Around The Square

By Mack

We have been worrying about the rabbit crop when it was not at all necessary. We are going to eat anyway. Did you know that the chicken crop in Eastland is something to be considered? Why, one local poultryman in Eastland has been dressing from 8 to 10 thousand broilers each month during the past summer. These broilers are shipped to other sections of the United States, where they can't or won't grow them.

There is a lot of work attached to the chicken growing business, but when they begin getting ripe, there is also a lot of money attached to them, and a major portion of this money falls into the hands of Eastland county farmers are poultryman. Unless they keep going up and get out of our price range we will eat chicken rather than rabbits, though rabbits do make the best chili.

Went to church yesterday, and enjoyed a good sermon. In company with the wife and daughter, we united with the church. They got by in good shape, and they kind of accepted us on trial. We knew that it was better to get in now than to wait for the new pastor. He might have been just a bit leery of editors if he knows anything about them, and might have started an investigation. And while our more or less righteous past isn't too bad, there have been instances where an investigation would have been in line, and we don't care to bring up the sordid past. If we make the grade we are going to read more about Paul's trials and tribulations, and try to pattern after him. He was an outstanding success.

In this day of line-breeding and full bloods we hear a lot about full-bloods. We have full-blood hogs, cows and chickens, and we have blue blooded people. That's the kind that crawl up on a stump and insist they are just a little better than the common herd. Maybe they are, but they are going to find it very difficult to prove. So far as we are concerned most of all of us are just flesh, blood and bone, though some of us may be made of interior material. We have a city bred dog, who thinks he is the "hot stuff". His name is Prince and he feels sure he is a registered full blood Cocker Spaniel. He does look the part in many ways, but we know he's not a full blood. His mother was, but dad happened to be half Cocker and half Collie. That makes him plain dog, and a city dog at that. He never saw a rabbit in his life, and would starve to death only for the fact we feed him. A rabbit ever hits our back yard he will probably break his neck trying to get into the house. He doesn't know anything — just thinks he does. And do you know we find people of this type. The less they know the more eager they are to teach you.

We are going to have an election in a few days and there are lots of people who will not be able to vote. Buy your poll tax now so you will be enabled to vote next year. Most everybody comes up for election or re-election next year—Harry included. If you have your poll tax receipt you will have an opportunity to help elect or reject all of them. Also non-poll tax payers are going to find political cigars scarce. If you hold one, they'll smoke you half to death. We are going to buy one whether we need it or not.

Olden Students

It was a tired group of Olden High School students and sponsors who came in from the Dallas Fair, late Saturday, though all of them reported an enjoyable trip. They left Olden at 4:00 a.m. Saturday and drove to Dallas, where they spent the day. After viewing the many sights and attractions at the fair, they left the fair grounds shortly before 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

Sponsors were Mesdames W. P. Edwards, C. C. Nelson and Bob White, and the driver, Rev. Nelson.

OILMAN SAYS PUBLIC BEING FOOLED BY "GAS CHAMPIONS"

KANSAS CITY, MO., Oct. 15 (UP)—K. S. Adams, chairman of the Phillips Petroleum Company, said today that self-styled champions of the natural gas consumer are trying to hoodwink the public into believing that federal control of producers and gatherers of natural gas would mean more gas at lower prices. Adams told more than 600 business and civic leaders in this area and the southwest that, in fact, federal control of the producers would mean less gas at higher prices.

He said that "the natural gas producer and gatherer remains uncertain as to where or when the hand of federal control may reach out to seize his business," pending a probable appeal to the courts of a ruling by the Federal

UN Tank Led Divisions Gain Up To Four Miles

UN ADMITS STRAFING ATTACK Both Sides Fail To Agree On Korean Armistice Policies

UN ADVANCE BASE, Munsan, Korea, Oct. 15 (UP)—Liaison officers trying to arrange resumption of the Korean armistice talks ran into a new deadlock today.

A United Nations spokesman said UN and Communist liaison teams made "little progress" at a three-hour meeting in Panmunjom because the Reds: 1. Refused to reduce the five-mile neutral zone around their base camp in Kaesong even though the truce talks are to be shifted to Panmunjom, six miles to the southeast.

2. Insisted that the UN command bear responsibility for any attacks on the neutral zones by Korean partisans.

The liaison teams will try again to break the deadlock at a meeting in Panmunjom at 10 a.m. tomorrow (8 p.m. today EST).

Neither side came up with any compromise proposal at today's session in the circus tent opposite Panmunjom's three mudhuts.

The UN command demanded that the Reds agree to reduce the five-mile neutral zone around their truce camp in Kaesong to one of 3,000 yards, such as the Communists proposed for the UN base camp at Munsan, 11 miles southeast of Panmunjom.

The five-mile zone was agreed upon for Kaesong when the truce talks opened there last July, but the UN command said it no longer should prevail now that the talks are to be moved south into "no-man's-land."

Both sides already have agreed tentatively to establishment of a jointly-policed neutral zone for a radius of 1,000 yards around the conference site in Panmunjom with roads to and from Kaesong and Munsan "free from attack."

The Communists also tried in the liaison meeting to make the UN command responsible for any type of armed action against the Communists security zone around Kaesong, regardless of the source of the attack.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, spokesman for the UN command, said the Allied negotiators would refuse to take any responsibility for the actions of "partisan forces or individuals who rise up in righteous wrath and indignation."

He said the Reds refused to accept responsibility for the actions of "partisan forces or individuals who rise up in righteous wrath and indignation."

Another speaker at the luncheon sponsored by the Oil Men's Club of Kansas City was Mrs. Marie Drake Carver, granddaughter of the man who drilled the first oil well at Titusville, Pa., in 1859.

Her grandfather, Edwin L. Drake, solved the problem of cave-ins by inventing the first "string" of casing. She said that the day his well came in he received word from his sponsors in New England to give up the project.

Woman 91 Will Marry Navy Veteran Of 50

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Oct. 15 (UP)—A 91-year-old widow who applied for a license to marry a 50-year-old Navy veteran, said today the marriage is "partly a business arrangement, but we do like each other."

Mrs. Aletta Iam and Frederick N. Frasier, who spent five years in the Navy during World War II, said they will be married soon.

"We know what we are doing," Mrs. Iam said. "It's partly a business arrangement, but we do like each other and we think we can help each other."

Famed Texas Oil Man Passes Away

GALVESTON, Oct. 15 (UP)—Edgar B. Davis, Luling oilman and one of its leading citizens, died here yesterday, a week after he had suffered a stroke.

He had made and lost several fortunes.

One of the oilman's known philanthropies is the Luling Foundation, a place where poor farm boys can learn good farming methods, while they earn their board working on the experimental farm, located near Luling.

Davis first became known generally to the public when he used his money to aid others in backing "The Ladder," which was known as one of Broadway's greatest "flops."

He commissioned the late Frank Davis, a Texas newspaperman, but no relation to him, to write the play. It involved the oilman's notion of eastern religions and the theory of reincarnation. In all, he poured more than $1,500,000 into it.

It was during those years, the story of his connection with the rubber and oil industries gradually became known. It was during that time that it was disclosed his career of financial romance and mystery.

While in Sumatra in 1910, Davis saw rubber trees growing wild and untapped in the forests. The possibilities of cultivating them appealed to him.

He told his dream to a fellow traveler, an official of the U.S. Rubber Company. The next year Davis was sent back to the Far East by the company to spend $10,000,000 on rubber.

Davis was stricken at his Luling home and was rushed to a Galveston hospital a few days later. He did not regain consciousness before his death.

Hortons Stage Barbecue For All Employees

Jim and Horace Horton entertained their employees and families, as well as a number of outsiders from Eastland and Cisco, with an antelope barbecue, at City Park Saturday night. Barbecued antelope, beef, etc., was served to approximately 80 individuals.

The Hortons recently returned from a hunt in South Texas, and while they report hunting this year not quite up to normal they managed to bring back sufficient evidence to justify the barbecue, with all necessary trimmings.

Venison is not uncommon in this section of the state, but there are many people who have never tried antelope meat. The writer being one of the group insists that the antelope is better than deer. Especially in this time when it is barbecued and there is an unlimited supply of onions, pickles, hot French bread and red beans nearby. The coffee, too, was excellent, and a lot of us forgot manners, while taking a second helping of barbecue and beans and maybe a third cup of coffee.

A very pleasant two hours was enjoyed by all in attendance. After the barbecue a large group was entertained at the home.

Reds Reported To Have Lost 500 Killed Or Wounded

United Press Staff Correspondent 8th ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Oct. 15 (UP)—Five tank-led United Nations Divisions swept ahead up to three miles and captured at least eight strategic hills against flagging Communist resistance today.

In one four-mile sector of the 30-mile attack front, demoralized Chinese abandoned stockpiles of guns and ammunition in a hasty retreat toward their main base at Kumsong.

An 8th Army communique reported that enemy resistance along the remainder of the east-central assault front ranged from light to "stiff." Two counter-attacks were beaten off. More than 5,000 Red troops have been killed or wounded in the past three days.

Demoralization also has spread to the home front in North Korea. Refugees from Pyongyang said rioting against the Communist government has broken out in the North Korean capital and the nearby towns of Chinnampo, Taepyeong and Chinji-Dong.

Police quelled the riots and arrested the ringleaders, the refugees said. Although they faced almost certain death, the arrested men remained defiant, the refugees reported.

The main 8th Army drive was aimed at Kumsong, 20 miles north of the 38th Parallel on the east-central front and the biggest Communist buildup base on the peninsula. It lies athwart the two main Communist invasion routes into South Korea—southwest to Seoul and south to Wonsu.

The U. S. 24th and South Korean 2nd and 6th Divisions have advanced six miles and captured 17 hills since they launched their offensive on a 22-mile front below Kumsong Saturday.

Dispirited Chinese in one narrow sector of the front gave up without a fight and fled to positions closer to Kumsong when two American regiments resumed their attack at dawn. The Reds were green troops and poorly trained.

Pursuing Yanks spurred ahead two miles and seized five hills. They gathered up in their advance huge stockpiles of ammunition and equipment.

South Koreans on the American flank reported they captured 3 105-millimeter artillery pieces from the retreating enemy.

Communist resistance was stiff only south southeast of Kumsong. There 800 to 1,000 Red troops launched a counter-attack. It was repulsed without loss of ground.

Six giant Marine helicopters began dropping ammunition and supplies to South Korean units southeast of Kumsong Monday afternoon when they reached terrain difficult to supply by road.

The helicopters brought out South Korean wounded on the return journey despite heavy enemy artillery and mortar fire.

The two South Korean divisions reported they had counted 3,600 enemy dead since the offensive began Saturday. Americans and Colombians of the 24th Division estimated enemy dead and wounded in their sector at about 1,000.

The South Korean 8th Division, attacking on the east flank of the three-division offensive, rolled up gains of three miles northwest and north northwest of Yangu against light resistance. It captured two key hills.

Another hill fell to the U. S. 2nd Division, next in line to the east.

American Sabrejets damaged three MIG-15 Communist jets in two air battles over "MIG Alley" in northwest Korea Sunday. No UN losses were reported, but the Far East Air Force announced that nine UN planes were shot down by ground fire last week. Six of them were jets.

The only alternative solution offered by New Mexico officials," he said, "would be a suit filed by them against their own Middle Rio Grande Conservancy District, and Mr. Louis A. Scott of El Paso, Rio Grande Compact Commissioner for Texas, does not believe that this would result in action fast enough to give relief to the El Paso and Hudspeth County areas next year."

The attorney general explained that a large area of New Mexico and the Elephant Butte District of the state "will be on the side of Texas in the lawsuit because they are also suffering from the failure of the Middle Rio Grande Conservancy District to release water in accordance with the compact."

Daniel said the suit was being prepared by his office. However, he did not say when the papers would be filed.

Lawmaker Lists Books For The Truman Library

WASHINGTON, Oct. 15 (UP)—Rep. Glenn Davis, R., Wis., suggested today that these books be included in the proposed Truman Memorial Library at Grandview, Mo.:

"Home Freezing for Everyone," by L. J. Alkire; "How to Write Letters for All Occasions," Alexander F. Sheff; "Great Grab," S. Longstreet; "Mink Farming," J. L. Edwards; "Piano Fallacies of Today," T. A. Mathay; "Helping Boys in Trouble," M. S. Applegate; "Handbook of Rigging," W. E. Rossmagie; "Secrets for Sale," M. V. Hereden.

Davis said the list of titles would give posterity "a clear picture of what the American people suffered under his administration."

Boys Win One Girls Lose In Friday's Game

The boys won in their match 22 to 32.

The high scorer for the Olden team was Jimmy Colburn.

The girls team lost to the Putman team in a close game, with the score 16 to 25.

Outstanding players on their team were Taylor, Steadum and Edwards.

Texas Will File Suit Against New Mexico Over Rio Water Use

AUSTIN, Oct. 15 (UP)—Attorney General Price Daniel announced today Texas will file suit in the Supreme Court of the United States against New Mexico "to prevent further violation of the Rio Grande river compact."

Texas has complained New Mexico is taking more than its just share of the river's water.

Daniel said the suit was forced by the middle Rio Grande Conservancy District of New Mexico which "has ignored the desires to both Texas and New Mexico officials and continues to hold more than its share of the Rio Grande water in violation of the compact between the two states."

The water district, he said, will be named in the suit along with the state of New Mexico.

Daniel explained that "the governor, attorney general and interstate stream commission of New Mexico and the Rio Grande commissioner for New Mexico have been most willing to cooperate, but they had not been able to get the Middle Rio Grande District to respect the compact."

Daniel said the suit was being prepared by his office. However, he did not say when the papers would be filed.

THE WEATHER

By United Press

Clear weather prevailed over all of Texas today and the Dallas weather bureau said more of the same was in prospect for the next 24 hours.

There were no fronts to indicate a change in the near perfect fall weather. Except for a few high clouds along the coastal area, it was clear and mild throughout the state.

Yesterday's high was 96 at Presidio and the low 74 at Dalhart. Most readings, however, were in the low or middle 80s. Overnight, temperatures ranged from 38 at Dalhart to 67 at Laredo, Corpus Christi and Galveston.

No precipitation was reported in the state for the 24-hour period ending at 6:30 a. m. today.

WEST TEXAS—Clear to partly cloudy. Warmer in the Panhandle and South Plains this afternoon and tonight. Cooler in Panhandle Tuesday afternoon.

THE WATER PROBLEM

Eastland's water problem has reached the acute stage. It is no longer a joking matter, and something must be done, and done immediately. Of course there are those who will tell you that there is nothing to cause alarm. But may be they are wrong—then what?

No city is more secure than its water supply. Water is one essential. We must have it to live, for it is as necessary as food.

Water is necessary for protection. A waterless fire department would be just about as efficient as a one-legged man in a foot race, because either the fire department or the runner would be defeated and counted out before activities began. Health must be considered, too. A city without an adequate supply of pure water is fighting a losing battle.

From an industrial point of view, water is essential. It takes water to drill oil wells. It takes water for boilers and other things in a manufacturing plant, of which there are several in our city. It takes water for cattle brought to this city's weekly sales. It takes water to beautify lawns. It takes water for us to live. Without it we would perish!

Right now water is being rationed in Eastland, and people are getting a fraction of the amount they desire. Unless it rains in the very near future they will be getting less, and finally no water at all.

Something must be done! Action is necessary! Two or three plans have been mentioned, though nothing definite has been done. Suffering is to follow if this continues.

Maybe the old lake can be enlarged or improved. With early rains this would afford temporary relief, and this work should probably be done as it seems the quickest way to get relief.

But being only temporary and inadequate we should be looking into the future. There are other days coming. Water is something that will always be in demand. It's a necessity here and a necessity in every community under the canopy of heaven.

A few wells filled with salt water won't help. Artesian water seems to be out of the question, so it seems that we have only one final choice, and that choice is the construction of a lake with sufficient capacity to care for all our needs for years to come. This is West Texas, and while the greatest country on earth, does have its occasional drought. We can not depend on our weekly or monthly rainfall for our water supply. But we can depend upon a lake or dam of sufficient size.

Let's be fair with ourselves—The fact. If you have a bet. Let's be fair with ourselves—Then act. If you have a bet.

Fred M. Vinson of the United States Supreme Court, has been mentioned as being presidential timber. If Truman does not care to run in his own name, there are multitudes of people who think he might give a favorable nod to Vinson's direction. This does not mean he could be elected, but does mean he would have a chance for election. And regardless of what we may think of Truman as president, we know that he is powerful, and a single word from him might bring about the election of almost any good Truman democrat.

Garbage disposal workers in Fort Worth have been out on strike this week. However, at this time it appears that settlement may be in sight. As a rule we do not like strikes of any kind. We would have disputes settled in some other manner by which the public would not be forced to suffer. We formerly resided in Fort Worth, and there have been times when we figured city workers in the lower pay brackets, in that city, did not get a fair play. So far as we are able to ascertain other city employees—maybe all city employees in the better paid groups, have either been given an increase in salary or have had working hours reduced. Some of them needed the increase, and we feel sure the garbage men, above all other, could use an increase in pay. Salaries in that city, as in most other cities probably need to be shuffled and a new deal made. Salaries for city employees range from about $1,200 a year to as high as $15,000. And regardless of position, each individual on the city pay roll should be given a living salary.

Baby Kidnapped In Chicago Is Found In Texas

HOUSTON, Oct. 15 (UP)—The FBI today reported that five-month-old Donna Marie Van Erman, kidnaped in Chicago Sept. 11, had been found and that a search was underway for the couple charged with kidnaping her.

A. F. Lorton, Jr., FBI agent in charge, identified the couple as Robert Lee Gore, 26, and his wife, Billie Dolores. He said they left the baby at the home of Gore's brother, Mack C. Gore.

Lorton said that on Sept. 10, the baby's mother, Mrs. Donna Van Erman of Chicago, left the infant with some friends in the Chicago hotel where she lived and went out for the evening. The FBI agent said the friends turned the baby over to Gore and his wife.

The next morning it was learned that the Gores had left the hotel, taking the baby with them. A federal kidnaping charge was filed a week later.

It was known that Gore had relatives in Houston, and a close watch was kept on their home. Lorton said Gore appeared at his brother's home late Saturday night and left the baby with his sister-in-law. She later telephoned the FBI.

The agent said Gore left two notes with the baby. One was purported to be from the baby's mother, giving Gore permission to take the child. The other was written by Gore and said he had possession.

Houston police reported that the man identified as Robert Lee Gore by the FBI was listed in police records as Lee Robert Gore. They said the record showed him to be a clemency violator from the Texas prison system.

Aggie Back May Be Out Of Play

COLLEGE STATION, T. EX., Oct. 15 (UP)—One of Texas A & M's top offensive backs, Aggie Saxe, is lost to the Aggie football team for the season, trainers said today.

The senior halfback fractured his arm near the elbow Saturday night shortly after dashing 39 yards for a touchdown in A&M's easy 53-14 win over Trinity.

The injury may end Saxe's football career.

Also out of the Aggie lineup is end Walter Hill. His trick knee was operated on in Houston Friday, and he'll see no more action this season.

BOYLE—

assessment of public acknowledgment that he was ousted. None has been made so far. His letter of resignation sent to President Truman was dated Oct. 9. Six days later it still has obtained no comment from the White House. Mr. Truman's silence is eloquent. They were close friends and the president of course, may relent.

Boyle's departure revived speculation about Republican National Committee Chairman Guy George Garielson. When a Senate committee was investigating Boyle on charges of practicing influence before the Reconstruction Finance Corp., Garielson's relations with the RFC came into the news.

Garielson had done no more than to continue before the RFC to represent a company of which he long had been general counsel and president. Boyle's case was different. He was accused of taking fees from a company in which he had no interest and of which he knew little. In Garielson's defense it was argued that he scarcely could have had much influence with any government agency.

Garielson said he did not plan to quit. The Washington grape vine version is that he will step down, but on his own motion and at a time chosen by himself. He would cease to be committee chairman in any event after the Republicans nominate their 1952 presidential candidate.

The "influence" investigation will continue.

"The Boyle case already has produced many new leads, indicating that a number of political figures have received fees in payment for their influence," Sen. Richard M. Nixon, R., Calif., said. He believes future disclosures will make those to date "seem insignificant."

Boyle's friends made a mighty effort last week to win a kind word from Mr. Truman. The chairman, himself, has been a frequent White House visitor of late. Boyle's letter to the president spoke well of his own committee work but explained that he must quit because of uncertain health.

If health were the cause of Boyle's resignation his old friend the president would have been among the first to console him with a warm farewell of thanks and good wishes.

The resignation must be accepted by the National Committee which will be called shortly to meet for that purpose. That is a formality.

Mr. Truman is known to have been angered by Boyle's failure to protect himself and the administration when it first became known that the St. Louis (Mo.) Post-Dispatch was preparing a review of his law business here. But after hearing Boyle's story, the president said there was no indication of wrong-doing.

Something has happened since then to destroy Mr. Truman's confidence in his friend and long time political associate. As the Senate investigation proceeded, the White House attitude came to be that if the facts justified it, Boyle would be permitted "to hang himself."

THE STORY: Captured by Sioux Chief Crazy Horse after the Fetterman massacre, John Clayton, ex-officer of the Confederate army, has been accepted by the Indian tribe. But Clayton recalls Star of the North, an Indian holy woman, who nursed him to health after his wounds, and Crazy Horse agrees to take Clayton to her, although Clayton is warned that he cannot have her and live.

XI
I HAD covered three-fourths of the distance to the falls before discovering tracks. Hence, a few minutes' trailing brought me close in under the dizzy granite walls from which the water took its rioting plunge into the valley. Here were dense woods of pine, the ground rising sharply under me as I went forward. The sound of the falls was becoming deafening, indicating any moment must bring me to their base.

On the side of the main pool, nearest me, a great flat boulder jutted out. In the surface of this a depression about 10 feet deep and 30 across had been formed by centuries of splashing backspray. This depression was kept full by constant replenishing spray, forming a natural bathing pool.

To the rear of the pool a shelf of granite stood out from the encroaching cover of timber, providing a diving platform for entry into the water. I had scarcely time to note these things when any thought of natural beauty was devastated by the startling appearance of a girl on the diving-rock below.

She stepped quickly out of the darkness of the pines, walked to the edge of the diving rock. For an instant she poised on the rock's edge, balancing as lightly as a butterfly on a flower petal, then she was gone in an arching, clean dive and a rainbow spray of green water, her slim body cleaving the sun-dappled surface of the pool, a slender arrow of red lancing into a bright shield of blue-green.

As she swam, darting, diving, twisting, rolling in the icy waters below, I stood stunned.

This was she. This was my dream I had found the North Star.

In all she could not have swum more than three minutes before she was back on the rock, her gorgeous body diamond-deved by a million sun-glancing droplets of green water.

She was gone, then, and my long-held breath expelled itself with an explosive burst.

I do not know what madness then impelled me, for I leapt downward upon the diving-rock, lunging on unthinkingly toward the black pines which had closed behind her.

The blind spell passed and my mind cleared, but not before I had burst through the thick cover and dumb, dumb-struck, before her.

She froze as she had been at the instant of my entrance, leaning slightly forward to retrieve her garments of white doekin and wolf fur from the ground where they lay. Her great green eyes widened imperceptibly, the rippling lips falling apart in wonder. Yet no alarm nor least embarrassment marked her movements.

The haunting half-curve smile of my dreams was on her lips as she spoke the words which gained her a slave for eternity and lost me a heart forever.

"You have come to me, then, Cetan Man!" Her voice was soft and cool and musical as spring water among moss and smooth stones.

I could say nothing, think nothing, only stand there, dumb-struck by her words. I don't know what I expected, if I expected her to speak at all; possibly an angry tirade, a cry of alarm, a haughty rebuff.

Around her neck ran a thin strong chain of silver, fitting snugly and high, like the choker ribbons affected by fashionable women in the States. Pendant from this chain, in the manner of a locket, was a silver amulet no more than two inches in diameter, heavily worked, and grasping securely in the exact center of its carvings a perfect cobalt-blue star sapphire of tremendous size and brilliance.

The apalescent fire in the heart of this great gem flashed and burned against the copper-red of the girl's skin.

The design which held the jewel was in the motif of two entwined reptiles supported on the spread wings of a bird. The former appeared to be renderings of the Montezuman feathered-serpent God, while the latter was most certainly a quetzal, sacred bird symbol of the Nahuatlans Indians at the time of Cortez. There could be no question, even in such a cursory examination, that the odd talisman was Aztec in origin.

Immediately my mind returned to actuality, a region for which disposition and training had far better fitted it. Blushing in a style to shame any peeping schoolboy, I turned my back to North Star, standing patiently until she spoke again.

From behind me, presently, came a typically Indian instruction. "Hopo, let's go," said North Star, her low, husky voice setting me to quaking all over again.

CLAD from head to foot in cotton-white furs and snowy doekins, replete with colored moccasins and legging beadwork of the greatest Sioux workmanship, caped and hooded by a parklike garment of prime arctic fox pelts, Star's appearance made a memory with which any man might live forever, knowing he had seen true beauty.

"Everything is good for the eyes," I managed, worshipfully, my gaze sweeping in the whole wonderful picture of her.

"Ho ka he y!" she answered, laughingly, suiting motion to phrase by setting off down-trail, walking lithe-hipped and pantherish. I fell in by her side and we traveled silently, our tongues as hushed as the fall of our moccasins in the fresh snow.

Heart Disease Is Number One Child Killer

AUSTIN, Oct. 15 — Rheumatic heart disease is now the first cause of death among children aged ten to fourteen, and is second only to tuberculosis at ages 15 to 25. Despite the importance of this disease it's cause and spread is not completely established. No vaccine such as those that prevent typhoid fever, diphtheria, smallpox and whooping cough has yet been developed, for its prevention and control. We do know, however, some of the danger signals and with the physician's accurate diagnosis some of the damaging results of the disease may be prevented.

Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer, points out that in general the danger signals of rheumatic fever are pain and swelling in the joints of the knees, ankles, elbows or wrists. The pain is usually felt in one of these centers and spreads to the others. Often times a child will get irritable and cross without any visible signs of a good reason for this attitude; he may cry easily or develop habits of nervousness. A physician should be consulted at once in such a situation, for these symptoms may be the beginning of rheumatic fever.

Exposure to frequent chilling, damp or overcrowded living quarters, a poor diet, an attack of scarlet fever, a bad cold or other infection caused by certain streptococcus germs are likely to be predisposing factors in the appearance of rheumatic fever.

According to Dr. Cox the best safeguards against this disease are to have each child and adult examined at least once a year by a physician, to have the right kinds of foods for an adequate diet and to have plenty of rest, when the disease is suspected of being present, a doctor should be consulted at once.

Education Now Includes Jerks

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Oct. 15 (UP)—The Colorado Springs Vocational School believes it takes study to make money at being a jerk.

A four session class is underway at the school teaching drug store "concoctions" to some 50 student soda-jerks. Unfortunately the students complain, the course is taught mainly with film strips—not samples.

Conference Play Will Start This Week In SW

Southwest conference football teams get down to the serious business of intra-conference warfare in earnest this week with one of the best balanced races in years shaping up on the basis of evidence offered by pre-conference games.

Arkansas and Rice may finish in sixth and seventh place, of vice versa, just as the prophets predicted before the season opened, but it looks as if they are capable of having a say as to who is going to finish on top.

Arkansas, which fell just shy of knocking over Baylor last week, gets another chance at the giant-killing role this week when the Razorbacks entertain powerful Texas at Fayetteville in the feature game of the week.

Rice also can become a spoiler when it tangles with SMU, fast developing as a creditable "dark horse" title contender, at Dallas in the only night game on the week's card.

Elsewhere, Texas A&M's high-rated Aggies play Texas Christian at Fort Worth and Baylor tackles the rough-and-ready conquerors of TCU, Texas Tech.

Arkansas, always a tough customer in its own backyard, gave Texas a close call last year and will be primed to go all the way this time—the first occasion in several years that Texas has gone to Fayetteville. In other years the games have been played at Little Rock.

Arkansas lost its game to Baylor last week by the same score Texas won from Oklahoma—9 to 7.

SMU, looking more potent and stronger defensively each week end, may let down after that trilling 27-20 upset of Notre Dame and find itself in trouble against a Rice team that also is slowly finding itself. The Owls knocked off Navy 21-14 last Saturday night.

A&M, well-rested since its regulars watched most of the 53-14

Tennis Star And Homerun King Honeymooning

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., Oct. 15 (UP)—Tennis star Nancy Chaffee and homerun king Ralph Kiner headed today for an acapulco, Mex., honeymoon, climaxing a romance that began on a television program.

Miss Chaffee, sixth ranking woman tennis player in the nation, and Kiner were married here Saturday in a church jammed with friends from the sports world.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Richard Flagg Ayres, and the 22-year-old bride's father, Harold Scott Chaffee, gave her in matrimony.

Hank Greenberg, general manager of the Cleveland Indians, stood beside the 28-year-old Pittsburgh Pirates slugger as best man. The couple was congratulated by more than 500 guests at a reception after the ceremony.

The 'Babe' Takes 4th Open Title

FORT WORTH, Oct. 15 (UP)—Babe Didrikson Zaharias today banked $300—first money from the 16th Annual Women's Texas Open Golf Tournament after winning the title for the fourth time.

The Tampa, Fla., veteran swept to an 8-and-7 finals win over defending champion Beverly Hanson of Indio, Calif., at River Crest County Club yesterday when Miss Hanson's game fell apart in the second half of the 36-hole match.

Mrs. Zaharias, who last made the finals of the Texas Open in 1948, when she lost to Poly Riley of Fort Worth, shot steady golf for her fourth Texas crown. Her previous championships were in 1940, 1945 and 1946.

New Fashion Trends Are Seen In 'Stylorama' Friday Night

Smart new fall fashions in men and women's clothing were seen Friday night in the Eastland High School Auditorium.

The clothes from Altman's Style Shop the D. L. Houle Shop, and The Men's Store were worn by Eastlandites in the Beta Sigma Phi sponsored annual Stylorama.

In the large assortment of women's clothes—casuals, suits, afternoon dresses and formal—certain fashion trends were outstanding.

Skirts were fuller usually flared and were often worn over crisp and colorful taffeta petticoats to make their "bell-shape" more pronounced.

Clothing colors were frequently described by the commentator, Mrs. Art Johnson, in terms of Nature's colors in foods. Mrs. Johnson, also, told of many fabric fibres which are actually made from foods.

Among these are those from cornmeal, cash (milk), sugar and glass.

Food itself had its role in the show, for the Stylorama was staged before a background of canned vegetables and fruits. Each container of the home-canned food bore blue, red or white prize ribbons and was donated by an Eastland County Home Demonstration Club member to Girlstown, U.S.A., home for neglected girls near Whiteface.

Also on display as gifts from the women were clothes and two quilts, one from the Union Center Club and the other from Mrs. Carl Burns of the Okra Club.

A large antique clock on a base with a figurine of a small child, a gift from Mrs. Johnson to the home, was among the other items shown. Haltons of Fort Worth contributed the work and expense involved in refinishing the clock in bronze.

Andirons and a child's table and chair set, gifts to the home from Mr. Casey Missell of Casey's Iron and Metal Craft in Desdemona, were on the stage. Mr. Missell also provided grilled iron work used in other stage decorations.

Miss Amelia Anthony, founder and director of Girlstown, was present at the show to accept on behalf of the home the many gifts. As guest speaker, her talk at the program's close was about the home.

Both Miss Anthony and Mrs. Johnson were presented by the sorority with gold bracket charms exact replicas of the registered emblems of Girlstown. The presentation was made by Mrs.
