

The Gold Mannequin

By Myles Connolly

THE STORY: "Jean Paul," top-slight woman's gown shop, faces bankruptcy because Paul Panciera, its manager, is a flop at designing. His partner Jean Roland has gone to take back her old job of modeling and Mr. Panciera considers using his pearl-handled revolver, but decides it would be too messy. There his eyes fall on a large manila envelope that had arrived earlier by registered, special delivery mail. He opens it, calls Jean back and together they look at "genius"—some gowns sketched by an unknown artist named Teresa who lives in the quiet New York town of Cedarbrook. Jean suggests the design be sold to a rival firm, because they haven't been doing any too well lately.

while I may not have talent for design, I do have an incomparable talent for recognizing genius." Mr. Panciera put the drawing gently down on the table. "You, for example. And our Teresa here."

She was impressed by the intensity of his feeling. "You really believe this one idea may lead to others? Or is this just hope under pressure?"

"It's intuition, I tell you, cold, sound intuition." He became very matter-of-fact. "Intuition, you know, has always some basis in actuality. Let me elaborate. Cedarbrook, New York, is a rural village about two hours out of the Grand Central and about 20 miles in from the Hudson. It's so rustic it looks as if it were dreamt up for a picture post card. I made some photographic studies there once and I know. On its biggest day, Labor Day, when they hold the frog-jumping contest and the frontiersmen came in from the brush, it can boast of 3000 heads."

"And this is why you have such faith we shall hear more from this Teresa?" Jean did not follow him.

"Please, precious, hear me out. I am presenting Cedarbrook to you as a community of clouds. Therefore, with the help of my intuition, I know this Teresa to be a peasant, a peasant with the celestial spark but still a peasant. Look." He waved to the design.

"The materials are crude, primitive. It is the work of some buxom and bovine matron, unquestionably. She is sure to have the productivity and fertility of a peasant. We'll have a hundred designs, a thousand—"

"We'll open a branch in Paris," Jean smiled ironically.

"I'm terribly serious, sweet. The crisis has passed." His enthusiasm grew. "I am sure of it! So sure, we shall celebrate! We'll have lunch together. We'll eat well today! We'll have cocktails. We'll have wine. Champagne! An afternoon of champagne!" He slipped his arm around her slender body. His voice was vibrant. "Beautiful things happen only to beautiful people, sweet! We are beautiful people! Beautiful things are going to happen to us."

MR. PANCIERA'S intuition, oddly enough, turned out to be correct. Beautiful things began to happen to Jean Paul. For a time, at any rate.

Mr. Panciera wrote the Teresa person a careful letter, coolly balancing his enthusiasm with cunning. The sketch showed talent, he wrote, and it might, under the proper care (his care, to be sure), blossom into something worth while.

He suggested the lady come to New York with more of her drawings and, if they revealed as much talent as the first, some arrangement might be made. He enclosed a check for $25.

When Jean exclaimed at the smallness of the check, he replied, "With anything larger, our lady would very probably retire and sketch no more. I know my Cedarbrook. I might also mention it's all we can afford."

Again, Mr. Panciera apparently was right. A week later a batch of new sketches arrived, all as alluring as the first. They came with a brief note which was almost a duplicate of the first. There was no attempt made to answer Mr. Panciera's letter. The sketches came, and a few words, and that was all.

THE evidence in support of Mr. Panciera's theory was mounting but still Jean had reservations. Why, for example, hadn't this Teresa rushed down from Cedarbrook, grateful for recognition and eager to sign a contract?

Mr. Panciera was without concern. "She lives out in the woods, precious, with no transportation of any sort, except possibly a horse."

But Jean was still troubled. "I have intuitions, too," she said. "I'd be much happier if it all wasn't so mysterious. Why doesn't she at least acknowledge your requests for her home address?"

PAUL PANCIERA shook his head in despair. "Precious, how can you be allmentary at a critical moment like this?"

He took the sketch from Jean Roland, held it up. "It's simply a miracle, a special and beautiful miracle for us, for Jean Paul." Suddenly, he kissed her. "It is spring, sweet, and your lips are like a soft rose blossom and we are going to be very rich and happy."

Jean drew coldly away from his embrace and poetry. "What on earth makes you believe that this one sketch is going to get us out of bankruptcy?"

"Intuition, precious. As fine a case of crystal-clear intuition as I've ever had." He waved the sketch in the air. "We are at the beginning, not at the end. You and I have everything, everything—"

"Except talent for design."

"There you go, being honest again." Mr. Panciera shrugged his shoulders. "It's terribly unbecoming to you, sweet."

"I think we ought to offer that drawing to Cochet. I'm sure he'd give us a fair price for it." She was still in her top coat, as she had come from Cochet's a few minutes before. "I'm only being practical."

"Not so practical as you imagine. Please remember, sweet, that

WAR WEARY—After two days and nights of deadly fighting on the central Korean front, Marine Pfc. Thomas E. Carlin of Bremerton, Wash., sleeps the sleep of an exhausted warrior. Texas Crops Now Have A Brighter Future

AUSTIN, Tex., May 23 (UP)—Texas truck crops had a brighter future today and the credit went to much-needed rains.

The United States department of agriculture reported the improved outlook yesterday, particularly for cantaloupes, cucumbers, sweet corn, tomatoes and watermelons.

And while USDA noted that unfavorable earlier weather conditions over the state retarded crop yields, the overall crop picture had generally "improved."

UNPRIVATE EYE—Brig.-Gen. John B. Dunlap, of Dallas, Tex., has his eyes on racketeers' income tax returns these days. He's been appointed chief of the Internal Revenue Bureau's new Special Fraud Section. A Treasury Department agent with military intelligence experience, General Dunlap will command more than 100 "racket squads" being set up for an all-out national drive against racketeer income tax evaders.

SPIT AND POLISH—This South Korean fighter evidently thinks that front-line combat is no excuse for not being a snappy soldier. So the little Korean shoeshine boy gets a customer during a lull in the fighting. Exclusive NEA-Acme photo by Staff Photographer Bert Ashworth.

THREE OF A KIND—These three cuties were all contestants for the title of Miss San Francisco of 1951, to represent the Golden Gate city in the "Miss California" contest to be held in Santa Cruz, Calif. Barbara Huffman, center, won out. With her are runnersup Cora Cabrera, left, and Elizabeth Ernst.

SPLAT—This is how it looks when the Giants' Bobby Thomson lays his bat to one at the Polo Grounds. The "picture at the plate" outfielder has been more like a statue so far this season, however, batting near .200. (NEA) lowly fullness currently in vogue. Designer Sylvan Rich does a short evening gown particularly suited for wear at a summer resort with an informal atmosphere. It's white marquisette, the skirt full and graceful. Accent is achieved by appliqued leaves in black, orange and by a black belt. Sleeves just cap the shoulders; neckline is wide and rounded.

Crispy Crinoline Billowy Gowns for Hot Days Ahead

A beige silk dress, right for summer travel or for street wear, is printed with black polka dots. This Judy 'n' Jill design has a cardigan neckline. The front and sleeves are outlined in matching black silk trim. There's a slick, shiny black patent belt.

Emily Wilkens turns blue-and-white tablecloth checked cotton into a sweet and innocent dress. She gives it crinoline petticoats to billow the full skirt. Puffed sleeves are edged with eyelet embroidery. The same embroidery appears at the neckline.

State Convention Described At Beta Sigma Phi Meeting

The largest Beta Sigma Phi state convention ever held in Texas was described Tuesday night by five women who represented Eastland's Zeta Pi chapter last week-end at the two day Fort Worth meeting.

An impressive part of the convention, Mrs. Harkrider said, was the presentation of $12,927 to Miss Amelia Anthony, founder of Girlstown, USA, located near Whiteface in Cochran County. Convention members voted to make Girlstown their voluntary state project for the next club year.

Parked at the Blackstone Hotel during the convention was the $23,000 mobile unit which the sorority presented along with $10,000 to the Texas Tuberculosis Association in 1948. In 1949-1950, Beta Sigma Phi members in Texas gave $7,500 to the Heart Foundation.

Walter W. Ross of Kansas City, Mo., founder of the international sorority, spoke to approximately 700 women at the formal banquet Saturday night in the Blackstone ballroom, it was reported.

Explosion Does Heavy Damage

DALLAS, May 23 (UP) — A thunderous explosion on the roof did heavy damage today to ex-sheriff Steve Guthrie's swank Lover's Lane Restaurant, and he blamed vengeance-seeking underworld elements.

No one was hurt in the blast, but three other neighboring business establishments were damaged. Guthrie estimated damage to his place at $25,000.

Guthrie said the explosive was dynamite and police agreed he probably was right, but they were unable to find any fuse or other detonating mechanism.

The onetime sheriff, who once thwarted a brazen attempt by Chicago gangsters to open up Dallas County to gambling rackets, had left the cafe a few minutes earlier.

In 1947, shortly before he was sworn in as county sheriff, Guthrie trapped Paul Rowland Jones, an emissary of the Chicago Capone mob, by secretly recording conversations in which the hoodlum offered a rich pay-off in return for letting the syndicate move into Dallas.

"It's a Chicago gang that blew me up," Guthrie said of today's blast.

Sweet Dreams Short Gowns for Summer Sleeping

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Short nightgowns, cut on the principle of the old-fashioned man's nightshirt, are exactly right for summer sleeping. Teen-agers, college and career girls from coast to coast have discovered them and turned them into a dependable, classic fashion by their insistence on clever design.

with button-front closing. Designer Dora Gottlieb has allowed enough fullness to permit the gown to sway wide and loose for comfort. Yoke is all-over eyelet embroidery that swings into fly-away capelet sleeves.

Rayon bemberg sheer (right) in ecru has a yoke of delicate nylon net banded by imported French val lace. The fabric of the gown makes a small bow tie at the neck. This gown has a fly-front closing.

The middy blouse provided inspiration for a third short gown by this same designer. In white multifilament crepe, it has the traditional middy collar edged in red-and-blue braid and tied with a red-satin bow. This gown, like the cotton, has a button-front closing.

Later, police said, Guthrie also told them that he thought ex-Dallas gambler Benny Binion, Las Vegas gambling operator now a refugee from Texas on a numbers racket charge, might have been connected with the explosion. Guthrie took credit for putting Binion out of the gambling business in Dallas while he was sheriff.

Valley Farmers Give Warnings

MCALLEN, May 23 (UP) — This is a fair warning to valley visitors:

While farmers appreciate the interest and admiration being bestowed on their corn and tomato fields these days, the farmers are going to start prosecuting if tourists don't stop nibbling.

Actually, Constable Dick Bales said today, the farmers don't mind somebody snatching a ripe young tomato every now and then. But the trespassing visitors are doing tremendous damage by tramping down the vines and stalks.

Youth's Plea Is Changed

EL PASO, May 23 (UP) — Paul Morales, 18, was under two-year sentence today for killing 19-year-old youth in a teen-age gang war.

Morales unexpectedly changed his plea to guilty of murder while jury selections was underway yesterday. He was accused, along with two other, of shooting Paul Garcia on an El Paso Street Aug. 10, 1950.

Luis Couder, 18, received a five-year term when tried in February. Andres Viera, 18, third defendant, will be tried beginning June 4.

Business Must Be Pretty Good

GRAFTON, N. D., May 23 (UP) — Business was so good at a dress sale here that an unidentified woman's dress was sold to another customer.

The lady was trying on a dress before buying it. While she was in the dressing room an enterprising clerk sold the dress she had been wearing when she came into the store.

Youth Hides Under House

ARLINGTON, May 23 (UP) — A youth identified as one of three hi-jackers who "took" a Fort Worth service station yesterday was arrested by State Police shortly before last midnight in Arlington.

The highway patrol identified him as Kito Wilson, 25, of Austin.

They said he told them he had spent yesterday in hiding under a house in the Indian Hills section of neighboring Grand Prairie, where two other Austin youths both ex-convicts, were captured after they abandoned their automobile at the end of a 17-block highspeed pursuit by police.

Wilson was walking along an Arlington street when cruising patrolmen spotted him. They said he told them that possemen in the Grand Prairie residential district "looked all around the house but never under it" where he was in hiding.

Patrolmen turned Wilson over to Fort Worth police.

Search Switched To Orange Co.

BUENA PARK, CALIF., May 23 (UP) — An inch-by-inch search for 10-year-old Patricia Jean Hull switched to Eastern Orange County today while detectives, working in relays, questioned a musician who allegedly took the little girl to his motel room the day she vanished.

Hollow-eyed Sheriff's Deputies and civil defense volunteers abandoned the search in the Buena Park area last night after using searchlights in an exhaustive hunt through oil fields, hilly areas and vacant lots.

Sheriff's Sgt. Russell Campbell ordered searchers to concentrate on looking under houses and in incinerators, indicating fears that Patricia is dead.

Detectives resumed their almost continuous questioning of Henry Ford McCracken, 34-year-old cowboy guitar player identified as the man seen leading the blonde little girl into his hotel room Saturday shortly after Patricia disappeared on her way home from a movie matinee.

Glen McCarthy Brings Mac To The Shamrock

HOUSTON, May 23 (UP) — Oil millionaire and hotel owner Glenn H. McCarthy said today that Gen. Douglas MacArthur will address a mammoth patriotic rally in the 70,000 seat Rice Stadium here at 11 a.m. June 14, which is Flag Day.

McCarthy made the announcement a few minutes after he was told by Gen. Courtney Whitney, MacArthur's aide, by long distance that the General "will be there."

According to present plans, Gen. MacArthur is expected to address a joint session of the State House and Senate at Austin on the afternoon of June 13th, assuming the legislature is still in session. The legislature is expected to extend a formal invitation to Gen. MacArthur today.

After his Austin appearance, the general, his wife and son and their party will come to Houston and will attend a dinner at the Shamrock Hotel that evening.

McCarthy disclosed he had been working on bringing Gen. MacArthur to Houston for two weeks in collaboration with Millionaire H. R. Cunen and other Houstonians.

Sam Urzetta Advances To Fourth Round

PORTHCAWL, Wales, May 23 (UP)—Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N. Y., seeking to add the British amateur golf championship to the U. S. amateur title he won last year, advanced to the fourth round of the tournament today with an easy 5 and 4 victory over J. W. Mill of Scotland.

Undaunted by cold, stiff winds that lashed the royal Porthcawl course for the second straight day, Walker cupper Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., and Francis (Bo) Winger of Guthrie, Okla., also gained the fourth round.

Campbell scored his third straight one-sided victory of the tournament by trimming Lionel F. Brown of England, 5 and 4. Winger, two down at the turn, rallied brilliantly on the incoming nine to eliminate Harry McAnespie, 21-year-old medical student from Scotland, 3 and 1.

A contingent of 13 Americans teed off today. The matches got underway in a heavy rain, which stopped just before noon.

Urzetta, seeking to become the fifth American ever to win both the British and American amateur titles (not necessarily in the same year), showed vast improvement over yesterday's mediocre second round.

Walker cupper Charley Coe of Oklahoma City became the fifth American to gain the fourth round when he rallied on the incoming nine holes to defeat W. A. Kirkpatrick of England, 3 and 2. Coe, one down after 10 holes, swept the last four holes of the match for his victory.

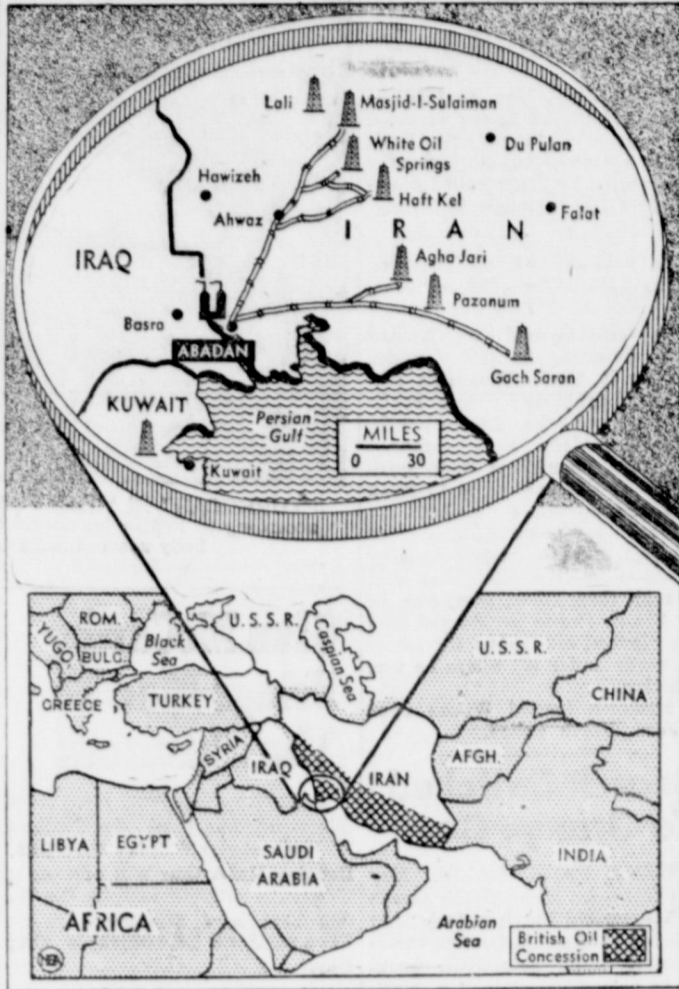

Mother Takes Son To Agents

HOUSTON, May 23 (UP)—An 18-year-old youth was taken to the Federal Narcotics Bureau Office today by his mother, who said she had heard her son was being sought on a marijuana charge.

The youth was questioned by Federal Agents. Police described the youth merely as "another one in the high school dope ring."

Agents and police have arrested several persons in connection with a marijuana ring that supplied Sam Houston High School students with marijuana.

IRAN—WORLD HOT SPOT—One of the most "inflammable" spots in a troubled world is the area highlighted on the Newsmap above. It includes the heart of the British oil concessions in Iran, around the Persian Gulf. Britain, facing the threat of Iranian nationalization of its oil, was recently reported ready to send troops to guard British lives and property around the big Iranian port of Abadan—site of the world's largest oil refinery. British government is reported delaying the troop movement for fear it might provoke Russia into marching into Iran under terms of a 1921 treaty. Such moves might easily touch off World War III.

Indians Seem as Strong As Easter's Weak Knees

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The Indians' best friends will tell you they wouldn't go too far without Luscious Luke Easter. The gigantic first baseman is the Cleveland club's big thump and natural leader.

Knee injuries have retarded Easter, or rather he has progressed despite them. The last one, suffered in St. Louis, April 28, kept him out of six series. Orestes Minoza at first played first base acceptably when Easter was sidelined, but shortly after the Havana Special was swapped to the White Sox, Al Lopez replaced Second Baseman Roberto Avila with Snuffy Stirnweiss to stabilize the infield.

Suitcase Simpson, the young outfielder up from the Pacific Coast League, had never played first base, you see, and Manager Lopez felt he required the steadying influence of the old Yankee.

Easter fractured his right kneecap in a collision with Larry Doby in an exhibition game in the spring of 1949, yet tore down fences in 80 games with the San Diego Coasters.

At the end of that run, and on the advice of surgeons, he retired to drydock for repairs, was able to get in 21 games with the Indians at the finish.

EASTER was as sound as the Chase National Bank last trip, when he proved himself a major leaguer—and then some—with 28 home runs and 107 runs batted in.

But Big Luke found himself knee deep in trouble again this spring—this time on the other leg. First, in an intra-squad game in Tucson, he suffered two chipped bones and a jammed elbow when a runner ran into him as he reached for a thrown ball.

Next, reaching for a thrown ball on a wet field in an exhibition with the Giants, his front, or left, leg gave way. A pulled muscle in the back of the leg put him in the dugout for a week.

Easter favored this division of his spindly underpinning from then on, and the toughest break of all came in the Indians' first appearance at Sportsman's Park. Returning to the bag and turning preparatory to taking a throw from Avila, he turned the left knee, and fell flat on his face just as though he had been shot.

A pulled cartilage kept him out until he asked to play against the Yankees, May 16, did so against the admonition of Trainer Wally Bock.

Luke Easter's knees have the Indians on theirs—fervently hoping that all six feet four and 235 pounds of him remains in one piece.

Citizens Of Texas City Will Have To Attend Games

TEXAS CITY, May 23 (UP)—If Texas City residents want a professional baseball team, they're going to have to start showing it by attending games.

That was the ultimatum handed down yesterday by management of the Texas City Texans, entrants in the class B Gulf Coast League.

Dick Thornton, Secretary of the club, said attendance the remainder of this week and next Sunday would determine if the club would be kept alive.

He said attendance had fallen considerably below that set as necessary to operate the club profitably.

Through effect of the ultimatum on fans won't be known for several days, it apparently had some effect on the team, which has been in the league cellar since the first day of the season. The Texans last night beat Port Arthur, 9 to 5, for their 13th victory of the season.

Easter Might Be Back Soon CLEVELAND, May 23 (UP)—A hurried doctor's examination revealed today that Cleveland First Baseman Luke Easter should be back in action "within a week."

The Indians called Easter off the road when a swelling developed in his bad knee just after he ended a long layoff. They were afraid his entire career might be endangered.

But Dr. W. H. McGraw and Dr. Don Kelly examined Easter yesterday. Dr. Kelly said, "his knee shows the normal rate of recovery and with rest he should be able to play within a week."
