Six Applications Received In T.V.A. Fertilizing Plan

Six county farmers have made application to receive fertilizer from the Tennessee Valley Authority for five-year demonstrations on their farms. Agents Elmo V. Cook and Hugh F. Barnhart stated Saturday.

The arrangement provides for shipping of phosphorus from the Sheffield, Ala., plant, and the reporting of farmers on its reaction to their acreage. One hundred pounds would be put on each acre. The fertilizer costs each farmer participating in the arrangement 71 cents per 100 pounds for the shipping.

Farmers who have made the application for the fertilizer are Art Dever of Rising Star; W. A. Dolberry, Eastland, Rt. 1; A. W. Armstrong, Rising Star; F. M. Spurlen, Eastland; Henry E. Wilson of Flatwood and O. C. Bennett of Flatwood.

Firearms Robbery Trial Set Nov. 23

Trial of Chester White on a charge of robbery with firearms has been set for Nov. 23 in 88th district court, District Attorney Grady Owen announced Saturday.

Deputy Sheriff D. J. Jobe stated White was returned last week from the state penitentiary and had posted $2,000 bond on the robbery with firearms charge. White was on parole at the time of filing the robbery with firearms charge, Jobe stated. He finished a sentence at the penitentiary this month.

White is charged with Cora Vire Woods and Jack Gilliland, District Attorney Owen said, in connection with a transaction in which Steve Spicer was relieved of a small sum of money.

NYA Soil Project Head Appointed

Appointment of D. L. Childress Jr., of Eastland as supervisor of National Youth Administration soil conservation work to be inaugurated in Eastland county Nov. 1, was announced Monday by County Agent Elmo V. Cook.

Agent Cook stated 35, or 40 boys will be afforded employment by the project which will be in progress six months.

Type of work outlined for the NYA project includes running of terrace line, running of pasture contour line, cleaning small demonstration pasture acreage, making and laying garden sub-irrigation tile, putting in small demonstration trench silt and assisting in planting and laying out systems for T. V. A. fertilizer applications.

Anyone who desires sub-irrigation tile for laying next Spring may have the service by paying the cost of material, Cook stated. Plans are underway for the NYA conservation supervisors of the district to visit the Spur experiment station to learn the latest soil conservation methods.

Late Feedstuff Is Saved In Silos

Many farmers in Eastland county plan to save their late feedstuff by putting it into trench silos, according to Elmo V. Cook, county agent. All feed standing now or left standing when frost comes can be saved in trenches, regardless of the weather, according to Cook. The more it rains the better this feed will keep as water is added to make silage anyhow. Frost does not damage feed for silage, as it can be put into the trench 4 to 7 days after the frost and make good silage.

Sweet potato vines make a good grade of silage, C. P. Houston of Eastland is filling a small trench silo with them.

Marvin Hood of Eastland is putting 6 tons of feed into a trench and B. H. Duncan of Reagan community is filling a 12-ton silo.

Dan Childress is planning to put 35 acres of hegari about 100 tons into a trench on his ranch near Reagan community.

John Thurman of Terral Ranch and Dr. Chas. Jones of Cisco are waiting for frost, when they will fill their trench silos.

A. D. McGinnis of Romney and Tom Grisham of Grandview will fill small trench silos.

There are several complicated problems to planning and filling a trench silo. The county agent's office will supply a bulletin covering the subject on request and will assist in planning dimensions and location for anyone interested.

Olden Runs Up a 58-to-0 Victory In Scranton Game

The Olden Hornets won their second conference game at Olden Monday by defeating the Scranton Antelopes by the impressive score of 58 to 0.

The Hornets lost no time in starting their scoring parade. On the opening kick-off Fowler lateraled to Anderson on his 25-yard line, and with some good blocking on the part of his teammates and some excellent running returned the ball 75 yards for a touchdown. Hyatt, with some nice churning, contributed one touchdown. W. Norton, one, and Curry, with one of the best performances of his career added four. He was especially effective with his punt returns.

Defensively, the Hornets showed that the whole line functioned well by the Antelopes only chalking up two first downs. Fowler at center and the Howell twins and Glen Adams were especially effective.

Olden ran up 404 yards, lost 10 and made 17 first downs. Scranton made 92 yards, practically all on passes, lost 15 yards and made 2 first downs.

The next game is with Caddo on Nov. 6, and the Hornets realize that this will be their hardest conference game of the year.

Admission is free and the public is invited.

Son, Brother of Eastland Women Buried in Dallas

Services for B. M. Hardin, 38, son of Mrs. J. Hardin and brother of Mrs. William Sherriffs of Eastland, and his wife, killed Sunday in a train-automobile accident near Dallas, were held Tuesday morning at a Dallas funeral chapel. Interment was in Laurel Land Memorial Park at Dallas.

Hardin and his wife, 39, were killed when the light sedan in which they were riding was struck by an eastbound express at Harry's stop on the Texas and Pacific, a small station at Gates City, where they resided.

According to Dallas newspapers Hardin halted his car at the track to allow a westbound-train to pass. His vision impaired by the train, he failed to notice another train approaching on the eastbound track. Immediately after the first train had passed the crossing he started across the tracks, directly into the path of the express, a through train coming into Dallas from El Paso.

The force of the impact shattered the car, hurling wreckage through the solid wood frame of a nearby box car and strewn bits of the automobile as far as 150 yards down the track. Mrs. Hardin, thrown clear of the car, was hurled 200 feet through the air, finally crashing into the side of the small station house. She died instantly. Hardin, a small flier of life remaining, was taken to a hospital, where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

Four children, Billy Joe, Bobby, George Halbert Hardin, and one daughter, Jackie Lou Hardin, survive the couple. Mrs. Hardin's parson, Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Barber, live at Eola. School Special to Centennial Will Be Run Friday, Nov. 13

Announcement was made here today that the Eastland County special train to the Central Centennial Exposition at Dallas would be run Friday, Nov. 13 instead of Wednesday, Nov. 11, as previously planned. The special is being run in order that all school children in the county may visit the Centennial.

Special rates of $1.50 for the round trip from Cisco, $1.40 from Eastland and $1.30 from Ranger have been made by the Texas and Pacific railway, and a special admission price to the Centennial grounds for school children has been set at 25 cents. Adults may ride the train for the same fare, it was stated, though the 25-cent admission to the grounds will not be made for adults.

The train will leave Cisco at 6 o'clock in the morning of Friday, Nov. 13, and will go direct to the Centennial grounds, after stops at Eastland and Ranger. The train will remain on a siding near the Centennial grounds, and will leave on the return trip at 11.15 p. m.

The change was made because Nov. 11 is a holiday in most towns in Eastland county and practically every school in the county has a big football game on that date, Cisco being scheduled to play in Ranger, Eastland in Brownwood, and Gorman having a Class B game scheduled for that date.

Storm Cellar Is Good Storage Place Olden Girl Finds

"By arranging my storm cellar I know where everything is and have more room," says Addie Spurlen, garden demonstrator of the Olden girls' 4-H club.

"The first thing I did was to remove all canned food and wash the shelves. While they were drying, I whitewashed the ceiling and walls. This made the entire cellar very light. I painted the shelves white, giving them two coats. More shelves were built out of scrap lumber, so they did not cost anything.

"While the shelves were drying I washed and dried the jars. I then placed the canned food on the shelves according to the following classification: leafy vegetables, starchy vegetables, other vegetables, fruit and fruit juices, protein foods, pickles and relishes, preserves and jellies, and miscellaneous.

"The cost of improvement was ninety cents and the canned food was convenient to get to and anyone could find the food without looking for it."

Reckless Stunt Flyers Did Their Part, Too

Probably nobody will bother about it, but right now wouldn't be a bad time to drop a wreath or two in the ocean in honor of the stunt flyers who made so many headlines, created so much excitement, and provided a long casualty list back in the era which began about 10 years ago.

The Pan American Clippers are carrying mail, express, and passengers over the Pacific on regular runs now, and similar ships will be shuttling back and forth across the Atlantic before long. And something of a debt is owed the stunters who tackled the oceans so rashly back in the '20s.

It is hard even to remember the names of those flyers, now. They were serious-minded technicians of the air, of course, such as Lindbergh and Chamberlain and the various army men. There were also a good many young daredevils who looked on the broad, peril-haunted seas as a challenge to their daring and who couldn't be happy until they had replied to the challenge.

Some of them made their flights successfully, landing in England or France or Hawaii just as they had planned; others set out into the gray mists and were never seen again, leaving us with a creepy feeling along the spine when we thought of what their final landing must have been like.

But all of them did their bit to accumulate that store of experience and knowledge which aviation had to have before it could loop the seas on a steady commercial basis.

It used to be the fashion, you remember, for serious-minded folk to dismiss those flights as stunts. We were assured that the flights proved nothing; that an ocean crossing by air was so extremely hazardous that it took luck and extraordinary skill to get across; and that it was foolish to believe that hit-or-miss, haphazard jaunts by stunters would ever bring us nearer to the goal of regular trans-oceanic passenger planes.

That was all very true, of course — but somehow we do have these trans-oceanic passenger planes now, we are about to have a good many more of them, and it is hard to avoid the feeling that these stunt flights did a good deal to blaze the trail.

For the stunters, if they did nothing else, showed us just how dangerous an ocean flight can be. They emphasized in an unforgettable way the need for perfect organization, elaborate preparation, and better planes.

They at least demonstrated that the job wasn't going to be easy; and they did prove that it could be done if everything was right.

The lesson stuck. Pan American spent years getting ready for this Pacific line. It went to almost unbelievable lengths to make its flights safe and secure.

It insisted on getting planes of a type that most designers thought it impossible to build in the days of the stunters.

Now we are at the goal of those far-off days of the mid-twenties. The old dream is coming true. And at least a little of the credit ought to go to those daring, fool-hardy, and occasional crack-brained youngsters who set us to dreaming 10 years ago.

History Instructor Sees No War with England at Peace

AUSTIN, Tex. — General European war can be averted so long as Europe's greatest power, England, refuses to fight, and that country will not enter hostilities unless her own possessions are threatened, it is the opinion of Wilson H. Elkins, instructor in history at The University of Texas and former three-letter athlete at that institution; who recently returned from a three-year stay as a Rhodes scholar at Oxford University.

"Another so-called world war can be averted for a time, until Germany finds it imperative to demand more territory outside the present boundaries of that country," Elkins said. "But when Germany decides to expand, and to take possession of additional territory, perhaps in Africa or in Russia, then England will be willing to fight."

European war was most imminent a few months ago when Germany re-occupied the Rhineland, but England refused to fight, and France knew that she could not but be defeated if she fought alone, he continued. In case of German invasion of Russia, the alignment of powers would likely be Great Britain, France and Russia against Germany, Austria and Italy. Japan is opposed to Russia's policy in Siberia, and ultimately these two countries will meet in the middle of that territory, so that Japan may ally herself with Germany, Austria and Italy. In the next war, the alignment of powers will be fairly equal, he added.

In the Italian conquest of Ethiopia, it was generally felt in England that, while perhaps Italy was not justified in making the campaign, actually she was doing just what Great Britain has done in the past, Elkins explained. Only European war would have stopped Italy, and England was unwilling to enter such an affair. "There were rumors afloat in Europe," Elkins added parenthetically, "that France perhaps financed the Ethiopian expedition."

England wants peace, Elkins went on. The majority of the British people, whether of the upper, middle or lower class, want peace and fear war. There is peace in England momentarily, and certain factions in that country advocate a "splendid isolation" in order to keep that peace. This naturally involves restriction of trade to commerce between England and the possessions of the British Empire. Political leaders, however, realize that this is impractical. They are determined, on the other hand, to keep England out of war as long as possible. The mass of British people are unwilling to go to war for any cause, but they are trained in a long tradition of subordination to the rule of the few, and should war come, they will fight.

Prices Better But Blacksmithing Is Not So Romantic

FORT WORTH, Tex. — Prices are better, but blacksmithing today is not the romantic trade which Longfellow described in his poem, G. M. Moseley, one of Fort Worth's few remaining "smithy" believes.

"We get most of our trade from the mule barns," he said. "During the mule-trading season from September to April, we shoe an average of 25 mules a day. A dollar use to be the price for shoeing, but now we get $2 . . . with the price of factory shoes up 50 per cent."

Moseley has followed his trade in Fort Worth for a quarter-century, seeing this town grow from a blacksmith's Paradise to a mechanized "cowtown" where horses are comparatively rare. Where swash-buckling cowhands once came to have their ponies shod, overalled farmers now order new plowshares and auto trailers.

The Fort Worth blacksmith has kept his shop as nearly in the former mode as possible. Horseshoes around the wall, beloving furnaces, and games of "checkers" between customers seated on nail barrels, furnish an atmosphere that draws small boys in wide-eyed wonder.

SILLO DISCUSSED

County Agent Elmo V. Cook and Hugh F. Barnhardt, assistant agent, Monday afternoon conferred with J. W. Gerhardt near Romney on the construction of a trench silo on his farm.

Lobby Was Quiet At Special Session

AUSTIN — Quietude of the "lobby" at the special session of the Texas legislature has proved alarming to some.

"We will have a good crop of taxes if we do not have a late frost," was the way one observer viewed the situation.

Many members fear a "late frost" will knock off many of the taxes before the crop can be gathered.

"They can't fool me that way," said Sen. Tom Deberry of Bogota, who took alarm when hearings on proposed taxes were waived in the House. "I don't know who agreed nor what was agreed to, but I just know there was some understanding."

TIME TO BUY!!!

..... There never was a more opportune time to buy a home than now. Every indication points to a rising market. The world's most experienced business men in all lines of business are writing about a coming boom in real estate, and many of them have no real estate to sell but are buying some.

..... But it is good business to buy a home at any time. We don't buy a home for investment, but for comfort and security, and the many added attractions the home possesses over the rented house.

..... So be wise, and buy now while the market is still low and on the rise. We have bargains in homes in any part of the city you would like to live, and you will be surprised at the low down payment we require, and the small monthly payment necessary to pay you out in a definite time.

Certified dwarf milo seed produced 2,000 per acre for Willie Smith, a crop demonstrator working with the county agricultural agent in the Peacock community in Stonewall county, while certified seed produced only 1,000 per acre. Both kinds of seed were planted on the same type of land and at the same time of the year.

Forty-three cents per acre is the actual cost of terracing his 80 acres of land with a tractor, according to H. G. Karenbrook of Wichita Falls. The terracing was done under the supervision of C. W. Wilhoit, assistant county agricultural agent.

R. L. Wilson, a poultry demonstrator of Allison community in Wise county, made a net profit of $145.39 from 132 hens during seven months ending September 30. The hens produced 1,143 dozen eggs during the period. The feed cost was $63. Gross sales were $209.39 or an average net profit of $1.09 per bird during the seven months. The birds were fed a balanced ration and cared for according to instructions of the county agricultural agent.

J. B. Rhea, poultry demonstrator near Wichita Falls, reports a net profit of $204.29 from his 327

White Leghorn hens during the month of May, June, July, and August. Total sales were $335.47. Feed costs were $131.18. This demonstration is one being conducted in cooperation with the extension agents of Wichita county.

HEMPSTEAD—By planting his field with two rows of corn and one row of cow peas, Mack Rosenau of Waller county has stepped up his corn production by better than five bushels per acre in 10 years, according to J. V. Bush, county agricultural agent.

Rosenau uses no fertilizer, depending entirely on the added fertility given the land by planting cow peas on every third row. Under his rotation system, cow peas are planted on each row every three years. The turkey herd on the Rosenau farm eat the cow peas and the vines are left on the land to be plowed under.

FAIRFIELD—"From the standpoint of harvesting, housing and value of the feed, a trench silo is the most economical way to save a feed crop," says W. W. Steward, Sr., of Freestone county.

Steward stored 88 tons of silage from a six acre crop of red top sorghum, according to J.W. Richards, county agricultural agent. The total cost of this feeding including breaking of the land, cost of the seed, planting, plowing and harvesting, digging and filling the silos amounted to only $130 per ton. This included a charge of $1 per day per head for his mules. All labor was hired.

Hallowe'en Harvest at 'Grandfather' F.D.R.'s

Annual corn harvesting time on President Roosevelt's Hyde Park, N. Y., farm, was more than harvesting to the president's grandchildren—it was Hallowe'en preparation. And here are the three of them in the thick of it. Left to right are Anna Eleanor Dall, Curtis Roosevelt Dall, and Sarah Delano Roosevelt, daughter of the James Roosevelts. Fall harvesting at Grandfather Roosevelt's farm is invariably a gala occasion for the chief executive's grandchildren.

BALLINGER—Terraces on 20 acres built 16 years ago at no actual outlay of money had a total value of $40 for J. A. Patterson of Runtels county, according to information furnished J. A. Barton, county agricultural agent.

The terrace lines were leveled off by D. F. Eaton, county agricultural agent, at that time. A V-shaped drag and plow were used in construction of these terraces with two neighbors cooperating in helping each other.

Patterson says that the terraces returned an average of $1 per acre in crop production and have had the value of $1 per acre in holding water and soil, making a total return of $2 per acre per year. This makes a total return of $32 per acre over the 16-year period or a total value for the 20 acres of $640.

REFUGIO—"Wind and sun make the tufted bedspread take on new life," says Mrs. Emil Leister, bedroom demonstrator of the Austwell home demonstration club in Refugio county. Mrs. Leister hangs her spread right side out on the line at intervals to bring out the tufts and loosen the spin of the yard. Brushing with a stiff brush also gives life to the tufts, she says.

Mrs. Leister has recently completed her tufted bedspread as one of the items in improving her bedroom, according to Miss Frances Beason, county home demonstration agent.

WACO—"To save money and trips to town for meat, I have found that I can buy cured bacon in large pieces and keep it by cutting it into chunks and dropping it into the cotton seed oil I had left after using all my home cured meat," says Mrs. C. A. Seawell of McLennan county, according to Miss Martha Buttrill, county home demonstration agent.

"Bacon bought in large quantity and stored in oil does not become rancid nor mold before it is used up," Mrs. Seawell says.

FALFURIA—Planning ahead for warm bedding for the coming winter months, Mrs. J. M. Word, president of the Falfurria home demonstration club in Brooks county, has made two wool comforts from home grown wool. After washing and combing it, she put on and one-half pounds of wool in one comfort and two pounds in the other.

She bought 15 yards of soft pliable material and thread to mark the comforts with, the total cost of the material being $2.55. For one comfort she used a quilt top she already had.

CAGE INTEMPERANT MOUSE

COLUSA, Calif.—Mice have need to learn of the pitfalls of intemperance. One slipped through the neck of a wine bottle here and drank the dregs. Then it puffed up so it couldn't get out. Two boys are keeping it alive by feeding it through the bottle neck.

Flood Exposes Old Skeletons

WYNNEWOOD, Okla.—The bank of the Washita river, left sticky and soggy by flood waters, reveals strange sights to Charles Grant and the farmers of his neighbors.

Each time the river reaches flood stage it cuts into the bank at the bend on Grant's farm, and when the water recedes Grant or some of his friends find more skulls, bones, pottery, crude stone and bone tools, or camp equipment.

The farmers believe they are finding evidence of a settlement that flourished at least 300 years ago. Some believe that perhaps these deposits date even further back.

The pots and bowls are crude and unadorned. An occasional cooking utensil, fashioned from stone or bone, is convincing proof to its discoverer that this is more than a fairly recent Indian burial ground.

At least 11 skeletons are known to have been washed out of the bank of the river since the first was found last May. Several pots of various shapes and sizes have been recovered.

No metal tools or utensils have been found.

Some residents of the area believe that the bank of the river was an early campsite of Indians. They say that the dead were buried at this spot and that their possessions were buried with them. Others are inclined to believe that skeletons are those of white men, although there is no proof to bear this out.

Persons interested in more extensive excavations have called the discoverer to the attention of historical and anthropological officials at the University of Oklahoma, and a more thorough search appears to be in the offing.

Future State Medical Head Hails Pregnancy, Birth Discussion As Progressive Sign in Public Meet

Discussion of pregnancy and birth at public meetings was hailed as a sign of progressiveness of his profession by Dr. Calvin R. Hannah of Dallas, president-elect of the State Medical Association, Wednesday night at the First Christian church in Eastland.

Surveying his audience, Dr. Hannah observed:

"Even a fellow can bring his girl to a meeting like this now."

The public gathering was a feature of the two-day meeting sponsored by the State Department of Health in its campaign with the State Medical Association to reduce infant and maternal mortality. The meeting, concluded Thursday afternoon, attracted physicians from throughout the Thirteenth Councilor District of the State Medical Association.

Criticism was heaped by Dr. Hannah on those who perform abortions. Dr. Hannah is also a professor of obstetrics in the Baylor University School of Medicine at Dallas.

Dr. W. G. Phillips of Fort Worth, a past president of the district association, used stronger terms and termed abortion "murder." He peddled country doctors in the low death rate in their cases of childbirth.

Dr. J. R. Lemmon of Amarillo, and Dr. H. W. Barnett of Austin, the latter from the State Department of Health, called attention to Texas' rate of 73 deaths out of 1,000 cases of childbirth. This can be reduced, they pointed out, with the cooperation of parents and physicians.

Overeating after the third and fourth month of pregnancy was pointed out by Dr. Hannah as one of the causes of many troubles at birth. He also recommended proper clothing for mothers.

Dr. L. H. Reeves of Fort Worth, district councillor, presided. He was introduced by Dr. J. H. Cason of Eastland, also a past president of the district association.

Drs. Lemmon and Hannah were lecturers Thursday afternoon for final sessions of the doctors' meeting in the Exchange building. Additional registrations—Drs. Phillips of Fort Worth, R. E. Forrester of Moran, and C. H. Carter of Eastland—brought total attendance to 27.

Dr. Barnett of the State Department of Health regarded the attendance as excellent.

4-H Club Meeting Dates Announced

The following 4-H club meetings have been announced by Hugh F. Barnhart, assistant county agent, for the week beginning Nov. 2.

Tuesday, Kokomo and Flatwood. Wednesday, Grandview and New Hope.

Eastland Represented By ETSTC Back

Bottom row—Morris Grole, a great blocking back and line backer. Bill Defoe, one of the best passers in the Conference. Sam Montgomery, a fine punter and ball carrier who made the All-Conference team last year. Bub McDowell, hard running triple threat from Paris Junior College.

Thursday, Scranton and Rodney. At all of these meetings a demonstration will be given by Hugh F. Barnhart, assistant county agent, and Cornelia Faye Stewart, assistant home demonstration agent, on the making and the use of garden tile for the sub-irrigation of gardens. This demonstration will be given to both the boys' and girls' 4-H clubs in a joint meeting in these various communities.

Five more head of good registered Jersey cattle have been brought into Eastland county, according to assistant county agent Barnhart. T. E. Robertson, Flatwood 4-H club sponsor, recently purchased four cows and a two-year-old bull, from a DeLeon dairyman. Since Mr. Robertson brought these cattle home, two calves have been dropped, increasing his registered Jersey herd to nine head.

A group of farmers headed by county agent Luke Ballard of Stephens county, inspected the trench silo at two o'clock Thursday afternoon and discussed digging, filling and covering of a trench silo, and the advantages and uses of trench silos on the farm.

Will pick up vertical and baby grand piano, also studio upright piano stored near Eastland. Rather than haul to Dallas, will sell for balance due. G. H. Jackson, Credit Manager, 1101 Elm St., Dallas, Texas.

CARD OF THANKS

We are ever grateful to those who aided us and extended sympathy during our bereavement, the death of Carl G. Brashears. May God bless you all. Mrs. Carl G. Brashears, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Brashears and family.

Trench Silo Opened North of Colony

Alvin Mayhall, who lives four miles northeast of Colony School, opened his 15-ton trench silo for inspection Thursday, according to assistant county agent Hugh F. Barnhart.

A group of farmers headed by county agent Luke Ballard of Stephens county, inspected the trench silo at two o'clock Thursday afternoon and discussed digging, filling and covering of a trench silo,

Girl Whose Body Found Recently Once Rangerite

Miss Juanita Kelly, 21, whose body was recently found in a shallow grave on a farm near Morton, was a former resident of Ranger, it was revealed today by former friends of the girl.

Miss Kelly was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kelly and attended Cooper school in Ranger. They moved to Morton about five years ago. Kelly built the brick fence around the Dr. A. K. Wier home in Ranger and erected the derrick at the foot of Main street.

Miss Kelly's body was found several days after she had been reported missing from her home. She was last seen at a dance in company with L. O. Cooper, 32, a farmer, who was later arrested on a murder charge and committed suicide in the Lubbock county jail. Cooper was married and the father of two small daughters. He admitted being with the girl, according to news dispatches, but stated that he had taken the girl back to the dance and she had left with two other men.

The Kelly family was well known in Ranger and a number of friends of the family remembered the girl after reading news stories about her death.

Other members of the committee are Claude Isbell, Olan Van Zandt, Gordon Burns and Clay Cotten, chairman.

Jury Gets Damage Suit on Thursday

The jury in the $21,000 damage suit of W. A. Stiles against Dowell Incorporated and others, recessed at noon for lunch and went to report on their progress Thursday afternoon to 88th District Court Judge B. W. Patterson.

Dick Brown of Rising Star is foreman of the jury.

The jury received the case at 9 a. m. Thursday. Stiles, receiver of the A. W. Drilling company, sued Dowell, alleging damage of a well by acidization. The case started Monday, Oct. 19.

Colony Wins From Morton Valley But Loses to Carbon

The Colony boys defeated the Morton Valley basketball team 16 to 14 Friday at Morton Valley. The blue-clad boys showed some wonderful team work when they defeated the Valleymen.

The Morton Valley girls retaliated by defeating the Colony girls 38 to 1. The red-clad girls showed nice teamwork and some splendid basket shooting.

Colony boys were defeated Monday at Carbon by the speedy Carbon five, 20 to 16. The Colony boys played a snappy game, but were unable to maintain the scoring pace set by their opponents.

The Colony girls were defeated by the Carbon girls during the same evening, 20 to 10. The Carbon girls showed fine team work.

Preacher-Samson Is Put In City Jail

FORT WORTH.—A Fort Worth man became the battlefield of a 25-year-old man, reputed preacher, was Samson II.

But instead of using a jawbone against the heathen Philistines (five mechanics), the preacher used a monkey wrench. The latter also carried away a gash on the head.

The preacher said five men at tacked him when he called at the garage to get some tools left five months ago.

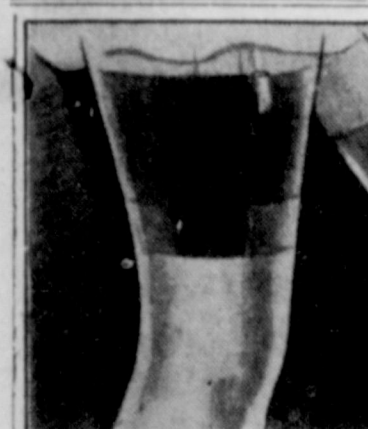

"They greeted me with jibes and jeers," he told police. "They said I was drunk and that touched me deeply. I never touch liquor. They all laughed then."

"Samson" made a retort which brought one mechanic to fighting pitch and the battle was on. After the preacher went to the hospital, all went to jail. They were released after affray charges were filed against three of them.

Search Begins For Longest Bar

SAN FRANCISCO.—Heck Church, manager of a local bar, has just sent a telegraphic request to every city in the United States that boasts of possessing the longest bar in the world.

Church's own bar is 167 1-2 feet long, and if there is any other city in the United States that has a bar longer than that, Heck wants to know about it. Until the existence of such a bar can be established, Heck intends to continue calling his bar the longest one in the world.

In addition to advancing his own interests, Heck is interested in long bars and considers himself an authority on the subject.

Heck started his long bar search when a magazine recently published an article on the bar at the Commodore Hotel in New York, saying it was the longest one in the country. The length was listed at 165 feet, 2 1-2 feet shorter than Heck's bar.

But even these figures are challenged by Heck. He insists the bar of the Commodore is only 116 feet long, but with a frontage of 125 feet.

"The really longest bar in the world," Heck admits, "is at Tia Juana, but at present the management is only utilizing 80 feet of its shining surface."

"Originally the longest bar was at Butte, Montana. It was the old 'Atlantic' and measured 110 feet. Been established, including my own, and I intend advancing my claims to the championship until it is proved to the contrary."

In addition to telegraphing all cities which boast long bars, Heck is checking with fixture companies in the United States.

Long distance rates reduced 7 TIMES in 10 years

1926 OCTOBER 1— Rates reduced on calls over 150 miles.	1927 DECEMBER 1— Rates reduced on all calls over 378 miles.	1929 FEBRUARY 1— Rates reduced on calls between 130 and 1490 miles.
1930 JANUARY 1— Rates reduced on calls between 56 and 318 miles.	1935 JUNE 1—Reduced night rates, moved forward from 8:30 p.m. to 7 p.m.	1936 JANUARY 15— Reductions on Sunday calls, and person-to-person calls after 7 p.m.

And now...
SEPTEMBER 1, 1936: Reduced rates on calls over 234 miles and reduced person-to-person overtime rates after 3 minutes of overtime.

In 1926, a person-to-person long distance telephone call between New York and San Francisco cost $20.60 at any hour. Six minutes were required to make the connection.

Today—1936—the same call may be made for only $6.75 at night, or any time on Sunday. You are connected in less than a minute and a half, on the average.

This wide difference between the long distance rates of yesterday and today is the result of seven voluntary reductions made in the past ten years.

It illustrates a Bell System policy in action—the policy of voluntarily reducing rates when it can be done.

Sinclair Lewis' "Dodsworth" Will Show at Connellee Sunday

Walter Huston and Ruth Chatterton head the cast of Samuel Goldwyn's screen version of Sinclair Lewis' "Dodsworth," which comes to the Connellee theatre on Sunday for two days.

Huston again plays the title role of Sam Dodsworth, the easy-going American husband, in which he scored on the stage for more than two years, and Miss Chatterton has the role of Fran, the pretty, frivolous, selfish wife whom he adores.

Great Cast

Sidney Howard, who wrote the stage adaptation is again author of the screenplay, which is enacted by a great supporting cast including Paul Lukas, Mary Astor, David Niven, Mimi, Maria Guspenskaya, Gregory Gaye, Odette Myrtil, Kathryn Marlowe, John Payne, Spring Byington, and Harlan Briggs. Mme. Guspenskaya and Gregory Gaye repeat the roles they created in the stage version.

The story opens when hard-working successful Sam Dodsworth retires to travel and enjoy his first taste of leisure. But to his wife, Fran, Europe means one thing at middle age.

The couple sail on the Queen

Mary. Fran has her first flirtation aboard ship. Arrived in Paris she becomes involved with a dubious smart set and leaves Dodsworth to amuse himself as she dances in all the gayest restaurants with the worldly Arnold Iselin and the handsome Kurt Von Obersdorf, an impoverished young Austrian aristocrat.

When she becomes romantically involved with Iselin, Dodsworth forgives her. But when Kurt asks her to marry him, she ruthlessly divorces Dodsworth.

Dodsworth Finds Love

Wandering around Europe alone he meets and falls in love with Mrs. Cortright, a charming, sympathetic woman. But in the midst of his new-found happiness Fran's marriage plans fall through and Kathryn Marlowe, John Payne, leaves his happiness to return to her, but he sees her at last for the selfish, empty creature she really is and goes back to the woman he loves.

"Dodsworth" was directed by William Wyler. The settings were created by Richard Day and the costumes by Omar Kinn. The photography is the work of Rudolph Mate, A. S. C. The film is released through United Artists.

Camera Snares Thrilling Shots In Action Drama

Some of the finest shots of both cattle and horse stampedes ever thrown on a screen are included in the fast action development of the Zane Grey picture, "The Arizona Raiders," which opens today at the Lyric Theatre. The picture features Larry Crabbe, Raymond Hatton, Marsha Hunt, Jane Rhodes, Johnny Downs and Grant Withers in a whirlwind yarn of the old West.

Crabbe is a hard-riding adventurer who escapes from a lynch party and then saves Hatton from a similar situation. The two flee into Arizona, where Hatton becomes involved in a shooting scrape and is jailed. Crabbe releases him by stampeding a herd of cattle through the town, destroying the jail.

While imprisoned, Hatton has promised to aid a bashful youth, Johnny Downs, in an elopement. To carry out his promise, he and Crabbe get jobs on the ranch operated by Miss Hunt.

After a short time on the ranch the pair uncover a plan to rob the girl of her valuable herd of horses. The story of how they outfit and outshoot the band of would-be rustlers brings a running series of punch episodes. The horse stampede comes when Crabbe, Hatton and Miss Hunt set about to steal the girl's herd in order to prevent its theft by the raiders.

Ruth Chatterton, one of the foremost woman pilots in the world, was grounded for the duration of her work in Sinclair Lewis' "Dodsworth," by signed agreement with Samuel Goldwyn, producer of the Sidney Howard screenplay which comes to the Connellee theatre Sunday with Walter Huston in the title role.

The wings of the actress-aviatrix were clipped when Lloyds of London refused to issue insurance on this major production unless Ruth promised to keep her plane in its hangar. She was consoled, however, by the fact that the picture would be completed in time to fly the lead plane as pace-maker in the Women's Transcontinental Air Derby of which she is sponsor. "Dodsworth" is released through United Artists.

Country Doctor In New Triumph

The affection of a father for his two motherless sons and the heart-break and sorrow, turmoil and triumphs that this love brings the parent is the motivating background of the widely-heralded Darryl F. Zanuck Twentieth Century production, "Sins of Man," opening Thursday at the Connellee Theatre with Jean Hersholt starred.

Hersholt is seen as the sexton and bell ringer of the church in a small Tyrolean village. Karl, the older son is expected to follow in his father's footsteps but secretly harbors dreams of being an aviator. The other boy, Gabriel, has been a deafmute from birth.

Karl breaks his father's heart when he announces that he is going to America and study flying. Shortly afterwards, the old man is joyously surprised to find that Gabriel is beginning to hear. To be completely cured, he must be taken to a noted surgeon in America.

In the meantime, Karl's daring has won him a reputation in America and the boy writes his father of his success. Hersholt forgives him and decides to visit him in America and at the same time prepare the way for Gabriel's impending operation.

In America Karl and his father are happily reunited. But it is only for a short while, as Karl is soon killed in an airplane crash. In the meantime war has broken out in Europe and Hersholt hears that his native village has been demolished.

The years go by, Hersholt becomes a doddering old pauper, wandering around New York and barely managing to keep himself alive.

How Hersholt and his younger son, Gabriel, are brought face to face after twenty years, and how the old man recognizes his boy, makes one of the most touchingly human pictures ever produced in Hollywood.

Hersholt, elevated to stardom for his now famous portrayal of "The Country Doctor," is said to care a new niche for himself in "Sins of Man." The production also introduces at the head of the supporting cast, handsome young Don Ameche, Mr. Zanuck's latest "discovery."

screen one of the most baffling and entertaining mystery plays of all time.

Associated with Miss Grahame and Abel in "Two in the Dark," are Alan Hale, Wallace Ford, Gail Patrick, Leslie Hale, Erin O'Brien Moore, Eric Blore and Erik Rhodes.

Authentic reproductions of present day Boston, the locale for the play, artistic camera effects by Nick Musuraca and expert direction by Ben Stoloff are contributed to the appeal of the film, which was produced by Zion Myers.

'Two In the Dark' Heroine Angel to Murder Suspect

Put yourself in the place of a girl who is falling deeper and deeper in love with a man whose lost memory renders him practically helpless to defend himself against circumstances which point to him as a murderer.

That is the position in which Margot Grahame, lovely English actress, finds herself in RKO Radio's fantastic mystery drama, "Two in the Dark."

Walter Abel, popular New York stage actor, takes the role of the amnesia victim, and his efforts to discover who he is and what part, if any, he played in the murder of Richard Denning, a wealthy theatrical producer, bring to the

"Drinking, necking, dope and jazz parties have struck a solar plexus blow in the new production of 'The Face That Kills' featuring Neel Madison and Lois January."

Youthful delinquency will always be with us; many a proud mother and father who, today, fears the embarrassment of straight-from-the-shoulder talks of their offsprings, would greatly benefit if they sent their sons and daughters to this eloquent pictorial sermon. When the young girl or boy sees the scenes depicted in this picture, and how seemingly innocent flirtations and pleasures lead to tragedy, they will perhaps be inclined to "watch their step."
