Flock Of Geese Prove Experts In "Chopping" 345 Acre Field Of Cotton

COLLEGE STATION (Special)—Singing hoe hands who work free and pay their own board have "chopped" 345 acres of cotton for a Motley county farmer. It all began when Billy Hand unloosed 120 squawking geese in his fields.

"The geese went to work and covered the acreage in a week," says W. C. Pallmeyer, county agricultural agent. They did not molest the cotton but centered their interest on grass and "goat-hands". With the exception of a few large "careless" weeds which geese won't destroy, the field was cleaned—just as if regular hoe hands had done the job.

Farm Program is Hailed As Ike's Biggest Victory

WASHINGTON—President Eisenhower was justifiably jubilant that he scored his major Congressional victory of the year by House and Senate adoption of his farm program.

Veteran congressional leaders, Democrats as well as Republicans, viewed it as a triumph that came as the result of patient backstage work and skillful legislative maneuvering.

One surprise feature was the fact that administration lieutenants succeeded in splitting the presumably solid farm bloc in Congress, a feat which in the past has been seldom accomplished.

When Agriculture Secretary Ezra Taft Benson first demanded that the present 90 per cent of parity price support program be junked in favor of flexible supports, a tempest of criticism by congressmen from the farm states broke forth.

In the beginning, the farm bloc was reported adamant in demanding that 90 per cent price support payments be retained and Democrats from the big cities indicated they would support them rather than repudiate the system which prevailed during the Roosevelt and Truman administrations.

However, administration leaders worked out a compromise which would establish the flexible supports on a 82 and a half to 90 per cent basis rather than 75 to 90 per cent proposal initially suggested by Benson.

When the showdown came, it was key farm state Republicans who switched to the support of the Eisenhower administration and insured victory for the President where defeat had seemed certain.

The major question now is whether the President's victory in the halls of Congress can be translated into votes this November.

Democrats will exert every effort to make it a pyrrhic victory politically and try to persuade the farmers it's time for a change.

This is precisely what happened in 1948 when the Democrats hammered away at the farm vote and scored one of the major political victories of all time.

Six years ago farmers were primarily antagonized because the GOP-controlled 80th Congress voted a flexible price support system even though it never went into effect.

Failure to provide funds for emergency storage bins also contributed to the resentment against Republicans in the farm states and Harry S. Truman scored his extraordinary victory.

At this point, it is difficult to assess farm opinion on the new price support program but the general opinion is that it will curb the present trend toward lower farm prices in the market place. This fact alone may be enough to sour the farmers on the GOP.

● TENSIONS—Trained Washington observers feel that the western powers are at last beginning to make some progress in relieving the global tensions created by the Communists.

There have been some notable gains in recent weeks. The first in importance was the settlement of the long-standing dispute between Egypt and Great Britain over the Suez.

Second, and almost equally important, is the Iranian oil accord which terminated this bitter, and extended, controversy.

Both of these settlements, in which the U. S. was a vitally interested party, more or less pulled the rug from under Communist expansionists who thrive upon disagreements among the free powers.

● REVISED THINKING—The purchase by Capital Airlines of 40 British-built Vickers Viscount transports has started American manufacturers into a possible revision of their thinking about future American transport planes.

The Viscounts, which are the first foreign-built transports ever bought in quantity by an United States airline, are powered by turbo-prop engines. This is a jet engine that applies its power to a propeller instead of expanding it in thrust.

The engine burns kerosene and is expected to be very inexpensive to operate. Because it has no reciprocating parts, the upkeep is expected to be negligible.

Pointing out that the "core" of the small town still remains as it always was in spite of the modernization all around us, Henry Beetle Hough, author of "Country Editor" and publisher of the Vineyard Gazette, Martha's Vineyard, Mass., described this background and the weekly newspaper's close tie-up with it in a recent talk.

Said Mr. Hough:

"Most small towns and most weekly newspapers have the experience and tradition of plain, small, things of individualism of personal relationships that extend in many directions and through many areas of life.

"Of course now we are all up to date—but don't let that fool you. A great paradox of the small town and the country is that they absorb change yet do not change fundamentally themselves. Their modernity is deceptive—if one thinks they have gone over to city ways—they have not done anything of the kind.

"The housewife keeps her milk in an electric refrigerator and does not have to catch a pump in the morning, but she still makes filled cookies and sews for the church guild. Her husband is a good judge of a new car and likes the latest gadgets for shaving, but he turns his hand to the same small tasks small town men have always done, and doesn't feel comfortable unless there is space around him. He appreciates the telephone, but he knows when to push up the window and just yell at his neighbor down the street."

NEWS WHERE HOME IS

"The rural family goes motoring, or takes a trip to see America, or finds itself living electrically, but it knows where home is. Home isn't in the chrome and plastic and steel or even the electricity of the new age; it's in the heart, and in the town and country, and in the soil. As long as there is sun and rain and seasons, this is the way it will be.

"The newness of the country is astounding, but it is all wrapped around a core that is stout and stubborn and old. The country still speaks its own language and thinks its own thoughts. There's no lack of progressive spirit but to new schemes, sales talks, or economic temptations, the country will sooner or later (and usually sooner) apply the test of experience and reality. The country can't kid itself; the answers are too clear, too close at hand. When you plant, you see what grows—or what does not grow. You live with bright hopes but even more with consequences. Small town and country people never get away from an awareness of consequences."

It is our hope that a good many folks who have from time to time had a longing to get away from the country and into the metropolitan cities will ponder these words. They tell a great story about the small town and the country and the people that live there and the way that they live there. A lot of folks who have lived in the city all their lives, and many who have not been that long, feel sorry for the folks who live in the small town or country. Little do they realize that the feeling is mutual. Small town and country folks also feel sorry for folks who HAVE to live in the cities.

AND WHERE DID HE BUY GOWN? is the headline of a story appearing in a recent issue of Publisher's Auxiliary. Then the story goes on like this:

SMALL DETAILS were extremely important to newspaper editors of half a century ago, the Wall Street Journal reports.

After a little research the Journal came up with some quotes—noting that economic reports were often mingled with social affairs.

For instance, this wedding: "Miss Jennie Jones and Ben Henry were married at the Jones mansion last night."

"The bride is the daughter of Constable Jones, who has made a good officer and will doubtless be re-elected this year."

"He offers a fine horse for sale in another column of the issue."

"The groom runs a grocery on Main Street, and is a good patron of our advertising columns. He has a good lot of bargains in his ad this week."

"All summer he paid the cents more for butter than at other store in town. They are married by the Rev. J. B. Butterworth, who last week called at this office and gave a nice order for printing."

"He is also going in business and will write fire insurance. So say the business cards recently printed for him."

"Jennie and Ben left on 10 o'clock train for Milwaukee to visit with the bride's mother, who, we understand, has a lot of money and cancer."

Mr. and Mrs. Millard and Benita of Cleburne were last weekend in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Collier and Jerry.

Information Is Given On How To Care For Permanently Pleated Skirts

COLLEGE STATION (Special)
Wash permanently pleated

skirts without worrying if the skirt contains 50 percent man-made fibers. Drying is the key to sharp, firm pleats!

Most permanently pleated skirts are made of blended fabrics—such as cotton and wool blended with man-made fibers. If the skirt contains 50 percent man-made fibers, it's washable says a report from the United States Department of Agriculture.

Hot water and mild soap or detergent won't harm plants or fabrics. Laundering may be done by hand or machine.

But do not spin-dry or wring the skirt by hand!

Two ways of drying are effective. Let the skirt drip-dry and finger-press pleats after some of the moisture has dripped out. The other way will prevent water from stretching or pulling the skirt out of shape. Lay the skirt flat on a towel and pat out excess moisture before hanging the skirt straight for final drying.

Follow the manufacturer's label on skirts or material as a guide to care and washing of the fabric.

New Law Extends VA Direct Loans
On Farmhouses & Homes For Veterans

The Veterans Administration direct loan program to aid veterans in the purchase or construction of farmhouses or homes in areas where private financing is not available has been extended and increased under Public Law 611 signed by the President August 21, 1954.

The new statute extends the program until June 30, 1955 and authorizes the Treasury to advance VA up to $150 million in quarterly allotments of $37,500,000 during the fiscal year. The newly authorized funds will be distributed to eligible direct loan areas in quarterly allotments. Veterans already on waiting lists will have first call on funds in their respective areas.

There were 39,000 veterans on the waiting list June 30, 1954, however, VA believes a considerable number of these veterans have made other plans and will not follow through with their direct loan applications when their turns are reached.

During the four years the direct loan program has been in operation, VA has made loans to 49,311 veterans and reserved funds for another 7,536 for a total of more than $430,300,000. Only 90 direct loans have resulted in foreclosure or voluntary conveyance to the government in lieu of foreclosure. Currently, direct loans bear interest of four and one-half percent.

School Children
Have 4 "Days" At Big Fair In Waco

WACO, Sept. 9—Many thousands of school children assure big crowds on four days of the Heart O' Texas Fair.

There are three school children's days and a special day for Future Farmers, Future Homemakers and 4-H Club members.

Free tickets to the grounds are provided by the fair with the teachers distributing the tickets.

Opening day of the fair, Saturday, Oct. 2, has been dedicated in honor of 4-H Clubs, FFA and FHA. More than 1,500 tickets already have been requested by the vocational agriculture teachers and county agents.

Monday, Oct. 4, will be Negro school children's day and over 4,000 tickets have been sent to McLennan and surrounding counties, with other requests expected.

Friday, Oct. 8, will be Waco school children's day and the final day of the fair will be still another school children's day—for white students of McLennan County (outside of Waco) and counties of Central Texas. More than 10,000 tickets already have been requested for this occasion.

Shade Trees Need
Help From Owners

COLLEGE STATION (Special)
—Shade trees sapped by another summer of sparse rainfall need a little help from their owners.

An ailing tree's condition can be improved greatly with water and fertilizer, says G. M. Watkins, extension pathologist. To accomplish this, build a circular dike around the tree to hold water four inches deep in the basin. The diameter of the basin, says Watkins, should approximate the size of the tree's shade canopy. A dike six feet in diameter is suggested for very small trees and shrubs.

Spread a commercial fertilizer over the soil within the dike. The formula and application rate depend upon the inherent fertility of the soil. As a starter, one pound of 5-10-5 or 8-8-8 to every 100 square feet of surface is recommended.

Fill the basin to a depth of four inches and allow to soak in. During the hot, dry part of the year repeat the waterings at seven to 10 day intervals but discontinue during the seasons.

Fertilizer every 30 days during the growing season and withhold fertilizer as the trees go into dormancy. Water well every time fertilizer is applied.

So it is easy to see that there will be great crowds of young folks on each of these four days, plus of course the general attendance.

Othel M. Neely, executive vice president, is gratified with the enthusiastic response. Superintendents or principals who have not yet asked for tickets for their schools are urged to get in touch with Mrs. E. G. Stromberg, director of special events for the fair.

Humble's new HOUSTON RESEARCH CENTER ... is dedicated to man's impelling curiosity in the search for knowledge and its useful application in the specialized fields of petroleum exploration and production.

Dedicated to Man's Impelling Curiosity

Most of us interpret the value of research in terms of immediate benefits. Research means that we get a better automobile, an improved gasoline, or an outstanding motor oil.

At Baytown Refinery, the Humble Company maintains one of the finest laboratories in the petroleum industry for that kind of research.

But behind the study that goes into the improvement of the products it sells, Humble for years has fostered basic research related to the discovery and production of oil and natural gas.

The United States uses so much oil from day to day, and needs so much more to provide for the emergencies of national defense, that studies leading to the discovery of new supplies and the more efficient management of existing reservoirs are more important than ever before. Consequently, Humble's expenditures on this sort of research are the heaviest in the Company's history and its staff of research scientists is larger than it has ever been.

To house the expansion of these research sections, Humble recently completed its new Research Center at Houston and will formally dedicate it this week end.

Here the scientists of the various departments involved in the discovery and production of oil will utilize common facilities, and here they will have the stimulation of close association with other scientists whose efforts are dedicated to a common end.

Clementine Wilmeth Briley Writes From Temporary Home In El Paso

By CLEMENTINE WILMETH BRILEY

Here we are, Spotty and all, in the far border city with the mountain on the west, far from the little home in the land of youthful memories and the dear people we have known so long, who came to us with loving kindnesses and they came to say good-days of breaking up and packing and arranging things leaving were hectic days. It was while when I was in the country that I might not be able to make the trip, and there was that I might just finally last minute effort to get and get over to Mrs. Ervin for Wednesday night when John discovered that he could not drain the water heater. We had to get up for morning and Jim King helped us.

King's skill easily solved draining and disconnecting the hot water heater. But we were finally ready to get the key and drive away, in the morning hours gone. We just did make a dinner date with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Meek near Bangs. But what a welcome, and what a feast of a dinner awaited us there. We could hardly tear ourselves away. It was three before we started on. At San Angelo we enjoyed a night with my niece, Nell Millar Norman. It brought back memories of my sister, Clara, Nell's mother. Friday for the first time I saw the real West. Its miles and miles of uninhabited desert, its oil fields, its lush irrigated valleys, and its purple hills. I was struck with the absence of cattle from its pastures. From Coleman to Fort Stockton we hardly saw a hoof. And the Country Gentleman says there are more dry years ahead.

As we neared Van Horn, recent rains made the landscape green and beautiful. Sometimes to the top of the mountain a tender green would show. Where no rain had fallen the mountains looked like high piles of dirt. Sometimes on one side of the road everything would be beautiful and green, while the other side would be bare and destitute.

At Van Horn we spent the night with my niece, Mrs. Clara Benn. She has been postmaster at Van Horn for twenty-five years, and is a very busy woman. She has made five trips to see her brother, Ernest Malone, since he has been at McCloskey Hospital this last time. It is a long, hard trip. Clara lives alone in her comfortable, roomy house. It is a delightful place to spend the night. When you enter her house, you feel that everything is perfect. It looks like a picture in a magazine.

Saturday, after winding through mountain passes, we reached the Rio Grande Valley and drove the rest of the way through its beautiful irrigated farms of cotton, corn, and alfalfa, reaching our destination in El Paso in time for dinner. Sunday we were privileged to worship once more in a large and crowded auditorium. Sunday night we heard an unusual sermon from an unusual speaker who said though our civilization should collapse and we be brought under a dictatorship, the church should shine forth as the sun. It was under the Roman dictatorship that the early church carried the gospel to "every creature under heaven." And so above the roar of the hydrogen bomb and the threat to wipe men from the face of the earth, I hear the Saviour saying, "Lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world."

ervation District Supervisors, received the following telegram:

"John Royal Menard, Texas
"In further reference to relation of State Soil Conservation Board to federal water shed protection and flood prevention act I am unequivocally in favor of the State Soil Conservation Board being the state approving agency for requests for small water shed protection and flood prevention planning and I hereby designate said board to perform that function.
Signed ALLAN SHIVERS
Governor of Texas"

The governor has given locally elected soil conservation district supervisors, and through them, landowners, the authority for controlling the small watershed protection and flood control prevention program.

Local interest in small watershed protection continues. The supervisors of the Brown-Mills Soil Conservation District have been petitioned by landowners from the vicinity of Goldthwaite for assistance in getting flood protection work started on Bennett and other creeks. To assist them the supervisors have appointed a committee made up of landowners.

The committee is as follows: R. L. Burdett, south of Goldthwaite; Herman Jones, Mullin; J. D. Berry, west of Goldthwaite; J. A. Schlee, Priddy; Jim Soules, Star; Dr. T. C. Graves, Goldthwaite; Warren Duren, Goldthwaite; and David Watters, Pleasant Grove. J. H. Priddy, supervisor from zone 3 of the District, will act as chairman of this committee.

This committee will assist the supervisors in promoting the small watershed protection and flood prevention program in this area. A meeting of this committee was held last Monday and plans were laid for work to be done in the future on this program.

IN MEMORIAM
Saturday morning, August 28, 1954, I had prayer with Sister Horton. She testified to the goodness of her Lord by saying: "The Lord has always been so good to me. Each morning I pray for him to help me with my work for the day." Then with a smile she said "I reckon he didn't have anything for me to do today."
A beautiful ending of a beautiful Christian life here, resting in the knowledge of having fought a good fight and kept the faith, to live again in God's perfect day—that day without a cloud.

GIN TRASH RESEARCH

Texas is seeking a solution to a knotty problem—how to keep an insect from robbing farmers of a valuable component of our annual cotton crop.

Gin "Trash"—The burrs or hulls of the cotton bolls—could ordinarily be very useful as a soil conditioner, fertilizer or livestock feed. Yet, this trash also harbors one of the greatest threats to our cotton industry—the pink bollworm. The problem is how to kill the insect larvae within the trash and allow the material to be returned to the farm for beneficial use.

Modern gins with elaborate drying and cleaning equipment kill a high percentage of the worms during the ginning process. Tests are now being conducted in Texas to find out what process or machine is responsible for the greater part of the kill. Modification and improvements may be made eventually which will assure 100 percent destruction.

Today, most gin trash is burned to control and prevent the spread beyond quarantine barriers of the pink bollworm. However, some methods are being used and studied which may prevent this waste. Composting, sterilization fumigation, hammer milling, roller milling and the use of special fans or two conventional fans in the pneumatic system of ginning are all possible procedures that have a degree of effectiveness.

Investigations of different types of fans and fan combinations, rollers, beaters, grinders, and heating devices are being carried out by engineers and entomologists at commercial gins in the lower Rio Grande Valley this season. Later work will be done farther north, including the Panhandle where harvesting conditions are quite different.

Gin trash disposal methods must be as simple and inexpensive as possible. But most important, they must take care of large quantities of trash without slowing down gin operation. Finally, they must kill all the pink bollworms in the material. Otherwise, what might be gained by use of this trash would be lost through the destructiveness of the insect.

Findings in these investigations are to be made available to ginners and farmers in Texas as soon as sound and practical conclusions can be achieved.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matthew 5:13-16; John 1:10-12a; Acts 4:13-20; 8:4-8, 26-40; II Corinthians 5:11-20; I Peter 3:13-16.

"Ye are the salt of the earth; ye are the light of the world. Let your light so shine before men that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which art in heaven," Jesus told His disciples.

John the Baptist preached that Jesus was indeed the Son of God. One who heard him was Andrew, and he sought his brother, Simon Peter, saying to him that, "We have found the Messiah," and he took him to Jesus.

Peter and John were brought before the high priests who asked them in whose name they healed the man lame since birth. "Jesus of Nazareth," they said. Commanded to preach no more, they said they must obey God rather than men.

Because the Christians were persecuted, they were scattered. Philip went to Samaria and preached there. The people heard him gladly, and he performed many miracles of healing.

Altre Lopez Map Tells Of Buried Treasure On Dry Pond Near Goldwaite

of Dry Pond at about where Kirkpatrick's original copper spike would have pointed. The box, according to Aldred, had three mules etched upon one side and four upon the other among other things. Inside upon one side was a bundle of papers which crumbled into dust when the box was opened —undoubtedly the location data of Mendoza and the legal basis for Spanish claims to a vast empire. By then, of course, the land involved couldn't have been purchased for a hundred thousand times Lopez' golden treasure. Aldred had made, unwittingly an historical discovery, the most important of all. And out in the shinary brush to the east near the altar site the rock cross was stumbled upon without being recognized for what it was.

Attracted by these mysteries treasure hunters continued to comb the area. Hollenback, himself, found an ancient five gallon bucket handmade of copper and iron. Aldred ran out a line of mounded stones for miles toward the Guthrie caves in which another stone plate depicting traveling mules was found. Beating the bushes turned upon various stones with carvings upon them. Some of these were hoarded jealously, breaking any sequence of trail markers which might have been followed out from the engravings upon the boxes. And at last while the map and box were sent to the University of Texas in an effort to have it deciphered, Hollenback, financed by a wide circle of men, put down a twenty foot shaft into underground caverns under Dry Pond. But just when the happy crew thought they could follow out the series of erosion tunnels to the treasure's hiding place, a disastrous rain in 1933 flooded the former buffalo wallow to a depth of 18 inches and poured tons of mud and water down the shaft.

In 1930 a group of Spanish-speaking men who claimed to be Assyrians leased the ground and wound up about the 728 varas southeast—by the north star—at the still open entrance to another large underground cavern in which an antique brass lamp was reported found. They left hurriedly one morning and no one knows what they took with them. Still others later to the abortive attempt of L. M. Matlock of Richland Springs in 1948, tried again, digging blind. All failed.

Barry Storm, on the basis of much study of early history, came circling through Central Texas in search of a particular kind of book material in 1951. He was looking for the start of a backtrail to legends of a beautiful golden statue to match his book's title, "The Golden Virgin of Texas," scheduled for 1956 publication. He leased treasure hunting rights with a friend from Fort Worth, John W. Mitchell, and ran down the available evidence which enabled him to recognize the site for what it was. Together Storm and Mitchell sunk twenty odd foot test shaft upon the best electrical anomaly in the immediate vicinity with a compressor and jackhammer unit borrowed from contractor H. A. Bennett of Brownwood. They discovered that the electrical anomaly was caused by a large pocket of mud in the dry limestone which, Storm said made the location of metal highly problematical with a locator unless one had the patience to drill all such anomalies. Meanwhile, Storm found the orientation rock with a cross carved upon it, realized all evidence by the north star, only to find that date to the treasures Mendoza's Muleteers crated away along the back trail over two centuries ago, was gone with the disintegrated hide map along with any lead from this end of the line to the legendary

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Curtis announce the arrival of a new daughter, Joy Kathyleen, born at 2:40 a.m. on September 1 at the Childress Clinic. She weighed seven pounds and two ounces.

Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. G. T. Perry of Route 1, Goldthwaite. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Curtis of Houston. The young lady has a maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Ocie McGowan of Goldthwaite. Joy Kathyleen has three brothers and one sister who will be glad to welcome her home.

gold figure from New Mexico. Mendoza, Storm said, had been indicted for looting Isleta and deserting for a time, according to the Santa Fe archives. Storm thinks that Mendoza secretly cached the fabulous figure along with other church artifacts, somewhere in the wilderness during the Pueblo disturbances of the 1680's. Of course he hopes to find the relic just about the time his box is ready. Whether he does or not, he's bound to have almost as good a story searching for it as anything he could possibly dream up in the way of a historical novel about the bygone period of swashbuckling Spanish adventurers and the treasures which many of them left behind. Some of these treasures are still there!

Dry Weather Cotton Farmer Makes Best Of It

Farmers hard-hit by dry weather this year, will be interested in learning how one Texas farmer managed to make 413 pounds of lint cotton per acre this year without a drop of irrigation and with only 3.25 inches of rain after his seed were in the ground.

The farmer is Clinton Harbers of West Point, Texas, in the Bastrop Fayette Soil Conservation District, and how he did it is told in the September issue of SOIL AND WATER magazine, now being mailed to landowners all over Texas.

Harbers' methods, as a series of articles in SOIL AND WATER have pointed out, involves no magic. Starting seven years ago and using unique legume-planting methods and other ideas he has worked out for himself, he has built up the fertility of his land and consequently the water-holding capacity to the point where it takes much less rain for him to make a crop.

Last year, with sub-normal rain but more than he got this year, Harbers made 750 pounds of lint per acre on his cotton land.

This year, with a real drought on his hands (he got only six inches of rain from January first right through his cotton season) he came out with 413 pounds of lint per acre, a phenomenal figure in a drought.

"There is no substitute for rain," Harbers says, "but we can get by on a lot less than we ever dreamed."

By VERN SANFORD

AUSTIN, Tex.—Texas' conservatives, with a champion in Governor Allan Shivers, are now looking confidently toward the September 14 state Democratic convention at Mineral Wells.

Control of the convention is already assured the Governor by July precinct and county conventions which were largely captured by the state's conservative element.

In the Mineral Wells move to set up a solid conservative state organization for the next two years, Shivers is expected to:

- 1. Name a successor to Wright Morrow, conservative Democratic National Committeeman who has been denied a seat by the national committee. Morrow had agreed to step aside, but the state organization refused his resignation.

2. Lend impetus to the move by conservative elements to replace liberal Democratic National Chairman Stephen A. Mitchell with someone acceptable to Dixie and Southwestern conservatives. Mitchell has agreed to resign after the November 2 election.

With primary emphasis on healing the split in the National Democratic Party, one question has come to the fore.

That is whether Texas conservatives will fight the renomination of Adlai Stevenson, who appears to be the only top Democratic contender for the presidency, in 1956.

Stevenson lost the Texas vote in 1952, largely because of his views on states rights and the Texas tidelands.

REPUBLICAN CLAIMS Texas Republicans, claiming credit for re-election of Shivers, asked for a show of appreciation.

Jack Porter of Houston, Texas GOP chief, asked Democrats to vote for LeRoy (Pete) Lamaster of Perryton as congressman for the 18th district in the November general election.

"There is no doubt whatever but that the Republicans of Texas pulled Governor Shivers through," said Porter. "We are calling on Democrats . . . to return the favor."

NEW JUDGES Shivers will appoint, sometime after Sept. 14, an associate justice of the Texas Supreme Court and 10 new district judges.

Appointed to fill the position of the late Associate Justice Graham B. Smedley during the remainder of 1954 will probably be the same person nominated by the state executive committee September 13 for job.

The name will then go on the November 2 ballot, as the Democratic nominee for the post, which is a 1955-59 term.

HIGHWAY AWARD Highest safety award presented by the National Safety Council has gone to the Texas Highway Department.

The Award of Honor is given for accident prevention achievement. Of 905 eligible organizations, only 12 received the patent-on-the-back.

DROUTH HELP Four more Texas counties have been recommended for the state-federal drouth program by Governor Allan Shivers.

Drouth relief was asked to be extended to ranchers and farmers of Brazos, Dickens, Kent, and Montague counties. Seventy-five have previously been approved for the aid.

BROADFOOT TO RETIRE Called from retirement five months ago to replace District Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin in George Parr's South Texas kingdom, Judge A. S. Broadfoot has again announced his retirement.

Judge Broadfoot, of Bonham, was chosen by the Supreme Court after Judge Laughlin was removed. His 79th District Court includes Starr, Brooks, and Duval Counties.

Indications are, however, that Judge Laughlin may soon be back at his old bench. He has successfully campaigned for Democratic renomination for the two years remaining on his term.

Until his assumed return to the bench January 1, Governor Allan Shivers or the Supreme Court Chief Justice will appoint a successor to Judge Broadfoot.

TEXAS BUSINESS MAY BREAK ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS THIS YEAR. Dr. John R. Stockton, director of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research, says his prediction will be true if the remainder of 1954 looks like the first seven months.

Stockton reported that Texas' business for the first seven months was the highest of any year's similar period.

TODAY'S Menu Barbecue Dinner Fare. By ALICE DENHOFF. WHETHER at a picnic or at home, barbecue sauce gives that tangy flavor that spurs lazy appetites. Barbecued chicken is a good main dish that is sure to rate encores. Prepare it in the kitchen under the broiler of the range, or cook over the open grill or on a spit. It's best when eaten outdoors. Barbecue Sauce: Soak 1 garlic bud in 2 tbsp. salad oil for 1 hr.; add 1 c. tomato juice, 1/2 c. cider vinegar, 3 tbsp. unsulphured molasses, 1/4 tsp. salt and 1/4 tsp. tabasco sauce. Mix well. If chicken is to be cooked on a spit, leave it whole. If you plan to cook over an open grill or in oven broiler, cut in halves or quarters. Salt chicken well. Brush on all sides with the barbecue sauce before the cooking begins. Baste and turn at 10 min. intervals, during cooking period for outdoor cooking, or at 5 min. intervals in oven broiler with temperature control at 450° F. (very hot). Cook until chicken is tender and appetizingly brown. Recipe yields 1 1/2 c. sauce. Tangy Fish Patties: Barbecue Fish Patties next. For 8 patties, thoroughly mix 2 c. flaked salmon or tuna, 1/4 c. each enriched flour and corn meal, 2 tbsp. non-fat dry milk, 1 1/2 tsp. salt, 1/4 tsp. black pepper and 2 eggs, unbeaten. Shape mixture into 8 3-in. patties. Brown on both sides in hot, greased frying pan. Prepare barbecue sauce and pour over the patties. For this, mix 6-oz. can each tomato sauce and water, 1/4 c. molasses, 1/4 c. vinegar, 10 drops tabasco sauce, 1/4 c. chopped onion and 2 tsp. salt. Pour sauce over patties and cook until sauce has thickened - about 10 min. Serve between 2 corn meal griddle cakes for good dining. Corn Cakes: To prepare cakes, mix 1 c. each sifted enriched flour and corn meal, 3 tsp. double-acting baking powder, 1/4 c. non-fat dry milk and tsp. salt. Cut in 2 tbsp. shortening until mixture resembles fine crumbs. Mix 1 1/2 c. water, tsp. molasses and 1 egg; add half to dry mixture and mix well. Stir in remaining liquid. Bake a tbsp. at a time on a lightly greased hot griddle over open fire or kitchen range. Makes 24 griddle cakes, 4-in. in diameter. (Copyright 1954 King Feature Syndicate, Inc.)
