Thompson Prison Murder Case to Grand Jury Feb. 27

ANGLETON, Texas, Feb. 13.—Clyde Thompson and Barney Allen were charged this afternoon with the murder of Tommy Reis, who was stabbed to death yesterday at the state penal farm near here.

The convicts' case will be submitted directly to the Brazoria county grand jury which convenes Feb. 27.

ANGLETON, Tex., Feb. 13.—Clyde Thompson, ruthless West Texas killer, told reporters today he was "glad" he killed Tommy Reis, former Chicago hoodlum, the third of Thompson's victims.

"I'm glad I killed him," said Thompson from his Brazoria county jail cell. "He was stool pigeon. He tried to kill me."

Reis, 25, was stabbed to death yesterday in the dining hall at Retrieve State Penal farm, where he was serving a 35-year term for robbery and where Thompson, 21, was serving a life term for murder.

Jailed with Thompson was Barney Allen, 26, Rusk county convict, who held Reis while Thompson knifed him, according to witnesses.

The stabbing occurred as about 200 convicts were returning to barracks after the mid-day meal, when the affray began. The convict line broke and the prisoners scattered to their bunk beds. Guards found Reis dead, stabbed seven times.

A blood-stained dirk, made from a file, lay on the floor.

Interviewed in his cell, Thompson said they had plotted to "get" Reis because the latter informed guards of a prison break in which Thompson and Allen participated on Jan. 19. Another convict, A. L. Lester, was shot to death by guards who foiled the break.

Thompson was convicted in 1928 of the murder of Lucian and Leon Shook, Eastland county brothers, whom he testified at his trial he killed "just to see them kick." He was sentenced to death in the electric chair. Governor Sterling commuted the sentence to life imprisonment.

District Meet of Basket Ball to Be Held In Eastland

The district meet of the ninth Texas district for basket ball will be held in Eastland next Friday and Saturday. This district is composed of six counties and teams will be here to defend the laurels of each county. Coach Joe Gibson reports that Eastland and Stephens counties will each be represented by two teams, while only one will be present from each of the other counties. This will make a total of eight teams competing for the honor of district championship.

The first game of the meet will be called at seven o'clock next Friday night at the high school gymnasium. Four teams will be called upon Friday night to exhibit their prowess and the remaining contest of the meet will be scheduled for Saturday. The six counties which compose the district and which will have teams here for the meet are: Eastland, Stephens, Palo Pinto, Hood, Erath and Somerville.

Eastland Meets Ranger Bulldogs

The Mavericks will meet the Ranger Bulldogs at 7:15 tonight at the high school gymnasium for the final tilt in basket ball. This game will decide the county championship for the class A schools, and the winner will be eligible for competition in the district meet which will be held in Eastland next Friday and Saturday.

Following the game between Eastland and Ranger there will be a lively contest between Seranton and Morton Valley for the championship of the class B schools of the county. The winner of this game will also be eligible to go into the district competition next Friday and Saturday.

These are four of the fastest and best teams in the county and the prospects are good for two fast and furious games. All the basket ball fans are invited to attend.

Chastain Quits Oil Committee

AUSTIN, Feb. 14.—The legislative oil investigation resumed this afternoon after a verbal dispute in last night's session caused Representative O. F. Chastain of Eastland to resign from the committee.

Chastain and Representative Rob Long, chairman of the committee, differed on admission of testimony of A. B. Capers, former agent for the Texas railroad commission.

The gray-haired legislator from Eastland had repeatedly objected to admission of "hearsay" testimony. Chastain denounced as a "dirty, infamous lie" a statement by Long that he was "counsel for the railroad commission more than a representative of the legislature."

Chastain resigned and left the room.

New Source of Farmer Credit

A new source of credit for farmers of Eastland county is now available through an Eastland County Committee recently organized composed of the following: O. P. Newberry, Gorman, chairman; T. Hunter Foley, Cisco, secretary; W. E. Tyler, Rising Star; Fred Scott, Okra, and Geo. Brogdon, Eastland.

This committee is a part of the organization of the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation, Federal Loan Agency at Fort Worth, the benefits of which organization were first confined to livestock and feeder loans. The policy has recently been expanded, and liberalized, however, so as to permit loans to farmers on a secured basis, the loans to be used for any purpose the borrower may deem necessary for his welfare and upkeep while carrying on his farm operations. The loan may be used to pay debts, purchase tools and implements, necessary teams and farm stock, to buy supplies of groceries, and so forth.

It is estimated that between $200,000 and $300,000 will be loaned to Eastland County farmers from this new source.

Application blanks are now available at the office of our local committeeman, George Brogdon, and those interested or in need of funds for any of the above mentioned purposes should submit their application as early as convenient for the reason that an inspection of the securities offered must be made and the application passed by the Fort Worth Agency in addition to the approval of the county committee.

This committee will meet at the court house in Eastland (Friday) afternoon at 4:00 o'clock, and will meet each succeeding week.

The service will be non-partisan and non-political. The bureau will not consider other legislative measures before the house or senate in its service, which will be distributed free.

"Our object in opening this bureau," said Nichols, "is to acquaint the people with the various details concerning the cost of government. We will not favor or oppose any official, group, measure or program."

President Hoover issued a statement denouncing the attempted attack as a "dastardly act," and rejoicing over the safety of the man to whom he will surrender the country's highest office in just 16 days.

Police Find Car, Tires and Wheels Believed Stolen

At about four o'clock Tuesday morning, as night patrolmen, Nunn and Meade, were making their rounds, they noticed that an old, dilapidated Ford touring car was being pushed by a Chevrolet coupe at the intersection of East Main and North Bassett streets. As neither car had lights turned on they decided to investigate.

While about 20 yards away as they approached, two men jumped from the touring car and ran north on Bassett street, and the one man in the coupe quickly turned his car and drove south on Bassett street.

Inspection of the touring car which the men abandoned revealed the fact that there were two good Ford wheels and a battery inside. The wheels were of the 1929, twenty-one inch variety with wire spokes. On each wheel was a good casing. One was a 4.50-21 Riverside and the other was a 4.50-21 Goodyear Pathfinder. The atterby, which was a 6 volt Prestolite and had been rebuilt, had the letters V E on one side.

The touring car, which was a 1926 model Ford, was almost a complete wreck. The officers left the car and the extra parts with the Eastland Gasoline Co.

Will Ask 'Chair' For Thompson On Murder Charge

ANGLETON, Feb. 14.—County Attorney Marvin Higgins said today he will ask the electric chair for Clyde Thompson and Barney Allen, slayers of Tommy Reis, fellow convict.

Earlier convention of members will be held due to important legislation, now pending before the legislature, affecting the counties, Judge Newman said.

Pinchot Urges a Tax Army Cut

HARRISBURG, Pa. — The "young army" of tax collectors in Pennsylvania can be reduced 75 per cent and still function effectively, according to Governor Gifford Pinchot.

The governor urged the state legislature to eliminate many of the estimated 5,000 tax-collecting jobs within the state.

"Elected tax collectors, including receivers of delinquent taxes, total 2,594. The number of appointed collectors is 416. To that must be added hundreds of employees and deputies," he said.

"These collectors extract extravagant sums from the people. As taxes filter through, the law permits 5 or 6 per cent to stick to their fingers, just as the gold ducats stuck to the pitch-covered measure of Ali Baba.

Penalty Not to Go On School Tax Until April 1st

At a meeting of the board of trustees of the Eastland Independent School District it was decided to postpone the collection of penalty and interest with delinquent school taxes until the first of April. Under the law the penalty and interest clause automatically take effect on February the first on all school tax assessments not paid before that date unless otherwise provided for by the board of trustees.

The board recognizes the fact that many people are hard pressed for money at this time; so as an inducement for as many people as possible can do so to pay now it was decided to postpone the time for adding the penalty and interest.

Good Roads Meet Abilene, Feb. 20

The county judges and commissioners, newspaper editors and chambers of commerce officials in each town in the 24th district have been asked to see that their communities and counties are represented at the meeting, which will be open to everyone.

Roosevelt's Life Saved By Woman

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 16. — The courage of one, small woman, who pitted her strength against the determination of a crazed gunman, probably saved President-elect Roosevelt from injury or death.

Mrs. W. J. Cross, wife of a Miami physician, who seized the pistol arm of Zangara, today told of how she was able to divert the anarchist's aim.

Chance threw Mrs. Cross and Zangara together on the same bench near the president-elect's automobile.

"So many stood up in front of me," she said, "that I couldn't see, so I stood on one of the benches and this man stood up with me.

"I glanced up at him and saw he had a pistol. He began shooting toward Mr. Roosevelt. I grabbed my arm and pushed it with all my strength into the air and called for help. A man named Tom Armour also grabbed his hand and the next thing I knew some other men had reached him and were choking him."

So close was the heroine of the assassination attempt to the maniac that members of her family found powder marks on her right cheek when she reached home. She is only 5 feet and 4 inches tall.

FALURE TO CATCH THE SIGNALS

In his address to the Fathers and Sons Banquet recently Rev. Kenneth Pope made the statement that most of the trouble that arose between the dads and the boys was caused by the failure to get each others signals. Going further with the discussion he said, in effect, that the dad did not take the time to seek out and understand the motives which lay behind the son's acts. Recognizing the truth of that statement and thinking over it afterward we decided it would apply as well to men in their business relations.

Do we always get the other man's signals? Of course the idea is based on a former style of football play in which the quarterback directed the movements of his team by calling signals. The failure of the players to understand the signals meant the failure of the play. This idea is applicable in the business world in that a man's actions to some extent are indicative of his purposes. To misunderstand his signals means to arrive at a wrong conclusion as to his purposes. This happens occasionally and causes a breach in the friendly relations of two business men. One gets the signals wrong and takes it for granted that the other intends to do him a business injury.

Acting on this wrong conclusion he does things and says things that causes the misunderstanding to become apparent to others, thereby giving a third person, who is not as scrupulous as he should be, an opportunity to step in, keep the difference of the two agitated by carrying false or half true reports and thus use either one or both to his selfish advantage. This might be kept up for years to the injury of the two who first failed to understand each others motives, when, if either had done the sensible thing, the whole trouble could have been avoided. The logical act would have been for the one to have gone to the other and discussed the matter until there could have been no chance for a misunderstanding. Be sure of the other fellow's signals before making the play.

RESULTS SECURED WITH RELIEF FUND

With the relief funds furnished by the government much has been done to clean up and beautify Eastland. The driveway to the high school building has been broadened and greatly improved, giving more car room for the traffic and for parking. Retaining walls have been constructed around the grounds in front of the building to prevent them from washing so badly and becoming so unsightly and the grounds have been graded and leveled, adding much to the appearance of the premises. Grounds around the ward schools have been cleaned up and the outside woodwork repainted. Numerous other things have been done that has added to the general appearance and sanitary condition of Eastland. The committee in charge of the handling of the R. F. C. funds here is due commendation for the class of work done and the financial relief afforded so many people.

As all this work has gone forward many people have looked at the debris of the burned building at the corner of West Commerce and South Mulberry and wondered why that has never been cleared away. It affords an unsightly view to travelers coming in or going out on West Commerce and, without doubt, creates a bad impression. Of course the Chronicle understands that cleaning this corner up is no task for the city authorities nor for the committee in charge of relief funds, but there ought to be some way to reach those responsible in such a way as to have this debris removed. In its present condition there is an element of danger involved as well as the unsightly appearance.

CITY ELECTION TIME IS NEAR

The time for electing city commissioners is only about six weeks off. During the first week of April two commissioners are to be elected. Whether or not the two whose terms expire in April will seek re-election, we do not know. Neither have we heard of anyone in particular who might be put forward for either of these places. It is not for the purpose of taking any stand in this election that we mention it. We merely wish to call attention to the fact that the time is near at hand, and also suggest that the Eastland citizens should be seeking out men who are capable, honest and efficient to elect to these positions. If there are any differences of opinions as to what type of men should be chosen or any differences of opinion as to what the needs of the incorporation will be for the coming year and what men are best suited for the office in order that those needs can be met, those differences should be thrashed out during the coming weeks and settled on election day. After the commissioners are chosen in April the entire citizenship should give them their undivided support, as long as they are seeking to further the best interests of the town.

A PLAN FOR COMMUNITY CO-OPERATION

A news item, suggested by W. G. Williamson who lives north of Eastland, was carried in the Chronicle last week. This article outlined plans for the holding of rabbit drives in each community in the county. We believe there is a great deal of merit in the idea, not only in ridding the county of the rabbit pest but in putting the spirit of community co-operation to the test. Here is something that each man in the community can do as an individual and get some results. At odd times he can get out with his gun and kill a few rabbits, but it is doubtful if the decrease in the number of rabbits would be appreciable at the end of the growing season. One the other hand a rabbit drive, organized and carried out before the crop of young ones comes on, would so rid the county of this pest as to make the damage rabbits

STAR SKETCHES

Story of MAURICE CHEVALIER by Mirian Hopkins

IN the early part of the World War, Maurice Chevalier fell, blood pouring from his mouth from a shell wound in the lung. He regained consciousness in a German hospital and when he could be moved he was sent to the prison camp at Alten Grabow near Hageburg. Although he suffered terribly from the effects of his wound, his gaiety was unimpaired. He organized concerts in the camp, and one night the Commandant with several German generals came to the show. They were so amused that they gave Maurice the freedom of the camp. After an impromptu concert one night, Chevalier and another Frenchman escaped, disguised as hospital attendants, and slowly made their way back to the French lines. His wound was such that he could not continue in Military service.

For a time he felt that he could never pick up the old thread of his life. He was timid and apprehensive. But upon being decorated with the Croix de Guerre for gallant conduct at Outry, something within him underwent a change. It brought him confidence and he vowed anew that he would yet conquer fame in his chosen profession. With this decision came inspiration. Up until this time the majority of Chevalier's work had been as a grotesque comedian. His visits to the English music halls came back to him. Realization came that he must charm his audience as well as entertain them. He adopted the smartly tailored dinner suit and straw hat which now is his traditional garb. New fame quickly followed.

This renown spread to London, and American stage offers followed one after another, but it was not until Maurice had made several French films and he realized the limitations and handicaps of silent pictures that he would accept an American offer. However, with the perfection of the talking pictures, he was induced to come to America.

With his first picture he became one of the greatest personalities on the screen; and upon returning to Paris for a holiday he found himself many times more popular than ever before. He took an engagement at the Empire Music Hall and received 15,000 francs a night, an enormous and unheard of figure for Paris. He returned to Hollywood and became one of its greatest Stars at a time when other foreigners were forced out.

would do to growing grain and truck crops a negligible quantity. If these drives are to be made, arrangements for them should be made quickly and the drives put on as soon as possible. Two advantages are apparent in making the drives now. The crop of young rabbits would be cut down and the visibility would be much better before the trees and brush put on foliage.

TIME OF GASOLINE TAX MAY BE EXTENDED

About a year ago a gasoline tax of one cent a gallon was placed on the country for one year by the federal government as a part of the billion dollar emergency finance measure. It was predicted at the time that this tax would become a permanent fixture for the reasons that it is productive of a large revenue and it is collectible with relative ease. That the prediction will prove true now seems evident. The house of Representatives has passed a bill to continue the tax for another year and the measure has been approved by the Senate Finance Committee, presaging passage by that body with little or no discussion.

FARMERS FAIL TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF LAW

At the last session of the Legislature the Giles-Tarwater bill was passed which provided that farmers so desiring could purchase cotton seed of the long-staple variety from the prison system for the cost of ordinary seed. The cotton grown on the prison farms is said to be a fine grade, the seed of which, if bought through the usual channels, would cost several times the price of ordinary seed. Now it appears that the farmers over the state failed to take advantage of this opportunity and the high quality seed of the prison system was ground for oil and meal. It is pointed out that county officials, farm leaders or business men interested in advancing a county's welfare could have sponsored the buying of car load quantities of prison farm cotton seed. But they did not. It is hardly worth while for the farmers of Eastland County to take any of this criticism to themselves because the cotton producing industry here has reached such a low estate that it is doubtful if the cotton crops produced would pay for the shipment of large quantities of seed.

RABBITS AND PROSPERITY

The answer to the riddle of our economic rehabilitation is the lowly rabbit—wild bunny, wilder jack, and tame rabbits. This is the contention of Mr. W. A. Kelsey of Deming, N. M., described by the San Angelo Times as directing head of a movement to provide employment for thousands of Americans by giving the rabbit skin industry the protection of a tariff wall.

Far-fetched as it appears at first blush, Mr. Kelsey's argument isn't any flimsier, it must be confessed, than several others advanced as depression cure-alls.

He says that in the nine-year period 1923-1931, one billion wild rabbits have been killed in foreign countries and their pelts shipped into the United States, to be made into "sables" and various other wearables. Had these billion rabbits been killed and skinned in this country, it would have placed much wealth in the hands of Americans, he goes on. Rabbit pelts would be only one profit from the industry. The bunnies would consume considerable feedstuff, and there would be some salvage from the meat. He estimates that under the protection of a tariff, the Angelo country would soon have 100,000 breeding rabbits, which with their progeny would consume 66,000 tons of alfalfa hay and 500,000 bushels of grain, at a cost of $1,800,000. Annual income from the pelts and meat of 100,000,000 rabbits in the United States would be $150,000,000, Mr. Kelsey claims.

A petition for an import duty on rabbits is on file with the house ways and means committee at Washington, it appears.

The practice of returning purchases in retail stores has grown to such proportions that between four and five billion dollars of goods are returned annually in the United States.

TRIVIAL IDINGS

BY JO A. CARROLL

Springtown Has Oldest Citizen
One hundred sixteen years is a long time on this earth, but that is the age of Uncle Black Shirley of Springtown, Parker County, who is beyond doubt the oldest person in Texas. His age is well authenticated. He has a daughter 87 years old and he also has one 20 years old.

Mr. Shirley has voted for 25 Presidential candidates during his long stay here and his life has been contemporary with that of all the Presidents except the first three; i. e., Washington, Adams and Jefferson. He recalls vividly the casting of his vote for James K. Polk and the winning of a fine pair of boots on the election of Polk.

Hand-Made Organ Furnishes Christmas Music
A little hand-made organ, believed to be more than 100 years old pealed out Christmas music on Christmas Day at St. Joseph's Catholic church in Galveston. The old organ, which had lain in the loft of the church unused for the last ten years, was put in shape again for this occasion. Although made entirely by hand and in spite of its age, it still has a clear, sweet tone.

Much of the history of the old instrument has been lost, but it is believed to have been brought to Texas from Mexico by the Monks some 100 years ago. It was taken around from one church to another, some Catholic and some Protestant, in the days when Texas was young and finally found its way to Galveston, just how nobody knows.

Ancient Shell No Good As Airion
Several months ago Jim Williams, a colored farmer of Fort Bend County, while working in his field, plowed up an old army shell. He took it home and used it in the fire place as an airion. A few days ago the old shell exploded, demolishing the house and killed Williams and his wife. It was believed to have been a relic of the Civil War.

Will Money Pay the Bill?
Some time ago Joseph Weaver was convicted of murder in Ohio and sentenced to death. He spent 25 months in prison, 22 of them in the death house. Twice he was relieved less than two days before he was to be executed. Then the real murderer turned up, confessed and Weaver was set free. Now a committee of the Ohio Legislature has recommended that Weaver be paid $15,000.00.

Heat Lamp Post to Free Boy's Tongue
Laddie Birge, 13, of Duncan, Oklahoma, is no piker. He and other boys were returning home from school last week. Some of his companions dared him to stick his tongue against a cold lamp post. He did and his tongue was still sticking there when two utility company employees came along five minutes later. With a blow torch the workmen heated the post and freed him, but he left a piece of skin from his tongue on the post.

Jail Better Than 17 Below
Hyman Streit was one of the very few on the Denver, Colorado streets a few nights ago. The temperature was 17 below zero. His conscience was all right, but he went into the police station with this request, "Send me back to Miami Beach, Fla., and I'll do the stretch for stealing a car." But the Florida police replied thus: "Let him freeze. We don't want him and we haven't anybody who'd come up there after him."

Baby Has Temperature 110 Degrees
William Oliver Priola, a 17-day old baby of Amarillo, who registered a temperature of 110 degrees a day or two ago, is reported on the road to recovery. Physicians who studied the case said it was the first to come under their observation where the patient registered a temperature above 107 degrees and lived. The fever was caused by an intestinal disorder.

No Phones Say Commissioners of Stephens
"If you want telephones you must pay the bill," said the commissioners Court of Stephens County last week to all officials except the sheriff and county judge. The district judge, district attorney, court reporter and tax collector have indicated that they would retain their phones and pay for them out of their own pockets.

Youth Eats Spinach Mixed With Cotton
Raymond Wilkinson, 5 year old boy of Los Angeles, California, was eating a lot of spinach mixed with shreds of cotton last Friday and had to like it. He had swallowed a pocket knife with an open blade and physicians were feeding him this queer diet with the hope that the cotton will wrap itself around the knife and prevent serious injury to the intestinal walls and obviate an operation. The youngster says he feels fine and enjoys everything except the diet.

WASHINGTON LETTER

The next director of the budget will be Walker D. Hines of Chicago, wartime director general of railroad when they were under Federal control. That is the report here. Hines has been at Warm Springs conferring with Mr. Roosevelt, and is said to have been offered the post when Swaggar Sherley of Washington eliminated himself from consideration. On the same day the report was circulated, Hines applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to become a director in a railway express company.

Jack Garner's oft-repeated assertion that contributors to the Republican war chest were favored recipients of tax refunds during Andy Mellon's Hamiltonian administration of the Treasury Department is being recalled. It seems that a tax refund of $45,000 and an abatement of $5,870,000 to the estate of Secretary Mills' father has set some of the boys down here thinking.

Ogden as the executor claimed after lapse of more than a year, that he had overestimated the value of the estate, and his department found that he was way off schedule. The understrappers have an alibi. They can point out that he is the champion overestimator. Lock what he did to Federal income when he tried to estimate that!

Now Mr. Roosevelt knows how it feels to have a bunch of Senators treading on his trail. Ambassador Lindsay's visit at Warm Springs was all that was needed to set off the fireworks.

Senator Arthur Robinson of Indiana will be a thorn in the side of the next administration if any proposition to reduce the foreign debt is sent to the Senate. He will have plenty of Democratic support added to the Republican strength. It would be political suicide for any member of Congress to urge or vote for debt reduction, no matter what pretext is offered for it.

The Association of National advertisers is jumping all over the National Association of Broadcasters, accusing commercialized radio with being a racket for chiselers. Stuart Peabody, president of the advertisers, served an ultimatum that padded prices on radio talent which supply "cuts" for go-betweens will hereafter be taboo if his organization can stop it.

The Federal Radio Commission fumbled a big opportunity to establish a precedent when it refused, in a recent decision overruling an examiner's report, to make public service the yardstick with which to measure every broadcaster's right to use one of the few air channels.

Two broadcasting stations on the West Coast were recently investigated, and the examiner recommended that both be taken off the air because they were not rendering a service of any value to the public. Evidence was produced to show that both stations have been broadcasting endless sales talks with phonographic records of the cheapest sort of Tin Pan Alley songs between the ballyhoo. Both stations had also been guilty of allowing "astronomical" fakery to solicit business over the air.

The East never slows its provincialism more completely than when it discussed Cabinet appointments. When you talk with dyed-in-the-wool Easterners you are led to believe that there is nothing west of Ohio or south of Pennsylvania. Somehow they cannot remember that cabinets are representative of the country as a whole.

Whenever they think of a Secretary of the Treasury, they take it for granted that he must be a New Yorker. Whenever they speak of a Secretary of Labor, they imagine that Pennsylvania is the mother of those fellows. And so it goes. When one of the Roosevelt spokesmen said the other day that the President-elect wanted a dirt farmer for Secretary of Agriculture, New Yorkers felt they had just the man for the job. They wanted to know who was better qualified than Walter Winchell.

FIRST METHODIST CHURCH
Sam G. Thompson, Pastor
The Sunday School will meet at 9:45. It is very important that every member of the Sunday School be present this morning. The program for the Standard Training School is the good and sufficient reason for every one being present. We are expecting from our local school and from surrounding schools to have an enrollment of at least 100.
The pastor will preach at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p. m. All strangers, visitors and friends are invited. Come and worship with us.
Prayer meeting Wednesday evening.

ther which set an all-time temperature record of 17 degrees below zero at Lubbock last Thursday. Fayne Alcarta, Texas Tech. Holstein-Friesian cow, gave birth to a heifer weighing 135 pounds. This is believed to be the largest Holstein calf ever born. W. L. Stangel, head of the department of animal husbandry at the college, said he knew of no larger calf on record by the Holstein-Friesian Association of America. The average weight for Holstein calves is 89 pounds.

He was standing on the corner, paying absolutely no attention to anyone. He shook his head and mumbled to himself: "No, no—no, no, no!" He paid no attention to the crowd that gathered, but just kept saying, "No, no, no!"

"Nothing at all," came the reply. "I'm just a 'yes man' taking a day off."—Railway Trainman.

Cigaret Tax Plan Would Mean Loss

WASHINGTON.—More than $50,000,000 of Uncle Sam's annual revenue will go up in smoke if congress adopts the suggestion of S. Clay Williams of Winston-Salem, N. C., that the federal government turn over to the states one-sixth of the money it collects in cigarette taxes. The states, in turn, would be expected to forego the imposition of states taxes on cigarettes.

This method of preventing overlapping taxes by the federal and state governments has been urged by Williams in conferences here with Speaker Garner, Chairman Collier of the house ways and means committee, Representative Rainey and other congressional leaders.

With the problem facing them of finding enough revenue to balance the federal budget, congress generally fails to regard with enthusiasm any proposal that would reduce the national income.

The fact that, next to income and corporation taxes, the big bulk of Uncle Sam's internal revenue comes from the tax on cigarettes is not realized generally. In round figures, his income from this one source is $1,000,000 a day. In 1930, for example, it amounted to exactly $357,750,783.71.

Due to the fact that cigarette taxes are based on the number produced and not on their sales price, this source of revenue has not been seriously affected by the depression. It was cut some $41,000,000 in 1931, smokers apparently turning to pipes or rolling their own as matters of economy.

In that year, however, a number of manufacturers began putting out brands to retail at 10 cents for a package of 20 as against the previously prevailing prices of 15 to 20 cents. The result was immediately reflected in Uncle Sam's revenues, the increased consumption of these 10-cent cigarettes—which pay the same tax as the more expensive brands—bringing the daily return to the government back to the $1,000,000 a day mark.

The problem of double taxation is one which many members of congress feel should rest on original action. In other words, since the taxing of tobacco and cigarettes was instituted originally as a source for federal revenue, it should not be invaded by the states.

Twelve-Year Old Murder Mystery Search Renewed

SAN ANGELO.—Twelve years have obliterated the trail across West Texas' prairies made by the murderer of Nick Kaklikakis, but the search for him has been renewed.

One autumn day in 1920 Kaklikakis, Greek candy maker, strolled down the street here with his son Mike, then 15. Another Greek appeared. A flash of fire, a boy's scream, later a missing automobile were the only known incidents to Kaklikakis' death.

Hawley C. Allen, grim rancher who for 20 years had been an arm of West Texas' justice, then was sheriff. He theorized Kaklikakis was slain for revenge because the candy maker once had testified against a man in a Colorado murder trial.

For two months Sheriff Allen sought his man. He then retired from office, went back to his ranch, but kept in touch with Kaklikakis' son.

Twelve years passed.

This winter Allen again strapped on his guns, went up to Tom Green county and got a job as chief deputy.

"What are you going to do Hawley?" asked a friend.

"Find the murderer of Nick Kaklikakis," Allen replied.

SUNDAY SCHOOL VALENTINE PARTY

The senior department of the Methodist Church Sunday school and several of their friends were delightfully entertained Tuesday night, in the lower assembly room of the church, charmingly decorated in festoons of red hearts around walls and over windows with attractive arrangements in red crepe streamers adding their touch to the scene.

An informal reception was accorded by Mrs. Bert McGlamery, superintendent of the department, and teachers, Mrs. J. E. Hickman, Miss Loraine Taylor and Milton Newman; Mrs. Cecil Webb, substitute teacher and Mrs. Newman, who is not a teacher but assisted.

A unique program under the direction of Mrs. Hickman was enjoyed in musical games when ensemble singing of popular numbers brought a musical diversion, which preceded the impromptu dramatization of Pochontas with all characters taken by the boys who had been provided full costumes by Mrs. Hickman, and who had a very interested audience in the girls and guests.

Motion songs brought the program to a climax, with Mrs. McGlamery at the piano for the musical features.

FINE ATTENDANCE CHURCH SOCIETIES

The Monday afternoon sessions of various Eastland church societies registered splendid attendance, the semi-balmly day, proving a great help in church activities.

The Women's Missionary society of the Methodist church held an interesting meeting opened by the president Mrs. J. E. Hickman, with Mrs. T. J. Haley at the piano for the song service.

Prayer by Mrs. Milton Newman brought the Missionary News from the church bulletin, pleasingly presented by Mrs. Hickman, Ed Graham and Melville Wahl.

"The World Outlook," the missionary magazine of the Methodist church was featured in the afternoon's program, opening with a splendid digest "The Life of the Magazine," brought by Mrs. Bert McGlamery, Central Texas conference, superintendent of literature, and publicity.

A thoughtful treatise, "The Stewardship of Time," written by Mrs. J. Frank Sparks, was introduced by the writer in a questionnaire, proving intensely interesting. A vote was taken of the class of magazines the women attending were reading, the speaker stated this showed seven times as many secular than religious periodicals.

The points made in her remarks brought: Large part of leisure should be given to reading that should furnish a balanced diet for our mental and spiritual bodies.

That secular magazines are the proteins, fats, and carbohydrates building mental tissues, storing facts, killing energy. The much-needed vitamins in our dual diet are furnished by the religious magazines that build bones of character and aid in mental and spiritual digestion. With closing request, "do not read good magazines, read only the best."

Mrs. Milton Newman reported as chairman of rural co-operation under Christian social relations committee, of organizing a Sunday school at the Bedford church, attending each Sunday and taking workers with her.

The society will meet for Bible study under Mrs. W. P. Leslie, in the church next Monday afternoon.

Those present, Mmes. J. E. Hickman, M. H. Kelly, T. J. Haley, E. McGlamery, J. F. Sparks, June Kimble, D. J. Jobe, T. M. Johnson, M. Griffin, Wayne Jones, P. L. Crossley, M. Wahl, W. W. Kelly, L. A. Cook, M. Newman, J. J. Mickle, Ed Graham, Guy Dunnam, W. P. Leslie, S. G. Thompson, W. M. Davenport, F. A. Jones, A. H. Johnson, and guests, Mrs. E. Hinrichs and Mrs. G. A. Mouser.

MRS. W. B. DUKES HONORS FATHER

Mrs. W. B. Dukes entertained with a family dinner party, Tuesday noon, in honor of the 77th birthday of her father, W. N. Tate, a retired ranchman, who has spent practically all his life in or near Eastland.

A number of his children were present, and two grandsons, Mr. and Mrs. Tate received congratulations and gifts from many friends and relatives in honor of the birthday of this rugged pioneer.

CHURCH OF CHRIST BIBLE CLASS

Mrs. Loretta Herring, Bible teacher for the class of the Church of Christ conducted an interesting session in committee work in lieu of the usual Bible lesson, at Monday afternoon's meeting, when every woman attending was assigned to some group or another to carry on the active work of the class, in visiting the sick, doing night nursing for sick, looking after the needs of several in the church and providing necessary clothing for needy children.

An informal discussion of the church affairs engrossed the attendance of Mmes. J. R. Crossley, Argie Fehl, R. B. Reagan, John Young, Jimmie King, Guy Sherrill, James Graham, Elmer Hurley, W. E. Kellett, H. E. Everett, V. E. Roheron, N. K. Praterly, L. Herring, and Mr. King, welcomed as a new member.

PYTHIAN SISTERS MEET

The Pythian Sisters held their usual session Monday night, with no special feature in connection, save that all arrangements concerning the social announced for next Monday night were called off on account of the couple of entertainments in church circles on that evening.

The session was opened by Mrs. Cora Frye, most excellent chief, with 15 members present, and two guests from the Breckenridge temple, Mrs. Vallas and Mrs. Pruett.

MRS. DARBY CONDUCTS BIBLE LESSON

The Women's Missionary society of the Baptist church was opened and conducted Monday afternoon by their president, Mrs. S. C. Walker, accorded a warm welcome upon her return from a two-month stay in Lubbock. During her absence her work has been faithfully and most successfully carried on by Mrs. W. D. R. Owen, chairman of Circle 3, of the W. M. S.

The lesson opened with the hymn "On Higher Ground." The devotional from the 34th Psalm was presented by Mrs. Carl Springer, in one of the most inspirational talks the group has heard and was associated with the reading of an article in Literary Digest, "Who's Who in Religion," in which the keynote showed a greater percent of prominent people working in religion at present than the year 1910.

The Bible lesson from the first nine chapter of St. Mark was presented.

PICTURES OF SILVER

Mark 4:21-34
Jesus continues his teachings on the shore of the Sea of Galilee near Capernaum, with parables pertaining to spiritual progress.

He begins with a question which brings to them the picture of the simple home of a peasant. The candle was a small earthenware saucer filled with oil in which a wick floated, then passed through a smaller opening in the edge of the saucer. The bushel was a wooden measure holding near a peck in our measurements today. The bed was a raised framework on which cushions were placed.

sented in an interesting manner by Mrs. O. B. Darby, trained Bible teacher, substituting for Rev. Darby, who was called upon for chapel services at the high school.

Announcement was made of the missionary lesson and program directed by chairman of missions Mrs. Marvin Hood, next Monday afternoon.

Those present, Mmes. W. D. R. Owen, E. Tucker, O. B. Darby, Carl Springer, W. A. Harris, J. B. Overton, L. Glen Rogers, W. P. Palm, J. Drake, Lily Herndon, R. L. Young, Jess Seibert, O. A. Cook, J. Williams, M. Hood, J. P. Truly, H. T. Huffman, H. Breazeale, V. E. Vessel, S. C. Walker, and Miss Sallie Morris.

JUNIOR AUXILIARY BAPTIST CHURCH

With song and story, Bible lesson, and the making of pretty valentines the Junior Missionary auxiliary of the Baptist church, passed a pleasing and instructive hour Saturday morning under guidance of Mrs. J. P. Truly, the only director of the group in attendance.

The small number attending opened with a general assembly led in prayer, followed by the balance of the "Boat Journey," story, given by the director, with pictures and descriptions of the vessel, the sea, and foreign countries. Two long tables were then occupied by the youngsters, who recorded memory verses built on the messages of love in the Holy Book in note books.

With scissors, pretty papers, crayons and paste, 15 valentines were made by the auxiliary. Some of these were exchanged and others will be sent friends.

The object of the Royal Ambassador group in 1933 is goal of 400 chapters and 40,000 members of which Eastland is a part of organization in co-operative program, to raise $30,000 it was explained by Mrs. Truly.

The Girls' Auxiliary read as their lesson the "Here and There" column of violets, shielded by the heart shaped leaves of love, and the column was copied in their note books, with the picture of a ship at sea, to signify the launching of the group on a new year of love and usefulness.

Sentence prayers dismissed the assembly. Songs were: "There's a Rainbow in the Sky," and "Jesus is a Friend of Mine."

Frances Laverne Darby delighted the group with the reading of "Little Orphan Annie."

The program next Saturday morning will be given to a George Washington feature, a Bible lesson, and the learning of the flag salute to the Bible and the Union. Weather conditions and sickness affected the attendance. Those present, Anna Jean Darby, Frances Laverne Darby, Paul McFarland, Elna Rav Drinkard, Virginia Garrett, Ruth Drinkard, Claud Williams, Robert McFarland, Paul Williams, and Mrs. J. P. Truly, director.

LUCAS SERVICE STATION

The candle stick was a small stand on which the lamp fitted so that all might enjoy the light.

Jesus used this simple picture of the peasant family enjoying the light to emphasize the power of influence. He made them understand that His teaching was a light in the darkness of their lives; but later, at the proper time, they were to place the lamps, the word, on the stand and let the whole world enjoy the light. The complete world was to be spread over the world. The Kingdom of God would grow in the hearts of men who took heed and listened, while the unheeding would lose even the unfolding bud of the truth.

"The earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea."—Isaiah 11:9.

Abruptly He changes His parable and tells them, "So is the Kingdom of God, as if a man should cast a seed into the ground." He again takes the simple act of sowing seed; going about the daily routine of life; eating and sleeping while the seed sprouts, comes into leaf, ear and ripens for the harvest.

Truly all history and progress is written in this brief parable, which is found only in Mark. It represents the plan God has for the world. He scattered everywhere, in the beginning, the seeds of life. He scattered the seeds of human powers, until at length He came himself in the person of His son who was planted in death and raised in glorious immortality.

No one understands that spark of life in the seed which he plants. The great lesson for them was patience. None could spring from the planting to the full harvest of Christian living. They must cultivate and let life and truth grow gradually.

This lesson, He then beautifully illustrates and likens the Kingdom of God to a grain of mustard seed. It is the tiniest seed sowed by a farmer or gardener and in the hot countries grows to the height of 12 feet, so that birds may lodge in its branches.

This brought to the disciples, who were discouraged, a lesson of hope and a vision of the progress of the word that they had learned to love until it should indeed be placed on a great candle stick and give light to the entire world.

This season of the year calls to the hearts of men to prepare their soils and orchards for another harvest.

vest. Roses are pruned, trees set out and many things done so that we may enjoy the benefits and beauty during the coming year in this material world.

How many of us have a garden and diligently cultivate it in our hearts and for the benefit of our soul?

"Where by are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature."—2nd Peter 1:4.

We might lay our plan along with the one given by Peter in this same chapter. Around this garden we should have a beautiful, ever-green hedge of faith to ward off unwelcome influences from the outside world. Through it should run a clear, pure stream of water; knowledge, where white lilies of virtue nod their stately heads. Dotted here and there should be the spiky beds of the old-fashioned pinics reminding us to be tolerant and to follow temperance. The many hued roses and the restful arbor with the sweet perfume should turn our thoughts to godliness; while the modest violet, which outlines the rose garden, would whisper the message that brotherly kindness is always humble and seeks to send sweetness into the lives of others. The sweet smelling herbs of lavender and mignonette which are tucked away in all the beds and along the pond ever remind us of charity. We must also be useful in helping other lives with which we come in contact. In the background is the tall and stately sunflower, following the sun all the day with its happy upturned face, telling us to exercise patience in following the light.

Truly it takes diligent cultivation, but,

"If these things be in you and abound, they make you that ye shall neither be barren nor unfruitful in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ."—2nd Peter 1:8.

On the East Side of New York Tony opened a barber shop and became the friend of the East Side. When anything went wrong, men, women, and children ran to Tony, and the good-natured Italian helped them out. A youngster ran in while the lad was shaving a customer.

"Tony, the policeman is pinching Giovanni and his monk."

The barber turned to his customer. "Excuse me, please. A friend of mine gets into trouble. I must help him." Leaving the man half shaved, Tony rushed over to the Magistrate's court to plead for his friend.

Distributed throughout the court room were the pathetic and colorful figures which one discovers in such a place. Tony took his place before the bar at Giovanni's side.

"Judge, Giovanni, he is just come here. He no talk English—don't understand our laws like we Americans. By and by I take him to night school and make an American citizen out of him."

"Are you an American citizen?" the judge inquired.

"No, Judge, not yet. But I know all about this country and I like it. I go to school, and soon I become a citizen—just like you, Judge. I take Giovanni to school. He learn to

Tony interrupted him. "You were in all those places?"

"Sure. Up to my neck in dirt, and filth, and cooties. I remember the time when a fellow would give his life for one of these medals. I nearly did."

Tony was amazed. "You won that medal and you have to do this?"

"This or starve. They don't want to know anything about the war. That's behind them. That's gone. They give us three cheers and a smile and called it a day. They're through with guys like me—but I ain't through with them." In his excitement, Richards had taken his hands out of his pockets.

"And I ain't through with you," said Tony, extending his hand. "My name is Tony, Mr. Soldier."

"You know I ain't got a gun. Turn me over. That's as good a reward as any for serving my country and you're a good citizen. Go ahead. Do your duty."

Tony was angry. "Don't tell me my duty. I know it. It's to remember you were a soldier and the medal you won, and how you nearly died for my country."

"Stop kidding. Stop kidding. Nobody remembers that."

"I do and they should. Come on with me. You and I have a glass of good vino. It will help us both. I make it myself. Come on. A couple of good citizens—you and I. We get a little drunk and forget."

"No, I better get home to my sister and her kid. They worry about me."

"You got a sister and her kid?"

"Yeah, that's why I—"

Tony nodded his head. "I understand. It's pretty tough for you

It's no shame a big country like this can't take care of a fellow that nearly died for it. It's a shame. Some time Tony fix a thing like that. I get you a job. Now, come, we go home and tell your sister the good news."

"It certainly will be good news," Tony entwined his arm about Richards and together they left the barber shop. They stopped on the way to Richards' home while Tony bought spaghetti, cheese, butter, bread, tomatoes and antipasto. He spent $4.50 to provide a feast at which Richards, his sister, and the boy could help him round out the holiday he had declared on the day he became an American citizen.

While Tony was making his purchases, he discovered that he was without money. He turned to Richards. "Say, I feel like a fool. I must have left my money at the barber shop."

Richards sheepishly put his hand in his pocket and turned over the five dollars to Tony, who took it and gave it to the clerk. The latter returned the fifty cents in change, which Tony gave to Richards. "Thanks. I'll pay you back the rest of the money tomorrow."

Grace Chester, a young widow and sister to Richards, lived with her brother and young son, Dickie, in a four room apartment in a bleak tenement house. Richards took the lad in his arms as they entered the apartment.

After the introduction, Tony took Grace's hand and kissed it, then he said: "Excuse a please, but my friend, Richards, he make me come here. I hope I'm not interfering."

"Not at all," Grace smiled the well laden basket. "What's that?"

Tony took out his purchases and insisted on preparing the meal. While he was at it, Richards explained to his sister, "I met him on the street. I told him that I was up against it and he's going to get me a job."

"I told you everything would turn out all right," his sister replied.

The meal over, Tony insisted on washing the dishes. Then he joined the family to watch Richards do a few imitations for Dickie. They amused the Italian, as they were exceptionally clever. "Now I know what he does," Tony said to Grace. "I get him a job right away. You send him to my shop tomorrow."

"That's wonderful," she said.

"Thanks."

Smiling and happy, Tony left the apartment. He had started out right as a citizen. He had brought happiness and hope to an American and best of all, he had met a citizen by birth, as proud as himself. No wonder that the new American returned to his barber shop whistling an American air, even though his holiday had been rather expensive for a poor barber.

over, every person—married or single—whose gross income was $500 or more must file a return.

Net income is a figure arrived at by totaling income from all sources, then subtracting from that figure certain deductions specifically outlined, covering interest paid, taxes paid, losses by fire and storm, bad debts, and contributions to charity. Net income is an arbitrary figure which can only be determined according to the tax books.

Which Form Is Yours?

Uncle Sam requires that employers report to him a complete list of all incomes paid to employees that equal or exceed the legal exemption. This is the government's method of double-checking to see that nobody escapes tax payment.

There are two kinds of forms on which personal income tax returns are made, and it is important that you use the proper one. Form 1040-A, a single sheet blank, is for reporting net incomes of not more than $5000. Form 1040, a larger folded blank, is for net incomes of more than $5000. The latter form must also be used by business and professional men and farmers, regardless of the amount of income.

A farmer who keeps no books keeps his books on a cash basis and is also required to fill out another form, 1040-F, and attach it to his return.

While all returns must be filed by midnight, March 15, and at least one-fourth of the tax paid at that time, the rest of the tax, if desired, can be paid in three equal installments on June 15, Sept. 15 and Dec. 15.

Lower Exemptions Hit Three Million More Citizens March 15

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—Nearly three and a half million persons who did not have to file an income tax return last year must do so this year. That is the latest government estimate.

This new return, which must be filed by midnight of March 15, covers the income for the calendar year 1932. Lowering of exemptions for both single and married

Status of Taxpayer	NET INCOME
	$1100	$1800	$2600	$3600	$5100	$6100
Single	$4	$32	$60	$104	$168	$249
Married, no children	no tax	no tax	$4	$44	$104	$145
Married, one child	no tax	no tax	no tax	$28	$88	$129
Married, two children	no tax	no tax	no tax	$12	$72	$113
Married, three children	no tax	no tax	no tax	no tax	$52	$97

Here's how the new income taxes will affect incomes of various sizes. The above chart is calculated on net income at the basic rates, taking no deductions but the personal exemption. Your tax thus won't exactly coincide with these figures even if your net income does. The chart shows how the tax increases as income climbs. Note how the single man is liable as soon as his net income goes above $1000, while the married man with three children is still exempt at $3600, though he would have to make a return. The single man at $5100 is the first to feel the effect of the 8 per cent bracket, and at $6100 first to feel the surtax.

persons means these new taxpayers will be gathered into the fold this year. The stiffest increase in tax rates in the peace-time history of the nation means that far more tax must be paid on the same amount of income.

Here's what has happened: The exemption allowed married men and heads of families has been cut from $3500 to $2500; the exemption allowed single men has been cut from $1500 to $1000; the 25 per cent reduction formerly allowed on "earned incomes" has been entirely eliminated.

The new tax rate is 4 per cent on the first $4000, and 8 per cent on all the rest. Surtax rates in certain brackets have more than doubled.

The credit allowed for each child or other dependent stands unchanged at $400.

Your Responsibility

To every person who paid a federal income tax last year, U. S. collectors of internal revenue throughout the country are mailing an income tax return blank this year. But it will be up to the army of new taxpayers to get their own blanks. They may have had an application to any collector's office. These offices are now open to receive returns, all of which must be filed by midnight, March 15. The responsibility for filing rests entirely with the individual, and willful failure to do so is punishable by added penalty, fine or imprisonment.

In short, a return must be filed by every married person or head of a family whose net income in the calendar year of 1932 was $2500 or more, and by every single person whose net income was $1000 or more, even if their exemptions and credits for dependents are sufficient to offset the necessity of paying a tax. Moreover, every person—married or single—whose gross income was $500 or more must file a return.

"Early filing is of great impor-

more than two years, those are reckoned as capital assets, and are still deductible, but the tax may not be reduced by more than 12 1/2 per cent by such losses sustained.

Married Folk Pay More

While married men still have a personal exemption of $2500 and $400 for each child or dependent, most of them will pay higher income taxes than last year even though their salaries have been cut, and many married men will be added to the income tax roll.

If you had a new baby during 1932, you get credit for only such part of $400 exemption as is proportional to the number of months the baby had lived by the end of the year; for instance if it was born June 30, you get credit for half a year, $200. In order to qualify for the $2500 exemption as a married man, the taxpayer must have lived with his wife throughout 1932. Divorcees, widowers and widows do not count. If this status changed during 1932, again the taxpayer gets credit for a part of $2500 exemption in proportion to the part of the year during which he actually lived with his wife.

Husbands and wives may file separate returns if they choose, and under certain conditions this lessens the tax. If the exemption is split, sometimes neither total comes in the second or 8 per cent bracket, or perhaps both avoid the surtax brackets. You can tell only by figuring them out.

The law defines a dependent, for each of which $400 deduction from net incomes may be made, as a child under 18 years of age or a person "incapable of self-support because mentally or physically defective." The taxpayer must actually be the chief support of such a person to claim exemption properly.

If you have been contributing to the support of relatives, say, who are out of jobs, you can't deduct for that, for it comes neither under the "organized charity" contributions or the "chief support" provisions of the law.

While both unmarried and married people pay tax at the same rates, the unmarried pay more because their income falls earlier into the taxpaying class. If you are unmarried and without dependents, and earn upwards of $20 a week, you probably will pay a tax, or at least make a return.

An unmarried person, however, who is actually the support of others may be considered for tax purposes "the head of a family," and as such entitled to the same $2500 exemption as a married man. He may also take the same $400 credits for bona fide dependents as married men.

Single men or women who married during 1932 may claim exemption for the portion of $2500 which coincides with the period they were really married, plus the portion of $1000 which coincides with the period in which they were single.

Gains and Losses

One of the most important changes is that limiting the amount of deduction for losses in the sale of stocks and bonds. The loss on such assets, held less than two years and sold during 1932, may be deducted as before. But in the new law, they may be deducted only to the extent of such gains. In other words, if you sold at a loss stocks held less than two years, you may deduct this loss only to the extent that you made gains in the same way. If the losses exceed the gains, you may carry over to future years the amount of excess, and set them off against later gains.

As to losses on securities held

aries are exemption if their is in connection with a mental function, like police firemen, but not if it is a primary function, like employes municipal light plant.

Income from a life insurance policy paid off by reason of death from inheritances, and from workmen's compensation laws exempt.

Despite the increase in federal income tax rates, chance is that they will be higher next year, for they are expected to produce less income for the government than the rates of 1931, because all the fell off in 1932. War-time rates of 6 per cent on the first and $12 per cent on all above are actively being considered in Washington.

Dividends from stock of domestic corporations are not subject to normal tax, but are subject to surtax. Interest from government and state and municipal bonds is exempt except in the higher brackets. Taxes you paid out under the "nuisance taxes" of last year are partly deductible. Those like the one-cent-a-gallon federal gasoline tax which is collected from the manufacturer, are not, but those you paid directly, like those on bank checks or electric light bills, are. Admission taxes are deductible if you have kept an account of the amounts you have paid.

Business and professional men, and farmers, face the same scale of increases. These classes are allowed perhaps more deductions in certain ways, but their total tax will be higher. The cost of operating your automobile is deductible only to the extent that it is used in your business, and its purchase price is not deductible at all. City, state and municipal employes' salaries are exemption if their is in connection with a mental function, like police firemen, but not if it is a primary function, like employes municipal light plant.

91% of All Human Ills Originate In Stomach

Failure to Supply Body With Essential Minerals Allows Excessive Acids to Destroy Health and Vitality.

Medical science, constantly searching for ways to prolong life, frequently come forward with startling statements of their findings, but no more astounding announcement has been made in recent years than the statement of an eminent Chemist who now declares that "There is no natural death. All deaths from so-called natural causes are merely the end point of progressive acid saturation."

TIMELY WARNING

An amazing statement indeed but a warning, that if heeded, should improve the health and well being, increase the joy of living, and prolong the lives of millions of men, women and children who might otherwise drag through a weary life to an untimely end.

ACIDITY KILLS MILLIONS

Health authorities now agree that 91% of all diseases originate in the stomach and are caused by poor cooking, improper diet, and the eating of highly refined foods. Mound Builders Mecca Is Found

WICKLIFFE, Ky.—The mecca, or shrine, of the Mound Builders, a race of people that preceded the Indians to America, has been discovered by archaeologists on a high bluff overlooking the juncture of the Ohio and Mississippi rivers here.

Excavations being conducted under the direction of Fain W. King, for 30 years one of America's foremost amateur archaeologists, already have resulted in discovery of three temples to which these early inhabitants of America brought offerings from hundreds of miles.

At the base of these temples were found marine shells from the Gulf of Mexico; flake mica from the Carolinas; copper coated ornaments from the Northwest; lead ore from the Joplin, Mo., district; flint that must have come from the Rosiclar district of the Ohio River and hematite of iron ore from the Cumberland River district.

The mounds cover an area of more than 25 acres, indicating archaeologists say, not only that here was located the mecca of the Mound Builders, but that one of the metropolises of their civilization.

Estimates of the time the city flourished range from 5,000 to 10,000 years ago. It probably was inhabited for at least 1,000 years. About these temples, of which it is estimated there are 140, also were located the burial grounds of the Mound Builders.

The excavations have revealed three distinct types of burials. One of the most common is the prone, or extended type, which were made with the flesh on the bones. Another is the "bundled" burials, in which the flesh had been removed from the bones at some point and the bones placed in the mound. The third were small urns containing the ashes of the cremated dead.

Unexpected Leap Set Ski Record

BERLIN.—Take-off facilities for ski-jumping constantly are being improved and ever longer jumps are possible. A few years ago, a jump of 60 meters would have won first place in any international competition. Now it is hard to place with anything under 70 meters, and new take-off boards are constructed—with the aid of experts in aerial dynamics—which have said to make possible jumps close to the 100 meter mark.

Yet modern champions will have to jump a great deal farther to reach the record of 200 meters, established on Feb. 19, 1911, by Franz Curdes, then a private in the Fifth Battalion of Prussian Chasseurs, at Hirschberg, Silesia. Franz Curdes' achievement was preserved in the official annals of his battalion, corroborated by a non-commissioned officer and a number of privates as eyewitnesses.

Curdes set his record involuntarily. On Feb. 19, 1911, he was out with his platoon on ski practice on the slopes of the Grant Mountains, Silesia. The Fifth Chasseurs were the first outfit of the old Imperial Army to train its men in ski-ing. At noon, a snow-storm overtook the platoon and the commanding non-commissioned officer ordered return to the barracks, with Curdes to lead the down-hill journey.

Private Curdes set out at a great pace, a little to one side of the rest of the platoon. Suddenly a small ridge loomed up in front of him. Curdes gathered himself for the leap which, he thought, would land him on another slope ten meters down.

In the blinding snowstorm, however, he had miscalculated his direction and, instead of taking the expected easy jump, Curdes went straight over the perpendicular cliff of "Schnee-grube," which at that point is 200 meters high.

Luckily, Curdes immediately realized his mistake and while flying through space he let out a yell of warning. The platoon veered from its course and by a few meters skirted the dangerous cliff, to behold their comrade, far below, unhurt, upright on his skis, gliding down the gentle slope beneath the Schnee-grube cliff.

OLD COIN

CANYON, Tex.—An ancient Chinese coin thought perhaps to have been lost years ago by a Chinese cook working on the old F-Anchor ranch, was found recently near the ranch headquarters, now a part of the West Texas Teachers college farm.

The coin, estimated to be 300 years old and identified as having been minted in the region of Tseng Cheng, has been added to the collection of the Panhandle-Plains museum here.

Old Courthouse Stands In Ruins

BRAZORIA, Tex.—Crumbling with age and with trees and vines growing from cracks in its walls, an old courthouse stands as a monument to the greatness that was to have been the destiny of this town founded by Stephen F. Austin on the lazy Brazos.

The building was constructed in 1897 at a cost of $87,000 and was used for less than a year. It was abandoned when the county seat was moved to Angleton where another courthouse was erected.

Throughout the years the old courthouse has stood in all its majestic loneliness on the public square. Since its single term of court, it has been boarded up. Its high dome overlooks a mighty sweep of the Brazos, surveying the domain that Austin predicted would be Brazoria's when he laid out the historic little city.

In later years vines and small trees have taken root in the walls and their branches shoot from the balconies and windows.

Negroes and small boys avoid the place, talking of "haints" and "spooks."

It was financed with 40-year bonds, and Brazoria county still has five more years to pay.

The courthouse's immediate future is destruction, for it has been turned over to Dr. C. C. Hampill, county commissioner, for disposition. Dr. Hampill said material and proceeds from the sale of material will be used to construct a surfaced road from the waterfront to the depot, a distance of about one mile.

"It seems a pity to tear the building down," said Dr. Hampill, "but we've got to get out of the mud."

Doctors Accused Of Not Reporting

AUSTIN.—When physicians make their usual demands for "health protection expenditures" to the present legislature, as they have done in the past, they are due for a surprise. Figures have been gathered to show that the doctors as a profession are not cooperating for public health.

For instance: state health department records have been assembled which show that only 54 cases of pellagra (a reportable disease) were reported by Texas physicians in 1931, yet the death records show 1,039 fatalities from it. Tuberculosis is also a disease upon which a report is required. In the same year the Texas physicians reported 1,066 cases. They signed 4,304 death certificates giving tuberculosis as the cause of death.

Some legislators this year are going to bob up and ask what the health department did about prosecuting a physician who signed such a death certificate and had failed to report the disease while treating the patient. Others may ask the medical lobbyists the embarrassing question:

"What is the State Medical association doing about it?" And "Does this comport with the ethics of the profession?"

Complaints Are Filed Against Guizeppe Zangara

MIAMI, Feb. 16.—Complaints charging assault and attempt to commit murder on four counts were filed late today against Guizeppe Zangara, who attempted to assassinate President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt last night.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 16.—President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, saved from an assassin's bullet by the heroism of a woman, departed for New York today leaving behind him dangerously wounded, his friend, Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago.

Mr. Roosevelt's last act before leaving was to visit the hospital and comfort Cermak and four other victims of last night's attempted assassination.

For five minutes he remained with the mayor and then, in turn, visited Mrs. J. H. Gill, also desperately wounded, and Miss Margaret Krus of Newark, N. J. William Sinnott, New York, and Russell Caldwell of Florida, less seriously wounded.

Meanwhile police questioned Guizeppe Zangara, anarchist, who blamed "dome-hache" and a hatred of "the rich and powerful" for the impulse that led him to fire a volley of six shots at the President and his party last night.

Zangara was held on the sky-scraper city hall, safe from mob anger.

Mr. Roosevelt arrived here aboard a yacht at 7 p. m., yesterday, after a 10-day cruise of southern waters. Jovial and appearing fit in every way, he received newspapermen to discuss his trip and conferred briefly with intimate advisers.

Then he left the yacht to accept the formal welcome of Miami officials. A crowd of thousands waited to cheer him.

Mr. Roosevelt spoke briefly from the rear of an open automobile.

As he concluded and the crowd broke into cheers, Mr. Roosevelt leaned over and shook hands with Mayor Cermak who was standing on the running board of the car. Then the President-elect sat down and at that moment six shots spread panic through the throng.

From stories of eye witnesses, it appeared that just as he concluded speaking, Zangara, who had been standing, stooped, suddenly straightened up and pulled a pistol from his pocket.

Someone near him screamed. Mrs. M. J. Cross of Miami, standing beside him, saw the gun and tried to grasp it. Zangara stood upon a chair. Mrs. Cross leaped for his gun hand. Zangara fired.

Mayor Cermak fell to his knees. A secret service man leaped to protect Mr. Roosevelt. The driver of the car slipped the machine into gear and started away.

Mr. Roosevelt waved his hand to show he was unhurt, but stopped the automobile and carried the major to a hospital.

Detectives and secret service men leaped upon Zangara as he stood with the still-hot gun in his hand? The crowd surged around. There were cries of "lynch him." Officers surrounded Zangara and led him to an automobile. They hurried to the jail, two officers holding him on the trunk rack of the car.

"I'm glad it was me, not you," Mayor Cermak later told Mr. Roosevelt. "I wish you would be real careful? The country needs you badly. You shouldn't take any more chances as you took tonight."

CRITICALLY ILL

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 16.—A bulletin this afternoon on the condition of Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago said:

"Mayor Cermak's condition is unchanged. He is still critical. No unfavorable developments have arisen at the present time."

The bulletin was signed by three physicians.

HOP OUT OF BED "RARIN' TO GO"

If you have lost your pep, feel tired all the time, and hate to get up in the morning, don't take a dose of salts, mineral oil or laxative and expect it to pep you up and make you young again, because it won't do it.

Your glands regulate your health and the vital organs must be supplied with the all-important glandular hormones. The liver, the largest gland in the body, should pour two pounds of bile into the bowels daily to make your food digest and to keep you regular.

Glandular deficiency causes too much fat, or too little of it, gray hair or baldness, lack of pep, premature old age and death. Yerba-vida, Nature's "Plant of Life," has been found to be a powerful gland normalizer. Glands that have ceased to function are stimulated into renewed activity, constructive metabolism is again brought about, renewing both body and mind.

Yerba-vida is produced from plants growing wild on the American desert. It contains no drugs of any kind. In fact, no ingredients of any nature have been added to it. When brewed into a tea according to instructions, it becomes a delicious, satisfying beverage which has been found to accomplish wonders in cases of glandular troubles and also poisonous acidity.

G. M. B., of Los Angeles, California, writes: "From the very first day of using Yerba-vida I felt an increase in vitality, and in a few days all signs of indigestion with which I had been suffering for years had disappeared. But the greatest benefit of all is that I am no longer constipated, for which I am more grateful than I can tell, as I have had to resort to every kind and sort of pill and cathartic for years and have never received permanent relief from anything."

Yerba-vida is not a laxative, but greatly assists nature in overcoming constipation.

A large package, enough for 240 cups, can be obtained for only $1.00. If your local druggist cannot supply you, accept no substitute but send $1.00 direct to Yerba-vida Sales Co., 612 Southwest Bldg., Los Angeles, Calif.

HOME BURNED The home of Melvin E. Greer, located in Hillcrest addition, Eastland, was completely destroyed by fire Friday afternoon at about 3 o'clock. The house was a complete loss and what little furniture that was gotten out was so badly damaged that it cannot be used. When the fire was discovered by members of the family the alarm was turned in. The fire department responded to the call immediately, but the flames had gained too much headway to be controlled. It is reported that there was no insurance on the property.

Mrs. Greer, who is a mechanic for the Butler-Harvey Chevrolet company, had recently purchased the lot and had moved the house from the Eastland Boiler & Welding shop. It is not definitely known how the blaze originated, but since the fire caught either in the ceiling or the roof, it is supposed to have been caused by a defective flue.

Friends of Mr. Greer's family cared for them Friday night. It is understood that he has not yet made definite plans for the future.

What Is

ATHLETE'S FOOT

Over 30 Million Americans Now Have It— Is This Dreaded Disease Becoming a Plague?

Athlete's Foot is a fungus germ (Tinea) which appears on the feet in the form of a little yellow blister, causing severe irritation and itching—especially between the toes. This disease is very contagious and is spreading with alarming rapidity among all classes of people.

The failure to successfully treat Athlete's Foot in the past has been due largely to the fact that these germs hibernate in the pores of the shoes. Salves and liquids applied only to the feet DO NOT PENETRATE THE PORES OF THE SHOES.

Medical Science has recently developed an amazing treatment known as Merit Foot Powder, which laboratory and clinical tests have proved will positively kill these germs and restore feet so infected to a normal, healthy condition. It is simply sifted on the feet and into the shoes.

Merit Foot Powder quickly eliminates excessive perspiration and itching of the toes. It heals irritation and is unsurpassed for chafing and as a deodorant. Why suffer another day when this fast working treatment is positively guaranteed to overcome these distressing conditions or your money refunded?

What Is

ATHLETE'S FOOT

Over 30 Million Americans Now Have It— Is This Dreaded Disease Becoming a Plague?

Athlete's Foot is a fungus germ (Tinea) which appears on the feet in the form of a little yellow blister, causing severe irritation and itching—especially between the toes. This disease is very contagious and is spreading with alarming rapidity among all classes of people.

The failure to successfully treat Athlete's Foot in the past has been due largely to the fact that these germs hibernate in the pores of the shoes. Salves and liquids applied only to the feet DO NOT PENETRATE THE PORES OF THE SHOES.

Medical Science has recently developed an amazing treatment known as Merit Foot Powder, which laboratory and clinical tests have proved will positively kill these germs and restore feet so infected to a normal, healthy condition. It is simply sifted on the feet and into the shoes.

Merit Foot Powder quickly eliminates excessive perspiration and itching of the toes. It heals irritation and is unsurpassed for chafing and as a deodorant. Why suffer another day when this fast working treatment is positively guaranteed to overcome these distressing conditions or your money refunded?
