Mrs. A. F. Taylor returned Monday to Eastland from Goldthwaite, where she attended funeral services of her mother, Mrs. A. C. Weatherby, 74, who died July 4 after an apoplectic stroke.

Also returning with Mrs. Taylor were her husband, county engineer, and their daughters, Loraine and Annie Jane.

Funeral services were conducted Tuesday at the First Methodist church in Goldthwaite and burial was in a cemetery near that city. Mrs. Weatherby, a long-time Methodist, had lived in Goldthwaite 58 years. She was born at Franklin. Her husband, a prominent Mason, died 41 years ago.

Beside the Eastland daughter, Mrs. Weatherby is survived by six sons, Omer Weatherby of Brownsville, Weatherby of Miles, Bert Weatherby of Brownwood, Walter Weatherby of Goldthwaite, Marin Weatherby of San Saba and Jim Weatherby of Goldthwaite; two sisters, Miss Alice Brooker of Fort Worth and Mrs. Dan Morris of Franklin and two brothers, John E. Brooker of Franklin and W. P. Brooker of Milano. Twenty of 21 grandchildren attended the funeral.

Mrs. Weatherby had visited in Eastland frequently.

A dinner of summer dishes was served to the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Clements, and children of Morton Valley; Mr. and Mrs. Abe May and children of Mangum; Mr. and Mrs. Millard Slaughter and son of Eastland; Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Coats and children of Cisco; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Smith and daughter of Eastland; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kirby of Olden; Mr. and Mrs. Job Slaughter of Eastland; Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Swenson of Cisco; Mr. and Mrs. Minnie Barrett and children of Eastland; Otha Carter of Mangum, nephew of the honoree and Oscar Swenson.

Mrs. J. M. Robinson and son, Raymond, of Houston, accompanied by their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Eaves of Houston are spending a few days with Rev. Slaughter and friends in Oklahoma.

Funeral Is Held For Man, Wife

Joint funeral services were conducted at Midway cemetery near Gorman for Mr. and Mrs. Sidney R. Mason, who died Saturday at their farm six miles southwest of Gorman. Interment was in Oakland cemetery, also near Gorman.

Mason, a farmer, died about 4:15 Saturday afternoon from heart trouble. Mrs. Mason's death was attributed to high blood pressure and kidney trouble. Her death, at about 10:30 Saturday evening, was also presumably due to the shock of her husband's death.

Mason was 59 and his wife was 57.

Rev. Ben Clements of Carbon was in charge of the funeral, assisted by H. D. Blair, Cisco district association missionary.

Three children survive.

Higginbotham Bros. of Gorman had charge of funeral arrangements.

Judgment Given For Dr. A. K. Wier In Dog's Demise

Eastland county's celebrated foxhound case in which J. A. Blackwell sought damages from Dr. A. K. Wier of Ranger for the death of the animal from poison on the latter's ranch resulted Friday in a judgment for the defendant.

County Judge W. S. Adamson rendered a judgment in keeping with the jury's answers to special issues. The case had been under advisement for several weeks. Under the judgment Blackwell does not recover anything from the defendant.

The case originated in justice of peace court in Ranger. The jury, with J. W. Miller as foreman, found in the special issues:

1. That Blackwell's dog died on July 19, 1935, from eating poison put out by the defendant on his (Wier's) ranch.
2. That Wier had agreed with Blackwell that he would not put out poison on the ranch without first notifying the latter.
3. That the agreement was not based upon valuable consideration.
4. That Dr. Wier failed to notify Blackwell he put out poison prior to July 19, 1935.
5. That there was not negligence on Wier's part in not notifying Blackwell the poison was to be placed on the ranch.
6. That the failure to notify Blackwell was not the direct and proximate cause of the death of "Charley," the dog.
7. That Wier did not cause the death of the dog.
8. That "Charley" was worth $50.
9. That Wier did not place the poison with the intention to poison the dog.
10. That Wier did not place the poison to induce or entice "Charley" on the ranch.
11. That the poison was placed on the ranch to protect sheep and goats from animals that had been killing stock.

Painter Says 13,200 Volts Easy to Take

AMARILLO, Texas.—Charlie Smith, a painter, felt 13,200 volts of electricity shoot through his body—and he lived to tell about it.

Smith was on a ladder painting a transformer, when the ladder tilted, throwing him against a wire carrying 13,200 volts of electricity, many times enough to kill a man under ordinary circumstances. The ladder fell, however, saving Smith's life, as he tumbled to the ground.

Fellow workmen summoned an ambulance. At the hospital, the injury found other than "shock" was a small burn on one hand.

Smith described the sensation of the electric charge as "floating."

"I felt like I was taking a little ride," he said. "It seemed to be floating around in the air trying to find a place to light. The sensation was not uncomfortable, but rather pleasant, as if I were flying."

The accident blew an emergency fuse and caused temporary curtailment of service in one part of the city.

Strange Names Are Listed On An Old 1887 Election Ballot

PIERRE, S. D.—The strange facts of an election conducted on the Sisseton Indian reservation have been revealed in a search of old records here.

Interest in the election of 1887, it was found, centered on the legislative contest.

The victor, chosen from a field of able candidates, was Man-Who-Makes-Sneak-On-Public-Installations. Apparently his election was inspired by the implication of the name that he could do the most good for his constituents. His opponents may have been equally well qualified, but their names were less appealing. They were Old-Man-Who-Cusses-With-Principle and Young-Man-With-High-Up-Ambitions.

Old-Necessity was victorious in the race for justice of peace over Man-Afraid-of-Two-Deuces and Young-Man-Who-Has-Got-Thirty-Days.

Young-Man-Who-Always-Gets-Lacked emerged the victor in a race for election as constable.

"Morals Session" of Legislature Resorts To Its Old Cheating

BY GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent.

AUSTIN, Texas.—Texas legislators were on the fringe of law-breaking as well as lawmaking at the special anti-gaming session which ended on June 25.

Senate and House both were guilty. After adjournment time had been set for noon on June 25, both turned their clocks back. That is a form of cheating that has been practiced by so many legislatures that it is scarcely considered chiseling any longer. But this session, dubbed by some the "morals session," went farther. Actual transactions were secreted to prolong the session.

The Senate had adjourned sine die at 12:10 P. M., Friday, on a point of order that the session time had expired. Later the point of order was withdrawn and expunged from the record.

A vote taken by the House at 12:30 p. m. showed that it lacked a quorum. The vote had been taken on the electric voting machine and the point of order was made that there no longer remained a quorum. This vote was not made a record and the session was prolonged for bill signing under a "gentlemen's agreement."

The agreement was that the lack of a quorum would not be raised provided no additional legislation was attempted.

The devices resorted to enabled compliance, for record purposes, with the requirement that the Lieutenant Governor sign bills in the presence of the Senate and that the Speaker sign for the House in its presence.

Courts wink at such practices by declining to go behind the record of proceedings of the legislature.

Marine's Fight Song Is Now 90 Years Old

SAN FRANCISCO.—The U. S. Marines have completed an investigation into the origin of their famous song, "From the Halls of Montezuma," which they have made famous in almost every part of the world.

The results of the investigation became a bulwark of their esprit show that the song had its origin at the time of the invasion of Mexico City in September, 1847, near the close of the Mexican War.

Elated with the victory of American arms over the Mexicans an officer sat down in the Aztec club and scribbled the first verse of the popular sea-soldier ballad.

It is thus that the Marines account for the beginning of the sprightly ballad which has since de corps. Later the song grew by leaps and bounds, verse after verse being added by some more or less inspired "leatherneck."

The investigation of the origin of the song also developed the fact that the music came from an old French opera, "Genevieve de Brabant."

Eventually, however, the number of verses became so long that the corps set in for a deliberate pruning of everything that was not in accordance with the traditions of the corps. As the song now stands it consists only of three stanzas which begin with "Halls of Montezuma," the assurance that the marines will be found guarding the streets of heaven.

The song has been the battle cry of marines in the Civil War, the Spanish-American War, the World War and in the scores of other international operations in which the marines have participated.

The convention opened Monday and continued through Friday, July 9. It was attended by 2,500 osteopathic physicians from throughout the United States, Canada and Western Europe.

Oil Industry Has Promoted Safety Through Program

DALLAS.—The oil industry, once termed the most hazardous industry in the country, has had much success with safety programs that off-duty accidents take a greater toll of workers' lives than mishaps on the job, according to H. N. Blakeslee, director of the department of safety of the American Petroleum Institute.

Blakeslee, speaking here at a meeting of petroleum safety engineers, said, "The oil companies reported their industrial accident experience for 1936 to the A. P. I. were asked to check the number of employees who had lost their lives during off-duty hours in 1936. Responses received from 71 companies showed that they had lost 75 men during the year on the job, but off-duty fatalities accounted for a loss of 98 lives.

"Motor vehicles were involved in 60 of the off-duty fatalities," Blakeslee said. "Ten were from drowning, six from airplanes, four from asphyxiation, four from gunshot wounds, two were pedestrians struck by trains, two were explosions in homes and nine were classed as miscellaneous."

Tire Discounts Are Denied Employees Of State of Texas

BY GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent.

AUSTIN, Texas.—State Capitol workers who thought they needed new tires for holiday automobile trips suffered a keen disappointment.

They found holders of a new state tire contract had clamped down firmly against selling tires at state prices for use on any vehicle but a state-owned truck or car.

As the discount is 50 per cent, it was a severe jolt. Some past tire contractors have not objected to orders at the state price for equipping private cars of state employees.

The blow has fallen not along on apurchases by state employees for their family automobiles. It applies also to automobiles owned by the employ but used in state service.

The State Fish, Game and Oyster Commission, for instance, found that it cannot order tires for game warden's cars on the state tire contract. Wardens furnish their own cars and are allowed travel expense on a mileage basis for use of the car. Threats to execute a contract for game wardens, separate from the general contract, were made.

600 WPA Enrolees To be Dropped Soon

SAN ANTONIO.—Nearly 600 Works Progress Administration enrolees will lose their jobs by July 15, according to H. P. Drought, state WPA director.

Orders from Washington, D. C., calling for reductions throughout the nation will mean the loss of jobs to over 15,000 WPA employees in Texas.

All additions to WPA payrolls caused by transfers from one project to another, or from one federal agency to another would be discontinued, he said.

SINGAPORE.—Stamp dealers from all over the world deluged the Singapore postoffice with huge orders for the colony's three Coronation stamps. About 100,000 of the stamps were ordered days before they were issued.

Cupped Ear Season Is Opened In Texas

AUSTIN.—What Former Governor Dan Moody once described as the "cupped ear" is alert in Texas just now. The ear of F. W. Fischer, Tyler attorney, already has picked up waves of a demand that he again become a candidate for governor. Next, the experienced ear of Former Gov. James E. Ferguson caught sounds of a demand that his wife again enter the race for governor.

Secretary of State Edward Clark found calls for Gov. James V. Allred to attempt a third term and Beaumont listeners report a similar demand that its popular young mayor, F. D. Renfro, enter the lists for governor. Attorney General William McCraw had scarcely arrived in San Antonio for last week's meeting of the Junior Bar Association and the State Bar Association until he heard himself mentioned for governor.

Youth Is Praised As a Peace Hope By An European

SAN FRANCISCO.—Continued education for peace of the youth of Europe constitutes the greatest hope for eventual world peace, according to Miss Charlotte T. Niven, for 15 years a European resident and executive secretary of the World Y. W. C. A.

What the League of Nations has failed to do in the maintenance of peace, Miss Niven is convinced ultimately will be accomplished through the youth education that is now going on in every country in Europe.

Permanent peace, she insists, will come in time despite the present armament race and the dangerous situation in Spain.

During the past 15 years Miss Niven has attended youth movement conferences in almost every country in Europe. At all of them she said she found the education and demand for peace constantly on the increase, with the result that the coming generation gives every indication of being able eventually to impose peace on the European countries.

"Such effective education for peace has been carried on among English young people," Miss Niven said, "that today the British are finding it difficult to recruit men for their armed forces, and have been forced to better living conditions and increase pay in order to get enlistments."

"The vast naval program upon which the British are engaged is due to uncertainty regarding the general European situation and Italy's attitude in particular. The British allowed their naval building program to become in great part obsolete in a genuine gesture toward disarmament. Now they feel they must keep up the pace."

Miss Niven finds that even in Germany the youth movement is being welcomed and encouraged and not purely from the standpoint of Nazi interests, either.

"It is extremely interesting," she said, "to follow the trends in Nazi Germany. Authorities are hospitable to youth conferences with the result that last July representatives of 40 nationalities, all engaged in promoting understanding for peace and youth development, held a conference in Germany at which all points involved were discussed with the utmost freedom. I am sure the youth of Germany is more internationally minded than 10 years ago."

Miss Niven is confident that the will for war in Europe is not nearly as strong as surface conditions would indicate.

"All of the Scandinavian countries, England and most other northern European nations are anxiously desirous for peace," she said. "I am sure that Hitler does not want war, either, although the French people keep their armaments up to the last minute. They are willing to believe that it won't rain but they prefer to carry an umbrella."

Miss Niven insists that even if the League of Nations has been unable through its established mechanism to maintain peace, it nevertheless is carrying on constantly a program of general international education that may in the end do more toward the fulfillment of its aims than was accomplished through the more dramatic political upheavals that it has attempted to settle.

Progress In Eastland Is Seen By Work

Continued progress in Eastland is noted by construction and improvements to the business district.

Latest to begin an improvement program are Frost and Frost, attorneys on the south corner of the square, who are having their law offices remodeled, including placing of steel wool in the roof. The expenditure will be approximately $1,000.

Workmen are engaged at the present also in the $9,000 building remodeling and installation of new equipment at the Lyric Theatre.

Approximately $150,000 is being spent by the Texas Coca Cola company in establishment of a plant and district headquarters at Eastland.

Boys Take Over Juries' Quarters

District court jury dormitories, scene of many serious deliberations of men deciding criminal and civil suits, vibrated with boyish enthusiasm Friday night in the courthouse at Eastland.

Because of the rain the dormitories were used by the 4-H club boys attending the two-day encampment at Eastland. The rain prevented sleeping in the open at city park as planned. Saturday noon marked the close of the outing.

The girl 4-H club girls were forced by the rain to discontinue their encampment and the outing for them was ended at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Speakers for the boys included Dr. J. H. Caton, Eastland, who discussed diseases; L. L. Johnson, state boys' club work agent, who traced history of club work; R. E. Reppert, extension service entomologist, who gave a talk on insects, and Hugh F. Barnhart, assistant county agent.

Swims also were taken by the group. Attendance for the boys was about 40, including several parents.

MAJOR CROP OF PEANUTS IS ASSURED

Eastland county's estimated 30,000 acres of peanuts expected to yield 20 bushels an acre was virtually assured by rains Friday and Saturday, according to Extension Agent Elmo V. Cook. Peanuts is the county's main crop.

While no check had been officially made, the rain was believed county-wide in Eastland over an inch fell Saturday. Friday's precipitation was about a quarter of an inch.

The peanut situation, agriculturalists said, is in far better condition than last year. The estimated yield of 20 bushels an acre is higher than last year's figure. Dick Weekes, Alameda, chairman of the Eastland-County Agricultural Conservation Committee, explained the higher yield this year in many farms is due to commercial fertilizer.

Rain was called a "life-saver" for June corn and in many instances helped early corn. June corn will need more rain later, however. Also benefitted were grain sorghum, late truck, late peaches. To fruit trees the moisture was also of benefit, for, as Cook explained, it gives trees a chance to store up food for another crop.

Closing the Period of Ocean Pioneers

Maybe it was not altogether without significance that Amelia Earhart turned up missing in the Pacific on the very day that Pan-American and Imperial Airways began work on the establishing of a commercial trans-Atlantic air service.

The old eras and the new, in ocean flying, thus overlapped very neatly.

Miss Earhart, gallant lady and gifted flyer, was perhaps the last of the free-lance trail blazers. That is to say that she stood for the old era in ocean flying—the era of high adventure, danger, and high-hearted romance.

As it ended, a new one began. While Miss Earhart's big plane was coming down somewhere on the surface of the Pacific, an even larger plane was taking to the air at Port Washington, Long Island.

There is no "lone wolf" angle to either of these flights. They are the fruits of years of research. Their object is not to take risks but to avoid them; not to show what one man in a plane can do, but to demonstrate that the cooperation of many men, prepared as carefully as the operations of a railroad are prepared, can span the ocean with regular, passenger-carrying commercial service that will be safe and unexciting enough to pay its own way.

So say all of this is not to cast the slightest aspersion on the free-lance tribe, as represented by Miss Earhart. The free lancers blazed the trail. Without them, Pan-American and Imperial would not be doing what they are doing.

For that, after all, is what is happening. We have passed one more frontier—we who in a century and a half have passed so many frontiers. And the passing took place in a singularly dramatic way.

One plane missing, far out on the lonely Pacific. Another plane heading into the dawn, half a world away. And the day of the ocean pioneers is closed!

Fruit And Vegetable Packing A Cure For Low Farm Incomes In State

DALLAS—Not a cure-all, but one of the soundest possible steps toward stabilizing Texas farm incomes on a self-help basis is seen in the continued growth of commercial fruit and vegetable packing in the state and its encouragement of diversified crops for quicker turnover, says a report of the All-South Development Council.

Citing the benefits to industry and agriculture which have accompanied the extraordinary growth and progress of a Dallas canning plant (Thrifty Packing Co.), which is the largest and only year-round independent canning plant in the South, the Council's report says that similar enterprise, multiplied throughout the state, with its assurance to farmers of profitable disposition of "between-cotton-season" crops, would markedly level out the peaks and valleys of the farm income graph.

Not only would consistent marketing of food crops for canning, such as black-eyed peas, English peas, corn, beans and spinach mean—as it has in North Texas—a bolstering of the farmer's pocketbook against the expense of harvesting his main crop, cotton, but the rotating of these crops on

While the growing use of cans in the oil industry was largely responsible for this movement, officials of the companies say the great expansion of canning of citrus fruits and juices in the Valley region and the growth of canning-consciousness throughout the state bulwarked their faith in Texas as the outstanding "prospect" section of the country.
