Weekly Sunday POLITICAL EASTLAND HIGH SCHOOL NEWS Opens War On the School Lesson ANNOUNCEMENTS

Text: Gen. 26:12-25. The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for May 1.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of The Congregationalist
The golden text chosen from the Book of Proverbs is appropriate to this lesson. "A soft answer turneth away wrath; but a griveous word stirreth up anger.

Isaac was hardly as great a fig-urs as his father, Abraham, but he had inherited at least a fairly large part of his fathers' integrity and common sense. He also in-herited his father's wealth. Buildpon all that his father left he became a man of very great possessions; so wealthy in the flocks and herds that constituted the wealth of the time that

In the stide that ensued, the it did in the case of Lot. Philistines had shown this enmity by filling up the wells that Abraam's servants had digged, and when Isaac digged these wells and power through unscrupulous again, the Philistines apparently means, often does not realize how continued to stop them.

filled and strife arose he apparently went on to another place and digged new wells. So it happened sort of material disaster, when he things he is achieving the greatest sort of material success. that strife arose about successive wells until finally he moved farther away and digged a well which was left to him in peaceable possession. In token of this fact he called the will "Rehoboth," which called the will "Rehoboth," which

"For now," he said, "Jehovad le role in "The Criminal Code," outward success.

The cross of Christ reminds us, rather, that the highest way of life is often for those who suffer (Eastland County) and who sacrifice everything conscience's sake. But it is none the less true that the way of supreme satisfaction is the way of right and peace and truth. And this is essentially as true in our when causes and effects were nore simply discernible.

The rewards of life in their deepest and truest aspect are not for the strong and the grasping and the greedy. Even when the greedy and the grasping get the his Philistine neighbors greatly en-things they are after, it not infre-yied him quently proves their undoing, as

At that instant the telephone rang Honey slumped into a chair and picked up the receiver "Hello? Hello, Mr. Murdock." Cooky stood by eagerly listening to the conversation "I'm sorry, Mr. Murdock, but—I haven't got a fighter in the place."

Cooky threw her a quick offended look. "Hey, what about me? What about me?" what about me? What about me?" "At the lad for an intermediate opponight went gows." Cooky." commented Survive work, Cooky." commented Survive work in the Post, as he visited the lad in his dressing room. "Mickey Walker!" "Mickey Walker!" I could murder him!"

"Well, forget it." Honey broke in smiling "You've got a lot of fighting to do around this town before we start thinking about New York."
