PROGRESSIVE FIRMS BUILD IN EASTLAND

Progress is continually on the march in Eastland. Witness the many improvements now underway and planned for the immediate future. There are too many of these to mention all of them at this time, but here are a few as they come to our mind:

The McGraw Motor Company, who recently moved to their newly constructed quarters on South Seaman street at Valley, are putting the finishing touches on the building and have landscaped the grounds surrounding the building. You will have to see it to appreciate what this progressive firm is doing for the town and community.

The large building on the southwest corner of the square, which is the new home of the Eastland Furniture Company, had the outside portion of its face lifted this week and you will hardly recognize it as the same building. This is the first step in plans for the remodeling and renovation of the entire building, inside as well as out.

Take advantage of your first opportunity to look this building over and while you are doing so take a squint inside at the large and well selected stock of furniture and other lines which fill the building.

The Willy-Willys Furniture Mart on South Seaman street, was recently repaired and improved on both the inside and outside. A mezzanine floor extending the full width and almost the entire length of the building has just been completed and this space as well as the ground floor is now filled to capacity with up-to-date furniture and other lines of merchandise stocked by this progressive firm.

The Connor building, which now houses the Davis - Maxey drug store, Eastland's new business enterprise, is being repaired and improved on the outside, having been renovated on the inside before the new store opened a few days ago.

Eastland Auto Parts' new construction on South Seaman, where the company's new home is being erected, is making progress on this job.

Judge Miller died in a Brownwood hospital Monday.

He was to have succeeded Courtney Gray, also of Brownwood, on the court at Eastland. Gray was appointed by Governor Stevenson last year to fill a vacancy in the court.

NEW AGENCY TO HANDLE FARM CREDIT SERVICES

Credit facilities and services formerly provided by the Farm Security Administration and the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Division of the Eastland county office of the Farmers' Home Administration, Lester J. Cappelman, Texas State Director of FHA announced today.

Mr. Cappelman also announced the designation of George I. Lane, Eastland county supervisor of the Farm Security Administration, as interim supervisor-in-charge of the Eastland County FHA office, which is located on the second floor of the Eastland National Bank Building.

The Farmers' Home Administration, created by the 79th Congress, took over functions of FSA and ECFL effective November 1. The new agency will make production and subsistence loans as well as loans for farm purchases. Facilities are available only to farmers who are unable to get the loans they need at interest rates not exceeding five percent from banks, cooperative lending agencies or other responsible sources in their communities.

The farm purchase loans made by the new agency are similar to those formerly made by the Farm Security Administration. Loans are made for 100 per cent of the purchase price of family-type farms, plus needed improvements. Repayment is scheduled over a period of 40 years, and interest rate is 3 1/2 per cent.

Operating credit extended by the Farmers' Home Administration under its production and subsistence loan program includes both annual loans and adjustment-type loans at five percent interest. The adjustment-type credit is similar to the "rehabilitation" loans made by the Farm Security Administration, and is based on farm and home operating plans worked out by the borrower with the aid of FHA Supervisors. It is accompanied by on-the-farm management assistance provided by FHA personnel. Loans may be repaid over a maximum period of five years.

The annual loans made by FHA are similar to the "feed and seed" loans made by the Emergency Crop and Feed Loan Division of the Farm Credit Administration. Farm and home plans are not required as a basis for these loans, but they must be repaid within 12 months.

Production and subsistence loans to any one borrower may not exceed $3,500 in any one year. Total indebtedness of any one borrower may not exceed $5,000. Veterans will be given preference in all phases of the Farmers' Home Administration program.

PROSPECTS FOR POLITICAL HARMONY

It was not surprising that Republican congressmen gave a friendly reception to President Truman's offer of cooperation, his pledge of faith with faith, and his promise to meet good will with good will. For Mr. Truman has seemed to retain his personal popularity with his former GOP colleagues.

Their chief criticism has been of Mr. Truman as executor of President Roosevelt's legislative legacy, and even more so of Mr. Truman as the political ally of leftist liberals and of the powerful labor leaders who gave Mr. Roosevelt such strong support. But they haven't felt particularly bitter toward Harry Truman, the affable erstwhile junior senator from Missouri.

To the possibility of Capitol-White House harmony, which seems so hopeful right now, may hinge on a possible change of the President's attitudes and sympathies as a result of recent elections.

Mr. Truman committed himself to carry on the program and preserve the tradition of the Roosevelt Administration when he took office a year and a half ago.

Largely for that reason the labor leaders who supported Mr. Roosevelt have stuck to Mr. Truman. And Mr. Truman has stuck to them. For, until Nov. 5, those labor leaders—especially those connected with the PAC—headed a politically powerful group that he could not afford to offend. But the CIO-PAC isn't as formidable as it was before the elections. Only 73 candidates who received its blessing were winners in the race for 318 contested House seats.

So today Mr. Truman is largely free to withstand political pressure from a badly beaten PAC, if he is so inclined. He is largely free to propose legislation according to his own convictions with less regard for political expediency.

As senator, Mr. Truman was a liberal and a faithful supporter of New Deal legislation. As President, he has shown himself less inclined toward social and economic innovation than was his predecessor. He is certainly a little to the right of Mr. Roosevelt's "a little left of center." And though he displays an almost reverential regard for Mr. Roosevelt's abilities and accomplishments, he hasn't hesitated to shoo the top New Dealers out of Washington and replace them with more congenial assistants and advisers.

These are among the factors which will weigh heavily in determining Mr. Truman's choice of action. That choice will decide more than anything else whether we have a harmonious or discordant government from now until January, 1949. And that decision, in turn, will have a profound effect on the national and international history of the next two years.

Carroll Glenn, Violinist, Grew Up Career Wise

To the necessary cornerstones of musical career-building, rare talent, musicianship, ambition, and perseverance, Carroll Glenn adds another—the sympathetic guidance of a wise mother, who saw in her daughter the elements of greatness and carefully nurtured them. Acclaimed by critics and public for the musical perception and understanding of her performances, this top-ranking woman violinist looks back to her not-so-long-ago childhood, and acknowledges her good fortune in having so understanding a mother.

Many a young artist has had to struggle, not only against the skeptical attitude of the critical world but against opposition at home, but Carroll Glenn, who will appear in Eastland on November 27, remembers how her mother, herself a violinist, was always there with the right word to dispel any discouragement.

Before she was four Miss Glenn had her own violin, a "Stradivarius Model" purchased at Sears Roebuck and when she displayed an amazing aptitude for making even the toy strings sing, her mother thought she saw signs of a real talent. Before Carroll had entered the first grade, her mother graduated her to an eight-size violin and gave her daily lessons. The little girl was soon playing for neighborhood festivities and by the time she was eleven, had won every music contest in her part of the country.

While she appreciated and fostered her daughter's talent, Mrs. Glenn was equally anxious that she have the interests and amusements of an average youngster. As any mother of a musical child knows, it is no mean accomplishment to regulate work, play, and rest so that no undue strain may affect the development of mind and body. To inject the spirit of fun into daily lessons and practice sessions, the mother invented musical games to try to make Carroll Glenn's early study a pleasure instead of a chore it might have become. No compromise with excellence was allowed, however, and Mrs. Glenn remains to this day one of her daughter's most exacting critics.

When Carroll Glenn was seven her mother traveled with her for her weekly lessons at the University of South Carolina, 65 miles from home, and four years later obtained her daughter's admission to the famous Juilliard School of Music. There Carroll was enrolled, the youngest pupil Juilliard had ever accepted, in the class of Edouard Dethier, Belgian violinist and teacher. This was one of the goals of which the Glens had dreamed, but it was also a new beginning, for they knew for the first time that Carroll's gift was genuine.

In addition to daily classes at the Juilliard and four hours daily violin practice, Carroll Glenn attended public school, and later was graduated from the well-known progressive Lincoln School. Her health was guarded as vigilantly and lovingly as her talent, recreation was planned and "dates" permitted on weekends. This routine continued until, at sixteen, the precious young musician made a brilliant New York debut, and her mother knew a career was well-founded.

Carroll Glenn today in demand as soloist with leading symphony orchestras of the country and a favorite of concert audiences from coast to coast, still turns to her mother for advice on every phase of her career—and if we are to judge by results it must be very good advice!

Thanksgiving Day services are held each year by the Mother Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, and its branches throughout the world. The Thanksgiving Day service of First Church of Christ, Scientist, Plummer and Lamar Streets, Eastland, Texas, will be held at 11 o'clock, Thursday, November 28. The order of service includes the reading of a Lesson-Sermon on the topic "Thanksgiving," and opportunity is afforded for testimonials of gratitude to be expressed appropriate for the occasion. The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

The Golden Text is: "Let the peace of God rule in your hearts, which also ye are called in one body; and be ye thankful" (Colossians 3:15.)

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "Let all those that seek thee rejoice and be glad in thee; and let such as love thy salvation say continually, let God be magnified" (Psalms 70:4.)

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Let us learn of the real and eternal, and prepare for the reign of Spirit, the kingdom of heaven,—the reign and rule of universal harmony, which cannot be lost nor remain forever unseen." AMERICAN LEGION

BOB BURKETT, Post Commander
Mrs. Earl Francis, Auxiliary Pres.

Thursday of last week Commander Spear of the Goddard American Legion post called Commander Burkett asking our post to furnish a burial party to bury a lady who met her death in a motorcycle accident near Fort Bragg, N.C., where he was stationed. Commander Burkett responded with a firing squad, colors, color guard, bugler and chaplain, plus some misunderstanding a 15th Air Force burial party from Ft. Worth was present and they assisted the Legion in conducting the service at the grave. The last rites were very impressive and Commander Spear commented that the services would do a great deal in boosting his membership for this year.

Clark Griffith, president of the Washington D. C. Baseball Club, in making note of a 30 per cent increase in the number of boys taking part in the American Legion Junior baseball programs in 1946, stated: "You folks of the American Legion have done a great job for the youth of our country, and I hope you will forever carry on in this work."

One of the founders of the American Legion passed away in Cleveland, Ohio, October 26, as a result of a heart attack. Leonard P. Ayers, former brigadier general, famous economist, was a member of the caucus in Paris, France, in March 1919, when the American Legion was born, and was a member of the Legion's Commission of Post-War America. He served in World War II as director of the Division of Statistical Operations at the Service of Supply headquarters in the Pentagon.

Robert Burton, 122 Caruso St., San Antonio is desirous of contacting a Mr. Nelson who served as Corral Mesa, Q.M. Camp, Ft. Leaton, Seattle, Wash., in 1912. Anyone knowing his present address please advise buddy Burton at his San Antonio address.

Formerly C. E. LeClaire of Ft. Worth spent a few days in Eastland last week visiting his father, A. E. LeClaire.

Thursday of next week is Thanksgiving and we thank our forefathers for setting aside a day for which we give Almighty God thanks for the many benefits we enjoy. Foremost of course is our peace and our American way of life even though we can not seem to get adjusted on our road towards post war adjustment due to strike threats and many other things that we deplore. Still we have our fundamental faith that the ultimate victory of the better over the worse is inevitable. We are thankful for our ability to give food and help to the starving and desolate of Europe. We thank God we are Americans and our way of life teaches us it is a special privilege to dedicate ourselves to holy clothe and feed and to rehabilitate those unfortunate millions who were all but destroyed by Hitler's barbarians.

We are thankful for our American Legion organization whose cardinal purposes is the rehabilitation of our disable comrades; the care of the dependents of those that answered the final call, and those who are now suffering the ravages of wounds, disease and want, and devoted service to the community, state and nation. The blessing which stir the richest gratitude of our hearts are the everyday common things of life that are still ours to enjoy. For all these things and many more, let us be thankful on this Thanksgiving.

Our "Gift Shop" party was an enjoyable affair in as much as it will add a lot of cheer to worthy hearts who are either bedfast or confined to veteran hospitals, each guest brought a gift, 60 gifts in all. Mrs. V. O. Hatcher and Mrs. J. A. Parrish will prepare the gifts for shipment to some Texas hospital, the Auxiliary representatives at the hospital offers these gifts to veterans who draw under $65 a month to be sent their loved ones for Christmas gifts.

Life is made up, not of great sacrifices or duties, but of little things, in which smiles and kindness, and small obligations given habitually, are what preserve the heart and secure comfort.

K. A. Soffos, a member of Houston Post No. 52 is back home after a long war experience in Greece. In 1937 he was the owner of a bmy cafe in downtown Houston, he received an OK to his oceanic proposal from his Greek sweetheart. He went to Greece and was married. Then the Italians struck and Soffos found himself in enemy territory when the Germans moved in. On the advice of friends he hid evidence of his American citizenship, burying his papers in the yard. Many times he was forced to labor in the hills to the tune of a bull whip cracked by Fascist henchmen. His home was burned and his family were forced to take to the hills. The 4 American Legion Posts in Athens, composed of Greeks who fought for the U. S. in War I, were closed and their Commanders imprisoned. Soffos was with the underground when the flash came that the war was over. He dug up his papers and with his wife and two sons who were born during the time of his stay, boarded a ship for home.

Former T-Sgt. Perry C. Vines, of the Army Air Corps, in which he served 3 years has taken over the management of the Magnolia Service Station on East Main St. and invites his comrades to visit him at his new location.

The Colonel had insisted to his Negro cook that the Thanksgiving turkey be a domestic, corn-fed bird, no wild fowl. Came the day and the Colonel cut into the beautiful, done-to-perfection turkey, frowned, cut again, then sent for Sam. "Didn't I tell you I wanted a domestic, corn-fed fowl?" he thundered. "Yah, sah, dat's a domestic, corn-fed bird." "Well, what about this shot I'm finding?" Sam shuffled from one foot to the other. "Dat shot, Colonel sah, were meant fo' me."

When our National Executive Committee meets in Indianapolis starting Nov. 21, each department committee man will be accompanied by a young active Legionnaire as a consultant, this plan was adopted last year and enables our War II boys to really get an insight of the purposes and policies of our great organization.

Mrs. Jim Alford is a patient at the Eastland Hospital and the last report from the hospital is favorable, as she continues to improve.

Mrs. J. P. Carr has returned to her home in Abilene after a two weeks visit with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Walters.

With the end of the envelope shortage, the U. S. Treasury has the expectation of having all checks and bonds covering the terminal leave payments in the hands of some four million veterans recipients by Christmas.

Buddy Glen Branton and friends Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Hill and daughter Corke of Cisco were dinner guests of Glen's mother, Unit member, Mrs. Ruth Branton, last Thursday evening.

Calls continue to go out from the U. S. Employment offices for job openings for disabled veterans who are seeking work and employers are asked to consider the possibility of hiring the handicapped veteran with the assurance the USES will not send you a worker that will be a burden in any manner to you, these workers can qualify for many jobs as well as the physical worker and in many cases they have proven themselves superior.

Mrs. Edgar Alford, now of Dallas is spending a few weeks with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Walker. Mr. Alford spent the week end in Eastland visiting his mother who is ill in our hospital, and his wife.

"May I hold your Palm Olive?" "Not on your Life Bouy, we've 'Little Fairy' in our home already"

The housekeeper walked into the shop and rapped smartly on the counter. "I want a chicken," she said. "Do you want a pullet?" asked the shopkeeper. "No," replied the housekeeper. "I want to carry it."

Two things in this world you can't keep down—a good man and a bad oyster.

Women from Afar Study Journalism In United States

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UP)—Eight nations on four continents are represented among students of journalism at Syracuse University this fall. The countries are Egypt, Turkey, India, Iraq, Sweden, Norway and Canada, in addition to the United States.

Three of the foreign students are women: Miss Chaturi Vaswani, from Karachi, India; Miss Birgit Elfven, from Stockholm, Sweden, and Mrs. Serui Albjorg Wallberg from Bergen, Norway.

Eight state appellate court judges got $500 to $2,000 more than the $18,000 annual salary received by Edward Martin as governor of Pennsylvania.

Navy Chaplains Busy In War's One Last Year

CHICAGO (UP)—Navy chaplains conducted a total of 407,577 divine services during 1945, with 32,603,684 persons in attendance, according to the U. S. Navy Chaplains' Corps.

The corps said navy chaplains conducted 348,986 services aboard their own ships or at their own stations, and 58,591 services away from their stations. In addition, they conducted 42,186 services in civilian churches.

The attendance in 1944 totalled 37,062,428. In addition to regular services in 1945, chaplains officiated at 12,501 marriages, and 14,951 funerals. They also performed 15,088 baptisms and accepted 13,818 servicemen and women into the church.

Says Spirit Control Took Her For Ride

CHICAGO (UP)—Under the "wrong, fraudulent and spiritualistic control" of Mr. and Mrs.

Charles Leisio for the past six years, Mrs. Ida Morrisette charged in a suit that she nursed Mrs. Leisio without payment, drew money out of the bank and gave it to them, bought a house and gave them the deed, and accepted a husband she did not want.

She entered a $10,000 suit against them in superior court. A divorce action against the husband, who is 60-years old, is pending.

Good Neighbors Rally To Aid Destitute Family

INDIANAPOLIS (UP)—Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Spears and their seven children know what it's like to have good neighbors.

When fire destroyed their home and all their belongings except two Bibles found intact in the ashes, a neighbor who for several years had been only a speaking acquaintance canvassed the vicinity to see what could be done.

The list of contributions of clothing and household goods grew so large that the neighbors called the sheriff, who sent a truck to collect it.

War-Time Naval Driver To Keep Up In Practice

MECHANICSBURG, Pa. (UP)—John Bultema drove from his home in Muskegon, Mich., and bought for $1,200 from the War Assets Administration a complete diving outfit, similar to the one he used as a salvage worker in the navy submarine service.

Bultema said he would use the apparatus in dock repair work at Muskegon and salvage operations on Lake Michigan. The diving set was shipped to his home in 22 wooden boxes. Its total weight is 6,000 pounds.

Because of the American public's preference for lamb rather than mutton, the slaughter of lambs is considerably more important than the slaughter of mature sheep.

Bookkeepers On Wheels Make Life For Some Easier

PITTSBURGH (UP)—Motorized bookkeepers are ready to ride to the Rescue of harassed businessmen in Pittsburgh.

Bob Rebel and Gerard Wichman have equipped their little green and red trailer with the necessary office machines to help out the small candy store proprietor or grocer who find tax records and bookkeeping to much for them.

In a few hours the itinerant bookkeepers have untangled the financial snarl and wheel away from a satisfied business man. Rebel dreamed up the idea during his five years service with the Army Air Forces.

Vets Predominate Glass Plant Jobs

CHICAGO (UP)—Discharged servicemen of World War II comprise more than 50 per cent of the male personnel now employed in 23 plants operated by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., according to Harry B. Higgins, president. The company employs approximately 14,100 men in its glass, paint and chemical manufacturing plants. Of this total, 7,117 are veterans of the second world war, Higgins said.

If He Came To Dinner, Family Would Starve

VINCENNES, Ind. (UP)—Meat prices being as high as they are, here's the man not to invite to dinner. He is the former Marine Corps "champion chow eater," Earle R. Wolfe.

The veteran of numerous Pacific campaigns has been known to put away a meal consisting of 12 fish dinners, French fried potatoes, combination salad and jello, four quarts of milk, six quarts of ice cream, three malts, five pies, six sandwiches, five tomato salads and four glasses of orange juice—all at one sitting.

Since about 1920, about 1,039 varieties of peaches have been named and described. Before 1920 more than 2,000 varieties had been introduced.

Post No. 4136
Veterans of Foreign Wars

TO THE VETERANS

All phases of the VFW activity are to be expanded for the coming year and all executive phases are to be centered in Washington. A record breaking budget of nearly $3,500,000, which will permit a substantial expansion of all phases of the welfare and service work of the VFW during the current year has been approved.

In building the VFW to a maximum of strength and prestige, the responsibility is not centered in any single subdivision within the organization. Neither the National organization, the Department, the District, the County Council, nor the Post, can or should be expected to assume this responsibility in full. Rather it is for each individual member to do his part by bringing in every available overseas veteran. After the veteran has joined this organization then it is up to the Post, Department and National organizations to fashion and execute the sort of program that will appeal to the new comrade and inspire him to take an active part in promoting its aims.

For the benefit of many who know little or nothing of the aims and functions of the VFW—the seasoned worker in the VFW knows that the prospective recruit expects from the organization more than mere value received for his dues. He knows that the VFW has far more than that to offer in the war of service and comradeship—service to the sick and disabled veterans and his dependents, and aid and comfort for the surviving dependents of the comrade who gave his life for his country. The VFW takes justifiable pride in its record in these matters.

In comradeship, there is the contact of the overseas veterans with other fighting men, the understanding between men who have survived the same hardships. Serving together in uniform has taught them how to live, work and play together as civilians.

As a matter of fact the veterans of today constitute a large chunk of the population of these United States and the veteran's

Shorter Hours
Trend Noted
In U. S. Cities

CHICAGO (UP) — Municipal employees in well over half of America's 933 cities over 10,000 population now have work weeks of less than 42 hours, the International City Managers Association reports.

A recent Dayton, O., ordinance puts all city employees on a five-day, 40-hour week, and St. Louis has established a minimum work week of 38 hours. Portland, Ore., however, recently voted against a proposed 40-hour week for most municipal workers.

Some cities are reducing the work week of firemen under pressure from organized fire-fighters. Philadelphia abandoned its two-platoon, 70-hour week organization and put firemen on a three platoon, 48-hour schedule. The change necessitated hiring 40 per cent more men.

Pupils of the eyes of the bombina, or fire-bellied toad, are shaped like hearts when contracted.

Problem and the government alone cannot provide the solution. The solution lies rather with the individual citizen—the veteran's neighbor in his own home town. To provide the leadership that will assure a sympathetic and effective solution is a primary obligation of the VFW. As veterans we understand veterans needs. We can, through organized and well directed action furnish guidance to the nation and government so there will be action taken to serve the veteran and his dependents so they will not be doomed to dismal failure, but on the other hand be an asset to his own members, community and to the organization as a whole.

Some benefits veterans have received from this organization are: $7,500 set up by Pose 1894 in a campaign to build and furnish a home for a hero who lost both legs in fighting on Luzon; one state exempts taxes on homes of veterans up to $5,000; post gives $10,000 to Idaho College; $5,000 appropriated to investigate cruelty and abuse in court martial; approves bonuses in three states. This organization of approximately two million strong are engaged in just such activities as these daily throughout the nation.

We would like to see every eligible veteran in this community a member of the VFW organization, if you are eligible and are new in this community, come up to the VFW hall. (Over the Western Auto Store on the east side of the square) and get acquainted with the organization and see if it doesn't coincide with your aims and wishes to make this a better community in which to live.

Napoleon's Marshal Ney Escaped Death To Live In U. S., Is Claim

By Robert L. Davis United Press Staff Correspondent DALEIGH, N.C. (UP) — For more than a century heroworshipping Frenchmen have gone to a lonely plot in Pierre la Chaise cemetery in Paris to pay their respects at a headstone simply marked "Ney" with no other legend.

Put recent developments, including the testimony of a United States Secret Service handwriting expert, indicate that Napoleon's right-hand man—Marshal Ney—supposedly shot in Paris in 1815 for breaking his oath to Louis XVIII and taking up the banners of Napoleon, may really have come to America and lived more than 30 years as a wandering country school teacher.

Dr. Hward E. Rondthaler, of Winston-Salem, N.C., president of Salem college and vice-president of the newly-organized Ney memorial association, says that proof of his association's contention that Ney came to this country and died here in 1846 is now far advanced.

Rondthaler has a letter from a secret service handwriting expert who compared specimens of the known writings of Marshal Ney with writing samples of the school teacher known in this country as Peter Stuart Ney. He says the expert, Henry E. Thomas, reported: "I am convinced that all writings were made by the same man."

Marshal Ney was one of Napoleon's lieutenants who took an oath of loyalty to the newly installed Louis XVIII when Napoleon was first defeated and imprisoned on Elba in 1814.

But in the spring of 1815 came the famous "Hundred Days" when Napoleon escaped a second sweep through France, picking up followers wherever he went. Then Ney was the most prominent of those who renounced their oaths to fight once more under the eagles of the emperor.

That June the battle of Waterloo sealed the fate of the Napoleonic cause and Napoleon himself was safely shut away on tiny St. Helena. The reinstalled monarchists chose the prominent Marshal Ney as an example and sentenced him to the firing squad. He was supposed to have been shot on Dec. 15, 1815. That same December a man called Peter Stuart Ney is known to have embarked for the new world at Brodeaux. His ship touched briefly at Philadelphia on Jan. 13, 1816, but Ney did not go ashore until it reached Charleston, S.C. Nothing is known of what happened to him in the next three years.

When next his trail was picked up he was a wandering country school teacher, practicing his trade in sparsely-populated areas of the Carolinas.

Twice — once in Bennettsville, S.C., and once in Cheraw, S.C.— Napoleonic legionaries recognized the aging instructor as "Pierre le Roux" — their once-beloved Marshal Ney. Each time Ney was reported to have become highly perturbed, and to have dropped from sight immediately.

Although Marshal Ney's given name was Michel, Rondthaler says it is easy to understand why he may have taken the name of Peter Stuart. His master and his troops both called him "Peter the Red" as he stalked the battlefields with his flaming hair. And his mother came from an English family named Stuart.

Rondthaler believes the final link to prove the truth of his contention about the real history of Marshal Ney may come when scholars have deciphered the shorthand in which Peter Stuart Ney kept his notes. He invented his own shorthand and kept notes in the margins of textbooks which along with many other documents of the case, are now in a vault of the Davidson college library, at Davidson, N.C.

CHINA BACKS U. S. TROOP PROPOSAL

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. —China today threw its support behind the United States proposal that United Nations members reveal the size of all their armed forces at home and abroad, and denied that the proposal would cause friction.

Ambassador V. K. Wellington Koo was the first speaker before the political and security committee at the United Nations resumed debate on a Soviet proposal to reveal troop dispositions in friendly and former enemy countries.

The Chinese ambassador said that U. S. forces in China "have not interfered in internal affairs and their presence has not caused any friction or misunderstanding between the governments or between the forces and the Chinese people."

Koo's statement answered for China the charge by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov that American and British troops were interfering in the internal affairs of friendly nations.

URGES FUND FOR CIO WAGE BOOST FIGHT

ATLANTIC CITY. —President Walter P. Reuther of the United Automobile Workers today urged the CIO convention to provide a "war chest of $12,000,000" to fight for new wage increases, but he failed to receive support from President Phillip Murray who said that "there is no threat of strikes in the offing."

Both spoke just prior to unanimous adoption of a resolution calling for substantial wage increases to offset a 25 per cent loss in take home pay since April, 1945, despite last winter's pay boost.

"We are not running around this nation with a club in our hands, intent upon beating the people into a state of submission," Murray said. Some delegates believed this was a reference to the coal walkout called by President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers, AFL.

Uses For Tough Parts of Venison Are Suggested

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. — (UP) — Opening of deer season in Texas brings to wives of successful hunters the problem of using less tender cuts of venison.

Edith Lawrence, specialist in food preparation for the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, offers venison sausage with its variety of uses as a solution.

The shoulder, neck and lower portion of the ribs when boned make good sausage, says Miss Lawrence. Here are the directions:

Grind the meat, using three parts deer meat to one part of fresh pork fat. If a drier sausage is preferred, use four parts deer meat and one part of pork fat. Season with one and one-third cups of salt and three-fourths of a cup of black pepper to 50 pounds of meat. About three-eighths of a cup of sage may be added to the seasoning mixture, according to taste. (Three-eighths of a cup equals one-fourth of a cup plus two tablespoons.)

If the sausage is to be kept for sometime, stuff it in a casing of muslin bag, Miss Lawrence suggests. She adds that the sausage may be smoked, depending on family preferences.

Ground venison may be used as any other ground meat . . . in meat loaf, with spaghetti or in chili, for instance. Sometimes even the choice cuts from an odd animal prove difficult to cook tender, and in this event they should be ground. In addition to adding seasoning, add some fat, too, the specialist advises, for venison usually contains insufficient fat. That is sometimes a reason it remains tough after long cooking.

Deer season east of the Pecos river is from November 16-December 31. West of the Pecos it is November 19-January 4.

Air Force Order May Relieve Clothing Shortage

BROOKS FIELD, Tex. (UP)—Veterans vexed over the clothing shortage may soon find a temporary solution to their problem—if they're members of the Army Air Forces Reserve.

Tenth Air Force headquarters has announced that some 5,000 AAF officer reservists when participating in reserve training will wear their Army uniforms.

Cloves have been known since before the days of the early Egyptians.

PUBLIC WARNED ABOUT MAIL RULES VIOLATIONS

E. E. Layton, Eastland postmaster, stated today that through the fact that many people have become careless with reference to mailing regulations the post office department has called to his attention some of these regulations and asked that they be more specifically observed.

In order that the public may be refreshed on mailing rules and regulations, Crawley has issued the following statement:

"The Post Office Department has rules and regulations governing all mail matter which excludes some articles from the mails, preparation of articles for mailing, addressing and prepaying of postage, all of which is the mailer's job.

First, it is the desire of the Post Office Department that prohibited matter be kept from the mails, and one of the best ways to accomplish this result is to let our patrons know what material is unmailable, which includes all articles not properly prepared for mailing.

1. Unmailable domestic matter—that is, matter which is not admissible to the United States mails for dispatch or delivery in the United States or in any of its possessions—includes:

2. All matter illegibly, incorrectly, or insufficiently addressed.
3. Postage not prepaid.
4. Overweight or oversize.
5. Intoxicating beverages.
6. Inflammable matter such as matches, lighter fluid, and other articles likely to cause fire through absorption of moisture, or self-ignition through friction or spontaneous chemical changes.
7. Firearms, such as revolvers, which are capable of being concealed on the person.
8. Obscene matter.
9. Poisons.
10. Narcotics.
11. Extortion letters.
12. Lottery and fraudulent matter, which includes chain letters.
13. Dunning postal cards.

It is also the desire of the Post Office Department to warn the public not to permit material not addressed, postage not paid, such as circulars and advertising matter to be placed in any U. S. mail boxes which include private, rural or post office boxes.

In preparing for mailing, all articles should be well packed, wrapped and securely tied, legibly and properly addressed with your return name and address given.

Fragile articles—articles easily broken must be securely packed in wooden or solid fiberboard or strong double-faced corrugated fiberboard boxes with ample cushioning material of excelsior, crushed paper, or the like, completely surrounding each article to prevent damage. All such parcels must be labeled "Fragile." A number of articles such as glassware, radios, glass picture frames, musical instruments, and etc., require special packing.

Says Flying Station Wagon To Aid Farmers

WASHINGTON — Flying farmers can get their work done with flying workhorses.

A new flying station wagon designed for farmers, ranchers, sportsmen, salesmen and charter operators, promises to be one of the most useful personal planes which has yet been offered. Aviation News reports.

"With easily removable seats, it provides a cargo compartment which will carry 600 pounds of baggage, equipment, tools, farm produce or supplies. Yet with the seats in, it provides a comfortable sound-proofed four-seat plane, which lands and takes off in small fields.

"Basically, the plane is the Voyages 150 which has been proved now by approximately a year in licensed operation. Stinson is providing this workhorse airplane."

Backward Boys Not So Dumb

LINCOLN, Neb. (UP)—The so-called large, backward boy who hovers in one grade for several years running may be brighter than many of the classmates who jibe at him.

That's what Dr. D. A. Worcester, director of the University of Nebraska educational psychology clinic, says. Ten years of experience in testing 6,000 children back his unusual viewpoint.

"Many children are labeled 'dull' in our public schools because of remediable defects," the psychologist declares. "Most common of these are speech, hearing and sight deficiencies and certain mental blocks."

Quite often, these defects show in the form of faulty reading, he says. Worcester recently found five distinct types of reading faults in tests at a small Nebraska school.

The causes were:

1. Sub-normal intelligence which made words meaningless.
2. Inability to recognize printed words used in a large conversational vocabulary.
3. Too rapid and too careless reading habit.
4. Absence of study habits because of too much help from an ambitious mother.
5. Serious speech defects retarding reading.

IDEAL HIGHWAY GOAL OF TESTS IN KENTUCKY

LEXINGTON, Ky. (UP)—Kentucky is out to prove scientifically how much and what kind of traffic a road will stand.

In the interest of better roads in this state and elsewhere, highway testing under controlled climatic conditions will start soon in a research laboratory established here by the state department of highways. Sample stretches of pavement will be given a workout under moving wheels equal to those in size of heavy trucks.

L. E. Gregg, associate research engineer in charge of the laboratory, said the new "test track" will be the only in the nation having wheels driven through differential gear. Wear under driven wheels, he pointed out, differs in the amount of friction involved from under simple rolling wheels.

The track is being developed for testing bituminous pavement in actual thickness under climate controlled for temperature, rainfall, sunshine and for the amount of water in the soil beneath the pavement. Gregg said no other test track can provide control over so many climatic features.

The circular tract is one of many research projects under development in the four-year-old laboratory. Gregg said that although the laboratory's activities were restricted during the war years, its facilities are "second to none among the states and exceeded only by those of the Public Roads Administration in Washington."

PRA representatives frequently visit the laboratory, situated on the University of Kentucky campus, and Gregg said observers come also from other states and many Latin American countries.

The laboratory has carried out extensive research in phase of highway paving involving "air entertainment" for concrete. Gregg said the process consists essentially of trapping air in concrete mixes by adding ordinary beef tallow or a resinous chemical compound.

The research engineer pointed out that the presence of air in a concrete mixture can exclude water, which may freeze in cold weather, causing undesirable expansion and disintegration. Too much "waterproofing," however, can reduce the strength of the material.

Gregg said results of the concrete experiments may determine whether the highway department will use the "waterproofed" concrete on all future pavements and in some portions of bridges.

Besides its research with bituminous and concrete materials, the laboratory considers means for economical use of local materials in all sections of the state. In many instances, local material is found usable, thus substantially reducing shipping costs.

Western Heroine Adrian Booth Is Assured Of Future Stardom

Pretty Adrian Booth is fairly new at being a western heroine but certainly no novice at being an actress. The lovely auburn-haired girl, now co-starring with Monte Hale in Republic's Trucolor Musical-Western series, has starred in over forty pictures since her arrival in Hollywood, including ten for Republic, where she is now under long-term contract. The latest of them is "Out California Way" showing at the Arcadia Theatre Today.

Although Adrian's future as a picture star is now assured, the long route to stardom was anything but an easy one, with heartbreak and disillusionment often tempting her to throw over the whole idea.

Her first great heartbreak occurred when he was flatly told she "wasn't the type" after she had made her screen test. But rather than go home a failure, she determined to stick it out and get another chance at a test.

Then began the discouraging months of pounding the pavements between casting offices in search of work. A few modeling jobs barely paid her expenses. At long last an agent saw her model in a fashion show, signed her and arranged for a test at Columbia Studio. A much wiser girl by now, Adrian made another test. This time she did not fail. In fact, the test was such a success that she was put under contract and made nearly 30 pictures for that studio.

For a year she free-lanced and was cast in a number of Republic pictures. Her work so pleased studio executives that she was placed under contract, lately co-starring in the Trucolor Musical Western series opposite Monte Hale.

At one time her ambition was to write. If and when she ever gives up her acting career, it will be to write.

Foy Willing and his Riders of the Purple Sage are featured with Monte Hale and Adrian Booth in the highly entertaining Musical-Western which has Bob-By Blake, John Dehner, Fred Graham, Tom London and Edward Keane heading the excellent supporting cast.

Famous Violinist To Appear At Hardin-Simmons

ABILENE, Tex. — The concert of Yehudi Menuhin, famous violinist with the "magic bow", at Hardin-Simmons university, Friday evening, November 29 at 8 o'clock is expected to attract music lovers from all towns in this vicinity. Tickets have been placed on sale at the Mackey Company in downtown Abilene and mail orders are being filled at the Hardin-Simmons business office, it was announced by E. W. Ledbetter chairman of the artist course committee.

Menuhin's program, which is designed to please music lovers of this area, will include the Sonata No. 9 in A Major, Opus 47 by Beethoven and the concerto in E Minor, Opus 64 by Mendelssohn and a group of numbers by other well-known composers.

Giving his first public concert at 7, Menuhin played the Mendelssohn concerto with the San Francisco symphony before an audience of 9,000. At 10, he made his Carnegie hall debut.

His success has been so outstanding that one critic wrote: "His magic bow is drawn across the heartstrings of humanity." Other great violinists fascinate their listeners but Menuhin inspires religious feelings in his audiences. There is the hushed atmosphere of the cathedral when he plays."

Relief At Last For Your Cough

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

When You Get A New Car-

... the next thing to attend to is the insurance. Car owners, statistics show, who carry insurance are more careful drivers and have a better loss ratio than those who do not, for the reason that the same impulse that leads them into the insurance office also makes them accident or loss conscious. Insurance in that sense helps to keep down losses but out all losses and it is this last contingency that prompts the thinking person to keep his car insured.
