YOU NAME IT

By Everett Taylor

Sunday, June 18, today is Father's Day.

It is the one day in the year which is picked out for us to pay special tribute to our Dads. It is now a national observance, but not too long ago, Dad didn't even have one special day a year.

Mother's Day was founded in 1907, but Father had to wait a while longer to get his well deserved national holiday.

According to information we have gathered, Father's Day was first proposed by Mr. John Bruce Dodd of Spokane, Washington in 1909. The Spokane Ministers Association sponsored the first city-wide Father's Day in 1910.

But it was not until 1924 that the day became nationally observed. In that year President Coolidge recommended its nationwide observance.

American Fathers may feel pretty good when they look around and see how other fathers the world over fare today. For instance, in West Africa, when a son wants permission to marry, he asks his mother's eldest brother.

But in America anyway, this is Father's Day, and we think our Dads are swell.

The 100th Horned Toad Derby entry came in Friday, and as was promised, the whistles and sirens sounded.

Entry 100 was received by mail, and its postmark gave it the honor of being No. 100 over about five other letters. The entry was "Lightning" from the Bruce Pipkin stables, and was entered by R. G. Clark, Jacksonville, Fla., through the efforts of Bruce.

Herb Tanner told us Friday morning at about 10:30 that there were 112 entries in the race. 188 to go to reach the mark of 300.

Pat Murphy handed us the following bit of statistical information which we thought might interest the working reader. It is titled, "It Ain't Funny."

Spy Scare

FBI Arrest Three For Espionage In Short Month; Crackdown May Continue As Congressmen Worry

WASHINGTON, June 17 (UP)—The FBI may be engaged in one of the most sweeping crackdowns on suspected spies and subversives in the history of the country. Apprehensive congressmen wondered just how many Americans participated with British Scientist K. E. J. Fuchs in an international Soviet spy ring.

So far, the FBI has rounded up three suspected members of the apparatus. It was silent on the possibility of further arrests, but many congressmen speculated that the crackdown is not yet over.

They were angry that Russia apparently operated a wide-spread spy ring in the United States at the very time this country was helping her beat back the Nazi hordes during the war. All demanded the vigorous prosecution of all suspected of being her agents.

The three Americans arrested so far are:

1. Harry Gold, 39-year-old biochemist of Philadelphia. He was arrested last month and, according to the FBI, confessed that he was the go-between for Fuchs and Russian officials in this country during the war.

2. Alfred D. Slack, 48, a chemist. He was arrested in Syracuse, N. Y., Thursday night and charged with giving highly-classified information in a secret wartime explosive. He will be tried in Knoxville, Tenn.
3. David Greenglass, 28, a former army non-commissioned officer who was arrested in New York yesterday. Greenglass, who worked in "the bomb itself" at Los Alamos, N. M., was accused of slipping Gold secret atomic data.

In addition, the FBI took into custody yesterday Dr. Sidney Weinbaum, 52, formerly of the jet-propulsion laboratory of the California Institute of Technology, on charges that he swore falsely he was not a Communist.

The FBI emphasized, however, that Weinbaum's arrest had no connection with any other case. Congressional atomic and espionage experts, who were shocked by Fuchs' arrest, have been aware the FBI was tracking down his American accomplices. But other lawmakers were apprehensive about the scope of Soviet espionage in this country.

In Winchester, Va., last night, Rep. Burr P. Harrison, D., Va., said U. S. Atomic secrets "were stolen almost at will by the Russians" despite assurances from attorney General J. Howard McGrath that they are safe.

Lift Up Your Heart

By Rev. C. Nelson

One of the greatest needs America has today is Christian homes. There is no doubt whatever in the minds of people that think any at all that as the homes goes so goes the community, state, nation and the world.

There have been many suggestions. There have been many programs. The church at home night. The home at church night. The family altar. All of these are good but still we know we are not producing the desired results relative to the Christian home. Why do we not have the family altar like we use to? Why are not our homes as conscious of God as they use to be? Why isn't it like the good old days? We have all heard all of these questions. Is there an answer? There are several. But on this day I wish to pose one. We need more Christian Fathers.

The father is the head of the home. Not only in the matter of seeing that the family is fed, clothed, schooled and provided for in the future. But he is also by the decree of God head of the family in all religious and spiritual matters. Any sane study of the Bible will reveal this. The father should not permit any one to take his privilege that is God given to him of being the spiritual leader of his house.

I know that many Fathers are saying, and some of you that will read this humble article, are saying, "I have to make a living, I don't have time for the church and religion." I will say to those and to you, dear reader, that you cannot afford to not have time for the spiritual and moral guidance of your family. I believe the greatest challenge to any father in this day, or any day, isn't whether their children are better schooled, clothed, fed or socially provided for, but that they are led to know God and incorporate in their lives the fundamental moral and religious teaching of Christ the master teacher. Think this over Dads on this your day, Father's Day.

Olden Outscores Carbon In League Tilt Friday Night

Olden outscored Carbon, 9-6, in a City League softball game at fireman's park Friday night.

The loss dropped Carbon into the Loop cellar and shifted Olden into a third place tie with Kilgore.

The next league game is scheduled for Thursday night when Kilgore and Lamb Motor scrap at 8:30 p. m. Carbon will play King Ford Friday night.

No other games have been announced for this week at the park, although others may be scheduled later.

City League Standings:

| Kilgore    | 1 | 1 | .500  |
| Olden      | 1 | 1 | .500  |
| Carbon     | 0 | 2 | .000  |

Nine pieces of bent wire. Two crushed light bulbs. One crushed salt shaker. Four needles. Three safety pins. Three spoons. An aspirin box.

Eastlanders Purchase Over Third Of Quota

Over one-third of Eastland county's savings bonds quota has been sold.

There has been $336,758.75 in bonds sold here of the $1,030,000 quota since the current campaign started May 15. The drive ends July 4.

Only series E bonds are being sold in an effort to get more individual buyers of saving bonds.

Acheson Backs Savings Bonds Drive

Washington, D. C.—Dean Acheson, Secretary of State (above) today made the following statement in support of the Independence Savings Bonds Drive:

"Individual independence, the continued freedom and the security of our country, are concerns close to the heart of every American. To be independent we must be strong, to be strong we must be vigilant, ever aware of our country's needs and its relationship to the rest of the world. Individual independence builds for security of a nation. By investing in Savings Bonds we not only insure our own futures but the future and independence of our country. Save today to insure tomorrow!"

Senate Group Recommends $80 A Month

WASHINGTON, June 17 (UP)—The Senate Finance Committee is willing to make a compromise lifting maximum social security pensions to $80 a month for aged persons with no dependents, it was learned today.

The Senate is considering a sweeping committee revision of the social security program, including a new benefit scale for individuals ranging from $20 to $72.50 a month. Administration supporters want the maximum pensions boosted to $100.

An influential committee member said the group has authorized Chairman Walter F. George, D., Ga., to offer $80 maximums as a compromise figure. All factions are agreed on $150 top monthly pensions for family groups.

Elsewhere in Congress: Basing point—Senate Democratic leader Scott W. Lucas, Ill., doubted that the senate would try to override President Truman's veto of the basing point bill. Even if supporters of the measure should try such a move, he said, they probably could not muster the necessary two-thirds vote. The bill would have allowed manufacturers to charge uniform delivered prices in different areas regardless of varying freight costs.

Amerasia—Senate investigators may call John E. Peurifoy, Deputy Undersecretary of State, to answer charges by Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R., Wis., that he tried to arrange a "payoff" deal with a key witness in the Amerasia case. McCarthy claims Peurifoy offered Emmanuel S. Larsen, a former State Department employee, a loyalty clearance and free legal advice if he would not testify against a Far Eastern diplomat. Peurifoy and Secretary of State Dean Acheson categorically have denied the charge.

DP's—Rep. Francis E. Walter, D., Pa., said the new liberalized displaced persons law may lead to a settlement of the German "expellee" problem. The bill, signed into law by President Truman yesterday, authorizes the United States to participate in an international conference to consider the problem of what to do about millions of persons of German origin who were expelled from Eastern Europe after the war.

Iron Curtain—Sen. Ralph E. Flanders, R., Vt., endorsed a plan to recruit Russian refugees in an underground movement to penetrate the Iron Curtain with a "spiritual movement." He told the senate there is growing sentiment in this nation for such a plan.

Chandler pleaded guilty to 4 indictments of burglary and received a sentence of two years on each indictment, but they are to run concurrently.

One burglary charge is still pending against Ellis in Eastland County.

Following the trial, Ellis was taken to Abilene where additional charges of burglary were filed against him.

Houghton pleaded guilty to nine burglary charges and received a sentence of five years in the state prison. The sentence was five years on each indictment to run concurrently.

The Grand Jury of the 91st District Court returned six other indictments Friday and recessed. District Clerk Roy Lane and his assistants are winding up a busy week.

The new indictments are listed as three for forgery, one for forgery and passing, one for cattle theft, and one for receiving and concealing stolen property.

Dewey Will Retire

ALBANY, N. Y., June 17 (UP)—Republican Governor Thomas E. Dewey announced today that he will not run for a third term because of poor health.

Having passed the 100 entry mark, Horned Toad Derby officials now have their sights set on the 200 mark, and they were well on the way with about 115 entries Saturday morning.

The Derby Board of Governors turned thumbs down on a request this week which, if approved could possibly have turned the toad derby into a leap-frog race.

The request came from a Jacksonville, Texas citizen who asked if an East Texas bullfrog would be eligible, and if so he wanted to select one from the big bullfrog farm east of Jacksonville.

After careful consideration, the derby committee ruled that the derby was for, "lizards, iguana like." They continued, "A bullfrog being a small amphibious, webbed-footed animal would not pass qualification requirements."

It was pointed out, however, that an East Texas horned toad would be eligible for the derby, indicating that it is not limited to West Texas animals.

Personal contact through letters by those interested in getting derby entries has paid off in a big way. Of the entries which had been received Saturday, about 90 were from out of town, with some listed from out of the state.

Entries from Fort Worth topped the outside city derby boosters with 15. Dallas was running a close second with 12 entries.

One Fort Worth fan wrote, "I hope my frog gets out in front like the Fort Worth Cats."

Characteristic of many of the letters is this paragraph from one, "I haven't had much experience racing Horned Toads, as I have always devoted my racing to time turtles. I think the diet of bolts, nuts, screws, and lockwashers, washed down with a good grade of brake fluid is excellent, although possibly a bit heavy if any extended jumps are expected."

Another entrant expressed confidence in the stable from which his toad is to come, "With the world-wide fame of your private stables, there is no question in my mind of my toad winning."

One entrant put his stable owner on the spot by writing, "I am profoundly grateful for your bigheartedness in slipping me the winner, thereby double-crossing your many other friends."

"Frankly, I am so appreciative of your kind consideration that I fully intend to be present for the great event, although I will be saddened by the disappointed expressions of the other contestants when their entries make such a poor showing against 'Cap's Fridge'."

Out of the state entries have come from Jacksonville, Fla., Los Angeles, Calif., Raleigh, North Carolina and Ardmore Okla.

With the response to date, derby officials are positive that they will easily reach the 300 mark this year.

The Loves of Carmen

By SOPHIE KERR
Copyright, 1948, NEA SERVICE, INC.
Sensationalization of screenplay from a novel by Prosper Merimee

THE STORY: Don Jose, young soldier in a fashionable Spanish regiment, has just come to Sevilla from the countryside of Navarre. He is given 48 hours leave to familiarize himself with the city. He is startled by a piece of orange peel flying at his feet. He looks up—scared on a wall above him is an extraordinarily dressed young woman of almost sinful beauty. She fires with Jose still a little wedding party comes down the street, when she breaks into a noisy throng, blasting both bride and groom. The groom had been her former sweetheart. After the procession disappears, she quietly asks Jose to help her from the wall. He does so, then stoops to pick up some oranges she has dropped. When he looks up, the gypsy girl is gone.

III
DON JOSE was on duty in the square with another young soldier. The bells rang above them and they turned expectantly.

The great doors of the cigaret factory next to the barracks opened and a stream of girls came out and went past. The yellow coats of many regimentals dotted and blocked the way in every direction. Chattering girls joined grinning soldiers and they wheeled off in pairs together. But Don Jose and his companion remained where they were. They seemed to be searching for someone.

"I hope you find who you are looking for, Jose."

"You have me wrong, Andres. I'm not looking for anybody."

"You don't fool me. I've noticed you for two days now. You search among these girls as though you were looking for a long lost relative." Andres grinned and shipped Jose roughly on the back.

"Did the gypsies carry off your baby sister many years ago?"

"Why do you use that word?"

"What word?"

"Gypsy. You said gypsy."

"I did, yes."

Don Jose did his best to look casual. "I suppose there are quite a number in the town."

"Gypsies? I suppose so. They're everywhere. Why?"

"No reason. Do any of the gypsy girls work in the factory?"

Andres turned to look at him squarely and his tone changed oddly. "One." Then suddenly his voice lost its hardness and became miserable. "Just one. But she comes and goes. One never knows." He sighed, remembering something. "What time is it?"

Don Jose reached for his watch, but took his hand away from his pocket, empty. He spoke awkwardly, remembering something. "I don't know, Andres. I lost my watch somewhere—a couple of days ago."

But Andres was no longer interested in the time. His face had lighted up and he started forward eagerly. "Hola! Carmencita!"

WALKING along with the thinning crowd of girls came the gypsy girl, her hands on her hips, her eyes bold and alert. Her bright costume, the same as when Don Jose had seen her last, contrasted sharply with the somber black dresses of the others. Andres ran toward her.

"Carmen, I have looked for you for two days. I—" He tried to put an arm around her waist but she shook free of him, her eyes fixed on the man beyond her. Don Jose stared just as intently at her.

Andres, clearly a love-sick man, did not see this for the moment but sagged along with Carmen, walking sideways, watching her face, speaking eagerly and rapidly, while she ignored every word he uttered. "I've been trying to find you for two days, Carmencita! I looked for you everywhere. You weren't at the factory—you weren't at Lillas Pastia's." Andres rattled on, not even noticing that they had reached Don Jose.

"Where have you been? What have you been doing?" Carmen looked up into Jose's face. "Sunning myself." Jose, inexplicably happy, smiled down at her.

Andres said, "I am on duty now but if you will meet me later, we will have a bottle of wine—"

"No."

AT last Andres could not help but notice Jose and the girl's concentration on him.

"Oh, forgive me. This is my friend Don Jose—Carmen." He laughed, a little uneasily, at Carmen's steady regard of his friend.

"No use bothering with him, Carmen. Don Jose has better things to think about than a pretty woman."

Carmen put her beautiful red head to one side.

"Better things? What are those better things?"

Don Jose flushed, feeling stupid and uncomfortable.

Andres put his hand on Jose's shoulder.

"Forget it, Carmen. My friend here is only interested in his career as a soldier. Everyone knows that. Ah, Jose?"

Before the embarrassed boy could answer, Andres suddenly stood to attention, looking beyond them. The other two followed his glance and Don Jose also became a soldier on guard duty. The colonel and three aides walked by.

The colonel was resplendent as a peacock in his gaudy uniform topped by an elegant plumed helmet. He looked official and important. His pace slowed as he approached the group in the doorway and he inspected Carmen as though she were a priceless painting which he later intended to sketch from memory.

Carmen smiled impudently into the officer's face. She lowered her eyes to give him the full benefit of her eyelashes. She glanced up at him sideways.

After looking to see who was with her, the colonel moved on into the barracks without a flicker of expression on his heavy face.

His aides exchanged a quick, meaningful grimace as they followed him.

Sedan Defies Lightning Bolt

SUNNYVALE, Cal.—Using a Chevrolet four-door sedan, the Westinghouse Electric Corp. demonstrated here that a man's best friend in an electrical storm is his automobile. Joseph H. Cox, engineer, sat nonchalantly behind the wheel while a 2,400,000-volt of man-made lightning banged into the steel roof. As shown below, the shock passed around the roof and harmlessly out through the Chevrolet's tires.

The volt was produced by the 25-foot-high "surge" or impulse generator which can be used for a quality control test on big power transformers.

When You Buy A Bra, Girls Spare A Thought For He Who Makes Them

HOLLYWOOD, (UP)—Next time you buy a corset or a bra girls, spare a few thoughts for the misunderstood "daredevils" who make the things.

Ladies' underwear, they'll have you know, is dangerous work for a mere male!

Five manufacturers got together today and compared notes on the good, old days when ladies weren't interested in "uplifts" and when they were still an actor, a rug salesman, a psychologist, a dairyman and a surveyor.

Now they risk life and limb and reputation daily—and all they get for it is a lousy, old fortune. Corraling female bulges in whalebone and lace is a delicate be present during all fittings. "We get a few exhibitionists," Rosenfeld said, "and it's absolutely essential that we have another witness around in case there's any trouble."

That's just one of the problems the bra and girdle boys run into. They also have to keep ahead of ladies fashions and any man knows how ticklish that is.

If they guess wrong—they're out of business. And as members of California apparel creators, they do $20,000,000 a year.

It's things like this, they admitted, that make 'em wonder sometimes why they ever went into ladies' lingerie in the first place.

"I'll tell you why I did," Ertsek shrugged. "I was a criminal psychologist. And crime does not pay—as well as brassieres."

Ferguson is an ex-actor who couldn't crack the movies. Now he makes bras for girls who did. Rosenfeld was a contractor and a rug salesman. And De La Vallade worked in a dairy.

"I now," he explained, "manufacture surgical and corrective bras for oversize women. And there are thousands and thousands of them. Women today are getting bigger and better every year." Redares, a Frenchman who talks like Charles Boyer, said he was "born to be a big manufacturer." "As a baby, it was unconscious with me," he explained. "Then when I got to be 16, it was definitely a conscious thing."

"For awhile I got sidetracked. I surveyed mountains. But in 1939 I settled down to my rightful calling."

If Girls Can Parade In Pajamas Why Not Men? Expert Questions

By KEN FORD
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (U.P.)—If Max Lovell has his way, life will be a continual pajama party.

An expert on such togs, he said it is now socially acceptable for men as well as women to be clad in lounging pajamas instead of street clothes when entertaining at home.

Lovell came to the conclusion that the pajama has progressed from simply a sleeping attire to the fashionable thing after a nation-wide survey on the subject.

Women, who buy almost all the men's pajamas sold, are responsible for this newest trend, he said. Of those interviewed, 84.6 per cent thought it was a good idea.

"Gone are the days when pajamas were used in the bedroom alone," he said. "There's nothing objectionable about this, there's no rule that says you must wear heavy outer garments at home."

Idea Is Comfort

The idea, Lovell said, is to be as cool and as comfortable as possible at cocktail parties and dinners.

Pointing out that women enterers in hostess pajamas, Lovell said "this comfort should be extended to men."

Lovell is horrified at the thought of people sleeping raw. It's unhealthful, he said.

"Doctors will tell you that you should wear a garment while asleep," he said. "Most summer colds are due to sleeping without pajamas."

Women Disapprove

"The claim that sleeping raw is more comfortable than in pajamas is fallacious. Ask the average woman what she thinks her husband who sleeps raw looks like. You'd be surprised, I have. Most women object," Lovell said.

Women do most of the buying of men's pajamas because the breadwinners haven't the time or inclination, he said.

"It's not that women are better shoppers. Men have a pretty good eye for clothes too."

But he admitted that women's tastes in such things are more moderate as far as strips and gaudy patterns go.

"Who knows," said Lovell, "this thing may spread until people wear lounging pajamas everywhere at all times."

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Tow returned Wednesday from Temple, where they visited with their son, Donald and Mrs. Tow. Mrs. Tow also underwent a medical check up.

This is your day, Dad. Will you take time out to listen to some of the things I want very much to say? You are always deep in doing something; somehow there's never a right time for handing you bouquets. I am afraid we'd both act foolish if I tried to tell you, face to face, out loud, fancy words of gratitude and praise. Even on paper I can't use sticky adjectives for you, Dad...that's not your dish. Orchids, adjectives...Mother loves them. God bless her!...but for you, Dad, I'll put it to you straight: YOU ARE AN OK GUY, THROUGH AND THROUGH.

I am beginning to see what it takes to hold up your end of the plank, Dad...to keep plugging along, day, after day, facing the same old grind, taking the licks from a crabbed public, juggling living expenses, figuring what's best to do now and planning for a family's future. STAMINA, DAD, FORTITUDE; THOSE ARE WORDS FOR YOU.

I am beginning to notice that it is a long time between shoes with you, Dad, that you postpone buying a new hat, that you manage to make one suit serve for several, that you don't buy yourself books any more. You don't look as slick as you used to. The rent is never overdue. There are no collectors banging our door. There's always good food on the table. Mother belongs to clubs and wears pretty clothes. Sister and Brother and I have everything we need...without a hitch; we haven't known any money shortage. You fight that battle for us, Dad, without one word of complaint. That's LIVING LOVE, UNSELFISHNESS.

There's something else I've learned: All Dads are not like you, and I am glad you are mine. I visit some friends and see their Dads drinking. I hear them cursing and swearing, and squabbling over money. It means a great deal to me, Dad, that I had to leave home to find that ugliness. CLEAN, DAD, THAT'S ANOTHER WORD FOR YOU...AND FINE. Thank you, Dad; my heritage is rich.

Program Planned For Father's Day

Miss Nancy Freyschlag will play a piano solo, and a quartet made up of members of the Men's Fellowship Class will sing at a special Father's Day Program in the Men's Sunday School Class of the First Christian Church, it has been announced.

The quartet is composed of Dr. J. H. Cason, Jack Carothers, David McKee and Carl Garrett. The class meets at 10 a. m. in the church annex. E. K. Henderson is the class teacher, and coffee is served before class time.

Judge Clyde Grissom will be in charge of the Father's Day program.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE

"Is the Universe, Including Man, Evolved by Atomic Force?" is the subject of the lesson-sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ Scientist, on Sunday, June 18.

The Golden Text is "In the beginning was the word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. . . All things were made by him; and without him was not anything made that was made." (John 1:1,3).

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Be still and know that I am God: I will be exalted among the heathen, I will be exalted in the earth." (Psalms 46:10).

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Belief is changeable, but spiritual understanding is changeless." (page 96).

Rev. Seymour Will Preach At Methodist Church

Sunday morning at the 10:50 worship service of the First Methodist Church Rev. Leslie W. Seymour will preach on subject, "This Amazing Church."

Rev. Seymour is the new superintendent of the Cisco District of the Methodist Church, coming to this office from the pastorate of the First Methodist Church of Hillsboro. He is a former pastor of the First Methodist Church of Cisco.

Rev. J. Morris Bailey, pastor, will lead the worship service. Miss Janette Patterson will sing a solo, "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte. Mrs. J. D. Murphy will play the organ.

BY MACK WARREN

Have you ever noticed that when some word expert picks the ten most beautiful words in the English language, "Mother" is always high on the list . . . and "Father" gets about as many votes as a skunk on a picnic? Pop is strictly for laughs . . . thanks to radio and film writers who make him about as smart as a three-toed sloth. In cartoons Dad is always the chump who paints himself into a corner or who is hanging on a chandelier calling for Mom's help. But "it ain't necessarily so". Chances are you'll bolster the old duffer's morale plenty by remembering him on Father's Day, June 18.

An English minister is fining brides who keep an impatient groom waiting at the altar one shilling a minute after the first 2 minutes. Looks as though all repenting will have to be done after the ceremony. You'll never regret choosing a Studebaker for your next car. It's a marvel of engineering perfection and elegant design. . . this new 1950 Model. You just can't beat it. . . so don't try. Drop in for a demonstration to WARREN MOTOR CO., 306 East Main St., Phone 616.
