Friday's weather gave the appearance that a general settling of the rain might be in prospect. We are too familiar with the uncertainty of Texas weather to make any predictions, but we are inclined to believe that we are in for some hot, dry weather in the near future.

That is what we have been thinking, however, for about three weeks or more, and it has been neither very hot nor very dry, so we might be in for more surprises.

This month's rainfall in Eastland has put the average rainfall for July here to shame, bettering the average by some three to four inches, with another day or two in which it could possibly rain a little more.

All of which has been pleasing to most folks in the city, but a little hard on the farming people, at least some of them.

It has been too wet to work freely in the fields, and the grass crop is really thriving. Rain and dampness also is very pleasing to insects which like to eat cotton-leaf sandwiches.

The rain has also been putting a crimp in the city league softball schedule. Thursday night's game was washed out, making about three games which have been rained out this month.

King Ford has become a heavy favorite to win the loop title since copping the district title, and defeating Lamb Motor in a league contest.

Willy Willy's Rockettes are scheduled to play a double header with a girl's team from Abilene at Firemen's field Saturday night.

It will be the fifth and sixth games of a series between the teams. The local girls will be striving to go ahead in season play. Each team has won two games of four played to date.

The rains have been very favorable for the golf course, and the course is in better shape than ever we are told. Interest is at a peak high in the local country club.

Country club memberships are now in order. Cost is $28 per year, payable annually, semi-annually, or quarterly, in advance.

Green fees are 50c except on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays when 75c is charged.

Ann Stringer, formerly of Eastland is the co-author of a new book, "German Faces."

Long time residents of Eastland may remember Mrs. Stringer as Miss Ann Harrell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harrell, who was born here in 1918.

Harrell was tax collector here during the oil boom. The Harrells later moved to Kilgore where they now reside.

Mrs. Stringer's first husband, Bill Stringer, was killed in France in 1944. She later met Henry Ries, who with her wrote the book and they were married in 1949. They now live in New York.

The book, "German Faces," was written by two journalists while they were covering the occupation of Germany for United Press.

It is a story of all types of people in Germany today and is speeded generously with pictures.

Railroad To Reorganize

ST. LOUIS, July 29 (UP)—U. S. District Judge George H. Moore today approved a plan for reorganization of the Missouri Pacific railway that would wipe out the equity of common stockholders and unsecured creditors.

Taft Says Opposes M'lization

WASHINGTON, July 29 (UP)—Chairman Robert A. Taft, O., of the powerful Senate GOP policy committee, said today he is "absolutely opposed" to Bernard M. Baruch's total economic mobilization plan.

Taft said the 80-year-old Baruch's proposal for strict wage, price, rent and rationing controls goes entirely too far. He is opposed even to President Truman's more moderate program.

But despite Taft's opposition, sentiment was growing for the Baruch plan among both Republican and Democratic legislators. Senate Democratic Leader Scott W. Lucas, Ill., predicted it would receive considerable support if it comes up for a vote on the Senate floor.

Mobilization

Mobilization at a glance by United Press.

Navy — Launches drive to recruit 70,000 skilled construction men as standby seabee reserve.

Air Force — Says it will order 50 reserve chaplains to duty; plans to call undisclosed number of reserve staffs—women of the Air Force.

Security — Senate completes Congressional action on bill to let Coast Guardsmen search foreign ships entering U. S. waters.

Stockpiling — President Truman asks Congress for an extra $600,000,000 to stockpile critical materials. Rubber — Truman orders several synthetic rubber plants re-opened.

Sen. John J. Sparkman, D., Ala., said he would urge the Senate banking committee Monday to incorporate Baruch's drastic curbs in President Truman's somewhat softer control bill.

Truman believes his proposed credit curbs and controls on materials would be adequate to meet the present emergency.

ELSEWHERE IN CONGRESS:

Arms aid—President Truman was reported ready to ask Congress for another $4,000,000,000 to bolster Western Europe's defenses. The new funds would be added on to the $1,222,500,000 already approved for the arms aid program.

Mobilization — Chairman Carl Vinson, D., Ga., of the House armed services committee indicated that a $25,000,000,000 U. S. arms program for the next 12 months probably is just the beginning. He said he expects still more defense spending requests this fiscal year and even larger military outlays later.

STOCKPILING — PRESIDENT Truman asked Congress for an extra $600,000,000 to step up stockpiling of strategic materials needed for national defense. The new funds would go to buy such things as natural rubber and tin and to reactivate World War II aluminum plants.

Reds — Chairman John S. Wood, D., Ga., said his House Un-American activities committee will start work next week on a new Communist - control bill. He said the committee hoped to work out legislation to force Red front organizations to submit their names and membership lists with the Justice department.

Dickie Miller Is Reported Better

Dickie Miller, 10, of Eastland, who was injured Thursday in an accident, is reported to be improved but not out of danger, in a Coleman hospital.

Dickie is the son of Mrs. Florence Miller of Eastland. They were visiting on the Brown Ranch south of Coleman, when Dickie was injured while riding horseback.

Victor Cornelius, uncle of the boy, and his family returned from Coleman Friday, but will go back Sunday.

Glenn and Robert Miller, brothers of Dickie are at his bedside.

CHAPLAIN LEADS MEDICS TO WOUNDED—John Soritk, a Medical Corpsman from La Crescenta, Calif., is dried by Chaplain Arthur E. Mills of Santa Anna, Calif., after Soritk drove into a roadside ditch to escape enemy shells. Chaplain Mills has led medics to wounded men on several occasions. (NEA Telephoto by Ed Hoffman).

Former Eastland Girl Co-Author Of Book On Germans

Ann Stringer, formerly of Eastland, is the co-author of a recent book entitled, "German Faces."

Mrs. Stringer was born in Eastland in 1918, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Harrell. At that time Mr. Harrell was tax collector here. The Harrells presently live in Kilgore.

Henry Ries of New York City is the co-author. Mrs. Stringer attended Tyler Junior College, S.M.U. and the University of Texas, where she studied Journalism. In 1941 she married Bill Stringer, a Texan, and they both worked with the United Press.

They went on assignment to New York, South America and finally Europe where Mr. Stringer was killed in France in 1944.

Mrs. Stringer then became a war correspondent for the United Press and she filed the first news stories of the meeting of Russian and American armies at the Elbe. She met Henry Ries in 1947 while both were covering stories in the Russian territory. They were married two years later.

The book is written as a portrait of the people, large and small, who must remake Germany. It is generously spotted with pictures.

Critics have said that the emotional impact of each section is so intense as to be almost first-hand experience. The sections covered are Berlin, Mittenwald, Essen and Bonn.

Predicted Red Strategy

BOSTON, Mass., July 29 (UP)—Gen. George S. Patton, Jr., famed World War II commander, predicted on his death bed that Russian post-war strategy would be to "create puppet governments and raise puppet armies" to weaken the Western World.

Homefront Hit By Wartime Boom In Prices

Government Figures Show Public Buying Forcing Prices Up

By Charlotte G. Moulton

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 29 (UP)

—The U. S. economic homefront was marked today with all the signs of a wartime boom, including rising prices and employment, record sales and hoarding.

Government figures showed that shoppers were out on a buying spree to lay in big supplies of consumer goods and the heavy purchasing was forcing prices steadily upward. At the same time, stepped-up defense production was absorbing the jobless.

The Bureau of Labor statistics reported that wholesale prices of commodities on its "sensitive list" climbed 3.8 per cent. Eleven of the 28 commodities stood at their highest levels of the year.

SOME INDIVIDUAL COMMODITIES made spectacular gains, the Bureau said. Rubber prices jumped 68.4 per cent in the past five weeks.

The Agriculture department disclosed that farm prices rose 6 1/2 per cent between June 15 and July 15 to reach their highest point in a year and a half. Livestock prices rose the most, foreshadowing even higher retail meat prices.

These disclosures followed a recent Federal Reserve board report that department store sales last week skyrocketed a record 46 per cent above the level for the same week in 1949. During the first month of the Korean war, the board said, sales climbed 22 per cent above the same period last year.

SUGAR WAS THE PRIZE item of the hoarders. Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan took steps yesterday to convince these unpatriotic buyers that sugar hoarding is a waste of time. He announced that the United States is negotiating to buy another 150,000 tons of sugar from Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands and perhaps an extra 100,000 tons from Hawaii.

Under the pressure of increased business activity and stepped up defense production, unemployment appeared on the wane. Director Robert C. Goodwin of the bureau of employment security said industrial mobilization for the Korean war already is reflected in most production centers. He predicted employment would continue to rise throughout the summer.

Goodwin said so sharp a job upswing was reported just prior to the outbreak of war that nine areas were dropped from the Bureau's list of communities with critically serious unemployment problems. There are now 22 such areas—spots with 12 per cent or more of the labor force jobless—compared to 43 in January.

Trimble Services Set For Sunday

Funeral services for W. E. Trimble, 61, who died in a German hospital Thursday, will be held at 2:30 p. m. at the Methodist Church in Carbon.

Trimble died at 1:30 p. m. Thursday following a heart attack early Thursday morning.

He had been postmaster at Carbon for about ten years. Trimble was a member of the Methodist church and the Masons. He was a past grand master of the Masons.

A Masonic burial service will be held at the Carbon cemetery following the church service. Hammet funeral directors will be in charge of burial.

Survivors include his wife, one son, John Edward Trimble, Indianapolis, Indiana, one brother, E. R. Trimble, Carbon and a sister, E. H. Boyette, Austin.

Americans Stop Reds In Center

MacArthur Spokesman Says Reds Have Lost 31,000 Troops So Far; They're Drafting South Koreans

By Earnest Hoberecht

United Press Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Sunday, July 30 (UP)—American troops, inspired by a fighting no-retreat order from their commanding general, held their positions today along the blazing 200-mile Korean front.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said in his midnight summary that "increasing numbers of United Nations ground units" have contained the Communist threat on the Southern front, where the North Koreans had thrust to within 50 air line miles of the American base port of Pusan.

It had been reported earlier that American units from Okinawa had been rushed into the battle on the Southern front.

On the central front, where the Communists are swinging their heaviest punch in an effort to break through and drive U. S. forces into the sea before reinforcements can arrive, MacArthur reported two American divisions had hurled back repeated enemy drives.

"There was no appreciable change in the vital central sector of fighting, where the best Communist divisions are employed," MacArthur said. "Repeated attempts to break through defensive positions of the 1st cavalry and 25th division troops have been thrown back."

LT. GEN. WALTON H. WALKER, American commander in Korea, warned his men to halt their retreats or face annihilation. He said in a grim speech at the front that there will be no Korean Dunkerque—no last minute evacuation by sea. The Americans, he said, must stand now or be butchered at Pusan.

MacArthur confirmed that the Red columns, encircling the American positions on the South, have advanced as far East as Koechang, which is only 40 miles Southwest of the American defense base of Taegu.

ALTHOUGH THE COMMUNISTS sweep along the coast made "little progress" today, MacArthur said it had rolled 10 miles East of Hadong.

On the East coast, South Korean troops made slight gains in the fighting around Yongdok, 88 miles North of Pusan, but the enemy still held the town. Five and eight-inch guns from U. S. Naval vessels continued to blast at the Communists in the area.

IN THE MOUNTAINS 40 TO 50 miles Northwest of Yongdok, the Communists were putting new

WEATHER

By United Press

The weatherman had good news for most of Texas today.

He said the rain which has plagued North and West Texas during the early part of the week was on the way out.

A few scattered thunder-showers may be expected in both East and West Texas over the week end. But, generally, the weather will be dry.

The only precipitation reported to the Dallas weather bureau early this morning was in extreme Northeast Texas—

The Loves of Carmen By SOPHIE KERR

XXVI IN Cordova, Carmen—even as Pablo said—was having a wonderful time. Her eyes were fever bright as she whirled in a wild dance. She danced in the main room of Lucas' house, a beautiful house, rich and luxurious. Her host sprawled on a couch, watching her. She danced with half a dozen young Spaniards, matadors, picadors and other friends of her kind, and she devised her dance to utilize all of her partners—going from one to the other, flirting, advancing, retreating—first with this one, then with that one. But all the time her attention was centered on Lucas as though she danced for him alone.

XXVII IN Lucas' house late that night, Carmen laid out the fortune-telling cards with great care. She said, "The cards never lie to a seer, my friend." But she looked moody, and her mind was not on the cards. Lucas watched indulgently, more interested in Carmen than in the fortune. "They always tell the truth, Lucas," she went on. "And what are they telling you at this minute that makes you look like such a beautiful thundercloud, my Carmen?" She touched a card, her voice low. "They tell me that the thing I have been expecting is coming nearer, Lucas."

He studied his own reflection with despair and heard Dancaire's voice say, "Yes, you've changed." "We become what we do," Don Jose replied in a flash of bitter insight. "All these months I've been saying to myself—I am not Jose de Navarro. I'm not a deserter. I'm not a robber. I'm not a murderer. I am Don Jose Lizarrabengoa, a well-bred, well-behaved young man with a bright future who for the moment is playing at being a highwayman because he loves Carmen." He threw the mirror down. "But it isn't true. I'm no longer Don Jose. We become what we do. I am Jose de Navarro. I'm just as cruel and ugly and hard as Garcia was."

IN the cave Don Jose's face was reflected in the broken piece of mirror resting on Carmen's shelf. His face was a bad face, changed and fallen, harsh and ugly. His eyes were tortured and cruel.

Future management procedure will be determined on the basis of the data obtained from the new survey. Possible enhancement of the knowledge gained is expected through an exchange of information at a seminar on stocking fish ponds at the American Fisheries Society convention in Memphis, Tenn. in September.

The chief aquatic biologist explained that a vital part of the material for the Texas undertaking will come from the San Marcos state fish hatchery. Experimental ponds there have been stocked with various ratios of fish.

It was worn in the shape of her foot, with little frayed ribbons dangling from it. He was looking at it wonderingly when he heard the sound of a walking horse outside the cave.

"BULGE" FIGHT RECALLED—Maj. Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, Chief of the Army Chemical Corps, is being paid signal honor by the people of Belgium commemorating the heroic defense of Bastogne in December, 1944, and at the same time his portrait by Jes Schalkjker, a well known American artist, has been placed in the Grand Central Art Galleries in New York. Both events stem from the enthusiasm of the Belgians in conferring honorary citizenship on the American officer commanding the "Screaming Eagles" (101st Airborne Division) in the memorable action at Bastogne in the Battle of the Bulge.

gan to select garments from a heap in the corner and prepared to change his clothes. Dancaire said, "Don't be an idiot! You can't go into the city. They'll shoot you down without even thinking about it." At this Pablo crawled out of the cave and disappeared into the darkness. Dancaire went on in his cool detached way, "Be patient, amigo, she'll be back one of these days. You must get used to this sort of thing." Don Jose turned his head sharply to look at him, his eyes blazing. "Never!"

Businessmen Indicted By Circuit Court

PHILADELPHIA, July 29 (UP)—The Weirton Steel Co., its successor, National Steel Co., seven top officials of the two firms, and five officers of an independent company union have been adjudged guilty of contempt of court by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

The ruling yesterday was an aftermath of strikes in 1944 at the company's Weirton, W. Va., and Steubenville, O., plants.

The court held that the defendants violated a decree of May 18, 1943 ordering the company to disestablish two "company dominated" unions and to keep "hands off" the rights of workers to join any union of their choice.

The contempt judgment was based on the report of Pittsburgh attorney Drayton Heard, who acted as "special master" of the appeals court in the case.

The "Weirton Independent Union" was set up after the decree, the court said, for the principal purpose of blocking efforts of the United Steelworkers union (CIO) to organize workers at the two plants.

Beethoven Junior Music Club Honor Bill Eddleman, Fiancee

A group of members and former members of the Beethoven Junior Music Club entertained with a party Thursday evening honoring Bill Eddleman and his fiancee, Prudie Hardeman at the home of Mrs. A. F. Taylor, 700 South Seaman Street.

The couple were received to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March, followed by "I Love You Truly," played by Billie Hunt.

Games were played including, "What is Done At The Wedding" under the direction of Miss Hunt. The bride-to-be won the prize and was presented a fancy tea towel.

Games of advice were written by each guest and presented to the couple for safekeeping. Each guest then wrote a receipt on a card, and all were presented in a small receipt box, to the honorees.

The refreshment table was laid with a Maderia linen cloth and decorated with an arrangement of pink and white dahlia. Miss Merle Steen ladeled the cherry frosted punch, and Mrs. Bill Kendrick served the white cake squares, which were decorated in pink carrying out the pink and white color theme. Table appointments were in crystal. Alice Joyce Cushman and Lou Ann Corbell assisted in serving.

Music by Misses Hunt, Marilyn Morgan and Sally Cooper was played at intervals during the evening.

Sally Cooper presented the honorees with an electric clock in behalf of the group.

Present were Misses Alice Joyce Cushman, Marilyn Morgan, Billy Hunt, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Kendrick, Merle Steen, Billy Brasher, Adwan Saunders, Lou Ann Corbell, Jimmy Everett, Sally Cooper, the honorees, and the hostess.

PLUG 'N TRIGGER

By J. Fred Eder
United Press Special Correspondent

Bass are smart. Sometimes they're quite a bit smarter than the fisherman out to hook them.

This is trolling time for bass. They've forsaken hot, shallow water for the cool, dim depths of lakes.

Lots of smart fishermen know this, and they're keeping their strings well laden with plump bass by deep trolling.

But other fishermen aren't doing as well. They are the "shallow trollers" who just don't get down to the depths where the fish are summer vacationing.

Not only bass but other types of fish congregate in the deep waters during the summer months.

This means that the lure has to get very below the surface—sometimes 40 to 100 feet. And even with today's violent-action, deep-running plugs, such depths aren't always possible to maintain with standard nylon, silk or linen lines without the use of an encumbering sinker.

Wire lines have made deep-water fishing possible without annoying weights. However, using just an all-metal line isn't the whole answer.

Such lines often have a tendency to sink too abruptly behind the boat and bass are still in an alarmed state when they spot the lure.

The answer? Your reporter suggests a combination line of nylon or silk spliced with 10 to 20 feet of wire line. This combination eliminates the sinker and permits deep trolling with the lure well astern.

The longer the wire, the deeper the lure will go and a solid wire line is my preference over twister or braided wire. The solid wire will sink deep and also is more sensitive than twisted wire lines.

Always remember, however, that the longer the wire splice, the greater the depth your lure will travel. Furthermore, a long splice requires more nylon or silk line out behind the boat in order to keep a proper distance between boat and lure.

Braided wire lines give a less abrupt descent in deep trolling. If you're not quite sure of the proper distance between boat and lure, braided wire is our recommendation to initiate yourself into deep trolling. It's a bit easier to handle for the amateur making his first trying at snagging bass from the depths.

Whether you select the solid, twisted or braided wire lines, always pick one with smallest diameter and preferably of about 20 pounds test, never over 30 pounds.

With a deep trolling line arrangement and the floating type violent action deep-running lures, you have a good combination. A combination that will enable you to out-smart quite a few fish, even when other anglers say, "they ain't bitin'. It's too hot!"

Americans—

pressure along the Yongju-Andong and Tanyan-Yechon axis, MacArthur said the enemy made "slight gains" in those two drives. Walker said that any Communist breakthrough to Pusan would lead to "a butchery (of Americans) such as there has never been in history."

In Tokyo, a spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur estimated that American and South Korean forces already have killed or wounded 31,000 North Korean troops. He said altogether 500 North Korean prisoners have been taken by the American and South Korean forces.

The Communist command is drafting both North and South Koreans to fill the gap in their battle line, he said, and some are being flung into the fighting with only four days' training.

Major, Chaplain Draw DSCs After Heroic Actions

TOKYO, July 29 (UP)—A major who was killed leading an attack with a pistol and bayonet, and a Chaplain who stayed behind with the wounded abandoned in the face of a North Korean mass attack, were awarded Distinguished Service Crosses today.

Six other members of the 19th Infantry Regiment were awarded Distinguished Service Crosses for extraordinary heroism, 8th Army headquarters in Korea announced.

Thirteen members of the U. S. Military Advisory group in Korea received bronze star medals for meritorious service.

A posthumous decoration was conferred on Maj. John M. Cook, who entered military service from California and whose wife resides at Columbus, Ga.

The Reds penetrated American front lines near Taepyeongni on July 16 and placed a battalion command post under intense small arms fire, the announcement said. Cook led a counterattack.

He was instrumental in knocking out several automatic weapons by the use of hand grenades. Then he engaged the enemy at close quarters, killing one with his pistol and bayoneting another. "In this heroic action Maj. Cook was killed," the announcement said.

Chaplain Herman G. Felhoelter, of Cincinnati, O., voluntarily stayed behind to give spiritual comfort and aid to seriously wounded men who could not be evacuated in the face of an overwhelming night attack by superior North Korean forces on the Kum River north of Taejon.

"When last seen, Chaplain Felhoelter was still administering to the wounded," the army said. He was believed to have been killed. "His valorous deed was an inspiration to every member of the regiment."

Felhoelter entered military service from Ohio. His mother, Mrs. Mary Felhoelter, lives at Louisville, Ky.

Among these to get bronze star medals were these members of the military advisory group:

Corp. Elijah G. Johnson, (posthumously.) Medical Department, of Fountain, Ark., and Corp. Robert A. Pierce, Medical Department, of Hannibal, Mo.

BALANCING YOUR ACCOUNT

EVERYONE is interested as the seal performs his feat; for underneath is the slumbering concern that we may do as well at the end of the month, at Income Tax time, and ever at the close of the year, perhaps looking forward to the final settlement at the end of life itself.

BALANCING the account is never finished, as life goes on from one accounting time to another; the bank statement for the current month begins by unbalancing what we did only thirty days ago. Life is ever seeking a new form of achievement, giving us another set of figures to wrestle with. So we must look forward, with whatever anxiety we may feel, to the next accounting.

THE seal has succeeded well, but it did not do it the first time. Practice, hour after hour, made success possible. Try, try and try again; that is the rule of accounting. The man who has learned to make a daily check-up is well on the way to a successful weekly accounting. Children shy away from the test, as if it were something unreal, a form of persecution concocted by school teachers. Happy is the man who learns early that life needs continual checking and accounting. Happy is he too, if he forms the habit of making careful accounting, because he wants to know day by day how his account stands.

FINANCIAL accounts worry us perhaps out of proportion. Our really important accounting is with the inner person himself. Have I more friends than last year at this time? If not, why am I failing in friendship making? How do I stand in the matter of love and peace of mind and self-respect? Have I a firmer grip on my temper, better poise in meeting and dealing with my fellows? Is there more of genuine quality about my character than before? How am I doing as a man in the midst of his fellows? How much confidence does my family have in me? How much of happiness do we share together? Do I speak more kindly and smile more sincerely? The Church will help you in balancing the most important of all accounts.

YOU IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN YOU

Character is a by-product of the church. It is here that young and old alike are showered with benedictions that fortify and influence for a better citizenship and a stronger democracy. In the church the ministerial are making religious character. Statesmen today declare that the church alone can furnish leadership to handle the affairs of state in these perilous times. Then we with our children should go to the church of our choice on Sunday. You in the Church and the Church in you — form a combination for good. Be a regular CHURCH GOER and a daily BIBLE READER.

Hitch Hike To Kum River Valley Might Be Nice If You Like Death Stalking You Without Much Noise

By Robert Bennyhoff
United Press Staff Correspondent
ON THE HWANGANG FRONT
Korea, July 29 (UP)—Let's hitch hike to the battlefield.

We'll catch a ride on a truck first and see how the boys at the air strip like this rain and soupy weather. They're the guys that fly the "Grasshoppers"—the little Piper Cubs and the L-5s—to spot enemy forces and direct artillery fire behind enemy lines.

They're sitting in a tent studying detail maps of the battlefield area. Capt. Harold Mattocks, of Paul's Valley, Okla., peers anxiously out the open end of the tent. "I sure hope the clouds raise a little so we can go back up and look for those Red troop columns," he mutters.

First Lt. A. R. Evans, of Salt Lake City, says, "yes, I sure hope we dropped those supplies on the right hilltop. You could hardly see the wingtips up there."

He explains that a few American units have been isolated and that the Grasshopper Boys are dropping in ammunition and supplies.

We'll leave talking and catch a ride on this truck loaded with ammunition. Corp. Archie Weiskittle, of Cincinnati, O., asks, "where's your steel helmet, sir? This here's shooting country."

You explain you're a correspondent and helmets are a nuisance. Then you sit on the ammo boxes and bounce around like a sack of potatoes on a reducing machine for the next 10 minutes. Three ambulances go by, each carrying four wounded. You notice the refugees plodding beside the highway leading from the battlefield. They're slowing traffic, and you hear the truck driver swearing as he dodges along.

It's about noon, so let's get off this bouncing truck and see if we can mooch lunch with an artillery outfit.

We walk about half a mile through mud and finally locate Sgt. William Peck, of Miami, Fla. He gives you corned beef hash, string beans, hot home-made bread, cole slaw, corn, and canned peaches with coffee.

You tell him it is good and he says it ain't fancy but it's good chow.

We climb on another truck—this time carrying a bunch of young kids sitting on a load of rations and water.

You ask where they're going, and Richard Radcliff, of Lancaster, O., gestures up the road and says, "our boys up there are getting it hot today and we're going to reinforce them."

He looks awfully young and you ask him his age. He says, "twenty, sir, but I'll be 21 in three weeks."

You cross a small river and notice three GI's wading down stream with duck obviously on their mind. Quacking water fowl scot ahead of them.

A Colonel explains the situation to you a couple of hundred yards up a green hill just as pretty as any in Ohio, California or Arkansas.

A Second Lieutenant—Robert Phelley, of St. Louis—sits staring unhappily at a can of C-rations labeled "hamburger."

"Not much to look forward to, is there," he says as he opens the can.

"Nice place," you say to a GI, Pvt. Allen S. Rhodes, of Charlottesville, Va. "Nice evening, isn't it?"

"I've seen better," he says.

He looks past you at the men marching to new positions on the road below and says, "I wonder that's the way it's going and how long before they zero us in," coming up in this green and deadly Kum River valley.

Fifty Killed In Brazilian Plane Crash

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, July 29 (UP)—Fifty persons, including one American, were killed last night in Brazil's worst airplane disaster.

A Panair Do Brazil four-engine Constellation struck a high tension wire and crashed in flames on a hill as it was coming in for a landing at Porto Alegre, 700 miles South of here.

The American was Ralph Motley, 48, of Richmond, Ind., head of the Atlantic Refining Company in Brazil, a long time resident of this country.

The company, an affiliate of Pan American World Airways, said the plane was on a routine flight from Rio De Janeiro to Porto Alegre.

MOSCOW, July 29 (UP)—Foreign observers said today Russia may walk out of the United Nations again if the Security Council refuses to seat Communist China.

Koreans Don't Railroad Like Americans Like

By Robert Bennyhoff
United Press Staff Correspondent
SOMEWHERE IN KOREA,
July 28 (UP)—Corp. Frank W. Coffman of Chicago, an American GI trying to run a Korean railroad, said today:

"This ain't railroading. It's murder. This ain't a railroad. It's a madhouse."

Coffman, a member of the 1st Cavalry Division, is rapidly growing gray because of the peculiarities of Korean railroadmen who seem to be under the impression they are operating a Toonerville trolley line.

"During the last war in Europe, I did lots of railroading, but it was never like this," Coffman said. "These Koreans have their own way of doing things and you can't change their minds about anything."

First Lt. Charles N. Wolsans of Salt Lake City, Utah, is another Army railroadman who is trying to bring order out of chaos on a Korean railroad.

"For two weeks when we first got here we discovered the guy who yelled the loudest got his train out first," Wolsans said. "And we still have one big problem even now—to get the right train to the right place at the right time."

Capt. A. W. Smith of Atlanta, Ga., said Korean engineers want to stop at every point along the road "to take a nap or visit with friends."

"We finally solved the problem by putting GI's in the cars and the Korean engineers decided they could do without a few stops here and there," Smith said.

Sgt. Earnest Henton of Fresno, Calif., said "The Korean engineers all want to go South. They don't want to go North."

Capt. Dayton Cagle of East Moline, Ill., said the "situation is now so confused the Koreans can't make head nor tails out of it."

"The only solution is to get a regular American railroad battalion to run the Korean railroad," Cagle added.
