Thousands Witness Falling of Large Stack at Thurber

A crowd variously estimated at from 1,000 to 5,000 was scattered over the countryside more than a mile in each direction at Thurber Sunday afternoon to witness the throwing of the largest brick smoketack in the state.

Amateur and professional cameramen by the scores were stationed at vantage points about the scene taking numerous pictures, and several took motion pictures of the dynamiting of the stack.

Moderne Studio at Ranger had representatives to take motion pictures for a newsreel company as well as still photographers present to snap the falling of the gigantic stack. They reported today that dozens of rolls of kodak film had already been taken to the studio to be developed.

A charge of 40 sticks of dynamite was used to bring down the stack, which was 14 feet square at the base, 160 feet high, and contained 500,000 bricks. It was built in 1897 and had been in use for nearly 39 years.

As soon as the noise of the explosion had died away, and before the dust clouds that poured out from the base of the stack had settled, hundreds of men and boys were racing to the scene to try to be the first to reach the huge pile of brick. One amateur photographer, who was near the stack at the time of the blast, was reported to have been struck on the knee by a flying brick, but did not sustain painful injury.

Several people were reported to have waited near another large smoketack at the power plant in Thurber and missed seeing the stack fall.

Peanut Company Improving Plant

The Carbon Peanut company, Inc., of Carbon, is making extensive improvements in their plant, with the building of a large warehouse which will greatly increase their storage facilities, and new equipment is being installed to increase their shelling capacity.

New machinery is being assembled by Mr. French, head mechanic, at Dallas headquarters of the company, and is being shipped to Carbon and installed by expert workmen.

Two stories are being added to the shelling mill building which will make this a very modern four-story building upon completion.

One carload of lumber is expected to arrive within the next few days, with more to follow soon.

The Dallas headquarters of the Carbon Peanut company, Inc., has recently completed the installation of modern shelling equipment for popcorn, and will shell all of the popcorn for South Texas points, and any that the Carbon plant is unable to take care of, with all of the peanut shelling being done at the Carbon plant.

The popcorn end of the business is conducted under the name of the Atkins Popcorn company, and is a part of the Carbon Peanut company, Inc., and is conducted under that name only for trade purposes, as it is under the same management and same executives as the Carbon Peanut company, Inc.

Constitutional Amendment Seen By General Butler as Way to Stop War

Adoption of a constitutional amendment would simplify elimination of war for the United States, according to Major General Smedley D. Butler, the former Marine officer, who arrived Friday night for a visit in Eastland.

Busy with dictation at the Arab Gasoline corporation in the office of his brother, Samuel, General Butler Saturday morning wheeled from a working position in a swivel chair and discussed briefly with a reporter the proposal. The constitutional amendment was described by the twice Congressional medal decorated soldier as his "first and foremost" point in war elimination lectures he has delivered for the past six years and is currently engaged.

The amendment would provide "that no soldier can go out of the United States and if there's any fighting it can be done right in the United States."

"That would be the end of it (fighting)," he asserted. The general also recommended "to let merchant ships fly their own company flag or let them make up a special flag." General Butler would have made by government law prohibition of any merchant ship using the American flag in trade.

Dismissing the newspaperman courteously but definitely, General Butler urged him on his way, "That's enough on it; you can write a whole column from that."

The famed Marine came to Eastland Friday night from Stephenville, where he spoke at John Tarleton Agricultural College on methods for elimination of war. Thursday he was at College Station, where at A. & M. he awarded cadet commissions and debated.

Sunday the general left for his home at New Town Square, Pa., and will soon resume his lecture tour in the Western states. He has just completed a tour in the New England states. On his engagement list Saturday in the afternoon was a visit at the Oil Belt Gun club which was to conduct a shoot near Yellow Mound.

Among the visitors he saw was W. A. Hall, Eastland, who in 1923 was at Quantico, Va., marine base, preparatory to going to the South American Exposition at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, with a group of crack Marines.

Butler at that time was commanding officer at Quantico.

Plans were formulated for a series of band concerts, beginning Saturday afternoon, April 10, at the weekly trade day program. Director G. W. Collum, attending the meet, promised the cooperation of the Eastland High school band, which will play.

Problems as affecting the merchants will be investigated by the committee and voted upon by the merchants division members. Problems affecting the Chamber of Commerce will be taken before the Chamber of Commerce by the committee, it was explained.

EASTLAND YOUTH IS KIDNAPED, ROBBED

A man whom the victim described as about 25 years of age was sought after the robbery and kidnaping of Jack Rust, 19-year-old son of R. L. Rust, Eastland attorney, early Tuesday morning.

A night attendant at the Hotel Storage and Service Station in Eastland, Rust went from the office of the establishment into the gasoline pump row at 12:10 Tuesday morning when a brown 1937 Chevrolet coupe, driven from the east, parked.

The driver of the automobile, dressed neatly and with a pleasing voice requested: "Fill up my gas tank."

"How many will it hold?" asked Rust. "Fill it up until it runs over," the driver answered.

The automobile received 14 1-2 gallons. The model has a capacity of 17 gallons. Rust capped the tank and went to inform the driver he owed the station $2.76 for the fuel. Facing the driver young Rust was too startled to speak when he saw what appeared to be a .38 caliber pistol.

He was commanded to "get on the car." Rust did, on the running board. Driving fast but slowing down when passing other automobiles, Rust was cautioned each time, "now don't wave."

After driving a half-mile on the Cisco highway on West Main street the automobile was halted and the station attendant told to "get off."

Next, Rust was asked to "give me your wallet." After inquiring if there was money in the wallet and being answered there wasn't, the robber took the article and returned it after examination disclosed Rust was truthful.

"Now turn around and walk back to town and don't look back. I'm sorry I had to do this bud," were the last words to Rust. Hearing the robber speed away young Rust walked toward town and at a friend's home telephoned Eastland Police Chief W. J. Peters and returned to the station.

Rust believes the station would have been robbed had it not been for the presence of a friend, Jack Gary, and a hitch-hiker who were in the establishment's office when he was forced on the ride. Neither Gary nor the hitch-hiker noted the significance of the transaction as they were not looking in the parking lane of the station.

Raymond Henry Overjoyed When Informed His Case Is Reversed And Remanded by Austin Court

"I can't hardly explain how I feel," faltered Raymond Henry when told at the Eastland county jail the case in which he was convicted and assessed 50 years in connection with the death of H. L. McBee was reversed and remanded Wednesday by the Court of Criminal Appeals at Austin.

"I've been looking for it ever since it was argued" added the over-joyed, thin-faced and slender "hanging skeleton" case defendant.

Henry said "I was pretty sure" the case would be reversed and remanded since it was submitted the Court of Criminal Appeals December 23, 1936.

News of the court's action was telephoned by Frank Sparks, one of his attorneys, to County Jailor Ross Crossley, who informed Henry.

Henry, receiving the Eastland Daily Telegram and a state paper each day, had every Wednesday, decision day for the high Austin Court, eagerly scanned the columns to see if action had been taken in his case.

A year ago Monday Henry was found guilty "with malice aforethought" in the alleged slaying of McBee, Rising Star highway worker, whose widow he married. The case was heard in 88th district court, the same tribunal in which a jury could not agree in the fate of Henry's wife, Mrs.

Delia Henry, upon a similar charge. The jury in the woman's case reported its inability to agree November 12, 1936.

The case drew public attention initially after what were identified as the remains of McBee were discovered hanging from a post oak tree near Rising Star in December, 1934. In February, 1935, Mr. and Mrs. Henry, who soon after her husband's disappearance May 1, 1933, was married to Raymond, were indicted.

Re-indictments against the couple were returned March 3, 1936. These alleged the slaying of McBee with a sharp instrument. The first true bills were dismissed after return of the second indictments.

Jack Smith, who also was charged in the case, committed suicide previous to Henry's trial. A justice of the peace verdict explained the death as resulting from a self-inflicted razor blade wound in his throat.

A charge of murder against Jack Smith's brother, Lynn, was reduced later to that of an accomplice.

L. H. Flewellen of Ranger and R. E. Grantham of Cisco were attorneys for Henry in his trial, having been appointed by 88th district court. In the progress of the trial they were joined by Sparks, who assisted in the appeal and was attorney for the woman in her trial.

Burial was at Strawn following the services in Ranger. The child was born in Ranger Oct. 30, 1929, and had lived in the city all her life. She was a Sunday school member at the Central Baptist church.

Surviving relatives, in addition to her parents, included one sister, Cleo Fay Watson, also of Ranger.

Municipal Heads 'Assessed' Fines

City officials and others of Eastland were assessed fines for traffic violations and charges which some didn't agree were on the statutes when Boy Scouts "took over" the municipal government Saturday.

Late Saturday collections from 60 persons brought fines to over $30, City Clerk Roy Hatten reported. Many persons were hailed to the city hall where the City Manager, Pat Owen, acting as corporation court judge, assessed the fines, assisted by members of the Boy Scout city commission.

Majority of the citizens took the fine imposition agreeably, as collections went into scout funds. While 25 cents was the usual charge for violation of traffic ordinances, one fine of $1.50 was assessed J. E. Lewis, Sr., district manager for Texas Electric Service company. Lewis was charged with "profiteering and running a stop sign."

C. W. Hoffmann, regular mayor, was assessed a $1 fine for "bearing false evidence against members of the city commission and moving business out of city limits to avoid payment of taxes." H. O. Satterwhite was fined 25 cents for signing a check without authority, as he was not a city commissioner Saturday.

L. J. Lambert, unopposed candidate in the coming city election, was fined a quarter for "attempting to stuff the ballot box."

When a trash fire was answered by Scout Chief Fuzzy Furse and his assistants, Arlee Hennessee and John Price, City Manager J. F. Little was fined a dollar for stopping too close to the conflagration.

Regular Fire Chief A. W. Hennessee was fined 25 cents for leaving the fire station without permission.

Buck Perine was slated to act as mayor but was prevented by measles, and Owen substituted.

Farmer Reports Loss Of Ten Chickens at Eastland, Cisco Farm

The Wednesday night theft of 10 chickens from his farm between Eastland and Cisco was reported Thursday to the sheriff's office by Clyde Brashear.

A singer was marooned on the 12th floor of a Detroit hotel by a strike. An aria by the neighborhood soprano would have summoned a fire department.

Financial Worry of County Told Rotary Members

Eastland county's problem in meeting expenses with income was told Monday by Judge W. S. Adamson in an address at the Rotary club in Eastland, at the Connelley hotel.

One of the problems, said Judge Adamson, is the deficit in the officers' salary fund. Last year it was necessary to transfer $16,000 in general funds to the amount used to pay officials. The same deficit is in sight this year.

This trouble was created by voting on the constitutional amendment in Texas which abolished the fee system in Texas, said Judge Adamson.

Money for sponsorship of Works Progress Administration projects was advanced as another financial worry of the county judge and members of the commissioners' court. When WPA projects were initiated the county as sponsor was only required to furnish 20 per cent of the total cost. Now the sponsorship proportion is 30 per cent.

Judge Adamson explained the WPA projects are necessary and pointed out 800 men are employed on road work and about 200

Australia May Send 25,000 to Coronation

SYDNEY — Twenty-five thousand people, including 10,000 from New South Wales alone, will visit London for the coronation from Australia, it is estimated. Some of them have started.

The army of Australian tourists will travel by all routes, via the Suez Canal, the Cape, Panama, Java and Singapore, Canada and the United States. Air liners are booked up until May.

It is expected that the 25,000 Australians will spend something like an average of $2,000 each. Before leaving Australia they will spend a total of more than $25,000,000. They will spend another $15,000,000 abroad and fares and other traveling expenses will come to another $18,750,000—a grand total of nearly $60,000,000.

women in sewing rooms. Total monthly payroll of the employees was placed at approximately $26,000.

Neither the higher costs of sponsoring projects nor the deficit in the officers' salary fund were seen when last year's budget was prepared.

Visitors at the session were John Tomerlin of Oklahoma City and M. R. Newham and L. R. Pearson of Ranger.

Financial Loss Is Not Erased By Plow Inventor

MORAVIA, N. Y.—Like many a pioneer in the field of invention, the inventor of the first cast-iron plow, John Pethrow Wood, made no money out of it, and his descendants have never been able to profit by patent rights.

Wood invented the plow here in 114. He first sent it to the Czar of Russia, with a letter in French written by a friend. The Czar was highly pleased with the plow and sent Wood a ring valued at $7,000 to $15,000. But Wood did not receive the stone.

Manufacturers infringed on his patent rights, and a long legal battle began which did not end in Wood's lifetime. His son finally won, but the victory was only a technical one, for the son died shortly after. In all, Wood never made $500 on his plow—less than he had spent to perfect it.

GRANT APPLICATION
Commissioners' court has granted the application of Commercial State Bank of Ranger for release of $40,000 of securities pledged by the bank to secure county funds on deposit. The court granted the application following assurance enough funds remained on deposit to secure the county's funds.

Cattle Shipments Above February '36

AUSTIN, Tex.—Reports from approximately 1,500 Texas shipping points show aggregate forwardings of live stock during February of 3,958 cars, an increase of 5 per cent over February last year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research. Shipments of cattle and calves declined, but this decrease was more than offset by increases in the shipments of hogs and sheep. Cattle shipments, 2,473 cars, declined almost 3 per cent; shipments of calves, 457 cars, declined more than 3 per cent; hogs,

Youth of 20 Enjoys First Ride on Train

BLAIR, Neb.—Robert O'Hanlon, 20-year-old Creighton University law student, had never ridden on a train until the other day.

He was sort of proud of his record, but when he decided to spend a week-end with his parents he found he would have to take a train in order to reach Blair from Omaha. An 11-inch snow-storm made highway traffic impossible.

After three hours on the train, Bob hopped off the coach and said, "Well, it's better than walking."

AID FOR GLIDERS INVENTED

By United Press
ELMIRA, N. Y.—An attempt to insure good weather for gliding pilots will be made by Dr. Carl O. Lange of Harvard University, when he installs a robot weatherman atop a 60-foot pole on Harris Hill, Elmira. The apparatus will register weather conditions on which successful maneuvering in the motorless glider planes is dependent.

You will find this bank, through its courteous service and rock-like security, a definite aid to thrift which in turn will apply to providing a brighter future for your loved ones.
