TANK-LED KOREANS STRIKE HARD

South Koreans Retreat Three Miles Towards Taegu

By Earnest Hoberecht

United Press Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, Friday, Aug. 18 (UP)—Tank-led Communist forces some 30,000 strong struck within 20 miles of Taegu today in an offensive which sent South Korean troops reeling back two to three miles.

The assault on a 15-mile front dented the allied beachhead at its northeast corner. But spokesman at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters said today the setback north of Taegu did not appear to be a major breakthrough.

"As far as we know the North Koreans still are pressing the South Korean positions in the north," the spokesman said. "The South Koreans are giving some ground, but we do not know whether it is a small penetration or something bigger."

Southwest of Taegu, U. S. Marines and infantry slashed into the Communist bridgehead in the elbow of the Naktong river in what was described from the field as the second big American offensive push of the war.

The two battles appeared to mark the start of a showdown along the Naktong and on the approaches of Taegu.

The first Marine brigade captured a strategic height at the southwest corner of the Naktong bridgehead in the first hours of the offensive. The U. S. 24th division overran Communist positions on the Northern end of the pocket.

But the U. S. 8th Army headquarters reported that the North Korean drive toward Taegu made that sector at the northwest corner of the allied beachhead in Korea, "The most serious one."

UNITED PRESS CORRESPONDENT

Rutherford Posts reported from the 8th Army headquarters that the Communists opened their big push between Waegwan and Kunwi, and aimed it squarely at Taegu. Waegwan is 12 miles northwest of Taegu, on the Naktong river, and Kunwi is 25 miles north of the capital.

Tanks led the Communist advance and a heavy artillery bombardment softened up the Korean Republic positions ahead of it. The penetration of two to three miles would put the Communist vanguard north of Taegu some 17 miles from the capital, depending on just where the biggest gains were made.

While the Communists were attacking farther northeast, 1st cavalry division infantrymen recaptured the bloody summit of hill 303, a mile northeast of Waegwan today for the second time in 24 hours.

In the battle of the Naktong bulge, the 8th Army communique reported that Marines were making slow progress against "very strong enemy resistance."

The Marines and infantrymen began their joint offensive at 8 a. m. (5 p. m. Wednesday CDT) in an all-out effort to liquidate the eight-mile deep enemy bridgehead and kill or route the 10,000 to 12,000 troops in the bulge.

SIMULTANEOUS WITH THE start of the new offensive the American command belatedly disclosed that the Marines and two Army regiments had abandoned a 20-mile strip of the south coast seized in the first American offensive of the war last week.

The 1st Marine brigade and the 5th and 58th Army regimental combat teams fell back Sunday and Monday from heights overlooking the coastal city of Chinju to a new line running almost due south from the Naktong elbow. Some Army units abandoned field guns and other equipment to 1,000 to 3,000 Reds by-passed in the original advance.

The offensive had achieved its main objective of breaking up enemy preparations for an assault on the key American supply port of Pusan, 53 miles west of Chinju.

Higher Production Slated AUSTIN, Aug. 17 (UP)—The Texas Railroad Commission met today for its monthly oil production hearing, with all indications pointing to a higher production allowable for September.

12 Killed In County

ONE HURT CRITICALLY WHEN CAR OVERTURNS WEST OF RANGER LAST NIGHT; TWO OTHERS ALSO INJURED

Three Ranger teen-agers were injured last night, one of them seriously, when the car in which they were riding hit a soft shoulder about three miles west of town, and turned over at 9 p. m., Wednesday.

Louis Martinez, 17, was hospitalized with head and chest injuries. His condition was critical this morning according to a report by the West Texas Hospital. Richard Flores, 19, and Antonio Gomez, 18, were treated for minor injuries and released.

Flores, reported driver and owner of the car, said that when the car hit the shoulder just west of the curve by the Lone Star loading rack, it spun and spun until he lost consciousness. He and Martinez were thrown clear of the car. Gomez crawled out after the car turned over and finally came to a halt bottom side up. A Killingsworth ambulance brought the two boys into town.

Highway Patrolmen Terry Barrett worked the accident. Barrett said that the death last week of a Rising Star man, who was hit by an automobile about a month ago, brought the total highway deaths to 12 in the county.

Cisco Store Observes 25th Anniversary

Nick Miller, the Man's Store, will observe its 25th anniversary in Cisco with a special event Friday.

Friday will also mark the beginning of the store's annual summer sale.

Twenty-five years ago this week The Man's Store had its beginning in Cisco. It was operated until January 1, 1936 as a partnership by Nick Miller and Dick Lauderdale, Miller becoming sole owner on that date.

The store is located in new quarters with the beginning of the 26th year at 616 Avenue D and moved from the building just south of the First National Bank.

THE FRONT OF THE BUILDING is finished with light brown tile. Windows are entirely new with the newest spot lighting. Background windows are of glass, enabling window shoppers to see the back of the store.

A feature of the interior is the new slim-line lighting fixtures which add much to the store's attractiveness.

The building is fully insulated and is cooled by Frigidaire refrigerated air conditioning. Store fixtures are new.

THE MAN'S STORE WILL continue to handle and feature nothing but nationally advertised lines of men's wearing apparel, along with a few witemens of women's wear.

Miller termed the modernization program as "our effort to equip The Man's Store better to serve its customers." He pointed out that "our success has always depended upon our friends, and we will never forget that fact."

"Many of you have already seen our improvements," Miller said. "But in case you have not, we will be genuinely pleased to have you drop in on our 25th birthday."

First Ranger Cotton, Peanuts To Get Prize

RANGER, Texas, Spl. —The farmer bringing in the first load of 1950 peanuts to be marketed in Ranger, and the one bringing in the first bale of cotton, 1950 crop, to be ginned at the local gin, will each be $50 richer, according to W. F. Creager, chairman of the agriculture committee of the Ranger Chamber of Commerce.

These bonuses will be given by the Ranger firms through the Chamber's agriculture committee, and the Ranger firms will also donate $100 toward defraying the cost and expenses of an Eastland county exhibit at the State Fair of Texas this fall, Creager states.

The first load of peanuts to be eligible for the $50 prize must weigh 10,000 pounds or more, grade 70 or better, have sound mature kernels, containing less than nine per cent moisture. The test will be made by a federal-state approved grader stationed in Ranger.

J. H. (Hoover) Pittman of the Flatwoods community was the winner of the prize for bringing in the first load of peanuts last year. It weighed 14,212 pounds and was brought in on Sept. 23. No bonus was given for the first bale of cotton last year due to the fact that the local gin got a late start, but the gin will be ready to go early this year and a good run is anticipated by the owners, T. D. Lauderdale, a gin man of many years experience, will operate the gin.

Plans Made To Build US 80 Wider

Construction of a four-lane highway between Cisco and Eastland should start sometime in September, a spokesman for the highway department said today.

Construction is now being completed on a four lane road between Abilene and Cisco. Money for the Cisco-Eastland construction has been appropriated. The county is now working to get right-a-ways for the extension.

Plans also call for the highway between Eastland and Ranger to be widened and straightened at a later date.

The Breckenridge - Eastland highway state No. 6 is being black hot-topped and work should be completed this week.

The hot asphalt insures a water tight seal.

Work on the Morton Valley road is going ahead and plans call for the road to be finished by the middle of October.

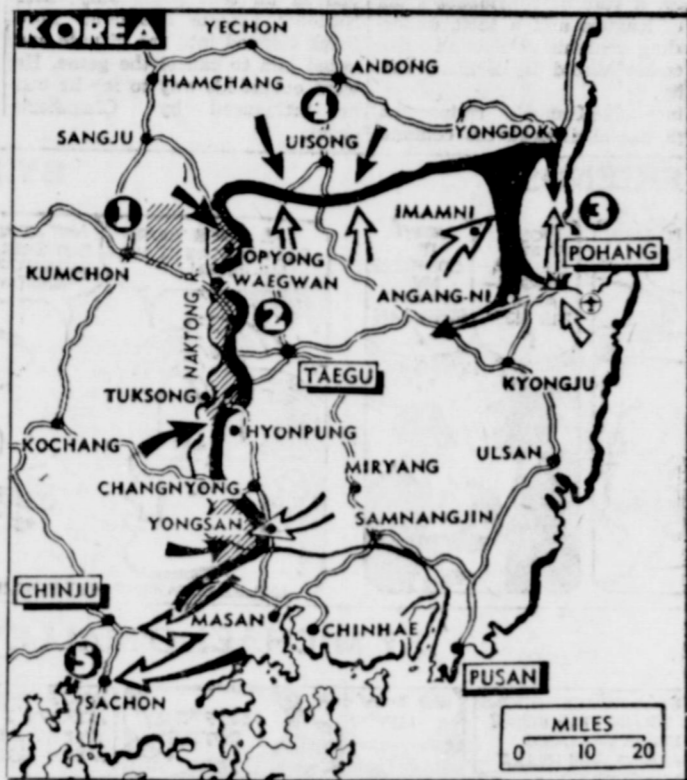

If it is not completed by that time, work will have to be postponed until April 1 as asphalt can not be poured during the winter months.

Contracts call for the Morton Valley road to be widened and for two new bridges to be built, one over Colony creek and one near the Lone Star plant.

B-29'S HIT NORTH KOREANS—In largest air raid of the Korean war, (1), 98 B-29's dropped 850 tons of 500-pound bombs on a 24 square mile area (shaded rectangle) where communist troops were concentrated for all out offensive. Along Naktong-River-Taegu front (2) First Cavalry troops drove Reds out of Waegwan, wiped out an enemy bridgehead south of the town and contained a second one to the northeast. North Korean attempts to break out of their main bridgehead below Changnyong were repulsed. From the Pohang front (3) Reds produced a new threat to Taegu when they took Agang-ni in force and penetrated along the Pohang-Taegu highway to within 28-miles of the South Korean capital. South Koreans continued drive to cut Red columns in vicinity of Imamni. On Northern front (4) South Koreans stopped enemy drive and drove Reds back in counterattack. In the south (5), army and Marines opened up some 13,000 isolated enemy troops in their drive toward Chinju. (NEA Telephoto).

New Van Makes Lovelace Service More Efficient, Safer, Faster

Lovelace Transfer and Storage of Eastland has recently added to its equipment, a new furniture drop van.

The new van, according to Tom Lovelace, manager of the firm, will enable quicker and safer handling of furniture on long distance hauls.

Built in Mansfield, Louisiana, the van was picked up in Dallas. It will be used for long distance hauling, Lovelace said.

Tom Lovelace, Jr., who has spent his entire life in connection with the business, will be the driver of the truck.

The van was purchased from Nabors company. It is a 28 foot van with walls 8 foot high. It has side doors for more convenient loading and unloading.

Lovelace Transfer and Storage has two other vans for local hauling.

Tom Lovelace, Sr. started to work here in 1921 for Eastland Transfer and Storage and worked for them for seven years. In 1929 he went into business for himself here giving him a total of 29 years expressed perfect satisfaction if they can get one more teacher for high school instruction. Elliott said that he understood there were representatives from other towns in the county at the meeting.

The county school superintendent said that he didn't think that this was an outgrowth of recent U. S. Supreme Court decisions granting Negroes the right to enter Texas and Oklahoma colleges.

The superintendent said that he wanted the best possible colored school in the county that can be built for colored people.

Elliott, who started work early last year to get a Negro high school teacher, said that Negro parents were very nice and expressed their appreciation when he contacted them while getting transfers.

There are only 65 Negro scholastics, boys and girls between the ages of 6 to 18, in the county. Elliott estimates that only 40 or 45 of these scholastics enter school.

Elliott said that no Negro leaders have left him with the impression that they want to have Negro students going to white schools. They have asked only for a colored high school, Elliott said.

THE TEXAS ELECTRIC SERVICE Company deserves a great deal of credit for the new street lights.

They installed the new lights at no charge to the city. The lights afford a great improvement in the city's appearance at night, as well as serving to make the city a brighter and safer one.

As you probably have noticed each of the new lamps gives out a great deal more light than the old type.

The only expense to the city will be a slight increase in the amount of electricity used.

The company worked hard to complete the installation of the lights so that they would be ready for the Horned Toad Derby. Men could be seen working late in the evenings preparing the system.

We have heard several compliments on the new system, and it certainly deserves them.

HIGH SCHOOL COACH WENDELL Siebert shook his slightly upon the adjournment of the first meeting of the 1950 Maverick footballers.

Appearing not to be too discouraged, however, he said simply, "We have a lot of work to do."

Looking down the schedule, it was concluded that on paper the team did not stand to win a game. On the field, however, the paper teams often prove to be all wet and fall apart.

It was far too early to give up on the Mavericks. There is little likelihood that they will win a championship, but it is probable that they will play a good grand of football whenever they go on the field. That is what the fans expect.

Some new rules may prove to be a little confusing this year.

ONE IS THE RULE WHICH ALLOWS each team five time outs this year. Any time a coach substitutes while the clock is running, however is counted a time out.

Another change is time outs during the last two minutes of the game. Previously when time outs were called at that stage, the watch started again when the ball was snapped for the next play.

This year the timers watch will start when the referee warns the teams to get ready to play at the minute and one-half mark.

Ignorance of this rule could cost a team a ball game.

Another rule, the one saying that an offensive blocker's hands must be touching his jersey, is likely to be tightened up this year. And a block must be below the shoulders.

Other rule changes are minor, and are expected to have little effect on the game. Tightening of the blocking rule is to try to check facial injuries.

Rule changes and all, however, it is still football. And in our books, when it is played well, no other game can beat it for color and thrills.

TENTATIVE PLANS MADE TO START HIGH SCHOOL IN EASTLAND FOR NEGRO STUDENTS; WILL BE FIRST

County Superintendent, H. C. Elliott, said that he hadn't heard of any attempts by Negro students to enroll in white high schools in Ranger, Eastland or Cisco.

Dr. G. C. Boswell, school superintendent in Ranger, also answered a Ranger Times reporter's question as to whether Negro students had tried to enroll here in the negative. He said that no Negro students had talked to him about enrolling in Ranger white schools.

Elliott is now working on a plan to transport Negro high school age children from Cisco and Ranger for instruction at

Flash Burns From Atomic Blast Kill Many; But Protection Easy

By Joseph L. Myler
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 WASHINGTON, Aug. 17 (UP)—Flash and flame burns killed 50 per cent of the 106,000 persons who died in the A-Bomb attacks on Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

They accounted for perhaps 75 per cent of the total casualties. The flame burns were just what anybody would suffer in any fire. The flash burns were peculiar to the A-bomb. They caused 20 to 30 per cent of the Japanese deaths.

In its newly published report on "the effects of Atomic weapons" the government warns civil defense officials that by far the greatest number of casualties, if the A-bombs hit this country, will be burn victims.

Flash burns are at once easy and difficult to protect against. The bomb's heat rays travel in straight lines—so all you have to do is get around a corner. They are not very penetrating—so almost any sort of shielding will suffice. Loose light-colored clothing is good protection.

But the bomb pours one-third of its tremendous energy into heat radiation and does it in three seconds. This so-called thermal radiation comes from a ball of fire which as far away as 5.7 miles is brighter than 100 suns.

Most of the heat flashes out in the first second. So at Japan thousands of persons had no chance to avoid exposure to hands, arms, neck, and face. It inflicted light burns out to two miles, moderate burns 1 3/4 miles and severe to fatal burns at shorter distances.

Worse for the Japanese was the fact that the flash heat started fires in combustible material as far away as 1 1/4 miles. Fire caused by this and by such things as upset stoves, broken gas lines, and short circuits aggravated the damage done directly by the bomb and multiplied the casualties.

At Hiroshima a fire storm developed. Fanned by intruding winds it burned over an area of 4.4 square miles.

The fires burned until they went out of their own accord. At Hiroshima 70 per cent of the fire fighting equipment was crushed in the collapse of buildings. At Nagasaki water pressure failed because of broken mains.

From the Japanese experience, the government derived this advice to U. S. cities:

Make fire stations bomb proof—at least within half a mile of target center. Underground construction or concrete walls two feet thick should do this.

Fireproof your buildings. Keep combustible material—particularly if it's black because black absorbs heat—away from windows. Make sure your water supply is sufficient. Duplicate facilities may be indicated.

If you build firebreaks, make them at least 100 feet wide.

Washington U Builds Novel Ball Stadium

By Robert Hertzler
 United Press Sports Writer
 SEATTLE, (UP)—The University of Washington is putting the finishing touches of a stadium addition that looks like no other structure built by man for giving spectators a place to sit.

The "annex" to Washington's conventional horseshoe has a vague similarity to the classic lines of a county fair grandstand. Designed on the theory that a cage suspended over the playing field is the best place to watch a game the husky stadium goes nowhere but up.

Concrete and steel valued at $1,700,000 soars skyward in zig-zag angles to a point 178 feet above the gridiron.

Spectators, 15,000 of them, will perch on two covered decks built at so steep a pitch that the faint-hearted will hang onto their seats for fear of falling out onto the playing field.

But should a fan get a seat in the 59th row, he won't be winded when he gets there. Two corkscrew ramps, 107 feet in diameter spiral up the rear of the structure. To football teams could run abreast of the gradual grade.

One full turn around the corkscrew and a "concourse" is reached. The concourse runs the length of the stadium and along it are concessions, rest rooms and tunnels leading out to the middle level of the lower tier of seats. Another turn on the spiral and there's another concourse, more concessions, more rest rooms and tunnels leading out onto the upper tier.

Perhaps the most welcome advance from the spectator point of view are the seats. Each seat has a back and at the point where seat and spectator meet, it's curved to fit the fan.

The press box will be suspended from the edge of the cantilevered steel roof, not unlike the gondola of a blimp. The photographers and television crews will have a penthouse on top of the roof, which will give the televiewer the feeling that he's watching the game from a helicopter.

The "box" will extend from one 20 yard line to the other and sports a lounge where coffee and sandwiches will be served. Not even the scouts have been forgotten. They get special closed compartments from which to view the Huskies' offense.

The field below will be ordinary turf, except that it will be moved over 15 yards before the season opens Sept. 23 so that Washington and Kansas State can play smack in front of the new "annex."

It Takes Quigg Four Hours To Find Helmet In Tokyo, So Near Fighting

By H. D. Quigg
 United Press Staff Correspondent
 TOKYO (UP)—This hot, humid and disheveled city is right around the corner from a shooting war and yet strangely far away from it. It took me four hours today to scrape up a helmet and a canteen.

with a helmet, helmet, liner, canteen and belt, mess kit complete with cutlery and a blanket.

You start equipping yourself when you arrive in Tokyo by getting from the army an identification card with your picture and fingerprints on it and a "men's ration card" which entitles you to buy cigarettes, candy and such like from the army PX.

The PX, by the way, is "an establishment." It is a seven-story affair, with spacious counters displaying a bewildering assortment of oddments for sale.

You can buy lipstick or perfume. But they don't have any notebooks or absorbent cotton, which were the two items I wanted.

"Maybe sometime have — but not now," said the Japanese girl clerk at the stationary counter where I asked for notebooks.

This puzzling shortage extends to a number of things. There may be first aid kits in Tokyo, but no one could find one for me, not even the Sergeant.

Before you can make any headway at all in Tokyo, you must change your dollars into two kinds of money—Yen notes and Military Scrip.

The Yen are used for dealings with the Japanese. The Scrip is occupation currency for use in dealing with the Army. It's against the law to have a crisp American greenback on your person.

The first step in getting a reporter's equipment for covering the Army in Korea consists of walking in and asking George D. Crissey a former newspaperman who now is in MacArthur's public information office, for a map of the place. Then you get an order to buy from the Commissary some green fatigue clothing, which the Army always wears in the field, a green cap, a raincoat, combat boots, wool socks, and two musette bags to carry the stuff in.

When I got through with my shopping, I still needed the helmet, canteen, and mess kit. I hailed a Japanese taxi and asked the driver if he thought he could find an army outfit where I could explain my problem to a likely Sergeant.

"Yiss, yiss," replied the driver, as we roared off through streets thick with pedestrians and bicycles.

My search was not a very simple one. I kept the cab for three hours for a fare of 2,160 Yen, which is $6. After we found the right Sergeant, who shall be nameless for obvious reasons, it took him around an hour to scrounge the items I needed.

The rest of my equipment consists of a compass, a king size pocket knife, a bottle of pills for dysentery which our science editor gave me before I left New York, and a pair of spectacles which have laminated lenses to prevent shattering. These specs have two layers of glass with a layer of oil between them. They're built on the principle of the early shatterproof auto windshields and after a while they fog up around the edges the way the auto windshields used to do.

TEXAS NEWS BRIEFS

HOUSTON, Aug. 1 (UP)—The Tennessee Gas Transmission company reported today an increased net income of $2,731,386 for the second quarter of 1950.

The announcement said earnings from operation of the company's natural gas pipeline system during the second quarter amounted to 49 cents per share on the 4,666,667 shares of common stock outstanding, making total earnings of $1.78 per share for the 12 months ending June 30.

Earnings for the same period in 1949 were 43 cents and $1.57 respectively based on the same number of shares.

HOUSTON, Aug. 17 (UP)—The health department reported today one new city polio case, one from Harris county and two out-of-county cases.

COLLEGE STATION, Aug. 17—Historic old Aggeland Inn, for many years the only state owned hotel in the nation, has gone out of business.

This fall, the inn will become headquarters of the newly authorized basic division at Texas A and M College which is headed by Dean John R. Bertrand.

The basic division will take over most of the lower floor and the upstairs guest rooms will be used by the Memoria student center as reserve rooms.

BALTOON, Aug. 17—Home owners in west Baytown today sought the source of a chemical which has discolored hundreds of houses near Black Duck bay and in the new Britain-Cravens addition.

The chemical is turning glisting white houses into patches of yellowish gray. Porch columns were disfigured and the wood floors of many porches covered solidly with a greasy coating.

The chemical invasion was first noticed yesterday morning. City manager C. D. Middleton and Fire Chief A. H. Lintelman who made an inspection tour of the area said it appeared to be some "kind of chemical."

HOUSTON, Aug. 17—Houston draft board officials figured today that 37 per cent of the men ordered to report for pre-induction physical examinations last week were found acceptable for military service.

The boards ordered 404 men to report last week, and 150 were accepted. However, only 275 of the 404 actually reported, since the list was reduced after draft records were brought up to date. Authorities said there were a "few" delinquents.

ay That Babe Rest And Peace

tside the gates "Babe Ruth ma." It was a salve to base-

A nine-foot monument marks e Babe's final resting place to-day. And as you sit and look at it you see in the mind's eye the Babe you saw him many times: Up at the plate in Yankee Stadium; mincing around a golf course on those tooth-pick legs; hale, robust—and bitter—in a bowling alley a day in 1946 when the Yankees were going south for spring training; and a weak man on those last visits to the stadium.

Best of all you remember him robust—and bitter—in that bowling alley the day the Yanks went south.

"I guess the team is off by now, eh?" he asked in that booming voice.

Then he rubbed that unbelievably bulbous nose with a huge hand and barked abruptly:

"Why didn't they ever give me a chance to manage? How did they know I wouldn't have made good?"

That had been the Babe's big dream as he came to the end of his playing days and the Yankee manager, Little Miller Huggins, died.

But the Yankees never gave him that chance. It was suggested that he take a trip to the minors and prove himself a manager. The Babe never was a minor leaguer, so it was something he just couldn't conceive.

That refusal, without a chance, was a millstone around his neck as the years marched past. It was a constant complaint, as he golfed and bowled after turning his back on the game he loved. And it still was there, later, as the flesh weakened and the Babe played his last few innings.

He would have given his records—that "big 60" of 1927, and his untouchable total of 714 homers—to run the show from a big league bench. But you look at that monument in Gate of Heaven cemetery and read the inscription:

"May the divine spirit that animated Babe Ruth to win the crucial game of life inspire the youth of America."

The Babe must know, somehow, that he's still the manager for an awful lot of kids. And you know that the Babe isn't bitter any more.
