THE STORY: Martin Queripel, the private detective, has agreed to investigate the slaying of Wendell Palmer, wealthy Los Angeles man, for whose murder Palmer's daughter's fiancé, the sculptor Paul Moody, is charged. Paul was seen entering the Palmer home before the murder and his fingerprints have been found on a telephone which was used to batter Palmer's skull. Azalea Palmer, the victim's daughter, refuses to believe in Paul's guilt. Queripel has recommended a young lawyer, Harley Kenyon, to defend Paul and has asked Kenyon to come to meet the girl.

XVII
IT touched rather than amused Martin Queripel to see that, even in this hour of misery, Azalea Palmer was human woman enough to set about repairing her make-up which had been half obliterated by her storm of tears, sobs and her sopping handkerchief.

She had almost a new face and quite a new courage when Timothy O'Hea brought in Harley Kenyon. Queripel noted that at the sight of Azalea, Kenyon fell back as if he had struck him a blow.

Her very littleness and pitifulness gave her prettiness more impact on a normal man than any grand and flamboyant siren beauty could have wielded.

And Queripel was relieved to find that Azalea was plainly impressed by Kenyon's appearance. Harley Kenyon's rugged and irregular features and forthright expression revealed to Azalea qualities of courage and strength and masculinity that no Greek god, perfect soever in beauty, could have expressed.

The man and the woman studied each other as strangers, their pasts as unknown as their futures. Kenyon did not even know Azalea's name, though he had seen her pictures in the papers.

Queripel had not told him whom he was to meet, and Kenyon had

THE STORY: Refusing to believe that fingerprint evidence is conclusive that her fiancé Paul Moody killed her father, Azalea Palmer has engaged private detective Martin Queripel to investigate the case. After Azalea tells her story to the detective, she makes a few careless comments on the police investigation which at once arouses Queripel's interest.

XVIII
WHEN a weary twig of a tree released its fruit and let an apple thump to the ground at the feet of Sir Isaac Newton, it sent his mind along a path which led to the discovery of the law of gravity. It was thus that Azalea Palmer's next words gave the detective Martin Queripel what his French ancestors called "furious to think."

Yet Azalea laughed more with scorn than humor when she said: "What's to prevent that fingerprint man from saying that he found those fingerprints of mine on the telephone, and then accusing me of murdering my own father? It wouldn't be any more ridiculous than accusing Paul of murdering me. He's a young lawyer, Harley Kenyon, and he's smiling at Azalea's quaint notion; but Queripel's intense meditation changed to a look of startled wonder when Azalea added lightly: "Why, didn't that very fingerprint man, when he finished with us and was leaving the room—didn't he call out to somebody in the room where my father's body was lying—didn't the fingerprint man shout at somebody: 'Kelso, I told you to keep away from that telephone!'

Queripel winced as if struck, and said: "You didn't tell me that before!"

Vandals Blamed In Ft. Worth Fire

FORT WORTH, Tex., March 9 (UP)—Vandals were believed responsible today for a blaze that destroyed an estimated 80,000,000 to 100,000,000 bottles of war surplus insect repellent in a three-alarm fire.

About 80 per cent of the 1,250,000 cases, each containing 108 two ounce bottles, went up in smoke late yesterday, assistant fire marshal W. H. Dixon said.

The repellent was in wooden crates stacked 12 feet high over several acres of land in South Fort Worth. Smoke still rose from the scene early today.

Horsemeat May Be Being Sold In Entire Nation

DALLAS, Tex., March 9 (UP)—The Texas swindle in which large shipments of horsemeat was sold as "beef" may develop into a nationwide scandal, officials said today.

At least 19,000 pounds of the meat, labeled as "beef tenders" were seized Tuesday in Dallas, Ft. Worth and Houston. Investigators said the meat may have found its way to lunch counters as far distant as Tampa, Fla.

"I believe these sales are being made on a nationwide basis, with the meat probably coming from the vast Chicago stockyard centers," Dr. J. W. Bass, Dallas city health officer, said. The Chicago Stockyards denied handling the meat.

However, there were conflicting theories on the original shipping point of the meat. No one could explain how 1,900 pounds seized at Houston got into boxes bearing a Fort Worth firm's stamp. The meat, itself, was not stamped as required by federal law.

Dr. W. V. Bradshaw, Fort Worth city health director, said much of the meat may already have been sold to innocent restaurateurs and butchers.

He said 6,000 pounds had been shipped from Dallas to Fort Worth, but only half of it had been found. Bradshaw assumed that the unretrieved portion had found its way to lunch counter menus.

Bass disclosed that shipments from Dallas went to Fort Worth, Houston, Austin, Waco and "other Texas cities."

Believe Bandit Hiding In Mexico

DALLAS, Tex., March 9 (UP)—Lester Bennett, charged in the $40,000 jewel robbery at a Dallas doctor's home in February, is probably hiding out in Mexico, police captain Will Fritz said today.

Fritz filed an armed robbery charge against Bennett yesterday. The fugitive was last seen in Houston last week.

William Trent Jarrette, who was jailed following his arrest last Saturday, put the finger on Bennett. He told police that he and Bennett had escaped a Cincinnati, O., jail early in February.

The jewels were stolen from Mrs. W. W. Shortall, wife of a clinic operator, at her home last Feb. 17. Articles taken were a diamond studded wedding band, a four carat diamond ring and one other ring.

Pioneer Antique And Hobby Show Draws Big Enthusiastic Crowd

Mrs. John Turner, chairman of the Pioneer Antique and Hobby show, sponsored by Civic League and Garden Club, Wednesday afternoon at the Christian Church Annex, said that the affair was a huge success. Members of the 50 Year Pioneer club as well as other pioneers in Eastland co-operated in making the show the success it was by coming and by bringing their treasures and displaying them so that they could be enjoyed.

Several of the group spent the day arranging their displays and then just visiting with others of the group, Mrs. Turner said.

Some of the highlights of the exhibits were a historical exhibit by Mr. and Mrs. Ed T. Cox, which included a collection of arrow heads, a hand made quilt with beautiful tiny stitches. Fancy work on baby clothes and linens were displayed by several pioneer women including Mrs. T. M. Johnson, Mrs. A. E. Wesson, Mrs. E. E. Wood, Mrs. Annie Day and Miss Sallie Day.

A gun collection belonging to Jim Horton attracted many of the men attending as did the little old fashioned trunk containing surgical instruments, which once belonged to Mr. Horton's father and grandfather.

Mrs. W. C. Whaley displayed an old gun, which once belonged to Old Joe Clark, and several fine pieces of old china, Mrs. I. J. Killough displayed an old silver tipped cane which was found on the battle ground during the civil war and it had the initials, I. K. and still are very readable and is one of the prized relics of the Killough family.

Paintings by Mrs. M. H. Perkins, Mrs. W. B. Cowan, and Mrs. Walker were on display, Mr. J. F. Williams had an old enlarged picture of Eastland, the square, showed the old courthouse and its many lovely trees and was made during the construction of the bank buildings during the boom days.

One of the interesting pictures was of a group of students of the Colony school made in 1887 at which time the late T. M. Johnson was teacher of the school.

Mrs. T. E. Payne displayed an old quilt and an antique coverlet, which was hand woven.

Others displaying articles were Mrs. John Turner, Mrs. Minnie Ewart, Mrs. Minnie Love, Dr. E. R. Townsend, Mrs. Earl Conner, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Jones, Mrs. A. D. Dabney and Mrs. W. H. Mullings, who displayed an old fashioned bread tray, which was brought to Texas many years ago tied on the back of a covered wagon.

Mrs. Turner asked each guest to register and to write their hobby by their name, that collectors of the same items might get to know each other and share their hobbies with others interested in the same things.

Mrs. W. Q. Verner, president presided at the business session held at 3 P. M. in the Christian Church.

Reports of committees were heard and the group gave $100.00 to the Band Boosters Club. A report was made on the improvements at the triangle West of the City.

WESLACO, March 9 (UP)—Agricultural engineers and water experts from all sub-experimental stations in Texas gathered here today for a conference on irrigation and drainage. The representatives of state and federal agencies, some 40 strong, were headed by Supt. W. R. Cowley of the local experiment station, Earl Ross of the Soil Conservation Service and M. E. Bloodworth, agricultural engineers.

The conference will end Friday with an afternoon tour of valley irrigation facilities.

AMARILLO, March 9 (UP)—The murder trial of 21 year old Donald Young is expected to go to the jury in 47th District Court today.

Young is charged in connection with the Oct. 6, hold-up slaying of Charles L. Freeman, oil station attendant.

Dwight Hoskins, former all-state football star, an alleged companion of Young has been sentenced 35 years in prison for having fired the shot.

SEATTLE, Wash, March 9 (UP)—All because of a piece of carrot: seven persons were injured, a dog was hurt, three cars were damaged and an ambulance wrecked.

The piece of carrot became stuck in two year old Malcolm John Edward's throat yesterday. He was placed in an ambulance in Raymond, Wash., and rushed toward Seattle, 135 miles away. With him were his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Edwards, a nurse, Mrs. Barbara Shilling of Raymond.

A police escort met the ambulance as it entered Olympia, Wash. Sgt. Willard Couch slowed to miss a dog and the ambulance crashed against the rear of Couch's police car.

Couch was uninjured but the dog was hit. After the hood of the ambulance was tied down with wire, the hectic journey continued.

Thirty miles farther, in Tacoma, Wash., the ambulance collided with an automobile driven by Edwin McKelvey and careened off McKelvey's car against another vehicle driven by Paul Lucien. An automobile driven by Fred Seaman was struck by McKelvey's car. Malcolm, his parents, his nurse, Lucien, and Seaman were cut, McKelvey was hospitalized with serious head injuries.

The party was transferred to another ambulance and continued the trip here safely with intermittent police escorts.

Doctors removed the piece of carrot from the choking boy's throat without further incident.

It's Cold Outside VICKSBURG, Mich. (UP)—A movement has been started by Vicksburg High School students to change the name of their basketball team from "Bulldogs" to "Polar Bears." Students say "Polar Bears" is more appropriate because the cagers have no gym and must practice outdoors on tennis courts.

We wandered out to the G. I. School of Instruction in their respective buildings at the schoolhouse Tuesday afternoon and picked up some interesting highlights on not only J. F. Schneider's Class in Automobile Mechanics, and Otis Ward's Business Administration Class, but we also caught the local high school's Vocational Agriculture teacher, E. C. Bramlett for a nice interview. Since these men all touch local families, and we never hear too much about them, this reporter picked them for some items we thought the readers of this column would enjoy.

J. F. Schneiders, instructor in Automobile Mechanics at the G. I. School is from Abilene. Here, he has a well-equipped shop, he told me, and the interest is good among the 22 students who report to him regularly. Schneiders has been in Gorman in this work approximately a year. He is really a master mechanic, specializing in the maintenance and upkeep of heavy machinery on big construction jobs. The varied and wide scope of his experience certainly must have fitted him for the job of teaching these young G. I.'s who come under his tutelage.

The Class in Business Administration seems to be going well, also under Instructor Ward. Ward is a young man, being, we should judge—not meaning to get personal—about 25 years of age. However, his class seems eager to learn and their teacher has their respect. He is providing outside lectures wherever persons can be obtained to fit in with the particular part of the Business Administration Course which he is teaching at that time: Last Friday Evening he had Attorney-at-law Joe Parker out to address about 40 or 50 students. Mr. Parker told me. This lecture was more in the nature of a discourse on Commercial Law.

But perhaps the most interesting from the standpoint of parent interest and general Community interest—for who isn't interested in the younger Boys of the F. F. A. of our Community?—was gathered quite accidentally from E. C. Bramlett who is the Vocational Agricultural Teacher of the Gorman High School. He would have been off the campus, had not he been out on a field trip helping some young farmers with some problems. Also as we attempted to corner him, one of the Committee members of the local Business Men's Club who sponsor the Dairy Heifer project for the FFA boys was borrowing a de-horning machine. So we got him to sit and give us the following dope on some of his boys with their projects.

PLEASING PROGRESS—Two actresses wearing 1912 model bathing suits look with pleasure at Margaret Leighton, in a more modern swimsuit, during the filming of "The Winslow Boy" on a London lot. Miss Leighton stars in the forthcoming film.

Jack Eisen, a sophomore and in his second year in Agriculture, was one of the boys who obtained a Jersey Heifer from the Business Men's Club. The heifer is now 1-2 years old and Jack is really getting her primed up for the show which will be held in Eastland March 17th Jack is also interested in hogs, having a registered Duroc Sow which farrowed 10 pigs for her first litter. He is maintaining a well-rounded interest in all phases of the FFA work and intends making a career of stock raising. His parents are encouraging him which makes his work easier and more pleasant for him and his Instructor.

Charles McFatter secured one of the heifers from the club. His agreement between these heifer has already calved a heifer calf, which under the terms of boys and the club—the first heifer from the free heifers goes back to the Club to be redistributed to other deserving boys—Charles has already turned back to the Club. He has a Duroc Gilt, also. Charles sold 4 finished hogs from an older sow for $180.00, making a profit of $109.00 after figuring every item of feeding and caring for the 4 hogs for the 8 months it took him to finish them off, and he figured his labor at regular price for such work and it was taken out of cost of production. He has 5 more hogs he is feeding out now as a project.
