The 23rd Psalm was recited in unison, closing with the Lord's prayer. Mrs. Rawson presented the scripture reading from John X-XI. The program was in charge of Mrs. D. J. Fiensy, chairman, and opened with the hymn, "Tend the Light," followed with prayer by Mrs. Jess Barnett.

Water Runs Over Spillway at Lake

The recent rains and the water coming from the Cisco water shed put the highway on the north and east end at Eastland under several inches of water.

The lowlands were covered and City Manager Marlow stated that the three members of the police department worked nearly all night, from Tuesday night to this morning, patrolling the flooded area, and removing the inhabitants of the negro district to the depot, and the city hall, where beds were provided for them last night.

The water on the highway at the Green Filling Station was 12 inches deep at midnight.

The water is running over the spillway at Lake Eastland but Mr. Marlow reported the dam was holding all right.

Afternoon Study Club Presents a Colorful Pageant

The open house entertainment sponsored by the Thursday Afternoon Study club, the Music club, and the Book club, on Thursday night of last week at the community clubhouse, was a great success.

As guests entered the clubhouse, brightly lighted and adorned with many bouquets of flowers, they were greeted by Alice Mae Sue, Ruth Agnes Harrell, Sarah Mae McLaughlin, Jane Ferguson, Ann Harrell, and Clara June Kimble, "little women," who assisted the presidents of the clubs, Mrs. B. M. Collie, Mrs. E. C. Satterwhite, and Mrs. E. E. Freysehlag, and the library chairman, Mrs. J. R. McLaughlin, in receiving, and other duties throughout the evening.

The free will offering table was presided over by Mrs. J. M. Armstrong, and the librarian, of public library, Miss Cecile Haas.

Ushers were Mrs. James Horton and Mrs. M. C. Hayes of the Thursday club.

The background for the stage glowed with color, in a needlework screen, rich draperies in doorways, and baskets of fall flowers on the grand piano and tables, lighted by tall lamps.

The program was opened informally by Mrs. McLaughlin, whose comments suggested the parents had been invited to see what the children had been hearing and studying through the summer story hours.

A troop of tiny tots, appeared in dainty costumes, and sang "The Eyes of Texas," to the piano accompaniment of Mrs. McLaughlin. The first scene was arranged by the Thursday club meeting, Mrs. James Horton and Mmes. M. C. Hayes, B. M. Collie and F. M. Kenney, who presented Mrs. Leslie Gray in the reading of "The Courtship of Miles Standish," delightfully pantomimed by Donald Hudson, as John Alden; Dan Hightower as Miles Standish, and wee Kathleen Collie as the demure Priscilla.

The colonial dance by Mary Joe Collie, and Billy Allen Kenney, a minuet was a fitting close to the Thursday club offering. Clara June Kimble was piano accompanist for this group.

The book club presented a Mother Goose skit, taken part in by some 12 or 14 children. Mary McCarty as Mother Goose, in bizarre costume with red peaked cap, called on her children, who appeared in costume and rhyme; Little Boy Blue, Donald Hudson; Jack and Jill, Charles Freysehlag and Patsy Seaberry; Tommy Tinker, Jimmie Jarboe; Little Bo Peep, Mary Helen Armstrong; Jack Jump Over the Candlestick, Billie Allen Kenney; Little Jack Horner, Warren Ferguson; Miss Muffett, Katherine Collie, and John the Piper's Son, Virgil Seaberry Jr.

The pageant closed with the song and romp, "London Bridge is Falling Down." Skit was arranged by Mrs. Scott Key, and Miss Dolores Tanner.

The music club, through their chairmen, Mmes. E. C. Satterwhite, and M. J. Pickett, presented a musical act in "The Doll Dance," by Edna Clarke, in smart pointed costume, and peaked hat, with black elbow length cuffs. This was one of the most clever acts of the performance.

The Cannibal Isles, was visited this feature carrying out the stories of adventure the children have heard. Olivette Killough made an impressive King of the Cannibal Isles, in her brief attire of grass skirt, short bodice nose ring and court train, who ushered in her retinue of little savages, Nannette Tanner, as the woolly-haired queen; Edna Clarke, as the Princess; Elizabeth Jones, as the Prince.

Preceding this act little Mary Helen Armstrong, in blue and scarlet garb, of peasant design, presented a clever doll dance. The music club offering concluded with the appearance of Mr. and Mrs. Marionette, impersonated by Mrs. Pickett and Mrs. Hubert Jones in real Punch and Judy costumes, whose mechanical gestures and wooden immobility delighted the audience and the little marionettes; Edna Clarke and Donald Hudson, in clever song and dialogue.

At close of this unique and original program, Mrs. Horton, on behalf of the Thursday club, invited the guests to inspect the library, after they partook of their refreshments.

Scott W. Key made a fine auctioneer and disposed of his cake wares to Virgil Seaberry, Mrs. E. E. Freysehlag, Mrs. Kenney and Mrs. Key.

Delicious refreshments of brick cream and cake were served by several Camp Fire Girls at close of evening, attended by 75 or more guests.

Dorsey McRae of Hope, Ark., had a very delightful visit with his brother, Judge John D. McRae of Eastland, from Sunday to Wednesday. Judge McRae has been confined to his home for quite a while but is slowly improving.

Chairmen for the arrangements were Mrs. King, and Mrs. J. S. Rawson.

Two long tables decorated with roses, held the delicious menu of fried chicken, salads, fruits, and many delectable dishes as well as trays of fruits, pastries and cakes.

Eleven small tables were arranged for four covers each, and at close of the repast, games and conversation filled a delightful evening.

Handsome gifts of two pairs of all-wool blankets, one rose and white, the companion pair in blue and white, were presented Rev. and Mrs. Franklin, in a fine talk by Mr. C. A. Peterson, on behalf of the members of the congregation, the gift givers.

Mr. Peterson stated every individual in the church sincerely appreciated Dr. and Mrs. Franklin, and their faithful services.

Dr. Franklin was pastor of the First Christian church in Eastland the past two years. He filled many offices in organizations in the city, in addition to his pastorate. Dr. Franklin, with his wife and two small sons, Cecil and Clyde, left for his former home in Apache, Okla., the last of the week.

Admission to All Oil Belt Games Reduced to 50c

Football fans of the Oil Belt district will probably rejoice to know that the district executive committee voted to reduce the general admission to the conference games to 50 cents for adults for the 1932 season. The price previously has been 75 cents. It was agreed that a section of reserved seats would be held at 75 cents, but the size of the reserved seat sections is to be left with the officials of the two schools participating in the games and will probably depend upon the drawing power of the two teams and the expressed demand in advance for the reservations.

financial settlement following each game. It was agreed that the respective coaches would furnish the gatekeeper with a list of players eligible to attend the game on a visitor's courtesy pass. For instance, if Eastland were playing Breckenridge, then Coach Curtis of Ranger would furnish the gatekeeper with a list of the 20 players eligible to receive a courtesy pass and these players would be identified at the gate before obtaining admission.

The matter of students tickets and the abuse of student privileges brought forth the decision that student tickets will be on sale at the school only and sold singly. It is thought this will materially reduce the number of those obtaining student tickets although not actually attending school. At the request of Mr. Woodward of Brownwood and over the objection of Coach Shotwell of Breckenridge, the committee authorized a change in schedule. Under the new schedule, Brownwood will play Breckenridge on Oct. 21 at Breckenridge and will play Abilene at Brownwood on Oct. 28. These changes were desired by Brownwood on account of conflicts in the schedules among the college games in Brownwood. Brownwood wanted to play Abilene on the 28th because no college games were being played at Brownwood that week-end and Mr. Woodward said that the financial success of the Brownwood team for the entire season would depend on that one game.

THIS CURIOUS WORLD - A MUSHROOM FOUND IN AUSTRALIA GIVES OFF SUCH A CLEAR LIGHT THAT IT IS POSSIBLE TO READ BY IT AT NIGHT. THE LIGHT given off by certain mushrooms and fungi seems to be a phosphorescent character and is of a greenish color. Several instances have been recorded where birds have brushed against these subjects and carried away particles of the light-giving material on their feathers, giving them a most ghostly appearance after dark. THE FIRST POLICY of life insurance of which there is any trace was issued in London in 1538, insuring the life of William Gubbins.

Business Makes Great Progress In Past 30 Days

AUSTIN.—Further progress has been made during the past month toward establishing a sound basis for business recovery, it was stated by economists of the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. The bond pool formed in June by leading industrialists and financiers gives increasing evidence of having been well timed, a bureau report pointed out, and indications are that the Commodities Finance corporation recently announced for financing the purchase of commodities by industry, will be equally fortunate in the important element of timeliness.

"In neither case, apparently," the report continued, "was an artificial elevation of the price level the primary motive for organizing the pool; but rather the impelling force in both cases seems to have been the conviction that prices of prime securities and of basic commodities were abnormally low, that they were due to rise and that large profits could be obtained through accumulation at this time. The fact that the federal farm board and similar governmental agencies in other countries have invariably failed in attempts to raise the price level of basic commodities, except possibly temporarily, makes it appear all the more unlikely that a group of astute industrial leaders and financiers would attempt artificial price raisheavily in the red. We are trying to change basic psychology by giving equities a violent speculative whirl. We are having an inflation talked up and ballyhooed by interests who pose as the defenders of sound money. We are being led to expect the quick revival of world trade even though the tariff barriers to trade are to remain as high as ever.

"The complexity of the world economic situation which now confronts us is summarized briefly in a statement in the report of the gold delegation of the League of Nations, as follows: 'We hold that the fall in the general level of prices has been the fundamental cause of the present depression and that that fall was the result of the obligation to pay reparations and war debts combined with the unwillingness of the receiving countries to accept payment in goods and services, so the payment had to be made in gold.'

"The report stated that abnormal international gold transfers caused the maldistribution of the monetary gold supply of the world and that this situation will have to be corrected before normal conditions can be restored. International economic problems of unprecedented significance therefore face congress when it meets in December."

Olden

OLDEN, Sept. 8.—This place had an all-day rain Tuesday, no mail Wednesday, so there must be a washout somewhere on the T. & P.

The sick folks are all better.

The Olden fair, which was held the first of September was a success. The committees worked faithfully and as a result every department had a nice exhibit. Dr. Tanner of Eastland said some nice things about it and Mr. Patterson said it was "more like a county fair" than a community fair, all of which we appreciate very much, as it was Olden's first fair.

The Church of Christ will have Bible study on Wednesday night of each week.

Mrs. Will Carlyle of Strawn was a guest of Mrs. Bill Edwards during the fair.

Mrs. Claud Leclair visited her mother, Mrs. Newcum, Monday.

Mrs. V. O. Wyatt entertained the lady members of the Church of Christ and the friends of Mrs. C. J. Leclair Saturday afternoon from two to five. Delightful punch and angel food cake was served to Mrs. Crane, Morton, Lewellen, Renfro, Branscum, Hyatt, Sid Hamilton, V. H. Hamilton, Lewis Owens, Sharratt, Kahr, Allman, Collins; Misses Clara Simer, Nannie Allman, Willie Leclair and the honoree, Mrs. Leclair.

Mrs. Gorman Morton surprised her sister with a birthday party Tuesday afternoon. Several games were played in which Mrs. Brelsford and Mrs. Timmons won the prize. The heavy downpour of rain hindered several, but an enjoyable time was had by those attending. Mrs. Morton served cake and hot chocolate, which was much appreciated in the cool damp afternoon.

Dr. Blair of Hot Springs, N. M., formerly of this place, was looking after his property here and incidentally attended the fair.

School opens Monday, registration Saturday. We have a strong faculty and are expecting a good school.

Colony

COLONY, Sept. 8.—School opened September 5, with a large number present for the chapel exercises.

The fact that the weather was unpleasant did not cause the opening of school to be unpleasant. The teachers of Colony for this year are as follows: L. C. Cooksey, Supt. V. D. Bowers, Miss May Hayes, Mrs. Robinson, Miss Marguerite Cooksey, Mrs. Grubbs, Miss Blanch

Johnson.

The enrollment for this year is certainly large. The high school enrollment is expected to be even larger than last year.

This community was visited by ample rainfall the past week. Crops are very fine.

A number of Colony people attended the rodeo at Morton Valley last Sunday. All of them report a nice time.

Oak Grove

OAK GROVE, Sept. 8.—The light rains reported last week have increased to a heavy downpour, and farm operations have almost ceased. Our late feed crops that we have been bragging about has failed to make grain and will only be good for roughness. Roy McAlister returned last Monday from a visit to West Texas, and from looking out for a new location. Negotiations for a 320-acre tract of land near Plainview were set in motion and if the deal goes through, Roy and his family expect to move there in the near future.

Mrs. M. E. Hazlett is spending the week with friends in Carbon. R. A. McMillan and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Hastings were shopping in the county capitol one day last week.

Cotton growers in this community are becoming alarmed over the amount of damage being done by the cotton pests. The yield per acre will be extremely light unless a change comes that will insure some top crop.

A fine crop of syrup cane has been grown here this season and syrup making was well under way but the continued rains have interfered greatly with its progress this week.

One farmer reports that maize that is not headed is sprouting in the fields. But in spite of the pessimistic notes scattered in these items we are still optimistic.

The humming bird hums round the cypress vine. The Jerseys brouse on the meadow. The optimist knows that the sun will shine. The pessimist's afraid of his shadow.

HOLLYWOOD SPEAKS

with GENEVIEVE TOBIN PAT O'BRIEN Directed by Eddie Buzzell

Novelization by arrangement with COLUMBIA PICTURES

WHAT HAS HAPPENED? Gertie Smith has gone to Hollywood to seek fame and fortune in motion pictures. Her mother, Mrs. Landau, is a discouraged housewife who decides to commit suicide in the lobby of the cinema theatre on an evening following the showing of one of Fredrick Landau's pictures. She is prevented by Jimmy Reed, a musician, who takes an interest in the beautiful girl and attempts to get her a break in the movies. Jimmy arranges for a screen test and Gertie, under the name of Gerta Sada goes to the studio for the test.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY Greta Swan did herself proud in the screen test. Her voice recorded beautifully and her photographic values were superb.

"Thank you for all you have done for me, Mr. Hammond," she said to the director after the test had been completed.

"Oh that's all right. Anything for a friend of Jimmy's. What're you doing tonight? Suppose we have a little cocktail for dinner?"

"Why I— Gertie hesitated. She did not know what she was expected to do.

"That's fine. I tell you what we'll do. I'll get my coat and we'll go over to Joe's. I'll pick you up in your dressing room." With that he hurried away.

Before Gertie got off the set, she was accosted by Carp.

"Oh, Miss Swan, my name is Carp. Have you signed a contract with Mr. Reed yet?"

"No, not exactly."

"That's all I wanted to know. It's a lucky thing that you didn't have a seal." Gertie accepted the offer

"How would you like to get yourself a new manager?" There was something cold and determined about Jimmy's voice.

"Only you, Jimmy please don't say that." She warmed up to him, but the lad pushed her hand off his shoulder. He was tense with anger.

"Now, wait a minute. Let me straighten you out about something. I'm interested in Greta Swan, not Gertie Smith. I started something and I'm going to finish it. For once in my life I want to put something over."

Gertie was frightened. "And you will, too. Nothing will stop you—"

"Only you, Jimmy interrupted. "You're playing the cards all wrong. This is a business, and you're making a racket out of it. The successes of this business work their way; they don't fenagle their way."

"Jimmy, I won't let you talk to me like that. I've done nothing wrong. Nobody in Hollywood can point a finger at me. I see nothing wrong in meeting Mr. Landau and his friends. Why, who knows what might come of it? And you, of all people, to talk to me this way!" He stood unmoved. She paused and then turned. "If you don't believe what I'm telling you, I never want to see you again." She broke down on the last line and rushed into the bedroom. Jimmy remained an instant, looking after her. He was undecided what to do. Through the open door her sobs reached him. That softened him a little, and he went to her.

"Listen, I didn't mean it that way. You ought to know that."

Jimmy sat down on the edge of the bed. She stopped crying and looked up at him. "It just kinda burned me up to see that stooge chasing you around the table. I want you to win out, not sell out." Again she sobbed. "Can't you understand?" he pleaded. "All my life I've worked for money, for small change, peddled paragraphs, made a far out of myself for pennies. It's the first time in my life I've taken over a job for well, the love of it. I'm sorry."

Gertie sat up beside him. "Well, let's forget about it."

"All right."

"Jimmy, will you take me to Landau's party?"

He looked at her in amazement. "Holy mackerel!"

"Oh, Jimmy, please—please, can't you understand? It's just that I want to see them, and I've planned on it for weeks. Jimmy, you will take me, won't you? Aw, please."

"Well, OK. Come on."

She picked up her wrap. Jimmy held it for her to get into, and they started for Landau's.

The pair arrived while the reception was in progress.

"Landau and his crowd are a bunch of ponies," Jimmy declared. "I want you to get in with the real people of Hollywood—the Harold Lloyds, the Norma Shearers, the—"

He was interrupted by the arrival of two girls.

"Hello, Greta. Hello, Jimmy. Everybody's going in for a moonlight swim. Come on along."

"Oh, Jimmy, I'd love to. Wait a minute, girls."

"All right, go on in if you want to. That lets me out. I haven't had anything to do with water for years. Maybe a little White Rock, but no water."

"Oh, Jimmy."

"Go on, you'll have a lot of fun, but I've got to get back to the office. I'll pick you up later."

With that Jimmy left and Greta went with the girls. Before she had gone far, she met Carp.

"Oh, Miss Swan, I didn't expect to find you here. Now my evening is perfect. May I have the next swim with you?"

"Well, I had no idea of going in."

Carp was about to reply when Mrs. Landau approached. She was a woman in her late thirties, with the remnant of faded, haggard beauty. "Good evening, Mrs. Landau, Miss Swan." The two acknowledged the introduction and Carp continued: "Not in the swim tonight?"

"No, I'm afraid I wouldn't show off to good advantage in a bathing suit with all of this competition."

As she passed on, Gertie inquired: "Is that Mrs. Landau? I thought she was much younger."

"Being Frederic's wife is what aged her. She married him when she was a cameraman ten years ago. You see the woman she's talking to? That's Olga, Frederic's kid sister. Leading woman from Budapest. I think she'll be going back soon. Everybody's wondering what she's the next one."

"What was he doing here?" Jimmy inquired in an injured voice that was mingled with a touch of suspicion.

"He came to take me to Landau's party. I knew you wouldn't take me. I knew you didn't want me to go, but everybody in Hollywood will be there. I wanted to see them all and meet them."

"You wanted to meet Landau didn't you?"

"No, I didn't—really—"

"That's one of the angles, why tell him," said Joe. Posed by Genevieve Tobin and Anderson Lavelle.

and Carp continued. "If you were under contract I couldn't talk to you; it wouldn't be ethical. Reed can do a lot of good as far as publicity is concerned, but that lets him out. You need more than publicity. A lot of people think that success in this business is a matter of curves. It isn't. It's angles. Now I'm sort of an undertaker—that is I know where the bodies are buried. I know whose and why. I've got the low-down on everybody in Hollywood. I can show you the short cuts Miss Swan. I can save you a lot of waste motion."

"I'm afraid that Mr. Reed wouldn't want me—"

"That's one of the angles—why tell him?"

Gertie arose. "I'll think it over."

"That's all I ask."

Scarcely knowing what to do, Gertie went to her dressing room and an hour later was sipping a cocktail with Hammond at Joe's.

"You got a lot of stuff Greta," said Hammond. "What you need is experience. All kinds of experience. It shows on the screen. You can't fake it. You can't play life unless you've lived. You can't play love scenes unless you've had them. Anyway that's what Landau says. But your test came out pretty good. I think I'll have you meet Landau."

"Oh, Mr. Hammond, that would be marvelous."

"Where do you get that Hammond stuff? The name is—" he wrote "Robert" on the table cloth. She read it and smiled, then taking the pencil she wrote "Greta."

"We're going to see a lot of each other, aren't we?" he asked. She nodded and smiled as he continued. "You know, if I thought you'd appreciate it, I'd show your test to Landau."

Thus Gertie Smith alias Greta Swan launched her career. She did not depend entirely upon Jimmy and Hammond to put her over with Landau, in fact she helped along by sending the great director her picture each day. To intrigue him, she always forgot to put her name and address upon it. This exasperated the great Landau, and in a wrath he would always tear them up and fire the prints in the nearest waste basket.

At last the evening arrived when Hammond was to take her to a reception given by the great Landau himself. But Hammond arrived at her hotel so intoxicated and so dazed that Greta became alarmed.

While she was fighting Hammond off, Jimmy arrived upon the scene and disposed of the undesirable guest in short order.

"What was he doing here?" Jimmy inquired in an injured voice that was mingled with a touch of suspicion.

"He came to take me to Landau's party. I knew you wouldn't take me. I knew you didn't want me to go, but everybody in Hollywood will be there. I wanted to see them all and meet them."

"You wanted to meet Landau didn't you?"

"No, I didn't—really—"
