Youth, In Stolen Car, Escapes from Highway Patrol

Sunday afternoon a youth, wearing a U. S. Army Air Corps uniform, succeeded in eluding officers at Eastland after abandoning an allegedly stolen car and taking another which he found parked in the resident section with the keys in it, and at last reports had not been apprehended.

A State Highway patrolman observed a car parked on highway 80 between Eastland and Ranger. He stopped and told the driver to park his car off the pavement. He also asked to see his drivers license, suspecting that the car was a travel bureau car. The boy, who was in charge and driving, replied that he was just out of the army and didn't have a license.

The patrolman told him to drive into Eastland and he would check on him.

The boy, which his six passengers, one of them a boy of about 16, and later identified as the driver's brother, drove ahead of the patrolman into Eastland, but instead of stopping when he reached town, turned off Main street to the north and sought to run away from the patrolman. The men and women passengers and a soldier passenger, remonstrated with the boy about the speed with which he was turning corners and the boy is alleged to have replied that he was not going to let the officers catch him if he had to wreck the car and them too.

It was then that the soldier in the car grabbed the boy and one of the men passengers jerked the keys from the car. The boy jumped out of the car and ran.

Running through a residential section of Eastland after the patrolman had fired a number of shots at him, the boy took a car which he found parked at the C. J. Germany home with the keys in it and out ran the patrolman who borrowed a car and later hailed a taxi in which he gave chase.

The Germany car was later found near Dothan, where the boy had left it and walked back to Cisco. At Cisco he appeared at a B.Y.P.U. meeting where he joined the crowd and volunteered to play the piano for the meeting when it was discovered there was no other pianist present.

Following the B.Y.P.U. meeting he is alleged to have stolen a car belonging to the Cisco superintendent of schools. This car was later found abandoned near Weatherford leading officers to believe the youth was heading east.

The travel bureau passengers, which he had picked up in Dallas to take to Los Angeles, were released by officers after some investigation into their identity.

The 16 year old boy, however, was held in the county jail. Officers stated that they found evidence that the car that the youth drove into Eastland, was stolen from a doctor in Virginia.

CANDIDATE

Mussey C. Sells, Republican nominee for Senator from Texas.

GLADEWATER, Oct. 10—Senator Ed Moore of Oklahoma and Congressman Dewey Short of Missouri will make speeches in Texas in behalf of the candidacy of Mussey C. Sells, Republican nominee for Senator from Texas.

Sells made the announcement from his headquarters here today as plans were made for a whirlwind campaign before the general election in November.

The candidate plans to make personal appearances in West Texas, including a meeting in Ft. Worth October 23 under the sponsorship of the Tarrant County Young Republicans Club.

Sells predicted election of a Republican Congress in November, and promised that members of his party would take "American enterprise out of the strait-jacket in which it has been trying to operate for the past decade."

The Republican administration will conduct a house-cleaning on federal bureaucracy which has a s put three million civilian employees on the payroll, and savings that can be affected will be sufficient in themselves to bring about a cut in taxes in 1947, the candidate said.

Sells called for an end to OPA restrictions on meat, declaring they are a glaring example of bureaucratic waste and injustice.

Hollis Bennett Heads Local USO Drive For Funds

To provide a home away from home for our GI's USO is asking the American people for $19,000,000, to help them through a really tough year. Eastland County's part of this national quota is approximately $2,500, and of the County's part the City of Eastland's quota is $600.

Hollis Bennett has accepted the chairmanship of the drive to raise Eastland's quota. He states that the drive will begin Saturday, October 12 and continues through October 19. He states also that this is the final USO appeal.

Just think for a minute about the 1,500,000 GI's USO will serve in 1947. Some are in hospitals learning to walk without legs, to see without eyes, to forget the horrors of war. Some are on maneuvers, on guard duty, in training. Some have wives and kids at home. Many are in their teens. Like all of us they are wondering when things for them will get back to "normal."

Outgoing players for Eastland included Blair, Mathews and Barker. Barker and Mathews tied in the defensive play with 8 tackles credited to each, while Blair was second with 7.

In offensive play, Mathews was first in yardage gained by running, with Blair running a close second.

This is "Hire the Handicapped" week and employers are asked to cooperate by considering the placement of the handicapped worker, many of whom are veterans with disabilities ranging from 10 per cent to 100 per cent. This disability percentage is misleading in as much as it does not mean that the veteran is totally disabled and unemployable if he has a high disability rate, rather the employer interested will find these handicapped able, loyal and with a willingness to extend themselves as workers in order to offset their physical differences. The local USES office is charged with the responsibility of placing the handicapped worker only in positions they are capable of holding. If you have a job vacancy call the USES office, phone No. 195, tell them your requirements and rest assured they will furnish you a worker that has the ability to meet your requirements or they will notify you to the contrary.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. I. Lane spent the week-end in Dallas visiting their daughter and the Dallas State Fair.

James Reed and J. O. Earnest left last Saturday for Cleveland, Ohio, to attend the Clover Farm convention being held in that city. They expect to return in ten days.

The American Service paper, Stars and Stripes, quotes this official announcement which appeared, duly signed by an admiral, on the bulletin board at a U. S. naval office: "All officers wishing to take advantage of the stenographers in the pool will go to Room

Army paratroopers were practicing their jumps in a backwoods region. A parachutist started to come down on a field, near which lived an old mountaineer and 15 children. One of the youngsters saw the parachute floating down with a man attached to it, and he ran into the house yelling: "Bring your shotgun, Pappy; the darn stork is bringin' 'em full-growned now!"

Mrs. Bethel Reed has returned from Oklahoma City where she went on a visit with friends.

Occasionally a veteran who is approached with an invitation to become a member of our American Legion post comes back with the question: "What will the Legion do for me?"—and the answer he usually gets—(and properly)—is a recital of the things he, as a member, can do for veterans, for his community, and for the nation. The Legion is the largest veterans organization in the world and therefore the strongest and in turn the richest—all this could not have been accomplished if the Legion did not produce results of their endeavors, the GI bill of rights, the Terminal Leave bill and thousands of others benefitting the veteran are a matter of record, but primarily we are dedicated to serve our buddy's widow, orphan and our disabled comrades.

A lawyer was always lecturing his office boy, whether he needed it or not. One day he heard this conversation between the boy and one employed next door: "How much does he pay you?" asked the latter. "I get five thousand a year" replied the lawyer's boy; "$10 a week in cash and the rest in legal advice."

And then there was the actress who married a director, longed for children and didn't have any. So she married a producer.

The regular Auxiliary meeting was held Tuesday evening with a nice attendance. The new members were initiated: Mrs. Richard Chamberlain and Mrs. Hazel Melton. Mrs. Robert Burkett was named poppy chairman and will conduct the annual poppy sale the early part of November. Permanent chairmen were named for the standing committees: Mrs. Ita Parrish, Membership; Mrs. Geo. I. Lane, Rehabilitation; Child Welfare; Mrs. Alford Baker, Entertainment; Mrs. Hazel Melton. A mask tucky party will be held Tuesday, October 29th for Legionnaires and their wives and auxiliary members. Mrs. Melton will be in charge of the arrangements. Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting. Little Miss Kay Burkett rendered a piano solo and for her age and experience performed like a real little artist.

Under The Dome At Austin

By Gordon K. Shearer
United Press Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Tex. (UP)—When they laid Weaver Baker to rest in a hill country cemetery last week, they did not end his work for Texas.

The former Chairman of the State Board of Control, killed in an automobile accident, had just completed the budget for state operations for a time extending to Sept. 1, 1949.

The budget will go to members of the state legislature as soon after December 1 as the printers can get it out. It will propose in detail salaries, building, maintenance and other costs for state departments, institutions, colleges and courts.

Baker personally compiled the budget. He visited colleges and institutions scattered over the state and consulted with department heads in Austin. Already he was familiar with court needs from long service as a District Attorney and general lawyer.

Baker's appointment to the chairmanship of the Board of Control brought Gov. Coke R. Stevenson his first sharp criticism, but it wasn't long until Baker's designation to head the important state administrative board was being recognized as the Governor's "best appointment."

The earlier criticism was not aimed at Baker, then comparatively little known in state affairs, but because Baker had been the Governor's law partner and the appointment was looked upon as favoring a friend.

It was heightened because the Governor named another former law partner to be member of the State Highway Commission. The Board of Control and the State Highway Commission are the two branches of the state that have the biggest duties and powers.

There was some feeling, too, that Baker had not the business experience for Chairmanship of the Board of Control.

Stevenson kept quiet under the criticism but later he told friends the appointments were not friendship ones. He named the men because he had been associated with them and knew them for "workers."

"No matter how smart a man is, if he doesn't put a lot of hours on his job, he is not going to succeed," Stevenson said. Baker and Fred Knetesch of the Highway Commission both had convinced Stevenson they were "workers."

Incidentally, Baker and Knetesch were never law partners. The Stevenson-Baker partnership was in law practice at Junction. Knetesch and the Governor were partners in a law practice at Seguin but Knetesch had worked in Stevenson's Junction office before.

Stevenson's appointment did not make Baker Chairman of his Board. The chairman is elected by the board members.

Chairman Baker's death emphasized one of the flaws in the Texas system of board memberships overlapping state administrations.

Fortunately this flaw is minimized by the close cooperation between outgoing Governor Stevenson and incoming Beauford Jester.

Stevenson has consulted Jester and an appointment pleasing to both was made—Carlos Ashley of Llano.

But suppose the election result had been different last August 24 and Homer P. Rainey were to be the next governor. Outgoing Gov. Stevenson could not have appointed a successor to Baker with much prospect that the appointee would be re-appointed when Jan. 1, 1948 came around—the end of the term Baker held.

Texas is still a strong believer in Andrew Jackson's doctrine "to the victor belongs the spoils." And Dr. Rainey would have had many applicants for the post which is one of the few $7,000 a year state offices filled without the occupant having the expense of a political race. In view of the daggers point positions of Rainey and Stevenson in the recent political campaign a Stevenson chosen appointee would scarcely have been acceptable to Rainey supporters—especially those needing jobs.

On the other side of the picture a man capable of holding a job was important as Chairman of the State Board of Control would not be likely to accept the place if it were to a temporary fill in position.

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Are Returning Veterans "Different"?

During the war you heard a lot about how hard it was going to be for returning veterans to get adjusted to civilian life... how they'd be "different."

Well, plenty of them have returned to our town, and a finer, steadier bunch you couldn't ask for. Most of them are back at the same jobs... going with the same nice home-town girls (getting married, some of them, and setting up families)... renewing the same old friendships.

Even their amusements are the same. Nothing more exciting than fishing Seward's creek or pitching horseshoes... enjoying an outdoor barbecue with friendly wholesome beer and pleasant talk.

If they've changed at all, in the direction of maturity and tolerance... tolerance for everything except dictators, and those who would destroy our democratic principles of live and let live. And from where I sit, that's another reason to be proud of them.

INEDIBLE EXPLANATIONS

Maybe we haven't got meat but, boy have we got explanations!

President Truman says "the present shortage is due in large part to the extraordinarily large slaughter in July and August," and that "the glut of meat in summer was bound to mean a shortage in the fall."

That might seem to indicate that we were short of live stock. But Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, spying a silver lining, says, "It is to the interest of the American people to see markets slowed up temporarily and meat hard to find while 52,000,000 head of cattle and 58,000,000 head of hogs convert 160,900,000 tons of feed into top grade beef and pork."

Our largest beef cattle population was only about 54,585,000 head, in 1944, according to figures of Mr. Anderson's own department, so it appears that there's no shortage of critters.

Mr. Truman says that "the dire predictions of a meat famine are without basis." But Sen. James Mead, Rep. Adolph Sabath and a CIO cost of living committee have been talking about "the terrifying meat famine," which they attribute to "the drive of meat packers in creating artificial shortages" in order to end price controls.

Some labor union leaders feel that another drive for higher wages is justified because "no effort" is being made to enforce price control. But an OPA enforcement official in New York says the situation is "under better control today than at any other time in the history of the meat enforcement program."

And so it goes. Yet the basic facts behind the shortage are comparatively simple, and the basic arguments are three-familiar.

It is demonstrably true that there are beef cattle and hogs in ample number to feed the country. It is likewise demonstrably true that meat price control without meat rationing has not been a success.

The big argument is whether, in the face of higher costs and no subsidies, growers and packers can produce meat profitably under present ceilings. Many growers and packers say no. President Truman says "present" livestock ceilings are fair and equitable. OPA says amen. Somebody's wrong.

It still doesn't seem impossible to get the disputing parties together and work out a solution. But thus far there seems to have been too much charge and countercharge, too much ill feelings, too great a desire on the part of all concerned to insist that salvation lies only along the path of their own economic theory.

TELLS FISH STORY TO BEST ALL FISH STORIES

SANTE FE, N. M. (UP)—State Game Warden Elliott S. Barker has come to the aid of Marcus Griffin, author of the "Hitching Post," in the Eddy County News, Carlsbad, by telling a fish story which far outdistances one spun earlier by a Texan.

Griffin called on the state Game and Fish Department for aid in topping the tale told by Sid Evans, Jr., Georgetown, Tex., of the piscatorial prowess of one Puss Jordan.

Here's how Barker tells it. "It was very early one August morning when I left Santa Fe, bound for one of the high mountain lakes in the Upper Pecos area. It was not yet daylight when at Cowles I changed from car to saddle horse, and with my 6 ounce fly rod, reel and other fishing equipment left for the Timber Line Lake."

Barker said he was casting with a No. 12 Royal Coachman dry fly. On the start of the third cast, as the fly whipped back over his shoulders, a bat dived after it and became securely hooked.

As the bat darted back and forth on the end of the line, a prairie falcon, denizen of the high mountain peaks, saw him and dived straight for the bat and took him in.

Barker said he was in a predicament sure enough, but the unusual strength of his light rod and 10-pound test line enabled him to play the falcon successfully in the air over his head.

It was then that he heard the whizz of an eagle's wings, as the bird plunged out of the blue sky and took the falcon. As the Golden Eagle swept low over the lake's surface, a huge rainbow trout jumped clear out of the water and gobbled down the eagle, falcon and fly."

Barker played the eagle all day long "from one side of the lake to the other, and from surface to bottom." But as the evening shadows lengthened, a big grizzly bear came out on the ice on the opposite side of the lake to watch Barker. The bear drew closer and closer to the edge of the ice as Barker played the big trout. Curiosity of the bear became so great that he fell in the lake with a splash. The bear was so big, Barker related, that the water in the lake raised up to the fisherman's hips and gushed into a quarter-acre oblong dry basin, connected to the lake by a narrow channel just above the water level.

The rainbow saw his chance to escape and swam into the channel with the rushing water. Then the grizzly climbed out on shore, and as he did so, the water pushed back into the lake. This naturally drained the water back from the channel into the lake again, leaving Mr. Rainbow high and dry. Thus, the fish actually landed himself, Barker declared.

That's Barker's story, and should satisfy Griffin. As for the Texan—we'll wait and see.

SHIP LINES LOOK TO BOOM IN FAR EAST

By M. Stewart Hensley. United Press Staff Correspondent WASHINGTON (UP)—American shipping lines are expected during the next few years to provide double to triple the shipping service to the Far East they did before the war.

Estimates gathered from both private and official shipping sources here show that the upswing applies to both cargo and passenger service.

Officials of the National Federation of American Shipping, which represents all major United States lines, told the United Press that more than double the pre-war number of lines serving the Orient have indicated their intention for operating to that area. Tonnage capacity is expected to show an even sharper proportionate gain.

Improper, He Says

Gustav Schwarz, director of War Assets' sales and planning division, gestures as he tells special House committee a midwestern radio firm was "improper and irregular" in disposing of surplus equipment below price set by government.

NEW CARS ARE IN RATIO TO POPULATION

By Robert W. Hefty. United Press Staff Correspondent DETROIT (UP)—In case you've been wondering where all those new cars are going, here's the answer—or at least part of it.

They are being distributed just about according to population, and approximately in the same ratio as they were in 1941 before civilian auto production was halted by the war.

A compilation by R. L. Polk & Co., automotive statisticians, reveals that during the first six months of this year 493,309 new cars were registered in the United States, compared with 2,463,063 during the same period in 1941, or about one-fifth as great.

By contrast, commercial vehicles registered throughout the country during the first half of this year totaled 231,068, or more than two-thirds of the 1941 total of 354,045. One state—New York—actually registered more new business vehicles this year than in 1941.

As might be expected, New York led the list in new passenger cars. Where it registered 217,573 during the first six months of 1941, the state is credited with 49,022 registrations this year. Similarly, Pennsylvania ranked second behind New York in 1941, with 190,574, and retains that position currently with 38,294. Michigan, fourth highest in number of registrations in 1941 with 179,073, moved into third place with 38,192 this year, supplanting California, which had 186,894 in the first half of 1941, but registered only 36,714 this year.

Nevada had the smallest number of registrations in 1941—2,528 represents a substantially greater gain than those for New Hampshire and New Mexico, its closest competitors for registration honors.

New Hampshire recorded 8,930 new cars in the first half of 1941 and New Mexico 5,740, but between January and July of this year each registered only 962.

New York state also led in commercial vehicle registrations this year, although in 1941 it ranked fourth behind Texas, Pennsylvania and California. This year the totals were 25,618 for Texas, 20,887 for Pennsylvania, 20,883 for California and 18,460 for New York.

This year, Texas fell to 15,614, while California had 14,845 and Pennsylvania 13,592. Illinois was fifth with 13,326, compared with 17,909 in 1941.

Nevada, which took low commercial vehicle honors in 1941's first half, registered 566 this year, to pass New Hampshire, which recorded only 507. Delaware was third lowest with 646. The 1941 totals were 596 for Nevada, 1,796 for New Hampshire and 1,127 for Delaware.

ing the first six months of 1941, the state is credited with 49,022 registrations this year. Similarly, Pennsylvania ranked second behind New York in 1941, with 190,574, and retains that position currently with 38,294. Michigan, fourth highest in number of registrations in 1941 with 179,073, moved into third place with 38,192 this year, supplanting California, which had 186,894 in the first half of 1941, but registered only 36,714 this year.

Horse and Wagon Follies EAST LIVERPOOL, O. (UP)—Clarence M. Flowers escaped a driver's license revocation—because he doesn't have one—but Squire John Talbott in nearby Newell, W. Va., impounded his horse for the next six months. Flowers also was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail for driving a vehicle at night without lights and while intoxicated.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this opportunity to publicly express through the press our gratefulness and deep appreciation to our friends, too numerous to be named here, of Eastland, Ranger, Carbon and Cisco, and the persons or groups indicated, for the comfort afforded us and personal services rendered during our recent bereavement. Our burden and grief because of the loss of my wife, and our mother, Mrs. Pearl Hollis, formerly of Carbon and Eastland, was made lighter because of their understanding and sympathy; because of their personal services and the many beautiful flowers they sent.

We particularly wish to extend our appreciation to the members of the First Baptist Church of Eastland, Texas, of which our mother was not a member, for the use of the church for funeral services on September 29th; to Rev. Fred Porter, Pastor, for his message of condolence; to the quartet — Mr. W. G. Womack, Mr. W. D. R. Owen, Mrs. I. P. Quarrels and Mrs. Opal Terrell — for the song service; to Mr. Donald Kinnard, Organist, for the music and accompaniment; to the Gleaner's Sunday School Class for food they brought to the family; and to Mr. Ben Hamner and his associates of the Hamner Funeral Home for the manner in which they handled funeral arrangements. Mr. Hamner rendered his personal services freely and unselfishly in assisting the family with many details which were not required of him as a Funeral Director. Such kindness and consideration on the part of all at a time like this are not forgotten. R. S. Hollis and Family.

I GIVE YOU TEXAS

By Boyce House

Your columnist has been interested all his life in public affairs.

Away back yonder in the seventh grade, I lived in Mississippi, famed for its political oratory, and heard some of the spellbinders of the era that produced Senators James K. Vardaman and John Sharp Williams. Then, in high school days in Memphis, Tennessee, I heard William Jennings Bryan, Senator Bob LaFollette (the original) and former Governor Malcolm R. Patterson, the greatest political orator I've ever heard.

The subject of keenest interest to me in high school was debating. Our coach was a young, red-headed, dynamic teacher from Texas, James Leonard Highsaw, who used to live in Delta and Collin counties. I took every subject he taught economics, government, history and sociology. Then after school three of his favorite "boys" would meet in his room and we would prepare for our next debate until it grew too dark to see.

We debated such subjects as the one-house legislature, initiative and recall, capital punishment, government ownership of utilities and the tariff.

We had two literary societies and debated within our society, also inter-society contests and with other high schools. My two colleagues from the high school team were orators. Sterling Tracy won the State high school oratorial championship and, in the University of Wisconsin, he won the oratorial championship of the "Big Ten". Clifford Davis is about to begin his fourth term in Congress.

Your columnist lacked the speaking ability of these two and so he tried to make up for this deficiency by studying, extra hard, on the subject. In the rebuttal where the speaking has to be extemporaneous, I used to attain a speed of 200 words a minute. The other boys were generous and elected me captain of the team.

Certainly, I'm sympathetic toward suffering Europe — but why couldn't at least part of the food sent over there be something I don't like? Why couldn't it include some squash, turnips and cauliflower.

Texas Centennial Queen Be Chosen At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UP)— "Texas Centennial Queen" will be chosen at a fiesta to be held within the walls of historic 225-year-old San Jose Mission at San Antonio on October 12.

Plans are complete for statewide participation in the San Jose fiesta. An elaborate program, endorsed by the Texas and Bexar County Centennial Commissions, under the auspices of the San Antonio Conservation Society and with the cooperation of the Most Reverend Robert E. Lucey, Archbishop of San Antonio, will recreate the adventurous pioneer mission era of two centuries ago.

The fiesta will feature exhibits of native crafts, an entertainment program in the center of the sprawling plaza within the mission's walls, Spanish food booths and appropriately costumed men, women and children. A highlight of the fiesta will be the selection of the "Texas Centennial Queen." Entries are confined to students of junior and senior classes of Texas high schools. The queen will be selected on the basis of costumery typifying the Mission era, as well as stage presence. Costumes must be of Indian, Spanish, Mexican or Texas colonial design. All Texas high schools have been invited to send entrants to the fiesta.

The Rubber City Kennel Club all breeds dog show, held at Akron, O., included automobile trophies in its list of trophies and awards.
