France Stands With US On China Vote

Solons Told Husbands, Vets Face Early Call If 18-Year-Olds Exempt

NEW ZEALAND WILL ALSO SUPPORT AGGRESSION VOTE

PARIS, Jan. 24 (UP)—France announced today that she would vote side by side with the United States in the United Nations on the question of Communist China.

French Minister of Information Albert Gazier said foreign minister Robert Schuman has issued instructions to that effect to French UN delegate Jean Chauvel.

Gazier said the instructions were issued by Schuman in a lengthy outline of foreign policy which stressed two main points:

1. That every effort should be made to avoid the spread of the Korean conflict.

2. That France should stand shoulder-to-shoulder with the United States in the UN while, nevertheless, exerting every influence to avoid any precipitate or hasty action.

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Jan. 24 (UP)—Minister for External Affairs F. W. Dodge said today that New Zealand would support the United States motion in the United Nations condemning Chinese Communist action in Korea.

Cyrus Frost, Civic Leader, Dies Tuesday

Cyrus B. Frost, prominent Eastland lawyer and civic leader, died suddenly at a doctor's office in Hico at about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Frost had gone to his ranch in the south part of the county to inspect damage caused by a grass fire. While there he became ill and went to the doctor's office where he died while seated in the office.

Frost was born 1887 at Bowie, Texas, the son of James R. and Miriam A. Frost.

His family came to Eastland about 1890 where his father practiced law until the time of his death in 1923.

He attended school in Eastland and also attended Hankins Normal College at Gorman where he later taught. He attended the University of Texas and the Law School of the University of Texas and was licensed to practice law in 1911.

In 1910 he married Laura Maye Burleson. Immediately after he finished the University of Texas, he returned to Eastland and served two terms as county attorney of Eastland county and one term as county judge.

He was elected without opposition to a second term as county judge, but resigned shortly thereafter to re-enter the practice of law.

He had been practicing here continuously since 1911. He was also admitted to practice before the Supreme Court of the United States and the lower federal courts and the Tax Court of the United States.

Since 1917, he has been volunteer chairman for Eastland county of the bond division of the U. S. Treasury Department. Since 1917, he also has been interested in the oil business in West Texas.

At the time of his death he was associated with his sons, Jack W., Billy and Cyrus B. Frost, Jr., in the practice of law in Eastland.

Always a leader in civic affairs, Frost was instrumental in the building of the First Methodist

Cyrus Frost

Church building here. He was chairman of Eastland county's savings bond drive last year.

Frost was an active leader in the Methodist Church and was at the time of his death a district trustee of the Cisco district of the Methodist Church, and a steward in the First Methodist Church in Eastland. He had been an official in the local Methodist Church almost his complete adult life.

He was a prominent leader in Masonic Order and was a member of the K. P. Lodge. He was very active in the civic development of Eastland county and the city of Eastland.

Survivors include his widow, the former Laura Maye Burleson; two daughters, Mrs. Maurice Bullock, Fort Stockton, and Mrs. H. T. Etheridge, El Paso; three sons, Jack W., Billy and Cyrus B., Jr., all of Eastland; two brothers, Snow Frost of Eastland and Frank Frost of Altus, Okla.; two sisters, Mrs. Wiley Biggs, Austin and Mrs. S. O. Pottorff, Edinburg, and several grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the residence, 712 West Moss, at 2:30 p. m., Thursday with Rev. George W. Shearer of Ft. Worth, conducting.

Rev. Shearer performed the marriage ceremony of Mr. and Mrs. Frost in 1910, and has been pastor of the Methodist Church here on two separate occasions. He will be assisted by P. W. Walker of Denton, former pastor of the Methodist Church here and Rev. J. Morris Bailey, present pastor of the First Methodist Church here.

Whittaker Named Asst. County Agent

C. V. Whittaker, 27, recent graduate of Texas A&M College has been named as assistant county agent for Eastland county, effective February 1, according to County Judge, John Hart and the Commissioners Court.

Whittaker replaces Ed Steele, Jr., who has resigned to enter ranching in Young County. Steele had served in that capacity for the past 22 months.

Whittaker, native of Chilton in Falls County is a veteran with more than three years in Naval service. He is married with one child.

3 - 5 Inch Rain Needed

HARLINGEN, Tex., Jan. 24 (UP)—If the Rio Grande Valley is to produce a hoped-for 1,000,000-bale cotton crop in 1951 it must receive from three to five inches of rain within the next 45 days, Department of Agriculture officials warned today.

Split Widens Between US, Britain Over China Commies

LONDON, Jan. 24 (UP)—The split between the United States and Britain over Communist China appeared to be widening today.

From opposite sides of the world came these developments:

1. The British crown colony government at Hong Kong cancelled re-broadcasts in Chinese of Voice of America news items and substituted a British broadcasting corporation news program.

2. Authoritative sources in London said Britain will try to delay United Nations action against Red China until it has been established beyond a doubt whether Peking's latest cease-fire proposals represent a genuine desire for peace.

These moves coincide with Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee's announcement in Commons yesterday that Britain would not support the American resolution in the UN branding Communist China an aggressor.

Baptist Plan March Revival

The First Baptist Church has made plans for an Evangelistic meeting to be held March 18 through 25. Rev. Loyd Chapman, pastor has announced.

Chapman will conduct the services.

Joe Trussell, outstanding gospel singer, will lead the musical portion of the meetings, Chapman said.

This will be the third revival the pastor has held in the Eastland church, and the second time that he and Trussell have worked as a team in a revival here.

Any Idea That Chinese Have Given Up Is Wishful Thinking Writer Says

(EDITOR'S NOTE: There is another lull in the ground fighting in Korea. Has Communist China given up its attempt to run United Nations forces out of Korea? Or is this just the calm before a new Communist drive? This is how the situation is viewed in Tokyo where Gen. Douglas MacArthur makes his headquarters.)

By Charles Moore
TOKYO, Jan. 24 (UP)—The Chinese are committed to running United Nations forces out of Korea and any idea that they have given up their effort to do so is regarded here as wishful thinking.

Their job gets harder all the time. But they are believed to be in too deep to back out now.

Long periods of relative quiet between offensives touches off a flock of rumors about their intentions. But it is a pretty safe prediction this time, just as before, that they are preparing for a new plunge to the south.

The Chinese do not start a battle until they are confident that they have the power to win. Thus they can be expected to hold to their present lines until they feel sure their next drive will succeed.

The main Communist and UN forces have been out of major contact since the Chinese New Year's offensive pushed the Allies out of Seoul. The Reds occupied Seoul and took up positions across the Korean peninsula on a line roughly 10 or 15 miles south of Seoul.

Allied positions are somewhere south of the Chinese. And there is a neutral belt of varying width between them.

Recently, UN patrols, usually led by tanks, have ranged through this belt and have entered some towns presently or previously occupied by the Chinese. Wonju, for example.

Sometimes these patrols get into fights with small groups of Chinese. Sometimes they cruise along roads and into villages without drawing a shot. But this does not mean necessarily that there are no Communists around.

What it means, more likely, is that they are too smart to stay in villages and get plastered by UN planes and artillery. Or that if they are in the hills they are too smart to give their positions away by taking pot shots at patrols.

Defense Head Gives Strong Boost For Draft

WASHINGTON, Jan. 24 (UP)—Congress was told today that husbands and fathers will have to be drafted "very soon" unless it authorizes a draft of 18-year-olds.

Assistant Defense Secretary Anna M. Roseburg said in a statement prepared for the House Armed Services Committee that "with men between 18 and 19 entering the service, we could not only avoid calling men with families, but also veterans."

"In addition," she said, "we could allow a larger number of deferments than would otherwise be possible, among engineers, scientists, technicians and other key men."

Mrs. Roseburg's statements was a strong boost for a draft of 18-year-olds because legislators are reluctant to break up families or recall veterans back to duty.

Elsewhere in Congress: Troops—Chairman Richard B. Russell of the Senate Armed Services Committee suggested that Congress, instead of writing a "definite" limitation on the number of U. S. troops to be sent to Europe, make sure that the nation could and would withdraw from the Atlantic Pact army if its Allies fail to contribute their share.

Controls — the House-Senate committee on the economic report called price stabilizer Michael V. Dillie and wage stabilizer Cyrus S. Ching to testify on impending price-wage controls. Several committee members have criticized the government for not taking action sooner.

Civil Rights—Southern House Democrats were sure of blocking the administration's latest civil rights legislation. The justice department asked that segregation of Negroes on interstate trains or buses or barring them from voting in general or primary congressional elections be made a federal crime.

Pneumonia Hits British Foreign Secretary Bevin

LONDON, Jan. 24 (UP)—British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin developed pneumonia today and there was immediate speculation that Prime Minister Clement Attlee himself might take over British foreign policy.

Bevin, 69, has been seriously ill for months with a heart condition. Doctors said his condition was critical. The pneumonia so far is confined to one patch on one lung, but it was apparent that he would be out for weeks.

Bevin's illness coincided with a grave split in American-British basic foreign policy over the question of Chinese Communist intervention in Korea. Britain is hedging on an American demand that Red China be branded an aggressor.

Many sources long have urged Attlee to replace Bevin, feeling that Britain needs a younger and more active man at the helm of foreign affairs during the world crisis with Russia.

Attlee may take Bevin's illness as an opening to bring a younger man into the foreign office. But there is no outstanding candidate available.

Bevin, a trade union leader for 20 years, commands great respect from both the so-called left wing and moderate sections of the labor party.

Modern men's formal wear derives from English fashions of 1820-40. The tail-coat was stylish in the twenties while the dinner jacket comes from the style of 1840.

ARMORED UN FORCE SLUGS WITHIN 33 MILES OF 38TH

By Earnest Hoherecht
TOKYO, Thursday, Jan. 25 (UP)—An armored United Nations task force slugged its way to within 33 miles of the 38th Parallel in central Korea Wednesday. It was the deepest penetration into Red territory since the fall of Seoul.

The tanks and infantry fought through two Red road blocks to enter Hoengsong, 10 miles north of Wonju, and then withdrew to friendly lines to report no major Red force in the area.

Other patrols also roamed the no-man's-land of central and western Korea, seeking without success to locate the main Communist force and ferret out Red plans for a possible offensive.

For the second straight day, American jet fighters tangled with Russian-made MIG-15 jets over northwest Korea, driving the Reds back into Manchuria with one enemy plane probably lost and two damaged.

The 15-minute air battle was fought over Anju, 70 miles south of the Manchurian border between 16 U. S. F-84 Thunderjets and 16 to 20 enemy planes.

Not a single American plane was hit. The battle brought the five-day toll of enemy planes to four jets destroyed, three probably destroyed and five damaged.

Other jet fighters continued to raid Communist supply lines, blasting rail and bridge targets at Huichon, Kupu and other points behind the front.

While this was going on three

5th Air Force helicopters rescued five American airmen forced down in no-man's-land, two of them from under the guns of surrounding Communists who lured a T-6 observation plane into a trap and shot it down.

The armored lunge north of Wonju toward the 38th Parallel was made by a patrol of four tanks and 100 infantrymen supported by two flak wagons mounting quadruple .50 caliber machine-guns.

The force rolled through Wonju without incident but ran into an enemy company on the road seven miles north of Wonju. The Reds were driven off after a 40-minute battle and the task force rolled on.

Glenn Covington gave a talk on safety before members of the Eastland Lions Club Tuesday at their regular meeting in the Methodist church.

Covington displayed a sketch of the University of Texas football stadium which will seat 70,000 persons.

"The state of Texas had enough casualties from automobile accidents in 1949 to fill that stadium," Covington said.

"Let the stadium be full and let the people in it file out in single file. Cripple each one that comes out in some way, except each 34th person, and kill him and you will have the total casualties which Texans had in 1949," he said.

"To get the 1950 total, you have to add about 15,000 persons," he said.

Lions Hear Safety Talk On Tuesday

Covington pointed out several things to be on guard against while driving. First, he listed the acts of others, such as drunks, careless drivers and others.

He also mentioned weather conditions and warned that drivers should know their own deficiencies.

Covington, who works for Lone Star, pointed out that their company drivers decreased accidents about 44 per cent last year while the state total was increasing about 24 per cent.

He attributed this to the company's safety program which is given to all employees.

Following the speaker, the club voted to give $100 to the Lions crippled children camp which will be started this summer. The club also voted to donate $25 to the hospital committee for use in determination of a hospital cost.

Anyone interested in riding on a special bus to the Stock Show in Ft. Worth on Eastland day, January 30, is asked to contact H. J. Tanner, manager of the chamber of commerce, by Friday.

Tanner said that about 37 seats will be available, if the trip made. If enough interest is shown a bus will be chartered for the trip.

Careless Official Statements Are Much Comfort to Enemy

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—President Truman's off-hand press conference admission that the United States would not bomb China without United Nations permission was another one of those things that would have been better left unsaid.

Coming on top of the President's atomic-bomb use mixup of a month before, the question is raised on whether there should not be some kind of censorship on statements in high places.

Military censorship in the field has been clamped on by General MacArthur. The security systems in government agencies are now tighter than they've ever been. But when the head man himself chooses to talk out loud there isn't any higher authority that can make him clam up.

Apparently there isn't anything the White House staff can do to shut off these disastrous ad libs. They have been going on since October, 1945, when the President in an off-hand remark to reporters gave away a secret atomic bomb policy without realizing what he had done. Performances like this must make aides new ulcers daily.

There wasn't anything particularly new about the President's latest statement that the United States would not bomb China without United Nations permission. Such a policy is implicit in the United Nations Security Council resolutions of last June.

BUT the point is, why was it necessary to go out of the way to tell the Communist leaders in plain language that there would be no action against them outside the Korean borders? As long as there was any doubt about it, the Communist generals would have had to move with a certain amount of caution.

Now that the Reds have it on Mr. Truman's own word that there will be no bombing against Manchuria or China, they can proceed accordingly. They have complete assurance there will be no long-range bombing until the United Nations passes a new resolution. This would presumably be done only after considerable debate, if done at all.

What the President did was telegraph that he wasn't going to punch them there. And in a fight, it is just as important to know where you aren't going to be hit as to know where you may be hit.

The President had successfully ducked this question before. In the famous Nov. 30 press conference, in which he said the United States was considering use of the atomic bomb at all times, the President was asked:

"Will United Nations troops be allowed to bomb across the Manchurian border?"

The President replied that he couldn't answer that question that morning. It was a perfect answer. It left the Reds guessing. It gave the impression that it might happen later.

IN the most recent press conference, the President started out on this same track. He was asked directly, almost like a follow-up to the original question of a month earlier:

"Are we going to ask the United Nations for permission to bomb China?"

The President said he did not have that under consideration. This wasn't as good an answer as the earlier one, but it was good enough. The trouble came on the next round of questions when the matter was brought up once again. A reporter asked if he could clear up a point. The President said sure.

"Is it correct to assume," the reporter asked, "that we would not bomb China without checking with the United Nations?"

The President said yes. And that let the cat out of the bag. The answer was accurate and correct from the international law standpoint. It was just a bad leak of information from the military standpoint.

United Press Poll Indicates Some Big League Clubs Putting Selfish Interests Before National Welfare

By Oscar Fraley
United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Jan. 24 (UP)—Major league baseball boasts blantly of its morale service during wartime but there were indications today that some so-called "big league" clubs were putting selfish business interests ahead of the nation's welfare.

The United Press discovered this unpatriotic sentiment when it polled the clubs in a survey which will be released Thursday showing the major league manpower status under current draft regulations. It was felt that, with more than 17,000,000 admissions paid to big league games last season, the status of the various clubs would be of widespread interest.

But, of the 16 clubs, five of them—the New York Yankees, New York Giants, Brooklyn Dodgers, Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox—flatly refused to disclose this data. Considering the nation's peril, the reasons were shameful. They were:

1. It might bring the name of some players to the attention of their draft boards and speed their being drafted.

2. The fans might "get on" some players as "draft dodgers."

There were two reasons advanced by Arthur Patterson, a front office buffer of the world champion New York Yankees. But Patterson hardly lived up to such Yankee claims when he took it upon himself to set himself up as a censor and advise the two other New York ball clubs to refuse such information.

Accepting his advice, and thus backing up his reasons, were Harold Parrott of the Brooklyn Dodgers and Garry Schumacher of the Giants.

"That's the way the Dodgers feel about it, too," parroted Parrott.

"We feel that the draft status of the players, involving as it does their physical health and condition, is private," explained Schumacher.

But Schumacher is one of the first to advise newspapers of the peacetime "health and condition" of Giant players.

eral manager of the Detroit Tigers was equally reprehensible. Evans said flatly that Art Houtteman, young Tiger pitcher, would not be in the Army today if it hadn't been for the publicity given his case and that he doesn't want this to happen to any of his other players.

That must be great news to the guys in Korea who are waiting for reinforcements.

Frank Lane, the White Sox general manager, was a bit more coy about it. He, too, said he felt it was a "personal matter," and that the club shouldn't release such information.

But the clubs are always quick to notify the public when a man has been examined and classified 4-F.

Those five clubs, "world champions" and otherwise, should hang their heads in shame. But they probably won't, for this is just another example of how, in recent years, baseball has gotten too big for its breeches.

There is a tendency among baseball men to forget that it was publicity alone which made the game the big business that it is today. It's a payoff on billions of dollars worth of free advertising. Yet they continually bite the typing hand which fed them, like, in the recent world series, barring newsmen from the dressing rooms for a 15-minute "cooling off period" after games.

Such long distance baby sitting on supposedly mature men removed a lot of color from the game. But, as a few baseball men apparently are trying to prove again, the game has reached an exalted position where it doesn't need anybody, neither the fans, the newspapers—or a free country!

MESS SERGEANTS HAVE THEIR TROUBLES, TOO, IN KOREA TRYING TO MAKE DOG'S MENU WHILE RIDING ON A FREIGHT TRAIN

BY H. D. QUIGG
SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, Jan. 23 (UP)—Every day at 12:25 p.m., while the war correspondents are eating lunch at their billets, a fast freight train roars through the mess hall.

It goes right through a table where one group of correspondents is eating. They always see it coming just in time. They yell a warning. Then, rowling in fright, they leap up on the long benches at each side of the table, pulling their legs up quickly to keep them from being cut off by

Youth Convicted Of Killing Negro Disabled Veteran

BELTON, TEX., Jan. 24 (UP)—Wash Howard, Jr., young Houston gunsmith convicted of killing a Negro war veteran after a minor traffic accident, said today he would ask for a new trial.

A 27th District Court jury required only one hour and 25 minutes yesterday to find Howard guilty of murder without malice. The jurors recommended five years imprisonment.

The state had asked the death penalty in the case, transferred here on a charge of venue from Houston.

Howard, 25, was accused of shooting Carter Boyd, disabled veteran of World War II, last March 11 following a minor traffic accident. The Negro victim was the father of nine children.

Two or three women in the packed courtroom cried as the verdict was read. Howard accepted the decision with visible show of emotion.

"All I can say is that I'm not guilty," he told newsmen later. "I expected to be cleared."

His mother clasped his hands and his father told him, "Be a good boy, son, like you've always been."

Defense attorney Percy Foreman had indicated earlier he would file an application for suspended sentence if Howard was found guilty. He submitted an affidavit that the scholarly-appearing youth had never been in trouble before.

Foreman, a Houston attorney, had delivered a fiery summation asking the jury to declare Howard innocent because there was no "uncontradicted testimony to prove his guilt."

the onrushing monster. And then it has gone past down the long length of the table, and the swirling cinders have settled on the roadbed, they sit down again and turn around to people at other tables and say:

"That confounded train. Comes through every day."

They start eating again. But the meal is not quiet for long. Soon someone is kicking at a dog under the table. The whole table begins yelling at the mess sergeant to get that blasted dog out of the mess hall. They whistle and call, "nice doggy."

Then they call for the Korean mess boys to bring a plate of luncheon meat. They set it on the floor for the dog to eat. The Koreans always bring the plate. They never look for the dog. They know they can't see it anymore than they could see the freight train.

The correspondents like to pretend they have war nerves. They pretend to see things, and if other people can't see them they tell the other people they are "cracking up" and had better go back to Tokyo for a nice long rest.

The Korean mess boys are stoic about the whole thing. They set the plate on the floor without smiling, being careful to obey the instructions not to step on the dog, and then go away some place and crack up.

Today, the same table of correspondents got tired of seeing an imaginary dog. They opened the mess hall door. There stood an imaginary lady. They ushered her to the table and ordered her a bowl of soup. The mess boy brought it, bowed politely to her, and left.

Sometimes these wags blow up an imaginary balloon and pass it from table to table. They're not above running an imaginary string into one ear, through the head, and out the other ear, so that they can bob their heads around like puppets.

It's their way of blowing off steam. They go completely zany to believe the tension of their jobs. It's often hard on the mess sergeant, an affable young man named Bonad W. Booth of (410 North Washington St.) Shawnee, Okla. When he enters the room, they give three cheers: "Booo, Booo, Booo."

The cheers are for the things he serves out of cans—a type of food known to all soldiers as "slime."

The sergeant actually is very popular. But he has his troubles. The Army has fancy names for dishes in rear areas like this, but Booth's Korean helper who copies them down for the men has his own ideas. A recent dinner menu read:

"One. chick corn cure. Two. beef pot pie. Three. veena sausage barbecue. Yyamnons potatoes saury green beans, labanberis cobbler."

What that sergeant actually meant to have was:

One. chili con carne. Two. beef pot pie. Three. vienna sausage barbecue. Lyonaise potatoes, saury green beans, loganberry cobbler.

But maybe the Korean chief should not be blamed. It takes a good man to make out a dog's menu while riding on a train.

DID YOU KNOW?

That the balance wheel of a watch turns 432,000 times each day—that the balance wheel screws are so tiny a thimble holds more than 14,000—that some parts in a watch are thinner than a human hair.

As you can see, it is important that you have a competent watchmaker to repair your watch. At Beskow's your watch is electronically timed on a machine that is accurate to less than one millionth of a second.

Just Fire Insurance—

... was about all the local agent featured up to a few years ago, for that was all the public demanded. But not so today. Folks have learned the value of insurance and now demand complete coverage. And the well-established local agent has all the facilities for writing insurance against every known hazard regardless of risk or uncertainty. Because your protection is our business let us suggest again that just fire insurance is not enough.

If it's insurance, we write it.

Lone Star delivers a bargain in modern living to 147,575 new homes

In the last five years, 147,575 homes were built in communities we serve. Imagine, if you can, these new homes without natural gas service. They simply couldn't be as modern—as comfortable, as clean, as convenient.

Modern living in every home is partly our responsibility. So, we have been building new natural gas facilities for these new homes. We've added scores of gas-producing wells, built several hundred miles of cross-country and city pipe lines, and built many other new facilities—totaling over 80 million dollars.

The price of virtually all materials and labor in this building program has gone up... up... up. Yet, Lone Star natural gas service for homes has not gone up. In fact, natural gas service for homes here is cheaper now than 10 years ago.

Lone Star Gas Company has kept abreast of every community's growth—yet it still costs an average of less than 15 cents a day for gas water heating, gas refrigeration, gas cooking and gas house heating in the average home. Where else does so little buy so much?

U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics Consumers Price Index for this area shows that the cost of living has climbed to an all-time peak. It costs you almost twice as much to live today as it did 10 years ago. Yet the price of Lone Star Natural Gas Service for homes has decreased. Imagine what your income would be worth today—if the price of everything was like the price of Lone Star Natural Gas Service.
