Tom Cody Graves Reports From Europe

AUGUST 16—Dear Editor: The Jubilee is officially over. We had a wonderful time there. While we were at the Jubilee we visited the Cadbury candy factory, the largest in the world. Next day we went to John A. Summer's & Son steel mill, the largest in England.

After the Jubilee officially closed we went to London. We toured London Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday morning. Wednesday afternoon we went to Folkestone, boarded a ferry, and crossed the English Channel which was very rough.

We arrived at France at 9 p. m. and boarded the train. We slept on the train Wednesday night and arrived at Berne, Switzerland at 8 a. m. We toured the city and did some shopping.

Friday morning we left Berne and traveled by bus to Interlaken. We were free all afternoon so a few of us egghheads decided to go bicycling. We started out at 1 p. m. and got back at 5. All we did was go up and down mountains. The only trouble we got in was, by accident, we got on an airport runway with bicycles and were having a gay old time when all the sirens started going. No more room.

Tom Graves.

VIC'S . . .

SOLILOQUY

College graduates, especially those with advanced degrees in certain engineering specialties, have been receiving starting salaries in industry that would have seemed fantastic a few years ago.

W. Alton Jones of Cities Service Company makes this relevant comment: "To get a job is one thing . . . to make good on it is quite another. Success still does not go to those who want it delivered like a crown on a velvet cushion. If anything, the way to success is more difficult than ever, for the demands of progress keep incessant pressure on all industry. To get there first . . . to produce the best . . . to offer the most at the least cost—these are not only the objectives of industrial activity, but the factors of survival."

Woof! Meow! Chirp! Chain Store Age reports that production of pet foods is now a major industry. Our dogs and cats consumed $275 million worth of these foods last year, and parakeets were fed to the tune of $65 million.

"Soaking the rich" is no longer a feasible way of supporting the government. Only about 10 per cent of total taxable income is received by people earning more than $10,000 a year—and less than 4 per cent by those with more than $20,000.

It is reported that the Senate rackets committee, headed by Senator McClellan, has received more than 50,000 letters charging misdeeds by labor union officials.

The Young Republicans recently met in Washington and drew up a political platform. One plank pledged unalterable opposition to federal financial aid for general public education and school construction; another said that it is time rates of taxation enacted for the purpose of financing a war were ended; still another urged amendment of the Taft-Hartley law to prohibit compulsory union membership.

Senator Goldwater believes that high tax rates are actually a major source of inflation, because they are "a limiting factor on personal and business savings, and thus result in excessive pressure on the banking system for capital which should have come from current income."

According to The Nation's Agriculture, farm real estate values hit an all-time peak for the year ending last March 1. The gain for the year was 7 per cent—the largest 12 month advance since 1951-52.

Medical inquires into the possible deleterious effect of cigarettes on health don't seem to have hurt sales. This year, it is forecast, cigarette consumption will top the former all-time record of 394,100,000 established in 1952.

Thomas Edison's first lamp bulb burned 40 hours. A replica of that bulb was recently switched on in a laboratory—and it is expected to burn for 100 years.

According to the magazine Changing Times, full-time students in public colleges paid about $1,500 each for tuition, books and living expenses during the last school year, as against $747 in 1939-40.

THREAT TO FREE SOCIETY

Publisher Norman Chandler of the Los Angeles Times and Mirror-News has said that "big labor" doesn't disturb him as an employer—but it does disturb him as a threat to free society.

Mr. Chandler then made a series of proposals. One is that big labor be brought into legal line with the rest of American society, and be treated the same by the law. Another is to make all unions "free associations"—which simply means that no man could be compelled either to join or not to join. Another is that the union should be subject to the anti-trust laws, which apply to all other organizations.

Mr. Chandler's proposals are in no way extreme. They would simply put labor on the same legal basis as everything else in this supposedly free country. And what reasonable argument can there be against that?

A FORECAST

If government continues to undertake more and more non-governmental activities in competition with its own citizens and taxpayers, bureaucracy will increase, public debt will grow, the dollar will continue to depreciate and there will be no tax relief for anyone.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

BY HUBERT L. BERRY

No doubt you have heard a great deal about fire prevention the past few weeks? In the light of present conditions, we cannot over-emphasize the importance of being careful with fire. Grass which it took months to grow can be destroyed in a matter of hours.

Recently a stubble field caught fire from a maintainer spark on the Robert Butler Ranch south of Goldthwaite. This fire spread to range land before it could be extinguished. A few dollars spent on fire lanes inside your fence might save many tons of grass needed for cover and livestock feed on your farm or ranch.

TIMELY CONSERVATION SUGGESTIONS

1. Terrace fields
  2. Give old terraces maintenance plowing.
  3. Shape and seed waterways.
  4. Repair and stop pond spillways.
  5. Mow excess weeds, trees and waterways—a chance.
  6. Fertilize your fields to enjoy catching big fish.
  7. Air condition your maize land—leave the soil on the surface.
  8. Get your technical advice and bring it up-to-date.
  9. Locate and harvest seed possible—good grass are always in demand.
  10. Observe safety day—don't be a statistic.

Cake Recipe Contest

Mrs. Charles L. Williams, Route 4, Box 37A, Gatesville has been judged winner of Lone Star Gas Company's home economics department silver anniversary cake recipe contest. She will receive a 1957 thermostatically controlled top-burner gas range of her choice.

Mrs. Williams, who operates a gift shop outside of Gatesville on the road to the Stat Home, entered a recipe for a white cake with a fruit-nut filling and white frosting. This was judged the winning recipe from the approximately 1,300 entered in the contest. These entries came from throughout the Lone Star System which includes 455 communities, towns and cities in Texas and Oklahoma.

The wife of a retired employee of the State Home, Mrs. Williams now cooks on a built-in gas range.

The Anniversary Cake recipe contest, staged in conjunction with Lone Star's 1957 Spring Range Campaign, was part of the celebration of the twenty-fifth birthday of Lone Star's Home Economics Department, one of the first to be organized by a business firm in the Southwest. Starting with one college graduate, the home economics staff now consists of some 30 college-trained young women stationed at strategic points throughout Lone Star's operating territory. THE SOUTHERN DIET

Nutritionally speaking, Texans and other southerners are eating better these days than they were twenty years ago.

Comparing the hang-over depression days of the thirties with present-day living conditions, people will not find this information too surprising. Still, foods need not be expensive to be nutritious, and the trend of southern families toward better-balanced diets as evidenced by a recent survey is most encouraging.

To illustrate, a study by the U. S. Department of Agriculture in 1936 showed about 40 percent of southern diets to be "poor." Judging from the same standards used in that study, a similar survey conducted in 1955 indicates only about 20 percent of southern family diets to be nutritionally deficient now.

This is not to say, however, that 20 percent of southern families are actually undernourished since the levels of nutrients recommended provide for a safety margin over average needs.

The most common fault among diets studied was a shortage of vitamin C, calcium, vitamin A, and riboflavin, in that order. About 80 percent of southern families were getting two-thirds of the vitamin C recommended, 90 percent had diets providing two thirds of calcium and vitamin A recommended, and other nutrients studied were being consumed at an even higher degree.

The most discouraging aspect of the study was the finding that southern diets, while greatly improved, are still below those of the United States as a whole, and that there is more direct relationship between southern income level and nutritional quality of diets than in other regions of the country.

Census Bureau To Gather Information On Polio Shots

Special questions will be asked in the August Current Population Survey to find out how many persons have received polio immunization shots and how many expect to receive them, according to Supervisor James W. Stroud of the Census Bureau's regional office in Dallas, Texas which will participate in the survey.

This information is being collected by the Census Bureau for the U. S. Public Health Service to obtain an overall estimate of persons already immunized and to help estimate future needs for vaccine. The special questions will be asked of all persons under 50 years of age covered in the Current Population Survey, including children under 14.

The special questions on polio immunization shots will be in addition to the usual inquiries on employment and unemployment which are asked each month in the Current Population Survey which is conducted on a sample basis throughout the country.

Current Population information will be collected locally during the week of August 19 by Nella P. Casbeer of Lampasas, Texas.

EGG QUALITY

The Texas Egg Law, which becomes effective August 22, will place more importance on the production and keeping better quality of eggs. The three most important enemies of egg quality are heat, age and humidity. Eggs are a perishable food product. Their quality decreases rapidly unless the eggs are handled properly from the time they are laid until consumers use them. Thousands of dollars are lost annually by poultrymen and egg handlers due to loss in quality.

HEAT is one of the greatest causes of loss in eggs quality. Any temperature above 70 degrees is sure to reduce egg quality rapidly. The higher the temperature, the more quickly it happens. Eggs maintain their high quality only a few hours at 70 degrees. Research indicates that 50 to 55 degrees is a good temperature in which to hold eggs on the farm when they are marketed at least two or three times weekly.

Eggs should be gathered at least three times daily and cooled rapidly to remove animal heat. The egg temperature is about 105 degrees when laid. If the temperature in the hen house is around 100 degrees, little cooling will take place unless eggs are removed from the cage or nest and put in a mechanical cooler which is held around 50 to 55 degrees. AGE, or length of time eggs have been laid, also influences quality loss. However, loss in quality due to age is slowed down greatly if eggs are kept at 50 to 55 degrees. If the temperature is lowered to a constant 30 to 31 degrees, eggs will maintain superior quality even longer. Because of the cost and stronger tendency toward sweating, this low temperature is not recommended for short holding on the farm where eggs are being sold several times weekly.

HUMIDITY is another factor in maintaining favorable conditions for eggs. Eggs are more likely to hold their maximum quality if the cooler is operated to maintain a relative humidity of 70 to 80 percent, but a low humidity will cause undue quality loss unless eggs are to be stored for several weeks.

If the recommendations relative to heat, age and humidity, given in this article, are followed, eggs are more likely to give consumer satisfaction and will return greater profits to the producers if they are sold on the basis of known grade standards.

Maintaining all of the quality the eggs had when laid is the responsibility of the producers, handlers and consumers.

Following are some suggestions for maintaining all the quality in eggs.

1. Provide hens with clean nests and nesting material.
2. Gather eggs three or more times daily in wire baskets.
3. Clean dirty eggs immediately after gathering.
4. Cool eggs in mechanical cooler at 50 to 55 degrees immediately after gathering and cleaning them.
5. Keep eggs in a cooler which maintains humidity between 70 and 80 percent.
6. Always cool eggs before placing in cases.
7. Use new or reconditioned cases that are clean.
8. Use clean flats and fillers in good condition.
9. Place eggs in case with little end down.
10. Deliver eggs to buying station three or more times weekly.
11. Keep eggs away from strong odors.
12. Handle carefully to prevent breakage.

Mrs. Clayton Egger, Mrs. Egger, Mr. and Mrs. Egger, Mr. and Mrs. Lem Egger, Mr. and Mrs. Hulton Egger, Mrs. Arianna and Woodie, Mr. R. D. Egger and child, Mr. and Mrs. Charm Egger and Clint and the Egger reunion in Brownwood Sunday.

loaded themselves with peaches and went to San Antonio to spend the weekend with their daughter, Mrs. Fred Crawford, and their grandson, Charlie Roberts, and family.

Cloud Mashburn of Goldthwaite and his son, John Mashburn, of Fort Worth were fishing on the Colorado at the Dwyer place last week.

Mrs. Brownie Reeves White, who has been here since the first of June, spending most of time in Brownwood, helping care for her aged mother, Mrs. John Reeves, left last week for her home in Los Angeles.

John Briley went to see Charlie Griffin Saturday and found him much better. Their daughters are still here, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry Griffin and their three girls of Blythedale, Ark., were to arrive Monday, making the family circle complete.

The Dwyer-Brileys attended church at Bowser Sunday and were present for the Bowser Homecoming. The weather gave us a break, being cloudy and cool in the morning, but by the time dinner was spread on the long table out doors, the sun came out, making it uncomfortably warm. The crowd was immense and nothing can equal the friendliness of the country people. It was good to be there and my heart was full of memories. Memories of my childhood when we used to accompany my father when he went to preach at the old Bowser schoolhouse down near the river. Most all the names I knew then are now only a memory. But later I taught there. And at the homecoming I was counted among the old teachers. And it was a great delight to see several of those who were my pupils.

Friday morning we started on our weekly trip to town, going by the Dwyer place for Mrs. Dwyer. Just before we got to our east pasture gate, the car went dead. So I got out and walked to Mrs. Dwyer's. She began to phone for help. The Cecil Eggers were on their jobs and not at home. Charm Whitteburg and his boys were somewhere baling feed. Mrs. Taylor Duncan was at home. She said she didn't know that she could start her car, but she would try.

After sometime she brought John to the Dwyer home. She had pulled the car up to the road in the Wilmeth pasture, but it wouldn't start. We would have to have a mechanic. She suggested Johnny Humphries. Johnny didn't answer, but Stanley Reeves, hearing of our predicament, phoned that he had seen Johnny come in home and he would go over there and tell him. In a little while Stanley phoned that Johnny was on his way. The first thing Johnny checked he found the trouble—a loose wire. As soon as he reconnected that, everything was all right. But isn't it wonderful to have phones and willing neighbors? But most wonderful of all is to have someone who knows how to start a car.

Historians dispute if the building in Washington State Park, pictured above, is an accurate replica of the smithy shop in which the Texas Declaration of Independence was signed. PARK OF THE WEEK—
GOLIAD STATE PARK serves dual historic purposes. It commemorates one of the tragic events of the Texas Revolution and preserves a record of a period when colonial life in New Spain was at its height.

Col. James W. Fannin and his men fought off an attack of Mexican troops on the very ground of the park, firing from behind the walls of Mission Espiritu Santo de Zuniga, largest building in the park.

Historic La Bahia across the river from the park was where the same gallant band of men imprisoned after their defeat in the battle of Perdido Creek in attempting to obey orders to abandon Goliad and join other units of the Texas Army. In the same vicinity is the mass grave where the Texans were buried after the massacre of Palm Sunday, March 27, 1836. A monument erected by the Texas Centennial Commission has carved in the stone the names of all but one of the 330 slain heroes.

Long before this massacre had given the slogan of "Remember Goliad" to the battling Texans, Goliad had an important place in Texas events. It was given its name by an Act of the Congress of Coahuila and Texas in 1829. The name was coined by dropping the silent "H" and rearranging the other letters in the name of Hidalgo, Mexican patriot.

It was captured by Texans under command of James Collingsworth and Ben Milan within a week after the first shot of the revolution had been fired at Gonzales. A declaration of independence had been issued there as early as 1835 and a defiant new flag flown.

A tape recording of the stirring history of Goliad has been made at Television House of the University of Texas and is played for visitors to the restored Mission Espiritu Santo de Zuniga.

Nine units of the construction have been planned, based on wide research, including translations of documents in Spain and in Mexico. The mission church is one of these units. It was the center of ranching empire that extended as far as San Antonio.

Another constructed unit is a museum in which there is shown the flag of Goliad, a wooden-wheeled cannon, the original door of La Bahia, arrowheads, bullet molds, bullets and other relics of the earlier days, as well as copies of documents pertaining to Goliad.

The park adjoins the city limits of Goliad which is on Texas Highways 30, 59 and 239 and on U. S. Highways 77A and 183.

Mrs. R. C. Petty Describes Scenery On Various Trips Through Alaska

Dear Editor:
We are still having beautiful weather here in Alaska. Last week we had showers for two days. It seems that the moisture we get here goes much farther than it does in Texas, as the climate is so mild. We sleep under a sheet and heavy wool blanket every night, but also keep the window open a little.

We have been on another trip and had a wonderful time in the mountains and on the streams. We visited Valdez, which is a 300 mile trip from Fort Richardson. We took our camping equipment and plenty of food. Leaving Fort Richardson we followed the Glenn Highway for approximately 190 miles to the Glennallen Junction, turned right on the Richardson Highway and drove straight to Valdez.

Our first stop was at post 113 on the Glenn Highway. There we got a spectacular view of Sheep Mountain. On a clear day, by the use of binoculars you can get a look at White Dalls roaming the mountain-side.

At Mile 156, we took pictures of Tazlina Glacier, and it is truly indescribable.

We drove through a tunnel about eighty yards long. When we emerged from underground one of Alaskas most scenic wonders was before us—Keystone Canyon.

The canyon drops straight down approximately 400 feet. On down the canyon we saw the Bridal Veil Falls. The water rushes over the falls, dropping some 300 feet into the canyon floor. Farther down the highway we saw a two prong water fall.

CARD OF THANKS

Our thanks to each one of the many friends whose loving expressions of sympathy helped us so much during our recent sorrow. We are especially grateful to the Center City Baptist Church for the beautiful floral offerings and for every act of kindness shown us, may God's richest blessing rest upon each of you.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Green and Eva Faye.
Mr. and Mrs. Ace Kincheloe and girls.

called the Horse Tail Falls. Here we took some of the most scenic pictures in Alaska.

The town of Valdez is a salmon canning center. There is much deep sea fishing here, and streams fed by the tide of the ocean are stocked with salmon. On our return trip to Anchorage, we decided to visit the abandoned copper mining town of Chitna, which is 40 miles off the main highway. Only a few people live there and they are mostly Indians.

In 1907, this mine was producing approximately one million dollars worth of copper each month. The worlds largest nugget of pure copper weighing 2400 pounds is displayed on the town square.

Chitna, located on the copper river, is now a ghost town. At the entrance of the town, is a ghost on stilts. My grandchildren got such a kick out of the ghosts in windows and painted on the buildings.

This week we drove into the Kenal area for a picnic, and I got to pick some more berries. When I go into these forest gathering berries, I sure do wish for my friends in Texas to be here and enjoy it all with me. There are so many types of berries that I cannot begin to mention all of them. My favorites are Raspberries, salman berries, and cranberries.

The Alaskan State Fair is to be held September 1st., and we hope to attend. It is held at Palmer. It is said that the fair is quite an inducement to visitors seeing what this state produces.

I saw my first moose the other day. He was near the highway where we stopped the car. He looked at us, and calmly walked away.

We attended the Protestant Chapel at Fort Richardson last Sunday, and I enjoyed it very much. This was my first experience to worship where both white and colored people attend, but this was alright, the chapel was filled to capacity. As I worshiped with these people, my thoughts wondered back with the beloved people at Trigger Mountain Baptist Church. I miss you all very much. Keep up the good work in my prayer.

Mrs. R. C. Petty

Miss Gertrude Kauhs is spending her vacation with relatives here.
