

UN Forces Crowd Up To The 38th Parallel

YOU NAME IT

By Everett Taylor

Practice sessions for the annual Quarterback Club minstrel are to be held nightly this week as the show approaches.

Enthusiasm seems to be at a new high for Eastland's hospital movement following last Friday night's very successful meeting.

A committee of three, Jack Frost, Buck Pickens and C. W. Hoffman are working hard on plans for the drive and expect to have everything ready for the big kickoff date.

A majority of the opinions we have heard are that the drive will be a success if it is made without a letup, while enthusiasm is high. The time is now.

Various ideas to help in raising money for the drive continue to come in, and it seems that the city is ready to support a hospital drive and a hospital.

Inadequate grounds on which to practice has greatly hampered the Eastland high school track team in its efforts so far this season.

Sprinters Dick Evatt, Derrell Black, Edwin Aaron and Sam Miller may pick up some points, especially in the 440 yard sprint relay where they combine to make a fairly fast team.

Evatt has broad jumped over 18 feet in practice and may make some points for Eastland in that event. Larry Miller has also jumped near 18 feet in practice.

Bob Womack and Doug King have been practicing on the discus throw, and may place in the district affair. Womack also has put the shot for a respectable distance in practice.

Morris Riggan continues to improve in the mile run and Bob Burdick is also participating in that event.

James Allison and Norman Watson are the 440 yard dash men on the Maverick squad.

E. M. Shirley, who is in charge of operations for Stapper in the county, reports that the next well on the Adams place, about five miles southeast of Eastland, will be drilled to about 3700 feet.

The No. 1 Adams is producing from the Strawn around 15000 feet.

Eastland high will wind up its track program in the next two weeks and go into spring football training on April 16.

Coch Wendell Siebert will have several experienced men back next fall, far more than last year, but will still be short on reserves.

Bob Womack, Doug King and Gerald Davis will be missed from last fall's lineup, also. Eight starters, however, will be back.

Investigators Say Burglar May Be The Cause Of Hotel Fire

HOUSTON, April 3 (UP)—Arson investigators said today that a burglar may have been responsible for the two-alarm fire in the storeroom where the swank million dollar petroleum club is being built atop the Rice Hotel in downtown Houston.

G. A. Bullen, a Manhattan construction company official which is building the club, said a burglar had been making forays to the hotel's top floor and has stolen more than $500 worth of valuable tools in the past three weeks.

Arson investigators Harry Foster and Aucus Greer are investigating the possibilities that the fire was set on purpose or by accident by the intruder.

The alarm sent 17 pieces of equipment and five district fire chiefs to the scene, but most of the fire was confined to the storeroom on the 18th floor of the hotel.

Water damage, however, was reported to the 17th and 16th floors.

Work has not yet started on the lavish interior decorations that a d o r n the Petroleum Club and about the only thing on the 18th floor were partitions and building material.

Ranger Country Club defeated the Eastland Club 12 to 10 in a golf match Sunday. The results are as follows:

J. O. Phillips, W. Smith—Phillips 5-3; Earl Pittman, Joe Sparks—Pittman 1 up; Boone Yarbrough E. Flowman—Yarbrough 8-7; Johnnie Bates, Bruce Pipkin—Pipkin, 1-up; Cy Landers, E. K. Henderson—Henderson 2-1.

Bob Earnest, Don Doyle—Earnest 1-up 20; Dean Crawley, E. M. Pritchard—Crawley, 2-up; Charlie Joe Owen, Neil Day—Owen, 2-1; Pete Brashier, Dillard Morgan, 4-3; Allen Full, Gordon Smith—Full, 4-3.

C. E. May, Bob King—King 1-up, 20; Bill Couser, Howard Miller—Miller, 5-4.

J. B. Houghton, Bill Brown—Houghton, 7-6; Frank Johnson, Hershel Self—Self, 5-4; Flake Turner, H. Westfall—Turner, 6-5; E. L. Norris, Wells Dalton—Dalton, 4-2; W. L. Jacoby, Dr. F. Lund—Lund, 1-up.

Chief Williams, Wendle Armstrong—Armstrong, 1-up; H. X. Wallace, J. E. Gann—Wallace, 1-up; Pappy Cole, Tom Harris—Cole 3-2; Joe Stephen, Gene Stevens—Stephen, 2-1; Lowell Rainwater, Jimmy Harkrider—Rainwater, 3-2.

Whittington Elected Prexy Of Rotarians

Jim Whittington was elected president of the Eastland Rotary Club at their regular meeting at the Connelley Hotel, Monday, replacing Hubert Westfall.

Walter Payne, secretary, and Eugene Hickman, treasurer, were re-elected to their positions.

Cyrus Frost, Jr., was elected vice-president of the club. Jack Muirhead, George I. Lane and Sam Gamble were elected as directors.

Westfall automatically becomes a director of the club. I. C. Inzer, Jim Horton and Guy Parker are outgoing directors.

C. L. Fields, representing W. B. Price and Company, tailors, Chicago, is now taking orders for tailor made men's and ladies suits, at the Modern Dry Cleaners in Eastland.

Fields formerly lived here for a number of years and was employed with Modern Dry Cleaners for about 25 years.

A wide assortment of patterns is available to choose from for made to measure suits.

Fields invited his old friends to come in and see him, and look over his materials.

John Osborne, Theo Lamb, L. E. McGraw, Hood King and H. J. Tanner of Eastland attended the annual Mineral Wells Chamber of Commerce banquet held Monday night in Mineral Wells.

Fred Brown, formerly of Eastland, was installed as new vice-president of the Mineral Wells group.

Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., began removing bootleggers telephones wherever authorities presented proof that the 'phones were used to violate prohibition laws.

Federal Control Wolf Is At The Door Of Our Schools System Rotarians Told

"The wolf is at the door of our school system," J. Ross Rucker, business manager of the Eastland Public Schools, told members of the Eastland Rotary Club at their meeting Monday.

"Unless the people take a greater interest in the schools and support the schools with their time and faith," Rucker said, "The wolf will come into our school system."

"That wolf standing at the door is the Federal government," he continued. "When that happens, schools reflect the society they serve and represent," Rucker said. "As citizens we should define the duties we wish a school to fulfill and support the schools with our time and faith."

In concluding his talk, Rucker read an editorial from an El Paso newspaper which bemoaned the fact that El Paso schools were allowing the government to dictate what their children eat, for 8c a day.

"When we undertake to reform schools," Rucker concluded, "Let us first reform ourselves."

Rucker was introduced by I. C. Inzer.

Proceeding the program, Ben Green was introduced as the Senior Rotarian of the month from High School.

Green is drum major of the band, a member of the band, a letterman on the basketball team and participated in the Senior play.

Two Enlist In Regular Army

Bobbie E. Richardson, Carbon, has re-enlisted in the U. S. Army for duty at Scofield Barracks, Hawaii, M-Sgt. Frank Lockman, Eastland recruiter, has announced.

William A. Griffin of Olden has also enlisted in the Regular Army, Lockman said.

Sgt. Lockman said that he can now accept men for Air Force duty and for Regular Army duty at Scofield Barracks.

Fixed Opinions Slow Hearing

DALLAS, April 3 (UP)—Fixed opinions as to sanity of convicted rapist Fred Felix Adair Jr. to day slowed selection of a jury for the attacker's second sanity hearing.

Of the first 36 veniremen questioned Monday, 24 said they could not serve because of fixed opinions.

Adair is under a 30-day stay of execution granted by the Governor in order that the sanity issue might be tried. Death penalty was given Adair Feb. 2, the February 1949, rape of a Dallas housewife.

San Antonio Men Cross With Dope

EDINBURG, April 3 (UP)—Two San Antonio men were withheld in lieu of bond today on charges of smuggling three pounds of marijuana in to the U. S. from Mexico.

Allen Ordered To Grand Jury

AUSTIN, April 3 (UP)—Laredo Publisher William Prescott Allen had orders today to appear before a Travis County Grand Jury Thursday and tell all he knows about crime in Austin.

Allen was subpoenaed yesterday in connection with an editorial run in his newspaper in which the publisher claimed that gambling flourishes in the state's capital city.

He also charged in the editorial, and later in a full page advertisement in the Austin American-Statesman, that the recent subpoena handed Gambler Mickey Cohen was a blind to hide crime in Austin.

Austin Mayor Taylor Glass said "if Allen knows something about Austin or the people here, he should tell it. And before the Grand Jury is the proper place."

The Grand Jury is also expected to cite Cohen for contempt of the House Crime Committee for failing to answer its subpoena.

Cotton In The Valley

HARLINGEN, April 2 (UP)—With two weeks to go, the lower Rio Grande Valley's cotton permit acreage today stood at 852,887 acres.

J. A. Alderrice, of the Federal-State Inspection Service, said Hidalgo County farmers had secured permits for 348,826 acres, Cameron County, 328,928, and Willacy for 175,133.

He said last week's rains were credited with pushing the Hidalgo County acreage beyond that of Cameron County.

REDS MAY MAKE FINAL MOVE TO THROW UN OUT OF KOREA

By Earnest Hoberecht
MacArthur reported in his morning communique that the Chinese and Korean Reds were gathering 65 divisions, their greatest potential force of the war, for an attack on advancing but outnumbered United Nations forces.

It might prove the final Communist attempt to throw the United Nations out of Korea. North Korean Premier and Supreme Communist Commander Kim Il Sung was reported by the Chinese Communist Radio at Peiping to have told newsmen at his field headquarters near the front:

"We are confident that we will drive the aggressors out of Korea." But even as Kim spoke, United Nations planes as well as ground troops were pumeling his forces.

In the air, American Sabrejets shot down three Russian-built MIG 15 Jet Fighters and damaged 3 more in a 25-minute battle just south of Sinuiju in the Northwest Korean-Manchurian border area.

Few details were available of the first American crossing of the 38th Parallel in strength. A pooled dispatch said the Americans did not advance in a solid line all along the 10-mile crossing front, but patrolled where they had not moved up in full force.

Eighth Army Headquarters reported American Tank-Infantry patrols also probed North of the Parallel in search of new Communist defense positions at two places on the Western and West-Central front for the fourth straight day.

An 8th Army communique reported little or no contact with the Communists elsewhere along the front as United Nations forces crowded up to the 38th Parallel.

Search Started For Stolen Girl

McALESTER, April 3 (UP)—Officers organized a posse and called for bloodhounds yesterday after a 16-year-old girl was kidnapped and carried into the woods of the Sanbois Mountains in southeastern Oklahoma last night.

The kidnap victim, sheriff Bill Alexander said, was Jackie Parris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Parris of McAlester. Alexander said she was in the clutches of a rough-looking, unidentified man when last seen.

Her 17-year-old boyfriend, William Coghill, tearfully told officers at daybreak yesterday how the man forced his way into their car at a skating rink here at 8:30 p.m. the day before.

Coghill said the man forced them to drive him to a spot near Kinta, 40 miles southeast of here in Haskell County. There, Coghill said, he pulled Jackie out of the car with him and took her into the woods. He left Coghill in the car.

Coghill said he walked back to a store at Kinta and called his mother who notified McAlester police.

Alexander called the state penitentiary here which took its bloodhounds to the area to begin a search.

Sheriff H. L. Cariker of Haskell County was organizing the search of the hill country where Coghill's car was found stuck in a muddy side road. A fingerprint expert was called to examine the car.

Slot Machine's Gone In June

FORT WORTH, April 3 (UP)—A planned crackdown on owners of slot machines in Texas will probably rid the state of its more than 9,000 one-armed bandits by June, Attorney General Price Daniel predicted yesterday.

Speaking at a state convention of the Woodmen of the world and the Woodmen Circle, Daniel said names of those who paid the $150 federal taxes on slot machines were being turned over to county and district attorneys for prosecution.

Daniel also denounced the proposed exhibition of Gambler Mickey Cohen's bullet-proof Cadillac automobile as "glamorizing" a gangster. He said people who paid to see the car are "suckers."

The car was sold by Cohen to the Texas Stock Car Racing Association.

Airman Killed In Wreck
WICHITA FALLS, Tex., April 3 (UP)—Gordon W. Gresham, Jr., 18-year-old Sheppard Air Force Base airman from Helena, Ga., was killed yesterday when his motorcycle collided head-on with an automobile driven by another Sheppard airman.

THIS OIL WELL IS A PROBLEM—Leta Duke, left, and her sister, Mrs. Lela Johnson are two Oklahomans who don't like the idea of having an oil well in their back yard in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. The oil ruined their garden plot also. (NEA Telephoto).

Small Business Getting Lost In Big, Dark Defense Forest

BY PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—(NEA)—On half a dozen fronts, the cry of small business is being heard and investigated in Washington. Just as in World War II, the complaint is that small business is being short-changed in distribution of scarce materials, and that it has no chance to get defense contracts. Congressional committees are looking into it. By contrast, however, when Defense Production Administrator William H. Harrison's agency recently approved a $7,800,000 government loan which would permit three Pennsylvania small businessmen to build a steel plant at Hazleton, on accelerated tax amortization, the deal was jumped on. Virginia Congressman Porter Hardy's House Expenditures subcommittee started an investigation. It will probably lead to plenty of fuss because RFC had previously disapproved the loan. This development leaves defense agency officials pretty much between the devil and the deep blue sea. On the one hand, they get beat over the head for not doing enough to aid small business. Yet when they do, they get investigated. These accelerated, five-year depreciation allowances and tax amortizations have gone predominantly to big business. DPA Administrator Harrison has just made public a list of 231 allowances for a total of over $1 billion, granted between Jan. 23 and March 7. Of this list, 80 were for under $100,000 and 108 more were for between $100,000 and $1 million. Of the 73 allowances for over $1 million each, the biggest went to Pueblo, Colo., Steel Corp., for pipe production. It was for $80 million.

ARKANSAS Sen. J. William Fulbright's Reconstruction Finance Corporation investigation has some small business angles, too. One of the main arguments for continuing RFC is that it can give aid to small business which local bankers can't or won't furnish. What most smaller firms still don't understand is that it really isn't necessary to come to Washington to get a contract. Every Army, Navy and Air Force procurement office in the country now has a small business liaison officer, to aid the little fellows. And Department of Commerce has an arrangement to supply defense contract information through its field offices and some 5000 local Chambers of Commerce.

Two Washington business consultants, Robert Ware Straus and John Perry, have in this connection recently made a list of five mistakes commonly made by small businessmen seeking government orders.

First is the businessman who comes in and says, "I can make anything." If he goes after only the business he can do best, and has equipment to do it, he'll get better results.

SECOND is the small businessman who insists, "I have to have a prime contract." It's a myth that only primes get material allocations.

Third is the manufacturer who believes he has to make "something that goes bang!" There are plenty of other things, not weapons, for which materials priorities are granted.

Fourth is the manufacturer who believes he can get a defense order only if he plans to build a huge new plant. The man who can make something quick, with his present facilities, is said to stand a better

Crimson Holiday

THE STORY: Lavinia Greenbie, uncompromising and sinister of mien, has dominated her family for years from a wheelchair. Her oldest son, has asked Lisa Farwell, a neighbor, to marry him. Henry Farwell, Lisa's father, warns his daughter against marriage with a Greenbie, saying that Lavinia will make Lisa miserable. But Lisa says: "I love Court." Unhappy over the arrangement with her father, Lisa sits in her car within sight of the old Greenbie place to think out her problem. Her father had said he would give his life to keep her from Court. As Lisa sits there the eerie wail of the siren on Fort Sheridan's guardhouse, not far away on Chicago's suburban North Shore, announces that a prisoner has escaped. Half frightened, Lisa looks around her, but her eyes are drawn back again toward the Greenbie house.

night winds stirred out of the ravines. The last of the afternoon sun flared in the tall, narrow windows of the old house and painted them like evil, red eyes leering at her. The rising and falling wail of the Fort Sheridan guardhouse siren echoed weirdly through the trees.

Lisa Farwell started the car across the clearing. The road turned right about a hundred yards beyond and led to her own house.

She was halfway down the open stretch when she caught the movement in the shrubbery fringing the driveway to the Greenbie house.

The siren had stopped now. Half crossly she wished her father had been at his office when she went to pick him up. It wasn't like Henry Farwell to break an appointment or evade an issue. But she wished he was with her, whatever the cause for his absence might be.

She stepped up the car slightly and was almost to the turn when the man stepped out in the middle of the road. "Oh!" It wasn't much of a scream, but it betrayed her fright. She stopped the car and the man laughed.

"I'm sorry!" he offered. "I didn't plan to scare you. I forgot you couldn't see me, too. I'm lost! Can you tell me the way to Ellsworth's place they live around here, don't they? I'm Angus Kent."

HE walked over to the car and put out his hand, smiling a slow, reassuring smile. She accepted both his hand and his smile and offered her own hand shakily. And the tremor within her was not entirely due to fright.

"Yes," she said, "I know the place. They live down the road from us, I'm Lisa Farwell."

"That fits you," he nodded, and he looked at her frankly, not offensively, just with candor. He had brown hair, light, with an interesting premature silver around the hairline and his eyes were a most amazing green in the late sunlight. He was close to six feet tall, she guessed, a little taller than Court. Her cheek would just come to his shoulder, she decided, and she felt her cheeks growing warm for the thought.

Angus Kent was watching her. She laughed with some embarrassment, and to cover her confusion she said, "I had a stuffed lamb when I was a little girl. I called him Angus!"

He threw back his head in a spontaneous gesture of laughter. Then he sobered, looking down at her, "I hope," he said cryptically, "I don't turn out to be a sheep in wolves' clothing."

Lisa thought, what in the world was the matter with me? She could feel her hands trembling on the wheel and suddenly her knees felt weak. I'm acting like a high school freshman the first time a boy looks at her, Lisa told herself furiously. Even Court never made her feel this way! Court!

"Heavens," she said, half to herself, "I'll be late."

HE still stood by the car. "No need to drive me, you know. Just tell me where the place is." There was no resentment, again just his quiet assurance.

"Oh, I didn't mean you would delay me," she said quickly. "I just meant I'd forgotten how late it's getting. My father left his car for repairs this morning and I was to drive him home. But he left the office unexpectedly, so I came on alone. . . and I got to day dreaming!"

She was a trifle breathless. "I saw you," he said. "Were you enjoying the view?"

He swung into the car beside her with no apparent effort, a strong, fluid motion. She glanced off toward the Greenbie house and then reached for the ignition key to hide her face.

"No," she said awkwardly. "Just thinking about it." She felt that somehow he knew why she was embarrassed.

Code Of Conduct Sort By Senator

WASHINGTON, April 3 (UP)—

Chairman Estes Kefauver of the Senate's Television Crime Committee said today that Congress should draft a "code of conduct" to govern its hearings.

The Tennessee Democrat, whose committee's hearings before television have created considerable controversy, said a rule book for congressional hearings has been needed "for some time."

"Television," he said, "has added greatly to the problem."

The Senate itself was already involved in the issue over hearing procedures Kefauver's Crime Committee was right in the middle of it.

Sen. Harry P. Cain, R., Wash., asked the Senate yesterday to reconsider its action in citing two crime committee witnesses for contempt-of-congress. Cain said he thinks—until the courts rule otherwise—that the pair had a right to refuse to testify.

Cain, who watched the proceedings on TV, said he had "great sympathy" for reputed Cleveland gamblers Lou Rothoff and Morris Kleiman. They based their refusal to answer committee questions entirely on the presence of television, newsreels and radio. Kefauver had no criticism for Cain's action. He said that when the citations were recommended his committee was willing to have the matter studied by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee—which regulates radio and television.

Cain said he hopes Senate Democratic Leader Ernest W. McFarland, Ariz., will let his reconsideration request come to a vote at once. Cain said he expects that the citation will be upheld and thus force the needed test in the courts.

Kefauver agreed that a court test on the television is necessary at once. He said the case of the Cleveland pair will produce a clear cut test.

The cost of building a standard small house increased 9.7 per cent during 1950, according to the National Association of Real Estate Boards. The Newsmap above, based on data from a survey of 110 cities, shows increase by regions. Biggest boosts were in cities over 500,000 and under 10,000.

FASHION IS THE REAL QUEEN OF TRUE AMERICAN BEAUTY

By Elizabeth Toomey
United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK, April 3 (UP)—The so-called ideal American beauty fluctuates according to fashion, so nobody should be surprised to know that experts at the international beauty show are worrying about how to give a city girl that "country look."
Not the hayseed-in-the-hair look but a bloom-on-the-cheek.
"We're calling it liquid transparency, or porcelain beauty," explained Virginia Graham, an energetic blonde who is mistress of ceremonies for the four-day beauty show this week.
The new, artificially-created natural look is accomplished with the same beauty aids as usual, only lighter foundation, pinker rouge and lipstick, and less eye shadow.
A 22-year-old secretary was picked for a complete transformation into the ideal 1951 beauty. Her brown hair will become a "highlighted chestnut," according to Miss Graham. "We'll make her skin tone about two shades lighter, and give her a soft permanent n t so her hair won't be too short."
Both city and country girls are expected to go on wearing chignons and to become braver about changing the color of their hair. A crowd of beauticians stood at the booth featuring hair pieces and watched the good old-fashioned switch become a modern "figure eight," or a youthful "ballerina" hairpiece fashioned into two soft puffs at the nape of the neck.
The favorite hair cut seems to be that in-between length, short enough to be soft and fluffy in the daytime, and long enough for a sleek formal hairdo, or to be pulled back under a chignon.

They're Still A-Fuedin Down In Tennessee

BENTON, Tenn., April 3 (UP)—Opposing leaders of a violent political feud here agreed to end their cold war today before "somebody gets killed."
The truce came as about 50 supporters of an ousted "good government league" faction patrolled corridors of the Polk County courthouse to prevent—with guns if necessary—the Quarterly Court (County Commission) from meeting. The GGL took over the courthouse more than three weeks ago.
There was a brief moment of tension in the building when Sheriff John Edwards, a GGL partisan, showed up with former state Rep. Frank Lowery, a league member whose ouster from office started the most recent phase of a long-standing feud.
"Unlock the doors, boys, and let them in," Lowery called out to his friends inside.
"Who's idea is this?" demanded a voice from the crowd.
Lowery and Edwards explained they had been in session with opposition members of the court—the majority element—and all had hair dressing.

agreed to end the scrap.
Lowery told his supporters he believes Court Chairman W. A. Lewis will live up to promises made during the session. Actually the concessions amounted to a promise not to exact reprisals in the sheriff's office.
The peace settlement of the most recent uprising meant that the court could resume sessions and get on with its business of paying teachers, directing road work and performing other functions. These have come to a standstill during the strife.

Ranger Times Reviews Life Of Boyce House While Associated With Local Newspapers

As Friday will be "Boyce House Day" to launch his new book, "Roaring Ranger—the World's Biggest Boom", the following article is of timely interest.

The first time that Boyce House ever saw Ranger was on Friday in early July of 1921. He had accepted the offer of the editorship of the Eastland Daily Oil Belt News and was en route to the new job.

Soon after the young editor arrived, a demand developed for more law enforcement and a mass meeting was held in the Christian Church in Ranger. House rode over in the car with the county attorney who was one of the speakers.

the streets of Ranger! It was in the middle 20's. Rip Galloway had started a weekly paper and House came over one day a week from Eastland to write the news. It was decided to issue an "extra" on the second Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Walter Murray, publisher of the entire article was in type without Ranger Times and the Eastland Telegram, made House editor of the latter and then in the summer 1927 appointed him editor of the Times and he and Mrs. House (the former Fay Jamison of Eastland) moved to Ranger.

Know What "Esoteric" Means? If Not You May Go To The Army

WASHINGTON, April 3 (UP)—Draft-age college students will have only one chance to pass the new test for deferment from military service.

If they fail to make qualifying scores, they are likely to find themselves leaving the classroom and headed for the induction center.

This was revealed in an information bulletin being sent to State Draft Directors by Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey.

The bulletin contains general information on the examination which was announced last week, plus new detailed procedure on how students may apply to take the test. The bulletin also lists the 1,000 places where the educational testing service will give the examinations, and contains 30 sample questions that students are likely to encounter.

Hershey's bulletin said "the test presupposes no schooling beyond the ordinary high school preparation for college." However, it contains questions involving algebra and geometry and requires a working vocabulary including such words as "esoteric," "immolate," and "machinate."

The student will have a choice of five answers for each question. The Selective Service information bulletin gave one helpful hint to those who are not sure of the right one: Guess.

Preposterous Is The Word To Use

SAN ANGELO, April 3 (UP)—The President of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association last night burned a "preposterous" band into the hide of a proposed "luxury tax" on meat.

When informed of the proposed measure, Ray Willoughby said it was "absurd and I just can't imagine anyone with views like that."

Henry Bell, Secretary-Treasurer of the 9,000-member cattlemen's group, had a similar response.

At Fort Worth, he said "the proposal by the staff experts of the House-Senate Economic Committee is silly because of the fact that every meal is built around a meat dish."

He said meat is a "basic food," far from luxury.

(In the annual report of the House-Senate Committee made public last night in Washington the group said that "from the sheer standpoint of production, meat, it has often been pointed out, is in reality a luxury food." "Thus, an excise tax on meat fits the requirements of a luxury tax.")

Snyder Thugs Are Captured

SNYDER, April 3 (UP)—Two of five Scurry County jail escapees have been captured in Memphis, Tenn., along with the ex-wife of one of the men, Sheriff Lloyd Merritt said today.

Merritt said Memphis authorities advised him of the capture yesterday of Dewell Turner, 28, Fort Worth; Fred Paul Moore, 30, Gail; and a woman identified as an ex-wife of Moore.

Memphis authorities said Turner was arrested when he went to a Western Union Office to pick up a money order. Moore and the woman were picked up shortly afterwards.

The woman being held without charge.

The sheriff's office said it was advised both men have waived extradition, and Texas officers would leave tonight to return them.

Turner and Moore were two of five prisoners who escaped the Scurry County jail last week by breaking a lock in the bullpen cell and kicking a hole in the wall of

Sunday Incident Draws Regrets

DALLAS, April 3 (UP)—A Sunday incident at University Park Town Hall in which a Dallas Morning News Reporter was barred from meeting of city officials and threatened drew last night from the suburban city's Mayor, Roy C. Coffee.

At the outset of regular meeting of the City Commission, Coffee said:

"We regret that the incident occurred. The parties involved were not acting in any official capacity. We hope the public understands."

The mayor remarked to a delegation on hand for the meeting: "This is a public building and you are welcome here at any time."

The Dallas News had said its reporter was ordered out of the town hall by Paul Emery, Zoning Board Member, who also had directed the newsmen be placed in police custody.

Later, the news said, the reporter was threatened with a beating if he told of being ordered out.

The newsmen had been sent to the old jail. Nothing has been heard of the whereabouts of the other three escapees, the sheriff said.

Turner was being held on Western Union robbery charges, while Moore was charged with forgery.

District Judge Calls Names

LUBBOCK, April 3 (UP)—A district judge charged yesterday that "people in high places" were guilty of "illegal transactions" with gambling and bootlegging interests.

In a blast at what he called the "shadowy actions of people in high places," Judge G. B. Pardue singled out actions which tend to "break down law enforcement in this part of the country."

At Austin, Hilliard announced he would reply to Pardue's charges only after he had studied them fully.

Pardue said that Leon C. Bowman, deputy supervisor who boosted the liquor violation fines in Lubbock to the third highest in the state, was transferred to Abilene three days ago.

After Bowman seized a truck with 360 cases of beer in dry Lubbock County, Pardue said, "he and the entire force of inspectors were bombarded over the phone with threats they would be removed by the state liquor control board."

Judge Pardue said that once "meetings were held between
