NIGHT MAYOR
LEE TRACY-EVELYN KNAPP
NOVELIZATION BY ARRANGEMENT WITH COLUMBIA PICTURES

WHAT HAS HAPPENED
The Governor of the state has threatened to remove Mayor Bobby Kingston on the charge of the Civic Reform Committee unless he gives up his intention for Doree Daven, a "Follies Girl." Hymie Shane, the Mayor's chief assistant, has got Bobby to go to Atlantic City, to be away from the girl and to prepare an answer to the charges. While the Mayor is away Hymie hopes to get the girl married to Fred Fields, a newspaper reporter and former sweetheart of the girl.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
As soon as the Mayor had departed, Hymie went to Fred.
"I want to have a serious talk with you," he said. "Doree does know it, but she's crazy about you. There has never been anything between her and the Mayor."
"What's on your mind?" Fields asked somewhat incredulously at Shane's remarks.

"Your paper sent the only one that's threatening to break the story of the Mayor's new infatuation. That would ruin him politically. The only way to stop the story is for her to get married."

"Married?" Fields heart sank. "To whom?" he asked weakly.
"To you, of course. You love her, don't you?"
"Of course, I love her. I always have."

"Doree's a smart girl. She'll listen to reason. I got Bobby out of town so we could have a talk with her. Now go over to the phone and call her up. Get her to come down here."

Hymie was proud of himself and the way he was handling things. The Mayor was right into his trap. But Fred was not so keen on calling the girl, before whom he had realized that his jealousy had caused her to do what she had, and he was ashamed.

Urged by Hymie, Fields called her apartment. The maid answered. Fields asked for Doree. Hymie beamed with satisfaction. "She's gone!" Fields exclaimed. "Gone where? Atlantic City?"

"The dirty double-crosser," Hymie exclaimed, sinking into a chair, a picture of gloom. But he was not long in rousing himself into action. He fairly pulled Fields out of the room. "Come on, let's get out of here."

"Where are you going?" the startled Fields inquired, unwilling to be hauled about by the Mayor and his colleagues.
"We're going to Atlantic City, and as quick as we can make it. There's work for us to do there, and plenty of it, too."

Unconscious of the developments at home, Bobby was happy at the seashore resort. He engaged an elaborate suite next to Doree's and then phoned her to visit him and look the place over.

"Listen, Doree, I didn't come down here to prepare any answer to charges. I came down here to figure out what's going to happen to you and me. You say the word and I'll chuck everything and we'll be married."

"You can't. It would ruin you in politics," she declared.
"So what?"
"So we'd both be unhappy. Bobby, you're not cut out to be a private person." She looked at him admiringly. "How greatly you'd miss being His Honor the Mayor. The opening nights with crowds and public appearances, your speeches, the responsibility of running a great city, your police escort, the siren—especially the sirens, both kinds." She laughed.

"You're really the only siren I care about," he vowed.
"I wish that were true."
A knock at the door interrupted a reply. The Mayor opened the door and in walked Fred and Hymie.
"I want to talk to you," Fields declared. "At the same time Hymie got Doree one side. I've got something terribly important to tell you. The Mayor is in the worst jam he was ever in in his whole life."

"What is it?" she inquired.
"You."
"Hymie put you up to this," the Mayor declared as he faced Fields.
"Don't be a fool," Fields retorted. "The only way you can save yourself politically is to give her up."
"Since when, your sudden interest in my career?" The Mayor was sarcastic.
"I don't give a hoot about your career. It's Doree I'm worried about."
"You ought to. You left a bad impression on her the last time we met."
Fred was contrite. "I know it. I said a lot of things I ought to be sorry for. I said them because I was jealous. And I was jealous because I loved her."
"Hasn't it ever occurred to you that I love her too?" The Mayor inquired. "I'm sick of having my life run for me. You can't do this. You can't do that. You mustn't do this."

Mrs. Milton Lawrence
Entertains for Son Dicky Day Lawrence, the interesting son of Attorney Milton Lawrence and wife, had his third birthday celebrated at the family home, a 5 o'clock in the afternoon, a delightful affair on the lawn, where the children played about the artistic fish ponds laid out in the form of a double basket with handles of vines and shrubs.
 Games were led by his sister, Doris Lawrence, assisted by her young guests, Frances Lane, Frances Lane, Alice Jones, Elizabeth Ann Sikes, and Katherine Garrett.
 Mrs. Francis Cooper assisted Mrs. Lawrence, when the "party" hour came for the birthday cake, that centered the lace laid table in the dining-room.
 The confection rose in three tiers with animal cookies marching around each layer inside a red stick candy fence, a pretty decoration of the white iced cake, which was topped with three lighted red tapers, in observance of Dicky's important birthday.
 The cake was served the children with rose tinted ice cream.
 Many pretty gifts were received by the small son, whose guests were Mary Jo Thompson, Norma Jean Walters, Virginia and Marion Dick, Bobby, Frankie Mae and Wila Dean Pierce; Sarah and Katherine Garrett, Mary Gray of Carbon; Charles Ellis Jr., Gordon Wayne Cooper, Joe H. Jones Jr., Donald L. Kinnaird Jr.
 Kodak pictures of Dicky and his friends were taken by Mrs. Lawrence.

Bridge Foursome
 Mrs. J. B. Leonard had as her guests for noon luncheon Wednesday at "The Flower Pot," the intimate bridge foursome, that meets occasionally for an informal afternoon or morning game.
 Places were laid at luncheon for Mrs. Milton Lawrence, Mrs. Donald L. Kinnaird, Mrs. J. F. Little, and Mrs. J. B. Leonard, hostess.

Booby Bridge Bunch
 Miss Pauline Bida was a delightful young hostess, Wednesday morning at half past eight o'clock at the family home to the Booby Bridge bunch, when three tables were employed in bridge.
 The table appointments were in-matching fan shaped tallies and score books.
 Favor for high score in game, a novelty jewel box, was awarded Miss Audrey Brawner, and consolation, a hand-made kerchief, went to Miss Lewal Chance.
 At noon the hostess served a delicious two-course luncheon, of meat loaf, creamed peas, new potatoes, iced tomatoes, baked okra, pickles, hot rolls, and second course of chocolate ice box cake with pecan dressing, and rose-tinted lemonade.
 Miss Louise Day will entertain the club next Wednesday afternoon.
 Those present, Misses Ruth Rosenquest, Lewal Chance, Lurline Brawner, Eloise Ligon, Ellen Francis, Margaret Fry, Audrey Brawner, Louise Day, Florence
 Perkins, Ruth Harris, Marie Shoopman, and hostess, Miss Paul-

Mrs. James Horton
Entertains House Guest
 One of the pretty affairs of this week was that of Mrs. James Horton who entertained at her handsome home Wednesday afternoon with cards in honor of her house guest, Mrs. Wayne Jessup of Topeka, Kan., and Mrs. M. C. Hayes of Eastland, who is leaving Saturday with Mr. Hayes for their new home in California.
 Three tables for contract and one for auction occupied the guests and high scores, a handsome box of bath powder and a novelty container of jasmine powder were awarded Mrs. C. W. Geue in contract, and Mrs. William Jessup in auction.
 The home was prettily decorated with bouquets of marigold and periwinkle with colors reflected in the tea plate of frozen fruit salad, open face sandwiches, wafers and tea chilled with iced lemon and mint cubes.
 Guests were Meses. W. H. Mc-Donald, Ammer, Grady Pipkin,
 M. L. Keasler, W. B. Pickens, Wayne Jones, E. Roy Townsend,
 W. B. Collier, Ray Larner, C. W.

Mrs. E. M. Hunt
Honored on 90th Birthday Mr. and Mrs. John Mays were at home on a recent date in honor of Mrs. Mays' mother, Mrs. E. M.

 Hunt, nee Pauline Noblett, and who had her 90th birthday celebrated in a very beautiful manner by her family.
 Mrs. Hunt was born in northern Indiana in 1843 and with her parents came to Texas in 1854, locating at Bonham, where she met and married Rev. E. M. Hunt in 1869.
 Their home was made in Texas and they lived in many towns in the course of Mr. Hunt's pastorate, coming to Eastland in 1897, her home ever since.
 Mrs. Hunt reared six children, five sons and one daughter.
 Rev. Hunt passed away Jan. 24, 1923.
 A buffet dinner was served at the home of her daughter, Mrs.
 Mays, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon.
 Mrs. Hunt presided at the handsomely laid table, which was dressed in flowers and centered with two beautiful birthday cakes, iced in white and orchid, with the words traced in icing, "Grandmother Hunt," on the cake presented by Mrs. Mays, and the date "1843-1933" in icing, bordered with 90 tiny rosebuds, the work and gift of Mrs. Milton Lawrence.
 Each cake was set in a wreath of roses, and served with iced frUITED punch following the buffet dinner, when everything imaginable that was delicious to eat was bounteously provided.

 The relatives present included Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hunt; Mr. and Mrs. Homer Hunt of Breckenridge; Mr. and Mrs. Evon Fincher of Moran; J. A. Rosenquest, his daughter, Joan, and son, John, of Breckenridge; Mr. and Mrs. S. C.
 Hunt and daughter, Irma, of Eastland.
 Mrs. Florine Webb and children, Della Mae, Pressley, Ernest and Ressie Webb.
 Others were Mrs. Wilber
 Wright, Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Grie-

Mrs. Hayes Honored
 Mrs. C. W. Geue of Leon lake honored Mrs. M. C. Hayes with a delightful entertainment, Tuesday evening, when a picnic supper at 6:30 p. m. was enjoyed on the lake shore in a picturesque park, half a mile from the hostess' residence.

 A buffet table by the water's edge was linen laid, centered with flowers and provided with jellied veal loaf, salads, deviled eggs, iced tomatoes, olives, pickles, hot rolls, toasted wheat wafers, chocolate squares and iced tea.
 Several small tables, linen surfaced, were spaced among the rocks and boulders, covered with cushions, making comfortable seats.
 A toast to Mrs. Hayes was offered by Mrs. Ray Larner, and Mrs. J. Leroy Arnold followed in recalling memories, sad and pleasant, of Mrs. Hayes' association with the Presbyterian church and its activities.
 Mrs. James Horton, in a delightful speech of the work of Mrs.
 Hayes and appreciation of the church of her efficient faithfulness presented Mrs. Hayes, on behalf of the Presbyterian Women's auxiliary, their individual gifts of lovely handkerchiefs.
 Preceding the supper a grace was offered by Mrs. Geue, the hostess.
 Personnel: Mrs. M. C. Hayes, honoree, and Meses. H. B. Sone, J.
 H. Pangburn, F. Bond, Beskow,

N.R.A. Questions

(Continued from page 1) codes of fair competition are concerned? A—Yes. Q—Are railroads affected and will dispatchers, operators, conductors and trainmen be put on shorter work weeks? A—It has been assumed that railroads are not under the NRA. The NRA has not made a specific ruling. Q—Does the NRA affect workers on large estates, gardeners, chauffeurs, maids, etc.? A—No. Q—How will hotel employes be affected? A—They will be regarded as "service" employes with a maximum work week of 40 hours and graduated minimum pay depending on the size of their city. Q—Will there be any objections to agreements for uniform opening and closing hours in stores of any given city? A—No, provided the stores do not reduce their hours below the 52 specified in paragraph 2 of the agreement. Q—A waitress is paid 80 cents a day and tips. Must the 80 cents be raised to the minimum wage of $14. A—The unofficial interpretation is that tips may be counted in computing the total weekly remuneration. Q—Can an employer force employes to take time off during the day to come within the hour limit on a seven-day schedule? A—An employer may not violate the spirit of the agreement by forcing employes to take unreasonable time off during the day. Section 8 of the agreement pledges the employer "not to use subterfuge to frustrate the spirit and intent of this agreement."

Sunday School Lesson

PICTURES OF SILVER By BEULAH K. HICKS Ruth 1:6-10, 14-19

Ruth—a book of four short chapters. What an unfolding of beautiful pictures; pictures that shall live through the centuries of time, of love and humble devotion. Three heart-broken widows, Naomi, wife of Elimelech; Orpah, wife of Chilion; Ruth, wife of Mahlon; made preparation for a journey back to Judah, Naomi's country; leaving behind the three graves, which Naomi left to be the result of living in a heathen land under a strange God, Chemosh. The wives of these sons, Ruth and Orpah, were heathen Moabites. Naomi, Ruth and Orpah set out on the return journey. Naomi was troubled and insisted that the girls turn back to their mother's houses. Orpah turned back. Ruth, with a great love for her mother-in-law, visioned the hardships in a strange land, but caught a higher vision of Naomi's God and refused to turn back. And Ruth said, "Entreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee: for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God." Ruth 1:16. This pure, unselfish love with Naomi's God as her God, led Ruth through many wonderful experiences to a home of plenty where happiness and contentment dwelled with her as the wife of Boaz. A son, Obed, was born to them, who was the father of Jesse, who was the father of the great King David, who was the most famous earthly ancestor of our Lord Jesus Christ.

This same Jesus who taught many years later the truth exemplified in the life of Ruth, that whosoever should save his life must lose it. Ruth gave up her home, her God and her people to go with Naomi, whom she loved. This love brought her to Jehovah, Lord of Hosts, who blessed her, of heathen parents, to come in the line of blessed ancestry of His Son. In the selection of friends today we more often count what they can do for us in a worldly way rather than how we can mutually grow higher in spiritual perception, catching new visions of love and service. Boaz, who was in a hurry to claim this gentle maiden, Ruth, as his bride, was kind, courteous, and considerate of the law, giving the nearest kinsman choice as the law demanded. Do we select friends today that influence us to higher planes or do they pull us into the common humdrum of the way of the world where "we heed not Jehovah's hand." No one really lives who does not have a great friendship. Truly we have many friends; are a friend to many people, but a friendship founded upon the principles exemplified in the life of Ruth and taught in the New Testament is rare and beautiful. Jesus is the friend of friends and his words are ever a comfort and inspiration to those who draw nigh unto Him. He ever taught, "Let us love one another; for love is of God." 1 John 4:7.

Court Names

(Continued from page 1) whether or not beer shall be sold within its borders, the court will be glad to submit the proposition as the law authorizes, but will do so only upon a petition signed by the required number of qualified voters of the justice precinct, incorporated city or town. Judge Garrett explained that the law further provides that the election shall be ordered not more than 20 days nor less than 10 days prior to the date of the election, which is August the 26th. In commenting on the county-wide election, Judge Garrett said that the court is ordering this without requiring the petition for the reason that it is convinced that the names of more than 500 qualified voters could be secured in the county, that being the required number, and that when such petition was presented the court would be compelled to order the election; therefore, the court deemed it unnecessary for that requirement to be made. The Judge further stated that the court was not advised as to what any political sub-division wished to do in this matter, hence petitions would be required and, further, that the law is not clear as to whether or not the court may order local option elections in these sub-divisions at the same time as the county-wide election is held, but if it can be done, it will be the purpose of the court to do so when properly petitioned. It is hoped that, just as far as possible, each and every issue be determined at one election, due to the saving of expense in the holding of all of them at one time, Judge Garrett said.

Eastus Talks

one of his first assistants and would have charge of the Dallas office and handle the cases being tried in Judge Atwell's court. In launching into his discussion Mr. Eastus gave the Hoover administration the blame for the depression, mentioning especially the foreign policy and the high tariff laws. He gave the wealth of the nation in 1929 as $350,000,000,000, saying that it had diminished to $250,000,000,000 today and giving the policies of President Hoover, mismanagement, and monopolies as the cause. Opening with the statement that last year the country elected a man as president who would do something for the common man, he gave a short sketch of the political history of President Roosevelt, saying that the country needed a Moses to bring us out of the depression and the president is the man, that we must know him to appreciate him and predicted that within 9 days we would realize that a super-mind was in control of affairs. He then reviewed the first few weeks of the present administration, calling attention especially to the closing of the banks with the re-opening in such a way as to save the depositors' money, saying that had not prompt and definite action been taken most of the 6,000 banks would have been closed within 90 days; whereas, only 150 of the smaller banks failed to open their doors and that some of these will open yet. Citing history to show that nations, since 50 B. C., have always come out of depressions by inflation, he declared that there was no danger in inflation of currency, if it were not inflated too much. Then he gave the history of the national bank, showing that it began in Lincoln's administration when Secretary Chase originated the national bank to provide the nation with $450,000,000, needed at the time. Mr. Eastus then took up legislation of this administration which was intended to improve the depressed conditions, mentioning the home loan fund act, the agricultural bill, stressing especially the $42,000,000 coming into Texas and the $18,000,000 for the Fort Worth district to reimburse farmers for cotton plowed up, closing the statement that within 60 days we would think we are living in another generation. Going into a discussion of the National Recovery Act the speaker said the policy was to first get everybody to work and all able-bodied people off of charity, calling on everybody to look forward with confidence, for the government intends all, regardless of power or prestige, to be on the same basis. After declaring that labor had
