Our Yanks May Be Fighting See Kravchenko's Resignation in Philippines Soon Again No Aid to U. S.-Russ Amity

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—American forces may be fighting in the Philippines again sooner than most people expect. Recent developments in the Pacific have highlighted the fact that Admiral Chester W. Nimitz is cutting a supply channel through Japan's mandated islands leading directly to the enemy-held archipelago. The possibility of a United States attack on the Philippines was seen in the heavy assault on Japanese-held Palau, 500 miles away, and the disclosure by Navy Secretary Frank Knox that all enemy ships anchored at three atolls in the western Carolines have been sunk or damaged. And, once the harbors of Kavieng and Rabaul are isolated in Allied hands, our forces can carry out a two-pronged thrust into the Philippines which will leave large Japanese garrisons isolated in the East Indies. Do not discount the possibility that important action may be forthcoming this spring in the North Pacific, possibly against the Kuriles.

THE DRAMATIC RESIGNATION of a Russian official from his post with the Soviet embassy in Washington has turned up the already muddy waters of American-Russian relations. Victor A. Kravchenko, described as a captain in the Russian Army, quit in protest over what he termed his country's two-faced foreign policy.

While Kravchenko's resignation may have been his personal satisfaction, no one believes it will promote an understanding between Russia and the United States over foreign policy. Russia still holds the whiphand in Europe, and there is no indication that she intends to relax her hold during the war or afterwards. Her diplomatic course is not clear, her objectives are not known and her post-war position is a matter of conjecture. Some diplomatic quarters blame both the United States and Great Britain for Russia's attitude. They point out that the two Allies have failed to force the Soviets into a clear, definite statement of foreign policy.

A RESPECTABLE GOVERNMENT SERVANT bids fair to be the main issue when Congress takes up legislation providing machinery for cancellation and settlement of war contracts. The government servant, Comptroller Gen. Lindsay C. Warren, has created enmity on all sides by accusing Army and Navy procurement officers of gross waste, and demanding that he alone should have final review over war contracts.

But two congressional committees now considering the subject of war contracts are completely undecided on what his role shall be. The Senate postwar committee would leave him out of the picture. The House military affairs committee, however, would give the general accounting office generous authority in pre-auditing contracts.

THE HIGHLY IMPORTANT PRICE CONTROL ACT which expires June 30 under existing law, is due to be tossed right into the middle of the political cauldron. Reason: Congress has dilly-dallied over a resolution to renew OPA for another year. The Senate banking committee just began hearings, and is faced with a long list of witnesses when it resumes its sessions soon.

With consumer and producer subsidies as one of the main issues, Republicans and insurgent Democrats are certain to prolong consideration of the measure until it becomes a major factor at the GOP convention in Chicago. Hearings on Price Control held late in addition, the House banking committee is not slated to start its hearings until May 12, thus cutting the deadline for Senate and House consideration to a minimum before the political parties convene in Chicago.

REPRESENTATIVE ADOLPH SABATH'S BLAST at "cocktail hour" Army officers who "sit around with nothing to do" brought an immediate reaction after it hit the headlines. The response came, of all places, from retired or about-to-be-retired officers. They deluged the 78-year-old Illinois dean's office with telephone calls offering to substantiate his charges. Their fire was directed at civilian appointees who received Army commissions and replaced veteran West Pointers.

YOU'RE TELLING ME! By WILLIAM RITT, Central Press Writer

WINTER, according to the poet, lingers in the lap of spring. How true—but it's one romance that everyone will be glad to see broken up.

That Army pigeon which flew 18 miles through a blizzard to deliver its message probably was upset to find no Garcia at the receiving end.

Try A Want-A

DODGER KEY MAN - By Jack Sord

Rode, Rode, Rode

(From The Dallas Morning News)

Governor Stevenson told the boys of the press at Austin that he prefers the Texas pronunciation of rodeo, with the accent on rode and not on day. "Rodeos started down here," the Governor said. So they did, and Texans ought to know how to call them. Rodyo it has been, rodyo it is, and rodyo it will be from now on. The dictionaries sustain us by giving that as the preferred pronunciation.

It fits the contests that call for skill and daring like a tightly-cinched girth on a cow-pony. Its Spanish origin will not be disputed, but the Texasization of the word should stand. In the very first rodeo, some lusty-lunged observer on the corral fence must have shouted "Ride 'im, cowboy." And cowboy rode him.

A Texas poet, Fern Hart Nance, has written—Other states were carved or born. Texas grew from hide and horn.

It did. And Texans rode, rode, rode. It may even be true that it was down in the country from which our Governor hails where young Pecos Bill assailed that bolt of lightning, and rode it to exhaustion. Certainly it was in the West that is somewhat nearer to the rest of Texas than the Governor's bailiwick that Booger Red and other redoubtable made the rodeo famous with exhibitions of riding and roping, tying and branding that made men marvel at the skill and stamina of the Texas cowman. These buckaroos called it rodyo, and they should know.

A Cheer For Eastland County

The citizens of Eastland county are marking up scores in the War Effort of which they can justly be proud, and a little verbal patting on the back seems to be in line. In the first place Eastland county has more men in service in proportion to population than any other county in Texas and at one time after the start of the war ranked high in the score of volunteers to the army alone.

In spite of the fact that so many have gone from the county to service and to defense plants and in spite of the fact that just prior to the war Eastland county led all Texas counties in the number on WPA rolls, and without benefit of war industries, the county has oversubscribed every war bond quota both monthly and in the four big War Loan drives. Red Cross War Funds have not only been oversubscribed but have been met in record time, and other drives for funds for various war efforts have been met, promptly and cheerfully.

There are very few homes in the county which have not rearranged schedules in order that the women from those homes might take time where men once worked. But with these added duties the women of the county have faithfully completed all Red Cross surgical dressings, sewing and knitting quota on schedule.

Men of the county are giving their time to the various war boards, sacrificing time away from their businesses which are already short handed. Certainly it is nothing more than we should do, but it is well to be proud and cheerful in doing the job.

 Just how important is the Sunday School to the youth of our land? General statistics show that only one of every one hundred children ever present in Sunday School; and only one of two hundred were regular Sunday School attendants.
 Judge Fawcett Juvenile Court of Brooklyn, N. Y. said, "I have had two thousand and seven hundred boys before my court and not one of them was a Sunday School scholar; Sunday School boys do not come to see me."
 Let's go to Sunday School and take all the children. Our regular Sunday schedule of services are:

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE
SERVICES
 "Probation After Death" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ—Scientist, on Sunday, April 23.
 The Golden Text is: "The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death" (1 Corinthians 15:26).
 Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God" (Colossians 3:1).
 The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Colossians (iii.4) Paul writes: 'When Christ, who is our life, shall appear to be manifested then shall ye also appear (be manifested) with him in glory.' When Christ is being understood in all its perfection, continuity, and might, then shall man be found in God's image" (page 325).

"Why are people always talking about church attendance? I cannot see that such a topic is anything to get stirred up about!" is a question and an exclamation that is both popular and typical. The question is a legitimate one and needs some clarification.
 First, it is a time-wasting topic for the sake of itself. You have heard of the Sunday School Class that spends all of its les on time discussing new ways to get new members. Such a class is likely to contribute to its census some day and be faced with this question: "So what, if a minister is not given to and in behalf of the 'new members' then we've lost our direction, so, its needless to talk about getting more people if nothing is to be done with them. The church has made more blunders in its methods of evangelization by getting a 'number complex' than it has in most any other area! A vacuum is not a very pleasant place to inhale fresh air.
 Second, the goal of an increased attendance is an excellent discipline for a person or a church to set for itself. Its good for the individual to observe the practice of corporate worship. You cannot enter into the fellowship of the church offer; in its group worship than you can enter into the joy of a banquet by hearing somebody tell about it. Our saintly men and women who can no longer come to church, and who are blessed by the radio, can testify to the fact that they miss the group fellowship which the ether waves cannot bring. Church-going is an excellent discipline that works out to be a subtle and unusual method of determining the depth of sincerity in religion. For it keeps ones sharp, and how can one stay keen who declares the grind stone is not needed?
 Third, church attendance is necessary to the life of a church as group cooperation is necessary to the life of any secular organization. People just naturally enjoy being with their friends, and if

It seems that there has been some special work before the workers of the church almost constantly since the first of the year. Of course it needs to be like that as we never catch up with the that could be done. However, with the close of the teacher training course this week we do not have many extra things before us until June. This, we trust, will give everyone an opportunity to tackle our common task in June with renewed vigor.
 To be sure there will be occasional meetings of special interest other than the regular services. For instance, May 14, the church has as guests the high school seniors, Dr. T.R. Maston of Fort Worth is to be the visiting speaker for that occasion. We are anticipating with a great deal of pleasure having our graduates with us at that time.
 The first two weeks in June is the time set for the Vacation Bible School. This is always an enjoyable time for the boys and girls. It will require the assistance of a number of workers who will be willing to plan and prepare for the work. We are anticipating a ready response from the membership when called on to invest some time in this effort with the boys and girls. Willing helpers are to be appreciated.
 The Vacation Bible School will be followed by our revival meeting. What an opportunity to sow some seeds of evangelism in the Bible School that will bring a harvest in the revival. There is a definite need for a soul-stirring, soul-winning series of evangelistic services in our church and in Eastland. This is the work of the program of an increased attendance. We've been over the 200. Mark for two Sundays now, and we want to stay on the go!
 The night service still has undiscovered possibilities when we bring out attendance to an inspiring group. We approached it last Sunday evening (7:30 is the time), and anticipate the constant upward trend. Can we count you in?

Can You Picture TEXAS without Newspapers?

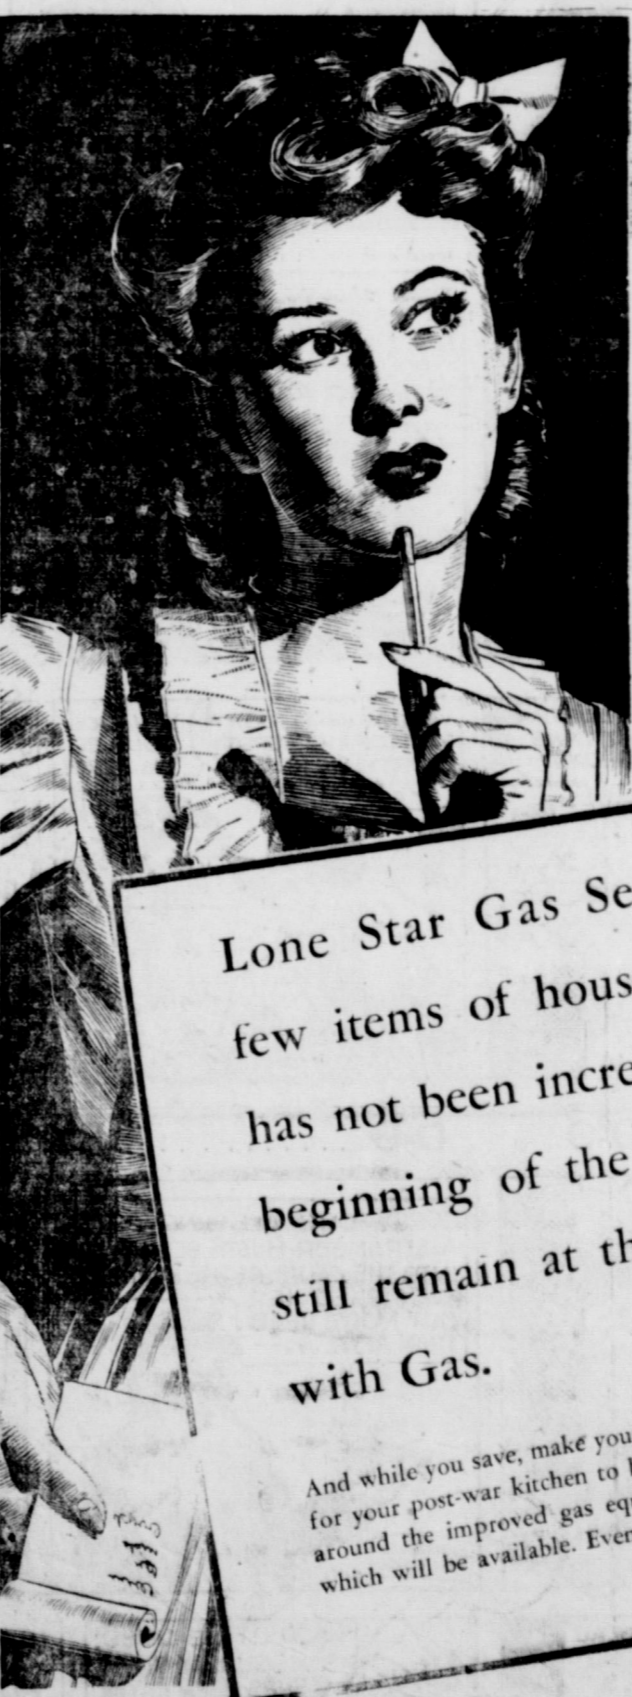

Every hour of the day headline news of overwhelming interest to every person in Texas is being made all over the world. But without our modern communication systems and particularly our newspapers it would be next to impossible to find out what's going on.
 Getting even closer to home, we wouldn't know what local boys are back on furlough—who's getting married—what's happening in the comic strips—what events are taking place all over town.
 All of us should feel proud of the fine job newspapers are doing to keep Texas in touch with the times. It's a strong and free press, serving free people—one of the first things the dictators would suppress if they had the chance! And it would be hard to over-estimate the part played by Texas' daily and weekly newspapers in furthering the war effort. Vast numbers of people buy these papers—far greater numbers read them—the whole State relies upon them for information and inspiration.
 For this reason Greyhound depends upon these newspapers to carry its information on bus service to those in Texas who travel. Greyhound, in turn, carries many newspapers to rural areas not served by other transportation.
 As fellow citizens of this state, the Greyhound Lines take pleasure in helping to make good neighbors of all the communities we serve in Texas—linking them to each other and to the rest of the country, as newspapers do.

Hints To Dairy Operators Given By County Agent

Dairy men who sell milk to a milk plant and have their milk picked up by a truck on a milk route very often have their milk arrive at the plant sour. The milk plant has to refuse the milk and send it back to the producer. This is a loss to the plant and to the producer. The majority of the loss caused by the milk being sour upon arrival at the plant takes place in warm weather this is due to the fact that the bacteria develop faster in warm milk than in cold milk. To prevent this loss, it is necessary to do two things. First, have the milk cold when the truck picks it up and second, milk in a sanitary manner so that there will be less bacteria in the milk.

In order to reduce the number of bacteria in the milk, the cow's udder blanks and in front of the udder should be brushed and then washed with chlorine water before milking. The udder should then be wiped dry. The milker should then wash his hands and dry them. Then milk with dry hands. The milker should use a seamless straight edge or partially covered milk bucket. The bucket should be rinsed out with chlorine water before using. The strainer and milk can should also be rinsed out with chlorine water. As soon as milking is completed, cool the milk down to forty degrees, if possible. If night's milk and morning's milk are to be put in the same can for delivery, the morning's milk should be cooled before it is mixed with the night's milk.

Thence west along the south line of Block A 3 to the southwest corner of said block;

Thence south along the west line of Block-B 3 to the southwest corner of said block;

Thence west along the south line of Block-B 2 to a point 75 feet west of the southeast corner of said block;

Thence south along the dividing line between lots 8 & 9 and 2 & 3 in Block-C 2 to the south line of said block;

Thence west along the south line of Block-C 2-C 1-C 2-C 3 to the southwest corner of said Block-C 3;

Thence north along the west line of Block-C 2-C 1-C 2-C 3 to the west line of Block-B 3 and the north line of the alley in said Block-B 3.

Thence west across Block-B 4 and Block 25, Daugherty Addition to a point 100 feet south of the northwest corner of said Block 25, Daugherty Addition;

Thence north along the west line of Block 25, 24, and 13, Daugherty Addition, to a point 100 feet north of the southwest corner of said Block 13, Daugherty Addition;

Thence south along the east line of Block B 3 and A 3 to the southeast corner of Block A 3 the place of beginning.

Section 2.—All ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 3.—The fact that the fire zone as it has heretofore been defined embraces a great deal more territory than the mercantile district now warrants and penalizes the City in its fire rate, creates an emergency for the suspension of the rule requiring ordinances to be read on three separate days, and that this ordinance take effect immediately upon its passage, approval and publication, and such rule is hereby suspended and it is ordained that this ordinance take effect immediately upon its passage, approval and publication.
