

Criticisms On Gas Rate Hearing Answered Here

On Tuesday, June 14, it was my pleasure to be in the city of Eastland to hold a hearing on the case of the Southwest Gas Company versus the City of De Leon, and while here I find considerable criticisms of the Railroad Commission in its handling of the gas rate situation as between the Community Natural Gas Company and the City of Eastland.

An ordinance reducing the rates for natural gas and natural gas services in the City of Eastland was passed in the fall of 1931. The gas company went to the Federal Court and enjoined the enforcement of this ordinance, and in addition enjoined the City Council from interfering with the company in fixing a higher or different rate than the rate then in effect.

On March 19, the day following the filing of this application, I wrote a letter to the Mayor of Eastland, asking him to get in touch with the representatives of the Community Natural Gas Company and agree upon an approximate date when this case might be heard.

On or about May 6th, there was filed with the Railroad Commission an agreement between the City of Eastland and the Community Natural Gas Company to postpone the hearing in this case until after the appraisal of the Lone Star Gas Company's properties had been completed and the city gate rate fixed.

In this agreement it was provided that in case either the city or the gas company should desire a hearing before the city gate rate was fixed that by giving 30 days notice the agreement would be no longer binding with the Railroad Commission, the Eastland case has stood on the docket of the Commission subject to be set upon the request of either party interested.

I might state in this connection however that every town on the system of the Lone Star Gas Company that has passed an ordinance reducing the rate has pursued the same course before the Railroad Commission that the City Council of Eastland has followed, that is, that in each and every case the city has asked that the hearing be postponed until after the city gate rate had been fixed for the reason that it is the opinion of most people who are informed on the question of gas rates that if the rates are too high they are made so by reason of the rates charged the distributing company for gas at the city gate.

The Railroad Commission has spent $45,500 in making an appraisal of the Lone Star Gas Company's properties and an audit of its accounts in order to determine whether or not the city gate rate being charged it's subsidiary corporations is excessive. That appraisal and audit has been completed and the case has been set for July 11th. The cities will benefit by this expenditure on the part of the Commission and all the information is available to the cities on the Lone Star's lines.

I have entered into this statement at length so that the public may have the facts surrounding this case, and I feel that it is fair alike to the Railroad Commission and to the City Commission that the public may have the full history of the case and all the pertinent facts in connection therewith.

Respectfully,
LATEN STANBERRY,
Director Gas Utilities Division,
Railroad Commission.

Two Liquor Raids Made In Ranger

Chief Police Jim Ingram and Deputy Sheriff John Barnes, Ranger, raided the home of Shorty Derrington, Lakeside, Ranger, and confiscated a half-gallon jug of whiskey and about 100 gallons of beer.

Derrington was turned over to county officers and made bond. Jack Roach made a raid on a house in negro quarters, alleged to be owned by "Black Cat" negro. One negro woman, Lola Harris, was arrested on vagrancy charges and fined $15.70. A quantity of beer was found in the house, the officer said.

Bonus Army May Pass This Way

D. S. Collins, chief special agent of the Texas & Pacific railroad, has wired all agents along the road and police chiefs in Eastland, Ranger, Cisco, Abilene and Sweetwater to the effect that a bonus army of between 1,200 and 1,600 was expected to pass through this section the latter part of this week.

The army, according to the wire from Collins, is moving from California toward Washington, D. C., in cars and trucks and should reach this section of the country sometime this week.

The telegram does not state on what day or what time of day the marchers are expected in Ranger or the number of cars and trucks in the motorcade.

Cisco District Methodists Are In Meeting Here

Eastland Lions Have Interesting Meeting Tuesday

President W. H. McDonald of the Lions club stated that the club meeting held noon yesterday on roof garden of Connelley, was possibly one of the most interesting of recent weeks, as reports of the Lions state convention were brought back by Lion Horace M. Conley, Lion McGlamery, and Lion George Harper.

Each made a pleasing address and gave high lights of the convention not carried by the press. Lion Harper, it is said, reported that very special honor was paid Horace M. Conley, district governor in that he was asked to preside over the convention, after the body was formally opened by Julian C. Hyer, international president, who resides in Fort Worth. There are five district governors in Texas, one for each letter that spells the name of the state.

Mr. Harper said, pronounced honor was paid Mr. Conley, who was the most popular man on the ground, and that the Eastland Lions club failed to recognize his importance in Lion work and the honor due his position.

Guests of the club were Carl Johnson and Houghton of Fort Worth. The luncheon plate of broiled steak, potatoes, Englished peas and salad, was topped off with ice cream, furnished by the Eastland Dairy Products company.

4-H Encampment Was Big Success

Eastland city park echoed with the laughter and song of 156 club members and 38 visitors who spent Friday and Saturday in the programmed hours, occupations and amusements arranged by county home demonstration agent, Miss Ruth Ramey, J. C. Patterson, ment, assisted by J. C. Patterson, county agent; Guy M. Quirl, executive director of the Comanche Trail Council; Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins, Boy Scout executive.

Friday, group organizations in head, heart, hand and health, were formed with an equal number in each group. Contests and other entertainments were exciting features and as each winning group received a point for success in a contest, points were scored on a huge blackboard.

Cheers and groans expressed the sentiments of the various groups. At the end of the encampment Saturday, a prize was awarded the winning group, and each member participated in the award. The election of officers of the groups, an engrossing feature, resulted as follows: Head—Captain, J. B. Blackwell, Alameda club; lieutenant, Mary Spurlen, County club; song leader, Olene Brazzil, Okra club. Heart—captain, A. C. Poe, adult leader, Pleasant Hill club; lieutenant, Bonnie Maye Harrelson, Romney club; song leader, Maudene Brazzil, Okra club. Hand—captain, Eve Tucker, Alameda club; lieutenant, Herman Dunlap, County club; song leader, Willie Mae Lockhart, Pleasant Hill club. Health—Captain, Lucille Sheridan, Pleasant Hill Club; lieutenant, Jeffalee Burns, Okra club; song leader, Catherine Webb, Romney club.

In the competition in a succession of relay races, circle game, tug-o-war, hog-calling and barnyard medley, communities represented included, Flatwood, Alameda, Cheney, Colony, Scranton, Romney, Okra, Pleasant Hill, Union and Grandview.

One cannot imagine the imitations of barnyard fowl, or the variety of weird sounds, in the hog-calling contest. Imagination could never picture the reality. Community singing, when the ensemble of 190 voices rang out on the evening air, was something thrilling to hear. Song leaders and circle game directors were Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins and Carl Harber of Flatwoods.

A clever play was presented on an improvised stage in the evening, and the title of play, "A Model Club Meeting," showed the meaning of 4-H Club work, through the eight characters presented, and were, "President," Carl Harber of Flatwood; "secretary," Jeffalee Burns of Okra; "farm child," R. L. Tucker of Pleasant Hill; "Clover Leaf," Juanita Claibourn of Okra.

These characters were cleverly impersonated. The four points were, the head, played by Roy Bennett of Flatwood; the heart by Eva Tucker of Alameda; the hand, by Almus Melton of Alameda, and health, by Mildred Love of Alameda.

These developed in the huge four leaf clover (the club emblem) by placing a letter in each petal of blossom, an immense

Lotief to Speak at Carbon-Gorman

The following letter has been received from Cecil Lotief of Cross Plains, candidate for Representative, 107th district:

Dear Editor: Please announce in your paper that I will speak at Gorman next Saturday, June 18, at 4 p. m. on the street. I also will speak at Carbon on same day at 2:30 P. M. I want all the tax payers and voters to hear me tell how their money has been wasted down at Austin.

Garrett Cancels Speaking Dates

Some 10 days ago my speaking dates were published in which I invited my opponents to be present and agreed to divide time. Mr. Bryant declined to accept my invitation and proceeded to make and publish speaking date for himself and did not see fit to invite and agree to divide time with me and upon being asked if he would do so declined, therefore, I desire to cancel all speaking dates heretofore made and published.

I will, therefore, appear before the voters and discuss the issues of the campaign on the dates and at the places shown in the itinerary of all the county and district candidates which appears in this issue of the paper.

McCarty Winner Over Competition

Milburn McCarty Jr., of Eastland, a freshman at Dartmouth college, Hanover, N. H., has just won a place on the editorial board of The Dartmouth, the oldest college paper in the United States.

McCarty had to put in seven or eight hours hard work each day in the six weeks of competition, which was based on the number of stories, and editorials, submitted which were accepted.

Boy Scout Camp Is Dismantled

Guy N. Quirl, Comanche Trail Boy Scout executive, and Joseph M. Perkins of Eastland, together with several Boy Scouts from Brownwood, left Monday for Camp Martin, which has been in use the past four years by Scout troops, and will dismantle the camp, and move it a distance of 95 miles from the old location to a site near Richland Springs, where the new camp will be established.

This move locates the camp, not only nearer Eastland county, but will be in this Boy Scout territory. There are number of streams, and a fine little lake near the new camp site, which is considered a very desirable location.

Organization of Demonstration Clubs Goes On

Miss Ruth Ramey, home demonstration agent of Eastland county, has helped in forming four new demonstration clubs in the county in the past few weeks, the latest to be organized being the Miller Home Demonstration club, formed by the ladies of Miller addition, Eastland. One of the first things to be worked out by this club will be canning of vegetables, fruits and meats.

Other clubs formed in the past few weeks are at Oigen, New Hope and Morton Valley. The Miller club will meet each second and fourth Tuesdays. It had 15 charter members at the first meeting, and several new members are expected to join in the near future.

Eastland Rotary Club Entertained Guests Monday

The Rotary club registered an attendance of 19 members at their noon luncheon Monday, on roof garden of Connelley hotel, and the following visitors, C. E. May of Ranger, Carl Angstadt of Eastland and McCurdy of Tulsa, who is connected with the Jarecki Supply company.

Dr. W. E. Chaney, president, presented J. E. Lewis in a classification talk on electricity and distribution of power, a very engrossing talk.

A classification talk on dentistry was interestingly given by Dr. Chaney. Mrs. Deck served an appetizing luncheon plate to new members, W. P. Palm, principal Eastland High school; Carl Johnson, representing Economy Dry Goods Store; Arl Williams, the Beaty Drug company, and F. O. Hunter, the Eastland Lumber company, and the Rotarians.

A. F. Taylor and Family Attend Brooker Funeral

Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Taylor and family returned home Saturday night from Fort Worth, where they attended services for Mrs. Taylor's uncle, Joseph M. Brooker, aged 80, a wealthy realtor and property owner, who died from injuries sustained in an automobile accident, and whose funeral was held Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, with Rev. J. Frank Norris, officiating, and burial in East Oakwood cemetery.

Mr. Brooker had lived in Fort Worth since 1900, and had been in Texas since he was 17 years old. He was born in Blacksville, S. C.

He lived with his sister, Miss Alice Brooker, for the past five years, on a 200-acre farm, three miles from Fort Worth.

He is survived by two brothers, two sisters, 12 nephews, all of them Weatherbys, save three nephews named Scott, and two nephews named Brooker. The three nieces surviving are Mrs. Robinet of Worth, Mrs. A. F. Taylor, Eastland, and Mrs. Vernon Stegall of Franklin. His six Weatherby nephews were active pallbearers. A long list of prominent men of Fort Worth were honorary pallbearers.

Mrs. George W. Shearer is visiting her son in Arlington, who is establishing his rabbitry there.

Weaver Hague, who has been in Gladewater the past several months, says there isn't any money there any more, and is returning to Eastland to locate, where he hopes to find some coin, but we wish he would let us in on his discovery.

Some of the bridges have been repaired temporarily and at others will be completed within the next traffic can pass. These bridges detours have been made so that two or three weeks and the work will be finished just as soon as the working crews can get to them.

EASTLAND MEN AS CANDIDATES

The writer was taken to task recently by one of our good citizens of Eastland for what he said was our failure to "boost" Eastland men who are candidates for district or state office.

It may appear to some that we are not doing much to bring our candidates before the people, and what we have done and are doing may not be much, but we are doing what we think is our part and we believe that there is not a candidate in Eastland for a district or state office but what will say that we have done as much or more than could be expected of us.

It is the policy of this paper to "boost" Eastland, Eastland institutions and Eastland people when it deems them worthy of it. We believe that each and every Eastland candidate for district or state office is worthy and well qualified and are more than anxious to help elect them to the positions they seek.

THE CHRONICLE WANTS TO SERVE

It is the purpose of the publisher of this paper to make it a publication of interest to the people of the entire County, hence we cater to county-wide news as we do news that is strictly local. Eastland business institutions cannot live off the trade of home people only, but they must reach out and draw trade from abroad. The Chronicle is the only newspaper in Eastland offering the advertiser this service.

C. V. TERRELL

C. V. Terrell of Wise County, is candidate for re-election on the Railroad Commission.

C. V. Terrell For Ry. Commissioner

C. V. Terrell of Wise County has announced his candidacy for Railroad Commissioner for re-election to his second 6 year term.

Judge Terrell is the present Chairman of the Commission and he places his candidacy in the hands of the people of Texas, confident that his record of public service will deserve and receive their confidence and esteem.

Since entering the office of Railroad Commission Judge Terrell had tried over 15,000 Oil and Gas, Railroad and Bus cases, and of the number only 4 have been reversed. A record that has never been equaled in the United States.

With reference to economy in government, Judge Terrell since becoming Railroad Commission has returned $500,000 of the money allotted to the Railroad Commission into the General Revenue fund of the State Treasury. Last year alone he returned $45,000 from the Bus Division alone, notwithstanding the fact that the duties of the Railroad Commission has increased over 20 times since the Commission was created in 1890.

In addition to this Judge Terrell established the custom of creating half time jobs for deserving young men and women of Texas, who wished for a college education but were financially unable to pay their expenses. This custom is now used in all departments of the State government and thus thousands have received an education they could not otherwise have gotten.

Judge Terrell has given an attentive, diligent and honest service to the people of his state. He has endeavored to be fair and just in the administration of his duties and on the basis of such a record he earnestly solicits the confidence of the people again, reflected by their vote in the Democratic Primary on July 23.

Jones Inquires About Blanton's Pay to Clerks

The following communication has been received by the Weekly Chronicle from the office of Congressman Thos. L. Blanton in Washington and is self-explanatory: "(True copies)"

Disbursing Clerk (Informs Joe Jones, Eastland, Texas, June 3, 1932, 4:08 p. m.)

Disbursing Officer, House of Representatives, Capitol.

Please wire me collect the names and amounts paid to Clerks of Congressman Thos. L. Blanton.

JOE JONES.

(Telegram) Washington, D.C. June 4, 1932

Joe Jones, Eastland, Texas.

Replying your telegram requesting that I wire you collect disposition of Congressman Blanton's clerical allowance, will state that law increasing clerical allowance an additional thousand dollars was passed during Congressman R. Q. Lee's incumbency June 1, 1929, shortly after he succeeded Blanton, and provided that only two clerks could be enrolled, to whom entire allowance must be paid, and Mr. Lee enrolled Miss Black of Washington at Two Thousand, Four Hundred Dollars, and Mr. Killough at Two Thousand, Six Hundred Dollars annually. Because Congressman Blanton is very active here, and makes many investigations of departments, and no two persons could perform the tremendous work of his office, he employs three capable clerks for the allowance, and enrolled his daughter merely for the purpose of distributing the allowance, and he uses his daughter's check each month in paying his three employees none of whom are related to him. Mrs. Louise Kennedy Marx is enrolled as one of his Clerks at two thousand annually, with which she helps to support her aged mother and father in Abilene. I deem her one of the most efficient secretaries in Washington. He pays one of his other Clerks, Miss Ruby Saylor, eighteen hundred annually, with which she helps to support her widowed mother and two sisters in Abilene. His third employee has used salary to save farm of parents from being foreclosed by keeping up mortgage payments on same. I don't know of any member here who works harder than does Congressman Blanton, or who gets more of value with his allowance for the Government and people.

SOUTH TRIMBLE, Clerk, House of Representatives.

W. H. Hawkins of Stephenville, was a visitor in our office Wednesday, while in this city in the interest of his candidacy for Congressman-at-large, Group No. 2. Mr. Hawkins is nearing the 5000 mile notch of his tour through Texas, and says he has met with a fine degree of encouragement all along the various routes.

Mr. Hawkins' main platform text is this: "Unless the Farmers Make Money, We Are All Losers," and he declares that if sent to Washington he will support no measure which in his judgement would interfere with remunerative farming, but will favor every measure he thinks would prove helpful thereto. He believes all voters, no matter what their avocation in life should be vitally interested in the success of a program like that, and has found that most of them do favor it.

Mr. Hawkins was for many years owner and editor of the Stephenville Empire, and it was at the solicitation of many of his former friends who had long read after him that he decided to become a candidate for the first time in life. He is a native Texan and has resided in Stephenville forty-one years.

Mr. Hawkins says he is and has ever been opposed to the booze traffic and all his votes on the liquor question have been so cast. Yet, if elected to the position he seeks, he will regard himself as one of three congressmen chosen by all Texas, and as such he intends to do the will of the majority of the sovereign voters of this state, as he understands it.

He is against nepotism; against the cancellation of war debts due this country; favors reduction of all salaries from $3600 up, and will do all in his power to see that there are more jobs for the jobless.

R. F. Higgs, Stephenville, was elected vice president. Sam Harbin, Richardson, was elected secretary for the 25th consecutive year. B. F. Harigel, LaGrange, was re-elected treasurer.

Patrolman Jim Daniels, 43, on Homer street, Ranger between Cypress and Page streets on the morning of Feb. 8, 1925. The pistol is thought by police to be the one with which Daniels was slain.

Old Rusty Pistol May Furnish a Clue to Killing

Finding of a rusted .32 calibre automatic pistol by J. H. Goodrum, recalled the shooting of

The gun was found about a block from where the shooting occurred, having been washed up by the heavy rains. The gun had apparently been buried for several years as it was so rusted that none of the parts could be moved and the magazine could not be removed to see if there were shells in the gun.

Jim Daniels was slain on Sunday morning, Feb. 8, 1925, as he was enroute home from the Ranger police station. He left the police station about 6 o'clock and apparently saw two cars, a Ford touring and a Ford coupe parked on Homer street. Neighbors heard the shooting and saw the two cars, apparently occupied by three men. The touring car was found later in the day and the coupe was found a day or two later, left abandoned in a pasture near Ranger. It had several bullet holes in the body, fired from a .45 calibre pistol, indicating that it was the one used by the slayers.

Daniels was shot twice, once through the heart and once through the left shoulder. He fired five shots at the fleeing men, who were thought to be car thieves. Two men were later arrested and were tried in Stephenville on a charge of venue, but a hung jury resulted, according to reports at the police station this morning.

Buy Tires Now!

Legislation to Bring Increased Tire Cost

Increase of tire prices from 12 to 15 per cent in the next few days was forecast Wednesday by the trade as the result of the House sending the tax bill to conference containing the 2 1/2c per pound tire and the 4c per pound tube items. Material increases in orders from dealers were reported by local distributing houses.

As an example of the possible increase in cost faced by the motorist, the 4.75x19 tire of eighteen pounds and twenty pounds weight according to the plies, will cost 45c and 50c per tire.

WARNING—Tire and tube prices may never again be so low. Do not take a chance on additional rubber taxes advancing tire prices—take advantage of the tremendous savings now possible!

A CORRECTION

In the Kokomo news last week the correspondent was mistaken in the item Mr. and Mrs. Finos Johnson entertained a few special friends with a dance honoring Miss Alta Everton on her twenty-first birthday Saturday night.

It is for the benefit of friends and readers of the Weekly Chronicle that I feel this correction should be made.

On Saturday night, June 4th, Mr. and Mrs. Finos Johnson entertained a group of 32 young people with a party honoring Miss Alta Everton on her eighteenth birthday.

After playing a number of games cake and ice cream was served. There was not any dancing at the birthday party.

(Signed) Alta Everton.

Talking About Us

The Weekly Chronicle appreciates very much its loyal friends throughout the county.

We receive many complimentary remarks about the paper and are passing a few of the more recent ones on to you.

Eastland Business Man: Say, take that rant ad out. They have been running me ragged to buy that car I advertised. I have sold it.

Eastland Merchant: "Your paper is by far the best paper in Eastland. It is not 'on one week and off the next,' but it is a good, interesting paper every week."

Eastland Farmer: Where can I see the "godvil" you advertised in last week's Chronicle?

Eastland woman: Here is an advertisement my husband said put in the Weekly Chronicle. He said he believed almost everyone in Eastland and the County reads the Chronicle and that one or two times would be sufficient to insert it.

Eastland Man: For some reason we have missed a copy or two of the Chronicle at our house and my wife is raising hell. Be sure and get it coming again.

Eastland Man: Do you have an extra copy of last week's paper? We got ours misplaced before we had completed reading it and are lost without the Chronicle.

Eastland Business Man: I think you can depend upon getting most of my advertising. You have a paper that I know the people read.

AN OPEN LETTER

To the Voters of Eastland County:

"Then shall two be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left." (Matthew).

Election Day draws nigh. I am doing my very best to make contact with each of you. I have tried, and am still trying to visit each voter in this County.

I have enjoyed meeting you, and discussing with you our "ups" and "downs." It has been a difficult job, but the gracious reception you have given me fully compensates for the hard task I have undertaken.

I have presented my claims to you in a frank and honest statement without evasion. Many of you have unhesitatingly told me you would vote for me on July 22nd. Because so many of you have done so, I have had the courage to push on, however hot the day, or tired the man. For these promises of loyalty and help, I thank you.

I have not solicited votes in my home town, for the reason I am certain that my friends and neighbors do not require this of me in view of the fact that all of you know me well. The time is now short, and I must be occupied doing work in other parts of the County.

I stated in my original announcement and letter, subsequently mailed, that there was no issue in this campaign, other than the issue of men. I outlined my idea of the kind of man who would be the best qualified to make the most efficient District Judge. All of you with whom I have had the pleasure of talking have agreed that my conception is correct.

I have told you that if elected I would be fair, careful and economical, and cut all the red tape that could be cut, and energetically push the trial of all cases in my court. This is not an ill promise.

Be in mind that "pedigrees," "old acquaintances," "long residence," and "former associations" do not qualify a man for the office of District Judge.

In making your final decision, not only should you consider the fact that all aspirants for this office are "good men," but there is another element that should be the deciding factor, and that is, which of the three aspirants is the man of decision and positive character, who will carry on the business of the 88th District Court with promptness and at a minimum of expense? If I am that man, you should vote for me on July 22nd.

Remember that a man of negative decision and vacillating character cannot be a successful judge, however "good" he may be. Doubtless you are a good man, but I would not be willing to put you in charge of a locomotive to pull my train to Dallas. Why?

Because the fact that you are a "good" man, does not qualify you to be a locomotive engineer.

If elected I shall conduct the court with diligence, dispatch and economy.

Men and women of Eastland County, give me a trial at this job. Help me now, and thereby give me a majority in the first election, and save me the hardship and expense of a run-off primary.

Sincerely yours, J. D. BARKER, Candidate for Judge of the 88th District Court, Eastland County, Texas.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED David Livingston, a college student and son of a doting mother, falls in love with Kitty Lane, waitress in a restaurant. While they are riding in David's roadster, Mrs. Livingston and Judge Forbes drive up. David is startled to hear his mother call to him.

"Don't get yourself excited," he said dryly. (Posed by Oscar Apfel and Clara Blawieck) body went limp: "Oh! Oh, my heart!" "I'm terribly sorry, Mother, I shouldn't have spoken like that." She spoke as though with an effort. "Oh, David! You mustn't do these things to me. You know how sick I am!"

"Forbes nodded. "You're right. But what can we do? She really should have some one who understands her. As a matter of fact, I thought of going myself, but I don't see how I can. I have a case coming up in the Supreme Court next week." He sighed, paused an instant to watch David's reaction, and then continued. "I suppose we'll just have to turn her over to a nurse, and hope for the best."

"I'll take her," David had made up his mind. "I'd better tell Mother. It will make her feel better."

"Forbes smiled as the lad entered his mother's room.

"That evening, David hastened over to the restaurant to see Kitty. Dot and Fred had gone out of town to attend a wedding, so Kitty was keeping house alone.

"I've got tough news for you, Kitty," she looked up with a woman's intuition sensing disaster. The lad continued. "I'm going away. Mother's had a stroke. She's not to go abroad to some specialist. If it wasn't a matter of life and death I'd let her go alone. But I don't see how I can get out of it."

"Why, dear, you won't have to. You mustn't even try."

"Kitty smiled. "You're coming too."

"David did not get the significance of his remark. "Me?" She was bewildered. "How?"

"Marriage. What do you say, Kit?"

"Give me time to catch my breath. A sudden forboding came to her. "Have you told your mother?"

"I told her I was going to marry you. Of course, she doesn't expect anything immediate."

"She doesn't like me," David laughed. "Kitty was thoughtful. "You can't blame her. Maybe if she got to know me better she might not think I was so bad. I wouldn't want to hurt her. If she's that sick, she mustn't do anything that'll be a shock. How long would you be gone, Davey?"

"A few months, I suppose. But get this through your head: I'm not going anywhere without you." "I'd wait, honey, a few years if I had to—all my life."

"It's sweet of you to think about my mother." He remained thoughtful again. "We could elope and keep it a secret. We could tell her when she's better. A sudden thought occurred to him. "Gosh, Kit, I haven't really asked you, have I? I'm just taking it for granted you want to marry me. You do, don't you?"

Weekly Sunday School Lesson

JACOB, THE FATHER

Text: Gen. 46:1-7 and 28-30:47:7.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D., Editor of The Congregationalist. Since the event of the last lesson Joseph has made himself known to his brethren, and he has sent for Jacob, his father, to come down to Egypt.

The joy of discovering that Joseph was alive might easily, through intensity of emotion, have proved fatal to the old man; but once he survived the happy discovery, what quickening of new strength and interest there must have been in him! With what youthful impulse he must have contemplated this journey to Egypt!

But first of all he went to Beersheba to offer sacrifices of praise and thanksgiving, and here at Beersheba he received the assurance that he should go down to Egypt without fear and that from him there would arise a great nation.

So, the record is that Jacob's sons carried him down to Egypt with their wives and their families, in the wagons which Pharaoh had sent for the journey. They took also their cattle and their goods.

It was a new day for Israel—a day, first of all, of fullness and happiness and power in the new environment with a son and brother as a power in the kingdom. But it was a day also of the beginning of far-off events that were to be of privation and suffering, tragedy and almost of despair.

Little did either Jacob or Joseph realize that it was not long before a king would arise who knew not Joseph, and that under this change of dynasty those who had come down to Egypt for largeness of life amid plenty and favor would become an enslaved people, broken and tyrannized over by hard taskmasters. It was well for Jacob and Joseph and for Joseph's brethren, that a vision of the future was withheld.

We may reflect upon how well it is for all of us that the future is hidden.

As the story stands it ends in the very happiest way, with Jacob's crowning joy of life in the recovery of his lost son, with Joseph's supreme happiness in the triumphant turn of events, and, perhaps the most important factor of all, the salvation of Joseph's brothers who had treated him shamefully and cruelly.

It must have been a trying hour for them, and one in which the very silence of Joseph and his lack of reproach made the pang of conscience all the more intense.

The man who reads this story of Joseph must surely realize that here is one of the greatest achievements in all literature—a story that, apart from its moral and spiritual significance, has never been surpassed as a work of art in the field of short-story writing. For the Bible student, of course, the chief interest is its spiritual significance. It is a lesson, above all, of the power of faith in adversity and the assurance that nothing can destroy character.

Joseph stands as a great example of faithfulness and integrity under the cruel buffetings of misfortune, and likewise under the tests of prosperity which have often been fatal to men who could stand the buffetings.

Both in the temptations to succumb to trial, or to become spoiled by success, we may well learn the way of uprightness and integrity by studying the story of Joseph.

TEXAS FACTS

(Editor's Note: Included on the staff of The Crescent, published by the English Speaking Society of the Kwansai Gakuin College, Kobe, Japan, are two Texans, Joe J. Mickle, Jr., and his boyhood chum and life-long friend, Dr. Sam M. Hilburn. Among the many splendid articles in the Crescent, a copy of which reached us through the courtesy of Mr. and Mrs. Joe J. Mickle Sr. of Eastland, is the following by Dr. Hilburn.)

Being a native Texan, bragging on the Lone Star State is my natural avocation. So when it was suggested that I write something about my State, I jumped at the opportunity with as much alacrity as a Californian would have done under similar circumstances. Some day I hope to be able to give to the readers of this magazine a taste of the romance of this great State, but at this writing I shall have to content myself with the mere listing of a few of the interesting facts about it.

First, the name itself, "Texas," originally pronounced "Te-has," is a word of Indian origin, and carries the meaning of "Friends." I suppose, therefore, that it would not be amiss to refer to the groups of Indians who once roamed the plains of Texas as the original "Friend-sha."

This "friendly" state is conspicuous for its expanse. A glance at the map of the Western Hemisphere reveals the fact that Texas occupies all of the continent of North America except a small portion set aside for the United States, Canada and Mexico. Some realization of its immensity may be gained from a consideration of the fact that it is farther from El Paso, on the western border of the State, to Texarkana, in the extreme east, than it is from Chicago to New York! Then, everything in Texas is in keeping with its extent, including the hearts and the homes of its citizens, there are Texas landlords who have whole mountain ranges on their ranches; one man has forty miles of navigable river on his farm. In fact, if your front gate is not at least eighteen miles from your front door, you cannot be said to belong to society as it is constituted in Texas!

As further evidence of the spaciousness of this choice bit of "God's Country," it has been computed that if all the people of the United States were to remove to Texas, it would still be no more densely populated than is the state of Massachusetts. More unbelievable still is the statement that Texas has enough land to supply every man, woman and child in the world with a tract 20 x 200 feet, and have enough left over for all the armies of the world to march around five abreast.

How far downward Texas extends is not known yet, but it is a fact that we have been down over 8,000 feet for oil; and up in the air, Guadalupe Peak rises to a height of 9,500 feet, thus forming the highest hill in the United States east of the Rockies.

The climate of Texas is so healthful that some cities have never built cemeteries at all. I am sure everybody is familiar with the story of the famous horned frog, which appeared in print a year or so ago. This little native Texan had the experience of being sealed in the cornerstone of a building in the city of Eastland, Texas, without food, air or water; at the end of thirty years the corner stone was broken open and the frog was found to be alive. That ought to give even a boastful Californian food for thought.

To barely mention some of the products of the state of Texas would require many pages. Suffice it to say that to transport the corn crop alone would require a train of freight cars longer than the distance from New York to San Francisco. It is believed that if all the cotton grown in one year in Texas were baled and built into a stairway, it would reach to the Pearly Gates. And if all the cattle in Texas should be converted into one big steer, he could stand with his front feet in the Gulf of Mexico and his hind feet in Hudson's Bay, and with his horns punch holes in the moon, while brushing with his tail the mists off the Aurora Borealis.

Candidates Form Campaign Rules

Candidates for the various county and district offices met in the 88th district courtroom, Eastland, at 2 o'clock Friday evening for the purpose of discussing arrangements of speaking dates over the county for the various offices.

Judge Clyde Garrett stated that although he had made and published his speaking dates over the county before any other candidate had done so, that he would gladly cancel same and join all candidates for the various offices in a speaking tour of the county if the candidates present so desired.

It was stressed in the meeting that if arrangements could be worked out whereby as few speaking dates as possible could be held in each voting precinct that it would not only be to the benefit of the voters, since they are going to be very busy in their crops for the next few weeks, but would result in larger attendance at the speakings. It was the unanimous opinion of all present that a plan of this kind could and should be worked out whereupon, upon motion of Judge George L. Davenport the meeting unanimously voted that the body select a committee of seven men, who are not themselves candidates for office, who will be authorized and instructed to prepare speaking itinerary for all district and county candidates, arranging dates and places of speaking and the time each candidate shall be permitted to use in making his or her announcement, it being understood, however, that any candidate who had already made speaking dates for himself which he did not desire to cancel, could feel free to carry out his speaking dates as originally planned.

It was suggested by several present that the committee of seven be named from the floor, either three of whom should constitute a sufficient number to act and who would be requested to meet on Saturday morning in the 91st district courtroom and make their report back to the body which will meet again Monday morning June 13, in one of the courtrooms, at which time all candidates were requested to meet to pass on the report of the committee. The following named persons were selected: R. E. Sikes, R. L. Jones, Earl Bender, L. A. Hightower, H. E. Lawrence, P. L. Parker and Ernest Jones.

The following candidates were present and participated: George L. Davenport, Tom J. Cunningham, Clyde L. Garrett, W. H. McDonald, P. L. Crossley, Turner Collier, Walter Gray, Opal Hunt, W. M. Miller, Will M. Wood, Thomas J. Haley, T. A. Bendy, O.

HELP WANTED

MAN OR WOMAN for Eastland to represent Best Value Hosiery Company. Position offers salary and commission with chance for advancement. Apply Mr. Gold, 5111 Garland Avenue, Dallas, Texas.

F. Chastain, and E. M. Threatt. Several candidates were out of town and could not be present but indicated their desire and willingness to co-operate in any plan agreed upon.

It was the feeling of those present that it would be to the interest of the voters as well as of the candidates that just as far as possible the rules and regulations adopted by the candidates be carried out and in this connection it seemed to be the opinion of all present that it might be well for the candidates to select and carry to each speaking date a chairman who would understand the regulations and would have no hesitancy in limiting each speaker to his allotted time as a local chairman might not like to do.

Eastland People On Committee

P. B. Bittle has just been advised of his appointment as chairman of educational committee for Eastland and surrounding territory, by Dr. J. A. Hill, president of Texas State Teachers association.

Assisting Professor Bittle on this committee will be W. P. Palm, principal of the high school, and Mrs. R. D. Mahon.

The duties of the committee will be to take the facts and needs of the schools to the people of the district and patrons of the schools, and stress the need for their aid and assistance, in order that the schools may be kept open for the full term.

The association keenly feels that education in Texas is facing a crisis, and means should be taken to preserve the integrity of the schools so that the full benefit of the educational system can be placed at the service of the people.

Wedding of Former Eastland Girl Announced

Formal announcement of the wedding of the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Taylor of Eastland, were received by friends of the family this morning from Columbus, O., where the bride recently graduated from the university. Her parents have been in Rochester, N. Y., since December on account of the health of Mrs.

Taylor, who is under a specialist's care and observation.

Mr. Phillips was formerly an Eastland man, with the Sun Oil company. The former Miss Peggy Taylor was a popular girl in Eastland's younger society set. She studied at Ward-Belmont in Nashville, Tenn., before going to Columbia university. Both young people wished the marriage announced until after the bride's graduation from college.

Popular Young People Marry.

Eastland society was greatly interested in the announcement by the parents of the young people, of the marriage of Neal M. Day, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Day, to Miss Helen Jane Angstadt, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Angstadt in Fort Worth, Thursday afternoon, June 9, at 4 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Angstadt and Mr. and Mrs. Day accompanied the young couple whose marriage vows were spoken by Dr. L. D. Anderson, pastor of the First Christian church, Fort Worth, in the ceremony taking place in the church parlor.

The bride graduated from Our Lady of Victory in 1930, and is a most popular member of the younger set. She wore a smart white sports frock, with hat, shoes and accessories to match.

Mr. Day is assisting with the campaign of Joe H. Jones, candidate for Congress. He is a man of wide friendships and very popular.

Popular Breckenridge Girl Becomes Bride of Winneford B. Crossley In Pretty Ring Ceremony At Home.

With June swiftly passing which always holds innumerable weddings, a romance was drawn to a high point of interest to many in Ranger, Eastland and Breckenridge, Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock with the charm of a home wedding exemplified in the marriage of Miss Nell Ethel Curry, attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude A. Curry, of Breckenridge, to Mr. Winneford B. Crossley, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Crossley, of Eastland. The vows were spoken with the Rev. Kenneth Pope, pastor of the First Methodist church officiating for the ring ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, 305 West Third street.

A pretty and colorful archway formed primarily of greenery intermingled and softly dotted with pink roses and shasta daisies discharging lovely tints of pink and yellow effected a span above the double doors between the living and dining rooms, where the couple recited the vows.

Preceding the service Miss Geraldine Dabney, of Eastland, sang "At Dawning" (Chas. Wakefield Cadman) with vibro harp accompaniment by Mrs. J. C. Burkett.

Mrs. Burkett also played on the "Wedding March" from Lorengrin (Wagner) as the couple entered the room. "To a Wild Rose" (McDowell) was softly played throughout the ceremony.

Bride Wears Gray Crepe Model

The bride's blonde beauty was accentuated by the beautiful and decidedly becoming model of gray crepe fashioned in afternoon cut with closely fitted bodice, and flared skirt. Gray slippers and accessories touched with shades of pink offset its smartness. She wore a shoulder corsage of pink roses embedded with baby breath and lacy fern, lending the finishing touch to the ensemble.

Informal Reception.

Immediately following the ceremony an informal reception was held by the bride's parents, the groom's parents and members of the wedding party, composing the list of guests.

The dining table laid with an exquisite lace cloth over pink, was centered with the wedding cake which was served with coffee. Miss Irene Kinchen served cake, while Mrs. Bert F. Ross, of Midland, sister of the bride poured coffee.

Bride Talented Artist.

The young bride, a talented artist has been art instructor at the North Ward school at Breckenridge, also spent two years studying in Rice Institute in Houston and has attended summer sessions at the University of Colorado and North Texas State Teachers college at Denton.

She is quite popular in Breckenridge and surrounding cities and highly favored for her pleasant manners.

The groom, a former Eastland resident but now of Ranger, holding the position as bookkeeper for the Ranger Times and Eastland Telegram, numbers his friends by the score through his pleasing personality and splendid ability as a young business man.

Guests for the impressive occasion numbered: Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Crossley of Eastland, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Crossley of Eastland, and Mrs. Jimmie King of Eastland and Miss Geraldine Dabney, also of Eastland, Mrs. Bert F. Ross of Midland, Mr. and Mrs. Curry, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Burkett, Miss Irene Kinchen, and two young nephews of the groom, Masters Bobby King and Jimmie Crossley.

Mr. and Mrs. Crossley are now at home, Victory avenue. Sincere good wishes for a long pathway filled with health, good luck and prosperity has been expressed through many complimentary functions and lovely wedding gifts.

An absorbingly interesting lesson by Rev. W. H. Muston, the Book of Matthew, was given.

Announcements of points will be made each Sunday for six weeks, when race terminates. There will be poster on display which will also carry announcements.

Dragoo Studio Closed For the Season Tuesday

The annual recitals by the Wilma Drago studios, in violin and piano, closed Tuesday night in the Methodist church auditorium, following a two night presentation of senior and junior students.

The program last night opened with a double number, presented by the massed violin choir, and junior ensemble, their entire listing 35 performers.

Alma Williamson was surprising in her handling of the allegro, from Seitz, concerto. Her violin technique seems to improve with each public appearance.

An outstanding number was the waltz Chromatic Godard, a magnificent violin interpretation by Mrs. Olga Vaughn.

Mary Jane Harrell gave the Mazurka-Mlyrnski, a pleasing piano expression.

Margaret Hart was one of the sensations of the program in the first movement Viotti concerto. Miss Hart has district federation honors to her credit, as has Clara June Kimble, who gave a masterly performance, violin, of Severn's Perpetuum Mobile. Olivette Kilough, the winner in the recent southwestern piano contest, gave a group of piano studies, that showed her easy handling of variations in style and expression. All three compositions were by Heller.

The Barcarole-violin, played by Evelyn Long of Ranger, was enthusiastically received.

The program closed following the presentation of 18 numbers, with two selections, given by the Drago Violin Octette. Every solo number was an individual success. The rostrum and small platform was artistically set with standards of flowers, lighted lamps and lighted tapers.

All members of the Drago Octette were in full evening dress for each night's program. Miss Drago was attractively gowned in rose, with a big black butterfly bow, winging from shoulders to the center of low décolletage in black.

Miss Drago announced scholarships for progression in studies to Jane Ferguson, first place in piano; Mary Ann Murray, second place in piano; Jennie Tolbert, first place in violin; Alice Jones second place. These were presented last night by Miss Drago.

Miss Catherine Carter of Sweetwater, who appeared on Monday nights program, was awarded the out-of-town scholarship, for pupils in violin.

There was a large and receptive audience. Miss Drago will entertain her students and their mothers, on her annual studio picnic party this morning at 10 o'clock.

Texas Woman Tells of Sinking of Titanic In 1912

EL PASO.—Passengers screamed and prayed as the Titanic sank 20 years ago this spring recalls Mrs. A. A. Shamalay of El Paso. She was the first person to leave the doomed liner after it struck the iceberg and began to sink.

"I was asleep when the ship hit the iceberg in the night," she said. "Suddenly there was a loud knock at my door. An officer told me to dress quickly and go up on deck. I was frightened at the tone of his voice."

"Few people had gathered when I reached the deck. Before I could speak, I was placed in a lifeboat. I was the very first person who left the ship."

"As soon as the boat was filled, we were lowered into the water. Later I learned there were 100 of us in that little boat. It was dark and cold. The boat swayed as the water lapping against the Titanic and began to be afraid.

"Quickly we were rowed away from the big ship. There was almost complete silence for nearly four hours. Then the women became panicky and screamed as we heard faint sounds of singing and praying coming from the Titanic out in the dark.

"I dont remember much about:

those long hours. I only know I prayed constantly for those poor people on the Titanic. We can live so many different emotions in so few hours. To be thrown from the heights of joy to the very depths of horror and suffering is an experience that takes years of perfect happiness to forget.

The lifeboat in which Mrs. Shamalay left the sinking liner was picked up early the next morning by the Carpathia first of several steamers to reach the scene of the tragedy in which 1,500 persons lost their lives.

"The next horror came when we docked in New York," said Mrs. Shamalay. "The pier was crowded with hundreds of persons. They were watching the passengers as they left the ship, searching for loved ones not knowing whether they were dead or alive."

Mrs. Shamalay has lived in the United States since that time. She has not taken an ocean voyage since.
