Readers Have to Be Smart

Geography has taken an awful licking in the past few years.

There was a time when boundaries could be depended upon to remain reasonably static at least long enough for the seventh grade class to memorize them.

Yet the average newspaper reader today is expected to know more geography than ever before.

Once upon a time, places like Dakar, Bugbug and Dong Dang were just exotic or barbaric places you were likely to read about in travel magazines or novels once in a while.

What's happening there these days is very real. All the weird places of legend and travelog are jumping out at us.

No one can understand the significance of the skirmishes between Italia nand British in eastern and northern Africa unless one has a pretty good idea where Egypt and Somaliland are where Port Said and the Suez Canal are.

Yes, the man with the newspaper in his hands is expected to be a pretty smart egg. He must have practically the whole world at his fingertips.

The gratifying thing is that he has. Most readers do know where places are—do understand why certain things are happening there.

If they didn't, much of today's news would be pointless—the whole picture of world upheaval as it unfolds day after day in the daily press would be hopelessly confused and meaningless.

An Aid-the-Allies committee will phone every New York home to line up sentiment for Britain.

California prison will inaugurate a cafeteria system for feeding convicts, probably the only time the boys won't mind marching in line.

Taxes For Rural

lines, we have not only made country life more attractive, and farming operations more secure, but we have and are building for the welfare of our state as a whole; for, whatever improves farm life, also benefits our towns and cities.

In going into the electrical industry, we farmers are not fighting the private utility companies; if the proper opportunity had offered, we would have long ago been their customers, but development did not come this way.

In considering the matter of taxing R. E. A. lines, we farmers ask for and expect the support of the united citizenship of our state. Even those who are fortunate enough to own private utility stock, and who love their state as well as they do their pocket-books, will realize that the welfare of our prosperity is bound up on the development and prosperity of farm life.

We ask that our commissioners courts in considering this matter, take a clear-sighted and long-sighted view as to the action they should take, and if any tax is assessed, will make such tax very low, as has been done by the courts in many Texas counties.

divided into economic units such as the nazi economic theories support. This frank examination of economic influences upon victory in war, coming from the German army's specialists, indicates the serious attention which the German high command is paying to Germany's financial and commercial limitations.

The conflict with the British empire is becoming more economic than military. Great Britain holds the offensive, economically, with Germany on the defensive. There can be no evasion of this fact. The German high command's analysis of economic conditions shows in every detail an advantage for the British and an increasingly disadvantageous position for the Germans.

As the war goes into next year with possibilities of still further prolongation, the economic phase will become paramount. International trade, as the most enduring of all war weapons, was recognized by the German general staff at

GO TO CHURCH DAY

Sunday is "Go To Church Day" at the Eastland Methodist church and Rev. P. W. Walker, the pastor, is anxious that as many people as possible, and especially members of the church, be in attendance upon both morning and evening services.

Something to call your own— Owing a home is always better than renting one for at least three reasons. First, there is no more moving around which is costly and inconvenient. Second, it helps one to save and there is no greater lesson this generation needs to learn than is the saving lesson. Third, there is something indescribable which takes hold of a man when he realizes he owns something. He feels better, bigger and stronger, and he is. All employers know the difference between the man who owns and the man who does not. So begin home ownership now. It is never too early, but many times too late. Peanut Grading Process Explained For Benefit of County's Growers

By W. B. STARR
Highland Springs Farm
Cisco, Texas

In a recent issue of this paper, in discussing the grading of farm commodities, the writer outlined the various matters considered in setting up the government standard of grades for farmers-stock, thrasher-run peanuts. In that article the reasons were given, as to why the shelled peanuts in the samples for grading were not counted as sound nuts; while small but sound nuts passing through the screen were counted as sound nuts. This is just opposite to the practice of grading as followed by most of the buyers for the shellers, as they count the shelled peanuts in the sample, but discard all the small but sound nuts which pass through the screen.

One can easily see that in accepting all shelled nuts in the sample, that any peanuts bought under this system of grading would have a larger percentage of shelled peanuts, as the hulls from these shelled nuts would be blown out by the thrasher. In fact the shiller would be better off in buying under this system of grading if all the peanuts were shelled at the time they were threshed, as in this manner a bushel (thirty pounds) would have approximately thirty pounds of shelled peanuts in it; instead of twenty-one pounds, which a bushel of first grade (70 per cent sound nuts) would produce. The farmer in this manner would lose approximately seven pounds of hulls on each bushel, which the thrasher would blow out. Of course this is an extreme example, but it illustrates that the farmer loses the weight of the hulls on all peanuts shelled by the thrasher, besides having his grades damaged, according to government standard of grades.

The government grade accepts the small, but sound nuts, which pass through the screen, as such nuts make good food. Most buyers for the shellers discard all shelled peanuts that pass through the screen. This is to the advantage of the sheller, for according to that method of grading, a high percentage of small but sound nuts lowers the grade, so that the shellers are able to secure such peanuts at greatly reduced prices; especially in this so in years of drought. We farmers remember in 1936, when the drought caused so many of our peanuts to be small (although they were plump and sound). A large percentage of these peanuts passed through the screen, with the result that the shellers bought many of our crops at forty to forty-five cents per bushel, while in the Southeastern Area, where government grades were used by most buyers, similar peanuts brought seventy to seventy-five cents per bushel. We also remember in 1936, after the government program became effective in Texas, which was after the Abilene oil well started buying, that these peanuts having a high percentage of small, but sound nuts advanced in price to nearly double what they brought the forepart of the season. With a little more improvements in our threshers, and a little extra care on the part of the thrashersmen, coupled with more care on the part of the farmers in having their peanuts dry before threshing, good grades, according to government standards, can usually be secured. Of course climatic conditions make good grades hard to produce in some years. As we all know, the presence of rocks, dirt and stems lowers our grades, most of which can be prevented by good threshing.

The buyers of shelled peanuts (the candy, peanut butter and roasting peanut trade) insist on government grades to prevail on all stocks they purchase from the shellers. It will be better for the peanut growers when all thrasher-run peanuts are bought according to government established grades. There will be less confusion, and farmers will know what their samples for grading must be to bring high grades, and will plan and work accordingly.

Eastland County Cotton Growers May Get Loans On 1940 Crop

Eastland county cotton farmers who produce middling cotton of 15-16 staple length, may place their 1940 crop under Government loan at about 9 1/2 cents a pound, R. R. Bradshaw, chairman of the Eastland County AAA Committee, announces this week. Loans will be available until May 1, 1941.

Loan rates for all eligible grades and staples have been established by the Commodity Credit Corporation. They are on a net-weight basis, which makes them average 40 points over commercial quotations. Premiums and discounts vary with each grade and staple length.

For example, the rate on middling 7-8 inch cotton is one-fourth of a cent less than for 15-16 inch middling, on which the loan rate is based, while one-inch cotton of the same grade will bring one-fourth of a cent more. Middling 11-12 inch cotton is one and a half cents above the basic rate.

In the same manner, strict middling cotton in the medium staple lengths will bring one-fourth to one-third of a cent more than middling cotton, while strict low middling of the same staple is discounted about two-thirds of a cent per pound.

All cotton submitted for the loan must be classed by a Board of Cotton Examiners of the United States Department of Agriculture, whose decision will be final. Cotton produced in this county will be sent to the office of the Agricultural Marketing service in Abilene for classing.

To obtain a loan, a farmer delivers his cotton to a warehouse which has been approved for handling loan cotton. The warehouseman sends samples to the classing office, and upon receipt of their report, inserts in the loan forms the grades and staples of the cotton. The farmer then takes his loan forms and his warehouse receipts to a bank or other lending agency and receives his cash advance or cotton loan.

"While the new requirements for classing of loan cotton will necessarily cause some delay in the making of the loan, the benefits to be derived from the system will more than offset the inconvenience of the delay. Growers will receive a uniform classification of their cotton, done by Government employees who are expert in classing cotton. The farmer will find this cotton class record a valuable aid, either in the sale of his cotton or in the sale of his equity in the cotton," the official said.

Eastland County Cotton buyers, who are required by the 1940 marketing quota provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act to keep accurate records of all purchases from producers, will be able to do this as a part of their routine work, according to R. R. Bradshaw, Chairman of the county AAA Committee. A record of purchases from producers with white marketing

YESTERDAY! Kitty finds Vera's glove in the office, and Vera explains its loss easily. Mr. Clark is naive. Sue Mary realizes that he can't help her, that she must solve the problem herself. What if Nick and Vera have anticipated discovery? In that case, Sue Mary would be made a fool.

"MEET ME HERE—TONIGHT"

CHAPTER XXIII

LATE EVENING came and Sue Mary put on the wide-brimmed straw hat that made her look like a little girl, deepened the golden glints in her brown eyes. Her tan linen dress flared from the hips in the same way it had delighted her, when she had worn it for the first time weeks ago. The bangles on her wrist still jingled merrily, but she was too absorbed in her distraught thoughts to feel the confidence a well-groomed girl usually possesses.

She was so absorbed that she literally ran into Nick before she saw him in the lobby of the office building. "So blind you can't see me?" he demanded, taking her by the elbows and shoving her back away from the crowd coming from the elevators. "I'm not sure that pleases me."

She drew a frightened breath, but managed to hide her fears and smile. "After all, one doesn't expect to see you here."

"But here I am, and guess why?" His dark face was close to hers and his eyes looked deep into her startled brown ones. "To see you, my dear. When a man's in love he wants to see his girl. And there seem to be less and less chances these days, Sue Mary, you know that. At the hall there are always people; people wanting me to do this and that; asking questions, wanting to talk. And at the apartment—"

He shrugged his shoulders. "Well, there's either Vera or Natalie—"

"But Nick—" She didn't know what was coming, but she instinctively prepared herself. "What else—?"

"I have to talk to you, darling."

36th Division To Hold A Reunion Saturday, Oct. 5

Veterans of the Wartime 36th Division, from all sections of Oklahoma and Texas, will assemble in Fort Worth October 6th and 7th in annual reunion.

Advance reservations indicate the largest attendance in recent years. Arrangement Committee have provided a program of two full days of entertainment.

Saturday morning, October 5th will be devoted to registrations, with a buffet lunch. Saturday night the first annual banquet will be held, followed by the annual dance. All Saturday activities will be in the Texas Hotel.

Sunday morning Memorial Services will be observed in the Municipal Auditorium, followed by a business meeting. The annual luncheon, on Sunday, will be in Pioneer Palace, and entertainment will be provided for Sunday afternoon.

The Women's Auxiliary to the 36th Division Association will meet Saturday morning at the Texas Hotel, the meeting to be followed by a luncheon. Picture shows and other entertainment will be tendered the wives and families of the Veterans during the afternoon.

Conditions in Europe, and especially France, will furnish much food for conversation at the Reunion. Veterans at the time of meeting find Germany again occupying that portion of France in which they fought, this time as a conqueror. On October 5, 1918, the 36th Division began to move into the battle line in the Champagne, with the French Army, and commenced to take over front line positions on the night of October 6th. There followed twenty-one days of fighting during which the Germans were driven back more than thirteen miles. During this offensive the Division captured 813 prisoners and took munitions and material valued at ten million dollars.

For several days during the German recent defeat of France, the news dispatches carried the names of towns and villages in the Champagne sector on the Aisne River, falling to the German force

Regulations For Parity Payments Are Announced

The provisions under which producers of corn, cotton, rice, tobacco and wheat may earn 1941 parity payments were announced today by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration. Payments will be made to eligible producers from a fund of $212,000,000 appropriated for this purpose. The 1941 parity provisions are essentially the same as those in effect for the 1940 program. A producer who participates in the 1941 AAA Farm Program will be eligible for payments if: (1) the 1941 planted acreage of the commodity for which payment is made does not exceed the farm acreage allotment for such commodity, (2) he plants within the total of the acreage allotments of corn, cotton, rice, tobacco and wheat established for his farm in 1941, (3) he does not offset his performance by overplanting these commodities on any other farm, wherever located, in which he has an interest.

Freckles and His Friends—By Blosser

As provided in the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, the 1941 parity payment rates for the five commodities will be based on the amount by which the returns from the 1940 crop of each falls below the parity income. The rate for any crop can not exceed the amount by which the 1940 average farm price is less than the parity price and will be as nearly equal to parity as the available funds permit. Rates will be announced later when the information upon which they are based is available. In 1939 and 1940 the rate of payment and the average farm price combined could not exceed 75 percent of parity. As in the two previous years, parity payments will be made on the normal yield of the farm acreage allotment determined for each commodity under the 1941 program.

Big Tire Contract Given Seiberling Rubber Company

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 3.—The Seiberling Rubber Company today announced receipt of a contract from the White Motor Company to supply Bullet Seal Tubes and Mud and Snow Tires for use on vehicles being manufactured for the mobile units of the United States Army.

Totalling more than $500,000, the award represents one of the largest single orders ever received by the Seiberling Company.

In announcing the award, J. Penfield Seiberling, company president, pointed out that it comes at the time of year when replacement tire production normally is at low ebb. For that reason, while the contract will afford steadier employment for Seiberling workers, no particular personnel or plant expansion will be necessary.
