Two Are Killed In Plane Crash At Cisco Monday

George C. Fox, about 40, and Elmer Mosley, about 20, were instantly killed when their plane, a Curtiss pusher monoplane, crashed into the front yard of W. D. Hazel, 1000 Sixth street, Cisco, Monday afternoon.

Witnesses of the accident said that the plane was flying at an altitude of about 500 feet when the pilot tried to gain altitude and the motor stalled and the craft nosed into the front yard of the residence, barely missing the house.

Fox was practically decapitated by the accident and both men were badly mangled in the wreckage of the plane.

Papers on Fox, who was piloting the plane, indicated that he was a professional wrestler. He had a commercial pilots license. Mosley worked in the Santa Fe yards at Fort Worth, according to papers found on the body.

Grand Jury Is Probing Thefts

With the finding of nearly 100 cartons of cigarettes cached in the residence of an Eastland business man and the filing of charges of receiving and concealing stolen property against A. W. Williamson of Eastland the sheriff's department feels that it is making some headway in breaking up an organization which is alleged to have been robbing wholesale houses in West Texas.

The sheriff's department came into possession of a shotgun recently and on tracing its numbers, identified it as one having been taken from the Waples-Platter Grocery company in Brownwood some time ago at the same time a quantity of cigarettes were taken.

The man in whose possession they found the gun claimed to have bought it from another man named by him and the latter was taken for investigation. During the questioning of the man, the officers obtained information which led to the searching of Williamson's house and the finding of the cigarettes.

Williamson was alleged to have paid the man $100 for three cases of cigarettes. According to quotations from wholesale houses, three cases of cigarettes should bring $192 wholesale.

When Williamson was arraigned in Justice Newman's court, the matter was turned over to the grand jury which is now in session and that body is conducting an investigation.

Ballyhoo Club, Mrs. M. J. Pickett Hostess

A charming colonial motif individualized the meeting of the Ballyhoo club with Mrs. M. J. Pickett, at her pretty home on Hillcrest avenue, Monday afternoon.

The color scheme in yellow and pink was developed in all kinds of lovely garden flowers. Table places for games were matched by piecing together cut paper silhouettes of faces, done in black and white and drawn from box, matched pieces bringing partners to assigned tables.

These were centered with pink and yellow rose containers, full of salted nuts. Gold colored score cards were in form of bracelets, with a miniature of the meeting, and were souvenirs of this pretty affair.

Black and white silhouettes were awarded for games, grand slams, and high honors, and favor for the one holding highest number of silhouettes, a picture in black and gold, depicting a quaint lady and spinning wheel, framed, was awarded Miss Dorothy Eppler of Gorman.

High score favor for game, a pair of etched glass silhouettes, went to Mrs. W. B. Picketts. Refreshments were charmingly served on large individual table trays, centered with a lighted candle, held in a rosebud vase.

LET'S FIGHT THE MOSQUITO Eugene Witt, Eastland sanitary inspector, is asking the co-operation of all Eastland citizens in preventing an epidemic of mosquitoes in the town. He points out that it is a difficult task for the city to keep mosquitoes out even under favorable conditions, and when there has been as much rain as there has been here recently it is impossible without the closest cooperation of the people.

Mr. Witt already has inaugurated a campaign against mosquitoes and earnestly requests that each and every person in the city help in the matter in every way possible. Keep a close watch about your own premises and be sure that there are no places for mosquitoes to breed such as tin cans, pools under the house, cellars, water barrels, rank weeds, open drain pipes, etc.

Also if you see mosquito breeding places about the premises of others it is your duty to call their attention to them. If they do not eliminate the places then it is your duty to report them to the city authorities. Such places should be declared public nuisances and a penalty assessed against those responsible for their existence.

Mmes. W. H. McDonald, Joe A. Gibson, and Miss Dorothy Eppler of Gorman.

The club will be entertained on June 22 with bridge breakfast at 9 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Joe C. Stephen.

The following telegram has been received by John Burke, manager of the Lyric theatre:

Dallas, Texas, June 6, 1932
Mr. John A. Burke,
Lyric Theatre,
Eastland, Texas.

Dear Sir:
Here's some good news for you and employees as well as for our patrons in Eastland. We will not close the Lyric this summer as at first contemplated. This change in plan was made possible by recognition of our landlord, film companies and employees, as well as other people in Eastland with whom we do business.

Their appreciation of depressing economic conditions has made possible their agreeing to make reductions in cost of operation of our theatre in your city.

The effort you have made in reducing these expenses and the cooperation that has been given you by these people as well as the help we have been able to secure from this office has made it possible for our company to agree that the Lyric will not be closed at this time.

Please extend for our company our appreciation to our friends and patrons in Eastland and our promise that every effort will be made to justify their co-operation which has been so valuable to us at this time.

Eastland Board Elects Teachers

A long delayed meeting of the school board of Eastland, held for the purpose of electing teachers for the public schools of Eastland Independent District, was held Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

In electing these teachers the board issues this agreement, to be signed by the teacher in person, upon acceptance of position.

"The Board reserves the right to elect such teachers as they deem necessary for the operation of the schools at any time next year."

C. A. Hertig, secretary of the board, stated, they are not in a position as yet to know, just how many will attend school next year, and that possible need for extra teachers will be decided if necessary later.

That the board cannot determine just how many teachers may be required for next year as conditions at that time will govern the number of teachers to be engaged. He also said that the work of the departments of Latin and Spanish, would be combined next year, with the other teaching duties of Jim Isbell.

Letters will be sent the teachers notifying them of their election. Should any fail to accept, the board will elect others to fill the vacancies.

The list of those elected follows:
High School.
W. P. Palm, principal, J. O. Brothers, Belle Wilson, Doris Powell, Verna Johnson, Jim Isbell.

Excavations May Change Stories Of the Bible

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Conceptions of such biblical events as Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden, David's conquest of Goliath and the Resurrection may be altered by recent excavations at Dura, Asia Minor, by Yale archaeologists.

Discovery of a Christian chapter probably built about 200 A. D., on the walls of which were well-executed paintings of the biblical incidents was announced to Yale authorities by Prof. Clark Hopkins, field manager of the Yale-French Academy of Inscriptions expedition.

Another important discovery was a military center in which documents were found which scholars believe may throw light on how Rome marshalled its forces against the eastern power.

These excavations, made during the expedition's fifth year in Syria, are regarded by Prof. Michael I. Rostovtzeff, Sterling Professor of Ancient History and Classical Archaeology, as "surprisingly rich results."

Reporting upon the excavations, Professor Rostovtzeff revealed how the archaeologists became interested in a thick mud wall built inside the stone fortifications of the ancient fortress and caravan city. Scraping away the mud, the party discovered a small Christian church—"to the great astonishment" of Professor Hopkins.

As the scientists eagerly scraped away the coated mud, a series of remarkable mural paintings was revealed to them. "Inside the concha of the apse-baptismal font stands the Good Shepherd and His 12 sheep, and beneath this scene Adam and Eve near the tree," reports Professor Rostovtzeff.

"On the entrance door the worshippers saw young David raising triumphantly his sword over the enormous prostrate body of Goliath, the two names being written near the corresponding figures." Other scenes depict Christ healing the sick, Christ walking on the water and the Resurrection of Christ.

Professor Rostovtzeff believes the pictures may revise present conceptions of the biblical events since they date beyond much of the material on which present versions of the stories are based.

Popular Couple Marry at Gorman

The beautiful home of Mrs. Ellen Oldham was a scene of a pretty wedding last Saturday morning when her charming daughter, Miss Frances, became the bride of Mr. Lawrence E. Moake.

The beautiful ceremony was spoken by Rev. J. L. Roden, in the living room before an altar of varicolored flowers and ferns. Miss Genevieve McCullough of Coleman accompanied by Miss Mauverine Eaker at the piano sang "Because" as the pre-nuptial solo. Miss Eaker played Mendelssohn's Wedding March as the professional and recessional.

Mrs. Edward May, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Misses Helen Williams and La Rue Dean were bridesmaids, and little Miss Betty May was flower girl, and Mr. T. O. Shelley was best man.

Mrs. May and little daughter, Betty and Miss McCullough wore lovely frocks of flesh pink organdie. Mrs. May carried an arm bouquet of sweet peas. Misses Williams and Dean wore beautiful frocks of blue organdie and carried arm bouquets of sweet peas.

The couple entered together, the bride was gowning in a lovely pink net with blue accessories and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses.

An informal reception was held after the wedding. The lace covered table was centered with a large, three-tiered wedding cake, which was decorated with a miniature bride and groom before an altar, surrounded with pink roses, where Misses Mary Elizabeth Cockrill, Clara Mae Underwood Dorothy Dean, and Mrs. Oldham served.

The happy couple left for a short trip to Fort Worth, upon their return they will make their home in Gorman. The bride's going-away suit was of blue crepe with white accessories.

The devotional was conducted by Mrs. M. C. Franklin, wife of the pastor, followed by prayer by presiding officer.

Each now officer was graciously presented a bouquet of sweet-peas, by little Mary Page, daughter of the hostess.

Rehabilitation Peach Industry Department Aim

AUSTIN.—Declaring that the peach industry in Texas has unlimited possibilities, J. M. Del Curto, chief of the horticultural inspection and quarantine division, has announced that the department of agriculture will sponsor a peach rehabilitation program.

Through the local option feature of the general pest control law enacted by the last legislature, Del Curto said that counties and communities in the peach producing area will have the opportunity to obtain systematic and complete eradication and prevention programs to eliminate those pests now existing and to prevent the introduction of pests into those areas that are now clean.

There are 604,539 commercial peach trees in Texas, a survey made last year in the phony peach disease eradication program revealed, while new plantings are being made in many sections, Del Curto said. In those sections now free of pests and in which new plantings are being made, the local option feature of the law would permit the establishment of pest free zones, if the growers desire, while in other counties with older trees, a systematic control of existing pests and elimination of abandoned orchards can be effected.

Upon petition of growers, the county judge can request the commissioner of agriculture to survey conditions within the county and make recommendations as to necessary steps in cleaning up the area or keeping it clean. After a public hearing in which it is to be developed whether or not the growers desire the program outlined by the commissioner, the county judge has the power to instruct the commissioner to put his recommendations into the form of a proclamation, enforcement of which may be compulsory.

In this manner, if a sufficient number of growers desire a rehabilitation program, unified and concerted effort in that direction may be obtained, while in the past rehabilitation efforts have met with more or less failure because of lack of authority and consequent lack of unity in action, Del Curto said. Plans previously tried were purely educational, in most cases, and failed because of lack of cooperation of all growers within the area, he said.

"The department does not seek to force but merely offers an opportunity and plan to the peach growers of Texas to invoke compulsory pest control programs to stabilize their industry—methods of proper culture and care of their peach orchards, which is the basis for success in the industry," Del Curto declared. "Such programs have already been inaugurated for the protection of citrus fruits, sweet potatoes and Irish potatoes, and now such a program for onions and onion plants is being surveyed."

Early this summer the United States Department of Agriculture in cooperation with the Texas department will further the campaign for eradication of the phony peach disease in the south with another survey of all commercial peach trees in Texas. Three federal inspectors are expected to arrive in Texas sometime this month to aid in the survey.

While not existent in Texas to the extent that it can be termed a serious menace, in some peach producing sections of the South the phony disease has materially curtailed production, according to Del Curto. He explained that the disease dwarfs the size of the tree, strangely makes the leaves turn bright green, but ultimately causes the peaches to dwarf and become of inferior quality. The disease does not kill the tree.

Victim of Czar's Reign Is Now An Orchestra Leader

FORT WORTH.—It was by chance a young Polish Jew, stripped of his wealth by czarist absolutism, came to the United States and a "lucky break" that gave him success.

Now he is a highly prized orchestra director here for a nationally known theatre company, after successes with prominent symphonies, directing in New York theatres and operas, and playing for sound pictures.

Like many of his race, Hyman Maurice was deprived of vast wealth by the Russian czarist government when the uprising against the monarchy in 1908 was blamed on the Jews. Poland then was a part of Russia, and ceded Jewish property in Poland the Russian government confiscated at random.

His grandfather's estate, to become his, was taken. Thrown out to shift for himself, he turned to music. As opportunities presented he played in cheap cafes and on streets.

In 1918 he joined the Russian Symphonic Orchestra, touring Europe. This brought him to America. The American tour was unsuccessful financially, and in Detroit he took a job as a substitute violinist in a theater.

Someone showed him a box under the diminutive Maurice to make him tall enough to be seen. He was confident. Hadn't he won a scholarship for conducting the Royal Conservatory at Warsaw?

The overture was a success and Maurice got the regular conductor's job. Five years in Detroit, then followed engagements with the St. Paul Symphony, a tour with Victor Herbert, a musical directorship for Universal Pictures in New York, and an opera with Milton Aborn.

Cow Is Arrested For a Burglar

SAN JOSE, Calif.—This isn't a bull story—it's about the only cow in history known to have been arrested as a burglar.

Patrolmen Kenneth Alserge and L. E. Gupta received a radio alarm that a burglar was breaking into the home of J. O. Montgomery. They sped to the residence, and on reaching it, deployed with ready shotguns, prepared for any emergency.

Patrolman Gupta sighted a huge something near a window of the house.

"Stick 'em up!" ordered the officer.

Then Patrolman Alserge yelled: "Don't shoot, Gup! I don't think she means any harm."

Then the "burglar" gave vent to a mighty "Moo-ooo-ooo." She was standing in a flower bed under a window of the home.

Officers placed her under arrest, charged with burglary. But because the city jail had no provisions for criminally-inclined cows, she was staked out in a vacant lot near the jail.

But when police went to produce Bossie next morning for her preliminary hearing, she was missing. Now she's a fugitive from justice and a warrant has been issued for her arrest.

Oak Grove

OAK GROVE, June 9.—Another heavy rain fell here beginning at 5 o'clock P. M. Sunday afternoon and continuing until after 2 A. M. Monday. Last week we reported the heaviest rain of the season, but this time we got more rain than last week. If these week-end rains continue for a few more times and come heavier each time, I know one farmer that will have to say goodbye to the crop, for it will float on down the creek. C. P. Hastings and family visited his mother in Carbon Monday. C. P. said Saturday he had as good a prospect for a crop as he has had for a good many years, but Monday he said the rains had washed it away. We hope the sunshine and fair weather will bring it back. This is good box whittling weather as it is too wet for farming, and some of our professional whittlers are putting in good time. But there is a complaint going around of a scarcity of coxes to whittle, as most of the goods nowadays are shipped in paper boxes. During the past week Walter Gray, candidate for County Clerk, J. D. Barker, candidate for the Judge of the 88th Judicial District, and T. J. (Tom) Haley, candidate for Tax Assessor were looking after their interests in this part of the political vineyard. Peaches and cream once a week. Blackberries are ripe and ready to eat; Big red plums and apricots too. Now Mr. Editor, if some of your poetically inclined readers will kindly furnish the fourth line to the above rhyme and come to our orchard I will show them an apple tree that is bearing fruit the second year after transplanting. Canning fruit and vegetables is the order of the day here. Mrs. Alice Hall and Mrs. Nina Hastings canned English peas Thursday of last week and Mrs. Myrtle Johnson of Cisco was with Mrs. Hall Monday canning up a supply of black berries and vegetables. Everybody is canning, and the fruit and vegetable crops are fine and if no calamity comes to destroy them, old man hunger will be an unknown quantity in this community next winter.

Carbon

CARBON, June 9.—Carbon was visited Monday night with a downpour of rain and an electrical storm. One of the worst displays of lightning we ever remember seeing. There was a slight amount of hail, but no serious damage reported. The W. M. S. of the Methodist church are practicing on a play, which will be given in the near future. Misses Opal and Loretta Morris have returned home from Denton school, where they have been the past three years. Miss Opal received her B. S. degree. Simons and wife from Roscoe were stop-over guests of their daughter, Mrs. Willie Boatwright while en route to Cleburne to make their future home. W. H. Pnett and wife and daughter Annie Pearl of Plainview were this week guests of relatives here and at Olden. H. H. Guy, owner and manager of Carbon Telephone Exchange, has made a deal for West Texas land, and the new owner, Mr. Yardy, now has charge. Mr. and Mrs. Guy will soon be leaving for their new home, much to the regret of many friends. Carbon gives Mr. and Mrs. Yardy a hearty welcome and wish them success in their new enterprise. Hugh Jennings and wife of Carbon are visiting relatives here. H. L. Bray, manager of the ocean shelling factory, and who has had family rooms at the Barlow home, has moved into Mrs. H. O. West's home. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Owens were Thursday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ackers of Okra. Billie Jenne and Truly Carter left Monday for Colorado for a fishing trip. G. M. Clark was a Cisco business visitor Saturday.

Colony

COLONY, June 9.—Claude Stupard of this community has returned from Weatherford where he has been attending school. A rain fell about four hours and the total downfall was approximately four inches. J. R. McClung, a resident of this community who is now in Arkansas, is leaving there for New York. Carl Bromelow, a former music teacher of Colony, has accepted a position in a college. We are indeed sorry that he will not be with us the following year. O. C. Bowen of this community has been critically ill, but is improving at present. I. I. Cooksey, the new superintendent of Colony, has moved into his new residence, the teachers of Colony. The heavy rains were appreciated, but we regret to say that it ruined the berries that were to be picked Monday. This was a loss to the farmers. Mrs. J. M. Laughlin has realized the depression. She has canned 158 quarts of fruit and vegetables in two weeks.

oring Miss Alta Everton on her twenty-first birthday. Everyone remember the big singing and barbecue at Kokomo on the fourth Sunday in June.

Olden

OLDEN, June 9.—Olden had another big rain Sunday night, totaling six and one-fourth inches. Some hail fell, quite a lot of injury was done to gardens and young plants, but with a few warm dry days, will soon outgrow the damage. The electric current, from some cause or other, went off early in the evening, which caused people to hunt for their old kerosene lamps or use the gas, which reminded us that we could do without electric lights, but hope we don't have to. W. C. Crone and Mrs. Don Teal, south of Eastland returned Sunday night from Temple, where they had visited Mrs. Crane, who is a patient in Scott and White hospital. Mrs. Crane is improving and will soon be able to be brought home. Meroney and family, brother of postmaster Meroney of Ranger, attended services at the Church of Christ Sunday morning. Miss Willie Leclair visited the Misses Edwards Sunday. Miss Stella Wetherall, who teaches at Throckmorton, is spending the vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wetherall of this place. Rice returned Sunday from a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hamrick of near Abilene. Mrs. Dave Vermillion of the power plant, was visiting friends in Olden Tuesday. The Missionary Society of the Methodist church had its regular meeting Monday, but we did not learn the names of all that were present. Mr. and Mrs. Sid Fowler and family motored to Abilene Saturday afternoon to visit Mrs. Fowler's sister, Mrs. Barlow. There is to be an election held at this place next Saturday, for the purpose of raising the school tax, so the U. S. Senate is not the only place "trying to balance the budget." Miss Eloise Morton spent Saturday night with a dance hon-urday night in Ranger, the guest of Mrs. Spurgeon McLendon.

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

JUDAH, A TRUE BROTHER

Text: Gen. 44:18-34. The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 12.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of The Congregationalist. No man's character is to be judged by any one event in his career, nor even by any portion of his life taken by itself—that is, unless some distinct change of outlook and character gives striking evidence of some newness of life, and indicates that the real man is to be judged by the richest and best experience that has happened to him.

The record that we have of Judah is not all favorable. It was Judah who was responsible for selling Joseph into slavery, though Judah is credited with a partially good motive at the time.

It may be remembered that when Joseph's brethren were conspiring to kill him, Reuben made the suggestion that instead of shedding blood they should cast him into a pit—it being Reuben's better purpose to come afterwards and release him from the pit. The brothers accepted Reuben's suggestion.

But before Reuben had an opportunity to make good his purpose a caravan of Midianites loomed on the horizon, and Judah made the proposal that instead of leaving Joseph in the pit they should sell him to the Midianites.

On the assumption in Judah's mind that Joseph would have perished if left in the pit, it was, perhaps, the proposal of a man who meant well. His argument had been "he is our brother and our flesh," though to sell a brother into slavery was not a particularly benevolent or brotherly thing.

Here, however, years after the selling of Joseph, Judah appears in a much better light. Again it is a question of a brother's interest and a father's love and anxiety. Joseph, to test his brethren, had insisted that they must bring down the youngest brother, Benjamin, before they could receive any more food in Egypt; and Jacob, gravely distressed, had finally consented that Benjamin should go. But now a serious thing had arisen. When the brothers had left with full sacks on the return journey, Joseph had arranged to have his steward slip his silver cup and the money pail for the corn in the south of Benjamin's sack.

And then, after the party had gone, he sent his steward after them, to accuse them of the theft of the cup. It was a most damaging situation when the cup was found in Benjamin's sack. Judah immediately made a stirring appeal, but Joseph insisted that the only condition upon which the brothers might return was that Benjamin should remain. It is under these circumstances that Judah makes the plea recorded in our lesson. There is a quality about the plea that speaks well for Judah's character. There is no selfish note from beginning to end. He is thinking of the misery and the stricken condition of his father when he finds that in addition to the loss of his son in former days he has now lost, also, the child of his old age; and Judah's unselfishness rises to the full height when he pleads with Joseph that he may himself remain as a hostage while Benjamin goes on his way.

Our lesson ends with the climax of this plea. It must be read in relation to the story of Joseph as a whole. Both the teacher and the student of these lessons might be warned against seeking to deal with any one lesson by itself. If one will take the trouble to read the chapters in which the story of Joseph is told as a whole, one will realize the essential unity of the story and the dramatic power with which the master writer who told it has developed to the full the factors of contrast and climax.

In this incident of Benjamin's cup, and in the plea of Judah, we are coming nearer the strategic preparation for the highest point of the story in Joseph's revelation of himself to his brethren.

On Texas Farms

Control of intestinal worms of poultry and of coccidiosis in chicks has become almost universal on Texas farms as a result of thousands of demonstrations, the extension poultry husbandman believes. He bases it on reports from county farm and home demonstration agents, on common observation, and on the fact that the volume of inquiries on these subjects has steadily decreased for the last five years. "Worms used to cut production 25 per cent or more," he says.

Since December 1st, 384 farm wives in Collin county have been helped in some tangible way such as canning or gardening by the members of 21 home demonstration clubs.

In a Wilbarger county contest 10 home demonstration clubs reported the installation of 85 sanitary pit toilets.

From a garden 300 feet long and 150 feet wide, Ruth Guttery, a 4-H club girl of Jim Wells county sold 318 pounds of cabbage in a recent two-week period, and a bit earlier sold off 1050 tomato plants. Forty-one home demonstration club members in Deaf Smith county recently re-modelled dresses at costs ranging from 5 to 50 cents each. The total estimated saving in one month from this sort of work was -121.20. "Terraces had as much to do with our good crops last year as the season, because what water fell did not run off but benefited the crops," says E. L. Jones who was helped by the Kaufman county agent to terrace a 95-acre field last year. The year before the tract produced only four bales of cotton and very little feed. Last year 22 bales of cotton were gathered, 700 bushels of oats, 300 bushels of corn, and 7 tons of sorghum hay.

Talking About Us

The Weekly Chronicle appreciates very much its loyal friends throughout the county. We receive many complimentary remarks about the paper and are passing a few of the more recent ones on to you. As is our custom we do not give the names of those making statements quoted but should anyone be interested in knowing the identity of anyone we quote we shall be more than glad to give them the name and address upon their application for same.

Eastland man—We like the Chronicle better than any other paper. I notice also that my neighbors read it in preference to other Eastland papers. Eastland should concentrate its patronage in the Chronicle as it is the best paper we have and you have proven time and time again that you know what you are doing and know what we need in the way of a newspaper.

Eastland man—I have been hearing so much about the 100 per cent coverage claimed by certain papers that I began to wonder why we never got one of them at our house. I called in person at the office of one publication and left a request for three times and never received a copy. I found others were not getting it either. I am receiving the Chronicle, however, and it certainly is a good weekly paper.

Eastland woman—I think your paper improves with every issue. It is a paper that the entire family reads.

Eastland man—Last week's issue of the Chronicle was certainly a good one. In fact they are all good. It is really all the newspaper we need in Eastland. I think the readers should help you to put your paper over and as for me I am going to ask the merchants I trade with to patronize the Chronicle.

Eastland man—I have just returned from a trip through the eastern part of the county. I find that the people in that section are readers of the Chronicle. They speak of it as "our paper." Eastland advertiser—Please take out the advertisement I placed in the Chronicle. I have sold out of the item advertised and did it soon after the advertisement appeared.

Eastland merchant—I believe I got as good or better results from the advertisement I ran in the Chronicle than I ever got from an advertisement before in any newspaper, and I shall be glad to give you a letter to that effect if you like.

Flatwoods man—I think most everyone in our community reads the Chronicle. From it we keep well posted on the happenings of the entire county.

Ranger man—We get the Chronicle and get lots of Ranger news out of it as well as the news from other parts of the county. We are especially interested in the county seat news.

Cisco man—For some reason we failed to get our Chronicle last week. Please see that we do not miss it again. It is through it we keep up with the happenings over the county.

Highway Profile Shown In Guides

The 1932 editions of the nationally famous Hobbs Guide reveal to motorists one dimension of the highway that has never been shown before, according to C. T. Lucas, Goodrich tire dealer at Lucas Service Station, local distributor for the new guides which are distributed by The B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company.

"The 25 Hobbs guides, covering the best routes only show a graphic and easily understood picture of every hill and grade and the exact condition of every mile of road surface for over 60,000 miles.

"Revealing the contour or profile of the road is of great interest to most tourists and showing the road surface according to exact specifications and not by guess or opinion is a much needed service never before available.

"Anyone who has driven in a strange city or has suffered from biased or poor information will appreciate the hotel, garage, cafe and camp recommendations made in the Hobbs Guide. Trained research men study every mile of the route and the guide shows just where one can get the most for his money at the price he wants to pay.

"Anyone can easily check up on these guides by calling at our store and examining copies that describe familiar routes," continued Mr. Lucas.

"Also, by referring to Hobbs Guides, a traveler can plan a trip intelligently and determine the exact distance, road condition and approximate expense. Knowing exactly what is ahead, where to stop, where to eat and what to see, will add measurably to any trip."

Everett Ligon Breaks His Arm

Everett Ligon met with an accident Wednesday, June 1, on the ball park, when he was playing with the Eastland football team.

He threw the ball with such force that his right arm broke above the elbow, in the same place in which he sustained a break last fall.

He was taken to Dallas to the Carrol-Driver clinic, where his arm was operated on Friday.

Some day I am going to invent a most useful piece of household furniture; to wit, a bed run and controlled by a thermostat. Now, tell me, isn't that a peach of an idea? Fancy going to sleep some evening covered only by a sheet and then along about two o'clock having a blanket quietly laid over you.

There are times, too, when the bed suddenly becomes too hot and for one reason or another no one feels like kicking the covers off but nevertheless, would be tickled to death to have the covers laid back.

The same thermostat could be set to rock the bed when one is sleepless, or shake the cot at the time one desires to be awakened. I think I'll try to sell the idea to Frank Jones.

Kitty's father worked in a construction camp. The girl had been reared among men and knew how to take care of herself. From a small child she had blossomed into womanhood among the rough and ready set that works on big construction jobs. It appeared as though she would continue to exist in the same manner, perhaps marrying one of the engineers or the young doctor who was the first to recognize that Kitty had grown up and was of an age when the attentions of a youth would be pleasing.

It was while the physician was chatting with the girl that four hundred tons of dynamite were exploded in an excavation. This was the largest charge that had been used, and, except for the loss of one life, it was highly successful. That life that was sacrificed in the cause of modern progress changed the whole course of Kitty's life, for the man was her father.

Kitty reached the side of her parent before he breathed his last. "That's what you get for fooling around with dynamite," he murmured weakly. His breath came in gasps. "I've nothing to leave you, Kitty—except maybe a little advice."

The girl choked back a sob. "Don't talk like that, please, Pop."

"You're going to find this a tough world, Kitty," he continued. "Be tough yourself. Then they can't hurt you. Not if you learn to take them. Go to your Aunt Dot." He seemed to sense the fact that his time was up. He reached forward and grabbed hold of Kitty, drawing her closer to him. The man spoke with increasing difficulty and student read on. "A dirty dig." Again the lad failed to reply. She might just as well have been speaking to an empty chair. "A nasty, filthy, dig," she raised her voice.

The lad caught on. He replied grimly. "Well, you asked for it."

"You don't know what you're thinking about," Kitty retorted.

"Oh, yes I do. I've been watching you. Take it from me, those men wouldn't bother you if you didn't—"

Kitty interrupted him as he hesitated, scarcely knowing whether he should continue. "Go on. I'm used to taking it."

They had glanced up at her and softened a bit. "No. Let's forget about it."

He pretended to resume reading. For an instant Kitty looked at him, frowning. Then she reached out and took the book. "You started something. Finish it."

The youth was annoyed at her attitude. "All right. I will," he was defiant. "Men know when a woman doesn't want to be annoyed."

"I see. And I want to be."

"Yes."

"Then how come you never annoyed me?"

"I don't like to compete with the entire college."

"If I owned this joint, I'd hand you a bust in the nose for that," Kitty was angry and had no intention of letting the student get away with his remarks.

"If I were your brother, instead of just a customer, I'd spank you." He picked up his book as he added coldly and meaningfully. "I'd like to finish the chapter."

Kitty was simmering with rage.

She hesitated an instant. "Excuse me," said Kitty. (posed by Barbara Stanwyck and Regis Toomey) feebleness. "Too many men around here—you're grown up now—don't forget—go to my sister—Dot." His eyes closed and his voice ceased. The workmen lifted old man Lane as Kitty stepped aside. Nobody paid any attention to her as they carried him away.

A few months later, Kitty was waiting on the trade in a campus restaurant in a college town. It was managed by Fred, her Aunt Dot's husband.

"Where's Kitty?" Fred inquired of his wife, who was busy washing dishes. Dot was somewhat of a dudge and made hard work of everything.

"Outside, waiting on customers."

"Sure! Givin' them college boys a treat."

"Ah, Fred! Kit's a good girl. You can't tell me yer slick niece gets all of them tips for waitin'—"

Kitty entered the kitchen at that instant. She resented what she heard. "If you ain't fryin' steaks, you got me on the pan." She opened a hamburger sandwich.

"Nothing in here but the paper it came in." She reached over to the pan and put another steak in the sandwich.

"That must be for one of your fellows," Fred sarcastically retorted.

"Your thoughts are like your kitchen—dirty!" she lunged back as she carried the order out to the customer, a studious lad, who was reading a book and paid no attention to her as she deposited the sandwich beside him.

She hesitated an instant. "Excuse me."

"Thanks." The lad never looked up from his book.

"Kitty was somewhat puzzled. He was the first lad that had not tried to date her up."

"Nice day, isn't it?"

The lad looked up from his book for an instant. "No." He immediately resumed his reading as though to dismiss her.

Kitty looked over his shoulder. "What's anatomy?" she asked.

"The study of the human body."

"Hum. In one volume?" She paused, but finding that he was not inclined to answer, she continued. "Your boy friends ain't satisfied to just read about it."

"So I noticed. But you can hardly blame them."

"Why not?"

"What you don't ask for, you don't get."

"Wait a minute," Kitty thought over his remark. Her forehead wrinkled in a frown. "That shape up like a dig." She paused but the "Finish it somewhere else—where they burn incense or something."

The lad arose. "Very well! I don't like this place anyway. You may be hot, but the coffee's cold." He dropped a coin on the table. Kitty picked it up as the boy left and furiously flung it after him. "Pinhead! Nitwit! Skunk!" Then she glanced over and discovered that the youth had forgotten his hat. She picked it up and followed the boy out the door. "Hey! you forgot your hat." He pretended not to hear her. "Hey, stupid! Your hat." She chased after the boy and that started a romance. Dave Livingston was not above the charms of the fair Kitty Lane.

During the days that followed, Dave took Kitty out in his roadster. She no longer joked and fooled with the other boys. The lad confided to her. "I was peeved. I didn't like to see all those fellows pawing you."

"So you took it out on me?"

"I suppose I did. I'm sorry."

They drove into town—back to the restaurant where Kitty worked. A large limousine followed them part way. In it were David's mother and Judge Forbes.

"I tell you, Judge, I tell you I am sure something terrible must have happened to David. I know it," Mrs. Livingston was upset.

"Why? Just because he didn't go to the doctor with you?" The Judge smiled.

"It's the first time he's ever disappointed me. I'm worried." She was a woman who was inclined to be sorry for herself. "And I have to be so careful with my heart acting the way it is." Her hand went to her heart. "Last night it throbbed violently for hours at a time."

"Oh, stop it. Helen! You know there's nothing the matter with you."

She flashed a hurt, offended look at him. "All right then. There's nothing the matter with me." Mrs. Livingston looked off. She espied the roadster containing Dave and Kitty. "Oh, my gosh! Look! Judge Forbes had seen."

Dave pulled his roadster up at the curb. "Here you are. Safe and sweet."

"A red letter day for Kitty Lane. Didn't have to walk an inch." She smiled.

Dave was about to reply when a feminine voice exclaimed "David!" He glanced in the direction from which it came and beheld the horrified face of his mother eyeing the girl intently.

Red Cross Flour Arrives at Cisco

The American Red Cross, Eastland county chapter, has through J. E. Spencer, chairman, notified Dr. H. B. Tanner, secretary of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce, that there will be another car of flour for distribution, and requests that the amount allowable in Eastland be sent for.

The seven towns of the county, up to June 1, have had 1,216 families provided for.

These localities include Ranger, Eastland, Cisco, Rising Star, Gorman, Carbon, and Desdemona. The allotment apportioned at this time completes Eastland county's allowable for three months period.

Dr. Tanner states he is having this flour hauled by truck, and stored by merchants, without cost. There will be 100 sacks of 24 1/2 pounds, 50 sacks of 49 pounds of flour, amounting to 9,800 pounds.

S. S. Brawner and Tom Lovelace are each sending a truck and driver to Cisco, to unload this allotment, and haul it to Eastland, and I. Wolf has consented to store in his place of business, and deliver on orders from Chamber of Commerce, all free of expense.

D. J. Jobe, who underwent an operation about two weeks ago is reported doing fine and will be able to return from the hospital about Monday.

SON OF TEXAS PIONEERS, HIS MOTHER TAUGHT HIM TO READ.

STUDIED LAW WHILE COWBOY

Congress' Chief Still Prefers Simple Life

WASHINGTON.—For the first time in many years, a man from the south has been taken seriously as a presidential possibility.

Speaker John N. Garner, a forceful and able, plain but shrewd son of the Texas prairies, is battling at the political axiom which says that neither major party will nominate a southerner.

He's a remarkable man and remains a powerful personality despite whatever prestige he has lost since the House refused to accept his leadership on the tax and economy bills. He would make a more colorful candidate and might prove more popular than any other candidate the Democrats are likely to choose.

As president he would carry a greater degree of warm personal appeal to masses of people than any White House occupant since the time of Theodore Roosevelt.

Thirty years in Congress have wrought no outer change in this horny-handed, homespun, frontiers-type fighter who came here from the cow town of Uvalde, Texas, with a brief background of law practice and legislative experience but with the aroma of cattle herds still fresh in his clothes.

He has developed into a master politician, a keen and resourceful leader who at least falls no shorter of the idealistic conceptions of statesmanship than do most other men who attain large political power.

UNSPOILED BY WASHINGTON SOCIETY, THE GARNERS LIVE SIMPLY IN A SMALL HOTEL SUITE.

Here's a striking new sketch of Speaker John N. Garner, with illustrations of phases in his colorful career.

Once he played shortstop on a baseball team and in his middle twenties was briefly a county judge.

In the Texas legislature he introduced his famous bill providing for division of Texas into five states as permitted by law, but produced few other bills. During two terms he specialized on state finance and taxation. He helped put over a congressional redistricting which involved his own county and in 1902 ran successfully for Congress, aided by his wife, Mrs. Ettie Garner, who is his secretary to this day.

Garner participated in the fights which raged more than 20 years ago against the iron rules of the House and has stood for liberal rules since. Eventually he went on the very powerful Ways and Means committee, which is an arduous assignment and handles such matters as taxation and tariffs.

He has introduced few bills, believing that there are too many laws anyway and picking up many friends by his willingness to let others take the credit for sponsorship of legislation.

band by a few minutes, and lunches in her own office over a coffee percolator.

Along with her secretarial duties, which have increased enormously since Jack became speaker, she watches the health of Jack Garner and the other boys in the office.

They have one son, Tully, who is married and lives in Uvalde.

Elwood Hardie and Edgar Leo Chesley, who attended school in Lubbock, are with their mother, Mrs. E. A. Jones and will leave the last of June to join South Plains Council Troop No. 7 at Post.

But he has remained unspoiled. The influences of Washington society have touched him no more than other so-called temptations that beset a member of Congress. His rough-and-ready speech, his plain and often wrinkled clothes, his simple habits of life have never altered.

No one ever saw Jack Garner wearing a high hat, in the slang sense, or putting on any dog. The acquired pomposity of the self-alleged statesman is utterly lacking in him. He is as democratic a public official as I have ever met and mixes with his fundamental conservatism a human, honest sympathy for that well known character known variously as the common man, the forgotten man and the under-dog. He is kind and friendly, despite a hot temper which he has never bothered to subdue.

He is 63 years old now, white-haired, red-faced, blue-eyed, shaggy browsed, beak-nosed and hard-bitten. His height is about medium. Usually he radiates zest and humor, along with other qualities which integrate his gift for making friends and his skill in handling people.

You think, when you meet Garner, that you're going to get a square deal from him. And you always do. But if you play against him at poker you're likely to lose your shirt.

Garner is a man of crisp, direct speech, which off the rostrum is likely to be embellished with lusty profanity. His language is picturesque and expressive, especially when it comes blurted out in the direction of the White House. No one could be more plain-spoken or more obviously sincere in what he says.

His decisions are usually quick and they are sound often enough to give him an excellent reputation for clear thinking. You can't credit him with a brilliant intellect or an unusually broad perspective, but his mind is alert and far above average.

He is especially skillful at penetrating bunk, at grasping essentials and making them plain. Although he is contemptuous of political bunk and seldom perpetrates it himself, he is not, however, above lying on the old hokum when it seems like to be effective.

He was born in a log house at a little place called Blossom Prairie in northeastern Texas. His father was a former Confederate soldier and a farmer, who had pioneered into the state and was having a hard time making a living out of the soil.

Jack's early surroundings were strictly agrarian, his opportunities limited. His mother taught him reading and eventually he was getting a good schooling. He was studying law at 18, punching cattle and riding range at the same time. He moved to Uvalde and practiced, became popular, developed a gift of gab and a reputation for being a man of his word.

Texas Wheat Crop Outlook Is Good

FORT WORTH.—An estimated 20,000,000 bushel reduction in the Texas wheat yield this year and the hope for continued higher prices have served to greatly cheer the farm outlook dealers and authorities here believe.

These authorities predict a yield of between 35,000,000 and 40,000,000 bushels, representing a much desired decrease from last year's bumper crop of 60,000,000 bushels. The decrease is due primarily to a February freeze and a sequential dry period in the Panhandle which will reduce the crop in that area to about one-fourth of last year's figure.

This estimate yield is substantially higher than the 31,000,000 bushel estimate of the federal crop bureau for this year. Grain dealers attribute the increase to recent warm weather which was preceded by beneficial rains.

Although the poor crop in the Panhandle will curtail receipts there, it will benefit the North and West Texas and the South Plains areas where the crop is in excellent condition, they said.

The present level of 60 cents a bushel for wheat delivered at the Galveston dock is an enticing figure as compared with last year's 25-cent level when farmers throughout the wheat belt found it more profitable to burn the crop in the field than to harvest it.

Because of the reduced crop it was hoped the price would not sink to last year's levels when the crop begins to move.

The first of the new crop will begin moving into grain terminals within the next fortnight if weather conditions continue favorable, dealers said. They announced the granaries here, the largest south of Kansas City, were prepared to handle the Texas crop as well as parts of the Oklahoma and New Mexico yield.

Fort Worth has a storage capacity of 16,000,000 bushels and normally handles approximately two-thirds of the Texas crop. The amount handled through granaries here this year will depend on comparative prices at grain terminals, dealers believe.

At present, Texas farmers can sell wheat here for 11 cents a bushel more than at Kansas City, they said. This also holds true for

Storm Cellars Are Most Popular For Farm Food Storage

COLLEGE STATION.—The majority of the thousands of 4-H pantries now in process of filling by farm women are located in storage or storm cellars in back yards, reports from home demonstration agents indicate. Spare rooms and unused portions of the houses have been pressed into service in many cases, but because canned stuff, vegetables and cured meat keep better in cooler places the outdoor cellars are more popular. The inconvenience of having to run from kitchen to cellar and back again for food is avoided by many housewives who have built shelves in the kitchen where small supplies are kept ahead for immediate use.

There is a growing tendency to build cellars of concrete, the reports reveal, and some of the newer ones are models for convenience, arrangement and cleanliness. Many are painted white or whitewashed, and some have steps on a gentle incline instead of the steep, sharp ones of older days when cellars were used on rare occasions. A few are reported built into the sides of hills, doing away entirely with steps. In one case the concrete roof of the cellar serves as the floor for a wash house where the family laundry is located.

Trades Pecans For Fruit Trees

RUSK.—Through an exchange of $15 worth of pecans, Mrs. Henry Todd of Central High Community, Cherokee county, secured the first fruit trees and berry vines needed to supply her family with the proper amount of fruit. For the pecans she received 36 fruit trees, 24 ever-bearing strawberry plants, 12 dewberry vines, 6 grape vines and 13 grape cuttings, 1 pecan, 1 butternut, and 1 English walnut.

Golden Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated Here

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Lucian W. Forgason of East Plummer street was celebrated at their handsome home Wednesday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock, when relatives, friends and distant connections were entertained, honoring the 50 honorable years, this delightful couple had traveled life's pathway, hand in hand.

Hetty Bennett, the third cousin of Sam Houston, was born Jan. 8, 1866, in Hartsville, Tenn., and was married in that city in 1882, to Lucian W. Forgason, born Dec. 21, 1861, in the same town.

The young people ran away and were married by Rev. Mrr. Stalker, at the church parsonage of Hartsville.

Mr. and Mrs. Forgason came to Texas in 1885, and to Eastland county in 1888, living on a large farm near Eastland city until 1910, when they moved to Eastland, and built their present lovely home at 200 East Plummer street.

Of their union, six children were born. The daughters were Freaway. The daughters were present at the golden wedding celebration, and are Mrs. Paul Durand and Mrs. Joe Limroth of Fort Worth.

No grandchildren have blessed the Forgasons. Mrs. Frank Judkins of this city, a cousin, was represented at the reception by her husband, Frank Judkins.

Guests were received by the two daughters and Re. Henry Littleton, Hamlin, pastor of the Baptist church of that city. J. C. Littleton of Abilene, an old friend and former neighbor of the Forgasons, was present.

Mrs. Henry Littleton presided over a registration table that was adorned with lovely flowers, and was assisted by Mrs. James Graham of Eastland.

The gold and white color motif was carried out in every appointment and decoration, from the profusion of gorgeous flowers to the canopies in the reception, dining room, library and family living room, which were decorated by a professional artist from Fort Worth.

A charming table laid in gold cloth with overlay of lace was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, white iced, and artistically decorated in gold roses, with trailing green leaves. Brick ice cream in gold and white layers, had plate favors of gold candy coins, wrapped in cloth of gold, and tied with tinsel ribbons.

The daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Forgason assisted in the dining room and the handsome table service was presided over by Mrs. Littleton and Mrs. O. J. Cotton of Abilene.

A quaint and unusual program in keeping with the celebration was announced by Rev. J. H. Littleton, as master of ceremonies, who gave the invocation, as Mrs. T. J. Haley softly played "Sweet Hour of Prayer."

Mrs. Haley was at piano for all musical numbers, and the ensemble singing was led by B. M. Collier, opening with a voice solo by Mr. Collier, "I Promise You."

A short talk by Rev. Littleton brought a response from both Mr. and Mrs. Forgason, and Jonathan Jones of this city.

Duets by B. M. Collier and A. E. Herring, giving a reminiscent touch, included: "Silver Threads Among the Gold," "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet," "End of a Perfect Day," and "Golden Bells," the group closing with the tender hymn, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again."

A delightful contest of original motifs, entitled, "Name Two Dozen Articles Not In Use Fifty Years Ago," brought slips of gold colored paper with program pencils, the questionnaires.

Character of queries may be judged by the opening one, "You need no coal, you need no wood, to have a fire both hot and good," to which the answer was, "Gas," another "A whirring sound and off it flies, to sweep the cobwebs from the skies." Answer, "airplane." There were 25 queries in all.

Favors for successful answers were awarded Mrs. Haley, presented a gold plaque of intaglio design, framed in gilt. The second high was awarded Miss Ruby Tindall, presented a quaint old-time match-holder. A. E. Herring was awarded the men's favor, an electric gold washed cigar lighter.

Mr. and Mrs. Forgason were presented many beautiful gifts among them several five dollar gold pieces, a pair of gold wall vases, a reading lamp, with yellow porcelain shade; two dollar and one-half gold pieces, several silver dishes lined with gold, linens embroidered in yellow, a cake, iced in gold, a gold lined card tray, from Judge and Mrs. J. E. Hickman, a safety razor in gold for Mr. Forgason, and a handsome gold pin for Mrs. Forgason.

This golden wedding celebration was most artistically and beautifully carried out. Soft lights over the house were shaded in color motif.

Mr. and Mrs. Forgason are members of the Methodist church of Eastland, and regular attendants at all services. They retired from all business connections several years ago, and are enjoying their home, children, friends and church.

Among those present: Mmes. Steele, Sam Day, Maggie Dulin, Clyde Garrett, Frank Castleberry, E. E. Pettit, James Graham, Josie Snyder, B. E. Roberson, E. W. Parsons, Guy Sherrill, T. J. Haley, Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Cotton of Abilene, Rev. and Mrs. J. H. Littleton of Hamlin, J. C. Littleton, aged 80, of Abilene, Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Jones, Mr. and Mrs. S. F. Dunham, Mrs. C. M. Elks Honor Dr. Logsdon at Meet

Friday night's meeting at the Elks club was designated as "Dr. Harry A. Logsdon night" in honor of his successful year as president of the Texas Elks State association which just closed at the state meeting at Laredo. Many prominent out-of-town and local Elks gathered to show their love and respect to our outstanding past president.

Among the visitors that have been honored by their own lodges as well as Texas West district were B. S. Huey of Cisco and N. J. Nanny of Breckenridge, both past district deputy grand exalted rulers. J. A. Bearman of Cisco and Earl N. Francis of Eastland, both past exalted rulers; E. J. Keough of Cisco, E. Hinrichs of Breckenridge and J. B. The meeting was presided over by Exalted Ruler W. A. Leith, who in a few well chosen words thanked all Elks for being present on this occasion and that this meeting will long be remembered by all. Past President Logsdon gave a resume of his official report to the Texas Elks State association which was unanimously accepted at the convention. He referred to the seven recommendations made in this report which were all accepted, and some of them will no doubt become national future. J. B. Heister, past state secretary of the Texas Elks State association, followed with a report of the proceedings of the business session at the convention. Many good addresses were made by the visiting and local Elks, but the feature addresses were those of B. S. Huey of Cisco, E. Hinrichs of Breckenridge, N. J. Nanny of Breckenridge and L. H. Flewollen of Ranger. All spoke in glowing terms of the great good that the Order of Elks are doing over the nation and especially did they commend the administration of the Texas Elks State association for the good it has accomplished in the past year under the guidance of President Logsdon and the co-operation of the association officers.

deputy tax collector and served in that capacity for nearly two years. I received my education in the public schools of Comanche county and was born and reared on a farm.

I have served in the tax assessor's office as deputy, this, together with other clerical positions, I believe justifies me asking for the office I now seek. I have made a study of the tax situation and taxable values of Eastland county for the past few years and I know something of the duties of tax assessor. I am for the strictest economy in office and for cutting out every expense possible in the operation of the tax assessor's department.

I wish to state to the voters of this county that in my 26 years residence in Eastland county that I have never held or asked for office before, and believe that these things should be passed around, where qualifications and efficiency are equal.

I am anxious to serve the people in the capacity which I now seek and ask that you give me careful consideration before you cast your vote. My record as an individual and my qualifications are open for your investigation and I will certainly appreciate every voter in the county satisfying themselves as to these.

In my work as deputy tax collector I find that there are thousands of dollars worth of property on the unrendered roll, just as there are in other counties, and if elected as your tax assessor I will put forth every effort to find out the rightful owners of these properties and get them on the rendered list and in shape that the county may realize the taxes that they are justly due from the owners.

In asking for the office of tax assessor of Eastland county I am not making any wild promises that it will be impossible for me to fulfill. I only promise you a sane and business like administration and to conduct the office with the strictest economy and the biggest saving possible to the taxpayers.

If you believe in promoting a man that has been faithful to his trust in the discharge of his duties as deputy I will certainly appreciate your support in the coming election.

I intend to make an effort to see every voter in the county before the election in July, and if for any reason I fail to see you personally, please take this as a personal message and an earnest solicitation for your vote and influence.

actions of the different suspects that the police investigators become too confused to use logic. For instance, after working for days on clues to the murder of Frank Daniels, the police are baffled by the appearance of a man, suffering from temporary amnesia, who has a "queer" feeling that he knows where a murder has been committed.

The cast of "Strangers of the Evening" includes Zasu Pitts, Eugene Pallette, Lucien Littlefield, Tully Marshall, Miriam Seegar, Theodor von Eltz, Warner Richmond, Harold Waldridge and many other well known names. It was directed by H. Bruce Humberstone.
