Daily Telegram Correspondents Asked For Facts

Following are a few suggestions that will, if used by our correspondents, change the color of the editor's hair. The average correspondent does pretty well, we think, for they are not supposed to be regular journalists. However, if they will follow these simple rules as they chronicle the weekly news, they will find their letters more interesting.

Be sure to spell all names correctly. If you have a Browne in your community put the "e" on it—don't spell Brown, but Browne.

Get either his first name or initials. When you say Mr. Browne went to Dallas, you do not have news. But when you say Jim Brown went to Dallas, you do for people know who you are talking about. Without initials or first name your story was dead and in the waste basket before it was written. Your readers want to know "what Brown."

Also remember it is NEWS and not VIEWS that readers are interested in. They will form opinions of their own once you give them the facts concerning the case. Give NEWS.

We are half Christian, at least and are willing to boost most any kind of church that is deserving. However, this must be handled in a general way. If you are a Baptist, fine and dandy. But remember we have some pretty good Methodists, Christians and Presbyterians. Don't limit church news to the group you happen to be connected with. Give news from all denominations.

Don't guess when it comes to dates, figures, etc. Get the facts before you begin writing.

Sign all news letters. Not that we have to publish it, but to protect yourself. Anybody might send in an unsigned communication and you would get full credit, right or wrong. Protect us and protect yourself by signing and dating all letters.—The editor.

Redistricting Changes Texas Political Face

Next year Texas voters may find themselves rather mixed up. Especially will this be true when they choose State Senators and Representatives. Maybe you have been supporting your old friend John Doe for many years, and you plan to continue this support. Better first learn whether you now reside in his district. The whole may have been changed so far as district officers are concerned.

Next year Eastland's senatorial district will be known as District No. 22, and will be composed of Clay, Montague, Jack, Wise, Denton, Stephens, Palo Pinto, Parker, Eastland and Callahan.

Representative districts have also been changed. Eastland is now in Representative District No. 76, and is composed of Shackelford, Callahan and Eastland counties.

Eastland is in the 17th Congressional district which is composed of Callahan, Comanche, Eastland, Erath, Fisher, Hamilton, Jones, Nolan, Palo Pinto, Shackelford, Stephens and Taylor.

Know your candidate and your district number.

Farm Leaders In Washington

MERCEDES, Nov. 1 (UP)—Two Rio Grande Valley farm leaders will confer in Washington this week on the shortage of farm workers in South Texas.

James Griffin of Mission, chairman of the New American Agricultural Council, and C. B. Ray, manager of the Valley Farm Bureau, left yesterday for the conference with U. S. Department of Labor officials.

They indicated they hoped to interest the federal government in a permanent program to import farm laborers into South Texas.

Royal Couple Begins Round Of Festivities In Nation's Capital

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (UP)—Princess Elizabeth places a wreath today on the tomb of George Washington who led American armies in victorious rebellion against her great-great-grandfather, King George III.

She will place a second wreath on the tomb of America's unknown soldier—who helped her country win the First World War.

Britain's gracious future queen and her dashing husband, the handsome Duke of Edinburgh, have scored a sentimental conquest since their arrival at 3:57 p.m. EST yesterday, unequalled since the 1939 visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth, her parents.

In a few hours they had seen and been seen by more than 550,000 Americans, from an eight-year-old gate crasher to President Truman, and have charmed them all. And they were guests of the Trumans at a lavish state dinner.

Today, refreshed by a full night's sleep at Blair House, residence of the Trumans, the Royal Couple plunged into another crowded schedule.

After visiting Washington's tomb and Arlington Cemetery this morning, they will attend receptions at the Canadian and British embassies.

The princess will entertain the President and Mrs. Truman and other distinguished guests at an 8 p.m. dinner at the Canadian Embassy.

Britain's future queen, who also is Princess of Canada, brought with her the message that Britons and Canadians, like Americans, "are determined to work

Eastland County Leading In Bond Sales This Area

(Editor's note: The letter below was received from the Chairman of the Defense Bond Drive in Eastland County Showing the part we are doing as compared with counties surrounding us.)

Dear Mr. Editor: I am happy to report that Eastland County is making an outstanding record in the current defense bond sales drive.

The following is a list of the standing of representative counties as to bonds sold during the drive as of accounting date October 20, 1951:

County	Amount
Callahan	$ 16,031.25
Coleman	26,343.75
Comanche	30,669.00
Erath	18,731.25
Shackelford	21,556.25
Stephens	20,505.50
Ector	62,516.75
Scurry	107,300.00
EASTLAND	266,972.25

No, that is not a typographical error. Eastland County has bought that amount of bonds during this drive.

The current drive is not over yet, and we should increase this total materially before the drive ends.

Cordially yours, Cyrus B. Frost Jr., Chairman, Eastland County Defense Bonds Committee.

Heavy Losses Make Red Planes More Cautious

8th ARMY HEADQUARTERS, KOREA, Nov. 1 (UP)—Communist jet pilots, apparently disheartened after a record 106 of their planes were destroyed or damaged last month, offered little opposition today to an Allied fighter group one-fifth their strength.

Only patrol activity was reported from the ground front, where the first snow of winter fell on the east-central and eastern sectors.

Eight American Thunderjets took on 40 Mig 15 jets over Sinanju in northwest Korea's "Mig Alley" but neither side scored any hits in the 10-minute dogfight.

Each side made several firing passes. However, 1st Lt. William I. Chennault of El Centro, Calif., said the Reds "didn't seem very aggressive."

"Every time they came in, we would turn into them and start firing," he said. "They finally gave up and all of them headed northwest."

The Thunderjets were on a rail-cutting mission, and the enemy jets circled over them for a long time before attacking.

One reason for the Communist reluctance to fight in the air was provided by an Allied Air Force announcement that UN war planes shot down 33 enemy Mig 15s, probably destroyed 12 more and damaged 61 last month.

American and Australian jet fighters destroyed 25 of the enemy jets, probably destroyed eight more, and damaged 53. The rest fell to the guns of B-29 flying fortresses.

The Allies lost 40 planes during the month, but only nine of them in air battle. The rest were shot down by enemy ground fire. The losses included four B-29s destroyed by enemy jets and one B-29 shot down by anti-aircraft guns.

During a record 21,416 sorties in October, the UN planes also destroyed or damaged 102 enemy locomotives, 2,034 railway cars, 14 tanks, 368 artillery and anti-aircraft guns, 5,000 buildings and 255 railway and highway bridges. More than 3,500 enemy troops were reported killed or wounded.

Daughter May Get Share Of Noble Money

DALLAS, Nov. 1 (UP)—The daughter of the late Herbert (The Cat) Noble, Dallas gambler, may get a large share of his $100,000 estate although he will be her only $10, the Dallas News stated today.

The newspaper reported that a "source close to Noble's brother" said most of the estate would be turned over to the daughter, Freida, now Mrs. A. Hobart Leeds of Denver, Colo.

Noble's brother, Robert C. Noble, was appointed executor of the estate when it was probated in Dallas. As independent executor, he could legally dispose of the property "about as he pleased," the article stated.

Noble was killed when a mine planted in the road near the mail box at his Grapevine ranch blew up his car last August. It was the 12th attempt on his life.

The gambler's reason for cutting his daughter out of the will was not known, although it was believed her marriage displeased him.

The estate consists of the 800-acre ranch where Noble said, a Dallas club, a half interest in Hicks field at Fort Worth, and other property.

Will Mays To Be Re-examined

MONTGOMERY, ALA., Nov. 1 (UP) Alabama Selective Service officials have ordered a re-examination for National League "Rookie of the Year" Willie Mays. Col. J. T. Johnson, acting director of Selective Service in Alabama said yesterday the New York Giants Negro outfielder flunked his psychological, or aptitude, tests during a pre-induction check this week.

"But since he was in the upper half of his school graduating class," Johnson said, "We are asking the Birmingham induction station to set a date for a second examination."

Legionnaires Will Convene At Cisco November 3 and 4

More than 300 Legionnaires are expected to urge voters to approve an amendment to the state constitution which would help veterans of the Korean War buy farms and ranches, E. L. Jackson of Cisco, the Legion's 17th District Commander, said today in announcing final plans for the 17th District convention in Cisco Saturday and Sunday, November 3 and 4.

The amendment, fourth on the ballot in the November 13 election, would add $75 million to the veterans' land program and extend benefits to veterans with service after 1945, either at home or abroad.

A resolution asking the voters' support will be brought before the convention by the resolutions committee, Jackson said, and added that approval is certain since the 1951 State Convention in San Antonio mandated all Legionnaires to work actively for adoption of the new law.

"The Legion is not asking for a bonus or a handout of any kind," Jackson said. "This is simply a fine program for GIs who dream of owning and farming their own land. More than 4,000 Texas veterans of World War II are good, useful citizens because of loans made under the program," he said.

Veterans with service subsequent to 1945 would be eligible for the first time to make loans from the fund. The amendment would authorize the state to issue bonds bearing 3 per cent interest and allow World War II and Korean veterans to buy land up to $15,000 with a 5 per cent down payment. The loans would be paid off over a maximum of 40 years.

Omar Burleson, 17th District Congressman, will be the featured speaker on the convention program Sunday morning at the Cisco Country Club. State Representative Jack Cox of Breckenridge will discuss important Americanism programs of the Legion in the afternoon business session. He head the Legion's 17th District Americanism committee.

Visiting Legionnaires will start registration Saturday at 1 p.m. and continue Sunday morning. Registration booths will be located at the Victor Hotel and Cisco Country Club. A get-together stag party will be held Saturday afternoon at 4:30 at the Country Club. The Club's nine-hole golf course will be open to the Legionnaires. A dance and floor show Saturday night at 8:30 will top off the day's activities.

J. W. Sitton, commander of the host Post, will call the convention to order Sunday morning. Charles L. Cofer of Cisco will give the welcome address to Legionnaires and Auxiliary members, meeting in joint session at the Country Club. The response will be given by William A. Hazlewood of Sweetwater. The address by Burleson and a Memorial Service complete the activities scheduled for the joint session. Separate business sessions will be held Sunday afternoon after a buffet lunch at the Country Club.

Underground In Egypt Threatens British Helpers

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 1 (UP)—The Egyptian underground movement warned today that hereafter any person helping to supply British troops will be lashed in a public square and branded on the face with fire.

The warning came in a leaflet distributed by "Liberation" battalions in the Suez Canal Zone.

It said that effective today all "collaborators" who sell or transport supplies to the British garrison will be rounded up by the underground and punished in public.

The branding by fire, according to the leaflet, will serve as a "lifelong mark of treachery."

The Interior Ministry disclosed two days ago that "Liberation Battalions," determined to force the British out of Egypt and the Sudan, are springing up throughout the nation. It said they were able to obtain arms on the black-market.

In another secret leaflet scattered through the Canal Zone, the underground forces threatened to meet British troops on an "eye for an eye, tooth for a tooth" basis, according to the newspaper Al Misri.

Meantime, a new crisis bubbled up over British action against seven Egyptian policemen and a trade union leader. The British seized the policemen on the Cairo-Ismailla road near Tel El Kebir on a complaint they were preventing Egyptian workers from reaching British camps.

At the same time, British troops ejected Abdu El Shami, Chief of the Seaman's Union, from the Canal Zone for allegedly inciting dock workers to boycott British shipping in line with the passive resistance campaign.

Cold Wave Hits Eastland; Local Temperature 34

With thermometers standing at 34 degrees early today Eastland is reminded that Fall is truly here—maybe Winter. Just two degrees above freezing, is what the thermometer shows, and that is rather cool for those who have been basking in summer heat ranging up to 107 degrees, for the past several months.

Snow has not been predicted by the weather department, but anything is possible when Texas weather is being considered. Several people have told us that there was a trace of snow last evening.

Wayne Woolsey will be in charge and Eastland county singers are invited to attend and take part. The Comanche county quartet will be presented.

Workers on the hospital building are growing in number, though rain is slowing their progress, it is said. Those reporting for work Tuesday and Tuesday night were:

BOTH SIDES STILL WANT TO KEEP HEARTBREAK, KAESONG

By Arnold Dibble
United Press Staff Correspondent
PANMUNJOM, Korea, Nov. 1 (UP)—United Nations and Communist negotiators agreed today on where to stop the fighting across half of Korea, but still argued over possession of Kaesong and Heartbreak Ridge.

A UN briefing officer said agreement was reached on about 50 per cent of a proposed cease-fire line—from Kumhwa on the central front to the east coast, except for Heartbreak Ridge. Kaesong is on the western front.

Radio Peking disclosed the Communist line runs from a point about 38 miles north of the 38th Parallel on the east coast, passes six miles south of Kumhwa, crosses the 38th Parallel near Kaesong, and reaches the west coast at the Sakchon River estuary.

Despite increasing progress toward an armistice agreement, however, U. S. Lt. Col. L. G. Hill said the end of the war is not yet in sight.

"It is possible the war will go on for some time after the truce line is settled," the briefing officer said. "Fighting will go on until the entire five-point truce agenda is adopted."

The joint subcommittee charged with finding a mutually satisfactory cease-fire line—second item on the truce agenda—will meet again at 11 a.m. Friday (9 p.m. today EST).

The subcommittee spent two hours and 50 minutes Thursday comparing the compromise cease-fire line proposed by the Communists Wednesday with that suggested by the UN command last week.

Both lines are based roughly on the present battleline with a few differences in detail.

Hill said the UN representatives were in agreement with the Communists on about 50 per cent of the 140-mile line across Korea—that part running from Kumhwa at the eastern end of the old central front Iron Triangle to the east coast.

However, he disclosed that the Communists were claiming Allied held Heartbreak Ridge on the east-central front despite reports Wednesday that they had not disputed its possession by the Allies.

The other notable exception was Kaesong, about three miles south of the 38th Parallel on the western front. It lay in no-man's land when an armistice conference first was suggested last July, but the Reds occupied it when it was declared a neutral zone and selected as the initial site of the truce talks.

Many Visitors Attend Auction Sale On Tuesday

Although we are not in position to give exact figures on the Tuesday Auction Sale, it is understood the sale was well attended, and several hundred head of cattle were sold during the day.

Many out-of-State buyers are attending these sales each week, and many cars of Eastland county cattle are moved each month. Some of these are shipped back to grass or to feed lots, while the better grades go directly to packers in Texas and California. California buyers have been very active during recent months.

These sales are held on Tuesday of each week throughout the year. At times almost a quarter of a million dollars worth of cattle are sold during one sale. This means that Eastland county's livestock industry is one of the most important in the county.

Singers To Meet At Indian Creek

Comanche county singers are to meet at Indian Creek, which is 4 1/2 miles east of Comanche, on Friday night, November 9th. The singing will be held in the Methodist church at 7 o'clock in the evening.

Wayne Woolsey will be in charge and Eastland county singers are invited to attend and take part. The Comanche county quartet will be presented.

Peace Justice Ruling On Slots Is Appealed

GALVESTON, Nov. 1 (UP)—County Attorney Raymond E. McGee yesterday filed additional briefs with Justice of the Peace James McKenna in connection with the recent ruling that 106 slot machines without payoff mechanisms were not gambling devices.

The additional material was in the form of a memo written in Attorney General Price Daniel's office. It backed McGee's contention that the slots were gambling devices even without payoff mechanisms.

Justice McKenna made no comment of the additional brief and did not indicate when he would hand down a ruling on the appeal from his first order.

THAT WATER BOND ISSUE

Saturday voters in the city of Eastland will have an opportunity to cast a vote for or against the proposed water bond issue. Two weeks ago we could have counted on an almost unanimous vote. It should be that way now, if we are correctly informed.

However, we have had rain. Some water has been impounded in the lake though not enough to give any great relief. Car washing is out for the duration, we suppose, and so far as grass and shrubbery are concerned—just forget them. If your plants pulled through the past hot summer, which is doubtful, they will be able to make the winter without the use of water. We have a little drinking water but even with the nearly 2-feet caught during the past 10 days, we will be drinking imported Cokes before Summer, and our coffee will be a fond recollection.

The bonds are not going to cost you, but pay you in added comforts. You won't miss what you have to pay.

It is an emergency measure, and is very necessary to our well-being. The City lake is too small to give permanent relief, but it may tide us over for the time, if we take advantage of what the $25,000 will buy.

So go to the polls Saturday and cast a vote for the bonds.

NEWS FROM STAFF

By Mrs. M. O. Hazard

Well, it seems as though the long drought has been broken. The moisture has been fine to help the pastures, and farmers have a good season to prepare their land for another crop. Ranchers and farmers will be greatly benefited. However, during rainy seasons our roads get in bad shape—almost impassable. We hope this will not be true this year.

Staff is located in one of the best farming and stock growing sections of Eastland county. Most Staff residents have good homes, so it seems that a good farm to market road is the thing most needed at this time. We hope that such a road is constructed in to Eastland as it seems most of our people prefer that city as a trading point.

Eastland Pioneer Mother Honored On 95th Birthday At Her Home

Mrs. Amy Amis celebrated her 95th birthday Sunday in the presence of all her children and a great number of her grandchildren and great grandchildren in her home at 1313 W. Commerce.

Mrs. Amis was born October 28th, 1856, in Dallas County, Arkansas, where she grew to young womanhood and was married to T. J. Amis and in 1889 the couple moved to Texas. Mrs. Amis' is the former Amy Livingston.

Mrs. Amis said that they came on the train and not in the usual covered wagon way, used in those days. One thing she remembers about the train trip was that it was the first time she ever had seen any bananas. A party on the train (they carried their lunches in those days) had some bananas, and Mrs. Amis said she was wondering what they were eating. She decided it must be orka, although she had never seen any just like it.

Mr. and Mrs. Amis have lived in or very near Eastland County since 1889. They have lived at their present address for more than 86 years. Mrs. Amis, looking that she might be nearer 75, is still quite the mistress of her own home.

Mr. Amis, who died in April of 1950, and Mrs. Amis have been members of the Methodist Church most of their lives and reared their six children as Methodists.

Mrs. Amis' yard until several years ago was a thing of beauty, with flowers of every description, roses predominating. Several of the rose bushes are more than 36 years old, she said. Last years cold and the drought of the year have taken their toll.

Consumer Buying Shows Increase

DALLAS, Nov. 1 (UP)—Consumer buying in the Eleventh Federal Reserve district during September showed an 11 per cent rise over August, the monthly Federal Reserve Business Review said today, but it was still five per cent lower than in September of 1950.

In other economic reports, the bulletin said crude oil production reached new highs in September and October, but announced allowances probably will reduce production to the April level.

Nonfarm employment in Texas showed a further increase in October, due primarily to expansion in defense industries and seasonal trade gains.

Drought conditions in the central and west parts of the district caused deterioration of pastures and ranges, losses in livestock weight and delay in the seeding of winter grains, the review said, but resting made rapid progress.

Currency circulation continued to rise, with a marked increase in investments and a moderate increase in loans, the article stated. Deposits in reporting banks made a large increase.

Mr. and Mrs. Kimble Young and children, Ronny and Judy of Abilene, were the guests here Wednesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Young, 606 S. Madera Street. The guests were helping celebrate the birthday of their father and grandfather, Mr. Young.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR RJC EXES HOMECOMING NOV. 10

Dr. G. C. Boswell, president of Ranger Junior College, announces that the Third Annual Homecoming-Clinic will be held Saturday, November 10th. Activities for the day include a parade at 4 o'clock a Bar-B-Q for visiting Bandmen only at 6:00; a dance at the Student Building at 6:30; the football game between Arlington State College and Ranger Junior College at 7:54 with special pregame and halftime features; and the Homecoming Dance immediately following the game. The Homecoming Queen will be crowned during special pre-game ceremonies, and Mr. James West, director of the ASC Band will be the clinician for the massed band formations which have become a traditional part of the Homecoming activities.

Rose, Hico, Mineral Wells, Lake Worth, Albany, Hamilton, Comanche, Brady, Cross Plains, and Ranger. The Arlington State College and the Ranger Junior College Bands will also participate. The special pregame feature will be presented by the Ranger High School and the Ranger Junior College Bands. The massed bands will conclude this portion of the festivities by playing The National Anthem.

The Ranger Junior College Exes Association will have a dinner at 6:00 o'clock. This meeting will be held at the Community Building under the direction of Mr. Brashier, president of the Association.

Football Deaths On Decline

Eleven High School and two College Bands have accepted invitations to attend and participate in the event this year, with several more expected to take part. This Homecoming Clinic has grown to where it brings more people to the campus than any other college activity, and is probably the most important date in the school's calendar.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 1 (UP)—Football fatalities decreased sharply this year, Dr. Floyd R. Eastwood, chairman of the Fatalities Committee of the American Football Coaches Association said today in a mid-season report.

Five direct and five indirect fatalities have been chalked up from grid play in all classes of the sport compared to 13 direct

Hungarian Girl Escapes Reds By Swimming 5 Miles Across River

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 1 (UP)—Marika Aba, a 19-year-old Hungarian beauty who escaped the Communists by stripping off her clothes and swimming five miles across a river to safety, has been in Hollywood a month now—and nobody's asked her to pose for "cheesecake."

"Zey take pictures of me, yes," the dark-eyed dancer complained today. "But zey sre such wholesome pictures. No—how you call it—omph?"

This is probably just an oversight on somebody's part. Because Marika is five foot two and fills out a size 36 sweater above a 21-inch-waist and 35 inch hips.

Dr. Eastwood, dean of men at Los Angeles State College, reported improvement was entirely in the high school category. Last year at this time, 12 youths had died from football injuries. This year so far there were only four deaths.

And here's where squeeze play No. 2 comes in. King Farouk heard about the luscious new dancing girl—and you know what a fan he is of dancing girls.

"Zey ask me to dance for heem," Marika said. "Bot I turn zem down. I tell zem I was afraid of King Farouk."

"Zem for three days everybody tell me I make beeg mistake. Ze Egyptian agents tell me never, never never to say anyzeeing against ze King again."

"He was ze biggest engineer in ze country," she explained. "We were veree wealthy all my life. Until ze war. Now, because he is not a Communist, he is starving."

Veterans Owe Legion A Debt

Veterans of World War II have established an enviable reputation as good risks under the loan provisions of the G. I. Bill of Rights. They pay their obligations and on time!

But there is one big debt that millions of them have overlooked! Perhaps they have never thought of it! Perhaps it has never been called to their attention! But it is a debt of gratitude which they owe nevertheless.

The veterans of World War II and of the Korean Conflict are the beneficiaries of the most generous readjustment and rehabilitation provisions ever made by any Nation, anywhere! Just look: 13,201,829 World War II veterans drew mustering out pay! 10,644,495 got terminal leave pay! 8,216,034 drew unemployment compensation! 7,499,013 got schooling or on-the-job training under the GI Bill! 2,480,490 got loans to buy homes! 140,525 got loans to enter a business of their own! And 61,319 got loans to purchase farms!

and got the finest medical and domiciliary care, pensions and allowances for their dependents! Many veterans have accepted one or more of these benefits as a natural function of the government in looking after their needs. But these benefits, these rights and these privileges didn't just happen!

They had to be fought for and labored for, bitterly and unceasingly by somebody.

That somebody was and is the American Legion! It has always stood on the firing line of veterans' legislation as the kindly and unselfish godfather of all men and women who wore the Nation's fighting uniform in time of war.

NO SURVIVORS

BY WILL HENRY

DISTRIBUTED BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: John Clayton, a former civilian scout, is captured and adopted by the Sioux Chief Crazy Horse. Clayton falls in love with North Star, an Indian holy woman, but tribos make this love seem hopeless. Then an old enemy of Clayton's named Slatemeyer kidnaps North Star. Clayton pursues and overtakes Slatemeyer and his Crow warriors who assisted in the kidnapping. Clayton saves a guard who is watching Star, and together they flee from the camp just as Crazy Horse and some Sioux arrive on the scene to chase away the Crow warriors.

XIX
IN the rear of the fleeing Crows went the howling Sioux, the whole pack of them being lost in a down-valley dustcloud in less than two minutes. Turning to Star I laughed aloud, the first genuine release from tension in days.

"In all the world," I announced joyously, seizing her outstretched hands, feeling now the full post-danger letdown, "we haven't a thing to worry about but Slatemeyer!"

"Isn't that enough?" The question fell with singular flatness in the morning stillness of the hillside.

Beside me I felt, rather than heard, Star's stiffening gasp. Slatemeyer stood on the hillside behind us, his back to the morning sun, as quietly at ease as though in Market Square at Kansas City.

Standing there black against the sun he looked enormous. In the card game at Kansas City I had been able to study him only as he squatted on his haunches. I had been impressed then, but not as I was now.

Two silver-mounted pistols hung jow and forward on his thighs, the holsters and crossed cartridge belts in black leather and silver. In the cradle of his right arm rested a new rifle. A flat-crowned black hat and black neckcloth with heavy silver slippers completed his outfit.

"Turn around slowly and drop your holsters and the knife." Turning slowly, I unbuckled my guns, letting them slide to the ground. Reaching inside my shirt for the knife I tensed my body for what would likely be my last lunge. If I could strike fast enough to get the blade into him before the lead that would be in me weighted me down, Star might—

"If that knife touches your hand the squaw gets shot." Behind me the dry click of a cocking rifle put the period on his warning. "Pull the thong over your head. Let the knife dangle where I can see it all the time. Then drop it. I don't want to fire a shot. Indians get curious about shots. Drop the knife."

If I didn't drop the knife he would shoot if it brought the whole Bad Face band down on him. He was literal. What he said you'd better believe. I dropped the knife.

"Now turn around." I obeyed. "Pick that stuff up, girl."

STAR glanced at the guns and knife disdainfully, making no move. He stepped in close to her, repeating, "Pick it up."

She spat in his face. He stood expressionless, letting the spittle course his cheek untouched.

"Pick it up, Star." This, tersely, from me. "Pick it up or we're both dead."

"I would rather be," she snarled, her lips drawn back savagely over the white teeth.

"Star. Pick it up. I order you to do it." I used the Sioux phrase with which the brave terminates all tip arguments when he has heard enough. She looked at me, surprised, hesitated, smiled quizzically and dropped to one knee, picking up the knife and guns.

"Yes?" she queried, turning obediently to me.

"Do as he tells you."

"Throw them over the rocks behind you—down the hill," Slatemeyer ordered.

As she turned to do so he stepped quickly in behind her. When she threw the weapons he struck her across the head with the barrel of the rifle. She dropped soundlessly. "She'll keep," he said, not even glancing down to see if she would or not.

Facing me, he added, "Back up, in between those rocks. Those two high ones that wedge together."

I stepped back until my shoulders touched the boulders. They were 12 feet high with smooth vertical sides. A puma couldn't have gotten out of that spot. The only way was through the figure fronting the opening.

Unbuckling his own guns, Slatemeyer threw them contemptuously up onto the hillside behind him, following suit with his rifle.

"They're yours," he grunted. "All you have to do is to get them." As he spoke he drew his knife, starting in toward me. "No noise," he explained, tonelessly, making a slight twisting gesture with the blade.

I SUPPOSE no man is totally without some shred of the actor in him, some ravelling of humor in the cloth of his makeup. Deep inside Slatemeyer lurked a maverick strain of mirth. His weakening to it in this moment was one of those weird split-hair things; the sort of featherweight foolishness that has cost many a man many a battle. Pausing five feet from me, his eyes never leaving mine, he made his memorably sally into sarcasm.

Between the pause and the speech I gathered myself to counter his attack.

"In all the world," he said, his mimicry of my stupid announcement to Star being painfully good. "I have nothing to worry about but Slatemeyer—"

"—and Crazy Horse." The deep Sioux guttural dropped into the end of Slatemeyer's sentence and left no room for argument. The whiskey runner froze and I swept my gaze upward past him. Fifteen yards up the hill stood the war chief and 10 Oglaala braves!

Redskins Win Under Texan Coach Todd

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 (UP)—Dick Todd, a transplanted cowboy who's now coaching Indians, said today he doesn't expect to stay on as head coach of the Washington Redskins next year.

The handsome Texan, now professional football's only unbeaten coach with two straight victories since he took over a demoralized club, said he wants no part of a year-round football job.

"I've got a ranch back home which needs my attention," Todd explained. "I don't think I can handle both the ranch and the Redskins."

No one will be surprised if Todd is offered the job in 1952, despite owner George Preston Marshall's announced determination to hire Heartley (Hunk) Anderson of the Bears.

Todd doesn't profess to know why the Redskins did a u-turn and suddenly began playing good football. After absorbing three one-sided shellackings from the Detroit Lions, New York Giants and Cleveland Browns, Washington turned around and laced the Chicago Cardinals and Philadelphia Eagles. Both games were close, but what impressed local fans were the goal line stands staged by a team that has been folding in the clutch for seven seasons.

"I don't understand it," Todd said, "unless Herman Ball's dismissal shocked them into it. I told them when I took over that they had let a wonderful guy down and cost him his job, and I figure that needed the boys."

The youthful Texan, who stepped from a backfield coaching post when the popular ball was given the gate, said he is still using his predecessor's system and plays.

"I'm working them a little harder than Herman did," Todd added, "but basically I'm not doing anything different. The team is just playing ball for a change."

One answer to Todd's unexpected success seems to lie in the performance of old man Redskins himself—Sammy Baugh. The 36-year-old singer, Todd's closest friend on and off the field, obviously has been giving everything his aging bones can muster in an effort to make his old teammate look good. Baugh has played every minute on offense during the last two games, despite a sore shoulder.

Brooklyn Player Named Valuable Player For Year

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 (UP)—Roy Campanella, Brooklyn's stocky slugger who didn't feel he had "much of a chance," received the surprise and supreme accolade of his baseball life today when he was voted the National League's most valuable player for 1951.

The amiable, 30-year-old Negro catcher polled 243 votes from the committee of 24 writers, finishing comfortably ahead of three-time winner Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, who wound up in second place with a total of 191.

Drawing 11 first place votes, Campanella gained the distinction—and the official Kenesaw M. Landis plaque that goes with it—in recognition for his .325 batting average, 108 runs batted in, 33 home runs and general all-around brilliance during the past season.

Third place went to New York Giant outfielder Monte Irvin with 166 points, followed by teammate Sal Maglie with 153 and southpaw Preacher Roe of the Dodgers with 138.

Fourteen points were awarded for a first place vote, nine for a second place vote, eight for third and so on down to one point for a 10th place ballot. Campanella was named on all but one ballot while Musial was the only player to be named on every ballot.

Next to Campanella, Irvin received the most first place votes, five. The husky Negro from Orange, N. J., who batted .312 during the regular season and was the batting star of the World Series, appeared on only 29 ballots, however.

Others besides Campanella and Irvin who gathered first place votes were Musial, Maglie, Roe, Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn, Bobby Thomson of New York and Murry Dickson of Pittsburgh. Musial and Roe each collected two first place votes while Maglie, Robinson, Thomson and Dickson received one apiece.

Robinson finished sixth in the general balloting with 92 points, and was followed by Richie Ashburn of the Phillies with 69, Thomson 62; Dickson, 59 and Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh with 49.

Respectable Jim Konstanty of the Phillies, winner of the award in 1950, wasn't named on a single ballot and failed to win even honorable mention.

Campanella, who pulled a leg muscle in the final days of the season and was forced to sit out the last two playoff games against the Giants, was in Houston, with a barnstorming group when he was notified he won the award.

In New York, Campanella's happy wife said her 5 foot, 10 inch, 200-pound husband had hoped to win "but didn't think he had much of a chance."

ACC Wildcats To Play Texas A&I

A long bus ride to Kingsville and an important conference game Saturday night with the improving Texas A & I Javelinas are on the Abilene Christian football docket this week.

The game will be of significance. The host Javelinas will be battling for survival in the 1951 Texas Conference race. They lost their first conference test, a 7-9 struggle to Howard Payne, but evened the conference ledger with a 20 to 14 victory over McMurry.

A triumph over the Wildcats would leave the Javelinas definitely within striking distance of at least a share of the TC crown.

The Wildcats consider the game of the three hurdles blocking them from their second straight Texas Conference football championship. They cleared the first obstacle—McMurry—impressively, chalking up a 53 to 13 verdict.

Last Saturday ACC completed its non-conference activities by defeating Midwestern University in Wichita Falls, 21 to 13. It gave the 'Cats a 500 percentage for non-conference play. Their victims included East Texas State, Texas Western and Midwestern. The Wildcats were beaten by Drake, Chattanooga and the Carwell Bombers.

The Javelinas started slowly but are definitely improving, as evidenced by their Saturday night 33-to-14 conquest of Sul Ross at Alpine.

"We figure on having anything but an easy time down at Kingsville Saturday night," comments Coach Garvin Beahm after reviewing scout reports of the A. & I. - Sul Ross game.

Fighter Floors Referee With Six Punches

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Nov. 1 (UP)—Harry Braelow dropped referee Eddie Coachman to the canvas with six vicious blows after Coachman declared the 155-pound southpaw the loser in a boxing match here by a technical knockout.

Coachman stepped in to end Braelow's scheduled eight-round bout with Art Davis last night when blood started gushing from the boxer's left eye in the fourth round.

"I've been working hard for this fight," Braelow explained in his dressing room, "and Coachman kept needlessly riding me. When he stopped the fight, I lost my head."

Charlie Wheeler, member of the Miami Beach Boxing Commission, said the group will take up the incident next week. "I feel sure he will be suspended," Wheeler said. "In my 25 years of being associated with boxing, I've never heard of anything like it."
