Bodies Of Two Stephenville Men Located

NASHVILLE, Ark., June 17 (UP)—Officials prepared today to start the difficult job of bringing the bodies of two Texas airmen down the rugged side of First Mountain in the Ouachitas of Western Arkansas.

The bodies were found in and near the wreckage of their plane about three and one-half miles northeast of Athens, Ark.

The men were identified as T. C. Elkins, 48, and his nephew, B. F. Ferguson, 27, both of Stephenville, Tex. They had been missing since their takeoff from Hot Springs May 29.

Officials said the plane crashed into the top of First Mountain as the pilot apparently tried to pass between two high peaks.

Howard County Coroner Rector City of Nashville said a rescue party reached the mangled plane last night but was forced to leave the bodies until today. They will have to be carried through two miles of rugged mountain terrain to the nearest road.

The wreckage was found by two young men whom officers said will have a strong claim to $1,000 reward posted by neighbors and friends of the two men.

The discoverers, Leon Garrison and Audrey Sermon, rode to the scene on horseback yesterday. They instituted the search in the area after being told by a farmer, who lived nearby, that he had seen a plane on the day the airmen took off for Texas. Since then, the farmer said, he had seen buzzards circling the area.

On the day of the crash, thunderstorms were reported in the area.

At Stephenville, relatives said an ambulance left today to return the bodies.

Gorman Lions Club Chartered In Meeting Thursday Night

Czech Catholics Wait Tensely To Hear Of Bishop

PRAGUE, June 17 (UP)—Czech Catholics waited today to see if police who have invaded Archbishop Josef Beran's palace permit him to make a scheduled speech tomorrow.

Catholic Church sources said the police arrested two Catholic leaders, seized a duplicating machine used to prepare pastoral letters and prepared to inspect all communications reaching the Archbishop's residence.

The immediate fate of the Arch bishop was not known but he was believed to be in the palace with the police. Unconfirmed reports said he had been told not to leave the palace.

The Archbishop, a bitter foe of the Communist regime, was scheduled to speak at 5 P. M. tomorrow. A crowd of silent, black clad women who gathered before the palace late yesterday was assured that the Archbishop would speak on schedule.

Police action in entering the palace two days ago climaxed six months of steadily heightening tension between the church and the Communist regime.

The state has demanded that the church "recognize" and support the regime, withdraw its ban on priests participating in the government, and keep out of politics.

The church has opposed nationalization of its schools, now almost completed, and has demanded compensation for property lost in post-war land reforms.

Waitkus Will Play Ball Again Doctors Claim

CHICAGO, June 17 (UP)—First Baseman Eddie Waitkus "will be around playing ball again before you know it," doctors said today.

Waitkus spent a "good" night at Illinois Masonic Hospital where he is recovering "splendidly" Tuesday night when a lovesick girl fan he had never met before shot him with a .22 caliber bullet.

The girl, 19-year-old Ruth Steinhagen, was held without bail in the county jail while psychiatrists began intensive examinations to ferret out the quirk in her mind that caused her to plan Waitkus' murder two years ago.

Dr. Ladislav L. Braun, a staff physician at Illinois Masonic who also is chief doctor for the Chicago Cubs, said it definitely appears that Waitkus will be able to play ball again.

But he would not say how soon. It appeared, however, that Waitkus would be out of play for the remainder of the season and come back for spring training next year.

Surgeons were ready to open the infield ace's chest today to remove an accumulation of blood congesting his lungs.

They still were waiting for his condition to improve before removing the bullet that ploughed into his right chest, tore through the lung, and lodged in the rear wall of his chest.

Miss Steinhagen's case was bound over until June 30 for two reasons when she appeared yesterday before Felony Judge Matthew D. Hartigan.

Program Given By Sponsoring Eastland Club

A charter from Lions International was presented by Dave Hudson of Weatherford, district governor, to the newly-formed Gorman Lions Club at a ladies night dinner meeting Thursday evening in the high school gymnasium.

B. H. Hilley, president of the Gorman club, accepted the charter and pledged the organization to continued service for the community.

Program for the meeting was given by Eastland, sponsors of the Gorman club. Approximately 75 persons were in attendance, with out-of-town visitors being from Brownwood, Cisco, Stephenville, DeLeon and Eastland.

Following a fried chicken dinner the meeting was called to order by Everett Plozman, president of the Eastland club. After group singing of "Home on the Range" and "America," Bro. John Lilley, minister of the Gorman Church of Christ, gave the invocation.

Plozman served as toastmaster, presenting T. W. Beard, member of the Gorman club, who introduced guests.

Dr. J. B. Brandon, mayor of Gorman, in an address of welcome declared "there is a definite place in Gorman for a Lions club. A bunch of young fellows needs it, and the town needs it."

W. B. (Buck) Pickens, made the response saying he was glad to hear that it was "a bunch of young fellows" that needed the club. "The best way to stay young is to get into a Lions club and take an active interest. Unless you want a job and to work at it, don't get into Lions. While my personal pet project is Boy Scouts, you should have some kind of a project to keep your and the club's interest going. Find someone in your community who needs help and help that person."

Hudson, in the featured address, spoke on the growth and scope of Lionism, and what a Lions club means to a community. In District 2-E, which Hudson serves, there are 62 clubs divided into four regions with a deputy district governor for each region. The regions are subdivided into zones with chairmen for each. Texas has 550 clubs, with 50 of them being organized this year. In Lions International there are 7,000 clubs with a total membership of 400,000.

Declaring "it's great to be a Lion," Hudson said the organization is the Golden Rule in action. "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you." He stated the Gorman club would be what the members wanted to make it. "If you want to, through this club you can make your community a better place in which to live."

Concluding his talk, Hudson presented the Gorman club with its charter.

George T. Odum of Brownwood, district deputy governor, and Judge E. M. Davis, president-elect of the Brownwood club, spoke briefly challenging the new Gorman club to service for the community.

Attending from Eastland were: Mr. and Mrs. McGraw, Mr. and Mrs. Pickens, Plozman, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Ranney, Bruce Fipkin and Doris Groves of Olden, and Bob Moore.

Officers of the Gorman club are: Hilley, president; Charley Underwood, first vice-president; Jack Bennett, second vice-president; Leslie Deavenport, third vice-president; Neal H. Rose, secretary-treasurer; B. B. Brummett, tail twister; Glenn Mehaffey, assistant tail twister, and R. L. Choate, Lion tamer.

Directors are: Z. O. Mehaffey, John Wright, A. M. Thurman and Eugene Baker. E. C. Bramlett was chairman of the charter night committee.

Going Forward With Eastland By Bob Moore

A lady reader asks us to say something about boys going around town shooting birds with BB guns. Seems the birds are not always killed by the shot, and are left to a slow and painful death. This reader had one of her pets killed recently by a BB gun. Perhaps it would be a worthy thing to caution their sons about shooting birds within the city limits.

The Men's Shop, located on the west side of the courthouse square is installing two air conditioning units and will soon be one of the coolest spots in town despite the "hot air" from Carlton A. Ranney, the genial and civic-minded manager.

DAFFY-NITION... "Dad, what do 'pro' and 'con' mean?" "Well, son, 'pro' is your convincing unanswerable argument, and 'con' is the other fellows contemptible drivin'."

And speaking of contemptible drivin', here is some word of the staff from Mrs. Ruth Ducker's Ranger Times column "Well, I Dunno... But", in the little battle we've been having on the subject of "ladies of the press".

She writes in answer to our Tuesday column: "Well, whoever said we (the ladies) wanted to take over completely. All we ask is the right to fair competition and with that margin we think we can win. You'd think the ladies of the press were a bunch of subversives the way Bob talks and we don't see anything subversive about pointing up the ability of women to make a success in the newspaper world. Whether Bob knows it or not, we've had a lot of lady presidents, those gals that dictate from behind the scenes, and right smart dictatin' they do, too."

"Those gals that he wants to put back in the home, could give him an awful lot of trouble from that angle. They wouldn't have to come out in the open and fight the cave-man type, such as our friend. They could sit calmly at home, like lots of ladies do, and hold the reins quietly, and let the big men home protectors take the blame for the fight the girls make."

In comment on our slogan "protect the future, return the women to the home", the lady editor says "Bob maybe doesn't realize it but that's just where he slipped. He overlooks the fact that women do not have one track minds. They can hold responsible jobs outside the home, run their home and rear a family all at the same time and many a one has proved it. "However, Bob seems to be lookin' for a homemaker so we'll look around and see if there's any workin' that wants to be up that job to make Bob a home. Not bein' eligible for the job, that leaves us free to go on about newspaperin'."

Frankly, this scribe is about to run out of soap. For every argument I've got, she's got a comeback and then goes one further. I'm not throwing in the towel, not by a long shot, but how in the heck do you ever win an argument with a woman—even if you are right. Now, she'll probably say that I'm in the sulking stage, having advanced from the insult stage of the attack.

This all started out in a little campaign to get the ladies out of business life and back to the home and is winding up with this bachelor about to be in the home with a female critter. Seems there is nothing to do but organize a ROFTPOB—meaning the Royal Order For the Protection of Bachelors. Do we have any readers that would like to join?

As for Mrs. Ducker, she can continue about her newspapering, but just leave me to be to my bachelorhood. Fair enough? I think so.

ISLAND OF ESCAPE

By Hugh Lawrence Nelson

THE STORY: Four lonely women, one of whom may become the bride of Henry Gough Harding, eccentric master of the "New Eden" on Speare Island, had been creeping into their lives for some unexplained reason. "Our graves," explained as those of workmen killed by accident, mysterious symbol of dead fish on the beach, and finally a storm which brings four shipwrecked people to the island. These newcomers include two women, Nona McGuire, Mollie Stark, Fred Sillwell and George Bascombe. Mollie is suffering from an injury to her leg.

HARDING put in, "You were coming to Speare Island, Mr. Sillwell?"

"Speare Island? Isn't this Clarion Island?"

"No. Is that where you were heading?"

"Sure. To photograph the bird life."

"You missed it well over 500 miles."

Nona McGuire laughed.

"You and that other woman take a bird picture, too?" Mabel Jones asked.

"Heavens no," Nona said sweetly. "Miss Stark and I are atmosphere and background. The motion picture industry requires such things you know."

"You're in the movies?" Lily Warren asked.

"We were able to squeeze in time to make the trip when Mr. Sillwell insisted," Nona said.

Fred Sillwell groaned. "Fifteen thousand dollars worth of equipment gone. To say nothing of the yacht. The insurance won't half cover the loss."

"What happened?" Harding asked.

"We were going along, under a strap of sail when all at once we were in breakers. I thought I saw an opening and tried to make it. Without the auxiliary we couldn't. We struck, lost the mast, and then were in calmer water. The Gullwing must have been cut wide open forward. She sailed right from under us, just as we made out a reef against the sky. We're all good swimmers, but I don't

Just A Mistake Say Russian On Car Halting

BERLIN, June 17 (UP)—The Russians failed today to explain their "mistake" of yesterday by which Allied auto traffic out of Berlin was held up for a tense four hours amid Allied fears that the blockade had been re-established.

The "mistake" occurred when Russian officers and soldiers at the Autobahn checkpoint outside Berlin suddenly demanded Soviet passes from drivers of Allied cars heading west.

The news quickly spread through Berlin and the top American diplomat in Germany, James Riddleberger, phoned an urgent message to Secretary of State Dean Acheson in Paris. But Col. Boris Kalinin, Soviet Chief of Staff for Berlin, eventually rushed to the checkpoint and announced: "It was all a mistake."

Kalinin did not elaborate. The usual Soviet propaganda outlets also were silent today. But traffic once again moved normally or nearly normal as the restriction-ridden recent lifting of the blockade has allowed.

Maj. Gen. George P. Hays, deputy American military governor, said no protest on last night's stoppage would be made to the Russians.

"The Soviets rectified the matter themselves," Hays said, "and no protest is contemplated."

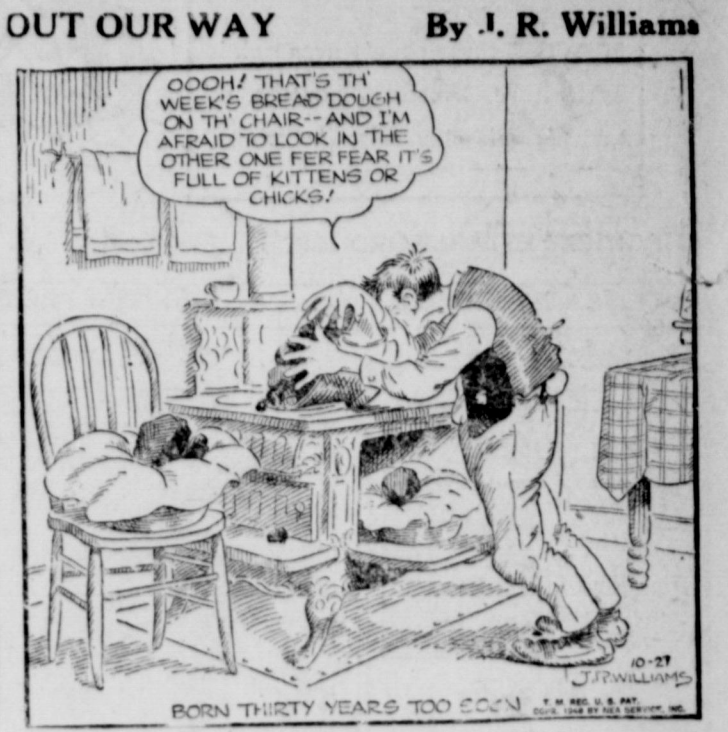

Watchers said that German cars were being passed yesterday with the usual mere check of their documents while Allied cars were delayed.

When Kalinin arrived and was told what had happened, he said "impossible" and issued orders to let the Allied cars proceed.

But before making his "mistake" pronouncement, Kalinin held a hasty conference with the officer on duty and phoned the Russian central Kommandatura, the observers said.

BUY U.S. SAVINGS BONDS

This "Opportunity Bond Drive" poster tells its own story. Buying U. S. Savings Bonds is the safest, best investment a person can make. A nest-egg of Savings Bonds, according to economic experts, means "preservation for yourself, your family and your country. Distribution of the National debt is one way of maintaining a sound economy, both individually and nationally."

Note to Editors: This "Opportunity Drive" poster is available in both 1- and 2-column size mats.

NON-SKID KID—Bath tub spills are on their way out, say the inventors of a new non-skid solution to be poured into bath water. Here Laurie Phillips, 3, keeps her balance as Mrs. Eugene Farmer tilts the tub, treated with the liquid, at the first International Inventors Exposition in New York. Mrs. Farmer's husband manufactures the solution.

Dr. Ross To Go To Insane Asylum

LaGRANGE, Tex., June 17 — Dr. Lloyd I. Ross, Harvard educated surgeon who murdered four members of one family in a wild Sunday morning ambush two years ago, will enter an insane asylum today.

Ross had been given the death sentence in October, 1947, when a jury found him guilty of slaying all but one member of the Willard York family.

However, Ross was declared insane yesterday in the same court on an instructed verdict by Judge J. R. Fuchs.

He will be committed to the state hospital for the insane at Austin, the state capital, for a 90-day observation period. He then may be subjected to a second trial by jury, or committed to the institution for another period.

District Attorney J. L. C. Dittler moved for a verdict of insanity after two witnesses had testified the San Antonio surgeon was insane.

Dr. A. T. Hanretta, superintendent of the Austin Hospital, testified that he had examined Ross at the Fayette County Jail here June 9 and he was "definitely insane."

Dr. Royal Calder, the other witness, said Ross did not recognize him at an examination

May 22, although they were "old friends."

"Ross also told me," Calder said, "that he suspected his fellow inmates wanted to poison him."

Punch In The Nose May Cost Kansas Minister

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 16 (UP)—A Presbyterian minister who turned the other cheek when a Methodist clergyman popped him in the nose, planned to file a $10,000 suit today against the rival gentleman of the cloth.

The Rev. Ellis J. Hough, 49, pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church here, said the Rev. Kenneth J. Bressler, 42, of Fairfax, Mo., broke his nose.

Hough and Bressler told substantially the same story about what happened when they squabbled in Bressler's home over who should perform a wedding at Fairfax last Sunday.

The bride and groom waited patiently while the one-punch fight occurred. They finally were married by a third minister, the Rev. Harold M. Parker, Jr., a Presbyterian called in by Hough.

Bressler has already paid off a fine of $25 and costs of $8.05 on assault charges brought in a magistrate court by Hough.

But Hough figured he still had a score to settle with Bressler. He wants $10,000 on grounds of personal injury.

May 22, although they were "old friends."

"Ross also told me," Calder said, "that he suspected his fellow inmates wanted to poison him."

Off-Limits Sign Boomerangs For Texan, Princess

FRANKFURT, June 17 (UP)—Capt. Clyde Harris of Amarillo, Texas, posted an off-limits sign on Princess Cecile of Prussia and her castle four years ago.

Today he packed her luggage into a tiny Italian automobile and drove her to another castle, the 1,000-year-old seat of the Hohenzollerns at Hechingen, where they will be married next Tuesday.

An interior decorator, Harris met the Princess just after the war when he visited Wolf Garden Castle in search of missing German art treasures.

His job was to safeguard them against looting by occupying troops. He met the Princess in the courtyard and immediately posted a sign placing the whole castle off-limits to other American troops.

The Princess' father, Crown Prince Wilhelm of Prussia, did practically the same thing to Harris today.

The Crown Prince had moved out of clammy Hohenzollern Castle because it had no stoves. He said the draft chilled him to his bones.

But when his daughter and her prospective groom arrived today the Crown Prince assigned the Princess to his new living quarters, a rented home with stoves.

The Crown Prince's home and the castle are separated by seven medieval drawbridges.

The wedding will be held in the castle next Tuesday with some 40 guests present. The Crown Prince, son of Germany's Kaiser Wilhelm, said he was very happy about the whole thing.

"Joy is great in our house," he said in the Hohenzollern fashion.

Albany To Hold Fandangle Show At Football Field June 23-25

Take about 250 youngsters from 7 to 70, dress them up in the costumes of the late 60's, Square Dances, Heel and Toe, Chase the Buffalo—and add in the "Pace Spectator"—a herd of Longhorns, or a roving band of Indians, cow-boys making fun or making love—a soprano that can do it nicely, or a tenor who can sing of frontier days—around old Fort Griffin—and that is the Fort Griffin Fandangle show that is set for Albany's Football Field on evenings June 23, 24, and 25.

All this revolves around Robert E. Nail, director and producer of the 7th Fandangle, who has a staff of workers that start a year in advance in preparation, and a group of college boys and girls with ability to design, paint and draw. Nail trains the characters and casts the boys and girls off the ranches and from local homes. We've always had a yen to see the annual presentation of Old Fort Griffin's Fandangle show. Fort Griffin located near Albany, Texas, has a lot of romance in the history surrounding it and history that's close to this part of the country.

In our mail this morning was the following description of the Fandangle that whets our appetite to see the show.

For sets he has Jack Miller of Pratt, School of Design of New York City, home for the summer, and costume designs of Reilly Nail of Princeton University of New Jersey, member of the staff, have had 30 seamstresses busy for three weeks, with new costumes for boys and girls—it takes a lot of cloth to sew up a young lady in the skirts and flounces of the late 60's—in old Fort Griffin days. Music and costuming by Miss Alice Reynolds, of New York and Taos, New Mexico, artist and musician, with young Frank Booker also in the making of sets and scenes; a host of returned college students spend their early summer with Robert Nail on the Fandangle show, and work harder for nothing—than most of them would for pay, as Nail is the genius in casting and directing that makes the Fandangle click. He puts real life of the pioneer past in highest tribute, with fun and flair for showmanship in the best of style. The Fandangle and Robert Nail have rated Atlantic Monthly, Think, and this year "Mademoiselle" gave Albany a spot for its tribute to the west. Music and dancing, lights and sound make it a most capable vehicle; and this year the "Newspaper" of Fort Griffin Days is the theme—its editors were several, all had ability and a variety of activity.

FACTS ABOUT SERIES "E" U. S. SAVINGS BONDS You Should Know

- SAFETY: Because they're the obligations of the strongest nation in the world—Uncle Sam.
- RISKLESS: They can always be redeemed on an upward scale of value, but never at a loss to the investor. They're non-transferable, and can only be sold back to the Government thus being removed from market fluctuations.
- LIQUID: Any bank will convert your Bonds into cash at a moment's notice. In the meantime they accumulate increment equivalent to $4 for every $3 invested if held ten years. In other words, cash plus interest.
- RESERVE: When the going gets rough they are available for your distress. And always they are a reserve for your future financial independence.
- U. S. ECONOMY: Their purchase helps stabilize the economy by removing surplus funds from the spending channels; they're an investment in your country; sales do not increase the national debt as proceeds are used to retire the less manageable debt held by banks, transferring it to individuals.
- LOSS-PROOF: Unlike cash, these securities will be replaced if lost or destroyed.
- AVAILABILITY: On sale at banks, post offices, building and loan associations, Federal Reserve Banks and branches, local industries maintaining payroll savings plans, Bond-A-Month bank plans, and other issuing agents.
- OWNERSHIP: Restricted to individuals, who may purchase up to $10,000 each year, in registered form. A co-owner, or survivor, may be designated.
- TAXABLE: Increment subject to Federal income taxes, but exempt from taxes imposed by any State, Federal possession, or other local taxing authority. Their value not exempt from estate, inheritance, gift or other excise taxes, whether Federal or State.

Pasture Grasses Have Tough Time Fighting Their Way Past Weeds

COLLEGE STATION, June 16.—Pasture grasses have a pretty tough time of it fighting their way through weeds. And, many times, weeds win out in the plant war.

Mowing is generally considered a good practice for getting rid of the weeds in pastures, says Robert R. Lancaster, extension pasture specialist in Texas A. & M. College. Mowing the brush, brambles, vines and the husky weeds that spring up on newly-cleared, fertile land puts them on the way out and gives the desirable pasture grasses a good chance to take over.

At the same time, mowing pastures freshens the over-grown, stemmy grasses. But, too often, too much is expected of weed eradication by mowing, especially on poor-land pastures, he says.

Pasture weed control in the humid regions of Texas usually calls for fertilizing, and in some cases reseeding. Until the pasture grasses are thrifty enough to replace mowed weeds, mowing is hardly worthwhile.

If you're going to mow to control weeds, mowing must start when the first of the worst weeds begin to bloom, or soon enough to mow all of them before the seed can form. Bitterweed, a common pest in bermuda-grass pastures, may hold enough vitality mature seed from the blooms after it has been mowed. So, the way to stop this, Lancaster says, is to mow early and often. Cut high enough the first time so the sprouting stubble can be mowed again and again as it blooms repeatedly.

Clovers volunteer best in short grass. The fall clover stand and spring lespedeza stand in permanent pastures depend largely on enough sunlight for germination and growth of the seedlings. This indicates close grazing or mowing in both seasons to favor these crops.

Grazing too close in both fall and spring might injure the pasture, Lancaster concludes. So, to avoid this, two pastures might be grazed alternately.

66 COWS ARTIFICIALLY BRED IN EASTLAND COUNTY IN MAY MAKING GRAND TOTAL OF 286

A total of 66 cows were artificially bred during the month of May to make a grand total of 286 cows bred since the program started on February 8 of this year, according to Harry Crow, breeding inseminator of the Eastland County Dairy Association.

Although artificial breeding of dairy cattle was started years ago in the North, it is comparatively new in Texas, reported A. Z. Myrick, Cisco, president of the organization that sponsors the artificial breeding program in Eastland. There are 30 organizations set up to perform the service in the state it was said.

Anyone living either in town or the country with one or more cows, either purebred or grade, can get their cows artificially bred by calling Harry Crow at Carbon.

Crow is subject to call seven days a week. It is requested that he be called by 10 o'clock on the day that such services are needed. The total cost is $6.00 for the first service with two repeat breedings free of charge if necessary.

"The cost is much cheaper than feed and taking care of a bull," commented Myrick when asked what he thought of the service.

Bitterweed, a common pest in bermuda grass pastures, may keep enough of its vitality after it has been mowed to produce mature seed from the blooms. To avoid this, stockmen should mow this weed early and often.

"We cannot afford to own the type of bulls as can the North Texas Artificial Breeding Farms and we miss out if we do not take advantage of the opportunity to improve our dairy cows this way," Myrick continued.

The breeding farm cooperates with the local organization in making the service possible.

Wheat Farmers Cheered By Fair Skies Over Texas

By United Press

Texas wheat farmers took heart in fair skies today, as the long rainy spell which had threatened the 1949 wheat crop appeared to have ended just in time.

No rain was reported anywhere in the state yesterday, and the combines returned to fields which for several days had been too wet for cutting in large numbers.

Some fields still were too wet, but on the whole, they were reported drying rapidly.

The harvest was in full swing in Childress, Cottle, Hall, Floyd, Hale and Hemphill Counties.

Full operations were expected within a day or two in Swisher, Briscoe, Castro, Carson, Armstrong, Gray, Roberts, and Hansford counties.

The harvest was just beginning in Ochiltree and Lipscomb counties, where a shortage of some 50 combines and a need for addition-

The jury deliberated only a few minutes before returning their finding. Hankins, counsel immediately asked District Judge N. L. Dalby for a new trial.

The prosecution described Mrs. Shelton as a prostitute and claimed the motive for the killing was her refusal to share her earnings with Hankins.

ISLAND OF ESCAPE

By Hugh Lawrence Nelson

THE STORY: Four new arrivals on Spence Island have complicated Henry Gough Harding's attempt to establish a colony free from the influences of the outside world. Heretofore, Harding had been putting four lonely women, selected through a matrimonial club, to tests to determine which would become his bride. Now Fred Sillwell, a movie producer; George Bascombe, his aide; Mollie Stark and Nona McGuire, actresses, have been shipwrecked here. Harding has just informed the new arrivals that they are expected to follow "Spence Island rules of conduct."

"I do," Lilly said. "And you could take a bottle or so out of a bottom case. It wouldn't be missed for a long time so nobody'd know you took it."

"So that's what you and Nona McGuire were talking about this morning?"

"You don't miss much," Lilly grumbled. "But it's the truth. She was telling me how irritable Fred gets."

"I'd like to help you out, Lilly," Bea said. "But why should I stick my neck out for Sillwell?"

Mrs. Warren eyed her speculatively. "It could mean something—but never mind. I can handle it myself. At least I suppose I can count on you not to blab?"

"That's something a school-teacher learns early in life," Miss Cosgrove said.

At dinner that evening Sillwell's glumness was replaced by a vivacity which told of both accomplishment and not too strict rationing. Bea Cosgrove was not positive it was an improvement.

THE third morning after the wreck of the Gullwing, Bea and George Bascombe walked along the trail to Fisherman's Beach. George stumbled over a rock. "As if it wasn't bad enough, being stuck on this dirt pile with a bunch of freaks, but to lose all my glasses!"

"I'm just trying to figure out a way to make things more pleasant. Maybe it won't be long before Henry gets the radio fixed, but I don't see why things shouldn't be as pleasant as possible meanwhile. And you're in charge of supplies this week."

"I get it. You want me to steal some whiskey?"

"Why not? You can do it without anybody noticing. I'll see he gets it and he doesn't even have to know you had anything to do with it."

"All right. What are you leading up to?"

"I'm just trying to figure out a way to make things more pleasant. Maybe it won't be long before Henry gets the radio fixed, but I don't see why things shouldn't be as pleasant as possible meanwhile. And you're in charge of supplies this week."

ever considered the life of a parasite?"

"Are you talking about your past or present life?" Bea asked. "Now be careful. We're coming to the steep part of the trail."

"The steep part! My toes are already pushed through the front end of these borrowed shoes. Let's stop here. The others salvaged all the loose wreckage from the Gullwing yesterday. And no glasses!"

"Harding thought that little blow last night might have broken up your boat."

"I suppose that guy never makes mistakes?" Bascombe asked.

"Yes," Bea Cosgrove said. "You put some feeling into that word."

"WATCH where you're going!" Bea snapped. "Now, down this way—and there's the beach." A moment later she added, "And for your edification, it is now covered with wreckage."

"All right. You win! He wins! You're both wonderful and clever. Now if you'll just find a green case!"

George Bascombe walked slowly up and down the beach, in and out of the timbers and boxes, bent over so his eyes were within a few feet of the ground.

But Bea found a small green case, opened it, took out an unbroken pair of thick-lensed glasses and handed them to him. "Try those on for size."

He took them eagerly, slipped them on. He snatched them off, polished their lenses on the tail of his shirt and gave a great sigh of relief as the nose piece fit into the deep groove on the cartilage of his nose.

"I'm a savior!" He kissed her. "I'm a new man!"

Bea laughed. "The old one was quieter."

George stepped back a pace and stared at her. "My wonder girl! And a beauty! You're beautiful when you laugh. You're not a bit like I imagined. And they told me you were a schoolteacher!"

"I don't think I'd like to be something you imagined," Miss Cosgrove said. "Shall we get to work and see what we can salvage?"

of the financial structure and returns of the projects. Figures on one project reveal an estimated annual benefit of $168,000,000 and an estimated annual cost of over $65,000,000. As the annual benefits exceed the annual cost, justification was found to obtain an appropriation of $1,250,000 for the project's capital structure.

Funding of this capital structure was set up under a schedule of 40 annual irrigation payments at no interest, 50 power payments at 3 per cent interest, and 40 other small revenue payments without interest. All of these payments from receipts were estimated to amount to $25,000,000 annually with which to meet an annual amortization and operation charge of over $65,000,000. This means, WTCC points out, that on this operation the taxpayers must bear a loss of over $40,000,000 a year, also that around 60 per cent of the cost of the project or $720,000,000 is not to be paid back and therefore represents a direct donation by the taxpayers.

For purpose of illustration Whitney dam on the Brazos is used in the WTCC study as compared with utilizing waters for domestic purposes. This dam is being constructed by the Corps of Army Engineers and will retain water on the Brazos appropriated by the State of Texas.

This dam, according to the report, is to have an authorized storage capacity of 2,017,500 acre feet of which 1,375,000 acre feet or 68 per cent has been designated as flood control. The estimated cost of the dam is $32,000,000 and at 68 per cent, the cost for flood control benefits would be $22,000,000, and cost of power benefits $10,000,000. The only payable benefit is from the sale of power which, less operation and maintenance costs, is estimated at $443,700 per year. This annual revenue per year is sufficient only to amortize, over 35 years, to 2 1-2 per cent interest, 32 per cent of the project.

In reciting the forgotten benefits, or the municipal economic loss due to inadequate water, the WTCC report sets up the manner in which multi-city dams could be constructed on the upper reaches of the Brazos, achieving the same results in flood control. At the same time these smaller dams would provide domestic water for most of the 300 municipalities on the watershed. The report says: "The eight cities with their 28,800 population, if using 120 gallons of water per capita, would use a total of 1,261,000,000 gallons yearly. Assuming that this water were purchased by the cities from nearby government reservoirs at 10 cents per thousand gallons, an annual revenue of $126,000 would be possible. This amounts to a water sale of around $4.40 per capita per year. As the government has funding plans ranging from 30 to 50 years with only a minor part bearing interest and less than half of the corpus being paid back, this $126,000 annual potential revenue over a 40 year period of time, without interest, would fund around $5,000,000. This $5,000,000 could build 8 different reservoirs, each with a 12,500 acre feet capacity. Such dams would adequately supply the respective 8 cities with water and are needed to assure the cities of sufficient water for growth and development and for adequate supply through dry years as well as wet years.

"Such dams holding 100,000 acre feet of water on the Brazos upper tributaries would first of all cause a cessation of floods to that extent in the lower reaches of the Brazos and would accomplish the general welfare benefits of flood control. Such dams would also accomplish another new benefit which is submitted as equal to, if not greater than flood control and operation charge of over $65,000,000. This means, WTCC points out, that on this operation the taxpayers must bear a loss of over $40,000,000 a year, also that around 60 per cent of the cost of the project or $720,000,000 is not to be paid back and therefore represents a direct donation by the taxpayers.

Texas Tops NVGA Membership Drive

Texas farm boys and girls, carrying on the state's traditional reputation for leadership, are currently leading the nation in the membership standings of the National Junior Vegetable Growers Association, it was revealed today.

The announcement, coming one month before the deadline for entries in the association's production-marketing contest, was made in the NJVGA News, circulated among thousands of members throughout the country. It reported that the Lone Star state moved into first place this month, with New York and Mississippi close behind.

Hundreds of Texas farm youths, between the ages of 14 through 21, will compete against boys and girls from all over the nation for the $6,000 in agricultural scholarships and cash awards provided by A & P Food Stores to teach the country's young farmers modern methods of producing and marketing vegetables.

The best results in feeding all types of livestock, except hogs, can be obtained by feeding potatoes in fresh form.

DEFENSE SECRETARY BEFORE ARMED SERVICE COMMITTEE

The secretary of Defense, Louis A. Johnson, appeared before the Senate Armed Services Committee and told them the $302,000,000 pay raise for the armed forces is an urgent necessity if they are to remain effective. The bill passed the House by a voice vote. (NEA Telephoto)

"She never misses since she uses that new candelabra for sighting!"

Other Lone Star boys and girls can enter the competition by contacting their local 4-H Club agent, FFA, leader, or by writing to the NJVGA regional chairman, Chesley Hines, Extension Horticulturist, Mississippi State College, State College, Mississippi.

The nation's farmers raised more than half of the world's corn crop last year.
