U.S. MARINES DRIVE AHEAD OF SCHEDULE; APPROACHING SEOUL

YOU NAME IT

By Everett Taylor

The Humble football kickoff banquet held at the Connellee Hotel Thursday was well attended with representatives from all the surrounding cities present. Several coaches and newspaper men were present at the affair in addition to the Humble people. A good meal and a program which included a movie were awaiting those attending. The movies, narrated by Kern Tips, was a review of the outstanding football action in the Southwest conference last fall. It was announced that Humble would again sponsor broadcasts of all Southwest conference games this fall, as televisive some games. Only those games which are sell-outs are allowed to be televisive according to a SWC ruling.

Ves Box, Charlie Jordan and Bill Michaels will be back again along with Tips to do the announcing. First broadcasts of the season will be on September 23, and will include the Baylor-Wyoming tilt; the Texas A.M.-Nevada game; T.C.U. vs Kansas, S.M.U. and Georgia Tech, and the University of Texas and Texas Tech. Christmas is again "just around the corner," at least that is what the Department of Commerce says. This warning by the Dallas office of the commerce department is especially for those persons who are planning to send packages abroad. They should be mailed far enough in advance to miss the last minute rush, says the Dallas office.

Bearcat Claws Too Sharp; Mavericks Lose Again, 33 to 6

Striking with swiftness and power in the last half, Ballinger's Bearcats overwhelmed the Eastland Mavericks, 33-6, before a large crowd at Maverick Stadium Friday night. It appeared the Mavericks were going to make a close game of it when they bounced back to tie the score in the second quarter after Ballinger had taken a six-point lead. A last second touchdown in the second quarter gave the Ballinger team a lead which they never relinquished. Weakened by injuries and short on replacements, the Eastland team wilted in the second half before the powerful Bearcat attack. End Edie Haines went out early in the game after re-injuring the ankle he hurt against Coleman. Gerald Davis a star for Eastland in the tilt on defense, went out late in the game with an injury. Derrell Black and Edwin Aaron also played good ball for Eastland in the line. Eastland received the kickoff to start the game, with Doug King carrying to the 30 yard line on a good return. The Mavericks picked up nine yards on three power plays featuring King, but failed to make a first down on a fourth try and Ballinger took over on the Eastland 39. On the first play, Elroy Payne

Allied Offensive In South Goes Good Too; Taegu Breakthrough

United Press Staff Correspondent TOKYO, Sept. 16 (UP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur's nutcracker operation against the Communists in South Korea advanced with time-table precision today, with U. S. Marines almost within artillery range of Seoul and the Americans exploding from their positions all around their southern beachhead. A South Korean broadcast from Pusan even placed the Leathernecks and South Korean Marines inside Seoul in its southern section but front reports so far had not confirmed the broadcast. The Pusan radio, quoting a South Korean Army headquarters communique, said tank-led Americans and South Koreans were battling the fleeing Communists in street fighting at Yongdungop, a southern section of Seoul. General MacArthur's 11 p.m. Saturday communique said the Marines were astride the highway to Seoul and were meeting only "sporadic" resistance. Last reports placed them some six miles past the liberated port of Inchon where they stormed ashore yesterday and only about 12 miles from Seoul. MacArthur said "MacArthur had called on Communist Korean troops 'to surrender or die.'" MacArthur said the Marines had linked up the two wings of their separate landing areas, and that Southern Korean Marines were cleaning up the northern half of Inchon under an assignment to maintain law and order in the captured city.

North Atlantic Pack Nations Face Showdown On Packaged Defense Program To Arm Huns

NEW YORK, Sept. 18 (UP)—The 12-nation North Atlantic pact council faced a showdown today on an American-sponsored "single package" defense program to rearm West Germans in a revolutionary unified European military force. Secretary of State Dean Acheson bluntly urged the top treaty cabinet to get going "now" on the project that would provide more guns and men to protect Europe from Communist aggression. Acheson unfolded his plan last night at a secret meeting in the conference room on the 37th floor of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. During the night foreign ministers of Canada and 10 European powers asked their home governments for quick advice. Under the "action" plan, experience in Korea would be used to build an international defense force under a single commander. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is favored for the job. Arms production would be increased. About 40 divisions of troops would be trained in the next two years. Germans would be trained to fight with Americans, Canadians, and Europeans. Each nation would assign units to the international force. Acheson soberly warned that the American plan was placed on the conference table as a whole. Halfway measures, he stated, would not be enough to meet Soviet aggression. Whether the Europeans would be able to agree—even in principle—to the participation of Germans in the project at their final scheduled meeting today was in doubt. France and other European powers fear any move to rearm the Germans. Approval of the rest of Acheson's plan may be announced in a communique tonight. He carefully stated his position that the West Germans were needed at the earliest possible date to build up their morale against overwhelming "police" forces in Communist East Germany.

Lift Up Your Heart

By Rev. C. Nelson

America's Most Tragic Blunder The most tragic blunder America is making is not in the realm of the military, the political, the diplomatic, nor the social, but in the realm of the spiritual. America has forgotten and forsaken God to an alarming extent. General MacArthur in his address as he accepted the surrender of Japan which closed the second phase of the second world war, and who is now commanding our force in the East in the third phase of the same war, said, "If the flesh is to survive it must be by the Spirit." And America has refused to hear his warning. Do we marvel? They refused to hear the warning of Christ the greatest personality who ever lived.

Nazarene Revival Begins Sunday

A series of revival services will begin Sunday Morning at the Church of the Nazarene, located at the corner of W. Main and Connellee Street. Rev. and Mrs. L. V. Reazin will have charge of the music and singing with the pastor, Wm. C. Emberton doing the preaching. Services will begin each evening at 7:30 and continue at that time nightly until October 1. The pastor, Rev. Emberton says, "We are truly interested in having a real revival in Eastland. Our aim is to get the unsaved right with God, not just to get members. In these days there are so many substitutes for salvation. If you like real Bible preaching without fear or favor you will enjoy the services. Please, make your plans to bring a friend and attend."

Admiral Says Reds In Bad Way

By Frank Termaine United Press Staff Correspondent TOKYO, Sept. 16 (UP)—The daring Inchon invasion has left the North Koreans "in a hell of a bad way" and they better surrender fast, a U. S. Admiral said today. Rear Adm. Arleigh R. (31-knot) Burke, deputy chief of staff to the commander of the U. S. Naval forces in the Far East, said the invasion left the Communists "overextended." "They are in a hell of a bad way now," the Admiral said. "Their best bet is to surrender fast."

Cheson Unfolds Plan

Acheson unfolded his plan last night at a secret meeting in the conference room on the 37th floor of the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel. During the night foreign ministers of Canada and 10 European powers asked their home governments for quick advice. Under the "action" plan, experience in Korea would be used to build an international defense force under a single commander. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower is favored for the job. Generals Sometimes Sound More Optimistic Than They Really Are

By Harry Ferguson
(UP) Foreign News Editor
There is a wave of optimism rolling out of Korea these days. Gen. Walton H. Walker, United Nations ground commander, tells his troops that their days of retreating are about over, and that soon we will go over to the offensive.

Americans and South Koreans have had some substantial successes with local and limited counter-attacks in the past three days and Walker says, "I feel a definite weakening in the enemy and in some places he is even falling back."

Part of the job of a commanding officer is to make inspiring speeches at the right time and place. Sometimes he does not mean them literally and they are not so interpreted by the troops. Several weeks ago for instance, Walker went up to the front and said, "There will be no more retreating; we will stand where we are." There was some more retreating after that, of course, but in the end our positions were generally restored and technically the General's statements stands as correct. No commanding general ever wants to be pessimistic in a public statement because it would shake the morale of his troops. Few of them ever are as frank as Gen. Joe Stilwell was in World War II when he came out of battle and said, "I say we took one hell of a licking." Even when the situation was really desperate in Korea—back in July before the reinforcements arrived and the Russian tanks were running wild—no officer permitted himself to say anything more pessimistic than "the situation is fluid."

Walker's announcement that a general offensive was not too far away probably was based upon the developments of the past 10 days. It was during that period we found out that the Communists still could throw a hard punch but that they had lost their power to follow through. It happened time after time. The Reds would break through our front lines with sheer weight of numbers, but when we organized a counter-attack they gave up the ground they had just won.

What has happened to them is that they no longer can get their artillery into the breach fast

Behind the Red lines our super-fortresses keep pounding away at railroad yards and bridges until the traffic has been choked down to a trickle. In short, there is a fairly strong Communist front line, but the rear areas have been weakened. The danger is that on the home front the optimism may become overoptimism. End of a Chapter

By Edwin Rutt

Copyright 1950 by NEA SERVICE, INC.

ALICE PINE got out of her car. It was dark. Muriel had closed up the house on the Point when she left for the coast and there was no one there now.

The singing of the wind which had distracted her thoughts on the long drive from the city, was silent here. There were no disturbing songs unless the gentle sighing of the Sound down by the beach could be called a song. Alice started back past the house, toward the beach, the same beach on which Brent Halleck had seen her and had accused her of trespassing the first time they met.

She reached the sand and plodded through it to the edge of the water, where Long Island Sound lapped the shore. A sickle moon dodged in and out behind ragged patches of clouds, alternately darkening the beach and then gliding it with a livid light.

For some infinitely long minutes Alice waited, listening to the incoming tide and waiting for the arrival of Brent Halleck. The lapping of the waves made a fretful, sighing noise, as if the Sound too were impatient. The beach itself was deserted, save for Alice, and momentarily she was glad of its loneliness and that Brent had not yet arrived. She wanted to go over in her mind what she intended to say to him.

She would explain everything, show him that it was Muriel, not Brent himself, that had made him seem like a failure. Alice had not given the reason for wanting Brent to meet her, when she sent her brief telegram. The message had simply asked him to meet her here, on the beach at the Point.

Slowly Alice went over her plan of what she would do when Brent finally came. When he arrived, she would sit on the sand beside him and tell him what she had learned. She would tell Brent about Muriel's visit, of her confession as to what happened the night of the storm, and she would also tell Brent of her conversation with Chuck Wisner in Tolleriver the day Alice had left the Hallecks.

She would have to fill in some gaps, but Brent probably would know some of the answers. She must overcome his doubts—to show him where he had the ability to make something of himself still. Word by word she formed her pretty little speech.

She would tell Brent how she had misunderstood him of course, and she would explain to Brent that he was not the failure Muriel had tried to make him seem. She would tell him that the Hallecks were not going down-grade.

IN conclusion she would say: "Oh, Brent, it's all going to be different now." And Brent, no doubt, would agree with her. Yes, that was Alice Pine's plan.

But as she waited, moments of doubt came to her mind. Had she done right in wiring him to come here? What if he had failed to receive her wire? The sounds of the waves became ominous and Alice grew slightly afraid. What if he would not come to meet her? Alice had thoughts of a long, lonely ride home.

But she knew Brent would come. She knew she wouldn't have to wait long. Her mind raced back over what she had to do. When Brent arrived, the main thing would be to make him see that without Muriel to tear him down, things would be much different.

Suddenly her thoughts were interrupted by a distant cry. Some one calling her name. Alice listened and heard it again: "Alice!"

It could be Brent. Alice whipped around, facing the house. Was it Brent Halleck? She had failed to hear his car when it pulled into the driveway next to hers. The waves had probably drowned out the purring of the motor.

"Alice!" As the cry came again—no doubting now, because she recognized Brent's voice—Alice saw the headlights of his car thrusting toward the beach. But where Alice stood was too far away. The groping, tapering antennas of light fell short and did not reach her. Brent could not see her.

Between the falling light and the spot where Alice stood near the edge of the Sound was a dark patch which the headlight beams could not pierce. From somewhere behind this blind spot came the shout again: "Alice!"

SHE started toward him, her mind speeding over what she expected to say to him. She knew precisely what she must tell Brent Halleck. He would doubt, perhaps, but she must overcome his doubts, to restore his confidence in himself, to make him understand that it was Muriel, with her strange streak of sadism, which had defeated him all these years.

Brent was here to hear her, and she must make him listen. "Alice! Is that you?" "Alice cupped her hands and shouted. "Yes, Brent! Yes! Here I am!"

She almost stumbled as she ran toward him. She could see him now and he could see her as the moon peered out from behind the clouds for a brief instant. He was running toward her.

Yes, everything would be different for Brent from now on. Their outstretched arms met and the two figures melted into the darkness as the clouds folded again over the moon.

It was so strange, that Alice said scarcely any of the things she had intended to say to Brent at that time. In fact, she said none of them until long afterwards.

On this particular night there had seemed to be so many more important things to talk about. (THE END)

United Press Outdoor Consultant
Magrath waterfowl hunting regulations designed to gear the harvest to the production of wild ducks and geese, recently were announced by the department of the interior's fish and wildlife service.

Texas and Oklahoma this year have identical seasons beginning Nov. 3 through Dec. 17—45 consecutive days. Texas and Oklahoma, being in the central flyway, have their daily bag limits increased by one duck and the possession limit by two ducks.

Congratulations are in order for Albert M. Day and the U. S. fish and wildlife service in submitting the recommendations for the 1950 season. For the first time proposals designed to balance the harvest with production will come nearer to such a goal.

This year's recommendations are the results of years of study and planning by the fish and wildlife service. They represent the most balanced program ever enacted for the preservation of duck hunting.

It has been no easy task to attempt to adjust hunting pressure to the anticipated flights of ducks and geese in the various sections of the United States, commonly called "flyways."

In addition to the balanced and far-reaching recommendations for this season, the preferences of the of 16 days each. Bag limit of four ducks and eight in possession remains the same.

In the Mississippi flyway states the season has been reduced from 40 days to 35 days consecutive or two periods of 14 days each. Bag and possession limits of four and eight ducks remains the same.

In the central flyway states (Oklahoma and Texas) the length of the season will remain the same as last year—45 consecutive days or two periods of 18 days. The consecutive period has been adopted by both state game departments. The daily bag limit is increased by one duck and the possession limit by two ducks.

In the Pacific flyway states the season has been increased from 50 to 55 consecutive days or two periods of 22 days each with a daily bag and possession limit of six ducks. Compared to last year this is an increase of one duck in the daily bag limit and a decrease of four ducks in the possession limit.

Bag and possession limits on geese remain essentially the same as last year in each flyway.

Time and space prevent additional analysis of these new regulations, but their importance justifies further discussion next week.

BOYCE HOUSE SAYS
An evangelist was holding a meeting in a town and wanted to mail a letter. He saw some news boys and asked them the way to the postoffice. One of them said: "Go east three blocks and then south four blocks and you will come to the postoffice."
The evangelist said: "Thank you, son; I am holding a revival here and I want you to come to-night and I will show you the way to heaven." The newsboy replied: "How can you show anyone the way to heaven when you don't even know the way to the postoffice?"

The automobile is useless and harmless without the driver. With the driver it may become most useful but never harmless. No operator of an automobile ever fully realizes his responsibility to the public until he has a wreck. Then it dawns on him that he is living in a world with other people, some very peculiar, who have plenty of personal and property rights. about his 11-year-old son staying at Will's house.

Will, who has eight children, the deputy said, ran home. As he entered the door, Pete fired at him, the shot peppering the doorway.

Will, the officer said, emerged with a .410 shotgun, but the gun snapped when he tried to fire. He grabbed a .22 caliber rifle and fired at his younger brother twice. The second shot, fired from a distance of 80 yards, struck Pete in the arm and lodged in his chest.

The deputy said the two brothers live within 400 yards of each other. Will saws logs and his brother, Pete, hauls them to market.

When The CHURCH BELLS TOLL

MILLET has done us all rich service in painting The Angelus. A workman in the field, head bowed in reverent worship, has turned from his toil to remember the great God, because the distant church bell tolled, reminding him of his dependence on his Maker and Friend and Saviour. Gratitude, humility, and worship make this man worthy of our thought and honor. Man at worship is man at his best.

How much richer we should be as a people if not only once a week, but many times through the week the Church Bell should summon us to remember our Divine Creator! The people of Adano were right; community life is not complete without the Bell tolling men to prayer and to reverent living. It would be a noble act if every person in the community would join in providing the Bell for their common religious living. The man who puts a dollar into the Church Bell makes it in a very real sense his own voice calling him and all men to their knees. The Church which lifts the Bell again to its place of eminence in the Church Tower may again make religion the heart of the common life.

RELIGION must become again a matter of every day; the Church must call men more frequently to prayer, even when they cannot enter the church door; the beautiful chimes may send their music of Heaven and Eternity into our hearts and homes. Why not see to it that every town and hamlet shall have at least one Bell to speak for the interests of the soul in an age gone Power-mad? Above the sound of rushing train and speeding automobile let men hear the sweet music of the Church Bell tolling men to God. We are the eternal children of the Eternal Father. The Church Bell summons us to remember and to pray.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERVICE
 "Matter" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 17.
 The Golden Text is: "Every plant, which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up" (Matthew 15:13).
 Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For all flesh is as grass, and all the glory of man as the flower of grass. The grass withereth, and the flower thereof falleth away" (1 Peter 1:24).
 The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "Mortals must look beyond fading, finite forms, if they would gain the true sense of things" (page 264).

County Heads Disagree With State Plan

MISSION, Sept. 16 (UP)—Hidalgo county civic leaders braced today for a struggle with state officials over a plan to change Weaver H. Baker (Tuberculosis) sanatorium into an institution for senile cases.

The sanatorium was set up following the end of World War II as the only tubercular hospital in the lower Rio Grande valley.

Dr. Howard E. Smith, acting executive director of the Board of state hospitals in Austin, recently proposed removing the sanatorium from the valley.

The Hidalgo group objected to the proposed conversion plan because the county for many years has had the nation's highest tuberculosis incidence.

Mayor Logan Duncan of Mission was the first to oppose Smith's proposal.

"The cities of Mission, McAllen and Edinburg deeded the land occupied by the Baker hospital to the state for a tuberculosis sanatorium," Duncan wired Smith. "The city of Mission vigorously opposes any change in our agreement with the state."

Duncan added that when the three cities gave the property to the state it was agreed the hospital would never be converted into another type of institution.

"I remember we were assured specifically that the hospital would not be used for mental cases," Duncan said.

"Any attempt to divert the hospital to an institution for lunatic cases would be a breach of our understanding with the state."
