THIS CURIOUS WORLD By William Ferguson

WHEN THE STINGER OF THE STING RAY BECOMES DULLED, IT IS SHED, AND A NEW ONE GROWS IN ITS PLACE.

MEADOWLARKS ARE MORE CLOSELY RELATED TO BLACKBIRDS THAN TO LARKS!

THE sharp spine of the sting ray projects from the middle of its whiplike tail, and sometimes reaches a length of seven inches. This spine makes a most formidable weapon, and with it the sting ray, or stingaree, can inflict serious wounds.

Sport Glances. By Grayson

UNEASY lies the head that wears the crown in the fistie game. Not only does that old saw hold true in the case of Heavyweight Champion Jimmy Braddock, whose throne is threatened by that dark banshee, Joe Louis, but it also is appropriate when applied to John Henry Lewis, the light-heavyweight king. Babe Risko, the middle monarch; Barney Ross, welterweight ruler; and Tony Canzoneri, leader of the lighties.

John Henry, the Los Angeles Negro who won the title from Bob Olin in St. Louis last October, is spending sleepless nights fretting over his impending bout with Jock McAvoy, the Englishman, on March 13—or why would he be trying to obtain the services of Jack Blackburn, trainer of Joe Louis, to get him into condition for the fight?

McAvoy has proved he isn't the regular type of English fighter by remaining upright in his few American battles and, what's stranger still, he generally has stood up long enough to see the other fellow fall on his face in the ring.

Last November the Briton made his American debut by winning a 10-round decision from Al McCoy. He followed by knocking out Babe Risko, middleweight champion, in one round, and scoring a 10-round triumph over Anson Green in Philadelphia.

BABE RISKO is faced with trouble on all sides. From the west comes the threat of Freddie Steele, the great Tacoma middleweight, who has a habit of fracturing other warriors' jawbones. So far, Steele's demanded purse shares haven't found a response from an eastern promoter, and for that reason the two boys can't be brought together. And is Risko glad!

LITTLE Tony Canzoneri's immediate worry is a welterweight match with Jimmy McLarnin, but after that he can't go back to his farm and score through an untroubled sleep. There is a whole flock of classy fighters on his trail, any of them capable of giving him an unpleasant evening.

First, and probably foremost in class, is Lou Ambers, the Herkimer Hurricane. Lou dropped a 15-round titular battle to the champion last May, but the 23-year-old windmill has come back a long way, with a new-found punch, that bodes ill for one of Tony's 21 years who has been waging the wars for more than a decade.

Pedro Montano, the Puerto Rican who recently drubbed Al Roth with much more ease than the champion did in a title go last October, is a real threat, with 11 straight victories chalked up in American rings.

Victoria to Join In Texas Celebrations
VICTORIA, Tex. — Victoria, center of a widespread cattle industry, will join the Texas Centennial celebrations parade on April 15, when it will review its colorful history with a field mass and pageant.

The mass will commemorate a mass held on the banks of the Guadalupe river on April 15, 1869, which was presided over by Alonzo de Leon who was searching for La Salle's settlement.

New Parole Boards Guarantee Fresh Start For Convicts

HOUSTON—Texas' new district parole board system, inaugurated by Gov. James V. Allred, has guaranteed a fresh start in life for more than a score of ex-convicts in the Houston area.

Charles W. McPhail, chairman of the Houston district parole board, said the ex-convicts, most of them youths, have been provided with work as mechanics, accountants, laborers. One chemist was listed among the men paroled to the board.

The men have been reporting to the board for the last two months, McPhail said. Each have a high opinion of the possibilities of the new system.

McPhail, former Houston chief of police, told other members of the parole board that the employment found for the ex-convicts "seems to be permanent" and that all the men were appreciated.

"Fortunately or unfortunately, depending on how you look at it," McPhail said, "Most of these men are about 19 or 20 years of age. Their jobs are giving them a new chance to make something of their lives."

The former police chief said most of the ex-prisoners were paroled to the custody of the district board by the governor, but some of the men were discharged prisoners seeking aid.

Duties of the district board, composed of nine men, are to supervise paroled prisoners, to keep in constant touch with them and provide for their care. Regular reports on each man are made to the state parole board.

Woman Heads Club Activities of Boys

CHICAGO. — Completely in charge of one of Chicago's largest boys' clubs is Miss Mabel Vera Sones, 28, attractive, champion cake baker and former Iowa farm girl.

Miss Sones learned about boys playing and working with her five brothers, she said.

"The best way to treat boys is to be fair and square with them and show that you're not afraid of them."

THIS NATURAL FOOD GENTLY REGULATES YOUR SYSTEM

Furnishes Needed "Bulk" for Regular Habits

Your doctor will tell you that keeping healthy depends far more on proper diet than on drugs, that common constipation is usually due to insufficient "bulk" in meals, and that patent medicines give you only temporary relief.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN supplies gently acting "bulk" which corrects the cause of common constipation. This "bulk" takes up moisture, forming a soft mass which helps to cleanse the system.

ALL-BRAN gives your body the regular internal exercise it needs to prevent sluggishness. ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B and iron.

She is a comrade of the 5,000 boys whose recreational activities she directs, yet holds their respect with commanding discipline when necessary.

Her ultimate objective is to prevent youngsters of tenement districts from growing into lawless ways, and to improve their tastes for art, music, drama, literature and folk ways.

Maybe it would be a good idea to hold election campaigns in the wintertime, since then earmuffs would be handier.

Newspaper of 1770 Gives Account of Boston Massacre

BOSTON, March 9.—One hundred and sixty-six years ago a barrage of snowballs precipitated the Boston Massacre.

The tragedy, in which four patriots were killed and seven were wounded, was one of several incidents that crystallized sentiment in the American colonies against British rule.

The following first-hand account of the massacre, surrounded by a black border and illustrated with four coffins bearing the initials of the victims, appeared in the Boston Gazette and Country Journal for March 17, 1719:

"On the evening of Monday, being the 5th current, several soldiers of the 29th regiment were seen parading the streets with their drawn cutlasses and bayonets, abusing and wounding numbers of the inhabitants.

Four Youths on Scene

"A few minutes after 9 o'clock, four youths named Edward Archibald, William Merchant, Francis Archibald and John Leeb, Jr., came down Cornhill together, and separating at Doctor Loring's corner, the two former were passing the narrow alley leading to Murray's barnack, in which was a soldier brandishing a sword of an uncommon size against the walls, out of which he struck fire plentifully. A person of mean countenance armed with a large cudgel bore him company.

"Edward Archibald admonished Mr. Merchant to take care of the sword, on which the soldier turned around and struck Archibald on the arm, then pushed at Merchant . . . Merchant then struck the soldier with a short stick he had, and the other person ran to the barracks and brought with him two soldiers, one armed with a pair of tongs and the other with a shovel.

Struck Down With Tongs

"He with the tongs pursued Archibald through the alley, colared and laid him over the head with the tongs. The noise brought people together, and John Hicks, a young lad, coming up, knocked the soldier down, but let him get up again; and more lads gathering, drove them back to the barnack . . .

"In less than a minute, 10 or 12 of them came out with drawn cutlasses, clubs and bayonets, and set upon the unarmed boys and young folks . . .

"On hearing the noise, one Samuel Atwood came up to see what was the matter . . . and when the boys had dispersed, he met 10 or 12 soldiers aforesaid rushing down the alley toward the square, and asked them if they intended to murder people.

Threats From Soldiers

"They answered: 'Yes by G-d, root and branch!'

"With that, one of them struck Mr. Atwood with a club, which was repeated by another, and being

W. C. Hammon to Represent Local Firm

Killingsworth, Cox & Co. have secured the services of W. C. Hammon as outside salesman for their Superflex kerosene refrigerators, Easy washing machines, Kelvinator electric refrigerators, radios, and other household appliances.

For a number of years Mr. Hammon has been with the Singer Sewing Machine Company, and also was dealer for the Easy Washing Machine. Company for over five years in Eastland county.

Farm Radios Can Now Be Operated With Low Upkeep

Killingsworth, Cox & Co. is announcing, today, savings that can be made on the latest battery radio sets for rural use.

With the purchase of each battery set Philco radio, which uses but one battery, a Windcharger for the battery will be sold at approximately one-third the usual cost for the Windcharger.

The Windcharger is a propeller type windmill with a generator for recharging batteries, which makes the upkeep on battery sets negligible, as the power is furnished by the wind. The de luxe model Windcharger is offered on the special deal offered by the company.

The Windcharger is mounted about 20 feet above ground, is hooked to the battery in the radio and then nature keeps the battery charged, making it as convenient to operate a battery model, without the expense of electricity or for having the battery recharged from time to time.

Texas Merchants See 1936 Trade As Topping 1929

CHICAGO.—Retail business in Texas, showing its greatest volume in 1935 since before the depression, is due this year to attain heights of "recovery" that will since 1935 beyond even the climactic boom year of 1929, a consensus of the Lone Star State's leading merchants indicates.

Averaging of scattered replies to a questionnaire sent by the Merchandise Mart here, nation's largest wholesale center under one roof, to 230 Texas retail store executives, reveals that the state's retail trade in 1935 was reported as 8.66 per cent ahead of 1934, and only 7.68 per cent behind 1929 business. The questionnaires were sent to leading Texas stores as part of a national campaign being conducted by the Merchandise Mart in an effort to stimulate retail activities generally.

Estimates as to expectations for 1936 ranged from an 8 per cent decline up to 40 per cent increases, the average being a predicted net gain of 9.63 per cent. This, combined with the figures showing 1935 only 7.68 per cent behind 1929, means that, barring unexpected crop failures, 1936 will see Texas retail business going stronger even than in the last pre-depression year! Widely divergent local crop conditions and other local factors apparently accounted for the big range in estimates reported for 1936.

Singularly, the fact that this is a "presidential year," traditional business bugaboo, was completely ignored by the merchants in their comments on probabilities of 1936 retail trade trends. This is interpreted by T. J. Reed, general manager of the Merchandise Mart, as evidence that the age-old forces of supply and demand are again dominant, with demand due to be unusually heavy because of the depreciation which has taken place during the depression years of minimum purchasing, particularly of household goods and furnishings.

The contention of many merchants and economists that long-deferred replacement of "things for the home," is providing one of the country's strongest vehicles for buying its way back to financial normalcy is substantiated by analysis of the sales gains as broken down into subdivisions of the larger stores. Reed pointed out. Generally speaking, these departments dealing with the more basic elements of home furnishing—that is, furniture, floor coverings, and curtains and draperies—showed by far the most striking and consistent gains.

This is strictly in line with the findings of the Mart in a survey of the 600 manufacturers exhibiting in the building and serving the entire country, that "fixing up the house" had been Mr. and Mrs. America's first thought during 1935, with spending money becoming more plentiful. Although sales gains were general in virtually all lines in the national picture, home furnishings showed more extensive increases than any other type of merchandise.

Improved crop conditions for the state as a whole, the natural corollary, increased farm income, government and state spending for forest and highway improvements, raising of more varied crops, and the coming Texas Centennial Exposition beginning in Dallas in June are some of the more frequently cited reasons for Texas trade gains in '35 and expected greater gains in the current year.

PANORAMIC VIEW OF THE WORLD'S GR EATEST MOTION PICTURE

The Arcadia Theatre again booked two of the years greatest pictures in one week, with several other very good pictures also on the schedule.

The old "come up and see me sometime" girl returns to Ranger in a new and somewhat different role. "Klondike Annie" begins on San Francisco's famed barbary coast in its lustiest days, and winds up in Alaska during the Gold Rush. Miss West entertains 'em in 'Frisco and in the Yukon with equal ease. In 'Frisco she is held virtually a captive by a jealous lover, and, when she seeks to escape, he tries to stop her by force. In the struggle he is killed. Mae flees to a steamer awaiting her in the harbor. The vessel is commanded by Victor McLaglen. He sets out under full steam for Alaska, stopping at one port to pick up passengers.

Among them is a girl missionary, bound for Nome. She and Miss West become firm friends and Mae is deeply grieved when she dies at sea. Just at this time federal officers board the ship and Mae has to don the missionary garments of the dead girl, and when the boat docks she has to carry on the pose.

How she does it, and what it ultimately brings, are told excitingly and amusingly in the climactic episodes of the film, which shows on Sunday and Monday at the Arcadia Theatre.

The second picture on this week's schedule, "A Midsummer Night's Dream" is without a doubt one of the greatest films produced since the beginning of motion picture, it takes a story three centuries old set to music written over a century ago and blends them together with all the skill and equipment of the industry today and has turned out a magnificent picture, that through all the ages will stand out as one of the greatest achievements of all times.

This great play was written by William Shakespeare, but was classed as his greatest comedy, so that takes care of the seriousness that fill most minds when the name of Shakespeare is mentioned.

Names of the cast as, Joe Brown, James Sagney, Hugh Herbert and Frank McHugh prove there must be some really good comedy in it. All critics have simply raved about every scene of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," and the three romances are unforgettable, plus the lines that only Shakespeare could write.

This picture is to be shown only one day in Ranger, Wednesday, March 18, and there will be only two performances daily, at 2:30 and 8:00.

WHERE YOU WILL FIND LESS WORK AND MORE FUN

"Efficiency," said Aesop 4,000 years ago, "is coaxing a cat across the room instead of pulling him by the tail."

If you've been taking hours to bake the morning biscuits and fry the dinner chicken, and wind up feeling as though every kitchen in the world ought to be at the bottom of the South Atlantic—we have a most pleasant surprise in store for you. For intriguing, delicious foods can be "coaxed" together in hours less time than you ever imagined. There are all sorts of little time savers and wife-savers on your pantry-shelves, in the spice-cans in your cabinet, in scraps that you've always thrown away.

And these efficiencies are so simple, practical and easy! That's why we've planned our cooking school—just to show them to you. We know you'll enjoy every minute of the cooking school, and we urge you not to miss a single second. Come as our guest.

TWO OF YEAR'S ACE PICTURES AT ARCADIA

'Klondike Annie' and 'A Midsummer Night's Dream' Head Arcadia Theatre Program List This Week.

The reason Warner Bros. picture, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," as produced by Prof. Max Reinhardt is conceded to be the world's greatest film, is demonstrated by the accompanying composite photograph.

amidst a bevy of sleeping elves, sprites and fairies, who dance up and down the moonbeams that illuminate them.

Between "Puck" and Jory is the lissome figure of Nina Theilade, world famous prima ballerina, who leads the magnificent ballets of the production. In front of her are the four romantic characters of the comedy. They are, reading from left to right, Olivia de Havilland, in the arms of Dick Powell, and Ross Alexander kissing the hand of Jean Muir.

Next in line are the regal figures of Verree Teasdale and Ian Hunter, who have the roles of the Duke of Athens and the Amazon Queen.

Watching them is James Cagney after his transformation into a monster with the head of a donkey being wooed by Anita Louise.

In the foreground is the concentrated comedy of the production in the persons of the seven famous comedians who compose the group of artisans who meet with most surprising adventures in the elf infested woodlands.

Ways Pensioners Can Prove Ages Are Listed Here

AUSTIN—Facing old-age assistance applicants will be the difficulty of proving their ages, Orville S. Carpenter, executive director of the old age assistance commission, said today when asked what he thought the most difficult problem of old people making application.

Application forms will be distributed to cities and towns over the state and will be available to all who want them Feb. 14, when the law goes into effect. As required by the new law, certain facts must be established by the applicant. The law grants assistance to the needy who are 65 years of age or more, and each applicant must definitely and conclusively prove his or her age.

- 1. Birth certificates.
2. Marriage certificates giving the ages of both parties.
3. Birth certificates of children giving age of parents.
4. Ages of sons and daughters when these are sufficiently advanced.
5. Naturalization papers giving age at time of applying for same.
6. Passports. Service books of immigrants.

Curvaceous Mae West

Mae West, curvaceous blonde star, will be seen on Sunday and Monday at the Arcadia Theatre in her latest film, "Klondike Annie," a story of the Frozen North during the hectic Gold-Rush days of the gay and gusty '90's, in which she is starred with Victor McLaglen, virile hero of "The Informer" and "Professional Soldier."

- 7. County records. Baptismal certificates.
8. Insurance papers.
9. Employment records.
10. School records.
11. Records of trade unions, fraternal societies, or other organizations.
12. Federal or state records in the case of those who have been in civil or military service.
13. D. A. R., U. D. S., Daughters of Texas Revolution, etc.
14. Hospital records, or those of physicians.
15. Vaccination certificates.
16. Poll tax receipts that show the actual age of voter and not mere fact that he has passed a certain age.
17. Local census records which may give birth date and place. National census records, department of census, Washington, D. C.
18. Old licenses of various kinds (such as hunting, fishing, and liquor licenses) sometimes carrying age.
19. Tombstone records when stones have been erected in anticipation of death.
20. Entries in a family Bible or other genealogical records or memoranda of families of applicants.
21. Bills of sale as a slave in the case of aged negroes.
22. Such other evidence as the old age assistance commission may approve.

DESDEMONA

Mrs. A. C. Moore entertained the Home-Makers Class of the Baptist Church with a social on Tuesday of last week, honoring Mrs. Nettie Rushing with a handkerchief shower, as she was leaving on Wednesday for her new home at Freer. Those present at this delightful affair were Misses R. H. Abel, H. H. Williams, W. H. Powers, Mattie Watts, Willis Mathis, Gordon Tate, R. A. Brown, C. A. Skipping, D. B. Parks, H. N. Balderee, the honoree, Mrs. Nettie Rushing, and the hostess, Mrs. A. C. Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Key Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. John Key returned Saturday afternoon from a few days fishing trip down on the Llano river. Mr. and Mrs. John Key live in California and have been here the past two weeks visiting their daughter, Mrs. Lucille Hallmark, in the School Hill community, and also Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Key.

"Grandpa" and "Grandma" Williams of School Hill visited their sons, Howard and Clayton Williams, last week.

Mrs. Mattie Henry, W. H. Powers and Misses Edna Parks, Emma Genoway and Agatha Genoway drove to Gorman Saturday afternoon.

C. H. Genoway was a business visitor at Eastland Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace Morrison and daughter, Joe Cile Crenshaw, were business visitors at Fort Worth Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Pullig and daughter, Helen Virginia, visited Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Powers Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Wilhite and children of Odessa spent the weekend here with her mother, Mrs. J. R. Buchanan and family and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Wilhite. While here he went over to Gorman and had a minor operation on his eye.

Mrs. Elizabeth Williams spent the week-end with Mrs. Alta Faye Gentry in Ranger.

Mrs. Jake Christian of School Hill visited her sister, Mrs. Howard Williams, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ashburn drove to Dallas on business Thursday of last week.

E. E. Dabney of DeLeon was here Thursday visiting his brother, Lee Dabney, and family, and also looking after his property.

Gene Browning attended trades day at DeLeon Monday.

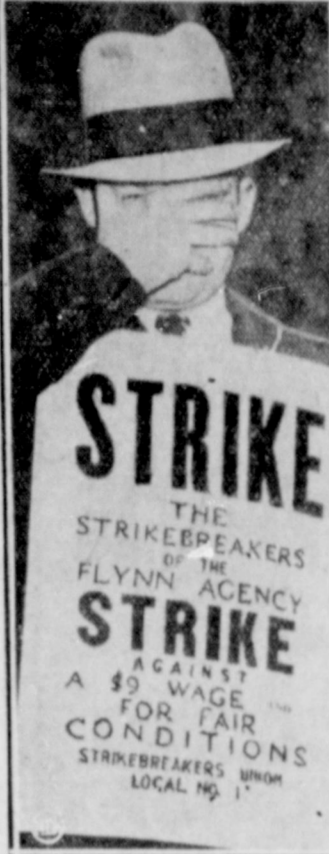

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Wright of Eliasville visited their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. D. Wright Monday.

J. T. Henry of Dublin was here Friday visiting his sister, Mrs. Eula Jones, and his brother, Tip Henry, and also looking after his property.

The Methodist Missionary Society met at the church Monday afternoon with eight members present. After the devotional led by Mrs. Charles Lee, the president, and the roll call and minutes read by the secretary, Mrs. S. E. Snodgrass, the program was taken up with Mrs. W. H. Whitworth, superintendent of study, as leader. The program was a study of the first and second chapters of the new study book, "Toward a Christian America." Sketches were given of the pioneer missionaries, not only of the Methodist Church but of other denominations. The story of the four Indians who made their way on foot from Oregon to St. Louis to find the "Book" of which they had heard through members of the Lewis and Clark Expedition, was quite interesting. Those present were Misses Charles Lee, S. E. Snodgrass, G. S. Bruce, W. H. Whitworth, E. M. Daily, Preston Sparks, Ed Parks, and W. C. Bedford.

little son, of Lubbock, visited her sister, Mrs. Eula Jones, and her brother, Tip Henry, Wednesday. The Carruths grew up in this community and have hosts of friends who are always glad to see them again. They are farming near Lubbock and stated that they raised the largest crops last year that they had ever seen.

We are glad to report that Miss Mollie O'Rear and her sister, Mrs. Annie Daniel, are both able to be up, though not real well yet.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rushing left Wednesday for their new home at Freer, where Mr. Rushing will have a men's clothing store. Both Mr. and Mrs. Rushing have hosts of friends here who are sorry to have them leave our town but wish them success in their new home.

Mrs. A. C. Robert and children drove to Jonesboro Saturday morning and visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Kellum Sr., until Sunday night. They went especially on account of the serious illness of her mother, who is still critically ill. Mr. and Mrs. Kellum lived here for a few years and have many friends who are hoping Mrs. Kellum may soon recover.

Mrs. George Crenshaw, who lives out at Lowell, spent Monday here with Mrs. S. E. Snodgrass. Her daughter, Miss Boyd Crenshaw, is staying with Mrs. Snodgrass in order to attend our high school.

T. H. Key arranged with Mrs. O. I. L. Ayres to operate her incubator. They will have their hatchery in the building recently occupied by the Abernathy grocery store, which they had bought.

The City Pharmacy, formerly owned by Roy Rushing but now the property of J. H. Rushing Jr., has been made more attractive by being repainted inside and some changes in arrangement of the stock. Bailey Stark, who has been pharmacist there for two years, is manager now.

Rev. Mrs. Earl Alexander and her husband, Miss Captola Browning, Miss Guandola Brazell and George Elton Brazell went to Ranger on Friday afternoon and attended the Ranger District Convention of the Church of God. A large crowd of delegates from several places attended the session, which closed Sunday night. Saturday afternoon Gene Browning took his mother, Mrs. S. E. Browning, up there and she stayed until Sunday night. Mrs. Browning and her daughter, Miss Captola, visited Mrs. Winnie Hoover, another daughter of Mrs. Browning.

Mr. and Mrs. Clay Emde of London, in the East Texas oil field, visited his mother, Mrs. Mollie Emde, the first of the week. Mrs. Emde had just moved from the house that she owns on the north side of the street into her large home that had been rented by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rushing the past year.

Tom Nabers was in Eastland on business Friday.

Mrs. Jeff Walker and children went over to Gorman on business Monday. They were taken over there by Cecil Warren.

O. P. Newberry and Alton Grison of Gorman visited friends here Sunday afternoon.

J. H. Jackson is progressing nicely on the water well that he is drilling on the land bought by the city of Desdemona from Jake Smith. The well is within a few yards of the large tank erected last year.

Precinct Election On Beer Declared To Be Illegal

AUSTIN, March 11.—Justice Precinct 6, Eastland county, cannot legally sell beer, thought it voted for such sale in a local option election. The State Supreme Court today refused a writ of error, leaving lower court decisions against beer to stand.

W. H. and C. E. Mayhew sought by mandamus to force County Judge Clyde Garrett to hold a license hearing which he refused. District Judge George Davenport refused to issue the mandamus. Facts agreed were that Eastland county was dry under local option in 1919 and prior to the beer amendment act of the 44th legislature in 1935.

Although he appreciates the advancement he is receiving, Jansing said today that he hated to leave Ranger, because he had many friends in the town and he liked the people here very much.

Jansing came to Ranger from Huntsville, Ala., where he was local manager for the company.

GRANDA, Spain, March 10.—A 24-hour general strike was declared today after rioting in which two convents and a church were set afire without great damage. The strike was called by left wing elements in protest against fascists, who are accused of wounding 15 laborers last night.

AUSTIN, March 10.—Bids were received by the highway department today on the first of a group of projects in March lettings, estimated to set a new state record of $8,000,000 in one month.

The list of projects for March 24 and 25 bidding included a feeder road from near Cuba school house to Cleburne.

Carl Jansing Is Being Transferred To Corpus Christi

Carl Jansing, for the past year and a half local manager for Montgomery Ward, received word Thursday morning that he was being transferred to the Corpus Christi store. He will leave for Corpus Christi soon and will be followed later by Mrs. Jansing and their young son, Tommy.

Since coming to Ranger Jansing has become quite popular with the entire citizenship, and has been actively engaged in many civic activities during his stay. He was also an active member of the local Lions Club.

No announcement had been received Thursday morning as to who the new manager of the store would be.

Although he appreciates the advancement he is receiving, Jansing said today that he hated to leave Ranger, because he had many friends in the town and he liked the people here very much.

Three Cities Ship 1,000 Car Loads of Fruit, Vegetables

By United Press

HARLINGEN.—Three Valley cities have now passed the 1,000 car load mark in the shipment of fruits and vegetables by rail this season, figures released by the Missouri Pacific and Southern Pacific lines show. Mercedes is leading with 400 cars ahead of her nearest competitor.

Mercedes has a total of 1,606 carloads. San Benito in second place gained 52 cars on Mercedes during the last week and now has a total of 1,212 carloads for the season. In third place is Weslaco with 1,131 carloads.

Fourth place goes to the little town of Elsa, which has moved 969 carloads, and which will be next to pass the 1,000 mark.

The Missouri Pacific Lines has moved 9,265 carloads of produce by rail this season as against 6,799 at the same time last year. Southern Pacific has shipped 3,272 as against 1,705 at the same time last year.

The total amount of movement by rail from the Valley this season is 12,537 carloads, as against 8,509 last year, or a gain of 40,028 carloads.

Jack Dempsey Flees From Many Cranks

NEW YORK, March 10.—Jack Dempsey brought his family back to New York from Atlantic City today to escape a deluge of crank telephone calls that followed revelation of a kidnaping threat against his 19-month-old daughter.

The former heavyweight champion and his wife bundled Joan into a pink coat and gave the slip to two detectives to regain their New York apartment without publicity.

Death of Abilene Student Probed

ABILENE, March 10.—Officers investigated today the death of Homer White, 20, a student in Hardin-Simmons university, who was found shot to death yesterday in a pasture near Abilene. The youth had been killed by a shotgun charge. The weapon was found near the body. Members of his family expressed the belief that White was shot accidentally when he tried to crawl through a fence, dragging his gun.

William Hommonds and family of Ranger visited Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Horn Saturday.

Building Service Strike Broadened

NEW YORK, March 10.—Building service strikers opened their "major offensive" today when they extended the walkout to the skyscrapers of the Grand Central area in Manhattan and to office and residential structures in Brooklyn.

Approximately 25,000 workers in 4,000 buildings will be affected by the strike extension, union leaders said. The new move was by way of reply to the Realty Advisory board failure to accept Mayor Laguardia's arbitration plan, which proved satisfactory to the strikers.

Man Confesses to Slaying of Woman

REDWOOD CITY, Calif., March 10.—Jerome, Selv, 27-year-old army deserter and service station employe, successfully defied a "lie detector" test then broke down and confessed the slaying of Mrs. Ada Rice, 58, police reported today.

Chances for PWA Grants Uncertain

WASHINGTON, March 10.—The chance of states, counties, and cities to get government financing of more than $3,000,000,000 in PWA projects depended on the 1936-37 work relief policy of the New Deal.

The PWA has 6,810 applications from political divisions for $1,166,333,000 in loans. PWA, however, has distributed all its available funds and it is without money, except for small amounts.

A brotherhood that signs oaths in blood is believed responsible for the Japanese revolt, but it seems a rather extreme method of getting ink.

The blue ribbon for understatement goes to Ras Mulugheta who remembers the Italian victory, in which thousands were killed, as "a few patrol skirmishes."

Special Session Decision Dormant

AUSTIN, March 9.—Possibility of another special session of the Texas legislature today remained dormant, Gov. James Allred said. The statement, Allred said, meant that no session was contemplated immediately and a future calling would depend on old age assistance needs.

"No significance is attached to the calling of a special election to fill the vacancy created by enator Welly Hopkins' resignation. It merely fulfilled my constitutional duty by calling an election to fill a vacancy in 20 days," the governor added.

Business Complaint Has Its Humor

HARRISBURG, Pa.—Unusual cases have come to light during the depression years in Pennsylvania, and despite their seriousness, some bring forth a chuckle. The State Department of Internal Affairs got a letter from a tailor recently complaining about poor business. He had made only 25 suits during the past year. Then he added:

"In fact my vest maker is now receiving old age pension and my pants maker is on welfare."

New York Strike Arbitrator May Settle Questions

NEW YORK, March 12.—Leaders of 40,000 striking skyscraper workers and representatives of 8,000 building owners, came within a single point, today, of ending a 12-day strike.

They agreed upon Ferdinand Sillico, head of the U. S. Forestry Service, as arbitrator of wages and working hours at issue. They gave him no authority until direct negotiations determine if strikers are to be reinstated where strike-breakers have been employed.

Representatives of the union and real estate advisory board conferred for 14 hours, but soon after they adjourned James Bambrick, union leader, telegraphed Mayor LaGuardia, further conferences were useless until landlords agreed to reinstate strikers without discrimination.

CARDUI

Cardui is a purely vegetable medicine for the relief of functional periodic pain, nervousness and weakness due to poor nourishment. It is in successful use by thousands of women.

"I have used Cardui and had good results from its use," writes Mrs. W. E. Barnett, of Taylors, S. C. "I suffered with cramping and headaches and would have a chilly feeling. Sometimes I would feel miserable and have pain more than a day, and I would be nervous. I read of Cardui and decided to use it. After taking six bottles of Cardui, I had less pain and was regulated. I feel much better."

When such suffering can be avoided by taking Cardui, isn't that the common-sense thing to do? Of course, if it does not seem to reach the cause of your trouble, consult a physician.

Superflex Farm Refrigeration Is Held to $10 a Year

New 1936 models of Superflex, the oil-burning refrigerator, brings rural homes dependable refrigeration at a maximum cost of $10 per year, Floyd Killingsworth, manager of the Killingsworth, Cox & Co., announced today.

The new models, manufactured by the Perfection Stove Company, are designed for rural communities not served by electricity, Killingsworth pointed out. They are, he said, without doubt the most beautiful mechanical refrigerators of any make placed on the market as well as the most efficient and economical.

"Superflex brings new beauty to your home—rhythm of graceful form and soft color designed to harmonize with good taste in any kitchen," he said.

"One great point in Superflex superiority is the simple and accessible oil burner set. Because they operate only about two hours daily, they discharge no heat in the kitchen during the 22 hours they are not operating. Their ultra modern features include handy racks on the door, trip-latch that opens the door when it is pushed lightly, an abundance of ice cubes and year-round uninterrupted service.

"We want the public to see these and many other Superflex advantages and have placed a coupon in our advertisement on page eight of this paper, which if you will fill out and mail to us will bring a Superflex dealer to demonstrate the refrigerator in your home."

LEIONNAIRES AND THE STORY OF THEIR WORLD WAR SERVICE

Editor's Note: This is the sixth of a series of biographies being written by B. H. Peacock, Commander of Carl Barnes Post of the American Legion, covering the war time experiences of members of the post. The seventh, covering the experiences of another veteran, will follow next Sunday.

ROBERT H. HANSFORD
A careful search through many of the books of history would in-all probability not bring to light the story of a soldier more varied and more thrilling than that of Robert H. Hansford of 510 Mesquite street of Ranger, Texas. Sailing the seven seas; treading and fighting his country's battles on four of the five continents, were just some of those events that happened in the life of this veteran.

Numerically speaking, there was the Spanish-American War in 1898; the Filipino Insurrection in 1899; the Boxer Uprising in China, known as the War of the Nations, in 1900; the Battle of Vera Cruz when Mexico refused to salute the Stars and Stripes in 1914; the Mexican Border Campaign in 1916; and the World War in 1917-18. And all of this spent in the service of his country does not even yet dim or dampen his patriotic spirit, for it is commonly known among Bob's friends and acquaintances that should his country call again, that he would just as willingly respond, even though he is now well beyond the prime of life, having just recently reached his three score years.

Born on Feb. 14, 1876, at Silverwood, Ind., the grandson of a colonel of the Union army, Robert H. Hansford, was destined to experiences and adventures not often accorded the average person. While still a cadet in Purdue University, he was sent with other fellow students to assist in the dedication to the martyred president, Abraham Lincoln, of a park in the city of Chicago. The Spanish-American War had just been declared (April, 1898), and the uniforms together with the martial music which he saw and heard while in the city was a factor that contributed in the shaping of his future career. Going immediately to St. Louis, Mo., young Hansford enlisted in the army of the United States and was assigned to Troop B, Second U. S. Cavalry. Shortly thereafter, Troop B, together with three other like troops, encamped at Tampa, Fla. So on June 10, 1898, Troop B, together with Private Buford, and finally after having made contact with the fleet disembarked under cover of a battleship barrage at Santiago, Cuba. "The four troops of the Second Cavalry, both horses and men," said Hansford in recounting his experiences, "were pushed in the water, and left to their own, to make the shore." It was after the army had landed, gained their objectives, and prepared for further action that the battles of Sibanas and Santiago got under way.

It was during this campaign that on one occasion, Private Hansford was quartered for the night at a blockhouse on the side of a hill near Santiago. A very repulsive odor bothered Hansford and several of the men during the night, but thinking nothing particular about it, they did not get up to investigate. And feature them, when early the next morning, they found 50 dead Spaniards who had been locked in, and apparently starved to death.

Shortly after this unforgettable episode, or on July 3, 1898, the entire Spanish army of some 50,000 men, surrendered to the commander-in-chief of the American forces of 19,954 men under Gen. Joe Wheeler. Thus ended the first war in the history of the United States wherein the entire army had been recruited from volunteer forces.

With the ending of the war went most of the soldiers back to private life. But not so with Hansford. The call of the uniform was beckoning again, so on Dec. 15, 1898, Citizen Hansford enlisted again at Jefferson Barracks, Missouri, for service in the far away Philippines. Orders specified that he should report to the city of New York, and on Jan. 2, 1899, Trooper Hansford sailed with other buddies of the outfit on the Transport Minewaskie. Finally to Hamburg, Germany, for a short stop; thence to Gibraltar on the Mediterranean Sea, where Hansford together with others of his division went ashore and paraded before Lord Roberts of the British army. "Incidentally," said Hansford, "the British were at this time mobilizing their forces for service in the coming Boer War in South Africa, and it was quite interesting to note the difference between the soldiers of America who were on their way to the Philippines, and those of Britain who were preparing for action in the Dark Continent."

Sailing thence, the troop laden transport passed on through the Suez Canal, the Canary Islands, Yokohama, Japan, and at last Manila in the Philippines. Hansford was assigned shortly thereafter to Troop B, Fourth U. S. Cavalry, serving under the direction of Captain Parker, who later during World War days distinguished himself as the "Galloping General." Twenty-five battles and engagements with the Filipinos during this sojourn marked the otherwise uneventful career of this young soldier. A bullet wound just below the knee of the right leg still identifies the cause for going to the hospital during the battle of Ulu.

It was during this campaign that an act of heroism over and beyond the call of duty gained for Private Hansford a citation for bravery in action which is coveted by many but achieved only by the few. On June 2, 1899, Private Hansford, under full view and fire of the enemy, swam alone the Passaic river in the Philippine Islands, in order to carry and deliver a message for reinforcements. This was at the time that General Lawton had been killed by the insurgents, and the situation was very critical for the American forces. For this act of bravery while in line of duty, a personal citation signed by Gen. Nelson A. Miles, commander-in-chief of the American army, was presented to Private Hansford, and now remains a priceless treasure in his mementos of by-gone days.

But a transfer to Troop C of the Sixth Cavalry in June, 1900, brought Hansford to Pekin, China. Trouble had begun to brew in this land of the yellow man, and so it was that the American government saw fit to maintain the open door, and with force of arms if necessary. A bloody but short engagement followed, where the combined forces of several of the leading nations of the world under the leadership of General Chaffie stormed the walls and captured their objectives. Thus in the main ended the Battle of the Nations, commonly called the Boxer Uprising in China. After the rebellion was quelled, Hansford, together with the Sixth Cavalry and the other outfits consisting of the Seventh and Ninth Infantry and six batteries of light artillery, were returned to the Philippines for another year's additional tour of duty. So on Dec. 15, 1901, exactly three years after enlistment, Corporal Hansford received an honorable discharge from the American army for the second time.

Back by transport across the Pacific and to San Francisco, and thence to St. Louis. The lure of railroading with its ever changing scenes caught the fancy of this soldier of fortune. First as fireman and later as engineer on the Frisco, Santa Fe, T. & B. R., and Cotton Belt railroads was no mean experience in itself for Mr. Hansford. But the years had rolled on, and it was in August, 1914, when Engineer Hansford was pulling a troop train into Galveston that the old urge to the colors began to twitch under Bob's skin. So this time it was Company A, 19th U. S. Infantry, which was soon to see foreign service. The neighboring Republic of Mexico had in some manner become recalcitrant, refused to salute the American flag, and so it was that Hansford's outfit was again detailed to the task of protecting and keeping unspotted our country's good name. The campaign was short lived, as history will recite, so for a third time Soldier Hansford received an honorable discharge from the United States army and returned again to railroading.

Came the rail of Pancho Villa at Columbus, N. M., on the Mexican border, and again back to the colors for Bob. This time, it was Company G of the Second Texas Infantry, with Top Sergeant Robert H. Hansford as the ranking non-com of the outfit.

Rumbles of an impending conflict in the World War soon brought border service for Company G and Sergeant Hansford. It was on this occasion that Mrs. Hansford, whom he had married a short time prior thereto, elected to accompany her husband on what to both of them appeared might be a prolonged stay. Thus it was that during these pre-war days of 1916-17 that the friendly smile and cheering words of Miss Susie earned for her the enviable title of "Mother of G Company," and together with her kindly attitude on all occasions, was instrumental in cementing the friendship of all the boys in the outfit for their top sergeant.

So upon the declaration of war against the Central Powers of Europe by the Congress of the United to which G Company and Sergeant Hansford were attached, was soon merged with the 36th Division. It was then that Hansford was transferred to the quartermaster corps, regular army, made wagon master and commissioned as first lieutenant of engineers. It was while on this duty that Lieutenant Hansford was detailed as conduit officer to transfer several train loads of horses and mules to various national army units. "While stopping over in New Orleans, one day, for rest and feed for the animals," said Hansford, "we noticed a couple of men loitering around the stock pens. Becoming suspicious, we arrested them and later it was found that they were German spies and had sprinkled poison on the horses' and mules' feed, quite a number of which died from the effects of it. Upon being arrested, and after about an hour's trial, they were given 30 years' confinement for their act." Hansford stated that on another occasion, while passing through Deerfield, Mass., two spies who had wrecked the train on which he was transporting the government mules and horses, were arrested and summarily dealt with. On this occasion, the engineer, fireman, and one guard riding near the front of the train were killed in the wreck. In the latter part of September, 1918, Lieutenant Hansford was transferred to the tank corps at Gettysburg, Pa., and commissioned as captain. His outfit had started for overseas on Nov. 6, but was halted at Camp Dix for final inspection. Soon came the armistice however, Captain Hansford was mustered out of the service of his country, and for the fourth time this soldier received the thanks of an appreciative government in the form of an honorable discharge from the army of the United States.

Prior to service in the World War and the Mexican campaign, Capt. Hansford had married Miss Susie Reynolds, of Tyler, Texas, and so with the ending of the great conflict across the water, Capt. and Mrs. Hansford moved to Ranger, where he established the Hansford Salvage Store. His business having been destroyed by the big fire in 1921, Mr. Hansford entered the pipe line contracting business, and in 1925, he went to Columbia, South America for the Andean Pipe Line Corporation. Here he was employed for 18 months as pipe line superintendent; building lines for approximately six hundred miles up the Magdalena River and across the Andes Mountains. But it was not long until he returned to Ranger where he now resides.

By a former wife who died in 1906, Mr. Hansford now has three children, Jessie, 31, of New York City; Freddie, 28, a practicing civil engineer of the City of New York, and Billie, 26, an engineer for the Bell Telephone Company of Oklahoma City.

Serving now as Post Service Officer of Carl Barnes Post of Ranger, Mr. Hansford is ever ready to assist, according to the duties of his office, any and all veterans who may have occasion to his services. And he it said to his credit, that no day is too cold, or night too dark, but that anyone in need will be turned away from his door. At the present writing, several deserving and disabled veterans are now receiving the benefits of a hospitalization afforded by a grateful government, due to the efforts of none other than Post Service Officer, Captain R. H. Hansford.

Many Merchants Are Taking Part In Cooking School

The Ranger Times "Happy Kitchen Chantango" with the merchants of Ranger co-operating will open next Tuesday, March 17, in the New Recreation Building promptly at 2 o'clock. This will be the best school ever conducted in this part of the state and all women in this part of the state are invited to be present and the guests of the paper and the merchants on all four of the afternoons that the school will run.

Miss Jessie Hogue graduate of the school of home economics of Chicago and noted home lecturer, will be in charge of the programs each afternoon and will have numbers of free prizes to be given to ladies. On Friday afternoon, the last day of the school, there will be 10 grand prizes sponsored by several of the business firms that will be given to women.

The Times has secured the New Recreation Building so that plenty of seats will be available at each show. In addition to the school the electric refrigerator dealers of the city will have on display at each program models of their various merchandise and this one feature alone will be very interesting. Those making the school possible are the following business firms: Joseph Dry Goods Co., Hassen Co., A. J. Rathiff, Oakwood Jersey Dairy, Schooley Bakery, Montgomery Ward & Co., Mills Grocery & Market, Killingsworth, Cox & Co., Ranger Furniture Exchange, Piggly Wiggly, Leveille Motor Co., Texas Electric Service Co., Community Public Service Co., Electric Shoe Shop, Ranger Laundry, Ranger Floral Co., J. C. Penney Co., C. I. Hyatt Norge Products Co., Wm. N. McDonald, J. C. Smith Store, Clyde H. Davis Music Co., Gholson Hotel, Gholson Coffee Shop, Ranger Mattress Factory, Dry Cleaners of Ranger, Arcadia Theatre, Harold Wright, Dupress Service Station, McMillen Service Station, Guy's Confectionery, Modern Studio, Southwestern Ice Co., Fride Battery Co., H. H. Vaughn Service Station, S. R. Wood Maytag Co., and Zuelia Beauty Shop.

There have been several who have signified their intention to enter and additional names will probably be added to the above list.

The school will draw a large number of women from other towns and all will be welcome. So the message from the merchants is for the ladies to make their plans to be present at each demonstration.

Remember the dates, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. There will be plenty of seats for all.

Father's $1 Bequest To Son Turned Down

WORCESTER, Mass.—Here is a dollar bill without a "home." A $1 bill, willed to Chauncey Delano by his father, was not accepted.

Miss Mildred Burgess, executrix of the father's estate, deposited it in a bank. The state will get the bill after 30 years, provided nobody claims it in the interim.

FAMILY'S AGES TOTAL 373

FREMONT, O.—Longevity runs in the Lorenzen family. Two, Mrs. Margaret Anderson and Mrs. Helena Nolf, twins, are 79. Another sister, Mrs. Anna Bahase, is 80. Two brothers, Peter and Jacob Lorenzen, are 70 and 65, respectively. Their ages total 373 years.

Loss Woods Makes His Announcement

The following is the formal announcement of Loss Woods, candidate for Sheriff of Eastland County, subject to the action of the Democratic primaries in July:

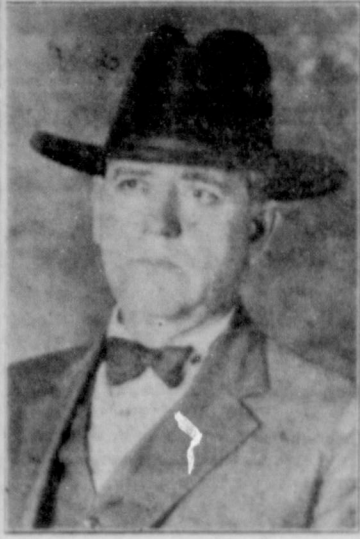

To the Voters of Eastland County:

For several years I have served the citizens of this entire county as deputy sheriff under Virge Foster. I have endeavored at all times to devote my time and attention to the proper functions of my office and the duties imposed upon me as a peace officer. I have faithfully performed every trust as to law violations that have been assigned to me by my superior officer. I am now seeking the office of Sheriff of Eastland county, inasmuch as Sheriff Virge Foster will not be a candidate for re-election in order to give my personal time and attention to conducting my campaign for office with the hopes of meeting every voter personally. I am resigning as deputy sheriff to take effect March 15th. I realize that I cannot perform the duties of the office I have held with the constancy that it demands and do justice to the people as a peace officer and conduct my personal campaign at the same time, therefore I feel that the citizens of the county will appreciate my action in the matter.

I want every citizen to know that it will be my endeavor if elected sheriff of Eastland county to confine my every effort in the interests of good and peaceful government and that as your official sheriff will administer the office with the utmost ability at my command and shall keep in full the confidence that you will have placed in me by your majority vote.

Hoping in the near future to be with you personally and discuss

Resigns Office

Loss Woods, who Saturday announced his resignation as deputy sheriff in order that he might conduct his campaign for the office of sheriff.

The problems of my campaign interests and that you will give me the advantage of your good influence and vote at the polls in the July primaries, I am,

Respectfully and faithfully yours,

LOSS WOODS.

"Red" McFarlane Sheriff Aspirant

The candidacy of A. D. (Red) McFarlane for sheriff, subject to the Democratic primary election, was announced Tuesday.

McFarlane, a resident of Eastland county for 18 years, has been a spudder contractor and connected in oil field work in that time and in 1933 through 1935 he was a special agent for the Texas rangers in East Texas.

He has been connected with the major oil developments in Texas for many years, leaving the county occasionally for new fields near Cross Plains, Coleman, Borger, Kilgore and other points.

McFarlane has also been a special officer for the Prairie Oil & Gas company, working at Cushing, Okla.

NYA Workers In 142 Counties Making A Physical Survey

(Editor's Note: This is the last of a series of United Press stories on the work of the rehabilitation division of the state department of education.)

By RICHARD M. MOREHEAD, United Press Staff Correspondent. AUSTIN.—National Youth Administration workers in 142 Texas counties are surveying 145,000 families to determine physical disabilities that the state may help correct.

"I expect we'll find in those families 50,000 persons with physical handicaps," said J. J. Brown, director of the state department of education's rehabilitation division.

Lack of information has hampered work of the state department of education and Texas society for Crippled Children in the past. A card index system will enable officials to quickly and economically make plans for aiding such underprivileged.

The five-year program already accomplished has aided some 4,500 persons directly. The cases are from El Paso to Texarkana, Amarillo to Houston.

For $100, the state trained a El Paso youth to help fellow sufferers. He graduated from the Texas School for the Blind here and returned to El Paso as a home teacher of other sightless persons. The man is now in charge of "The Lighthouse," El Paso blind center.

Nearly 500 miles to the East, a man in Roscoe, Nolan county, has a prosperous watchmaking shop. Several years ago his leg was amputated after an accident gunshot wound endangered his life. Useless in his former occupation, the man turned to the state who spent $340 sending him to a watchmaking school in St. Louis.

Two Coleman citizens have made their own following a "lift" from the state. One man, 22, was trained to make watches after undergoing an operation to amputate his leg. The other youth, 20, was rehabilitated for $165 and got a job in a jewelry store.

A Brownwood girl was afflicted with curvature of the spine. She was trained in dress-making and now has a prosperous home business. A young man, 24, lost his left arm. The state sent him to business college and he now has a job keeping books for a grocery store.

A 24-year-old Cisco youth was handicapped by paralysis of the legs. The rehabilitation service used $328 training him in a tailor shop and he became a master cleaner and dyer. Another young man was disabled, unable to follow his ambition of a law career. He was trained as a barber at $419 cost, worked in a barber shop while going to law school and now has a license to practice law.

In Waco, a handsome 24-year-old youth wanted to be a certified public accountant, but was without funds and handicapped by an injury received from a leg fracture. He was trained as a bookkeeper and now has a job in a wholesale grocery firm, still working to achieve his ambition.

Every city in Texas has similar cases. With an increased federal and state appropriation, Director Brown expects to develop the service to extent hitherto unreachd.

Three Negroes Held In Double Murder

DALLAS, March 10.—Three negroes allegedly involved in the double slaying Sept. 25, 1934, of W. T. German and his wife near Athens, were in the Dallas county jail today because of fear of mob violence if taken back to Henderson county.

Officers from Athens brought the negroes to Dallas and last night announced they had solved the murder of the elderly couple shot to death as they lay in bed and robbed of $300.

RUSSIA WILL HELP LEAGUE IN EVERY WAY

LONDON, March 10.—Russia officially informed Great Britain today that the Soviet government is "resolutely opposed" to negotiations with Germany and the Soviets are ready "actively to participate in any action decided upon at Geneva."

The Soviet ambassador visited the House of Commons and delivered an important oral communication based on instructions received from Moscow.

It was learned the Soviet ambassador to France conveyed a similar message to the French foreign minister.

The Soviet communication was believed to foreshadow a united front at the League council meeting of Russia, France, the Little Entente—Roumania, Jugo-Slavia, and Czechoslovakia, Turkey and possibly others, not only against Germany but against the British inclination to compromise with Hitler regardless of Germany's repudiation of the Locarno pact.

LORIMOR, Ia.—Virgil Cole was sitting in his car by the highway when he saw a wolf. The animal turned and ran down the center of the road. Cole ran down the animal and collected $5 bounty.

FRANCE TAKES NEW ATTITUDE ON RHINELAND

PARIS, Feb. 10.—France decided, today, to waive her demands for military sanctions against Germany and even, on certain conditions, to withdraw her demands that German troops be withdrawn from the Rhineland.

The adamant French attitude veered suddenly today after a conference of the powers who signed the Locarno pact, which Germany has denounced.

The change came while Captain Anthony Eden, British foreign secretary, was telephoning London advising that Foreign Minister Pierre Flandin of France wanted economic and financial sanctions, but not military ones.

France decided to abandon her demand for withdrawal of Rhineland troops on two conditions:

1.—Germany must pledge not to rebuild fortifications in the Rhineland.
2.—Chancellor Adolf Hitler must modify the proposition he made in a speech on March 21, 1935, to assure "certain guarantees for the future."

In the speech Hitler outlined the conditions under which Germany could return to the League and agree to a European aerial defense pact.

CLEVELAND.—The robin might be a harbinger of spring, but northern Ohioans now have their doubts. When temperatures were on their way down to the season lows, almost every village in the Cleveland area reported at least one robin.

I'M SOLD It always works

Just do what hospitals do, and the doctors insist on. Use a good liquid laxative, and aid Nature to restore clocklike regularity without strain or ill effect.

A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the real secret of relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has become. It gives the right kind of help, and right amount of help. Taking a little less each time, gives the bowels a chance to act of their own accord, until they are moving regularly and thoroughly without any help at all.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin contains senna and cascara—both natural laxatives that form no habit. The action is gentle, but sure. It will relieve any sluggishness or bilious condition due to constipation without upset.

Each Puff Less Acid A LIGHT SMOKE OF RICH, RIPE-BODIED TOBACCO

Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

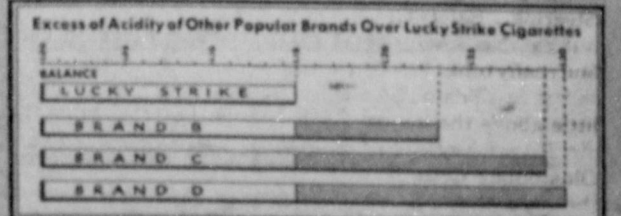

They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product.

All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

HERE COMES THE CO-OPS

Movement Gains Firm Hold in U. S., With 6000 Consumer Groups Doing Business of Hundreds of Millions in Year

Sweeping growth of the co-operative movement in the United States, to the point where annual business of the co-ops totals hundreds of millions of dollars, is told by Bertram B. Fowler, noted magazine writer, in this story. Fowler became interested in the movement through contact with co-ops in Massachusetts and made an extensive study of the whole program.

By BERTRAM B. FOWLER
 (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

The Co-ops have taken hold in America. What is a co-op? A co-op is a group of consumers banded together to run a business for themselves. It may be a gas station. It may be a grocery store, or a feed warehouse, or a milk distribution plant.

But in every case the idea is the same. These men go into business to sell themselves whatever they need. They run the business through their own appointed managers and at the end of the year divide the profits among themselves.

From Massachusetts to California a chain of co-operative enterprises is springing up. In factory towns and rural communities the co-op signs are appearing. Co-op gas stations are dotting the west. In many states they are a real challenge to the big distributors for the markets.

Co-op tires are grinding out the miles on U. S. highways. In the cars are co-op batteries. The tanks are full of co-op gas and the crank cases with co-op oil.

A few figures will show the magnitude of this rapidly growing movement. For the consumer co-operatives as a whole, it is figured that there are now about 6,000 in the country, with a membership of 1,800,000. Last year they did a total business estimated at $365,000,000.

Among these are about 2,000 co-op gas and oil station groups, with more than 500,000 members. It is estimated that these groups are turning back in patronage dividends about $8,000,000 a year and the number of trucks operated by them runs into the thousands.

Farmers Join Movement
 Some of the most powerful farm organizations have taken up consumer co-operation as the major item on their programs. They are welding their memberships into cohesiveness co-operative organizations.

One of the biggest fertilizer factories in the United States is controlled by a co-operative group. Its feed mills range from the little hammer mills, scattered through Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, and Illinois to the big modern plants owned in Buffalo.

There are co-op insurance companies. There are co-operative credit banks with millions of dollars on deposit and so banked that these funds can be used only for co-operative purposes.

There are four big oil blending plants scattered through the west, serving thousands of co-op members. They own their own tank cars on the railroads, their fleets of tank trucks on the roads. Yes, the co-ops have very definitely come to America.

The idea of consumer co-operation was born in Rochdale, England, more than 90 years ago. At that time 28 poor weavers, weary of listening to political promises, desperate over their own poverty and misery, decided to do something about it themselves rather than wait for the state to act.

They saved their money for a year. At the end of that time they had $140. They put this into a stock of those commodities which all must buy. They rent ed a store, and the idea of consumer co-operation was born.

Under Democratic Rule

These weavers laid down certain revolutionary rules. They threw overboard the old stock voting system in favor of more democratic rule. No matter how many shares of stock a member might own, he could have but one vote.

The second rule, was just as startling. Capital was to have no share in the profits. Capital, like labor, was put on a fixed wage. Shares should always sell at par and draw the legal rate of interest.

What to do with profits caused a third rule to be drawn up. It is this rule, more than anything else, that has been responsible for the phenomenal growth of consumer co-operation during the last few years.

They decided that the man who spent his money over the counter made the profit possible. Therefore, all profits must be given back to the consumer member in ratio to their purchases for the year. They called this a patronage dividend.

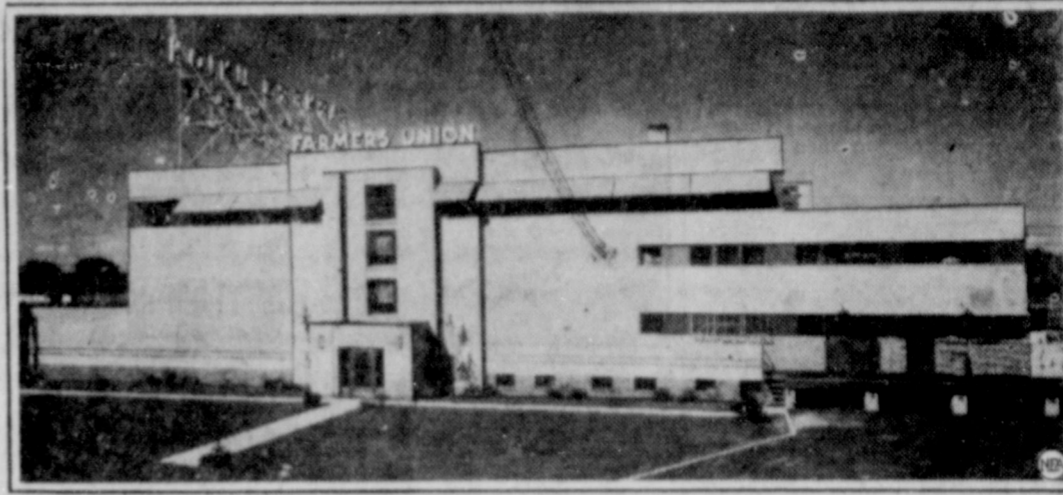

In other words, profits vanished. What looked like profits were but the unexpended portions of the consumer's dollar and must go back to him.

That was 90 years ago. Since then the British co-operative movement has grown into thousands of modern stores. These stores have set up their two big wholesale houses, one in Scotland, one in England. These wholesalers in turn have moved back toward production.

They own more than 150 factories and mills. They buy their own wheat in Canada, handle it through their own elevators, grind it in their own mills, bake it in their own bakeries, and deliver it to the consumer in their own trucks.

Biggest Business in Britain
 The co-operative movement has become the largest single business in Great Britain. Its banking business is second only to that of the Bank of England. Half of the families of England and Scotland are members of co-op societies. And the idea is spreading faster every day.

The idea moved to Sweden, where practically every commodity was controlled in price by a Typifying the beginning and growth of co-op movements are the pictures of the two buildings shown here, the one at the left being the "warehouse" of a consumer group in Plummer, Minn., at its start and the one above showing the large central exchange of the Farmers' Union in St. Paul, Minn.

But this latest co-op activity is based squarely on the success of the movement in Great Britain and Scandinavia. American farmers have taken hold of the idea, and, encouraged by their initial success, are pushing on, doing more and more things co-operatively.

Millions of them are beginning to talk about economic democracy, about a new economic order which they are building themselves.

The movement cannot be laughed off. American business must face the challenge of the co-ops squarely and not attempt to minimize their importance if private business hopes to meet the issue.

For the co-ops represent a revolution in buying habits. The people are discovering that they can run business for themselves, can govern and control it democratically. And, what is more to the monopoly. Since 1918 the Swedish co-operatives have broken or brought into control every trust in Sweden.

Their Consumer Co-operation is fast becoming the national economic order. It sets the prices for most commodities. And it is run by the people themselves. The Swedes call it economic democracy.

It went to Denmark and remade that little country. Finland imported it and became a democratic commonwealth even before she came from under Russian rule. Today no less an authority than the president of the Bank of Finland gives co-operation the major share of the credit for banishing the depression from Finland.

Comes to America

Now it has come to America. There have been co-operatives in America before. The history of American business is strewn with their wreckage.

Yes sir! Easy on the pocketbook—a real "winner" for thrifty tire buyers. The Goodyear Pathfinder is a husky, tough, good-looking tire. See us—we have your size.

major part of the retail business of the nation. Or it may mean that they are going to force American business to reform along co-operative lines.

In any event, the co-ops have come to work deep and far-reaching changes. One cannot evade figures. And the figures of co-op gains are being written up for all to see.

Has America Reached Middle Age?

If you can't find anything else about which to worry these days—and you probably can, very easily—you might start worrying about your Uncle Sam's decline in population growth.

The Census Bureau officially has figured the country's population today as 127,521,000—a gain of .71 per cent over last year, and a rise of 4 per cent since 1930.

During the last six years, the population has been recording a net annual growth of approximately 900,000. This is only a little more than half the average annual gain for the 1920-30 decade.

If the rate of growth continues to decline in this way, it won't be long before we have a stable population—or even, possibly, a decreasing one.

What all this would mean to our social and economic organization is obvious—and distressing. It would mean an end to the era of expansion which has lasted since our country's birth. Cities no longer would increase in size; or, if they did, would make their gains at the expense of other cities or of rural areas.

Every commercial venture from agriculture to real estate subdividing would feel the effects.

Beyond that, there is the depressing feeling that America's youthful vitality has been played out; that we have passed as a nation from young manhood to middle age, and that the era of slow decline is not far away.

Now we could, if we chose, meet this development in the manner of Mussolini and Hitler. We could start taxing bachelors, awarding government subsidies to the parents of large families, and pushing out propaganda about the beauties of parenthood and the citizen's duty to the state.

But it is hard to imagine such a campaign accomplishing much in the United States. In the first place, it is even harder to imagine an American government trying it. Besides, there is a much simpler way to accomplish the same end.

During our long period of growth there was a hopeful, expectant air to America; a feeling that the country progressively would be a better place for people to live, a conviction that each generation would find life a little bit easier and happier than the one which preceded it.

For Sheriff

Steele Hill, for a number of years chief deputy sheriff, who Saturday made his official statement to the voters of Eastland county in his race for sheriff.

To the Voters

Eastland, Texas, March 7, 1936.

To the People and Voters of Eastland County: During the early part of January this year I announced my candidacy for the office of Sheriff of Eastland County. I have served in the capacity as deputy sheriff under Virge Foster for several years, during which time, I have endeavored to fulfill the trust to the best of my ability.

I take this method of formally announcing my resignation as deputy sheriff of Eastland County effective March 15, 1936, in order that I may devote my entire time to the campaign, and trust that it will be my privilege to meet each and every voter before the primary.

Should I not be able to see you personally, your vote and influence will be greatly appreciated, and I can assure you that I will, if elected, perform the duties of the office in a manner that will show my appreciation of your consideration.

Modern Life is a strain on DIGESTION

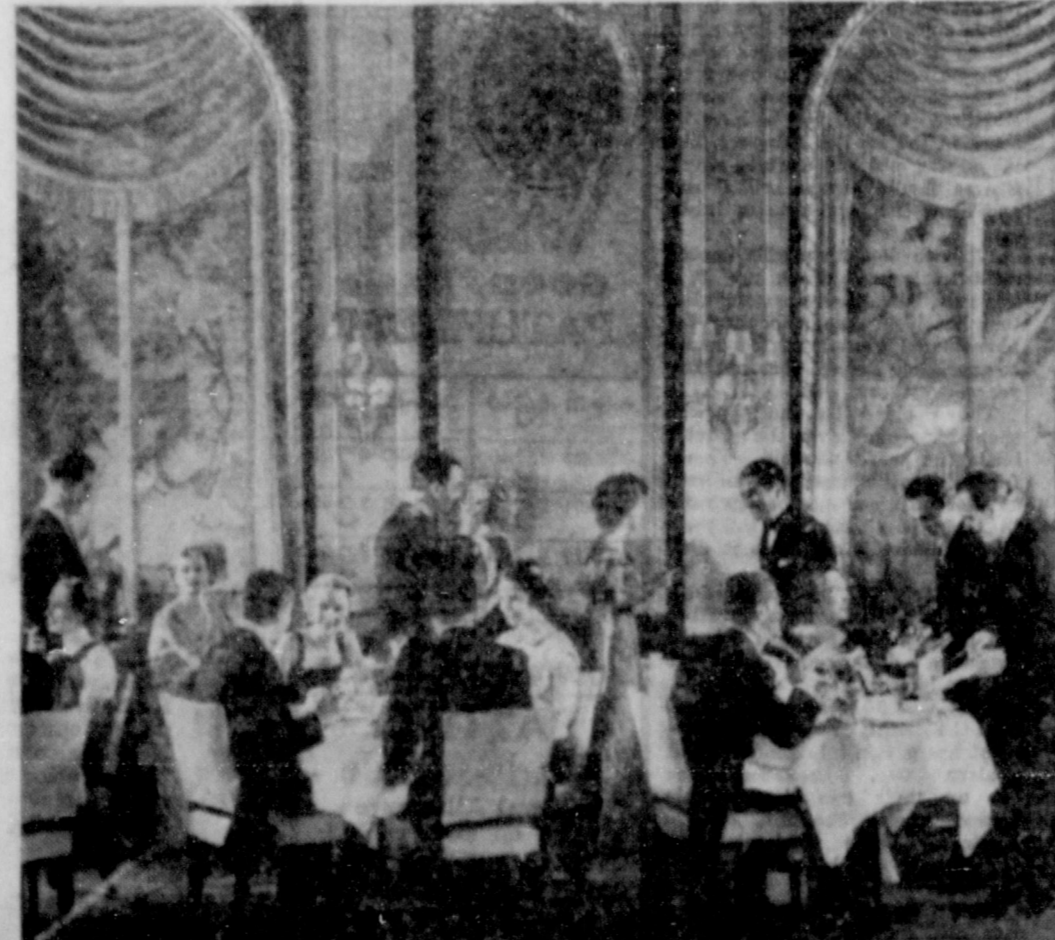

Smoking Camels Helps to Ward Off Indigestion Caused by the Breathless Pace of Modern Living

Faster—faster—faster goes the modern rush. People are "always on the go." No wonder indigestion visits so many from time to time. People can't seem to pause for proper eating. But here's one simple step every one can take! Smoke Camels for the sake of the positive beneficial effect

Camels have upon digestion. Camels stimulate and promote natural processes of digestion. They restore a feeling of well-being. And above all, with their matchless blend of costlier tobaccos, Camels bring a supreme enjoyment of mildness and flavor that you can know in no other way!

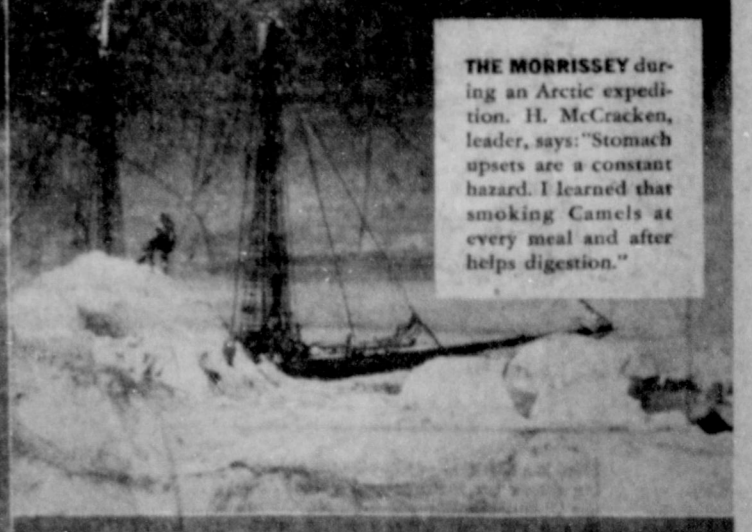

THERE'S NOTHING MORE TIRING than the shove and tussle of shopping. Remember that Camels during and after meals help digestion. They set you right.

Modern life in one of its most attractive phases—the beautiful Trianon Room (above) at the Ambassador in New York, as seen during the dinner hour. Louis, maître d'hôtel at this celebrated dining place, says: "Our guests come to the Trianon Room from New York and from all over the country. It is interesting to see how they agree in preferring Camels. Those who enjoy dining here also appreciate the delicate flavor of the finer tobaccos in Camels. Camels are an overwhelming favorite at our tables."

BETTY CHASE, star figure skater: "Camels make food taste better and help digestion along. And certainly smoking a Camel is one of life's most agreeable experiences."

THE MORRISSEY during an Arctic expedition. H. McCracken, leader, says: "Stomach upsets are a constant hazard. I learned that smoking Camels at every meal and after helps digestion."
