EASTLAND COUNTY — Eastland

J. E. McKee, independent operator from Fort Worth, has opened his Eastland offices located on the second floor of the Sinclair-Prairie Building. His son, David, and family have moved to Eastland and are domiciled in the Art Johnson residence on South Seaman Street. David will be in charge of the Eastland office.

Charles L. Foster, production engineer with the Lone Star Producing Company, has been transferred from Athens to Eastland. He, his wife and their two-year old son, are now in Eastland and are looking for a suitable home, a nice five-room well located house preferred.

EASTLAND COUNTY — Cisco

Hickok Producing & Developing Company's old well in the Cisco field one mile north of town, which was a gas well, was recently deepened from the Lake sand at 3,437 feet and on official gauge flowed 69.74 barrels of 42 gravity oil in 24 hours through half inch choke with packer on casing and 110 pounds on tubing fro m3,617 feet.

W. L. Bilsky No. 2 G. P. Mitchell has been completed with 70 barrels 41 gravity oil in 24 hours. This well is nine one-half miles northwest of Cisco and 330 feet from the east and north lines of section 476 Southern Pacific survey. Production was on pump. Total depth is 3,659 feet.

Operators have filed location for an east offset to present production in the pool for the Wilcox Oil Company's No. 5, Irma Higgins, 497 feet from the north and east lines of the southeast quarter TEL Survey 2257. Permit is for 3,300 feet with rotary rig.

Truman Against Disclosure Of Secret FBI Files

WASHINGTON, May 13 (UP)—President Truman disclosed today that he will veto any bill passed by Congress to force disclosure of the secret files of federal agencies.

Mr. Truman said he is convinced by repeated court decisions that Congress does not have the power to compel cabinet members to divulge confidential information.

The news conference discussion was based on the long-standing efforts of the House to get Former Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman an FBI report on Dr. Edward U. Condon, head of the National Bureau of Standards.

Condon himself recently asked that the FBI record be made public. The President today said he would not permit this.

Will Fight For Educational Regional Compact

WASHINGTON May 13 (UP)—Southern senators decided today to carry their fight for a regional educational compact even though it threatens to explode into a show down on civil rights.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D. Ga., spokesman for the southerners, said they consider the compact bill "of vital importance to the future of education in the south without regard to race."

He said that the southerners decided to rely upon the "inmate of fairness and decent procedure of the Republican leadership to see that this bill has a fair hearing on its merits."

Negotiations To Stop Phone Strike Collapse

WASHINGTON, May 13 (UP)—Company-union negotiations to head off long distance telephone strike collapsed today.

John Moran, president of the CIO Telephone Workers Union, said there "definitely will be a strike" unless the government intervenes.

Moran, president of the American Union of Telephone Workers, CIO, told newsmen the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., has refused to bargain with the union for new contract terms for its 25,000 long lines members.

The contract for the long lines workers expired Saturday. The union was willing to continue it on a day-to-day basis until a new one was signed, but the company refused.

About 50 issues are in dispute, including union demands for a wage increase of 30 cents an hour.

GAS BILL KILLED

WASHINGTON, May 13 (UP)—The Senate commerce committee today killed the controversial Moore-Rizley bill which would have restricted federal control in the natural gas industry.

A man may not wear a goatee in Massachusetts unless he pays a fee or tax, according to The American Magazine.

Homecoming For TSCW Students To Be On May 29

Homecoming for Texas State College for Women ex-students will be Saturday, May 29, according to an announcement from Mrs. Herbert K. Hale, Dallas, president of the Ex-Student Association.

The new Ex-Student Center, recently given to the association by Mrs. L. H. Hubbard and the Board of Regents, will be headquarters and activities will get under way with a breakfast at 7:45. The business meeting will be at 9:30 when three officers will be elected. Slated to be submitted by the nominating committee are Mrs. Hale, for re-election as president, Mrs. Charlotte K. Clarke, Denton, for second vice-president, and Mrs. D. A. Thompson, McKinney, treasurer.

Other program highlights will be a luncheon, open house, banquet, and reception. For exes planning to remain through the baccalaureate and graduation exercises two campus dormitories have been reserved.

Classes of 1908, 1918, 1923, 1938 and 1948 will be honored at the banquet, and presidents of these classes will participate on the program.

Mineral Wells To Play Here Sunday 3 P. M.

The Mineral Wells team of the Brazos Valley League will be in Eastland Sunday afternoon for a game at Firemen's Field with the Eastland Mavericks.

The Eastland club has had to replace Jennings as pitcher, Slaughter of Abilene, taking his place. Slaughter is a very effective pitcher, it is claimed, and with Farmer, the regular catcher in the game, the Mavericks should be in position to make a better showing than in former games.

Mineral Wells defeated DeLeon last Sunday by a 6-7 score; DeLeon beat Eastland 2-0.

The game in Eastland Sunday, which opens at the usual time of 3:00 p. m. is expected to be a good game.

BRITISH END BLOCKADE OF PALESTINE

HAIFA, May 13. (UP)—The British blockade of Palestine has ended and the first Jewish immigrants above quota numbers already are arriving here.

The 1,000-ton steamer Andria, flying the Panamanian flag, arrived here today from Cyprus, carrying 360 of the nearly 25,000 illegal Jewish immigrants who were interned there by the British in recent months.

British authorities made no attempt to interfere as the ship entered the harbor and the immigrants debarked.

Two big steamships, the P and York and the Pan Crescent, which also fly the Panamanian flag were reported enroute here from Cyprus, carrying and estimated 10,000 Jews, but they were not expected to arrive until Monday.

Jewish authorities rushed preparations to receive large numbers of immigrants, not only from the British internment camps but presumably from European ports.

Immigrants also were expected to be landed in large numbers at Tel Aviv, and enprens at Jaffa, now that the Jews have been assured of control of that formerly Arab port.

It was believed that large shipments of arms and other war materials also could be expected soon.

Entries Coming In For Horned Toad Derby

H. J. Tanner, secretary-manager of the Eastland Chamber of Commerce stated this morning that entries were coming in for the annual Horned Toad Derby to be held at 2:30 Saturday afternoon on the east side of the Eastland Courthouse square.

The race will be held in a ring marked off in the center of the street, which will be closed to vehicle traffic during the show.

There will be cash and merchandise prizes for the frogs placing first, second and third. The frogs placing first, in the first, second and third heats will be eligible to enter the "master derby race" from which the winner will be sent to Coalinga, California, and entered in the national Horned Frog Derby there.

The number of livestock in the United States today is the lowest in eight years.

County Dairymen Association Is Organized

A. Z. Myrick, prominent Cisco dairyman, was named President of the Eastland County Dairy Association in a meeting in the County Courtroom in Eastland Tuesday night.

L. R. Higginbotham, Kokomo, was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the new organization. T. W. Wadsworth, Eastland, Veterans Vocational teacher, was named as reporter.

One of the objectives of the association is to establish an artificial breeding circle in order to improve the quality of dairy cattle in the county.

The membership fee was set at $1.00 per member. There were eleven charter members who joined at the initial meeting. Poor weather prevented more dairy men from attending the organization meeting, it was said.

The Vice-President and the board of directors will be elected at the second meeting of the group to be held in the county courtroom at Eastland on the night of May 25 at 8 o'clock.

All dairymen and others interested in furthering the dairy movement in the county are invited and urged to be present.

School Land Sale In County To Be July 6

AUSTIN, Tex. May 14—Bascom Giles, Commissioner of the General Land Office of Texas, has announced that approximately 740 acres of Public School land in Eastland County will be offered for sale to the highest bidders July 6.

Over 400 tracts located in 60 counties have been listed for sale to the public through sealed competitive bids to be opened in the General Land Office in Austin at 10 a. m., July 6th.

As soon as available, pamphlets describing the location, size, classification and minimum bid acceptable to the School Land Board will be sent on request to all interested persons. Instructions on methods of submitting bids and application-to-purchase forms will be included, Giles said.

SAYS PEACE OFFENSIVE HAS NOT BOOSTED PEACE HOPES

WASHINGTON, May 13, (UP)

—President Truman said today he does not expect to have a meeting with Josef Stalin—even though the Russian leader has a standing invitation to visit Washington.

The President also said the Moscow "peace offensive" has not increased his hope for peace.

His feelings, he said, have not changed since the day earlier this year when he said his faith and hope for peace had been somewhat shaken by the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia.

Mr. Truman, at a news conference, also gave his unqualified support to everything Secretary of State Marshall said about Russia yesterday.

Marshall ruled out separate U.S.-Russian talks aimed at settling the "cold war," and called on Moscow to demonstrate its good faith by actions instead of words.

On the subject of meeting with Stalin, the President said his invitation to Stalin to visit Washington still stands. But he said he has not received any communication from Stalin on the subject and doesn't expect any.

Mr. Truman was bombarded with a series of questions related to the recent exchange of views with the Russians which led to two-day world excitement over the prospects of a new American-Soviet meeting to try to settle the "cold war."

In general, the President tried to brush off most of the questions by saying that Marshall had covered the matter adequately yesterday. Marshall rejected any two-power conference plan and challenged the Russians to take action through existing international machinery.

Chrysler Strike Complete Across Whole Country

DETROIT, May 13, (UP)—Chrysler Corporations 73,000 production workers clamped a 100 per cent strike on company plants today and the CIO United Auto Workers union began building a $7 million fund to back demands for a third-around wage increase.

The Chrysler strike became complete in 16 plants from Michigan to California this morning when 3,400 employes walked out of the Newcastle, Ind., factory and set up picket lines nearly 24 hours late.

Neither the company nor the union made an announcement today.

LIBRARY COLLECTION SHOWS HOW PEETS WORK

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UP)—A motley collection of worn scraps of paper is bringing international fame to the University of Buffalo. The apparent odds and ends, numbering 3,000, are the actual working sheets used by modern poets in composing their works. The manuscripts include tattered notebooks, flaps of used envelopes and even the backs of gas and electric bills.

The unique collection, constantly expanding, has acquired a reputation among scholars since its inception 21 years ago. Within the past year it was brought to the attention of the world at large through a book.

The volume, "Poets at Work," describes the University of Buffalo collection and its value. Its first edition was exhausted so

The Innocent Impostor

By Renee Shann COPYRIGHT BY RENEE SHANN; DISTRIBUTED BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: After the party, Dwight and Roger take the twins home to Charlotte's. But Roger tells Patience he'll be seeing her. Charlotte questions Patience about Paul. When she learns the story, she calls Patience a snob for not standing up to her nuns, advising her to try and win him back. Patience should either write Paul—or wait for him on the train.

XXII

PATIENCE slept on this advice. And awoke the next morning determined to take it. If Paul wasn't on the usual train then she'd wait and see if he was traveling down by a later one. She would go right up to him as he came along the station platform and tell him she wanted to talk to him. She would say: "I know it was my fault. You were right. I should have stood up to my aunts, and insisted I was going on seeing you. Well, I'm going to now. I don't care what they say. I'm so terribly in love with you, Paul, and I'm so utterly miserable without you that nothing else in the world matters."

But as the day wore on she realized how uncertain she felt that such a scene might really take place. Paul might be with the blonde. She could hardly butt in on him then. Or he might be with some other friends. Or he might just cut her dead and refuse to have a word to say to her. Or there might be Roger Dickson—

There was indeed Roger Dickson. She saw him the moment she came out of the building with Peggy. And was astonished to find that until that moment she'd forgotten that he'd said he'd be meeting her. Peggy gasped, her eyes round as gooseberries.

"Patience, that's—why surely it's Roger Dickson!"
"It is. Want to meet him?"
Peggy gave a little excited squeak.
"I'll say I do."
Patience strolled over to where he stood waiting for her beside his long, low, gleaming car.

"Hello, Roger,"
"Hello, darling! How are you after last night's dissipation?"
"I'm grand, Peggy. This is Roger Dickson. Roger—Peggy Cooper."

PEGGY gave a high-pitched giggle. "I was ever so thrilled when I found out that Patience knew you," she gushed.
Roger acknowledged her enthusiasm with a courtly bow. "The pleasure is mine, Miss Cooper," he said.

Patience glanced at her watch and said she'd have to be going. She'd a train to catch.

"A late train!" suggested Roger.
"Oh, no. I've got to get back by my usual one this evening."
Peggy knew when to make herself scarce.

"Goodby, Mr. Dickson. It's been lovely meeting you."
She was gone, with a wave of her hand, and a flash of her ankles. Roger opened the door of his car.

"Get in," he said to Patience.
"The tube's quicker. Traffic's always so slow at this time of the evening."
His face fell.

"After I've taken all the trouble to come and meet you!"
"But I must catch the six-thirty. Supposing we're held up?"

He looked at her gravely.
"Would the world come to an end?"

It wouldn't, of course. Besides, there was Charlotte's advice that she should defy Aunt Helen. And her own growing determination that she was going to. But it wasn't that. Paul would more likely be on the six-thirty than on any other train this evening.

"Mine might," she said firmly.
He hesitated. Then he said resolutely: "All right. Get in. I'll see you catch it."
They slid through the London traffic, taking the back streets and reaching the station at six-twenty. He drew the car into the curb, and turned to smile at her.

"Now say 'thank you' prettily."
"Thank you very much indeed," and Patience gave him a quick little smile that was entirely her own and not in the least like a smile of Charlotte's.

"STRANGE, but you're the first girl who's brought out the best in me," he said as they walked along the platform. "Because it would have been very easy indeed for me to see to it that you didn't catch this train."

Patience slid her arm through his, her heart suddenly warming towards him in the friendliest way possible.
"I think you're sweet, Roger," she said, utterly without guile.

"That's the way I feel about you. Listen, next time you're up, could you perhaps go back on a later train?"

She thought of Paul and her determination to do all she could to put things right between them. "I—I don't know. Can't we sort of leave things as they are? I'll be running into you some time." "You certainly will."

They passed through the barrier. Patience looked anxiously at the crowded carriages as they walked up the train, searching for a seat. Paul wasn't in any of them. But the blonde was hanging out of one of the windows. She too, no doubt, was looking out for him. And it was in a carriage next to hers that Roger found a corner seat for Patience.

"Here's a piece of luck. Grab it before someone else does."

She put her gloves, and the magazines he'd bought her, down on it, and stepped out again onto the platform. She looked up at the clock to see that in another moment now the train would be leaving. She thought: "Paul isn't going to be on it. I shan't see him. I shan't be able to try to explain about last night. I—"

And then at that moment she saw him hurrying through the barrier and walking quickly along the platform. And at that moment, too, Roger suddenly swept her into his arms and kissed her hard and long, full on the lips.

rapidly that the publisher immediately started printing a second edition.

The collection was started in 1935 by Charles D. Abbott, librarian of the Lockwood Memorial Library. Laying the groundwork took more than a year. Then letters went out to 50 American and British poets, asking for a doer as complete as possible on the composition of a single poem.

A majority responded with what hadn't been requested—handwritten copies of familiar poems. But 17 sent just what was wanted.

The letter appeal was continued and the response was good. Such poets as Edna St. Vincent Millay, Christopher Morely, John Peale Bishop, George Santayana, Robert Hillier, Marianne Moore, John Gould Fletcher and others contributed striking examples of their works in the making.

All contributions were gift. The university paid for none. As Librarian Abbott points out, if it did there was no yardstick for measuring the value of such treasures.

The collection covers the complete making of a poem, its first draft and subsequent drafts, revisions by word and line, deletions and additions. Included are 350 files of poetry magazines, anthologies, biographies of poets, memoirs of non-poets if they contain relevant material, critical studies of individuals and movements and books of theory.

"Some poets are represented by only one poem, some by hundreds," Abbott said. "There are great and famous names on many, and unknowns on others. But who can tell how a future generation will distribute its 'greats' and its 'obscures'?"

OLDEST LAW CODE FOUND IN RUINS NEAR BAGDAD

By Jack Saul
United Press Staff Correspondent
BAGDAD, Iraq (UP) — An unbaked, slightly damaged, late third millennium tablet, found just outside modern Baghdad, makes new history in archaeology. Its inscribed contents, in the words of Prof. Albrecht Goetze of Yale University, have revealed "the oldest code of laws ever discovered."

The tablets was recovered during excavations at Tell Harmal by Sayid Mohammed Ali Mustafa, of the Iraqi government directorate general of antiquities.

The site is six miles east of the capital in fertile country between the Tigris and the Dialah rivers. It has been identified as a fortified administrative center of an agricultural district of ancient Babylonia.

Only a preliminary analysis of the find has been made so far. Composed in the Akkadian language, the text is written fairly skillfully in old Babylonian script, the department report says.

One date-link, contained in an inscription gives the period as "the year when Dadusha seized Qabara." Sayid Taha Bakir, curator of the Iraqi Museum, estimates that to be some 40 years earlier than the Code of Hammurabi, who ruled Babylonia 2067-2025 B.C.

Prof. Goetze's enthusiasm was unbounded when a duplicate tablet was discovered at the site. The professor recently was appointed by the American Schools of Oriental Research as annual professor to the American Schools of Archaeology Baghdad.

"The text of the new find," Prof. Goetze said, "is almost complete, and will greatly facilitate decipherment. The beginning . . . clearly shows that we deal with the law of the kingdom of Eshnunna as promulgated by either King Bilalama or his son."

"That makes it the oldest code of laws ever discovered, older by about two generations even than that of Lipit-Ishtar of Isin, which was discovered recently in the museum of the University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia."

Tentative examination shows the new code to deal with such matters as family laws, theft and housebreaking, the hiring of a female slave, adoption (or bringing up) of a child, selling wine, selling a man's house, and non-delivery of property purchased.

Tell Harmal stands about 650 yards from Tell Mohammad, another archaeological mound adjoining the northeast corner of the Iraqi army encampment of Maskar al-Rashid, where Felix Jones in the course of a brief sounding in 1850 discovered an inscription of Hammurabi.

Harmal was excavated for the first time in 1945, revealing the remains of a fortified enclosure in the form of an irregular square, with buttressed walls about 18 feet thick, and a single gateway flanked by enormous towers.

Also found at the site were one large temple, several minor shrines, and a large administrative building.

The remainder of the space was taken up by minor structures mostly in the form of offices and archives. Iraqi excavators collected more than 1,300 tablets from the place, all unbaked often in such a fragile state as to necessi-

Tiny Ghost Craft All That's Left Of Jap Navy

YOKOSUKA, Japan, (UP) — Once ringed by one of the world's great naval forces, Japan is defended today only by five American fighting ships and a handful of rusty minesweepers.

In this former key naval base, where Japan sent out her mighty war-time fleet ranging across the Pacific, the answer is plain. The Japanese fleet is extinct.

Only tiny 100-ton wooden craft that constantly ply the harbor waters of Japan in search of mines remain. They hunt for magnetic mines dropped in strategic waters by U. S. B-29's. Even these tiny ships will be worthless when their task is through.

Thousands of tons of Japanese navy hulks lie at the bottom of Manila, Kure, and Yokohama harbor. Great Britain, Russia, China and the United States account for almost the entire remainder of the fleet.

Only sleek warships, American and British, are now seen in the waters of Japan. An American cruiser and four destroyers make up the sole sea force permanently stationed there.

The American vessels constantly tour Japanese ports and patrol the straits between Korea and Japan. Technically, the patrol ships are on the look out for Koreans who try to cross the straits and enter Japan illegally.

The small Japanese craft which patrol in search of mines are scarcely distinguishable from the large fleets of fishing vessels that set out from Japanese harbors each day before dawn.

Low-flying B-29's sowed the mines in narrow channels and harbors in early 1945 to bottle up Japanese shipping. But now they menace American vessels.

The mines were set to explode after a certain number of vessels passed over them. Japanese fishing craft have been the victims of some. But still there are many left — just how many and where they are, no one knows.

The two tablets containing the newly discovered code of laws will be preserved to the world as soon as full examination is completed.

Warm Springs Little White House Will Open Soon As Public Museum

WARM SPRINGS, Ga. (UP) — The "little white house," Georgia home of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, is about ready for public opening as a permanent museum.

Ivan Allen, Sr., of Atlanta, chairman of the memorial commission established for the purpose, has announced that the grounds and building will be opened formally sometime during June.

Roosevelt died at his home on the grounds of the Warm Springs infantile paralysis foundation April 12, 1945.

An odd thing happened recently in connection with plans for opening the show place. Allen had been worrying over the scarcity of items to place in the museum. It appeared that Hyde Park national museum in New York had acquired most of the best Roosevelt memorabilia.

One day Allen had a call from C. W. Bussey, an officer of the Warm Springs foundation. Bussey wanted to know when the foundation could have the use of one of its cottages. Allen wanted to know what cottage and Bussey replied it was the three-room cottage where all of Roosevelt's gifts were stored.

Allen almost fell over himself getting to the place. There, covered in several years of dust, were scores of gifts that people from all over the world had sent the President. Not even Mrs. Roosevelt had known the house was being used for the purpose.

The gifts are now being cleaned and dragged. In many cases, original letters from donors were found with the gifts. The range from ship models to horned toads in bottles and wampum belts. There are western riding outfits, antique firearms and 125 walking canes.

The "little white house" is undergoing extensive remodeling preparatory to being opened for public inspection but every effort is being made to preserve the main features. The museum is on the old oval porch in the rear of the house.

Original furnishings of the house — including Mr. Roosevelt's favorite leather chair — are in storage but will be returned here in time for the opening. They will be placed just as they were when the house was occupied.

An administration building is

That Colossal Routine Comes Naturally-If You Know How

NEW YORK (UP) Tracked down to a little office on 42nd Street, Noel Meadow confessed he is one of the men who write those catchy line on billboards and placards which advertise movies.

"Terrifying! Suspenseful! Breathtaking!" — you know the kind. "She Gave Everything for Love," and so on. Meadow, a bright owl-eyed young man, dreams them up endlessly with no more inspiration than a few movie stills, a thesaurus and a dictionary.

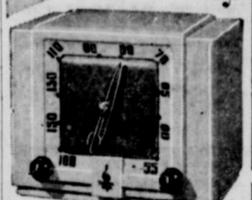

On his desk at the moment was a French dictionary as well. "Working on a French film," he explained. "It's called 'Jenny Lamour' and was a hit all over the continent. Now I've got to think going up near the little White House to house offices, concession room, lavatories and lounge. In the garage Roosevelt's special Ford touring car will be parked. The memorial commission hopes eventually to transplant a forest here with all members of the United Nations represented by trees from their native soil.

"It would be a magnificent tribute to the man who believed the nations of the world could get together in friendliness and peace and settle their problems," Allen said.

Modestly, Meadows said he could keep on going endlessly but assumed that by then he had imparted the idea.

"It's only part-time stuff with me," he began. The sentence trailing off while inspiration hit like a lightning bolt.

"Listen to this," he said, awed: "Coming soon Jenny Lamour. Better Wait Than Never."

by, chanting "Paging Mr. House; Mr. Boyce House." I was so astonished that he had nearly gotten out of earshot before I hailed him.

There are some questions that are better left unanswered—as for example if your wife asks, "If I were to die, would you marry again?" If you answer, "Yes," she may think you've already got a successor in mind; if you say "No," she may think that you consider marriage such a state as once out of, you'd never return thereunto.

So, brother, sidestep that question.

Someone said, a good many years ago, "The history of Europe can be summed up in one sentence, "England is an island." The fact that England was not joined to the continent balked Napoleon's dream of conquest and before that, the attempt of Spain, whose Armada was shattered.

All callings have their pride of craftsmanship. Two street sweepers were talking about a comrade who had just passed away. One praised him highly; the other reflected and then, said, "But don't you think Bill was a little weak when it came to sweeping around the lamp-posts?"

Schopenhauer was known as the philosopher of gloom. He maintained that life was not worth living and that the most fortunate day of a man's life was the day he died. An army advanced Schopenhauer's city and thousands of inhabitants fled. In the front rank of the refugees was the philosopher of gloom who had claimed that life wasn't worth living.

Rodeo Backers Looking For New Adjectives

MIDLAND, TEX., (UP) Backers of next month's World Championship Midland Rodeo are hunting for new adjectives to describe the big event.

They say that words like "biggest," "best" and "greatest" just won't fill the bill in describing this year's rodeo.

George W. Glass, president of Midland Fair, Inc., announced $7,500 in prizes, with top cowhands and leading cowgirls of the Southwest entered in competition.

The tough rodeo stock for the four-day show, June 3-6, will be furnished by Everett Colborn and Gene Aury of the World Championship Rodeo Corporation of Dublin, Tex. It will be the same stock as that used in New York's Madison Square Garden Rodeo.

A colorful cowgirl sponsor contest, with cowgirls from Texas, New Mexico, and Arizona competing, again will be a highlight of the Western event. Frank Williamson, Midland rancher, is chairman of the sponsor contest. Night performances will be slated each of the four days, with a matinee performance Sunday, June 6.

New Mayor Of Waxahachie Also Its Historian

WAXAHACHIE, TEX., (UP) - Ross Wheatley Davis is not only Waxahachie's new mayor, but also the town historian.

Davis, 73, was born in 1874 at South Prong Branch, three miles south of Waxahachie. His grandfather had lived in the area since 1854.

The First Lady of Waxahachie also comes from a pioneer family, her parents settling in this section of Texas in the 70's.

James S. Davis, the mayor's father, ran an oil mill here in 1892 and was a city councilman in 1897. The mayor and Mrs. Davis were married Feb. 3, 1897, in Waxahachie's First Methodist Church. They have two daughters, Mrs. R. D. McCready of Houston and Mrs. W. J. Graveling of Laredo, and one son, Mac Davis of Houston.

The Davises lived a number of years in San Antonio, Corpus Christi and Houston before returning here in 1932, where they have lived since.

Davis was in the farm mortgage business a number of years but he lays claim to being a farmer as well as a city dweller. Mrs. Davis long has been active in

Drunk Or Not Drunk Police Held Liable

BUFFALO, N. Y. (UP)—Police found Edward Bender, 61, stretched out on the sidewalk. They took him to the station house.

The incident wound up costing the city $3,000.

During its trip to the police station, the patrol wagon collided with another vehicle and Bender suffered a head concussion, a nose fracture and other injuries. Later Bender was convicted of a public intoxication charge.

He got bail for that, though, when a Supreme Court jury decided he was entitled to $3,000 for his injuries.

Montecassino Relics Housed In Museum

ROME (UP)—Rare books and codices, removed from famed Montecassino Abbey during the war just before it was pulverized by bombs and shell fire, have been placed in a new library here.

Representing the sole remains of the famed Benedictine abbey, the library collection was solicitously preserved in Rome for four years by the Benedictine monks. Now it is housed in the Biblical College, on the ancient Aurelian way just outside of Rome.

The books and codices were put in a specially constructed room, where scholars will be able to consult them.

Nearly $500,000 worth of cotton is grown in Illinois every year.

One Reason Housing Costs So Much

If you're stumped by the sky-high prices of homes today, this chart may give you a partial answer. According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, the cost of all building materials jumped 107 per cent between Aug., 1939, and Oct., 1947, the latest figures available. Percentage rises for individual items are shown on the chart.

P.T.A. Announces Successful Health Round-Up Campaign

The Parents and Teachers Association of West Ward, announces a successful campaign in the two days of the Health Round-Up work with the school children, and wishes to thank the doctors who assisted in the work, as follows: Dr. Kenneth Cowan, Dr. M. B. Murdock, and Dr. F. T. Isbell.

Notices have been sent to the parents in regard to the results. Mrs. J. C. Koen, Mrs. Eldress Gattis, and Mrs. L. E. Corbell, president of the organization, wish to thank the mothers who assisted in the examinations.

The PTA organizations hopes to continue in the work each year. The results are the students and parents are more health conscious, it promotes better health attitudes, improving the school and community in general.

They were his son, Jackie Wayne and daughter Wilda Jean, his cousins, Mrs. Lee Paul and Mrs. Frank Vernon, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Weatherman and Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Weatherman; and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Anderson from Brownwood. The party visited the cemetery here, too, as is their annual custom on Mother's Day.

Rev. R. N. Stapp from Brownwood conducted the worship services at the church Sunday in the absence of the pastor, Rev. Willie Lee, whose son is ill. A beautiful pot plant was given to Mrs. M. M. Carter, 80, the oldest mother present and to Mrs. Fred Wilson, the youngest mother at the service. Each made an appropriate response. Each of the mothers have been very faithful to their families and their church and country. Mrs. Carter was a regular teacher in her Sunday school

HEALTH HINTS

Ill health is not a natural thing. There is always a cause for it and often that cause is very simple and may be easily corrected when you know the facts.

Chiropractors point out that the nervous system is the directing force of the body. Sensation goes to the brain through this medium and responding impulses set the glands and muscles to normal action which constitutes a state of health.

EPILEPSY

CASE 804: Boy had fall but evidently nothing serious wrong. About one year later he had what was thought to be convulsions due to something he had eaten. A medical doctor was called and he diagnosed as EPILEPSY — SPECIALISTS and doctors were used but to no apparent results.

A friend advised we try Chiropractic. We did this. The neurocalometer found nerve pressure existed and x-ray located the misaligned vertebrae. After two months care he made such rapid improvement until the entire family is under the Chiropractor's care.
