experienced hunter can tell from the tracks how long since they were made, the approximate size of the deer, and whether it was in full flight or quietly going about its business.

Deer tracking is considerably out of our line here at Swift & Company. But we do have a staff of trained fact hunters. Their job is to track down the facts which control our business operations. They study the U. S. Department of Agriculture figures on livestock supplies. They "track down," too, the demand for meat... what weights and grades housewives everywhere are asking for... what cuts they prefer.

Our "fact trackers" know full well that the price of livestock is governed by what the meat packer can get for the meat and by-products.

Swing Of Southwest Farm Markets

(By U. S. D. A.)

Pronounced easiness prevailed on many farm markets last week according to the Production and Marketing Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Grains dropped sharply towards the close of the week, to net losses of 5 to 25 cents. Wheat, corn and sorghums suffered most, but oats and barley went along. Wheat closed at $2.68 to $2.69 at Fort Worth Friday, and white corn $2.80 to $2.85. Buyer resistance and smaller export allocations were given as weakening factors.

Late-week cotton losses all but liquidated early advances of around $5 per bale, as markets closed around $1.50 higher for the week. Demand for most favored grades and staples continued good, but spot sales decreased.

WORLD-WIDE PROGRAM OF RELIEF AND EVANGELISM TOLD

DR. A. C. MILLER

A world-wide program of relief and evangelism in which each Baptist church in Texas will be asked to participate will be described at the annual meeting of the Mills Association in the Baptist Church at Big Valley today (Friday).

Representatives from 13 Baptist churches in this area will report on the progress of their various organizations and departments during the past year and make plans for the coming months.

Speaker for the Texas Baptist Mission Board, Dr. A. C. Miller of Dallas will stress the need of every church member's sharing the world relief program soon to be outlined by the Executive Committee of the Baptist World Alliance.

The words of Dr. C. Oscar Johnson, president of the World Alliance who recently spoke in Texas, will be repeated by Dr. Miller: "What all of our people can do immediately will not be enough to relieve the starving nations. We must not be selfish in days like these. We need the strength of character that comes from giving."

Dr. Johnson also emphasized that "Every carload of food and clothing sent must be steeped in the gospel. The people in these war-torn countries are hungry physically but more so spiritually."

Dr. Miller will urge the representatives of the Association to give emphasis to the stewardship campaign conducted in the Baptist churches of Texas this fall, to aid their churches in planning financial programs to meet not only their own but world needs. He will also display new literature offered free to the churches for use in the campaigns.
