Two More Communities Reported Over Top In Red Cross Fund Drive

Two more communities in Mills county have been reported over the top in their goal for the Red Cross Fund Drive, which is now in full swing. It was announced this week. Mrs. Raymond Wilcox and Miss Edith Covington, co-chairmen for Pleasant Grove community have turned in $31.55 while their goal was $25.00. Co-chairmen, Mrs. Charlie Sheldon and Mrs. Carl Casbeer of Star have turned in their report showing collections in the amount of $101.03 while their goal was $100.

A number of children from other communities have turned in reports but many are not complete at this time and the county as a whole is lagging some in the drive when compared with reports released this week of Texas, the Midwest region and the national drive. Information received here this week shows the drive on a nationwide basis as having reached 49.7% of the goal. In the Midwest area the drive thus far has reached 53.19% of the goal while Texas report shows 61.37% of the goal reached.

Mills county drive reported through Mon., this week shows $412.33 collected. This is only 20% of the goal of $2,067. While ten days remain for the drive to be completed, these figures show that Mills county is definitely lagging in subscribing to the Red Cross Drive for funds up to this date.

Fund drive chairman Gerald Head is urging all community chairmen and their volunteer workers to put forth every effort during the closing date on March 31.

The Saw is being manufactured by Horton Manufacturing Company, Inc., of Goldthwaite, which was recently organized here. Incorporators are M. F. Horton, his two sons H. D. and M. A. Horton and Sam Standley of Madisonville, Texas.

A new multi-color brochure of the Universal Underbench Saw came off the press Monday and is being distributed starting this week. Advertisements of the product will appear in nationally distributed trade publications in April. It was announced by H. D. Horton who is supervising the sales organization. Publications in which the product will be advertised include, American Builder, which is reported having more than a hundred thousand circulation.

Horton Manufacturing Company is expanding its building and equipment facilities in preparation for speeding up production to meet anticipated demand for the product.

Their factory is located north of Horton Lumber Company on Front Street.

The Universal Underbench Saw has been a product of M. F. Horton, local contractor and builder and his family for a number of years in its planning and development stages. Friends are welcome to stop in and see what is going on at the Horton Manufacturing Company and give "Mac" a pat on the back and extend good wishes on their expansion program.

SOLILOQUY

THE NEXT SENATOR

Looks like the first effects of the storm of getting ready for the U. S. Senatorial election are over and now the candidates are settling down to work, building up their potential following and vote for the election on April 2.

So far, it seems, little has been done in Mills county with respect to the various candidates, with the exception of the cause for Thad Hutcherson, Republican, which is carried on locally by Mrs. J. L. Aldridge of Democrat.

Mrs. Aldridge, chairman of Mills county party activities, is actively working on the campaign and reports the response is pretty good, too.

So, as we look forward to the election and the possible outcome, we may also look forward to a real free-for-all battle for Texas votes by the 22 candidates who are wooing the voters.

With that many candidates in the field anything is likely to happen. Texans don't have to think back too far to recall what happened one other time when the senate votes were scattered among a large number of candidates.

There is much speculation over the state, at this point, which seems to indicate a strong possibility of Hutcherson coming out winner in the race as a result of the many Democratic candidates who will all gather a certain amount of support. If that should become a reality, laying aside all partisan politics, it will be a great move forward for the cause of a two party system in The Long Star State.

Some folks spend the major portion of their time looking for "A Good Deal" or for "Greener Pastures." Looking for greener pastures is good business to a degree. But, it can be bad business if one overdoes it.

Speaking of looking for greener pastures, the other day, Floyd Spradley made the following observation: "I tried that a few times and found out that by the time you get to 'Those Green Pastures' they usually have been grazed down pretty well."

Someone came up with a new definition of opera—"where the hero gets stabbed in the first act and instead of bleeding he sings himself to death."

Mrs. M. F. Horton has a clipping pinned to the office wall of their Lumber Company office which reads as follows:

"When your worry infects others: An important question to ask yourself is this, 'Am I a healthy factor in the world, or am I spreading mental and spiritual ill health by my constant worry talk to my family and friends?' Don't spread your fears. Don't be a worry infection center."

YOU'RE A GOVERNMENT WORKER

Taxpayer's Dollar, a publication of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, passes on this definition of a taxpayer—a person who doesn't have to pass a Civil Service test to work for the Government."

That's more than a good gag. A man with two dependents who earns $80 a week must work 4.9 weeks to meet his tax bill. If he has no dependents, he has to work 8.2 weeks. And, of course, the tax rates rise with almost bullet like rapidity as incomes rise—and the amount of time a man has to work for the government rises with them.

So, in this fashion, we're all government workers. And we have to do a great deal more work on behalf of government than most of us realize.

IT CAN BE DONE—BUT!

We frequently hear people in public life advocate tax reduction on the one hand—and huge new government spending programs on the other hand.

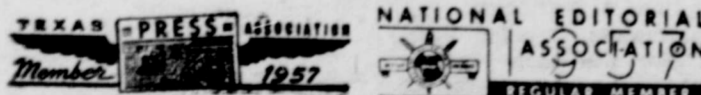

Actually, both proposals could be undertaken—by such expedients as an extreme "soft money" policy and by turning loose the presses that print the currency.

If that should happen, what would the results be? Secretary Humphrey answered with these words: "This . . . is the policy of deliberate inflation and must result in a return to a budget unbalanced by several billion dollars, with all of the inflationary pressures that it would create." Then we'd have more dollars in circulation, but each of them would become progressively less valuable—and if the program were carried to its logical end, would become worthless.

Gas, Oil Price Rise May Prove Boomerang Increase May Backfire Say Some Economists

WASHINGTON—The price increase on gasoline and heating oil which followed the Suez canal crisis may backfire. Some economists believe it may be wiped out by the law of supply and demand, but politically there is a growing feeling that the alleged profiteering attitude of oil companies has seriously hampered their hopes for a new natural gas bill in 1957.

Several congressional investigations of oil price boosts have already been set up. The Justice department is also investigating whether the price hikes violated the anti-trust laws.

Unless oilmen can justify their increase, observers say, Congress—with its ear tuned to public sentiment—is not likely to lift federal controls on natural gas. With production flowing, and the Suez canal likely to be reopened in a month or two, producers may have to cut back prices to find markets.

BRING BACK THE BUFFALO—Among unusual bills introduced in Congress this year is one to provide adequate pasture in Montana for the "display of bison in their natural habitat and at a location readily available to the public."

The measure was tossed into the hopper by Rep. Lee Metcalf (D), Montana. But it was the office of Senator James E. Murray (D), Montana, which provided the explanation in a news release. It said:

"Lots of tourists head for the Flathead to see the buffalo roam on the Montana national bison range near Moiese. But they don't see Mr. Buffalo. Reason: The buffalo aren't where the roads and railroads are.

"Result: Disgruntled tourists move on instead of tarrying and spending their money in Montana as they should."

Under the bill's provisions, the buffalo would roam on 400 acres in Lake county, Montana. With economy the watchword, however, chances of the measure becoming law are not considered too favorable.

LAND HUNGRY—Some members of Congress complain that the armed services are trying to take over a large slice of the country. Rep. Frank T. Bow (R), Ohio, says that the services own land equal to a strip 15 miles wide extending from New York City to Los Angeles.

Moreover, Bow contends, they are trying to acquire additional land constantly. Rep. Clair Engle (D), California, says the Navy department is "the land-lovingest bunch of sailors" in existence. There are threats of a move to curb land-grabbing by the services.

FOOD AND DRUG—Reports that agents of the Food and Drug administration seized 238 tons of contaminated food in a single month recently highlighted the activities of this government "watchdog" agency.

This subdivision of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare polices a bewildering variety of things that affect the health of everyone—from sardines to quack medicine.

Most of the food that FDA agents order destroyed becomes contaminated after it leaves processors' plants. Last December—for example—agents found that a carload of wheat was damaged by lead pigment previously transported in the car. Even a tiny amount of the pigment was dangerous.

In another case, five commercial fishing boats were ordered from the water until they were refurbished and made fit to transport fish to port.

Sometimes, FDA actions involve wide areas of the country. Recently, agents deployed to check 27,000 wholesale and retail druggists searching for a small quantity of drug tablets that were labeled with only half the dosage they actually contained.

er's note:—The following is part two of a special feature written by Charles Ed Bull, Mills County's native "Lincoln" who is making his home in Los Angeles, Calif. That a great many of our readers will enjoy these recollections which Mr. Bull calls "Memories Occasioned by a Group Picture of Sixty Years Ago" is the feature will be continued next week.)

Charles Ed Bull

When the rider of the horse of the Apoccalypse beckoned our brother Bull clan lost one of its men ever entitled to the Campbell tartan kilts of old Scotia. Peaceful, but quick to "bully" ever picked smaller boy if Ben was no "bully" twice his weight. He was a doctor—my hero. Nothing counterbalance the loss of his untimely death; only death will dry the tears in my heart. It is years too long since I have been to the Mohler Cemetery to cry. But, here I am again—back on the wrong track; this "gets me down"; let's change the subject; let's laugh again—Ed's nose is still a topic worth a laugh.

Well, my probascis finally grew up. After four years and a day away from Mills County at college, I went from Prescott to Bull's creek. Grandma Bull, bless her dear old heart, was quite unprepared for the transformation. I had grown from a gangling youth of eighteen to a man of six feet four, and I weighed 204 pounds. She surveyed me, and sat me down in a chair. She walked around surveying my proportions, then she lovingly fingered through my woolly head of hair as a parent might caress a chest full of her baby's clothes, clothes stored away in the attic for 50 years. Finally she got my nose, which she surveyed in profile, and gave her appraisal: "Ed, after all, you've got a pretty, to'able, fair sort of a nose. 'and, she didn't pinch the end of it. Must have 'passed'—squeezed by with a 'C'."

Asking the reader's indulgence, permit me to say that my nose, so long the butt of good-humored raillery, finally redeemed itself, and, incidentally, brought some distinction to its owner, by getting cartooned by Robert Ripley, at Chicago in 1934.

Well . . . yes, Ann, since you have brought it all "back to mind", I must confess to you that your brother Ed did do some crazy things, at about the age when a kid begins to "wash his neck and behind his ears," (a sure sign a boy is thinking about the girls) our mother said. Yes, I did attempt some singing . . . Even if I didn't know the difference between B sharp major and the treble clef; I surely got a lot of laughs trying to sing. Ann, please call Maggie Miller, and thank her for me, for resurrecting some of my boyhood memories. I hasten to add: Maggie Miller will acknowledge that she never heard me sing any song in doleful numbers; the comical songs with a lilting air were "my meat."

There are but two "tear jerking" numbers that are enshrined in my heart. (I hope they will sing them when they pat me in the face with a spade.) "We Shall Meet, but We Shall Miss Him" (I believe the correct title is The Vacant Chair), the other one, "Till We Meet Again", we sang and cried when we buried that fine, upright man, LeRoy Beck,—waylaid and murdered when I was a little boy; (his only crime: perhaps, unwittingly witnessing some other lynching, or "knowing too much" about certain such lynchings. He sleeps among the Bulls in Mohler cemetery — Requiescat in pace!

I have done a lot of things in my lifetime which I was not specially fitted to do—only a lot of nerve and ignorance of my limitations carried me successfully through. However there is no job which I would never, never undertake: sing with the choir at a funeral. I would be afraid I might just bust out with Old Sooky Blueskin, Alabama Jubilee or There'll be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight.

Yes, Ann, I sang funny songs thank fortune, I was endowed with a sense of humor. However, there was another reason the prime one, for my singing at our social get-togethers. No one ever suspicioned it—not even our dear friend Maggie Miller; however, now that Big Valley days are more than fifty years behind me, I can divulge the secret. I had no misgivings about my personal looks; I realized that I didn't stand any "hack" with the good-looking fellows—the "ladies men", but I was determined I would not take a back seat; I realized that I had to do something EXTRA to give me "an even start". Moreover, I knew that my songs MUST be different from the songs that everybody knew. I had learned some old time songs from Grandpa Bull, bachelor Uncle Ambross, and a few from my Dad—songs unknown to my Big Valley friends. Returning home from college after four years, I met up with a bunch of Big Valley farmer friends in front of the Trent State Bank; among the number was our old neighbor, T. D. Perry, who laughingly told the group of how I had "once come to a 'play party' at his house, barefooted, wearing spurs, and singing 'Nigger' songs a hundred years old."

At these festivities, I sang such numbers as: "Tell Me Where My Lindy - Cindy's Gone," "Old Sooky Blueskin", and "I Am a Jolly Irishman". These were my favorites.

When I was ten or eleven years old, I had the rare good fortune of learning some "brand new" songs,—songs never before heard in Big-Valley—to add to my repertoire.

It was a Saturday, appointed day for Ed, the chore boy, to take the produce to market (A chore which Ed heartily detested.) But Ed had made a bargain with his mother: she would call him early. (Ed had once returned home with all the butter and eggs unsold, and had learned his first lesson in applied psychology, to wit, "The early bird catches the worm".)

breakfast, Ed harnessed old "Yallerhammer" to the gig, and tied him to the front yard corner fence post.

Ed ate a hurried meal of "flitters," bacon, sorghum and butter, and drank a cup of Arbuckle's coffee. Ed's eyes were wide with anticipation today, which made his chore appear less onerous. (He visualized the ownership of a red cravatt.) Breakfast over, Ed hurriedly loaded the gig. First the big wooden candy bucket holding the butter, then he stored the rest of the space with buckets and boxes of eggs, packed in cotton seed. His mother came out and said:

"Ed, if you have any money left over, buy crossbarred muslin at Everlys. I must make the baby some dresses."

"Alright, Ma," he said, and he drove through the big front gate just as the first rays of sun came shining over the hill at Johnny Robinson's, a mile away to the east. *

Ed touched "Yallerhammer" with the buggywhip, and the horse started up in a brisk trot.

"Hold on now," said Ed, as he pulled up on the reins.

"Got plenty time—stores won't be glutted this time, just 'sift sand' and we'll be there plenty time."

The horse settled to a good fast pace—"sifting sand," and Ed was whistling Leather Britches, in time with the horse's hoof beats.

plymouth rock eggs. What will you give me for 'em?"

Ed Kirby had "regular customers" for my mother's butter, moulded in pound packages with the Jersey cow embossed on the top. (I feel safe in saying that was the first butter mold ever seen in Mills County, Texas.) — (My enterprising mother had procured the mold through an advertisement in the Youth's Companion, to which Ben was a subscriber.) Kirby's price topped all other offers, and I "took it out in trade."

The big chore behind me, I started out to do a little "trading" on my own. Fat Abney had some pretty cravatts for thirty-five cents apiece, and I wanted a red cravatt.

I had lately found the bleached head and fine pair of billy-goat horns that the coyotes or "loafers" had killed on our ranch. I had seen buck horns and heads, and cow horns adorning certain establishments in The "County Seat," so I conceived the idea of fixing-up my billy-goat horns and selling them. My parents had laughed at the idea; they said that nobody would buy a pair of goat horns. Nonetheless, I was determined to try. I had worked for a week rasping, filing, and finally scraping them with a piece of broken glass. Then I finished off with a wool rag and a little hot beeswax to polish them. I had mounted them on a shield-shaped board, which Ben had helped me to fashion. My mother gave me a piece of velvet to cover them. She had cut it out of some old garment, which, she said was "out of style ten years ago."

I would sell the "ornament" at a bargain price of four bits. I could buy the red cravatt, and have fifteen cents left; with that I would buy a pound of stick candy for a dime, and a Jew's harp for a nickle.

I tried every barber shop in town—(they had such ornaments on their walls.) Nobody wanted my "ornament." I even went to Fat Abney and offered to "trade" them to him for a red cravatt. He laughed. I got no use for them, young man," he said, then added: "You cut your price to about thirty-five cents, an you'll sell them, then come back here and get the cravatt." Finally, becoming discouraged that I would not sell them at all, I went to a friend, Charlie, Rahl, who ran a small grocery store and fruit stand over on the street that runs easterly from the "Rock Hotel," towards the depot.

"Charlie, I got a pretty 'ornament' here. I want to sell it."

"How much?" he asked.

"Four bits," I said.

"Too much! I'll give you a quarter," he said.

"I worked on 'em for a week, gettin' 'em polished up. They are worth more'n a dollar," I told him.

"Two bits," he said.

"How much do you charge for oranges, Charlie?" I asked.

"Thirty-five cents a dozen," he replied.

"Tell you what I'll do, Charlie, I'll trade you the ornament for a dozen oranges." He laughed, and said: "All right, Ed, I'll trade you, but you'll be cheating' me."

Charlie counted out twelve oranges, as he placed in a paper bag, and handed them to me. "Thank'e, Charlie," I said, and I placed the "ornament" upon his counter. Thinking of the red cravatt, I said: "Charlie, if I bring you a load of liveoak stovewood, piled high, will you buy it—dollar and a quarter?"

"Well, maybe, about a month from now," he said. "But bring me some fresh eggs and a pound of that Jersey butter. Ed Kirby charges me ten cents a pound extra," he said.

"I'll save you a pound of fresh butter next week, Charlie," I said, 'an' I'll bring it right here soon as I get to town." He smiled, and said:

"Ed, you are a good trader. Must be some 'Scotch' in you" and he laughed.

"Nosiree, I'm American," I told him.

Then I thanked him again for the oranges, and hurried back to the "Square" to watch the farmers drive into town. I knew every team from Big Valley, and I was hoping to see some neighbor boys, but no one came. By ten o'clock wagons and teams stood, closely packed at the curb, around four sides of the "Square," and late comers tied up around the windmill, which stood just north of the Court House; some teams even tied to hind wheels of wagons ahead of them. Verily, it was the biggest crowd I have ever seen in Goldthwaite. Reflecting on that crowded "Public Square," I am reminded of some towns I have seen in north-eastern Indiana and northern Ohio, when the Mennonites came to town on Saturdays with every imaginable article produced on the farm, to barter for supplies.

I wandered around the square and down Fisher street, and spoke to everybody that knew me. I stopped at Fat Abney's "dry goods" store, he still had three or four red cravatts.

"Maybe I can bring in a load of stove wood, and get one," I thought. I saw men and women carrying buckets of both butter and eggs, from store to store, most of the men complaining: "I tol'y'u the stores would be 'glutted agin we got here." I heard another farmer say to his wife.

Junior Class To Present Play "The Perfect Idiot" March 29-30

The Junior Class of Goldthwaite High School will present a three act play March 29 and 30 at the high school auditorium.

"The Perfect Idiot," a farce by Eunice and Grant Atkinson, is one of the outstanding plays for high schools. The humor of the play appeals equally to students and adults. It is neither too subtle, nor yet cheap or obvious. Most of the characters are playing the parts of teen-agers and are therefore well adapted to the portrayal of the characters. It is a sure fire play for laughs.

The plot is unusual, the lines are clever and there is never a dull moment. The Junior Class invites you to an evening of delightful laughter and enjoyment.

Tickets go on sale this week at the high school and on Saturday at the San Saba Production Credit office.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

By CHARLES HAENTSCHE

Many farmers throughout the Brown-Mills Soil Conservation District have found that establishing a stand of grass can be quite difficult. However, those who have been successful in getting grass established say that if certain important factors are kept in mind it then is fairly easy to establish grass.

One of the most important factors to keep in mind when seeding grass is that the seed are very small and if they are planted over about one-half inch deep they will not come up. Then too, grass seedlings are very tender when they first come up and they grow very slowly. It has been found that if grass is seeded in sorghum stubble that has been cut about twelve inches high, the stubble will protect the seedlings from the sun and the drying winds.

Nearly all grasses require a firm seedbed for good germination of the seed. The most desirable seedbed that has been found for seeding grass is a sorghum field where the stubble has been cut about twelve inches high and quite a bit of trash left on the ground. The field is not broken, but the grass is seeded right alongside the standing stubble.

Many farmers who are going to establish grass under the Conservation Reserve Program will want to plant their fields to sorghum this year and plan to plant their grass next year. It is very important that the sorghum not be allowed to mature seed. A volunteer crop of sorghum will completely choke out a grass planting.

It takes good rich soil to grow a good stand of grass. Poor soil will make a poor stand of grass. Farmers and ranchers who are planning to put old worn out fields to grass should build them up before trying to plant grass on them. The best method to build up old land is with a legume cover crop.

Farmers and ranchers who are going to need assistance in planning a grass seeding program should contact the technicians of the Soil Conservation Service on the second floor of the Court House.

Now is the time to get set for grass planting. Do you have grass seeding equipment or made arrangements for it? Do you have your grass seed? Is your land prepared properly? Supervisors of the Brown-Mills Soil Conservation District urge you to get ready NOW!

Would you like to have another covey or two of quail on your farm? All you need to do is provide them a home, but quail are quite choosy about their home. There must be a good cover with feed and water available. Provide the home and you will have the quail. This is "National Homes for Wildlife Week."

It takes more than a good razor or a fine cosmetic kit to give yourself a smooth shave or an even make-up. If yours is the average bathroom you need at least three lighting fixtures. The two that flank the mirror will light both sides of your face, while the matching one overhead will not only light the top of your head but provide some reflection from the lavatory and help to light the whole room. Harmonizing ensembles are now available for fluorescent tubes (shielded or unshielded) or incandescent bulbs (always shielded with opal or ceramic-enameled glass).

BY LUCY MAY BURRUS
PRUNE TREES CAREFULLY

Prune trees for a purpose. Plan carefully and prune moderately. Severe pruning or "dehorning" can permanently deform and injure trees.
Prune trees to make the place more comfortable, convenient, safe and attractive. Often trees can be shaped to improve their appearance. Low hanging limbs can be pruned off so that the lawn will be open and look more spacious. The health of the tree can be improved by removing dead, diseased or injured limbs.

Use good tools to do the job. A pruning saw and pruning shears are to remove diseased or injured limbs or to nip back high branches to make a tree form a dense shade.
Watch your pruning technique! Make clean cuts, flat or flush with the main limb or trunk. Stubs left by improper cutting may cause rotting of the heart wood. You may need to treat cuts on large limbs by painting with a pruning compound, such as orange shellac, to hasten healing. Most trees make oils to cover small cuts. Generally, horticulturists advise putting nothing at all on a cut 2 inches or less in diameter.
If pruning is done now, spring growth will soon hide the cuts.

Social Security Tax As Effecting Household Workers

According to Maurice M. Chastain Social Security Administration District Manager at Temple and R. L. Phinney Director, 74th District Internal Revenue Service, social security tax must be paid by the employer for any household worker who receives $50 or more cash wages in any calendar quarter.

This tax, 2 1/4 per cent for employee and employer, since January 1957, applies to domestic workers ranging in jobs from upstairs maids to chauffeurs. From 1950-57 it was two per cent.

The IRS director explained wages include payments in cash or by check or money order. Not included for household workers in the value of food, lodging or clothing. Cash payments for bus or carefare is included, but not the cost of bus or car tokens.

The tax is paid to the IRS district director on a simple Form 942, available at IRS. Form 942, showing name, social security number, wages paid and tax withheld from each household employee, should be completed and returned to Revenue within one month after the end of the calendar quarter—that is, by April 30 for January-March quarter.

Here are two typical questions and their answers most often heard at the Temple social security district office.

An employer says: "I have just received a copy of the Household Employer's Social Security Tax Guide. On the inside of the back cover are copies of receipts I'm instructed to give my household employee. There's a blank in which I'm asked to fill in the amount of the social security tax I withhold from my employee's cash wages. Now I pay the entire amount of the social security tax—my share and my employee's share. What do I write in this space?"

Reply: "Write None" while household employees, like employees in other kinds of work, are required by law to have their share of the social security taxes deducted from their wages, the law doesn't specify that you must withhold it. If you wish to assume the entire amount of the tax, that's your privilege.

A mother asks, "What about a baby sitter's wages? I pay mine $15 a month. Do I have to report her wages for social security?"

Reply: "No, the wages you pay her aren't covered by social security unless they amount to $50 a calendar quarter."

Both government representatives pointed out that there are severe penalties provided by law for persons willfully ignoring the law, "just the same as for evaders of the income tax."

Governor Daniel Urges Immediate Clean-Up Crime And Corruption

AUSTIN (Spec)—Governor Price Daniel says Texas must have "an immediate State-wide clean-up of rapidly increasing crime and sporadic corruption if the good name of our State is to be saved from destruction by scoundrelism and lack of public confidence."

The Governor declared: "I call on every citizen and official of the State to join in a crusade for honesty, integrity and better law enforcement."

Daniel said an important weapon in the crusade for clean government "is the establishment of a nonpolitical, nonpartisan State Law Enforcement Commission to investigate alleged misconduct in State government and means of improving law enforcement and crime prevention."

He continued: "The spotlight of truth and strict law enforcement are the surest means of preventing violations of the law and showing the world that dishonesty is the exception rather than the rule in Texas government."

"Texas is being damaged equally as much by the dishonesty and exaggerated accounts of official conduct by political demagogues and out-of-state publications. For selfish interests they thrive on making people believe that isolated instances of corruption are typical of State government rather than the exception, but they too can be exposed if the few wrongdoers are so well investigated and punished that they are easily distinguishable from the overwhelming majority of honest public officials."

"There is enough to be done in our State to keep legislative committees and a State Law Enforcement Commission busy. The committees are now working diligently, but they simply do not have the time to go into all matters which need investigation and at the same time continue the regular work of the session."

"If the State Law Enforcement Commission were in existence today, the House of Representatives could refer to it completion of investigation of all the collateral matters which have arisen in the Cox case, such as the acid throwing attack, actions of naturopath lobbyists in previous sessions, and other matters not directly concerned with the specific charges against Mr. Cox.

"Also, instead of both a House and Senate investigating committee working during the session on the ICT insurance failure, the Legislature could refer this entire matter to the State Law Enforcement Commission for investigation and report."

The legislation was given an emergency label by Daniel in his January 17 message to the Legislature. The same designation and recommendation was given legislation for a strict lobby registration act, a code of conduct for State officials and employees, and registration of those who represent others before State agencies.

Daniel also pledged his full support to the good government bills backed by the Texas Press Association.

The State Law Enforcement Commission bill was introduced in the House this week by Representatives R. H. Cory of Victoria, J. E. Winfree of Houston, and many others. The bill was drawn by the Governor and his staff and Attorney General Will Wilson and his staff.

The Commission would be composed of a grand juror from each of the eleven Courts of Civil Appeals districts, selected at district meetings of county grand jury foremen. A twelfth member, the chairman, would be appointed by the Chief Justice of the Texas Supreme Court and would be a person of previous judicial experience.

The Commission would be required to report its findings to the Governor, the Legislature, and local grand juries.

"The Commission is necessary to study means of crime prevention and the improvement of the enforcement of criminal laws," Daniel said.

"Major crimes in Texas last year increased 39% since 1950, while our population increased only 22%."

"Our prison population has increased over 80% since 1947, nearly four times as fast as our population increase. Texas continues to rank above the national average in the increase of major crimes, and it is time for us to do something about it."

"This is a job not only for State officials, but for cooperation of local officials and every citizen who is interested in preserving the good name of Texas and protecting the lives and future of our people."

Jene D. Wright Lands On Luzon With 3rd Marines

LUZON, P. I. (PHTNC)—Marine-Pvt. Jene D. Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wright of Route 2, Goldthwaite, Texas landed on the Philippine Island of Luzon Mar. 25 with the 3rd Marine Division in the largest ship-to-shore operation held in the Far East since World War II.

The week-long exercise started when the assault landing forces hit the beach in small landing craft. Other units hopped over simulated beach defenses in helicopters to capture key inland positions.

This vertical envelopment concept, developed first by the Marine Corps, provides a landing force with a powerful one-two punch for securing a beachhead.

The exercise includes more than 40 miles of hiking, practical application of tactics and techniques perfected during the 3rd Division's year-long training program, and living in the field under simulated battle conditions.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Upham and children of Andrews were weekend guests of her mother, Mrs. Annie Armstrong and Miss Barbara Burns.

undesirable strains, containing Johnson Grass mixtures, Johnson Grass Hybrids and segregates from Johnson Grass.

These so-called hybrids, if planted, could be as difficult to eradicate as Johnson Grass itself.

One such "hybrid" seed, being promoted as "Perennial Sweet Sudan," is of very doubtful value since "Perennial Sweet Sudan," is of very doubtfully released to farmers or seedmen by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The Texas Department of Agriculture Seed Laboratory has been unable to determine any difference between true Johnson Grass seed and some of the seed in question.

The Extension Service, which is working hard on the Sudan-Johnson Grass hybrids program, hopes to have some true variety developed after this year's crop is in. Preliminary results indicate that the new hybrids will be very beneficial for grazing and hay, having uniform juiciness, sweetness and structure.

However, until such time as they are perfected and released, purchase of purported Sudan-Johnson Grass hybrids should be carefully considered to prevent probable losses in time and money.

Farmers who have any doubt, as to the value of seed being offered for sale are urged to contact their County Agent, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, or the Texas Department of Agriculture Seed Division.

Hillside Mission

By LIDA BYRNE

A question to be asked at a Sunday School Class next Sunday morning will be: "What is meant by a broken spirit? The Bible tells us: A merry heart doeth good like a medicine: but a broken spirit drieth the bones." Proverbs 17:22.

Are we causing our bones to dry out because of our indwelling spirit being dissipated, and creating a beam in our own eye while looking at a mote in our brother's eye? Is that broken spirit caused by either hate, anger, unwarranted sympathy, slander, covetousness, or combination of such thoughts? Are we ruining our bodies and condemning our own souls, and causing afflictions to take place in our own families, by inheritance for generations to come by generating a self-inflicted "broken spirit?"

IT'S THE LAW
in Texas
A public service feature of the State Bar of Texas

April 1 will be the deadline for most Texans to render their property to certain taxing agencies. State laws require all real and personal property to be rendered for taxes on or before prescribed dates. Those who fail to comply can blame only themselves for the money loss they may consequently suffer.

Some Texas cities set their own tax deadline. These are the cities of more than 5,000 population which have incorporated under the "Home Rule" provisions of our statutes. All other cities are governed by the general laws of Texas.

In towns operating under the general laws property must be rendered for taxes between January 1 and April 1 each year. A number of home rule cities set up the same requirements in their ordinances, while others prescribe different periods.

For state and county tax purposes, property must be rendered to the County Tax Assessor by April 30, and home-stead exemptions must be claimed by the same time.

In some localities a third taxing unit is involved—the independent school district. In other places school taxes are collected by the city or county. In addition, some localities have water, irrigation, or levee districts which assess and collect taxes. Make inquiry as to where these various taxes are assessed, and as to applicable deadlines for rendition.

What property must be rendered for taxes? If Texas laws were strictly enforced, we would be required to render to all taxing units nearly every piece of real and personal property which we own, down to the very clothing on our backs. An exception is the constitutional exemption of $250 worth of household furniture. However, no taxing unit carries their requirements this far, and it will be necessary to inquire of each tax assessor when rendering your property whether specific types of property are ordinarily rendered in that locality. Some cities and counties collect ad valorem taxes on automobiles, television sets and other personal items, while others ignore practically all personal property. Business and professional men are generally required to render all merchandise, furnishings, fixtures, business automobiles and equipment.

If property is not rendered by the tax payer, it may then be placed upon the unrendered tax roll, and the taxing agency places such valuation thereon as it considers fair. One advantage of rendering your property is that you can set your own valuation. Then, if the county or city decides a higher valuation is in order, you will be given an opportunity to appear before a board to explain why the higher figure should not be used in computing your taxes.

RADIO & T V

ZENITH

Thereafter, an appeal to the courts is possible in some instances. Generally speaking, however, the courts are unable to strike out a valuation unless the agency or board has acted arbitrarily and placed on the property a valuation higher than that placed on comparable property owned by others. If you do not render, the valuation set by the taxing agency is final.

Remember these facts: You may need to render your property at three or more different tax offices. Ask each tax assessor if in doubt concerning the deadline or the rendering of specific personal items.

Mrs. Curtis Long of Ft. Worth returned to her home after a visit with her father, Henry Ezell and Mrs. Ezell.

LONE STAR GAS COMPANY

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN, Tex.—Some observers now predict that legislative investigations of insurance companies will continue beyond the session's end.

Panels in both houses are delving into circumstances leading to the bankruptcy of the ICT Insurance Co. of Dallas. The more they investigate the more widespread and complicated the involvements.

Recent disclosures from testimony: Former Insurance Commission Chairman Gariand Smith was on several occasions the guest of Ben Jack Cage, longtime ICT head, on pleasure trips. Smith's son-in-law, Max Wayne Rychlik, received $3,400 in salary from Cage; for a job with no duties. ICT lost $2,600,000 in a series of stock transactions with Pierce Brooks, head of National Bankers Life Insurance Co. of Dallas.

A Senate committee said that an independent investigator had been hired to look into the affairs of at least five other insurance companies.

Meanwhile, the Senate passed a bill by Sen. William S.

Fly of Victoria to recognize the Insurance Commission. It abolishes the present board and substitutes an executive director and a part-time, three-man policy board.

An amendment by Sen. Frank Owen of El Paso would require the Insurance Commission to move out of its headquarters. It occupies some eight floors of the International Life Insurance Co. building in Austin.

Owen contended that the state should not be paying rent to an insurance company over which it exercises control. Opponents counter that insurance companies of Texas pay the rent and the money does not come out of the state's general revenue fund.

They say further that if the commission returned to the old Land Office building, now inadequate for the enlarged commission, the state would be providing free space and forcing other departments to move and pay rent.

They also point out that there is no other building in Austin large enough to house the Insurance Commission.

Gov. Price Daniel is supporting a bill in the House, by Rep. Marshall O. Bell of San Antonio, which would provide a full-time insurance board. The Senate version is not the Governor's bill.

NEW COMMISSION PUSHED
—Governor Daniel has put the "emergency" label on his request for a State Law Enforcement Commission.

4-H Club Picnic Supper And Share The Fun Contest Is A Success

About 90 4-H members, parents and friends enjoyed a picnic supper at the Mills County Youth Center last Friday night.

After a bountiful meal the girls participated in a "Share-the-Fun" contest. There were five junior division numbers and two senior division numbers.

First place junior number was "The Driving Lesson" presented by Kayvon Coffman, Vireta Nell Alexander, Hilda Mae Frank and Betty Kincheloe of the Star 4-H Girls Club.

Second place the song, "Gonna Get Along Without You Now," sung by Linda Driskill, Mildred Spinn, Diana Oliver and Evelyn Seilheimer of the Priddy 4-H Girls Club.

Third place was "Mary Had a Little Lamb," Sandra Arnold and Donna Lynn Doggett interpreted the changes as Mary grew older. Phil Auld-ridge was the announcer and Rodney House assisted, they are members of the Goldthwaite 4-H club.

Two junior numbers were "Green Door" by Judy Goerdel and Thresa Stegemoller of the Priddy 4-H and "When Are We Gona Get Married," a dramatized song by Judy Carswell, Wanda Soules, Edwina Burns, Eva Faye Green, Betty Ruth Schultz, Hilda Mae Frank, Betty Kincheloe and Vireta Nell Alexander, of Star 4-H Club.

First in the senior division was a poem, "Ollie and Me" given by Edwina Burns of Star 4-H Girls Club.

Second, "Just Bumping Around" by Nelda Driskill and Barbara Stegemoller of the Priddy 4-H Club.

Mrs. Mary Jo. Blackwell, Home Demonstration Agent of Comanche, Nan Walton of Ft. Worth and Reginald Wagner of Camanche were the judges.

submitted the Governor's proposal in a bill co-signed by 192 House members.

Commission's duty would be to "put the spotlight of truth" on charges of official misconduct.

Twelve members would include a chairman appointed by the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, plus 11 other members named by grand jury foremen in the state's judicial districts.

DANIEL BACKS TPA BILLS
—Simultaneously with his announcement of a Crime Commission Bill, Governor Daniel gave unqualified endorsement of 15 "Better Government" legislative measures recommended by the Texas Press Association. Daniel extended his personal compliments to TPA and the press of Texas for "unselfish effort in the fight to bring better government to the State and its citizens."

In his endorsement the Governor said "the 15 bills sponsored by the press of Texas would supply some badly needed laws, and strengthen several existing laws. They have my unqualified endorsement."

NEW WATER BOARD—Another phase of the water conservation program has reached conference committee stage. Bills to create the Texas Water Development Board passed both houses.

Senate version calls for a five-member board; House, three members. Board's responsibility would be to administer the proposed $200,000,000 bond issue. Money is to be loaned to local districts for conservation projects.

TRUCKERS SEEK INCREASE

—A bill to increase truck-load limits has stirred the perennial controversy between the motor freight and railroad industries.

Truckers are pushing a bill to increase the limit, now 58,420 to 72,000 pounds. Backers contend that putting the increased weight on an extra axle would mean no more wear and tear on roads than present loads. Truckers, they add, paid $97,000,000 or 41 per cent of state highway use taxes in 1956.

A State Highway Department bridge designer said that a 72,000-pound load would shorten the lives of Texas bridges. A railroad spokesman warned that Truckers "can't pay enough for the damage done to Texas highways."

LOAN LAWS URGED—Measures to regulate small loans businesses are being studied in the House. At committee hearings Former Sec'y of State Tom Reavley, the Texas Junior Bar, and a military official made strong appeals for loan regulation. They cited cases of interest and charges allegedly running to nearly 300 per cent.

A bill by Rep. Tony Korloth of Sherman would license persons making loans up to $500, allow 10 per cent interest and other charges up to 3 per cent a month on unpaid balance of less than $100.

MENTAL HEALTH DEPARTMENT—Session's trend toward reorganizing state agencies has extended to mental hospitals.

A last-minute Senate bill incorporates the recommendations of a national authority who surveyed the Texas hospital system. Dr. Francis J. Gerty of Chicago proposed "disentangling" mental hospitals from "unrelated services" (tuberculosis hospitals and special schools). He also suggested a model demonstration program at a new 500-bed hospital in the Houston-Galveston area.

New bill would create a Department of Mental Health under the present State Board for Hospitals and Special Schools. Texas Medical Association has endorsed the plan.

Over 200 Attend Family Dinner Observing Girl Scout Anniversary

Local Brownies and Girl Scouts celebrated their 45th birthday Tuesday, of last week with a family dinner. Theme for the dinner was "Girl Scouting Is A Family Affair". Every member of the family was invited.

Turkey, furnished by Loy Long, dressing and all the trimmings were served to almost 200 members and guests at the new school lunchroom. After the delicious meal, Mrs. Horace Brooks, community chairman, gave the welcome address. She stated that the Goldthwaite Girl Scouts had joined Girl Scouts all over the United States in celebrating Girl Scout Week, which was last week, March 10-16. She also put in a needed plea for more adult workers to help meet the challenge of a growing membership.

Mrs. Larry Dalton took charge of the program for the evening. Beginning with the youngest Brownie troop and closing with the Senior troop, the Girl Scout story was told. Each troop had the opportunity to tell what they were doing. Point by point the "Progression" story which is so carefully set up by the National Girl Scout Organization, was witnessed by the audience.
