

VIC'S . . .

SOLILOQUY

I DREAMED I HAD A MILLION DOLLARS.

That is an interesting dream, isn't it?

I'm sure you have heard people say: "I wish I had a Million Dollars." Maybe you have even heard someone say: "I dreamed I had a Million Dollars," though probably not many people dream like that—or if they do they will in all probability not tell you about that dream.

Houston Duren handed me a little printed folder the other day that tells a story about a man who dreamed he had a Million Dollars. I thought it was quite interesting and you might too. It goes like this:

"I dreamed I had a million dollars and need never work again."

"SPLENDID," said my friend, "BUT IS THAT ALL? WHAT WAS THE REST OF YOUR DREAM?"

"Well," I said, "in my dream I thought of all the things I could now do because I had a million bucks. I would have the fanciest food money could buy. I would buy a fine house. Only the sportiest and most expensive automobile would suit me from now on. Clothing? Only the richest and finest would ever cover me again. O, I was in clover all right. My fondest wishes had come true."

"THEN WHAT HAPPENED?" my friend asked.

So I told him my story. It was a dilly—more like a nightmare. "Listen."

"I dressed and, being hungry, went to breakfast. There wasn't any. My wife was in tears. The food she had ordered the day before hadn't been delivered. Not even a bottle of milk or the morning newspaper greeted me when I opened the door. I tried to telephone the grocery but the line was dead. I said, 'Oh, well, I'll take a walk and bring back something for breakfast.'"

"The street was deserted. Not a bus, streetcar or cab was in sight. I walked on and on. Nothing in sight. Thinking something had happened only to my neighborhood, I went to another. Not even a train was moving. Then people began to appear on the street—first, only a few, then many, then hundreds. I joined them and began asking questions: 'What has happened? Where can I buy food?' Then I got the jolt. Somebody said, 'Don't you know? Everybody has a million dollars and nobody has to work any more.'"

"At first I was stunned. I thought that somehow a mistake, a ghastly mistake had been made—but there was no mistake. It was really true. Everybody had a million dollars and thought that work was over for him."

"Then it dawned on me as never before that all of us are dependent upon all of the rest of us; that to a small extent at least my labor had a place, a part, in the total welfare of mankind. With an angry shout I tossed to the winds even the thought of a million dollars."

"Then I woke up. My dream was over. The sun was shining, the birds singing, my wife rattling the breakfast things. I looked out the window and saw a world of people moving about their tasks, each contributing a little to my life and living, just as I contribute to theirs. I called to my wife, 'Hurry up with that breakfast, Sweetheart, I want to get to work!'"

In a double wedding ceremony in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Hunt in this city last Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Carson Edmondson and Miss Lillian Hunt, E. C. Miller and Miss Nadine Donohoo were united in marriage, Rev. Jo H. Frizzelle officiating, in the presence of a few friends and relatives. Mrs. S. J. Tullos died at the family home, three miles north of this city last Friday evening, after a long illness.

The friends of Miss Robert Elizabeth Littlepage are glad to know that she has been chosen a member of Beta Literary Society at Mary Hardin-Baylor.

Judge J. C. Darroch received a telegram from Alexandria, Va., just out from Washington, D. C., telling him his father, Dr. Darroch, whose home was at that place, had been stricken with apoplexy and not expected to live, through the day. Judge Darroch left as soon as possible for Fort Worth to catch a fast train for the family home. A message to Mrs. Darroch Wednesday informed her of his father's death and funeral.

All the little friends of James Edward, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Horton, celebrated his birthday. His birthday was October 12, but all of his little friends were in school Friday, but he put it off until Sunday afternoon.

Relatives and friends were greatly saddened by the recent passing of two old time citizens, G. W. Barr of Austin and R. W. Barr of San Angelo, brothers, whose deaths occurred in one month of each other. The Barr Brothers were for many years citizens of Mills County, where they engaged in ranching and farming, later moving to the West.

Dickerson Brothers expect to move their store into the building formerly occupied by the First National Bank, about November the first. The building is being arranged for their store.

RAILROAD FEATHERBEDDING:
$500,000,000 LOSS TO THE NATION—INCLUDING YOU—EVERY YEAR

Featherbedding on the railroads — pay for work not done or not needed — is costing the American people the shocking total of more than $500,000,000 a year.

You pay for it every time you shop, because featherbedding costs are hidden in the price of everything you buy.

Obsolete union work rules, involving the railroad operating employees, are responsible for this gigantic burden. Right now, for instance, these rules require every diesel locomotive to carry a fireman—even though diesels have no fires to stoke, no boilers to tend.

The forthcoming negotiations between the railroads and the unions are urgently important to the whole nation.

In asking the unions to drop these featherbedding rules, all the railroads ask for is a fair day's work for a fair day's pay.

It's time for the redfish to begin moving into the back bays along the Texas coast.

There has been good redfishing all summer, but October is the month when it begins to improve appreciably, with some really big bull reds being hauled in.

From now until January, you can expect some real catches. November and December should be especially good.

Redfish come in two classes. You either get the bull reds, which run upwards of three pounds; or the rat reds, those that are below three pounds. But don't kid yourself that the rat reds aren't just as good to eat.

Bulls and rats alike will hit lures. But they love shrimp! Some fishermen who classify themselves as experts, will tell you that they had just as soon fish with dead shrimp as with live ones. I've tried 'em both. And I'll take the live shrimp any day.

However, I must admit that I like lures best of all — when they hit them.

One thing is for certain, however. While the reds like to feed on the flats, they know where the channels and reefs are located. Hook one in shallow water and he heads immediately for a reef. Unless you have a good wire leader, or hold its head pretty high, those sharp shells will cut your line — and away he goes.

Then there is another way of getting reds—if you just want them for the freezer. You can set out trotlines.

Occasionally, you'll get other than reds on trotlines, but most of them will be edible fish.

Go into any flat and you'll see hundreds of poles sticking out of the water. They have been put there by trotline fishermen. Hooks are baited with small strips of bright plastic, usually red or yellow, which dangle in the water. Reds, drum and trout take these lures. It is not uncommon to find several large reds on one short trotline — caught overnight.

While this gets meat for the table, it lacks the thrill of just plain sport fishing. It's lots more fun taking the reds by wading or boating.

Many fishermen combine the two. They go by boat to the flats where the reds feed. One man stands in the boat and scans the water surface until he sees the backs of the reds working in the shallow areas. Then the boat is moved quietly into that water and fast and furious fishing begins.

Here again you can use either shrimp or lures.

What is the best lure? That is hard to say. Generally, a spoon is hard to beat. But some fishermen prefer jigs. Others will toss a top-water plug into a school and bring back a red.

Fishing with shrimp can be done in several ways. You can "free shrimp," simply by placing a shrimp on your hook and tossing it among the reds to float around. Or you add a sinker and a popping cork.

Either way is good. Free shrimping is perhaps the most deadly of all salt-water fishing.

Of course, you can use frozen shrimp or just plain dead shrimp. My personal like is for live shrimp of fairly good size.

A redfish or trout, hardly can pass one by. Neither can a hardhead.

Many fishermen wade all over the flats for redfish. Some of them use high rubber waders, especially in cool weather. Others just wear tennis shoes and khaki pants or blue jeans.

Wade fishermen usually equip themselves with spinning outfits, or with a good long popping rod, capable of sending the lure far out into the water ahead of them.

It is not a good idea to attempt wade fishing while wearing a bathing suit or shorts.

And it never should be tried barefooted. Too many fishermen toss their beverage bottles into the water. Sometimes these bottles are broken and the glass fragments are dangerous. Just as dangerous also are the thousands of shells and reefs that sometimes cut as badly as glass.

You see considerable wade fishing along the Texas coastline, but not nearly as much as is found on either the east or west coast.

Fortunately, Texas is blessed with numerous bays, lagoons and river mouths that afford wonderful fishing. They are accessible by boat, and fishermen don't find it necessary to wade as much.

Although many reds are caught occasionally, when fishing for other species, the man who catches the best reds is the one who knows where and how to fish for them.

Most certainly the man who gets the largest reds is the one who knows. Of course, there always is the lucky fluke where a man fishing for the first time gets a big bull, but mostly experience counts in catching a string of big reds.

There is no better eating fish than the red. In fact there is a legend that this was the fish used by the Master to feed the multitudes.

Big reds have black spots on both sides of the tail. These spots are supposed to represent His fingerprints when He lifted the five fish from the boat to feed the multitudes.

Redfish can be fried, baked or grilled. There is no doubt about its edible quality. And there is no doubt about the fun of catching reds.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford

TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

Austin, Texas — Though it hasn't any Los Angeles-type smog or London "pea soupers," Texas, in common with most of the civilized world, has "dirty air" problems.

Industrial smoke, automobile exhaust, incinerators — even small town cotton gins — are among the factors that pollute Texas air.

State Health Department is using the approach of Cleaner Air Week, October 25-31, to remind Texans of the importance of the air they breathe. During one day, says the Department's October bulletin, a person must breathe 30 to 35 pounds — or a whole roomful — of fresh air.

Texas by no means has the problems of cities like London where in 1952 several thousand died during a period of excessive air pollution. But, says the Department, "the problem is already present and growing in areas where no action is being taken."

Every citizen can help, says the Bulletin. Improper heating appliances in homes give off tons of uncombusted material and burning of leaves and trash in the back yard adds irritating agents to the air.

If you are especially interested in the problem, the Bulletin suggests you contact your local health department which will

How Much Tidelands?—Texans now await a decision by the U. S. Supreme Court on how much of its tidelands the state owns.

U. S. attorney general claims the state owns a strip only three miles out from the coast. Texas officials say it is three leagues, or 10½ miles.

That Texas owns some tidelands was established by a 1953 act of Congress giving states control of their submerged lands to their "historical boundaries."

Gov. Proce Daniel and Texas Atty. Gen. Will Willson argued before the high court that a historic boundary of three leagues had been established in the days of the Texas Republic and was agreed to by the U. S.

Opposing federal argument is that the U. S. has insisted on a three-mile limit for all countries for many years as a matter of "national policy."

Texas' oil-bearing tidelands, particularly those further out, are believed to be worth many millions in revenue for the state public school fund.

Straws In The Wind—Indications keep piling up that a special legislative session to raise teacher pay and a third-term race by Governor Daniel are strong possibilities.

Letters favoring the teacher pay session are greatly increasing, according to the governor's office. A representative of the Texas State Teachers Association said teachers are not "cooling off" in their drive and are not planning to wait until 1961. Several union labor groups have endorsed teacher pay raises and offered to help in the drive.

A recent State Democratic Executive Committee newsletter notes Daniel's popularity in polls and quoted him as planning "to keep the door open."

Which probably means the governor will keep the political pot in simmering suspense until very near the Feb. 1 filing deadline.

First Water Loan—Texas Water Development Board has made its first loan under the $200,000,000 program passed by the Legislature in 1957.

Lower Nueces River Water Supply District received $3,000,000 which will be used to complete the $21,000,000 Wesley Seale Dam.

Under the program, the Development Board sells bonds and loans money to local governments to pay part of the cost of water conservation projects. Program is self-liquidating. Board is presently paying 3.56 per cent interest on the bonds and charging 4.06 per cent on loans.

White River Municipal Water District in West Texas is expected to receive the next loan. It is seeking aid for a $4,000,000 project to supply water to Crosbyton, Post, Ralls and Spur.

School Support Problem—Gaining public support for schools will hinge on how well some schools adapt to new demands. State Commissioner of Education J. W. Edgar warned school leaders.

Dr. Edgar told the Texas Association of School Boards of new curriculum changes, including beefed-up high school mathematics courses, now being tested in Texas schools.

School board members noted that, despite the hue and cry for better schools, a winning football team still gets more public support than anything else.

Education Expansion Studied—Whether the University of Houston should be brought into the University of Texas system is under state study.

Texas' Commission on Higher Education ordered staff study of the question directed to it by a resolution passed this year by the Legislature. At present the University of Houston is a private institution that receives state aid only for the first two years of its four-year program.

Houston proponents of the plan claim there is an increasing need for making college education available in Houston for that city's ever growing numbers of high school graduates. It is estimated Houston high schools will be graduating 15,000 students a year by 1975.

Commission Director Ralph

Green has noted, however, that there is some "public alarm" over the expansion of public education and the shrinking of private education. He said the staff study would be completed by the latter part of 1960.

San Angelo citizens, meanwhile, have started activity toward getting San Angelo College admitted into the state's circle of fully supported state institutions. A visit to the institution has been scheduled for Green and Sen. Dorsey Harde-man, in whose district the college is located, for next month.

Colleges Paying More—Texas' 18 state-supported colleges are paying an average of $433 a year more to its teachers this year than last. Their salaries for teachers now average $6,320, according to the Commission on Higher Education.

Commission Director Ralph Green said the pay levels are now 30.5 per cent higher than the average five years ago.

Widest range of salaries is at the University of Texas. Top pay there is $16,000 for nine months, $10,392 average for full professors, $4,551 average for instructors.

HOW TO SAVE SOULS
 By Rev. A. A. Carter

There is much discussion of how to be used in winning souls for Christ, but after all has been said, there remains the question of difficulty—"How?" The answer of the hour is not so much a matter of the method as the attitude of the heart. THE HOW—The HOW, God explains in the most excellent textbook on "Personal work"—the Bible. Who ever becomes practically acquainted with Jesus' rules for saving souls, will not enter heaven empty handed. Christ said, "I will make you fishers of men"—a promise of HOW and of success.

He is not, God has made a mistake, or the Christian is blame-worthy. To say that God is mistaken, is blasphemy. It is the privilege and duty of every converted person to become the best possible evangelist. THE HOW—The HOW, God explains in the most excellent textbook on "Personal work"—the Bible. Who ever becomes practically acquainted with Jesus' rules for saving souls, will not enter heaven empty handed. Christ said, "I will make you fishers of men"—a promise of HOW and of success.

This was not to men of superior native ability or literary acquirements; but to minds of common mould, capable of impression and instruction by the Master, Teacher, and Saviour. Whoever is able to catch fish, may catch men after being instructed by Jesus.

He lays down as a fundamental rule—love. "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." The passion of Christ for a lost world must become the passion of the Christian, if he converts men. He must love men, as men, for Jesus' sake. Such love will make him oblivious to caste, indifferent to station, regardless of wealth, ignoring all human distinctions. His love will be all inclusive. The leprotic Zacheus, the aristocratic Zaccheus, the gentle Mary and the adulteress, will alike be urgently and prayerfully sought for the kingdom of heaven. A Christ-like love will begot the apostle's state of heart: "I have great heaviness and continual sorrow in my heart; for I could wish that myself were accursed from Christ for my brethren, my kinsmen according to the flesh; who are Israelites." This love will urge a person to study that he may "show himself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed." God's approval being the attainment sought through the noblest service possible to men or angels, the results of which are so infinitely glorious if successful, or infinitely awful if unsuccessful, that nothing earthly can be compared with them. Every soul who knows the love of Christ will make that study the best effort of his powers.

tan woman differed greatly in the one from the other. A physician who attempts to heal all manner of diseases with physic and plasters, will have many funerals.

Brother Rundell's tract, "Christ and the Inquirer," is briefly descriptive of the many varied ways in which Christ dealt with the unsaved. It also emphasizes the need of knowing your man." Study critically the moral tongue, feel carefully the intellectual pulse, apply the thermometer for the physical temperature. The whole man is involved. The detective discovers his man by approaching him on the "blind side." Every one has an approachable side. The Christian worker should know which side that is of each unsaved person he seeks.

Then study to know your man—what he believes, what he loves, his modes of thought, his associations,—in brief, make a mental biography of the person. Find some point of personal contact. The careful student will have discovered that point. The discovery made, wisely use it for the glory of God. The brook trout has a weakness for flies; not so the salmon. Know these matters, and be happy in doing "the right thing, at the right way, at the right time."

Christian worker, know thyself, as the temple of the Holy Ghost. "Acquaint thyself now with him." Know his voice, in order to distinguish it from all others. It is not an uncertain voice. It is positive, sweet, full of love, even pathetic in its yearning for the souls of the lost. The Bible is the only correct literature of the Holy Spirit and of his methods of salvation. Here we learn that the potency

STUDY THE SCRIPTURES
 Another important study is the Bible. However others may relegate the word of God to the parlor table as an ornament, or to the mantel shelf, as a dust collector, Jesus' counsel for it is, "Search the Scriptures."

STUDY MEN
 Which is of the greatest importance among so many studies, is difficult to state but we will name first, that of human nature. Jesus "knew what was in man," and so recognized the differences between a Pharisee and a publican, and acted accordingly. His treatment of Nicodemus and of the Samarithe ancient prophet, who stood upon the mount that he might hear God's voice in the strong wind, or terrible earthquake, or in the consuming fire—some external, physical manifestation. But the Lord was in none of these. The whispering of the Spirit were instruction and authority and courage, whereby the prophet anointed kings and prophets who slew his and his Lord's enemies.

The Spirit spake to Philip, and he went wandering about the Ethiopian's caravan, hesitatingly and doubtfully; inquiring of this and another person, so that he would be assured that God had made no mistake? Such is the hypocrisy of modern godliness. It has the form but lacks the power (and directness) thereof—the Holy Spirit.

The Spirit was as definite in his instructions to Philip, as he was distinct in his voice. "Go, join thyself to this chariot." Philip went, and the eunuch was converted and baptized. Peter heard the voice of the Spirit, after God had cleansed his mind of a good bit of rubbish. Peter obeyed that voice, nothing doubting, Cornelius and his household were converted and baptized.

Christian worker, know thyself, as the temple of the Holy Ghost. "Acquaint thyself now with him." Know his voice, in order to distinguish it from all others. It is not an uncertain voice. It is positive, sweet, full of love, even pathetic in its yearning for the souls of the lost. The Bible is the only correct literature of the Holy Spirit and of his methods of salvation. Here we learn that the potency and motive in evangelism are begotten of the Holy Ghost. "To know him aright is life eternal" with a double meaning. This knowledge must be an increasing quantity, and richness of quality, in the Christian heart, for greatest equivalent of eternal life. The man of God ought also to know him intimately, in order to succeed in winning souls. His word to Zechariah is most modern; viz., "Not by an army, nor by power, but by my Spirit," saith the Lord.

methods in the Christian heart, there has come to some a surprising revelation that the Holy Spirit works simultaneously in the heart of the soul seeker and in the heart of the unsaved. He has instructed the disciple to preach of sin and of righteousness, and of a judgment to come, and at the same time is convicting the unsaved of the same truths.

Permit me, therefore, to urge a study of the Old and New Testaments for a correct knowledge of the methods of the Holy Spirit in the soul. The saints of the Old Testament did not go aimlessly about the work of God. The genius of their own minds was not the sole resource. They were under specific instructions, and guided in the application thereof to legitimate results.

Philip is instructed to join himself to the chariot, and the eunuch is being prepared for the words of Philip. Peter is directed to Cornelius by the same Spirit who is instructing the noble Roman when and how to find Peter. Cyrus and the Israelites were simultaneously stirred by the one Spirit to a common purpose,—to find the house of God. God never gave a Christian a message of salvation to a lost soul, without at the same time providing and preparing that lost soul to hear and be saved.

As we have learned of divine

Goldthwaite FHA Make Plans To Elect Chapter Mother And Father

By GAIL FEATHERSTON

The Goldthwaite FHA Chapter met October 5, 1959, for their monthly business meeting. The meeting was called to order by Judi Reid, president, and the opening rituals were carried out.

After a Sing-Song session among the members, the yearbooks committee presented the new yearbooks to the Chapter members. Also the October edition of the Area IV FHA paper was given to each member. Plans for the devotional which will be presented by a group of FHA members at the Harvest Festival were discussed.

Wednesday, October 7, 1959, the Chapter's Civil Defense chairmen presented a program on Civil Defense to the chapter. A film on first aid explaining first aid methods and how and when to use them, was presented by Norma Fay Duren. Wanda Williams pointed out a number of precautions to take in case of a tornado. Conservation Reserve Payments Now Being Made Approximately $55,000 in payments to farmers who had Conservation Reserve contracts in effect during 1959 are now being made, according to Lee W. Tabor, office manager of the Mills County ASC.

All farms with Conservation Reserve contracts have been checked to determine that the contract provisions have been complied with during the past year. Farmers signing contracts agreed not to harvest a crop or graze livestock on the designated acreage. In most cases the contracts also require a reduction in the total acreage of crops produced on the farm.

Mr. Tabor also reminded farmers that the requirements of the contracts remain in effect for the duration of the contracts. The end of the growing season does not relieve the Conservation Reserve contract holder of the obligations under his contract.

There are 91 contracts in effect in 1959 in Mills County covering 6,372 acres of cropland. This land is out of production and is to be devoted to an approved conservation use.

Burglars Enter Places At Mullin

Last weekend, several business places in Mullin were burglarized, including the Post Office. The burglars rifled five safes, scattered papers and took about $100.00 in cash, according to a report from Mills County Sheriff, C. F. Stubblefield.

Sheriff Stubblefield spent most of Monday morning at Mullin investigating the burglaries. After notifying Federal authorities in Fort Worth, of the Post Office entry, he called Texas Ranger George Roach of Stephenville to assist him in the investigation.

In the Post Office, one safe was blown apart and a knob broken off of another one. Sheriff Stubblefield said nothing was taken at the post office. At Randolph Lumber Company two large safes, which were not locked, were entered but nothing was missing, according to Willard Mosler, who operates the lumber yard.

A grocery store owned and operated by Mrs. Jewell Ivy was also broken into. Mr. Stubblefield also reported nothing missing here.

Locke Bros. Garage was the hardest hit place, as here the burglars blew open a safe and took $100.00 in cash, they also scattered papers over the place. The garage is operated by Harold and Herman Locke.

At a late hour Wednesday the sheriff's office stated that no new developments had come to light on the burglaries.

Mr. and Mrs. Hud Hamilton accompanied her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Morris of Corpus Christi to Odessa recently where they saw the football game between the two high schools. Wayne Morris is a player on the Corpus Christi team and they are undefeated this year.

Goldthwaite Jr. High Defeat Evant Elks

The Evant Elks won the toss and they chose to receive at the west end of the field. Vicky Wiedebusch got off a wonderful kick for the Eagles and Evant was trapped behind the goal line by Ronnie Allison and Clyde Cockrum. Evant had to kick-off to the Eagles from their own 20 yard line. The Eagles marched all the way from Evant's 35 yard line to pay dirt early in the first quarter. Lynn Elliott made the touchdown from 7 yards out and Wiedebusch added the extra 2 points to make the score 10 to 0.

The Eagles kicked off to the Elks, but they had to punt on 4th down. The half ended with the score Goldthwaite 10, Evant 0.

At the beginning of the second half the Eagles chose to receive from the west end. The Eagles marched down deep in Evant territory, but right after that the third quarter ended with the score Goldthwaite 10, Evant 0. The Eagles marched to pay dirt early in the fourth quarter with DeWayne McCasland making the touchdown from 2 yards out and Harlan Jernigan added the extra 2 points. The score was then Goldthwaite 18, Evant 0. The Eagles kicked off to the Elks, but they had to punt on fourth down. The Eagles then marched to pay dirt with Gene Gray throwing the touchdown pass to Clyde Cockrum from 12 yards out and Clyde Cockrum added the 2 extra points with an 8-yard pass from the hands of Gene Gray.

Harlan Jernigan, Vicky Wiedebusch, Lynn Elliott, DeWayne McCasland, Clyde Cockrum, Ronnie Allison, Delton Ripley, Bill Blackwell, Gene Gray, Charles Edmondson, and Gene Audridge played a good game.

The final score was Goldthwaite Eagles 26 and the Evant Elks 0. The Eagles were hampered all night with penalties of over 300 yards against them, with Evant receiving only 5 yards.
